DEDICATION

Dedicated to the memory of two great Arab leaders who defended Palestine and its Holy Places throughout their lives, His Majesty the late King Faisal Ibn Abdul Aziz of Saudi Arabia and His Eminence the late Haj Mohamad Amin El Husseini, the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem and Palestine and Chairman of the Arab Higher Committee for Palestine.

PREFACE

Before and during World War II millions of gentiles, including Poles, Dutch, Norwegians, French, Serbs, Greeks, Russians, Ukrainians, Germans, Austrians, and others, as well as Jews, were imprisoned, tortured, put in concentration camps and robbed of their worldly possessions by the Nazis.

The Jews of the world, in a world-wide conference called in Amsterdam in July, 1933, declared a "holy war" against Germany. Mr. Samuel Untermyer, President of the World Jewish Economic Federation which met in Amsterdam, upon his return to the United States delivered the historic declaration of a "holy war" against Germany in a nation-wide radio broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System. The full text of that declaration was published in the New York Times on August 7, 1933, in which Mr. Untermyer, among many other things, said the following:

I deeply appreciate your enthusiastic greeting on my arrival today, which I quite understand is addressed not to me personally but to the holy war in the cause of humanity in which we are embarked. Jews and non-Jews alike, for we are equally concerned that the work of centuries shall not be undone, and that civilization shall not be allowed to die. It is a war that must be waged unremittently until the black clouds of bigotry, race hatred and fanaticism that have descended upon what was once Germany, but is now medieval Hitlerland, have been dispersed. If we will but enlist to a man and persist in our purpose, the bright sun of civilization will again shine upon Germany, and the world will be a safer place in which to dwell... What we are proposing and have already gone far toward doing, is to prosecute a purely defensive economic boycott that will undermine the Hitler regime and bring the German people to their senses by destroying their export trade on which their very existence depends. They have flaunted and persisted in flaunting and defying world opinion. We proposed to and are organizing world opinion to express itself in the only way Germany can be made to understand.

Zionist leaders in the United States, in Great Britain and throughout the world, not only waged their "holy war" against Germany and the Germans in the economic field, but they initiated a world-wide propaganda campaign to block any avenue of understanding, or settlement of disputes, between Germany, Great Britain and France. The pressure which Zionists were exerting upon Great Britain and France to wage war against Germany was quite apparent everywhere and could not be mistaken. The following are only a few of the many available quotations which indicate the great pressure exerted by Zionist leaders throughout the world for unleashing World War II against Germany. The late Mr. James Forrestal, Secretary of Defense in the Truman Administration, wrote in The Forrestal Diaries (New York, 1951, pp. 121-122):

27 December 1945 — Played golf today with Joe Kennedy (Joseph P. Kennedy, who was Roosevelt's Ambassador to Great Britain in the years immediately before the war). I asked him about his conversations with Roosevelt and Neville Chamberlain from 1938 on. He said Chamberlain's position in 1938 was that England had nothing with which to fight and that she could not risk going to war with Hitler. Kennedy's view: That Hitler would have fought Russia without any later conflict with England if it had not been for Bullitt's (William C. Bullitt, then Ambassador to France) urging on Roosevelt in the summer of 1939 that the Germans must be faced down about Poland; neither the French nor the British would have made Poland a cause of war if it had not been for the constant needling from Washington. Bullitt, he said, kept telling Roosevelt that the Germans wouldn't fight, Kennedy that they would, and that they would overrun Europe. Chamberlain, he says, stated that America and the world Jews had forced England into war.

The Sunday Chronicle of London, another leading British newspaper, on January 2, 1938, under the headline "500,000,000 POUND FIGHTING FUND FOR THE JEWS" published an article in which the following appeared:

The Jew is facing one of the biggest crises in his troubled history. In Poland, Rumania, Germany, Austria, his back is to the wall. But now he is going to hit back hard. This week the leaders of International Jewry will meet in a village near Geneva to devise a counter-offensive. Now a united front composed of all sections of Jewish parties is to be formed. It will show the anti-Semitic governments of Europe that the Jew insists on fair play. The great international Jewish financiers are to contribute approximately 500,000,000 Pounds sterling ($2,500,000,000). This sum will be used to fight the persecuting States. The battle will be fought on the world's stock exchanges. Since the majority of the anti-Semitic States are burdened with heavy international debts, they will find their very existence threatened. A boycott throughout Europe of their export products by way of the retailer may undermine the present uncertain economic stability of several of the anti-Semitic countries.

The eminent Zionist Rabbi Maurice L. Perlzweig, head of the British Section of the World Jewish Congress, stated to a Canadian audience as reported by the Toronto Evening Telegram of February 26, 1940: "The World Jewish Congress has been at war with Germany for seven years."

Geoffrey Le Mesurier Mander, an important Member of the House of Commons, wrote in The Jewish Standard (London) of April 17, 1941: "The cause of the Jews throughout the world is the cause for which Great Britain and her Allies are fighting..."

In an editorial in the issue of July 24, 1942, of The American Hebrew (New York), a Zionist weekly, we find the following:

Whenever an American or a Filipino fell at Bataan or Corregidor or at any other of the now historic spots where MacArthur's men put their remarkable fight, their survivors could have said with truth: the real reason that boy went to his death was because Hitler's anti-semitic movement succeeded in Germany.

Mr. Ludwig Lewisohn, Honorary Secretary of the Zionist Organization of America, in an article written for the September, 1942, issue of the Jewish Mirror (New York) stated:

The Jewish people is the symbol of the nature of this war. No one else. Nothing else... On this central point, on this very heart and core of the whole matter the West is still recalcitrant. I know intelligent Jews who still today try to repress the character of this war by attempting to liken the attack on the Jewish people to other acts of war... The National Socialists have one tremendous advantage over us. They repress nothing. They deny nothing. They know what war is about... On March 2, 1942, Robert Ley, Minister of Labor in the Nazi government, declared in an address in Posen: "Germany fights on many fronts and has many enemies but its chief enemy is world Jewry and its most important front is the Jewish front." Is that clear enough?... Yes, the Jews are the chief enemies of National Socialism... This is the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end of the whole matter. Christendom repressed the persecution of the German Jews in 1933. Had it not done so there would have been no war. American boys would not be dying in all corners of the world today. A few divisions and a small army of occupation would have finished Hitler....

Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon delivered a speech on December 20, 1951, as reported in The National Jewish Post (Indianapolis) of December 28, 1951, in which he stated that "One of the major causes for our going to war against Hitler was the persecution of the Jews in Germany."

World Zionist leaders achieved their objective by driving the world into the Second World War. They succeeded in crushing Nazi Germany through the forces of Great Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States. Fifty million gentiles and Jews perished during that war.

The United Nations concluded the Agreement of August 8, 1945 and adopted the Charter of the International Military Tribunal to try the Nazi war criminals.

More than 30,000 Nazis and Fascists war criminals were tried and convicted. Many were hanged and many are still serving their sentences. The Israelis abducted Adolph Eichman from Argentina, tried him and executed him. Nazi war criminals are still being hunted, caught and tried.

The Zionist and Israeli leaders have followed in the footsteps of the Nazis. 3,000 Zionist and Israeli political and military leaders, during a period from 1939-1989, participated as organizers, instigators and accomplices in the commission of crimes of terrorism, crimes against peace, war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide against the Palestinians and peoples of Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Egypt. All members of the Hagana, Palmach, Irgun Z'vai Leumi, the Stern Gang, the Jewish Agency and the Jewish National Fund are charged with these crimes. Many of them became Presidents, Cabinet Ministers, Generals, officers of the Armed Forces and continued to participate in the commission of the aforementioned crimes. Many of them occupy high positions in Israeli society. It seems that participating in the commission of these crimes was, and still is, an essential qualification for advancement in the Israeli government and Israeli society. The Zionist and Israeli leaders who are charged with these crimes are still at large, enjoying the fruits of their crimes. They are referred to as heroes. Many of them are being honored and received as heads of State, Prime Ministers, cabinet ministers, high government officials and scholars of an allegedly democratic state. The Palestinians who have been victims of these crimes are until today condemned to a life of a nation in exile deprived of all their rights. Their homeland is occupied. Thousands of them were murdered, hundreds of thousands have been imprisoned and tortured, suffering until today under barbaric Israeli occupation.

The victims are called terrorists, murderers and criminals and the real terrorists and war criminals are being received as respectable representatives of a democratic society.

I prepared this encyclopedia as an authentic record of terrorist crimes, crimes against peace, war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide committed by the Zionist and Israeli leaders against the Palestinian people and the peoples of Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Egypt. It is being published in order to record these crimes and serve as a guide in the future for charging all Zionist and Israeli leaders who committed these crimes. I want to set the record straight. Zionist and Israeli leaders in Palestine must be tried for these crimes as a deterrent against the commission of crimes of terrorism, war crimes, crimes against humanity, crimes against peace and genocide.

I have been defending the rights of the Palestinian people since I was a law student in London before World War II. Since 1948 I have studied, written about, and made speeches both inside and outside the United Nations about the Zionist and Israeli crimes. I have lived through this drama from the beginning to the end. I myself am a refugee. My house in Upper Baka, Jerusalem, my personal property, my furniture, my law office and books, the apartment house I built in Jerusalem and my banana plantation in Beisan were looted or usurped by the Zionists and Israeli war criminals. I am only one of millions of Palestinians who have suffered the same fate. The greatest Zionist and Israeli crime against me and six million other Palestinians is that they have deprived us of living in our ancestral homeland, Palestine, as citizens of our independent undivided Palestinian State.

The December 1987 beginning of the massive uprising or Intifada by Palestinian youths on what heretofore had been called the West Bank, Gaza Strip and East Jerusalem, as well as in Israel itself, was a natural reaction to what they perceived to be the tragic plight of hopelessness, oppression, desperation and injustice that has been inflicted upon the Palestinian people since at least 1947. It is the generation of the sons who had been born and grown up during Israeli occupation that decided to discard the seemingly collaborationist policies of their fathers by rising up to cast off Israeli oppression. The entire world has now witnessed the awesome manifestation of their justifiable rage.

According to the Chicago-based Human Rights Research and Education Foundation, from December 9, 1987 through December 8, 1989, the first two years of the Intifada, 824 Palestinians were killed by Israeli soldiers and/or Jewish settlers. Of these 176 were children under sixteen years of age, and 71 of them were women and girls. 598 of them were shot, including 121 children under sixteen years of age and 29 women and girls. 55 Palestinians were killed by beating, burning or stoning, 84 were killed by teargas, and 87 by other means. Several hundred women have suffered fetal deaths and miscarriages caused by Israeli teargas and beatings. In addition 13 men died while being tortured in prison. 80,000 Palestinians were seriously injured.

More than 50,000 Palestinians have been arrested, over 1,000 of them women, and at least 14,000 Palestinians are being held in Israeli prisons and concentration camps. 8,500 Palestinians have been administratively detained. 55 Palestinians were placed under town arrests. 58 Palestinian leaders, journalists and professionals were expelled. 6,237 curfew days have been imposed on Palestinian towns and villages in the West Bank and Gaza. 1,225 Palestinian homes have been demolished or sealed, leaving 11,000 people homeless. 77,698 mature olive and fruit trees have been uprooted.

The Intifada has been a time of terrible tragedy and great suffering for the Palestinian people. And yet, paradoxically, it has also proven to be the time of their greatest glory, an affirmation of their essential dignity as an independent people. As a result of these elemental processes, the United Leadership of the Intifada requested the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) to proclaim the existence of a new state of Palestine in recognition of the courage, suffering and bravery of the Palestinian people living under Israeli occupation. On July 31, 1988, the creation of a Palestinian state became an inevitability when King Hussein of Jordan announced that he was terminating all forms of administrative and legal ties with what he called the "West Bank." If the PLO had not then acceded to the Intifada's request for statehood, the PLO would have forfeited the moral and legal right to lead the Palestinian people as their sole and legitimate representative.

On November 15, 1988, the independent state of Palestine was proclaimed by the Palestine National Council, meeting in Algiers, by a vote of 253 to 46, as well as in front of Al-Aksa Mosque in Jerusalem, the capital of the new state, after the close of prayers. I will not bother here to discuss at great length the legal basis for the Palestinian people to proclaim their own state. However, there are four elements constituent of a state: territory, population, government, and the capacity to enter into relations with other states. All four characteristics have been satisfied by the newly proclaimed independent state of Palestine.

Indeed, as long ago as 1919 the Palestinian people were provisionally recognized as an independent nation by the League of Nations in League Covenant article 22(4) as well as by the 1922 Mandate for Palestine that was awarded to Great Britain. This provisional recognition continues into effect until today because of the conservatory clause found in article 80(1) of the United Nations Charter. Pursuant to the basic right of self-determination of peoples as recognized by U.N. Charter article 1(2) as well as by the International Court of Justice in the Namibia and Western Sahara Advisory Opinions, the Palestinian people have proceeded to proclaim their own independent state in the land they have continuously occupied for thousands of years.

1. Territory. The territory of a state does not have to be fixed and determinate. Thus, the state of Palestine does not have to have declared borders.

2. Population. In occupied Palestine, there lives the population of the Palestinian people; they have lived there forever, since time immemorial. They are the original inhabitants and occupants of this territory. They are fixed and determinate and so they definitely constitute a distinguishable population. They have always been in possession of their land and are therefore entitled to create a state therein.

3. Government. During the course of his various public pronouncements at Geneva in December of 1988, Yasir Arafat stated that currently the PLO is serving as the Provisional Government of the state of Palestine. Acting in conjunction with the United Leadership of the Intifada, this Provisional Government already controls substantial sections of occupied Palestine as well as the entire populace of occupied Palestine. It is thus already exercising effective control over large amounts of territory and people, and is providing basic administrative functions and social services to the Palestinian people living in occupied Palestine and abroad. This is all that is required for there to be a fulfillment of this criterion for statehood under international law.

4. The capacity to enter into international relations. Over 114 states have already recognized the newly-proclaimed state of Palestine. Recognizing states include Austria, Cyprus and Malta; the Soviet Union, China and most of the socialist world; almost all of the Arab countries; Turkey, India, Pakistan, Indonesia, Nigeria, Uganda and Zaire.

Furthermore, on December 15, 1988, the United Nations General Assembly adopted Resolution 43/177, essentially recognizing the new state of Palestine and according it observer-state status throughout the United Nations Organization — akin to that of Switzerland. That resolution was adopted by a vote of 104 in favor, the United States and Israel opposed, and 44 states abstaining. Such General Assembly recognition of the new state of Palestine is constitutive, definitive, and universally determinative.

On that very same day, the General Assembly also adopted another resolution calling for the convocation of an international peace conference on the Middle East under the auspices of the United Nations with the participation of all parties to the conflict including the Palestine Liberation Organization, on an equal footing, and the five permanent members of the Security Council, based on Security Council Resolutions 242 (1967) and 338 (1973) and the legitimate national rights of the Palestinian people, “primarily the right to self-determination.” The General Assembly identified the following principles for the achievement of a comprehensive Middle East peace:

3. Affirms the following principles for the achievement of comprehensive peace;

(a) The withdrawal of Israel from the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem, and from the other occupied Arab territories;

(b) Guaranteeing arrangements for security of all States in the region, including those named in resolution 181 (II) of 29 November 1947, within secure and internationally recognized boundaries;

(c) Resolving the problem of the Palestine refugees in conformity with General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948, and subsequent relevant resolutions;

(d) Dismantling the Israeli settlements in the territories occupied since 1967;

4. Notes the expressed desire and endeavours to place the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem, under the supervision of the United Nations for a limited period, as part of the peace process;

The Intifada will continue until the Israeli government is willing to sit down and negotiate an overall peace settlement with the PLO on the basis of these principles. In this regard the Palestine National Council (PNC) has taken several steps in the Palestinian Declaration of Independence and in the Political Communique attached thereto in order to establish the framework necessary for negotiating an overall peace settlement between Israel and the PLO. First and foremost, the Declaration of Independence explicitly accepted the General Assembly’s Partition Resolution 181 (II) of 1947. The significance of this acceptance in the Palestinian Declaration of Independence cannot be overemphasized. Prior thereto, from the perspective of the Palestinian people, the Partition Resolution had been deemed a criminal act that was perpetrated upon them by the United Nations. The acceptance of the Partition Resolution in the actual Declaration of Independence signals a genuine desire by the Palestine National Council, the Palestine Liberation Organization and the Palestinian people to transcend the past 40 years of history and now reach an historic accommodation with Israel on the basis of a two-state solution.

The fundamental question thus arises: Why do the Palestinian people consider the Partition Resolution to have been a criminal act that was perpetrated upon them by the United Nations Organization? The comprehensive answer to that question can be found in the pages of this work by Issa Nakhleh. In 1947 the United Nations General Assembly debated the question of Palestine during the First Special Session in the Spring as well as during the Second Regular Session in the Fall. Mr. Nakhleh participated in these two sessions as a member of the Palestine delegation that was appointed by the Arab Higher Committee for Palestine to represent the Arabs of Palestine during the debates.

Quite obviously, no point would be served here by attempting to recapitulate the essence of those momentous debates. Suffice it to say that the Palestinian legal position so persuasively argued by Mr. Nakhleh and his colleagues was unassailable: The Partition Resolution was ultra vires the General Assembly because it contravened the fundamental right of the Palestinian people to self-determination as recognized by article 1 (2) of the United Nations Charter, and violated the League of Nations Mandate for Palestine as well as the Covenant of the League of Nations that had already provisionally recognized the independence of the state of Palestine. Nevertheless, all attempts by the Arab Higher Committee for Palestine to have any of these legal issues adjudicated by the International Court of Justice were prevented because of the influence of the United States and the Soviet Union by one vote in the Ad Hoc political committee.

During the course of the United Nations debates over the proposed partition of the Palestine Mandate, it was the matter of power, not principle, that proved to be the decisive factor. It was yet another historical example of the triumph of the sophistic philosophy that “might makes right.” Indeed when I first read the United Nations debates on the partition of the Palestine Mandate as a law student many years ago, I was reminded of the gripping Dialogue at the Melian Conference as portrayed by Thucydides in his classic book, The Peloponnesian War.

During the course of that earlier conflagration, the city-state of Melos — an ally of Sparta — was completely surrounded by Athenian troops. The Athenian army then sent a delegation to Melos to demand their surrender. At his conference, the Athenian delegates proposed that the context of surrender negotiations be confined solely to rational calculations of interest based upon considerations of relative power:

For ourselves, we shall not trouble you with specious pretences — either of how we have a right to our empire because we overthrew the Mede, or are now attacking you because of wrong that you have done us — and make a long speech which would not be believed; and in return we hope that you, instead of thinking to influence us by saying that you did not join the Lacedaemonians, although their colonists, or that you have done us no wrong, will aim at what is feasible, holding in view the real sentiments of us both since you know as well as we do that right, as the world goes is only in question between equals in power, while the strong do what they can and the weak suffer what they must. (See The Complete Writings of Thucydides: The Peloponnesian War 331 (Modern Library College edition, 1951) (emphasis added).

The Athenians rejected a Melian offer of neutrality as incompatible with their imperial destiny, and argued that the Melians must accept the hopelessness of their military position and thus surrender to become Athens' tributary vassal. The Melians refused to accept their suggested terms of discussion and consequent demand for surrender. Instead, the Melians sought to elevate the level of negotiations above the base plane of power by invoking considerations of justice:

As we think, at any rate, it is expedient — we speak as we are obliged, since you enjoin us to let right alone and talk only of interest — that you should not destroy what is our common protection, the privilege of being allowed in danger to invoke what is fair and right, and even to profit by arguments not strictly valid if they can be got to pass current. And you are as much interested in this as any, for your fall would be a signal for the heaviest vengeance and an example for the world to meditate upon.

You may be sure that we are as well aware as you of the difficulty of contending against your power and fortune, unless the terms be equal. But we trust that the gods may grant us fortune as good as yours, since we are just men fighting against unjust, and that what we want in power will be made by the alliance of the Lacedaemonians who are bound, if only for very shame, to come to the aid of their kindred. Our confidence, therefore, after all is not so utterly irrational.

The Melians never accepted the supposed inexorability of the Athenian logic of power without justice. Melos was invested and taken by treachery. The Melians were extirpated by death or slavery and Athenian settlers took their place. But their prophecy concerning the ultimate defeat of Athens turned out to be true. The world still meditates upon its meaning and significance today.

Like the Melians before them, the Palestinians refused either to compromise their principles or to surrender before the United Nations General Assembly. So in 1947-1948 the strong did what they willed, and the weak suffered what they must. The Palestinian people have suffered grievously and gratuitously ever since. Nevertheless, like Athens before it, today Israel would be wise to contemplate the potential applicability of the Melian prophecy to its own predicament.

Mr. Nakhleh's work attempts to put these monumental events as well as the suffering of his own people within the framework of international law. It must be read in order to comprehend the enormous sense of historical injustice that has been felt and lived by the Palestinian people for over the past four decades. These grave injustices must be rectified before there can ever be some modicum of peace in the Middle East for anyone.

As St. Augustine wrote in Book IV, Chapter 4 of The City of God:

Kingdoms without justice are similar to robber barons.

And so if justice is left out, what are kingdoms except great robber bands? For what are robber bands except little kingdoms? The band also is a group of men governed by the orders of a leader, bound by a social compact, and its booty is divided according to a law agreed upon. If by repeatedly adding desperate men this plague grows to the point where it holds territory and establishes a fixed seat, seizes cities and subdues peoples, then it more conspicuously assumes the name of kingdom, and this name is now openly granted to it, not for any subtraction of cupidity, but by addition of impunity. For it was an elegant and true reply that was made to Alexander the Great by a certain pirate whom he had captured. When the king asked him what he was thinking of, that he should molest the sea, he said with defiant independence: "The same as you when you molest the world! Since I do this with a little ship I am called a pirate. You do it with a great fleet and are called an emperor." (See St. Augustine 2, The City of God Against the Pagans 17 (Harvard: 1963).

Until Israel concedes the fundamentals of justice to the Palestinian people, both internally and externally, and accepts to live in peace with them and renounces its expansionist schemes, it shall remain not much more than a "great robber band."

JOHN QUIGLEY

Professor of International Law
The Ohio State University College of Law

The international law rules that restrict governments in their use of military force are among the most difficult norms of law to enforce. Governments are often ready to use any methods when they feel that their vital interests are involved. Nevertheless, a body of law emerged centuries ago that required governments to avoid harming civilians during warfare. With the formation of the International Committee of the Red Cross in the nineteenth century, this body of law developed rapidly and was embodied in treaties signed by the major powers of the day. After World War I, rules developed to restrict states in their decisions to use force against other states. First in a 1928 treaty and then in the United Nations Charter of 1945, the world community agreed that aggressive war was illegal. The only permissible reason for using force would be self-defense.

The body of law on initiation of war and on methods of conducting warfare worked in two directions. In one aspect, it imposed obligations on states as such. In another, though this aspect developed more slowly, it imposed obligations on government officials as individuals. Not only would the state be responsible for violating the laws of war, but so too would be the officials who carried out the unlawful policies. The aim was to punish those directly responsible, on the theory that such punishment might better prevent atrocities. The situation is analogous to that in a domestic legal system of wrongdoing by a business corporation. So long as liability rests on the corporation as a whole, corporate officials may view that liability as a cost of doing business and may not consider that cost too high to bear. But if sanctions are threatened against them as individuals, they may be more circumspect.

This aspect of the law of warfare received its most vivid application following World War II, when the victorious allied powers conducted trials of officials of the governments of Germany and Japan. Officials were prosecuted and convicted for initiating aggressive war, for killing civilians, for deporting populations, for indiscriminate destruction of property, and for similar offenses. The fact that they acted as functionaries of their governments was not deemed to justify their actions.

Mr. Nakhleh's encyclopedia explores the applicability of these precedents and of this body of law to the policies by which the government of Israel established itself in Palestine in the 1940s, and to policies it has followed since that time. Other governments and the United Nations have frequently taken Israel to task for violating international law. On occasion, they have characterized Israel's actions as war crimes.

There have, however, been no prosecutions of Israeli officials. There is no international court that has the jurisdiction to try and sentence persons who commit international crimes. The International Court of Justice, located at the Hague, was established to hear cases involving states. But it has no jurisdiction to try individuals. Since World War II, proposals have been made to create another international court to prosecute individuals for international crimes. Though drafts of treaties to establish such a court have been widely discussed, no treaty has been adopted.

As a result, the enforcement of the law on international crimes is left to individual states. Since the crimes are of an international character, all states have an interest in them. Such crimes are deemed to violate the public order of the world. Under international law, states have a duty to suppress acts that are denominated war crimes. Thus, they have a responsibility to investigate and prosecute for these offenses. Many states have adopted provisions in their penal codes making explicit provision for such international crimes, though war crimes can also be prosecuted under traditional offenses, such as murder.

Since each state has a stake in suppressing war crimes, they may prosecute them regardless of the location where they are perpetrated. The states that organized international military tribunals after World War II acted even though the offenses had not occurred in their territories. The same rule of jurisdiction is found in the Genocide Convention of 1948 and in the Convention Relative to the Treatment of Civilian Persons in Time of War of 1949 (Fourth Geneva Convention). Signatories of the Genocide Convention undertake (Article 1 of the Convention) "to prevent and to punish" genocide. Persons who commit genocide, says Article 4 of the Convention, should be punished "whether they are constitutionally responsible rulers, public officials or private individuals." Thus, government rank does not preclude criminal liability for genocide.

Under the Fourth Geneva Convention, the more serious offenses against civilians are denominated "grave breaches." All signatories undertake in Article 146 "to enact any legislation necessary to provide effective penal sanctions for persons committing, or ordering to be committed, any of the grave breaches of the present Convention." In addition, each signatory is required "to search for persons alleged to have committed, or to have ordered to be committed, such grave breaches, and shall bring such persons, regardless of their nationality, before its own courts." It may also, if it prefers, "hand such persons over for trial" to another signatory. Accused persons are to be assured a "proper trial and defense."

The impact of the actions of those who became officials of Israel has been devastating for the Arab people of Palestine. In the inter-War period they, like other Arab peoples, looked forward to establishing an independent state on the land they had occupied since ancient times. But in 1948 they were driven from that land by the new state of Israel and were dispersed throughout the world. Their property was usurped, and the new government of Israel refused to let them return. The world community gave them assistance as refugees but, for a variety of reasons, did little to restore them to their land. A people was effectively destroyed.

The consequences of Mr. Nakhleh's analysis are serious. If the government of Israel has committed even a fraction of the international crimes he describes, then virtually every high official in Israel from 1948 to the present is subject to prosecution as a war criminal.

CHAPTER ONE

THE MODERN HISTORY OF PALESTINE

PALESTINE AS A PART OF THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE

In 1516 the Ottoman Turks conquered Palestine, and the country was incorporated in the dominions of the Ottoman Empire. Local governors were appointed from Constantinople, to which annual revenues were sent. Various public works were undertaken in Palestine, such as the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem by Suleiman the Magnificent in 1537. Palestine remained under Turkish rule until World War I.

In the early sixteenth century, northern Palestine, as far south as Acre, was temporarily included in the Druse state established by Fakhr ud-Din and set up in defiance of Ottoman authority, but the new state did not last long.

Toward the close of the 18th century Napoleon undertook a campaign in Palestine, capturing Jaffa, Ramle, Lydda, Nazareth and Tiberias in 1798, but his siege of Acre was unsuccessful.

In 1831 Mehemet Ali of Egypt intervened in Palestine. Under his son Ibrahim Pasha, Egyptian troops captured Acre, but in 1834 the Palestinians revolted against the Egyptians. By 1840 the Ottoman authority was fully reestablished in Palestine, and the Palestinians played an active role in encouraging the political reforms in the Ottoman Empire of 1876 and 1908.

The territory of Palestine under Ottoman rule was composed of two areas. The independent Sanjak (district) of Jerusalem was subject to the High Porte in Constantinople. This Sanjak extended from Jaffa to the River Jordan in the East and from the Jordan south to the borders of Egypt. The other area was part of the Willayat (province) of Beirut. This part was composed of the Sanjak of Balka (Nablus) from Jaffa to Jenin, and the Sanjak of Acre, which extended from Jenin to Naqura.

His Eminence the late Haj Amin Effendi El Husseini, on behalf of the Arab Higher Committee for Palestine, testified on the 12th of January, 1937, before the Palestine Royal Commission sent by the British Mandatory Power. He explained the position of the Arabs under the Ottoman rule as follows:

Under the Ottoman Regime the Arabs formed an important part of the structure of the Ottoman Empire. It is wrong to say that the Arabs were under the yoke of the Turks and that their uprising and the assistance which was rendered to them during the Great War were merely intended to relieve them from such yoke. The fact is that under the Ottoman Constitution they enjoyed all rights and privileges, political or otherwise, on an equal basis with the Turks, as the Ottoman Constitution provided for one form of government of all Ottoman territories and elements. The Arabs had a complete share with the Turks in all organs of the State, civil as well as military. There were Arabs who held the high office of Prime Minister and Ministers, Commanders of Divisions and Ambassadors....There were Arab ambassadors, provincial and district governors. There was also a large number of Arab Deputies in both Houses of the Ottoman Parliament, in proportion to their numbers as prescribed under the Ottoman Constitution....There were two Parliaments, two Constitutions. One was made in the early days of the reign of Sultan Abdul Hamid, in 1876, and the other was made after the grant of the Constitution in 1908...but even in the Parliament under the first Constitution there were Arab representatives. In the first Parliament, you find the President of the Council of the House of Representatives was a Deputy from Jerusalem, Yusuf Dia Pasha Al Khalidi. Moreover, the administration of Arab territories was entrusted to elected Administrative Councils. Those Councils were elected and existed in the provinces, districts, and sub-districts. Those Councils were vested with extensive powers in all matters relating to administration, finance, education, and development, but, irrespective of all this, the Arabs were aspiring to the attainment of complete national independence and the regaining of the distinguished position which the Arab peoples had held in the past centuries, when the Arab peoples made the greatest contribution to civilization and to every phase of human activity.<sup>1</sup>

In its report dated July 1937, the Palestine Royal Commission dealt with the situation of Palestine under Turkish rule. It stated:

PALESTINE UNDER TURKISH RULE

Turkish government in Palestine before the Great War was in effect a despotism, modified to some extent by the delegation of authority to the leading families in Syria who held estates in Palestine. The head of the Administration was the Vali in Beirut, Jerusalem being an independent Sanjak just north of Jaffa: the remainder of what is now Palestine was included in the willayat of Beirut — in the Sanjaks of Beirut, Acre and Balka (Nablus). Each Sanjak was divided into Qadas (Districts), the latter combining several Nahias (village or combination of small villages). Each of these administrative units had its own Council and posse of executive officials, as, for example, the Kaimakam in the Qada, appointed by the Turkish Government, but responsible to the Mutasarrif or Chief Executive Officer of the Sanjak. In the case of Jerusalem the latter was in direct touch with Constantinople. These Executive Officers in all the higher grades formed a distinctive Turkish bureaucracy. Turkish was the official language.

As a result of the revolution in 1908, an Ottoman Parliament was created consisting of a Senate and a Chamber of Deputies, the latter being elected by an electoral college on the basis of one Deputy for every 50,000 male subjects. The number of Deputies elected from the territory which is now Palestine was six. The unit for the primary election was the Nahia, that is, a village of over 200 houses, or a collection of villages with that population. It is interesting to note that communal representation was recognized in the Nahia Councils and in their "Council of Elders." The Imam (Moslem priest) and representatives of the non-Moslem religious communities were ex officio members of the latter. The President was the Mudir appointed by the Vali or Governor of the Wilayat. The administrative officers of these village Councils were known as Mukhtars and were elected by the same persons as were entitled to elect the Council of Elders. Every village had one Mukhtar, but if a village consisted of more than one quarter or ward or contained more than one community with the qualifying number of houses, it had one Mukhtar for each quarter or community. This office of village headman has survived, and today forms the chief point of contact between the officials and the countryside. The functions of the Council of the Nahia were the preservation of peace, collection of taxes and maintenance of public accounts. The Council of Elders was expected to supervise expenditure, the apportionment of taxation and the settlement of disputes, including communal disputes, and to report cases of persons who died leaving property and absent heirs, or land going out of cultivation.

Under the Ottoman Government a Court of First Instance, composed of three Judges, was established in each Qada or Kaza, with a Court of Appeal composed of five or more Members in each Sanjak. In Palestine there were, therefore, 13 Courts of First Instance and three Courts of Appeal. The predilection for boards or committees, and the multiplicity of officials is noticeable. There were in addition single Judges or Justices of the Peace in the principal towns. Thus there were numerous Courts throughout Palestine, with numbers of Judges, whose salaries were by no means commensurate with their responsibilities.<sup>2</sup>

DEPUTIES IN THE OTTOMAN PARLIAMENT REPRESENTING PALESTINE

There were four elections for the Ottoman Parliament, held in 1896, 1908, 1912, and 1914. The deputies who represented Palestine in the Ottoman Parliament were as follows:

In 1896, Yusif Dia Pasha Al Khalidi represented Jerusalem. In 1908, five deputies represented the areas included in Palestine: Ruhi Al Khalidi, representing Jerusalem; Saeed El Hussein, representing Jerusalem; Hafez Al Saeed, representing Jaffa; Al Sheikh Ahmad Al Khamash, representing Nablus; and Al Sheikh Assad Al Shukeiri, representing Acre. In 1912, there were also five deputies representing Palestine. They were Ruhi Al Khalidi, representing Jerusalem; Othman Nashashibi, representing Jerusalem; Ahmad Arif El Hussein, representing Gaza; Haidar Tuqan, representing Nablus; and Al Sheikh Assad Al Shukeiri, representing Acre. In 1914, six deputies represented Palestine. They were Ragheb Nashashibi, representing Jerusalem; Saeed Al Hussein, representing Jerusalem; Faidi Al Alami, representing Jerusalem; Tawfic Hamad, representing Nablus; Amin Abdul Hadi, representing Nablus; and Abdul Fatah Al Saadi, representing Acre.<sup>3</sup>

PEOPLE OF PALESTINE RECOGNIZED AS AN INDEPENDENT NATION

Paragraph 4 of Article XXII of the League of Nations Covenant recognized the people of Palestine as a "provisionally independent nation." It stated:

Certain communities formerly belonging to the Turkish Empire have reached a stage of development where their existence as an independent nation can be provisionally recognized subject to the rendering of administrative advice and assistance by a Mandatory until such time as they are able to stand alone. The wishes of these communities must be a principal consideration in the selection of the Mandatory.

Palestine was placed under Class A Mandate. Professor Quincy Wright described communities under Class A mandates as being very close to sovereignty.<sup>4</sup> The Earl of Birkenhead described territories under Class A mandates as "protected states."<sup>5</sup> He stated: "The status of Palestine and Syria resembles very closely that of states under suzerainty."<sup>6</sup>

PALESTINE UNDER THE BRITISH MANDATE

The boundaries of Palestine under the British Mandate were defined in an agreement between Great Britain and France. When Palestine was placed under the British Mandate in 1923, the area and topography of Palestine were defined as follows:

The total land area of Palestine is estimated at 26,320 square kms., or 10,162 square miles. In addition there is an inland water area of 704 square kms. or 272 square miles, comprising Lake Huleh, Lake Tiberias and one half of the Dead Sea. The total area of the country is thus 27,024 square kms. or 10,434 square miles.

Geographically, the country may be divided into seven regions:

(a) The maritime plain, extending north from the Egyptian frontier and terminating at Mount Carmel, just south of Haifa. The northern section of this plain is often called the Plain of Sharon.

(b) The coastal plain of Acre extending from Carmel north to the promontory of Ras en Naqura.

(c) A broad plain running southeast from Haifa to the Jordan Valley. The western portion of this plain is the Plain of Esdraelon. The eastern section is known as the Valley Jezreel.

(d) The central range comprising the hills of Judaea and Samaria. The southeastern portion of the Judean hills, falling away to the Dead Sea, is described as the Wilderness of Judaea. The highest points in the Judean and Samaria hills respectively are Tell Asur (1,016 m.; 3,333 ft.) and Mount Ebal (940 m.; 3,084 ft.).

(e) The hills of Galilee, comprising the whole of the north of Palestine except the narrow plain of Acre and the Jordan valley. The highest point is on the Jebel Jarmak (1,208 m.; 3,963 ft.), the highest mountain in Palestine. In the same area is the Jebel Adathir (1,006 m.; 3,301 ft.).

(f) The Jordan Valley, extending from the Syrian frontier to the Dead Sea. The northernmost section is often considered separately as the Huleh basin.

(g) The district of Beersheba, an immense triangle with its apex at the gulf of Aqaba which contains nearly half the land of Palestine (approximately 12,576 square kms.).

Lake Huleh, with an area of 14 square kms., is 70 m. (230 ft.) above mean sea level; Lake Tiberias, with an area of 165 square kms., is 209 m. (686 ft.) below mean sea level: the Dead Sea, with a total area of 1,050 square kms., is 392 m. (1,286 ft.) below mean sea level. The length of the Dead Sea is 82 kms. and its breadth 17 kms.; its maximum depth is 399 m. (1,310 ft.); it has no outlet, its surplus being carried off by evaporation.

The total length of the River Jordan from its source near Baniyas in the extreme northeasterly tip of Palestine to the Dead Sea is 252 kms. (157 miles): North of Lake Huleh, 14 kms; through Lake Huleh, 5 kms.; from Lake Huleh to Lake Tiberias 18 kms.; in the course of which it drops 279 m. (915 ft.); through Lake Tiberias 21 kms., and from Lake Tiberias to the Dead Sea, 194 kms. The Yarmuk, which enters the Jordan near Jisr el Majami', a few kilometres south of Lake Tiberias, is 40 kms. long, of which only 17 kms. are in Palestine. The Qishon (otherwise Muqatta) which enters the Bay of Acre a short distance east of Haifa is 13 kms. long. The Auja (otherwise Yarkon), which enters the Mediterranean at Tel Aviv, is 26 kms. long.

Administratively, the country is divided into six districts, which in turn are divided into sixteen sub-districts. Their land areas are (in square Kms):-

District	Sq.Kms.	Headqtrs.	Subdistricts	Sq.Kms.
Gaza	13,689	Gaza	Gaza	1,113
			Beersheba	12,576
Lydda	1,206	Jaffa	Jaffa	336
			Ramle	370
Jerusalem	4,334	Jerusalem	Jerusalem	1,571
			Hebron	2,076
			Ramallah	687
Samaria	3,266	Nablus	Nablus	1,637
			Jenin	839
			Tulkarm	790
Haifa	1,021	Haifa	Haifa	1,021
Galilee	2,804	Nazareth	Nazareth	499
			Acre	810
			Beisan	361
			Tiberias	439

Of the total land area, urban areas account for 147 square kms.; built on areas for 79 square kms.; and roads, railways, rivers and lakes for 136 square kms. The Huleh concession area (in the Safad sub-district) is approximately 57 square kms. Over 10,000 square kms. in the Beersheba district are classified as uncultivable.<sup>7</sup>

THE POPULATION OF PALESTINE

In 1914 the population of Palestine was estimated to be 689,546: 634,133 Muslim and Christian Arabs; 55,413 Jews. The Government of Palestine held the first census in Palestine in 1922. The Report and General Abstracts of the Census of 1922 taken on the 23rd of October, 1922, gave estimates of the population for 1920 and 1921 and the result of the census of 1922 as follows:

Census	1920	1921	1922
Religions
Muslims	521,403	585,271	590,890
Jews	66,574	81,263	83,794
Christians	77,801	88,049	73,024
Others	7,415	7,213	9,474
TOTAL	673,193	761,796	757,182

In 1947 the Government of Palestine submitted an estimate of the population of Palestine in 1946 to the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine. It stated on page 11 of the Supplement to the Survey of Palestine that at the end of 1946 the estimated population of Palestine was as follows:

	Settled Population	Total Population
Arabs (Muslims & Christians)	1,203,000	1,269,000
Jews	608,000	608,000
Others	35,000	35,000
TOTAL	1,846,000	1,912,000

The Palestine Government did not hold a census in Palestine after 1931. Taking the population figures for the year 1931 as a base, we estimated what the population in every town and village in Palestine would have been in 1948 according to the percentage of the increase of the population calculated by the Government of Palestine in 1931 to be 30.71 per thousand.

The estimates of the population for 1948 were as follows:

By District and Sub-District	1931 Total Population	1931 Arab Pop.	1948 Arab Pop.
Southern District

TOTAL PALESTINE	1,035,850	861,240	1,440,274

An estimate of the Jewish population in Palestine in 1945 was as follows<sup>8</sup>:

Palestine citizens	247,000
Persons eligible for naturalization	158,000
Persons not eligible for naturalization	27,200
Illegal immigrants	121,300
TOTAL	553,500

According to Israeli statistics published in 1983, the number of Jews in Palestine in 1948 was 716,700, of whom 253,700 were born in Palestine and 463,000 born outside Palestine.<sup>9</sup> Therefore, the Jews in Palestine in 1948 were as follows: 253,700 born in Palestine; 247,000 naturalized citizens. The total number of Jews who were citizens in Palestine either by birth or naturalization was 500,700; 216,000 Jews were not eligible for naturalization and were illegal immigrants.

This means that the population of Palestine in 1948 was composed of 1,440,000 Christian and Muslim Arabs who were indigenous Palestinian citizens; 253,700 Jews who were indigenous citizens; 247,000 naturalized Jewish immigrants; and 216,000 Jews who were illegal immigrants.

The Ad Hoc Committee on the Palestine Question in the United Nations appointed two subcommittees. Subcommittee 2 stated in its report to the United Nations General Assembly<sup>10</sup>:

It is also interesting to examine the distribution of Arab and Jewish populations in the proposed Jewish State according to the administrative subdivisions shown in appendix 2. Ten sub-districts, in whole or in part, are incorporated in the proposed Jewish State. In nine of these sub-districts, the Arabs have a clear majority over the Jews. Only in one sub-district, namely, Jaffa, have the Jews a majority over the Arabs. This is due to the heavy concentration of Jews in the urban area of Tel Aviv.

This is further reinforced by statistics furnished to the Subcommittee by the United Kingdom representative, showing the percentage of Arabs and Jews in the populations of the various sub-districts of Palestine.<sup>11</sup> The statistics are reproduced below:

Sub-District	Percentage of total population
	Arabs & Others	Jews

THE GOVERNMENT OF PALESTINE

The organic law establishing the constitution of Palestine is the Palestine Orders in Council 1922-1940 made in pursuance of powers conferred by the Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1890, of the United Kingdom and other powers enabling His Majesty in that behalf. The initial Order-in-Council of 1922 came into force on the 1st September, 1922. The Order-in-Council entrusts the administration of the country to a High Commissioner. The system of Government is as prescribed by these Orders which make provisions regarding, inter alia, the powers and responsibilities of the High Commissioner, the Executive, the Legislative and Judicial system, the safeguarding of the civil rights of citizens and foreigners and the physical boundaries of Palestine.<sup>12</sup>

The highest officer of the Administration was the High Commissioner who was appointed by the King of England. The High Commissioner reported to the Secretary of State for the Colonies of the United Kingdom who was responsible to the British House of Commons. The High Commissioner was assisted by an executive council and by an advisory council. Members of both councils were British officials.

In 1947, the members of the Executive Council and the Advisory Council were composed as follows<sup>13</sup>:

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

President

His Excellency The High Commissioner

Members

Sir Henry Lovell Goldsworthy Gurney, C.M.G., Chief Secretary

John Bellasis Pruen, Clerk to the Advisory Council

The Chief Secretary was the principal executive officer of the government. Through his office, coordination of the manifold activities of the government was effected. He reported to the High Commissioner.

The functions of the Government were organized on a departmental basis. The departments were headed by directors who were British, as were many of their assistants. Some were Arabs and Jews. The departments were as follows:

Department of the Administrative General, Agriculture and Fisheries, Antiquities, Audit, Broadcasting, Civil Aviation, Commerce and Industry, Cooperative Societies, Customs and Excise, District Administration, Education, Forests, Health, Immigration, Income Tax, Irrigation Services, Judicial, Labour, Land Registration, Land Settlement, Police, Ports, Posts and Telegraphs, Press Censorship, Printing and Stationery, Prisons, Public Information, Public Works, Railways, Social Welfare, Statistics, Surveys, Town Planning, Veterinary Services.

The country was divided into six districts and sixteen subdistricts. The chief government officer for each district was the district commissioner, and for each subdistrict the assistant district commissioner was assisted by district officers.

The following table shows the number of British, Arab, and Jewish high officers in the governmental departments. The total was as follows: 556 British, 309 Arabs and 177 Jews.<sup>14</sup>

The total number of government officials was 44,688 persons, of whom 4,314 were British, 30,178 Arabs, 9,276 Jews, and 920 others. The following is a summary of a table published by the Government of Palestine in 1947<sup>15</sup>:

The Government of Palestine is the largest employer in the country, followed closely by the Military Authorities. Government and the Military Authorities employ together something in the region of 80,000 persons.

The following table, showing the position in December, 1945, the last date for which detailed figures are available, sets out the main categories of persons employed by Government and their aggregate earnings:

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT — GENERAL SUMMARY SHOWING THE NUMBER OF PERSONS EMPLOYED IN DECEMBER, 1945, BY COMMUNITY

Type of Employees	No. of Arabs	No. of Jews	No. of British
Administrative, clerical and technical	13,036	4,575	830
% of total	(68.3)	(23.9)	(4.4)
Police Force, other ranks	6,704	3,921	3,484

TOTAL	30,178	9,276	4,314
% of total	(67.5)	(20.7)	(9.7)

Arab employees constituted 67.5 percent of all employees and received 58.4 percent of total emoluments. Jews comprised 20.7 percent of total, but received 23.8 percent of emoluments. British personnel comprised 9.7 percent of total and received 15.6 percent of total emoluments.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT IN PALESTINE

Article 3 of the Mandate instructed that "the Mandatory shall, so far as circumstances permit, encourage local autonomy."

At the time of the British occupation of Palestine in 1917 there were twenty-two municipalities in existence; these had been established under the Ottoman municipal law of 1877. In practice the Turkish Governors interfered directly in municipal affairs; the municipal councils were little more than ciphers and it was not until the British occupation that they began to develop their responsibilities in the administration of local affairs. They continued, however, to operate under Turkish law until the Municipal Corporations Ordinance was enacted in 1934. The only new municipal councils to be established since Turkish times are those of Tel Aviv (1934) and Petah Tiqva (1937).

In the rural areas also the Turks had provided in law for a system of local government (the willayat Law of 1864) but, as in the municipal areas, the administration of local affairs, in so far as it existed at all, was in practice carried out by the direct representatives of the central Government. In every village, or community of a village, the central Government was represented by a mukhtar. In theory the village elders co-operated with the mukhtar in the administration of village affairs through a village council, but normally the mukhtar monopolized all local functions. With a view to the creation of local bodies of a more representative nature, a Local Councils Ordinance was enacted by the British Administration in 1921. Under this Ordinance some twenty local councils were established in the next few years both in Arab villages and in Jewish settlements. This Ordinance and its successor of 1941 have proved to be useful vehicles for the development of autonomy in the Jewish areas; on the other hand they have shown to be not altogether suitable for application to Arab rural communities, and the Royal Commission of 1936, on page 347 of their report, criticised the position on the following grounds: "first, in a lack of flexibility — it is asking too much to attempt to compress progressive townships and backward villages within the limits of a single legal framework — and, secondly, in undue centralization and artificiality, in that sufficient use has not been made of such inherent self-governing impulses and institutions as the people possess." A committee was therefore appointed in 1940 to consider and to recommend what steps should be taken to ensure the exercise of a proper measure of village responsibility. This committee recommended in their report that, in addition to the Local Councils Ordinance, there should be separate legislation of greater flexibility more suitable of application to the more backward of the rural communities. This led to the enactment in 1944 of the Village Administration Ordinance. A number of village councils have been set up under this Ordinance during 1945, but it is as yet too early to judge of its suitability for the purpose intended.

Thus, the functions of local government are today exercised by municipal councils, local councils and village councils under the authority contained in the Municipal Corporations Ordinance, 1934, the Local Councils Ordinance, 1941, and the Village Administration Ordinance, 1944, respectively. Generally speaking the municipal councils are established in the intensively urban areas, the local councils in the smaller townships where development is not of a predominantly urban nature and the village councils in areas which are exclusively rural. Owing to historical circumstances, however, a number of the Arab local authorities have the status of municipal council although in size and degree of development they are inferior to several of the larger Jewish local councils; similarly, a number of the Arab local councils which were established before the enactment of the Village Administration Ordinance are comparable in size and nature to those villages in which village councils have recently been created.<sup>16</sup>

The number of local authorities of each type and the racial composition in 1947 were as follows<sup>17</sup>:

Type	Arab	Jewish	Mixed	Total
Municipal councils	18	2	4	24
Local councils	11	26	1	38
Village councils	40	—	—	40
TOTAL	69	28	5	102

The following is a complete list of these local authorities, by Districts, indicating the population which each serves<sup>18</sup>:-

Between 1st January, 1946 and 1st April, 1947, elections were held in 15 out of the 24 municipal corporations. With the exception of Jerusalem the remainder of the municipal corporations are preparing to hold elections. Municipal commissions still exist in the mixed towns of Jerusalem, Haifa, Tiberias and Safad. The postponement of elections in Jerusalem, was due to the fact that the municipal administration of the capital was made the subject of an enquiry by the Chief Justice, Sir William Fitzgerald, whose report was published on the 18th December, 1946. Before deciding what action should be taken on this report it is intended that it shall be studied by an expert in local government who will also review the present structure of local government in Palestine as a whole. In the circumstances it was decided to defer the Jerusalem Municipal elections.

CHAPTER TWO

THE PALESTINIAN ARABS WERE A WELL-DEVELOPED NATION POLITICALLY, ECONOMICALLY, SOCIALLY, AND CULTURALLY

INTRODUCTION

In order to create an alleged justification for the crime of genocide they have committed against the Palestinian Arabs, the Zionists have tried to convince the world that Palestine was practically uninhabited, "A Land Without People for a People without a Land." They created and propagated the myths that the Palestinian Arabs were nomads or seminomads without a culture and civilization, that the Palestinians had neither a national identity nor existence, that the Palestinians lacked an economic structure and roots in the land.

The continuity of the Palestinian roots in the land in fact goes back to antiquity. Absorbing or outlasting various conquerors, Palestinians tenaciously tended their ancestral farmlands, whether as freeholders or as tenants and mortgagees, and by the end of World War II, mostly as unfettered freeholders again. In his study of the history of landholdings in Palestine, Abraham Granott, formerly Managing Director of the Jewish National Fund, admits:

When the kingdom of Byzantium was subjugated by the Arabs, practically the whole of the land belonged to the big proprietors, the Emperor, the municipal authorities, and religious bodies, as churches and so on, while the soil was cultivated by the former owners who had remained on their plots as tenants after the land had passed into the hands of large owners.<sup>1</sup>

Thus the Palestinian farmers expelled by the Zionists in 1948 were the lineal descendants of the most ancient owners of the land. The Palestinian Arabs are the indigenous population of Palestine, the descendants of the Philistines and of all the Semitic peoples who have lived in Palestine since the time of the Canaanites. Successive waves of newcomers, such as Philistines from Crete, Semites from Iraq, Romans, Greeks and Arabs came and intermarried with the native stock.

The historical record disproves the Zionist lie that Palestine was undeveloped before the establishment of Jewish settlements in Palestine. Muqqadisi, a native of Jerusalem who died in 986 A.D., enumerated the principal products of Palestine in the tenth century

...among which agricultural produce was particularly copious and prized: fruit of every kind (olives, figs, grapes, quinces, plums, apples, dates, walnuts, almonds, jujubes and bananas), some of which were exported, and crops for processing (sugarcane, indigo and sumac). But the mineral resources were equally important: chalk earth, marble from Bayt Djibrin, and sulphur mined in the Jordan Valley, not to mention the salt and bitumen of the Dead Sea. Stone, which was common in the country, was the most generally used building material for towns of any importance.<sup>2</sup>

The following description also provides evidence from the late tenth century: "Palestine is watered by the rains and the dew. Its trees and its ploughed lands do not need artificial irrigation. Palestine is the most fertile of the Syrian provinces."<sup>3</sup>

In 1615 the English traveler George Sandys described Palestine as "a land that flows with milk and honey; in the midst as it were of the habitable world, and under a temperate climate; adorned with beautiful mountains and luxurious valleys; the rocks producing excellent waters; and no part empty of delight or profit."<sup>4</sup>

A British missionary who lived in Beirut and visited Palestine in 1859 described the southern coastal area as "a very ocean of wheat," and the British Consul in Jerusalem, James Finn, reported that "the fields would do credit to British farming."<sup>5</sup>

The German geographer Alexander Scholch concluded that between 1856 and 1882 "Palestine produced a relatively large agricultural surplus which was marketed in neighboring countries, such as Egypt and Lebanon, and increasingly exported to Europe. These exports included wheat, barley, dura, maize, sesame, olive oil, soap, oranges, vegetables and cotton. Among the European importers of Palestinian produce were France, England, Turkey, Greece, Italy and Malta."<sup>6</sup>

Lawrence Oliphant, who visited Palestine in 1887, wrote that Palestine's Valley of Esdraelon was "a huge green lake of waving wheat, with its village-crowned mounds rising from it like islands; and it presents one of the most striking pictures of luxuriant fertility which it is possible to conceive."<sup>7</sup> This Palestinian wheat had historically played an important part in international commerce. According to Paul Masson, a French economic historian, "wheat shipments from the Palestinian port of Acre had helped to save southern France from famine on numerous occasions in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries."<sup>8</sup>

Agricultural techniques in Palestine, especially in citriculture, were among the most advanced in the world long before the first Zionist settlers came to its shores. In 1856, the American consul in Jerusalem, Henry Gillman, "outlined reasons why orange growers in Florida would find it advantageous to adopt Palestinian techniques of grafting directly onto lemon trees."<sup>9</sup> In 1893, the British Consul advised his government of the value of importing "young trees procured from Jaffa" to improve production in Australia and South Africa.<sup>10</sup>

All of this historical evidence from unimpeachable eyewitnesses destroys Israel's contention that it developed Palestine through its colonization. The legend that the Zionists have created, that they made "the desert bloom with roses," is totally without foundation. It is a ploy to gain donations from naive Jews throughout the world and to help extort economic aid from the American Congress. The economic achievements of Israel today are built totally on the capital base of lands, property and possessions usurped from the Palestinian Arabs.

The Zionists tell tourists, mainly Americans, that they "liberated this land when it was but a desolate desert." They point to the Arab orchards and citrus groves which they usurped and claim that Israeli "pioneers" planted them. They point to the twelve cities which were either entirely Arab or of mixed Jewish and Arab population, in which the Palestinian Arabs owned more than 75% of the houses and apartment buildings, as well as commercial and industrial buildings, and claim that they were built by Zionist enterprise. They changed the names of Arab towns and villages, settling Jews in Arab homes and on usurped Arab lands, and deny that Palestinian Arabs ever lived in these places.

Zionist myth-makers may persuade the innocent of their alleged achievements, but they themselves know the truth. In the words of Moshe Dayan:

We came to this country which was already populated by Arabs, and we are establishing a Hebrew, that is, a Jewish State here. Jewish villages were built in the place of Arab villages. You do not even know the names of these Arab villages, and I do not blame you, because these geography books no longer exist. Not only do the books not exist, the Arab villages are not there either. Nahalal arose in the place of Mahalul; Gevat in the place of Jibta; Sarid in the place of Haneifa and Kefar Yehoshua in the place of Tell Shaman. There is not one place built in this country that did not have a former Arab population.<sup>11</sup>

General (Reserve) Rehav'am Zeevi, who as a member of the Palmach and Haganah in 1948 took part in expelling the Palestinians, and who was Chief of Staff, southern command and central command, from 1955 to 1964, when he took part in the expulsion of more Palestinians, addressed a symposium on the 2nd of March, 1988, of 150 Zionist leaders in the Zionist organization (Jewish Agency) House in Jerusalem. He was propagating the idea of the expulsion of Palestinians from the West Bank and Gaza. Joshua Brilliant, correspondent of the Jerusalem Post, who attended the meeting, stated the following:

Zeevi argued that "transfer" would be humane because the Palestinians would no longer be in the battle zone between the Israeli Defense Forces (IDF) and the Arab armies. Seeking legitimacy for his views in Israeli history, he said that more than 400 Arab localities which were still in existence in the late '40's had been replaced by Jewish settlements, including some affiliated with Mapam's Hashomer Hatzair. Moreover, Levi Eshkol, the prime minister during the Six Day War, had set up an intelligence unit to deal with the question of expulsions.

However, he was vague as to how the expulsions should take place. When pressed by a former intelligence chief, Aluf (res.) Shlomo Gazit, he advocated making Israel unattractive for Arabs. If they face unemployment, and a shortage of land and water, then "in a legitimate way, and in accordance with the Geneva Convention, we can create the necessary conditions for separation."<sup>12</sup>

These Arab towns and villages were not merely place names on a map. They were developed communities containing farms, factories, stores and schools, with an infrastructure of doctors, lawyers, teachers, engineers, merchants, mechanics, industrialists, workers and farmers which would be the envy of any developing country today.

Yet the Zionists not only deny the developed state of the Palestine which they usurped or destroyed, but even deny the identity and existence of the Palestinians. They claim that the "British created the Palestinian identity." This is easily belied by such evidence as the existence of a modern Arabic-language newspaper named Filastin, which addressed its readers as Palestinians in 1911, six years before the Balfour Declaration and well before the commencement of the British Mandate.<sup>13</sup>

But truth has never been important to the Zionists. What they destroyed or usurped has to be presented as nonexistent. Thus in 1969 Golda Myerson (alias Meir), a Russian-born U.S. citizen and Israeli Prime Minister, had the audacity to ask at a press conference in the United States, "Who are the Palestinians?"

The Palestinian Arabs are Christians and Muslims of great Arab cultural tradition and civilization, who had a well-developed and prosperous economy before its destruction in 1948. Before 1948 they resided in twelve cities or major towns and 830 small towns and villages. Arab homes in the cities were either luxurious stone villas with beautiful gardens, or apartments with two to five bedrooms. These residences were well-furnished with modern furniture and household goods. No Arab home of the middle and upper classes contained less than eight valuable Persian carpets. All of these homes and their furnishing were usurped by Israel.

Even today, reduced to a refugee nation, the Palestinian Arabs have a high level of educational achievement. Palestinians hold many professional positions as doctors, lawyers, teachers and engineers, and operate successful commercial enterprises not only in the Arab world, but in the United States, Latin America, Western Europe and the British Commonwealth as well.

The growth rate of the Jewish economy in Palestine was artificial. In Mandate days, as in Israel today, it was totally dependent on outside subsidies to cover perpetual operating losses.

Contrary to the Zionist-created mythology, statistically and historically:

1. A prosperous, dynamically growing Palestinian Arab economy was destroyed by the Zionists, reducing the Palestinians to the status of a refugee nation.
2. Most of the Palestinian Arabs' lands, homes and possessions were usurped by the Zionists, and their owners were expelled.
3. These lands, homes and possessions rightfully and legally belong to the Palestinian Arabs and provide the underlying capital base of everything of value in Israel today.

In this chapter we shall show how the Palestinian Arabs were a well-developed nation socially, politically, culturally and economically by reviewing the political advancement of the Palestinian Arabs, Arab agriculture in Palestine, Palestine Arab industry, comparisons between the Arab and Jewish economies in Palestine, banking in Palestine, Palestine Arab education, health services in Palestine, the Palestine Arab labour movement, the Arabic press in Palestine, the cultural advancement of the Palestinian Arabs, and the holy places in Palestine.

THE POLITICAL ADVANCEMENT OF THE PALESTINIAN ARABS

The Zionists' claim that the Palestinian Arabs were without preparation for self-government is belied by the historical record.

The indigenous Palestine Arab population was recognized by Paragraph 4 of Article XXII of the League of Nations Covenant as "a provisionally independent nation." Palestine was placed under a Class A mandate, the very status of which indicated that the indigenous population was well advanced toward self-determination. It was solely the Zionist desire to bring about a Jewish majority in Palestine through immigration, opposed by the Palestinian Arabs almost unanimously, that obstructed imminent Palestinian independence.

The Palestinian Arabs were recognized by the mandatory power as the majority of the inhabitants of Palestine to be fit for independence by the White Paper of May, 1939. It stated that the object of his Majesty's Government is the "establishment of an independent Palestine state which should be one in which Arabs and Jews share in government in such a way as to ensure that the essential interests of each community are safeguarded." As was mentioned in chapter one, there were 309 high Government Arab officials and 30,178 lower grade Arab officials in the Government of Palestine as compared to 117 high Jewish officials and 9,276 lower grade Jewish officials. The Arabs were the overwhelming majority in the local Government of the country. There were 18 mayors of 18 municipal councils, 11 Arab mayors as heads of the local councils and 40 Arab chairmen of village councils. In 1945 there were 1,047 Arab lawyers in Palestine.<sup>14</sup>

The political advancement of the Palestinian Arabs was fully described by the Palestine Government in pages 946-954 of its A Survey of Palestine, Prepared in December 1945 and January 1946 for the Information of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry and pages 139-141 of the Supplement to Survey of Palestine, Notes Compiled for the Information of the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine, which herein we reproduce verbatim:

The first phase of Arab political activity in Palestine, from 1919-1934, was marked by a series of congresses. Immediately after the British occupation an association called the Moslem-Christian Association was formed in Palestine with branches throughout the country. This association was inspired largely by the larger movement towards Arab unity and independence which culminated in the entry into Damascus of the Amir Feisal (later King Feisal I of Iraq). Representatives from Palestine attended the General Syrian Congress held at Damascus on the 8th June, 1919, at which Jewish immigration and the Balfour Declaration were discussed.

A second Palestine Arab congress was held at Damascus on the 27th February, 1920; a third Palestine Arab congress was held at Haifa on the 14th December, 1920, at which an executive committee was formed under the presidency of the late Musa Kazem Pasha el Husseini in order to deal with the questions raised by the congress after its dispersion.

A fourth Palestine Arab congress was held at Jerusalem on the 25th June, 1921. This congress elected a delegation of eight persons to proceed to London, where it exchanged correspondence with the Secretary of State for the Colonies which was published in Command Paper No. 1700 presented to Parliament in June, 1922. The statement of policy by His Majesty's Government in 1922 was made after negotiations between the delegation and the Secretary of State. On the return of the delegation, the fifth Palestine Arab congress was held at Nablus on the 22nd August, 1922.

A second Arab delegation was elected in 1922 by the fourth Arab congress and visited Egypt, Turkey, Lausanne and London. A third delegation visited London again, in 1922, during negotiations for a treaty with the late King Hussein. A sixth Palestine Arab congress was held at Jaffa on the 16th June, 1923.

A seventh Palestine Arab congress was held at Jerusalem on the 20th June, 1928, when a new executive of forty-eight persons was elected. The executive in turn elected an administrative staff consisting of a president, three secretaries and two members. This Arab executive committee elected the members of the fourth Arab delegation which proceeded to London on the 21st March, 1930, to present the Arab case immediately after the publication of the report of the Commission of Enquiry into the 1929 disturbances headed by Sir Walter Shaw.

In March, 1934, the unity that had been found by representative Palestinian Arabs in a series of congresses was broken by the death of Musa Kazem Pasha el Husseini, who, from 1920, had acted as permanent president of all the Arab congresses and Arab committees in Palestine. There arose a division of opinion in Arab circles as to the appointment of a successor. Yacoub Eff. Farraj, the Arab Christian vice-president of the Arab executive, was appointed as acting president to replace him. No agreement was reached as to the appointment of a permanent Moslem president.

With the death of Musa Kazem Pasha, Palestine Arab politics entered a new phase. In the place of representation by a series of congresses working through the Arab executive committee, the Arab leaders formed parties of their own; and since 1934 the varying relations of these parties have affected Arab political life. In April, 1936, with the predominance of Haj Amin Effendi el Husseini, Mufti of Jerusalem and President of the Supreme Muslim Council, the party leaders drew together to cooperate in a body known as the "Arab Higher Committee" under the chairmanship of Haj Amin. This committee, which assumed the direction of Arab policy throughout the disturbances of 1936, was made illegal by order under the Emergency Regulations in 1937. Haj Amin and other leaders fled and were exiled; others were deported to the Seychelles. Thereafter there ceased to be any central representative Arab political body in Palestine until, on the 23rd November, 1945, the mediation of Jamil Bey Mardam, Syrian Minister to Egypt and Saudi Arabia, succeeded in inducing the Arab leaders to cooperate in a new "Arab Higher Committee."

Apart from the rivalry between the parties the Arab population has been, broadly speaking, aligned behind the families of Husseini and Nashashibi. These two families, both of which have enjoyed wealth, influence and office in Palestine for generations, came into conflict in 1920, when Musa Kazem Pasha el Husseini, on account of his extreme nationalist views and the part he had played in the disturbances of the 4th April, 1920, was forced to resign the mayoralty of Jerusalem in favour of Ragheb Bey Nashashibi. This feud, which became more intense during the disturbances of 1936-1939, is now in abeyance.

The parties are as follows:

THE PALESTINE ARAB PARTY

This party was founded in May, 1935, under the presidency of Jamal Eff. el Husseini, a distant cousin of Haj Amin Eff. el Husseini. Its objects are the independence of Palestine and the termination of the Mandate; the preservation of the Arab character of the country; opposition to Zionism; and the establishment of closer relations between Palestine and other Arab countries.

The Palestine Arab party has always been the largest and most important of the Arab political parties, chiefly because it is preeminently the party of Haj Amin. Jamal Eff. el Husseini took refuge with Haj Amin in Syria and the Lebanon in 1937. Subsequently he fled to Iraq and, after the failure of the revolt of Rashid Ali el Gailani in 1941, to Persia. He was arrested in Persia in 1941, and detained in Southern Rhodesia, from whence he has now been released.

Tewfiq Eff. Saleh el Husseini, the brother of Jamal, was chosen as acting president of the Palestine Arab party on its revival, after a momentary eclipse, in 1942. The secretary of the party, Emil Eff. Ghoury, is a Christian.

THE NATIONAL DEFENCE PARTY

This party was formed in December, 1934, under the presidency of Ragheb Bey Nashashibi, C.B.E. In general it is less extreme than the Palestine Arab party. Its object is to work for the independence of Palestine in such a manner as to ensure Arab supremacy. It acknowledges no international obligations which may prejudice Arab independence or permit the introduction of any foreign influence, whether in political or administrative affairs.

Among the members of this party are a number of notables of influence and standing, including several mayors and chairmen of municipal commissions. Through the influence of Suleiman Bey Toukan, C.B.E., Mayor of Nablus, it commands wide support in Samaria.

Ragheb Bey Nashashibi joined the first Arab Higher Committee in 1936, but was never a wholehearted supporter of Haj Amin Eff. el Husseini. He maintained his position as a moderate and finally withdrew from the Higher Committee, thus escaping the fate of his colleagues when the committee was dissolved and its members exiled or deported in 1937. In consequence, members of the Nashashibi family and the Defence party suffered losses in lives and property at the hands of the Arab gangs between 1937 and 1939. For that reason the Defence party gave considerable assistance to the authorities in counter-measures against gangs and terrorists during those years. Four members of the party, headed by Ragheb Bey, visited London early in 1939 and had discussions with His Majesty's Government.

Soon after the publication of the White Paper of 1939 (Command No. 6019) by His Majesty's Government Ragheb Bey Nashashibi proclaimed its acceptance by his party.

THE ARAB REFORM PARTY

This party was formed in August, 1935. Its objects are the attainment of freedom for Palestine; the establishment of self-government; the welfare of farmers and workers; the encouragement of education; and opposition to a Jewish National Home. It was formed by Dr. Hussein Fakhri el Khalidi to strengthen his position after his election as Mayor of Jerusalem in 1934.

This party has never, as a party, had any appreciable influence over public opinion. Dr. Hussein Khalidi, personally, has considerable influence in Jerusalem and his views are given wide publicity in the local Arab press. He was a member of the first Arab Higher Committee and was deported to the Seychelles in 1937.

THE NATIONAL BLOC PARTY

This party was formed in Nablus in July, 1935, under the presidency of Abdul Latif Bey Saleh, a lawyer and former official of the Ottoman Senate at Istanbul. Its declared objects are: to work for the independence and preservation of the Arab character of Palestine; to unify all political efforts of the Palestinian Arabs; and to disseminate propaganda for this purpose.

The influence of this party is now small and very local, being chiefly derived from limited areas around Nablus and Jaffa.

THE ISTIQLALIST (INDEPENDENCE) PARTY

This party, properly speaking, is the Palestine branch of the Pan-Arab Independence party founded by the followers of the Amir Feisal in Damascus in 1920. The general secretary of this branch is Auni Bey Abdul Hadi. Its declared aim is the independence of Arab countries; it bases itself upon the principle that Arab countries are an indivisible entity, and that Palestine is an Arab country, historically and geographically an integral part of Syria. In Palestine itself the party has now little influence; but Auni Bey himself, when he was private secretary to the Amir Feisal in Damascus between 1918-20, acquired a close acquaintanceship with Arab politicians who now hold high office throughout the Middle East.

THE PALESTINE YOUTH PARTY

This organisation is not strictly speaking a party. Although now commonly called the "Palestine Youth party" its more correct title is the Arab Young Men's Congress Executive. The first Arab young men's congress was held at Jaffa in 1932, with the object of organising the Arab youth to serve the Palestine Arab cause. The congress elected an executive under the presidency of Ya'coub Eff. el Ghusseini. Its influence is now small and localised, being confined chiefly to the areas around Jaffa and Ramle.

THE FIRST ARAB HIGHER COMMITTEE

The first Arab Higher Committee was formed on the 26th April, 1936, to coordinate the work of the national committee which had been formed in the different towns of Palestine for the purpose of dealing with questions of major policy regarding the Arab cause. The chairman was Haj Amin Eff. el Husseini, who thus reached the zenith of his career as the virtually unopposed leader of the Palestinian Arabs. The five major Arab political parties were all represented. At the time of its formation an Arab general strike was already in progress throughout Palestine. The first act of the new committee was to adopt a resolution "to continue the general strike until the British Government changes its policy in a fundamental manner, the beginning of which is the stoppage of Jewish immigration." It also called for the prohibition of the transfer of Arab lands to Jews.

Throughout the disturbances of 1936 and 1937, Haj Amin continued to direct Arab affairs through the Arab Higher Committee. The latent feud between Husseini and Nashashibi, however, could not long be repressed. On the 3rd July, 1937, the Defence party withdrew from the Higher Committee. One of the various reasons published in support of this step was that the Higher Committee was taking no steps to prevent the growing evil of political assassination, which was creating a widening cleavage among the Arabs of Palestine.

In October, 1937, the first Arab Higher Committee was declared unlawful. Its members were arrested and deported to the Seychelles, with the exception of the chairman, Haj Amin Eff. el Husseini and Jamal Eff. Husseini, who managed to escape to the Lebanon, the Defence party representatives who had resigned, and Abdul Latif Bey Salah, who also escaped.

After 1937, Haj Amin and his associates fostered the disturbances from their refuges in Syria and the Lebanon. There was no longer any central body directing the political activities of the Palestinian Arabs. Those members of the first Arab Higher Committee who had been deported in 1937, were allowed to return to the Middle East in January, 1939. After consultations with Haj Amin Eff. el Husseini some of them were appointed members of a delegation which visited London in February, 1939, under the leadership of Jamal Eff. Husseini, for discussions with his Majesty's Government.

With the waning of the disturbances in 1939, the power of Haj Amin dwindled and Arab political life became increasingly stagnant, apart from the effort made to rally the Defence party in support of the White Paper in May, 1939. With the outbreak of war Arab party activity came to a standstill. Haj Amin and his personal coterie engaged in the pro-Axis intrigues which culminated in the Rashid Ali revolt in Iraq.

THE SECOND ARAB HIGHER COMMITTEE

In 1942 Arab political life began slowly to revive in reaction to the Zionist political aims adopted under the Biltmore programme. The need for another representative body to represent all Arab parties was increasingly discussed. The sporadic efforts made to create a new Higher Committee at first came to naught, partly because there was no sense of urgency, and partly because the Palestine Arab party (the Husseini party) claimed a predominance which the other parties were reluctant to concede.

In 1944 the disadvantage arising from the absence of a representative Arab body was emphasized by the preliminary discussions which led to the first meeting of Arab statesmen at Alexandria and the eventual foundation of the Arab League. Since it was desired to associate the Arabs of Palestine with these discussions it was necessary that they should be invited to send a representative. Negotiations for the formation of a new Higher Committee therefore acquired a new impetus, but renewed failure to agree led to the choice of one non-party Arab, Musa Eff. el Alami, as the Palestine Arab representative at the Arab unity talks at Alexandria and Cairo.

Throughout 1944 and 1945 fruitless negotiations continued among the Arab leaders, despite the attempts of the Amir Adullah of Transjordan and prominent Arabs from Egypt, Iraq and Syria to induce the Palestinian Arabs to reach an understanding.

Following the statement on Palestine by His Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in the House of Commons on the 13th November, 1945, and the subsequent discussions thereon by the council of the Arab League, a renewed and determined attempt was made to induce the Palestinian Arabs to unite at a time when the whole future of Palestine was under discussion. Accordingly, Jamil Mardam Bey, chairman of the current session of the council of the Arab League, and Syrian Minister to Egypt and Saudi Arabia, visited Palestine. After prolonged discussions a new Arab Higher Committee was announced on the 23rd November, 1945.

The second Arab Higher Committee consists of the following members:

Tewfiq Eff. Saleh el Husseini	(acting chairman, Palestine Arab party).
Emil Eff. Ghoury	(secretary, Palestine Arab party)
Rafiq Eff. Tamimi	(Palestine Arab party)
Kamil Eff. Dajani	(Palestine Arab party)
Yusef Eff. Sahyoun	(Palestine Arab party)
Ragheb Bey Nashashibi	(president, Defence party)
Auni Bey Abdul Hadi	(president, Istiqlal party)
Abdul Latif Bey Salah	(president, National Bloc party)
Dr. Hussein Khalidi	(president, Reform party)
Yacoub Eff. Ghussein	(president, the executive of the Young Men's Congress)
Musa Eff. el Alami	(non-party)
Ahmad Hilmi Pasha	(manager of the Arab National Bank)

There is no chairman of the second Arab Higher Committee, the chair being taken in rotation at each session.

Musa Eff. el Alami, Emile Eff. Ghoury and Yacoub Eff. Ghussein were later appointed to represent the Arab Higher Committee at the meeting of the Council of the Arab League in Cairo in November, 1945.

RELATIONS WITH THE ARAB LEAGUE

The wider political issues in regard to the Arab League are outside the scope of this memorandum; but it should be noted that, from its inception, the connection between Palestine Arabs and a union of Arab states was a close one. Prior to the Arab unity discussions in Cairo in October, 1944, visiting Arab statesmen had discussed the Palestine problem with local politicians and had been asked for assistance. The interest in the Palestine question shown by the Arab populations of the surrounding countries, and the repeated emphasis in the press on the position of Palestine as a "sister Arab State" rendered it inevitable that when the time came for the first preliminary discussions on Arab unity, the participation of Palestine Arabs by some means or another could not be excluded.

In 1944, however, the Palestine Arab parties still found themselves unable to agree on a formula on which to found a representative political body, or to send a delegation to the Arab unity discussions at Alexandria. The Palestine Arabs therefore found themselves faced with the prospect that Palestine, a country which they claimed to be an integral part of the Arab world and a vital link between its component parts, would not be represented at the discussions which it was hoped would agree upon an organization to defend Arab interests everywhere, not the least in Palestine. Accordingly Musa Eff. el Alami who, in his retirement from politics, had acquired a reputation as a man above party, and who was connected by marriage with the Husseini family, was prevailed upon by the Arab leaders to represent them at Alexandria in October, 1944.

The protocol published at the close of the Alexandria discussions contained the following resolutions on Palestine:

"Part 5 (a). The committee considers that Palestine constitutes one of the important elements of Arab countries and that the rights of the Palestine Arabs cannot be affected without danger to the peace and stability of the Arab world. The Committee considers that the engagements taken by Great Britain which involve the stoppage of Jewish immigration, the safeguarding of lands belonging to the Arabs, and the progress of Palestine towards independence, constitute acquired rights by the Arabs, and that their execution will be a step towards their goal towards the strengthening of peace and stability. The Committee proclaims its support of the Palestine cause for the realisation of its legitimate aspirations and for the safeguarding of its just rights. The Committee declares that as much as anyone it has a compassion for the sufferings which the Jews have endured in Europe by the action of States under a dictatorial regime, but the case of these Jews must not be confounded with Zionism, for nothing would be more unjust than to wish to settle the question of European Jews by another injustice, the victims of which would be the Palestinian Arabs to whatever religion or confession they belong.

"(b). The proposal concerning the participation of Arab Governments and peoples in the fund destined to preserve Arab lands in Palestine will be referred to the Commission on economic and financial questions for examination and submission of the result at its next meeting."

The constitution of the Arab League, based on the results of the preliminary discussions at Alexandria, was signed at the Zafaran Palace, Cairo on March 22nd, 1945. The special annex on Palestine reads as follows:

"At the termination of the last Great War, the Arab countries were detached from the Ottoman Empire. These included Palestine, a wilayet of that Empire, which became autonomous, depending on no other power. The Treaty of Lausanne proclaimed that the question of Palestine was not the concern of the interested parties, and, although she was not in a position to direct her own affairs, the Covenant of the League of Nations of 1919 settled her regime on the basis of the acknowledgment of her independence. Her international existence and independence are therefore a matter of no doubt from the legal point of view, just as there is no doubt about the independence of the other Arab countries. Although the external aspects of that independence are not apparent owing to force of circumstances, this should not stand in the way of her participation in the work of the Council of the League.

"The States that have signed the Covenant of the Arab League consider therefore that, owing to the peculiar circumstances of Palestine and until that country enjoys effective independence, the Council of the Arab League should undertake the selection of an Arab delegate from Palestine to participate in its work."

Thus the Arab population of Palestine was admitted to the deliberations of the Arab League and to participation in common social and cultural matters. Since the Covenant was signed only by independent or semi-independent States, the Palestine representative was not also asked to sign, although he was present at the ceremony.

After the signature of the Covenant of the Arab League, Musa Eff. el Alami devoted himself to two projects which touched Palestine most closely and which derived from the Article on Palestine in the protocol of the Alexandria conference. These projects were the opening of Arab publicity offices to explain the Arab case to the world and the scheme to save Arab land from purchase by the Jews. Musa Eff. el Alami was charged by the Alexandria conference to organise the Arab publicity offices and to submit to the council of the League the proposals to save Arab lands in Palestine. These have now been opened in London, Washington and Jerusalem, the Jerusalem office being primarily intended to supply the material for the use of the offices in London and Washington. The purpose of these offices has been defined by Musa Eff. el Alami himself as "to give the English and American public accurate information and correct views about the Arab world and thus to improve Anglo-Arab and Arab-American relations." It was originally intended that the Arab offices should be administered by the council of the Arab League through a sub-committee with a permanent director, resident in Cairo, and a small secretariat. The present tendency is for Musa Eff. el Alami to be solely responsible to each individual state for the management of the Arab offices.

The plan for a campaign to save Arab lands has not yet emerged from the preliminary stages of discussion.

THE THIRD ARAB HIGHER COMMITTEE

The second Arab Higher Committee did not function for long, as the members of the parties (other than the Palestine Arab Party) and Musa Eff. el Alami soon withdrew their cooperation.

Soon after his return from Rhodesia, at the beginning of 1946, Jamal Eff. el Husseini formed a third committee under his own leadership consisting of the Palestine Arab Party members of the previous committee and the following:

Faris Eff. Sirhan	(A notable of Acre)
Sami Eff. Taha	(Arab Workers' Society)
Ahmed Shuqairi	(Arab Offices)
Anton Eff. Atallah	(Orthodox Community)
Dr. Izzat Tannous	(Palestine Arab party)
Mr. Henry Cattar	(Latin Community)
Dr. J. Attallah	(Orthodox Community)
Sheikh Freih Musadder	(A Sheikh of Beersheba)
Dr. J. Haykel	(Chairman, Jaffa Municipal Commission)
Anwar Eff. Khatib	(A notable of Hebron)

The formation of the third committee was followed by the formation of the Arab Higher Front in June, 1946, including the five major parties other than the Palestine Arab party, the League of National Liberation and the Palestine Arab Workers' Society.

The Arab National Front never became active since both it and the third Arab Higher Committee decided to cease all activities on the formation of the Fourth Arab Higher Committee.

THE FOURTH ARAB HIGHER COMMITTEE

This Committee was formed as a result of the extraordinary meeting of the Arab League at Bludan (Syria) in June, 1946. It consisted of: Jamal Eff. el Husseini (Vice Chairman), Dr. Hussein el Khalidi (Secretary), Ahmed Hilmi Pasha and Emile Eff. el Ghoury.

The reason for the appointment of Jamal Eff. el Husseini as Vice-Chairman was that the post of Chairman was held for Haj Amin el Husseini, although this fact has not been stated officially to Government.

In January, 1947, the Committee was enlarged by the addition of:

Sheikh Hassan Abu Saoud	(Palestine Arab Party)
Izzat Eff. Darwazeh	(Palestine Arab Party)
Ishaq Eff. Darwish	(Palestine Arab Party)
Mu'in Eff. el Madi	(Palestine Arab Party)
Rafiq Eff. Tamimi	(Palestine Arab Party)

The Committee now existing is that containing the persons mentioned in the two preceding paragraphs. Its headquarters are in Jerusalem but its meetings have frequently been held in Egypt. It has under it the following departments:

1. The Treasury (Beit el Mal) headed by Dr. Izzat Tannous.
2. Department of National Economy (concerned with general economic matters and in particular the boycott of Jewish goods).
3. Department of Lands (concerned mainly with preventing the sale of Arab lands to Jews).
4. Department of National Reconstruction (concerned largely with youth movements).
5. Department of National Aid (concerned with the relief of the dependents of Arabs who were killed in the disturbances and of Arab prisoners, etc.).

The Treasury has formulated schemes for the raising of funds by means of direct and indirect voluntary contributions, and it is understood that these plans are being put into effect in the present financial year for which the budget is 220,000 Palestinian Pounds. It has a number of advisory committees in the main Arab towns.

The organisation of the other departments appears to be less advanced than that of the Treasury. In particular two of the main problems which the Arab Higher Committee has been endeavouring to solve in order to unify the national effort are still outstanding, namely the existence of two separate schemes for the "saving" of Arab lands and of two rival youth organisations. Further information on these matters is given below.

The Arab Higher Committee was invited by H.M. Government to nominate a delegation to the London Conference on Palestine in January, 1947. The invitation was accepted and the following delegation attended the Conference:

Jamal Eff. el Husseini	(Arab Higher Committee)
Emile Eff. el Ghoury	(Arab Higher Committee)

Dr. Hussein el Khalidi	(Arab Higher Committee)
Sami Eff. Taha	(Palestine Arab Workers' Society)
Dr. Omar el Khalil	(Left Wing)
Yusef Eff. Sahyoun	(Palestine Arab Party)

Since the formation of the fourth Arab Higher Committee one or more of its members have represented the Arabs of Palestine as observers at meetings of the Arab League.

LAND SAVING SCHEMES

These are two:

(a) The Arab National Fund, headed by Ahmed Hilmi Pasha and therefore closely allied to the Arab Higher Committee. It is concerned with the various aspects of rural development and in particular with the acquisition of land, the sale of which to Jews is threatened, and its transfer to peasant cultivators. It raises its funds by voluntary subscriptions and has already acquired substantial areas of land.

(b) The Constructive Scheme, which is the second of Musa Eff. el Alami's activities, is concerned with rural development and in particular with the improvement of agricultural methods. Like the Arab Offices it arises from the protocol of the Alexandria Conference and is supported by the Arab League. It was intended that the Arab States should supply the funds but it has as yet not started to function on a wide scale.

YOUTH MOVEMENTS

The Arab youth of Palestine have, like the youth of the rest of the world, increasingly felt the attraction of uniformed national or nationalistic organisation. The recognised Scout Movement (described in paragraph 94 of Chapter XVI of the Survey of Palestine) has not hitherto succeeded in meeting the need felt for such organisation and there have consequently arisen a number of independent movements modelled on Scout lines but tinged, to a lesser or greater degree, with nationalism and militarism. The more important of these are:

(a) The Palestine Arab Boy Scout Association is a non-political body, organised on recognised Scout lines, and is in process of becoming affiliated to the International Bureau through a Scout Federation. It is headed by Fawzi Eff. Nashashibi.

(b) The Futuwah (Youth) Organisation which is the revival of an earlier organisation existing in 1935 under the aegis of Haj Amin el Husseini. It was reformed in 1946 and is the youth organisation of the Palestine Arab Party. It is headed by Kamel Eff. Areikat.

(c) The Najjada (Helpers) Organisation, is a non-party organisation formed by Mohammed Nimr Eff. el Hawari in October, 1945.

Both the Futuwah and Najjada Organisations are uniformed bodies modelled on Rover Scout lines with a strong nationalistic and anti-Zionist complexion. It is frequently stated that both are para-military formations but little evidence is available to substantiate such assertions. It is difficult to estimate the strength of these organisations but they have undoubtedly exercised a strong attraction for that part (still a small proportion of the whole) of Arab youth which has felt the desire for national organisation.<sup>15</sup>

ARAB AGRICULTURE IN PALESTINE

The first factor to be assessed in valuing agricultural land is its natural value created by climatic and soil composition features. Zionist propagandists claim that they gave value to worthless land. They falsely state that they made the desert bloom with roses. This lie is exposed through the evaluation of Walter C. Lowdermilk, who was Assistant Chief of the United States Soil Conservation Service. In a study of the natural agricultural potential of Palestine, "Palestine: A Promise for the Middle East," Lowdermilk favorably compares Palestine to California:

The similarity of Southern California and Palestine is so close in climate, topography, soils and vegetation that the present condition of similarly placed areas in California is a reliable index of the early condition of the land of Palestine. Vegetation varied from desert scrub on lower slopes of the Jordan Valley and Dead Sea, to luxuriant forests of Cedars of Lebanon on the flanks of Mount Hermon, similar to the desert vegetation from Coachella Valley below sea level in Southern California to pine and fir forests on lower slopes of Mt. Baldy (10,000 feet) in the San Gabriel Range. Rainfall favours Palestine, for Jaffa gets more rain (21.5 inches) per annum than Los Angeles (15.2 inches), and the Mt. Hermon mountain land mass gets up to 70 inches of rain while Mt. Baldy only 50 inches. Other comparisons are striking.

The region of the Jordan River, including Palestine and Trans-Jordan and the maritime slopes, is quite similar to California, but has an added advantage of its limestone country rock. The climates are alike, the natural vegetation, the physiographic features, except for the great limestone springs in Palestine. Similar crops may be grown. Differences are that soils of Palestine were uniformly better, that uplands have been badly eroded from misuse, and that slopes of Palestine favoured tree crops and were terraced where surface rock was ready at hand.<sup>16</sup>

California is among the most productive agricultural areas of the world, due to the intrinsic value of its climate and soil. As the "soils of Palestine were uniformly better" than those of California, one can objectively assess the mammoth wealth stolen from the native Palestinian people by the Zionists through the usurpation of their agricultural lands.

The British Mandate improved the conditions of the Palestinian farmer, removing intolerable taxation and providing responsible administration that led to the ultimate removal of his debt load. This was accomplished despite the worldwide depression during part of the Mandate period, the three year Arab revolt (1936-39), and the absence of outside investment and aid. The Palestinian Arabs' phenomenal agricultural growth rate was due to internally generated profits being reinvested.

The Jewish agricultural growth rate in Palestine was artificially dependent on subsidized prices and outside subsidies of annual deficits. The Palestinian Arab growth rate was real, the result of a very high profitability lacking in the Jewish sector of Palestine.

The statistical profitability of Palestinian Arab farms is shown in the following randomly selected examples:

1. A family farm comprising 95 dunums in the hills of Ramallah of the Jerusalem sub-district had a Net Income of 57.7% of its Gross Income.

2. A non-irrigated family farm comprising 135 dunums in the Jenin sub-district had a Net Income of 52.4% of its Gross Income.

3. A family farm comprising 87 dunums, with 12 dunums irrigated, in the inland plains had a Net Income of 40.7% of its Gross Income.<sup>17</sup>

The following table gives the gross figures for the above randomly selected statistical examples.<sup>18</sup>

Type of farm	Surface area (dunums)	Gross income Palestinian Pounds (Mils)	Expenditure Palestinian Pounds (Mils)	Net Income Palestinian Pounds (Mils)
1. Hill areas of Jerusalem or Ramallah	95	177.050	76.650	100.400
2. Non-irrigated farm in Jenin sub-district	135	207.600	103.750	103.850
3. Farm in inland plain	87	260.935	154.750	106.185

The profitability factor of the Palestinian Arab farmer shown above, proves that once his debt load had been alleviated, he had surplus to reinvest. If the destruction of Palestinian life had not taken place, today Palestine might be a model of economic growth.

CITRUS GROVES

The most important agricultural exports of Palestine were citrus crops, the only profitable sector of Jewish agriculture and then only profitable because of the utilization of Arab labor by Jewish citrus growers, over the violent objections of the Zionist establishment and Jewish terrorist groups.

ARAB-OWNED CITRUS GROVES

Variety	Class 1, dunums	Class 2, dunums	Class 3, dunums	Total dunums
Shamouti orange	84,215	16,369	4,902	105,486
Valencia orange	10,664	1,451	169	12,284
Grapefruit	2,090	216	48	2,354
Lemon	3,671	426	95	4,192
Other citrus	2,539	497	25	3,061
Total	103,179	18,959	5,239	127,377

The purely Arab-owned citrus groves comprised 127,377 dunums, or 52% of the total acreage in citrus groves in Palestine. Of these, 117,770 dunums were devoted to oranges, or 54% of the total acreage of orange groves in Palestine. Arabs owned 105,486 dunums of Shamouti (Jaffa) orange groves (55% of the total in Palestine), and 12,284 dunums of Valencia orange groves (48% of the total in Palestine).

Arabs owned 4,192 dunums planted with lemons (52% of the total in Palestine), and 2,354 dunums planted with grapefruit (16% of the total in Palestine).

CITRUS EXPORTS

The leading agricultural export in Palestine was citrus fruit. The following table enumerates the exports from 1920-1939<sup>20</sup>:

CITRUS EXPORTS TO SEASON 1938-39

	1923-24		1926-27		1929-30

TOTAL	4,490,409	2,097,393	5,886,401	2,535,870	15,264,846	4,355,853

Note: L.P. = Palestine Pounds.

In 1939 it is estimated that Arab-owned oranges exported comprised 54% of the total or 7,050,116 cases.

In 1939 it is estimated that Arab-owned grapefruit exported comprised 16% of the total or 206,683 cases.

In 1939 it is estimated that Arab-owned lemons exported comprised 52% of the total or 73,966 cases.

In 1948 the Zionists seized 90% of Arab-owned citrus groves, packaging and storage facilities, as well as that year's crop, looting the prosperous Arab citrus growers and making them destitute refugees.

FRUITS (EXCLUDING CITRUS)

From ancient times Palestine was renowned for its fruits. Palestinian orchards and vineyards represented a continuous tradition for millennia, and the quality of the trees and vines was passed from generation to generation within Palestinian families.

Of a total yield of 280,068 tons of fruit in 1943, excluding citrus fruits, 73% was produced by Arabs (by value), including 95% of the melons, 96% of the almonds, 57% of the apples, 60% of the bananas and 100% of the figs.

Following are the statistics of Area, Production and Value of Principal Crops for the year 1943<sup>21</sup>:

Fruits (non-citrus)	Dunums	Tons	Palestine Pounds
Olives	592,388	75,341	3,735,091
Melons & Watermelons	125,557	106,365	868,651
Grapes	174,952	50,228	1,626,267
Almonds	38,056	2,409	245,610
Figs	105,566	21,210	688,091
Apples	15,581	4,169	300,558
Pomegranates	2,893	1,123	31,565
Apricots	19,619	5,839	198,478
Pears	2,370	465	37,567

Other fruits	2,684	797	48,380
Total	1,095,766	280,068	8,615,570

80% of the fruit orchards and vineyards, including irrigated land, were usurped by the Zionists. Farmers who held great pride in their tradition and who had lived a decent, prosperous life were reduced to refugees, their specialized family-inherited agricultural skills lost to the world.

OLIVES

In 1945 Palestine had 600,100 dunums of land planted with olive trees, 99% Arab-owned. Production was 79,469 tons in 1945. This represented an increase of 404% from 1936. The olive plantations were the source of the important olive oil industry in Palestine.<sup>22</sup> Both as regards area and oil production, Palestine contributed about one percent to the world's total.

GRAINS AND LEGUMES

In 1942 Palestine produced 304,886 tons of grains and legumes. The two principal crops were wheat and barley. Palestinian Arabs produced 90% by value of all the grains and legumes produced in Palestine.

Following is a table<sup>23</sup> of Palestinian production of grains and legumes between 1936 and 1942, showing an increase of 68% of production between those two years despite a decrease in area sown in these crops from 6,365.6 square kilometers in 1936 to 5,589.4 square kilometers in 1942. This indicates an increase in productivity of 90% per dunum during this period.

Grains & Legumes	1936		1939		1942
	Sq. Kms	Tons	Sq. Kms	Tons	Sq. Kms	Tons
Wheat	2320.1	76,059	1863.7	89,190	2008.6	104,392

Total	6365.6	181,700	5367.0	241,642	5589.4	304,886

80% of the unharvested grains and legumes belonging to Palestinian Arab farmers in 1948 were either destroyed or harvested by the Zionists.

VEGETABLES

In 1944-45 Palestine produced 244,834 tons of vegetables, of which 77% were produced by Palestinian Arab farmers.

Following is a Table providing the number of dunums planted with vegetables and the tonnage of vegetables produced. One dunum is equal to 1,000 square meters; four dunums are equal to one acre.

The following is the percentage of each vegetable crop produced by Arab farmers of the total production of the vegetable in Palestine:

Cabbages	73%	Okra	99%
Cauliflowers	81%	Eggplant	89%
Onions	97%	Carrots	78%
Garlic	96%	Mulukhya	100%
Peas	77%	Lettuce	79%
Beans	92%	Turnips	100%
Cucumbers	81%	Peppers	68%
Faccus	100%	Beets	48%
Marrows	93%	Potatoes	20%
Tomatoes	91%	Sweet potatoes	1%

The rapid growth of Palestinian Arab agriculture can be shown by various examples. Tomatoes, of which Arabs produced 91% of the total in Palestine, increased by 249% in terms of dunums planted between 1935 and 1944, and production increased by 350% in the same period. Cucumbers, of which Arabs produced 81% of the total in Palestine, increased by 153% in terms of dunums planted between 1935 and 1944, and production increased by 244% in the same period.

All Arab vegetable farms in 80% of the territory of Palestine were usurped in 1948, and vegetable crops in the fields were either destroyed or usurped.

LIVESTOCK

The statistics of 1937 and 1943 show a tremendous rise quantitatively in livestock owned by Palestinian Arab farmers, and changes qualitatively in the types of livestock owned.

In 1937 there were 169,145 cattle, and in 1943 there were 214,570 cattle owned by Arabs in Palestine, an increase of 27%. Therefore, in 1948, the numbers would have been 272,503 cattle.

The following table indicates qualitative changes among Arab owned cattle between 1937 and 1943.<sup>25</sup>

Male calves under one year	+ 9%
Female calves under one year	+ 17%
Bulls over one year	+ 30%
Cows	+ 29%

In 1937 there were 177,838 sheep owned by Arabs in Palestine, and in 1943 there were 190,283, an increase of 27%. Therefore, in 1948, there would have been 203,781 sheep owned by Palestinian Arabs.

In 1937 there were 15,621 Arab-owned camels in Palestine, and in 1943 there were 15,793, an increase of 1%.

In 1943 there were 1,169,507 Arab-owned chickens in Palestine, approximately doubling the 1937 estimates. Therefore, in 1948, there would have been 2,339,014.

Interestingly, there was a decline in the number of goats and draught animals (horses and mules) owned by Arabs in 1943 as compared with 1937, indicating the gradual mechanization of farms and improvement of livestock. Goats numbered 288,523 in 1943 compared to 307,316 in 1937, a decline of 7%. Horses owned by Arabs numbered 16,669 in 1943 compared to 20,053 in 1937, a decline of 17%. Mules numbered 7,328 in 1943 compared to 8,989 in 1937, a decline of 19%.

In 1943 the total number of Arab-owned pigs was 12,145 and of donkeys 105,414.

The Zionists stole all of the Palestinian Arab farmers' livestock in 1948 in 80% of the territory of Palestine.

PALESTINIAN ARAB INDUSTRY

The Palestinian Arab population has a long tradition of artisanship. The Palestinians established many manufacturing plants long before the first Zionist colonists arrived.

In 1927 there were 1,236 industrial enterprises in Palestine, as shown in the following list. Nine hundred and twenty five of them, or 75%, were Arab and about 300 or 24% were Jewish.

OLIVE OIL PRODUCTION

"The total quantity of olive oil produced in Palestine during the 1943/44 season was 9,912 tons, as compared with 9,414 tons recorded in the 1942/43 season, 1,618 tons recorded in the 1941/42 season, and 10,535 tons recorded in the 1940/41 season.... 80 % of the olive oil pressed in the 1940/41, the 1942/43 and the 1943/44 seasons came from five Sub-districts, namely, Nablus, Acre, Ramallah, Jenin and Tulkarm. Nablus stood first, Acre second, Ramallah third, Jenin fourth and Tulkarm fifth in the last two seasons."<sup>29</sup>

PRODUCTION OF OLIVE OIL, BY SUB-DISTRICT, IN THE 1943-44 SEASON

OLIVE PRESSING ESTABLISHMENTS

"The number of olive oil pressing establishments enumerated during the 1943/44 season was 634, as compared with 605, 350 and 628 establishments in the 1940/41, 1941/42 and the 1942/43 olive seasons, respectively. Presses were found in all Sub-districts of Palestine with the exception of Beisan and Beersheba. The greatest numbers were in Acre and Ramallah Sub-districts, where 142 presses were found in 44 villages* and 119 presses in 46 villages, respectively. The number of villages in which presses were found and the total number of pressing establishments in each Sub-district were as follows:

Sub-district	Total villages	No. villages with presses	No. of establishments
Acre	56	44	142
Beisan	42	-	-
Nazareth	44	14	35
Safad	88	16	30

Ramle	94	13	32
Beersheba	1	-	-
Gaza	64	5	19
TOTAL	997	262	634

* In this section 'villages' include towns.

In 1943-44, there were 634 olive oil pressing establishments in the Arab villages in each subdistrict as follows<sup>30</sup>:

1. Acre subdistrict	142
2. Nazareth subdistrict	35
3. Safad subdistrict	30
4. Tiberias subdistrict	17
5. Haifa subdistrict	33
6. Jenin subdistrict	49
7. Nablus subdistrict	67
8. Tulkarm subdistrict	43
9. Hebron subdistrict	16
10. Jerusalem subdistrict	31
11. Ramallah subdistrict	119
12. Ramle-Jaffa subdistrict	33
13. Gaza subdistrict	19

All the establishments in the subdistricts of Acre, Safad, Tiberias, Haifa, and Ramle-Jaffa were usurped by the Zionists. Many establishments in the subdistricts of Nazareth, Jenin, Tulkarm, Hebron and Gaza were also usurped.

SOAP MANUFACTURING

One example proving that the Zionists did not start the industrialization of Palestine is found in the Palestinian soap industry. As early as 1830 a Palestinian Arab firm began the production of olive-oil soap. Due to its high quality it was exported to many countries<sup>31</sup>:

The principal center of soap-making was Nablus and its neighborhood (with about 30 establishments), followed by the Jaffa district. Soap was also manufactured in Haifa and Gaza and to a lesser extent in Jerusalem and Bethlehem. The annual production of the soap works of Nablus before the War was estimated at 500-1,000 tons, depending upon the olive crop; that of Haifa at 300 tons; and that of Jaffa and district at 2,000-3,000 tons. The soap of Nablus and Jaffa prepared from pure olive oil, had a wide reputation in the Near East. A large proportion of the soap was exported to Egypt, Arabia, Iraq and Asia Minor. In 1913 the total soap exports amounted to about 200,000 pounds, Egypt being the most important country of destination. For several years before the War, the supplies of olive oil in the country had been insufficient for the requirements of the soap industry and had been supplemented by imports. In 1911 and 1912 the imports of olive oil through Jaffa amounted to 647 tons and 1,100 tons respectively. In addition coconut oil, cotton oil and maize oil were imported to be used in combination with olive oil for the lower grades of soap.<sup>32</sup>

...The laundry soap industry is mostly in Arab hands. In 1936 there were 24 soap factories in Nablus, with a capital investment of 230,000 Palestinian Pounds, and an output valued at about 240,000 Palestinian Pounds. Jaffa and Ramle came next in importance with 12 and 4 factories respectively.<sup>33</sup>

EXTRACTION OF SESAME OIL AND OTHER OILS AND PERFUMES

"Extraction of sesame and other oils depended upon raw materials produced locally. Sesame was and still is an important agricultural product of Palestine. Before the War there were about forty small factories for extracting sesame oil in Lydda, Ramle, Jaffa and Jerusalem, and two large Jewish factories with hydraulic presses in Jaffa. There were also a few presses in Nablus. On an average the small factories had a capacity for treating 150-200 kilograms of oil a day, while one large factory treated 2,000 kilograms a day and the other 3,000 kilograms.

"Other oils and perfumes included castor oil, geranium oil, rose water and orange blossom water, etc. These were manufactured on a small scale, mostly in the homes."<sup>34</sup>

WEAVING AND ALLIED INDUSTRIES

"Weaving and allied industries included weaving of clothes, abayas (outer garments of Bedouins and others), carpets, rugs, mats; manufacture of iqals (head dress), purses, tassels, and plaiting of belts; dyeing, needlework, embroidery, and lace-making. Practically all of these industries were home or workshop industries, operated by hand. The textile industry did not flourish in Palestine as it did in Syria. The most important textile centers were Majdal, having about 500 looms, and Gaza with 50 looms. They carried on weaving of coarse cotton and woolen stuffs for articles of dress worn by the fellahin. Silk-weaving was a small industry at Gaza. Many of the textile laborers were skilled craftsmen who acquired their dexterity in their early youth. The cotton, woolen, and silk yarns for the manufacture of clothes were nearly all imported; cotton yarn was imported from Manchester. The Abaya was the principal article made of wool. Carpets and rugs were manufactured in the homes, in a number of towns and villages, and carpets were also manufactured by the Bedouins. Straw mats were manufactured by women at Et Tira and other small villages in or near the plains. One hundred twenty four of these straw mat handicrafts were still operating in 1927. The manufacture of iqals, purses, etc. was mainly a Bedouin occupation. Dyeing was carried out on a small scale in the textile centers. Needlework, embroidery, and lacemaking were common occupations of women at home in practically all towns and villages."<sup>35</sup>

THE TEXTILE INDUSTRIES

"The textile industries may be divided into old and modern. The old industries are mostly Arab, and include weaving, embroidery, lace making, textile dyeing and carpet making. In these industries simple tools are used. The most important branch of the old textile industry is weaving, which is centered in Majdal and Gaza. The Arab weaving industry in Majdal represents an investment of 14,200 Palestinian Pounds, uses about 700 looms and employs about 1,400 workers. The annual production of these looms comes to about 438,000 pieces, each 6.5 meters long and 45 centimeters wide. Weaving in Gaza employs about 60 laborers. Embroidery work and lace making are undertaken mainly in Ramallah and Bethlehem. Together, the Arab industries employ about 2,000 laborers."<sup>36</sup>

METAL INDUSTRIES

"...Three metal factories, two in Jaffa and one in Haifa. These factories were equipped with drilling machines, forgeries, and metal-foundries. They manufactured milling machinery, irrigation pumps (not motor engines) and olive oil presses; and undertook repair work. The two factories in Jaffa produced from 80 to 90 per cent of the water lifting plant required in the Jaffa district. Other metal industries were handicrafts such as blacksmiths, coppersmiths, tinsmiths, gold and silversmiths, cutters, etc."<sup>37</sup>

MANUFACTURE OF ARTICLES OF ORNAMENT

"Palestine has always been known for its manufacture of ornamental objects and sacred articles. Woodwork inlaid with mother-of-pearl, silver, etc., and the making of ornamental objects from olive-wood were undertaken by craftsmen in Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Beit Sahour and to a lesser extent in Jaffa and Gaza. Rosaries and crosses, fragile vases and other ornaments made of black stinkstone from the Dead Sea were manufactured by specialized craftsmen in Bethlehem. Articles of glass such as trinkets, rings, armlets, etc., were made mostly in Hebron. The articles under this heading have been extensively bought by tourists."<sup>38</sup>

THE TOBACCO INDUSTRY

"Before 1921 the cultivation of tobacco and the manufacture of cigarettes, etc., were under the control of the Turkish "Regie" Tobacco Monopoly, and no tobacco growing or manufacture was undertaken in Palestine. The monopoly was abolished in 1921, and the production of tobacco and the manufacture of cigarettes, cigars, etc., were permitted, subject to excise control."

Palestinian Arab firms in Haifa, Jaffa, Nablus, and Ramallah employed hundreds of workers. These Palestinian Arab tobacco firms "introduced experimental leaf tobacco growing stations in order to improve the quality and standard of Palestine's tobacco. To this end, leaf experts in tobacco plantation were brought to Palestine from Greece to train local growers in the most modern and efficient methods."<sup>39</sup>

The improvement of the quality of Palestinian-grown tobacco was paid for by Palestinian Arab firms, without financial assistance. Palestinian Arab firms were the leading tobacco manufacturers in Palestine, having well over half the trade in the country.

The number of licensed tobacco, tobac and snuff factories in 1937 was 16, distributed as follows:- tobacco and cigarettes, 12; cigars, 2; tobac, 1; snuff, 1. The industry is mostly in Arab hands. The chief factories were in 1936: the Karaman, Dick and Salti Ltd., Haifa, capital 150,000 Palestinian Pounds; The Arab Cigarette and Tobacco Factory Ltd., Nazareth, capital 40,000 Palestinian Pounds; Baddour Ltd., Haifa, capital 35,000 Palestinian Pounds; Dubek Ltd., Benei Beraq, capital 17,000 Palestinian Pounds; and the Maspero Freres Ltd., Jaffa. The output of tobacco and tobacco products during the last ten years is shown in the Table below. The industry depends upon both locally produced and imported tobacco. In 1936, 1,232,689 kilograms of tobacco and 4,178 kilograms of tobac were produced in Palestine, and 150,535 kilograms of tobacco leaves and 69,715 kilograms of tobac leaves were imported. Local production of tobacco leaves, however, has been greatly increasing. The product of 1936 is more than twice that of 1932.

Local manufacture of tobacco meets most of the local demand. Imports of manufactured tobacco products in 1937 were in kilograms as follows: Manufactured tobacco, 7,404; cigarettes, 83,441; cigars, 1,841; snuff, 744; manufactured tobac, 68, the total value of which amounted to 62,652 Palestinian Pounds. Exports of manufactured tobacco and tobac products are negligible. Their value amounted to 56 Palestinian Pounds in 1935, 34 Palestinian Pounds in 1936, and 116 Palestinian Pounds in 1937.<sup>40</sup>

the Haifa Silicate Brick Works, Haifa, and the 'Silicate' Brick Manufacturers, Ltd., Rishon le Tsiyon. Local lime and sand are used.

"Roofing tiles, flooring tiles and cement drainage pipes are also manufactured. There are two factories producing good quality tiles and a number manufacturing flooring tiles, colored and mosaic. The manufacture of drainage tiles has been developed chiefly as a result of the introduction of the Californian system of irrigation into most of the Palestinian orange groves. Among the most important factories working in 1936 were: the Palestine Ceramic Industry, Polak Bros., Haifa (tiles and pottery); Fadl-Allah Majdalani, Haifa (tiles, cement pipes and blocks); Syrian Orphanage, Jerusalem (bricks, tiles and blocks); Yusif Badran, Haifa (floor tiles).<sup>43</sup>

METHYLATED SPIRITS

"Methylated spirits are manufactured by three licensed factories, the largest being situated in Jaffa. The amounts of methylated spirits produced during 1932 to 1937 were as follows:-

1934	4937
1935	5933

"Importation of methylated spirits other than mineralized methylated spirits is prohibited."<sup>42</sup>

STONES, BRICKS AND TILES

"High-class building stone is available in various places in Palestine, but the cost of transportation has been a handicap to large-scale quarrying. Several comparatively large quarrying enterprises, however, have been established as a result of expansion in construction work, particularly in the building boom of 1933-1935. Chief among these enterprises working in 1936 were the Palestine Levant Quarries, Jerusalem, with a capital of 15,000 Palestinian Pounds, and the Sela Company, Jerusalem. The quarrying industry is mostly in the hands of the Arabs.

"Bricks are manufactured by a number of small factories and a few large ones. Of the latter working in 1936, there were

WOODWORKS

"The principal wood products are doors and windows and other building works, furniture and citrus boxes. Doors and windows, and to some extent furniture, are manufactured chiefly by carpentry shops, while citrus boxes and a considerable portion of furniture are manufactured by factories. The three most important furniture factories working in 1936 were: A. Krinitzi, Nahlat Ganini; 'Tirzah' Ltd., Rishon le Tsiyon (Jewish); and 'Progress,' Tel Aviv (Jewish). Other furniture factories working on a fairly large scale were: Kamel Geadah, Haifa; Tahboub Bros., Jaffa; 'Ali Dabbagh, Jaffa; and Jamil Wahbeh, Jerusalem (all Arab). The chief manufacturers of citrus boxes in 1936 were Haargaz Cooperative Society, Tel Aviv (Jewish), and Cahani Bros, Jaffa (Arab). The former also manufactures bus and truck bodies."<sup>44</sup>

LEATHER AND LEATHER GOODS

"The leather and leather goods industries in Palestine include tanning, shoemaking and the manufacture of handbags, pocketbooks, suitcases, belts and other fancy leather goods.

"Tanning. There are several fairly large tanneries using modern machinery and a considerable number of smaller undertakings. The principal factories working in 1936 were: Lekovitch Bros., Tel Aviv (Jewish); the Anglo-Palestine Leather Co., Yazur (Jewish); Wadie Dorkhum, Jaffa (Arab); and Kiriako Kiriaze, Jaffa (Arab). They manufacture mostly sole leather, principally from local hides. Attempts to produce high-grade upper leather have not been successful, owing to the fact that local hides are usually damaged by insects.

“Shoemaking. Shoemaking is a thriving industry. There are a number of medium- and small-size factories and a large number of workshops and shoemakers, of which roughly two thirds are Arab and one third Jewish.”<sup>45</sup>

PAPER AND CARDBOARD

“The paper and stationary industries include the manufacture of cardboard boxes, envelopes, carbon paper, typewriter ribbons, paper cups, paper bags for cement, and paraffin paper. The manufacture of cardboard boxes is an important auxiliary to the tobacco industry. The largest undertaking for the manufacture of cigarette boxes is the factory of Jabbour and Karkabi, Haifa, which employs about 50 workers. Paper and cardboard manufactures are made of imported paper and cardboard.”<sup>46</sup>

MISCELLANEOUS INDUSTRIES

“Of the miscellaneous industries, printing deserves special mention as a modern industry. The printing presses of Jerusalem were specially active. Twenty three of these pre-War printing presses were still working in 1927. Other industries were carpentry, tailoring, saddlery and harness-making, and the making of bread and cakes, confectionary, ice and aerated soda water, vehicles, valises and trunks, glassware, baskets, fishing nets, brooms, sieves, etc., almost all of which, with the exception of the manufacture of ice and perhaps some of the soda water, were handicrafts. Of the carpentry workshops, tailoring workshops and saddleries that were established before the War, 67, 45, and 13 respectively were still operating in 1927. Packsaddles were made mostly in Bethlehem. The glass industry was a specialty of Hebron, where craftsmen manufactured in addition to ornamental objects, dishes and jars for home use.”<sup>47</sup>

FISHING INDUSTRY

Palestinian Arabs were responsible for catching 3,041 tons of fish in 1944, 71% of the total for Palestine. Waters off Palestine contained a large variety of fish, and there were also fresh water fish. Following is a Table of the types of fish caught by Palestinians in 1944-1945.<sup>48</sup>

All fishing boats, nets and other equipment belonging to Palestinian Arabs were usurped by the Zionists in 1948, destroying the Palestinian fishing industry.

DAIRY INDUSTRY

Arab milk production in Palestine was estimated at 75,000,000 litres for 1945, 51% of the total for Palestine. Milk production had been increasing at an annual rate of 10% per annum.

POULTRY PRODUCTS

Palestinian Arabs produced 62% of all eggs in Palestine in 1945, or approximately 74,400,000 eggs. The poultry industry was constantly improving in Palestine and had undergone rapid expansion.

MEAT PRODUCTS

ANIMALS, SLAUGHTERED IN LOCAL AUTHORITIES' SLAUGHTERHOUSES, 1933-1944

It is estimated that Arab cattle slaughtered was 89% of the total, or 40,438 animals in 1944.

It is estimated that Arab sheep slaughtered was 94% of the total, or 35,260 animals in 1944.

It is estimated that Arabs goats slaughtered was 98% of the total, or 35,260 animals in 1944.

It is estimated that Arab camels slaughtered was 100% of the total, or 6,740 animals in 1944.

It is estimated that Arab pigs slaughtered was 100% of the total, or 15,628 pigs in 1944.

TOURIST INDUSTRY

Being the Holy Land for the majority of the people of the world, Palestine was a land of religious pilgrimage, and thus had a well-developed tourist industry.

The growth of tourism was naturally adversely affected by World War II and the partition of Palestine in 1948. The Zionists have disrupted that industry, which would have grown proportionally with the increase in air travel.

As it was, before partition, hotel and restaurant trades in Palestine were growing at a rate of 25% per annum.<sup>50</sup>

The climate of Palestine was also conducive to the development of leisure oriented industries, a growth stifled by Israel which primarily uses tourism to cheat foreign Jews into contributing to meet Israeli deficits and to influence foreign politicians into giving aid to the Zionist government.

Zionist propaganda is built on a total tissue of lies and is so pervasive that even experienced observers are sometimes astounded at the real facts. For example, the Zionists claim Palestine as a land of "Religious Pilgrimage" for Jews as well as for Christians and Muslims.

The actual statistics of visitors to Palestine, citing their purposes as a "Religious Pilgrimage," in the first six months of 1947 (the last period for which the data is available) is as follows: Christians 4,225; Muslims 161; Jews 1.

For the full year of 1946 the figures of those visiting Palestine for the purpose of "Religious Pilgrimage" were as follows: Christians 5,514; Muslims 210; Jews 0.

THE CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY

The construction industry in Palestine was more Arab than Jewish. Between 1931 and 1939 there was a 73% increase in the number of Arabs employed in the building trades, from 10,000 to 17,000. During that same period the Palestinian Arab total population increased by 23%. This differential shows the dramatic growth in Palestinian Arab construction. In the post-World War II era, there was a building boom in Palestine.

This is graphically illustrated by the doubling of consumption of cement in Palestine from 140,235 tons in 1945 to 278,216 tons in 1946.

Although there was a building boom throughout both the Jewish and Arab sectors, the greatest increase in building was undertaken by Palestinian Arabs. In Jaffa, for example, 34,364 square meters of building took place in 1945, and 133,407 square meters of building took place in 1946, an increase of 377%.<sup>51</sup>

In 1945 the Government of Palestine compiled statistics of the private buildings authorized by the municipalities and which were constructed between 1936 and 1944. The result was that the total number of buildings constructed by the Arabs in that period was 21,267 and the number of buildings constructed by Jews was 7,693. The following is a list of the number of buildings constructed in various localities<sup>52</sup>:

"QUARRYING and stone-cutting were carried on mostly in the Jerusalem district, chiefly around Bethlehem. The building trade in the country drew largely from this locality for materials and skilled masons."<sup>53</sup>

All of the construction equipment and materials owned by Palestinian Arabs as well as construction in progress and newly completed buildings were usurped in 1948 in 80% of the territory of Palestine.

COMPARISON BETWEEN ARAB AND JEWISH ECONOMIES IN PALESTINE

Economically, the Palestinian Arabs had been developing at an extraordinary rate made possible by the high profitability accompanying their productivity. The Jewish settlements in Palestine were unable to compete in profitability with the Palestinian Arabs. The Jewish social and economic structure was dependent upon outside subsidies both for capital expenditures and for operating expenses.

Contrary to the myths created by the Zionists, the Jewish settlements in Palestine were never self-supporting. The only profitable sector was comprised of those private Jewish citrus growers who engaged Arab labor, and British Colonial Office records show that these farmers were often the victims of murder, arson and extortion perpetrated by Zionist terrorists because of their employment of Arab labor.

The Jewish National Fund (Keren Hayesod Ltd.) is illustrative of the unprofitability of the Jewish settlements in Palestine. At least 63% of the donations received by the Keren Hayesod Ltd. between its founding in 1921 and 1945 was utilized to subsidize annual operating expenses. "The bulk of these donations derived from the United States of America, which provided 60-65% of the total."<sup>54</sup>

In contrast, the Palestinian Arab economy received no outside assistance, yet had extraordinary real growth based upon high profitability and reinvestment.

This is amply illustrated by the Palestinian Arab development of the Negev. By 1935 Palestinians were farming 2,109,234 dunums in the Negev, while Jewish landholdings in the Negev in 1946 did not exceed 21,000 dunums.<sup>55</sup>

The desert did not bloom because of financial contributions to the Zionists by naive American Jews, but because of the industriousness and profitability of the Palestinian Arab economy.

The Palestine Government made a comparison between Arab and Jewish industry in the survey it submitted for the Anglo-American Committee. It stated:

Taking the twelve industries together, the net output per head in Jewish undertakings was 87 per cent higher than in Arab undertakings. At the same time, however, labour costs were 107 per cent higher, with the result that equivalent expenditures on labour yielded 10 per cent more net output in Arab industry than in Jewish industry in spite of the fact that Jewish labour was assisted by 70 per cent more capital per head than Arab labour. One would expect that the enterprises which are most amply equipped with capital resources would show the highest net output per Pound of labour employed and this in fact is found to be the case if the communities are considered separately. In both Arab and Jewish undertakings grain and cereal mills employed the highest value of capital per person engaged. In both communities this industry showed the greatest net output per Pound of labour (if the tobacco industry is excepted). In the same way, Arab weaving establishments employed less capital per head than any other industry in the Arab sector and were second last in the scale of productivity per unit of expenditure on labour. The Jewish industries employing least capital per head were those engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes and those in the light metal trades. Both of these industries (together with boat construction) were lowest in the scale of productivity per unit of expenditure on labour. When the corresponding industries in the two communities are compared, however, the amount of capital per head is seen to be much less decisive in its influence on the productivity of units of expenditure on labour. It is seen that in seven of the industries the productivity of labour power purchased is higher in Arab undertakings than in Jewish undertakings. The figures range from grain and cereal mills, where Arab labour was 2.28 times as effective as Jewish labour having regard to its cost, to shoes and boots, where Arab labour was 1.05 times as effective as Jewish labour.

There is little doubt that the superior investment in Jewish industry and the superior skill of Jewish labour do not in some cases result in a corresponding superiority in output because the price at which these factors are purchased is higher than is justified by their greater productivity. It would appear, therefore, that unless these Jewish industries can substantially reduce their factor costs they will be at disadvantage not only in the case of competition from imported goods but even in the case of serious competition from Arab undertakings in Palestine itself.<sup>56</sup>

The aforementioned data and statistics show beyond reasonable doubt that the Palestinian Arabs enjoyed a highly developed, rapidly growing economy and a developed society.

If this growth had not been arrested in 1948, today Palestine would be on the same socio-economic level as Western Europe.

Of all the Mandates of the League of Nations, the Palestinian Arabs were the most developed on a per capita basis.

An advanced nation was destroyed by the Zionists, replacing a socially developed nation which was economically viable with an artificial colonial entity which is an economic disaster dependent upon outside assistance to survive.

BANKING IN PALESTINE

In 1945 there were five major Jewish banks and two major Arab banks, namely, the Arab Bank, Ltd. and the Arab National Bank, Ltd. In the Survey of Palestine, the paid-up capital of the Arab Bank, Ltd. on October 31, 1945, was 815,296 Palestine Pounds and the paid-up capital of the Arab National Bank, Ltd., was 600,456 Palestine Pounds, a total of 1,415,752 Palestine Pounds, while the total paid-up capital of the five Jewish Banks on the same date was 1,088,704. The total deposits in the two Arab banks on October 31, 1945 were 6,970,728 Palestine Pounds while the total deposits on the same day in the five Jewish banks were 7,418,039 Palestine Pounds.

The survey explains the development of Arab banks as follows:

The rapid development of certain local banks during the war is noteworthy. The following table shows the paid-up capital, reserve funds, total deposits and total advances and bills discounted of the Arab Bank, Ltd. and the Arab National Bank Ltd. at the end of each year, commencing with the figures (in Palestinian Pounds) for the month of August, 1939.<sup>57</sup>

	Paid-up capital	Reserve funds	Total deposits	Total Advances & bills discounted
31. 8.39	209,494	32,205	376,180	456,816
31.12.39	209,506	34,309	299,223	462,617
31.12.40	209,790	37,848	245,619	412,064
31.12.41	209,818	38,577	532,515	499,790
31.12.42	213,634	40,859	1,330,953	992,377
31.12.43	480,508	148,971	3,430,197	2,392,268
31.12.44	1,120,000	559,731	5,067,421	3,311,176
31.10.45	1,415,752	977,877	6,970,728	5,256,214

It will be noted that the total deposits of these two banks increased from 376,180 Palestinian Pounds in August, 1939, to 6,970,728 Palestinian Pounds at the 31st October, 1945. This is explained by the fact that the Arab fella (farmer) who had enjoyed, and continues to enjoy, very high prices for his products, has not only liquidated his borrowings from moneylenders, but has accumulated substantial amounts in cash which only to a small extent have been deposited with banks and the remainder hoarded. These favorable economic conditions and the exceptionally high dividends distributed by Arab banks have enabled them to place new shares on the market and to raise their paid-up capital from 209,494 Palestinian Pounds at the 31st August, 1939, to 1,415,752 Palestinian Pounds at the 31st October, 1945, i.e. an increase of about 600%.

According to Z. Abramowitz in his study, Arab Economy in Palestine in 1945, published by the Zionist Organization of America:

In 1944 as well as in 1945 the Arab Bank paid a dividend of 24% on its shares. The magnitude of this dividend is indicative of the normal nature of the profits of the Arab economy before and during the war. High profits were characteristic of Arab trade, Arab industry and other branches of their economy.<sup>58</sup>

PALESTINE ARAB EDUCATION

The educational ethic among Palestinian Arabs is very strong, and as a result on a per capita basis Palestinian Arabs have a tradition of literacy and scholastic attainment at all levels.

The private schools in Palestine reflected the flavor of international interest in the Holy Land. A Christian Orthodox Girls' School in Beit Jala, near Bethlehem, was founded in 1858 by a Russian benefactress. St. George's British Anglican School for boys was founded in Jerusalem in 1899. Najah School was founded in Nablus in 1918, and evolved into the present Najah University on the West Bank. The College des Freres in Jerusalem was founded by the Franciscan Order in 1875. These were but a few of many private schools in Palestine.<sup>59</sup>

In 1914 there were 379 private Muslim schools, 95 elementary schools and three secondary schools in Palestine.<sup>60</sup>

In 1947-48 there were 868 schools for Arab students in Palestine: 555 Arab public schools, 131 Muslim Arab private non-governmental schools and 182 Christian private non-governmental schools. There were a total of 146,883 Arab students and 4,600 Arab teachers. Palestinian students in the American university in Beirut, in Egyptian, Iraqi, European and American universities were estimated to number more than 3,000. They studied law, medicine, engineering, accounting, education and other subjects.

The following Tables show the growth of Arab education from 1920 until 1947 in the Arab public system (government schools) and the Arab non-governmental schools (Muslim and Christian).<sup>61</sup>

The Arab Educational System included elementary and high schools, schools for training teachers such as the Government Arab College and the Women Training College, technical instruction and agricultural education.

In spite of the fact that in 1948 Palestinians were reduced to a refugee nation in exile, their ratio of university graduates and professionals is higher than that of any other Arab, Asian or African nation. For the last 40 years Palestinian teachers, doctors, lawyers and civil servants have played a great part in the advancement of Arab countries in the Arabian Gulf and the Kingdom of Jordan. Up to the present day, Palestinians occupy important positions in all of these countries.

HEALTH SERVICES IN PALESTINE

The level of health services in Palestine was very high, both for Arabs and Jews.

In 1944 there were 2,521 medical doctors in Palestine, 742 dentists and 496 licensed pharmacists.<sup>62</sup>

Government, Municipal and Voluntary Hospitals in Palestine had a nominal bed strength of 3,280 in 1944, in which total Arab hospital admissions were 32,278.<sup>63</sup>

Government, Municipal and Voluntary Dispensaries and Clinics in Palestine in 1944 treated 309,808 Arab patients.<sup>64</sup>

The quantity and quality of health services available in Palestine was extremely advanced on a per capita basis, attested to by the large number of Palestinian Arab doctors and other health care professionals in exile.

The Zionists destroyed the Palestinian Arab health service infrastructure, scattering these professionals to the four winds.

The advanced level of health care in Palestine by 1944 is indicated by comparing the number of physicians per capita with the number of physicians per capita in the United States in 1980.

In 1944 Palestine had 1,697,970 inhabitants and 2,521 medical doctors, or one physician per 674 inhabitants. In 1980 the United States had 226,504,825 inhabitants and 395,103 physicians, or one physician per 573 persons.

In 1980 Alabama had one physician per 853 inhabitants, Arkansas had one physician per 897 inhabitants, Georgia had one physician per 731 inhabitants, Idaho had one physician per 970 inhabitants, Indiana had one physician per 824 inhabitants. Thus Palestine, although it had in 1944 slightly fewer physicians per capita than the U.S. had in 1980, had a much higher ratio of physicians to the population than that of many states in the U.S.

The Palestine Arab medical profession was highly sophisticated. It was on the level of a developed country, as is shown, for example, in the fact that the Palestine Arab Medical Association published a bi-monthly scientific journal, The Palestine Arab Medical Journal.

THE PALESTINE ARAB LABOR MOVEMENT AND TRADE UNIONS, DECEMBER 1945

The Survey of Palestine dealt extensively with the Palestine Arab labor movement and trade unions as follows:

The Arab trade union movement is almost identical with the Arab labour movement as a whole. While it is true that politics play a conspicuous part in any proceedings of Arab trade unions, there is as yet no clear line of demarcation within the movement between industrial and political action. That is true, in a sense, of all labour movements in Palestine, but, as far as Jewish labour is concerned, definite political parties have a place, in the case of the Histadruth within its own framework. Certain "intellectual" groups among the Arabs may be regarded as being associated with the Arab labour movement, and indeed certain members of these groups have played a part in promoting Arab trade unionism. It may be said, in short, that there is an Arab labour movement, the principal functions of which are trade unions. Little account is here taken of the innumerable cooperatives in the Arab community as, with few exceptions, they have been formed with no conception of organizing labour as such.

The Arab trade unions cannot boast the institutional achievements of the Histadruth. They have attempted nothing in agriculture, and very little in the way of direct production. They lack resources and few of their officials have had experience in promoting social institutions or running organized bodies. Nevertheless, the Arab trade union movement is important and it is already exerting an appreciable influence in the economic and social, if not political, life of the country. Arab economy is predominantly agricultural. The influence of Arab trade unionism is necessarily confined mainly to the towns. Arab urban wage-earners, as a whole, are now directly affected by the activities of the Arab trade unions. Some degree of organization is apparent in most industries, especially so where considerable numbers of workers are employed in one concern, e.g. War Department installations, Government employment (especially in the Palestine Railways), the oil refineries and in transport.

Perhaps the main achievements of Arab trade unionism have been in securing trade agreements or enjoying the benefits of Government arbitrations awards in a substantial number of industries and undertakings. This development among Arab labour is comparatively new. Prior to 1942, it is doubtful whether as many as half a dozen agreements had been reached in the Arab industries of Palestine.

It is not possible to measure to what extent the growth of Arab trade unionism has been promoted by the establishment of the Government Department of Labour in 1942. It has been one of the functions of the Department, in accordance with current colonial policy, to assist the development of the Arab unions and advise them in their activities. Many difficulties hampering the establishment of Arab trade unions have been removed, and they now show a confidence which formerly was apparently wanting. Nevertheless, other factors have been operative, such as the rapid expansion of industry under war conditions, the rise in living costs and, perhaps to some extent, the influence of the Histadruth.

Arab trade unionism is not new. The Palestine Arab Workers Society, the one body with a relatively close-knit organization, was founded as long ago as 1925. It has had a continuous existence since that time. The fortunes of the Society fluctuated considerably, but from the summer of 1942 steady progress was shown. The membership and number of affiliated societies steadily increased, the society being established on a geographical basis, town by town. At the Nablus conference on 5th August, 1945, which will be further mentioned below, 17 societies were represented. The total paid up membership at that date may be conservatively estimated as having reached a figure of 15,000.

The Palestine Arab Workers Society was also the first Arab labor organization to engage in economic activities — if we exclude the Nablus Arab Labour Society, which is not a labour organization in an ordinary sense of the term, but rather an association of cooperatives. The Palestine Arab Workers Society itself controls a number of small registered cooperative societies, both consumers' and producers', and operates a savings and loans society and an employment exchange. Most of these enterprises are located in Haifa where are also the head offices of the Society.

A split, however, occurred in the ranks of the Society following the Nablus conference of 5th August, 1945, the causes of which relate back to the autumn of 1942, when a rival body called the Federation of Arab Trade Unions and Labour societies was found in Haifa. It succeeded in establishing a number of unions in individual large undertakings, and took special care in organizing skilled workers. The membership was never large and remained stable at a figure approaching 2,000. Latterly, the membership has declined, as the declared policy of the Federation has been to seek absorption in the Palestine Arab Workers Society, although without diminishing its influence. Workers were encouraged not to break away from the Palestine Arab Society, and in fact many who were already inclined to enroll in the Federation were told to join the other body.

The Federation's organizing activities were confined to Haifa and the surrounding industrial zone. The influence of the Federation, however, was much more widespread and the officials of the newer Palestine Arab Workers Society branches in Jerusalem, Jaffa and the south of Palestine sympathized with the line of policy of the Federation. A newspaper, Al Ittihad, to some extent an organ of the Federation, was widely distributed and read in Palestine Arab Workers Society branches outside Haifa.

The rift came at the Nablus conference of 5th August, 1945, when exception was taken by the southern branches of the Palestine Arab Workers Society to the method of selection of the delegates to attend the World Trade Union Conference, eventually held in Paris in September. Arab labour had already been represented at the preliminary World Trade Union Conference held in London in the previous February. The Palestine Arab Workers Society was represented by a delegate and observer and the Federation by an observer only. At the Nablus conference an attempt by the "Haifa Centre" of the Palestine Arab Workers Society sought to make the delegate in question once again the leading representative at the Paris Conference and they were successful. The larger southern branches forthwith seceded from the Society.

The next move was taken at a conference held in Jaffa on 19th August, 1945. It was attended by representatives of the seceding Palestine Arab Workers' Society branches, the Federation of Arab Trades Unions and Labour Societies, and a number of other independent groups of workers some of whom had not been previously organized. The majority of organized Arab workers were represented at the conference. An Executive Committee of the Arab Workers Congress, comprising six members of some standing in the unions, was elected. The tasks given to the Executive Committee were:

- (a) to draft a constitution for the Arab Workers Congress;
- (b) to convene a constituent assembly of the Congress after a defined period of time; and
- (c) To act provisionally as the directing body of the new majority movement.

Al Ittihad became initially the organ of the Congress, although it is planned to restore the independence of the paper, which is primarily a political one, and substitute in its place a Congress bulletin. The Federation of Arab Trade Unions and Labour Societies ceased to be active as an independent organization and voluntarily relinquished its authority to the Congress.

The Jaffa conference also appointed two representatives to attend the Paris World Trade Union Conference. One of them had already been the representative of the Federation of Arab Trade Unions and Labour Societies at the London Conference. In point of fact, the two representatives elected appeared in Paris in the name of the Federation, as the invitations to attend had been addressed to that body. The representative of the majority Arab trade union movement sitting on the General Council of the World Trade Union Federation appointed at Paris in September, 1945, was actually there in the name of the Federation of Arab Trade Unions and Labour Societies.

It will be noted that the respective roles of the Palestine Arab Workers Society and Federation representatives who attended the London Conference were reversed at the Paris Conference. The delegate at the Paris Conference was a Federation man; the Palestine Arab Workers Society representatives were observers only. The Federation (Arab Workers Congress) representatives succeeded in convincing the Credentials Committee of the Conference that they were able to speak for the majority of organized Arab labour. The Federation delegate is one of the three Palestine trade union representatives appointed to the General Council of the World Trade Union Federation. The two others represent the Histadruth and the Palestine Labour League.

The aim of the leaders of the movement directed by the Executive Committee of the Arab Trade Union Congress is to achieve unity in the Arab trade union movement. They aspire to reach an understanding with the Palestine Arab Workers Society, but the latter so far is not reacting favorably to the proposal. It is early yet to foresee the future trend of events.

The present total of all organized Arab workers may be taken to be between 15,000 and 20,000 members.<sup>65</sup>

The Palestinian Arab labor movement was very advanced compared with other countries in the Middle East. It differed fundamentally from the Jewish labor movement in Palestine as follows:

1. The Palestinian Arab labor movement was primarily concerned with wages, working conditions and the health and well-being of its members, whereas the Jewish labor movement was largely motivated by political Zionist and Socialist ideology;

2. The Palestinian Arab labor movement endeavoured to reach equitable agreements with Arab employers, whereas the Jewish labor movement in Palestine endeavoured to replace private employers with businesses owned by the labor movement itself;

3. The Palestinian Arab labor movement was modeled on the American trade union concept of recognizing that the health and growth of the businesses where they were employed was important, whereas the Zionist labor movement was organized on the Marxist principle of eliminating employers in due course;

4. The Palestinian Arab labor movement was nationalist, but not racist, whereas the Jewish labor movement was, through the Zionist ideology, racist and colonialist in purpose and activity.

The Palestine Arab labor movement was a growing pool of skilled labor, whereas the Jewish labor movement stifled the growth of the economy by reducing even their labor-owned enterprises to near bankruptcy, requiring subsidies from abroad to cover enormous annual deficits.

The Zionists destroyed the independent Palestinian Arab trade union movement.

PALESTINIAN ARAB SKILLED LABOR IN PUBLIC WORKS, RAILWAYS, PORTS, AND GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS

One of the fictions perpetrated by the Zionists is that Jews provided the skilled labor in Palestine because of the alleged incompetence of the Palestinian Arabs. This calumny is disproved by the statistics.<sup>66</sup>

In 1942/43 Palestinian skilled labor worked 2,176,933 man-days, as compared with 205,400 man-days of Jewish skilled labor.

In 1942/43 Palestinian Arabs worked 512,783 man-days of skilled contract labor in the Railways, as compared with 27 Jewish man-days.

In 1942/43 Palestinian Arabs worked 275,000 man-days in the Port of Haifa, as compared with 21,600 Jewish man-days.

In 1942/43 Palestinian Arabs worked 152,487 man-days in the Department of Posts, Telegraphs and Telephones, as compared with 60,565 Jewish man-days.

In 1942/43 Palestinian Arabs worked 77,169 man-days in the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries, as compared with 8,999 Jewish man-days.

In 1942/43 Palestinian Arabs worked 45,408 man-days in the Department of Forests, as compared with 1,310 Jewish man-days.

In 1942/43 Palestinian Arabs worked 5,516 man-days in the Department of Surveys, as compared with 125 Jewish man-days.

In 1942/43 6,651 Palestinian Arab man-days were worked in the Department of Civil Aviation.

The Municipality of Jerusalem employed 71,169 Arab man-days as compared with 38,272 Jewish man-days in 1942-43. The Municipality of Haifa employed 174,548 man-days as compared with 32,428 Jewish man-days in 1942/43. The Municipality of Jaffa employed 67,469 days of Arab labor as compared with 7,807 Jewish man-days in 1942/43.

These skilled jobs were filled by Palestinian Arab workers who met the requirements of the British Administration. All of these skilled laborers lost employment following the Zionist expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs in 1948 and were reduced to a refugee existence.

THE ARABIC PRESS IN PALESTINE

In 1908 the Palestinian Arab journal Al-Karmil was founded in Haifa. In January 1911 the daily newspaper Filastin was founded. By 1945 there were two major newspaper dailies in Palestine.<sup>67</sup>

The government of Palestine in its Survey of Palestine listed the following Arabic newspapers and magazines<sup>68</sup>:

Al Akhbar al Kanisiyeh (The Church News): An Arabic Monthly. Characteristics: Protestant church news; controlled by Deacon Marmura.

Al Bushra (The Good News): An Arabic Monthly. Characteristics: Muslim religious affairs.

Al Difa'a (The Defence): An Arabic Daily. Characteristics: The leading Muslim Arab daily newspaper in Palestine, having the largest circulation and greatest influence. It started as a radical nationalist daily some twelve years ago. In the past few years it has maintained an attitude of independence with regard to local party politics and is gradually developing into a nationalist independent daily following the pattern of Al-Ahram in Cairo.

Al Ghad (Tomorrow): An Arabic Bi-weekly. Characteristics: Scientific, social, cultural and political. Left wing. Organ of the Arab Intellectual League.

Al Hadaf (The Goal): An Arabic Weekly. Characteristics: Educational, scouting, literary, social, economic, sports and theatre.

Al Ittihad (Union): An Arabic Weekly. Characteristics: Organ of the Arab Workers Society.

Al Jeel (The Century): An Arabic Weekly. Characteristics: Literary, national and social.

Al Mihmaz (The Spur): An Arabic Weekly. Characteristics: Literary, national and social.

Al Miyah Al Hayyah (The Living Waters): An Arabic Monthly. Characteristics: Political, social and literary. Left wing.

Al Muntada (The Forum): An Arabic Weekly. Characteristics: Cultural, general and radio; issued by the P.I.O.

Al Mustakbal (The Future): An Arabic Weekly. Characteristics: Social, political, economic and literary.

Al Rabitah (The Link): An Arabi Bi-monthly. Characteristics: Religious and social matters.

Al Sirat al Mustaqim (The Straight Path): An Arabic Daily. Characteristics: Political, economic and literary.

Al Urdon (The Jordan): Arabic, twice-weekly. Characteristics: Political, economic and literary.

Al Wafa' (Loyalty): An Arabic Weekly. Characteristics: Political, economic and literary.

Al Wihda (Unity): An Arabic Weekly. Characteristics: Political, social and cultural. Independent political views.

Falastin (Palestine): An Arabic Daily. Characteristics: For some time pro-Mufti; later an organ of the Istiklal Party. For the past few years it has adopted an attitude of marked neutrality and independence in its treatment of local party affairs and its policy seems to be guided by public opinion and nationalist sentiments.

Haqiqat Ul Amar (The True Fact): An Arabic Weekly. Characteristics: Political, economic and cultural. Published by the Histadrut.

Palcor News Bulletin: Arabic, three times a week. Characteristics: News.

Palestine Arab Medical Journal: Arabic, Bi-monthly. Characteristics: Published by the Palestine Arab Medical Association.

Review of the Chamber of Commerce, Haifa: Arabic Quarterly. Characteristics: Commercial and economic. News of the Chamber.

Other newspapers were published in Palestine for a short time. They were:

Jaridat Al Jamia Al Arabiah (The Arab League Newspaper), 1927-1935.

Alsirat Al Mustakim (The Straight Path), 1924-1928.

Majalat Al Arab (The Arabic Magazine), 1932-1934.

CULTURAL ADVANCEMENT OF THE PALESTINE ARABS

Contrary to the Zionist assertions that Palestine was a cultural backwater, Palestine was a dynamic center of Arab culture, producing many scholars and authors. Between 1919 and 1944, 209 books were published in Palestine, while many more works by Palestine Arabs were published in Beirut, Damascus and Cairo, as well as in England, America and France.

Some leading Palestinian scholars and authors during the recent past in Palestine were:<sup>69</sup>

Yusuf Diya-uddin Pasha al-Khalidi was a noted scholar in the 19th century who lectured at the University of Vienna. He wrote the first Arabic-Kurdish dictionary.

Khalil Sakakini was a distinguished scholar and essayist. He was the founder of the Dusturiyah School in Jerusalem in 1909 and its headmaster. Among his books was Readings in Philology and Literature.

Ruhi al-Khalidi was a pioneer in modern historiography in the late 19th and early 20th century. He wrote, among other works, The Eastern Question, and A Comparative Study of Arabic and French Literature.

Adil Zu'aiter was a lawyer and translator from French into Arabic. He translated works of Rousseau, Voltaire, Anatole France, Montesquieu and Lamartine.

Ahmad Samih al-Khalidi, who held a degree in Psychology from the American University of Beirut, was the author of several volumes on pedagogy that became standard textbooks in several Arab countries. He also translated into Arabic works by Maria Montessori and the German psychologist Wilhelm Stekel.

Khalil Baydas was a Russian scholar and pioneer of the modern Palestinian novel. As early as 1898 he translated some of the works of Tolstoy and Pushkin into Arabic.

Ishak Musa Husseini held a degree from the School of Oriental Studies, London University, and was the author of several works on Islamic and Arab history in addition to a novel, The Diaries of a Hen.

Abdurrahman Bushnaq was a graduate of the Arab College in Jerusalem and of Cambridge University whose publications include a translation into Arabic of The Splendid Spur by Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch.

Qadrî Tuqan from Nablus was a mathematician and the author of a history of Arab science.

George Antonius was the author of The Arab Awakening, a history highly acclaimed in England and the United States. In 1930 he became Middle Eastern Associate at the Institute of World Affairs in New York.

Francis Khayat was the author of Lectures in Mercantile Law.

Is'af al-Nashashibi was the author of Modern Science and Us.

Anbarah Salam al-Khalidi was the translator of Homer's The Odyssey.

Faidi al-Alami was an Islamic scholar of the late 19th and early 20th century who wrote a concordance to the Holy Koran.

Mrs. Matiel Moghannam was a Palestinian Arab feminist leader who wrote a book published in London in 1937, The Arab Woman and the Palestine Problem.

Salim Katul, a teacher in Jerusalem, was the author of a series of textbooks in Arabic on the natural sciences.

Mohammad Izat Darwazah wrote several books from 1950-51 about the Arab Renaissance and Arab Nationalism.

Mustapha Murad Al Dabagh wrote an historical and geographical encyclopedia.

In 1923 Omar Alsaleh, Al Barghouty and Khalil Totah wrote books on the history of Palestine and studies of Arab customs and folklore.

Wadi Al Bustani wrote a book about the Palestine Mandate in 1936 entitled, It is Null and Void.

In 1936 Amin Akl, Ibrahim Najim and Abu Nasr wrote a book about the struggle of the Palestinians.

In 1937 Issa Alsifri wrote a book about Arab Palestinians between Zionism and the Mandate.

In 1946 Najib Sadaqah wrote a book on the problem of Palestine.

In 1932 Mohammad Ali Taher wrote a book on Nazarat Al Shura.

In 1939 Ahmad Tarbeen wrote a book, Palestine, Zionism and Colonialism. He also wrote a book containing his lectures on the history of Palestine 1936-45.

Musa Al Alami wrote The Lesson of Palestine, 1949.

Thabit al-Khalidi was the author of a chemistry textbook.

Wasfi Anabtawi was the author of several geography textbooks.

Sa'id B. Hamadeh, Professor of Applied Economics, American University of Beirut, wrote Economic Organization of Palestine in 1938.

Sami Wafa Dajjani, formerly Chemical Engineer of the Palestine Potash Company, wrote The History of the Dead Sea.

Basim Faris wrote Electric Power in Syria and Palestine in 1936.

Notable Palestinian Arab poets included Ibrahim Tuqan, Issam Abbasi, Muhammad Adnani, Jalal Zurayq, and Kamal Nasir among many others.

The above list is only representative of Palestinian Arab scholars and authors who made significant cultural contributions during the years leading up to 1948. It is by no means exhaustive, but suffices to illustrate the qualitative level of culture among the Palestinian Arabs.

THE HOLY PLACES OF PALESTINE

The following description of the Christian, Muslim and Jewish holy places in Palestine are produced verbatim from pages 120-129 of the Supplement to Survey of Palestine.<sup>70</sup>

The following notes on the Holy Places give special emphasis to the religious interests in Palestine of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam.

It is not intended to refer, in these notes, to the centuries-old disputes and controversies regarding the differences of creed and origin of the various confessions of Faith, or claims to rights by different sects within the same shrine or at the same site in Palestine.

The notes are confined to a very summary record of the connections with Palestine of the three great monotheistic faiths, each of which honours the Patriarch Abraham, the Friend of God, who lived in Palestine and is buried in the cave of Machpelah at Hebron.

CHRISTIANITY: CHRISTIAN HOLY PLACES

Christians throughout the world regard Palestine with special veneration as the place where the thirty-three years of Christ's life were spent. From Bethlehem, in the south, to Capernaum, in the north, from the Jordan River to Emmaus, the land is dotted with shrines and sites associated with the life of Christ.

It was in Bethlehem that Jesus was born, and that the shepherds came to worship Him. These events are commemorated by the great basilica of the Church of the Nativity, built by Constantine about 330 A.D. and rebuilt by Justinian in its present form. It is one of the oldest Christian churches in the world.

There are many parts of Galilee associated with the Holy Family, and the early years of the life of Jesus — Nazareth, where the Boy lived with His parents, the well where He and His Mother drew water, the Synagogue where His teachings angered the inhabitants, and the neighbouring cliff from which the mob threatened to throw Him down; Cana of Galilee (Kafr Kanna), where His first miracle was performed; the shores of the Lake Tiberias, including the Synagogue of Capernaum, where many of the scenes of His early ministry took place and where miracles were performed. Situated near the Lake is the scene of the Sermon on the Mount, or the Beatitudes, of the Feeding of the Multitude, of His walking on the waters and of one of His appearances, after His resurrection, to certain of His disciples. The summit of Mount Tabor, situated to the south-east of Nazareth, has long been venerated as the place of His transfiguration and the revelation of His Glory to two disciples, Peter and John.

It is at and around Jerusalem, that we find the greatest number of shrines and sites associated with the Christian faith. On account of the importance of Jerusalem to the Christians of the world, there are established in the City ecclesiastical organisations representing all the more important confessions of the Christian faith, including three Patriarchs and the Custos of Terra Sancta.

It was in Jerusalem that the last instructions of Christ to His disciples were given, directing them to go forth and preach the gospel in every land. After His Resurrection, it was in Jerusalem that Jesus directed that "repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name, among all nations, beginning from Jerusalem."

It was at Jerusalem, in the house of Mark (now identified with the Church of St. Mark), or at Mount Zion, that the early Christians first met for worship.

Amongst the places of special importance to Christians in and around Jerusalem, are:

The Mount of Olives, the Garden of Gethsemane, and the place of the Passion of Christ, the Upper Chamber of the Last Supper, the Judgment Hall of Pontius Pilate, the Via Dolorosa, Calvary, and the Place of Crucifixion, the Stone of Unction (where the Body of Christ was laid after being taken down from the Cross), the Tomb, and the place of Resurrection, and the place of Ascension on the Mount of Olives. In addition, many other sites connected with the life and teaching of Christ exist in the vicinity of Jerusalem.

Places of special interest and pilgrimage to Christians outside Jerusalem include:

'Ein Karim, where Mary, the Mother of Jesus, visited Her cousin Elizabeth, and was recognised as the future Mother of Christ. John the Baptist was born at 'Ein Karim and performed the ministry on the River Jordan, where he baptised Jesus. Between Jerusalem and the Jordan, on a high ridge, is the site known as the Hill of Temptation, where Jesus was tempted by the devil for a period of forty days. At Bethany (El 'Eizariya village), Christ raised Lazarus from the dead, and from here He began His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. It was at Emmaus, on the hills west of Jerusalem, that the Risen Christ revealed Himself to certain of His followers.

The following list gives some details of the more important Christian Religious Sites in the country, at which special ceremonies are held periodically:

JERUSALEM DISTRICT

Jerusalem Old City: Church of the Holy Sepulchre, which includes the Place of Crucifixion, the Stone of Unction, the place of Resurrection, the Grotto of the Finding, or Invention, of the Cross, and many other lesser sites.

The Judgment Hall, the Stations of the Cross along the Via Dolorosa, the Cathedral of St. James, the Church of St. Mark.

Mount Sion: The Chamber of the Last Supper.

The Mount of Olives and the Kidron Valley: The place of the Ascension, the Garden of Gethsemane, the Tomb of the Virgin Mary, Bethany (the Raising of Lazarus).

Jericho: Place of Baptism, the Mount of Temptation.

Bethlehem: The Church of the Nativity, with the Grotto of the Manger, the Grotto of St. Jerome, the Field of the Sheperds.

'Ein Karim: The traditional birthplace of St. John the Baptist, and the place of the Visitation of the Virgin Mary to Her cousin Elizabeth.

El Qubeiba (Emmaus): The House of Cleopas.

GALILEE — ACRE DISTRICT

Nazareth: The Well, the place of Annunciation, the place of Precipitation.

Mount Tabor: The place of the Transfiguration.

The Area of the Sea of Galilee, or Lake Tiberias: Including the site of Capernaum, of the miracle of the Feeding of the Multitude, and of Jesus' walking on the water.

SAMARIA DISTRICT

Nablus: Jacob's Well.

Shrines not connected with the life of Jesus, but venerated by Christians:-

Jaffa: Tabitha's Tomb, House of Simon the Tanner.

Lydda: The Tomb of St. George.

Haiifa: Mount Carmel.

All the above shrines and sites, together with many others, have, throughout the years, been described in detail by Church authorities, pilgrims, travellers, and in hand books.

There is no unanimity in all the cases recorded above. In some, two or more sites are associated with the same incident: in not a few cases the ownership of the actual site and the rights at a particular site are in dispute between two or more of the authorities of the various confessions; in some cases, there are doubts as to the authenticity of a particular site. But there can be no doubt that all the sites enumerated have been sanctified by the devotion and veneration of generations of worshippers coming from every land in which the Christian Faith has adherents.

ISLAM: MUSLIM HOLY PLACES

In 570 A.D., in Mecca, a son was born to Abdullah, son of Abdel-Muttalib, and was named Mohammad.

In his 25th year, Mohammad married Khadija, a wealthy widow of a merchant, who had entrusted him with the conduct of some of her caravans to Syrian and southern Arabia.

During a period of solitary sojourn, in a cave in Mount Hera, near Mecca, Mohammad felt his spirit moved with divine power, and was convinced that he had been chosen by God as His Ambassador. So began Mohammad's prophetic career, about 610 or 612 of the Christian Era.

At first, Mohammad made Jerusalem the Holy Place to which the Faithful had to turn their faces when they prayed; thus, Jerusalem became the first Kibla, and has been respected as such ever since. Later on, however, while living at Medina, whither he had had to flee with his followers from Mecca, he changed the Kibla, or Holy Place, to Mecca.

In 630 A.D. Mohammed re-entered Mecca at the head of a victorious host, and the teaching of Islam was firmly established. From the time of the Prophet's entry into Mecca, the domination of Islam in Arabia was only a matter of time. For a period the religious fervour of the Moslems was directed against the stubborn resistance of the pagan Arabian tribes. There were many bloody encounters, but finally Mohammad and his followers succeeded in subduing the adversaries of "The Proclaimer of Truth".

During the lifetime of the Prophet a vital connection was forged between Islam and Palestine. The Koran states that Mohammad was transported by night from Mecca to Jerusalem, and that, from the top of Mount Moriah, the site of the Hebrew Temple, then lying desolate, he ascended to heaven. The Prophet's horse, Burak, was accommodated during this visit beside what is now called the Western or Wailing Wall of the Temple Area. This incident in the life of the Prophet is referred to in the Koran, in the following words:-

"Glory be to Him who carried His servant by night from the sacred Temple of Mecca to the Temple that is more remote (i.e., the Temple of Jerusalem), whose precinct we have blessed that we might show Him of our signs, for He is the Hearer, the Seer."

Consequently, the Temple Area of Jerusalem, now known as the Haram esh-Sharif, "the Noble Sanctuary," ranks as a Moslem shrine next to the Holy Cities of Mecca and Medina.

Towards the end of the 7th century A.D., the Caliph Abdel-Malik, whose title was disputed by a rival Caliph in Mecca, was moved to erect a sanctuary in Jerusalem on the site of the Temple to which the followers of the Omayyad persuasion could direct their devotions. No efforts were spared by Abd-el-Malik in the construction of "The Dome of the Rock," erected on the traditional site from which the Prophet had ascended. This magnificent structure still stands, one of the architectural glories of Jerusalem. It was on the rock so enshrined, that according to tradition, the Patriarch Abraham was preparing to offer up his son Isaac when the Almighty intervened.

Around this shrine and its vast enclosure there have, during the ages, arisen many buildings accommodating schools, libraries, and other pious institutions connected with Islam.

In 636 A.D., the Caliph Omar occupied Jerusalem. In 969 A.D., Jerusalem was conquered by the Egyptians, and in 1087 A.D., it fell to the Seljuk Turks whose outrageous behavior culminated, in 1096 A.D., in the launching of the Crusades. In 1099 A.D., Palestine was occupied by the Crusader invaders from the west, and the Latin Kingdom of Jerusalem was established, so breaking the Moslem domination established by Omar. The Crusader regime continued until 1187 A.D., when the followers of Islam, under Saladin, overwhelmed the Christians under King Guy himself, at the battle of Hattin. Following his overwhelming victory at Hattin on the 2nd of July, 1187, Saladin wasted no time in exploiting his success and, on the 2nd of October, 1187 which was the anniversary of the Blessed Laqilat el Mi'raj, or "Eve of Ascension" of the Prophet, he accepted the surrender of the City. Thus re-established, Moslem rule continued uninterrupted until 1917 A.D., when Lord Allenby entered the Holy City at the head of a victorious and triumphant army.

In 1244 A.D., Jerusalem was over-run by Khwarizmian Turks. In 1269 A.D., the country came under the control of the Mameluke rulers of Egypt. In 1516 A.D., it passed into the hands of Selim I, Sultan of the Ottoman Empire, whose successor, Suleiman the Magnificent, constructed the City's present walls between 1539 and 1542. The Turks ruled until 1917.

Each and all of these Moslem powers contributed to the shrines of Palestine, each enhanced the Moslem religious heritage in the Holy Land. Since, at least, the time of the Caliph Omar, the land of Palestine is covered with sites and buildings which are objects of devotion to the local inhabitants and, moreover, to thousands of pilgrims from abroad, who devote many years of energy towards the creation of an opportunity to visit these places.

The following list contains particulars of the more important of the Moslem shrines and sites in Palestine, at most of which religious ceremonies are held periodically:-

JERUSALEM DISTRICT

Jerusalem Town: Haram esh-Sharif, including the Dome of the Rock, the Aqsa Mosque, and the area of which they form part.

El Burak esh-Sharif, which includes the Western or Wailing Wall.

The Tomb of David (Nebi Daoud).

Mount of Olives: The Christian Place of Ascension.

El' Eizariya Village (Bethany): The Tomb of Lazarus.

Nebi Samwil: The Tomb of the Prophet Samuel.

Jericho: The Tomb of Moses (Nebi Musa).

Bethlehem: Rachel's Tomb.

Hebron: Haram esh-Sharif of Sidna Ibrahim.

LYDDA DISTRICT

El Haram Village: Sidna Aly Shrine.

Nebi Rubin: Mosque and Shrine.

Ramleh: Nebi Saleh.

GAZA DISTRICT

Gaza Town: Sidna Aly Mosque.

SAMARIA DISTRICT

Nablus Town: Rijal el Amud and Awlad Ya'qub.

Balata Village: The Tomb of the Prophet Joseph.

GALILEE-ACRE DISTRICT

Acre Town: Ahmad Pasha Jazzar Mosque.

There is a very great number of other Moslem shrines, monuments, and mosques throughout the country.

JUDAISM: JEWISH HOLY PLACES

The history of the Hebrew religion or Judaism, is principally contained in the Old Testament, where it is recorded how the Ten Commandments of the Law were received by Moses from Jehovah on Mount Horeb in Sinai; how, during the wanderings in Sinai, the Ark of the Covenant was constructed and the furnishing appointed by order of Moses, as inspired by Jehovah, and how, after the successful invasion of Palestine by the Children of Israel and their settlement in the land, the Temple was built in Jerusalem by Solomon, to the glory of Jehovah.

The Old Testament also records the vicissitudes and trials undergone by the Hebrews during the period extending for some 1,000 years, from the time of their entry into Palestine, now placed at about 1350 B.C., to the final record of Malachi, dated about 390 B.C.

Towards the close of the period of the Old Testament, the Children of Israel were largely dispersed throughout the Persian Empire. There existed in Jerusalem, where the Temple worship had been revived, a remnant chiefly of the tribe of Judah together with a few priests of the Levites.

With one short period in which the Jews again enjoyed some degree of independence — that of the Maccabean Revolt, which occurred about 165 B.C. during the Greek occupation of Palestine — the history of Palestinian Jews during the 400 years following Malachi was chiefly connected with the fortunes of the Western World.

In 63 B.C., the Romans, under Pompey, gained control of Palestine. Jewish influence and institutions were finally destroyed in 70-71 A.D., with the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple and the dispersal of the Jewish inhabitants by Titus.

Thereafter, many of the teachers of the Law took refuge in Northern Palestine, particularly Tiberias, where schools were established, where the Talmud was taught, and the worship of the synagogue replaced the worship of the Temple; hence the special importance of Jewish sites in Northern Palestine.

Always, and at all times during each and every captivity or dispersal, a remnant of the Children of Israel has existed in Palestine, and throughout all ages the Jewish people, no matter what vicissitudes they endured, have recalled Jerusalem in their prayers, their songs of praise, and their hopes and aspirations: "If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, Let my right hand forget her cunning." These words were written about 500 B.C. by Hebrews, then held captive in Babylon.

Today, throughout the world, the Jews, in their prayers on the Day of Atonement and The Passover, use the words, "In Jerusalem next year."

There is evidence to show that, during the Roman occupation which led to the dispersal, the practice had already commenced of sending presents to the Temple in Jerusalem and of visiting the Holy City; thus began the custom of sending contributions to the Holy Places and of making pilgrimages to the religious sites, customs which have had such a profound influence on the history of Palestine.

The following list gives details of the more important Jewish religious sites in the country, at which special ceremonies are held periodically:-

JERUSALEM DISTRICT

Jerusalem Old City: The Wailing Wall. Ancient and Modern Synagogues. Traditional tomb of David. The Brook Siloam. The Bath of Rabbi Ishmael. The Tomb of Simon the Just, etc.

Mount of Olives and Kidron Valley: Ancient cemetery and Absalom's tomb. Tomb of Zachariah and various other tombs.

Bethlehem: Rachel's Tomb.

Hebron: The Cave of Machpelah. Abraham's Tree. The Tombs of Yishay (Jesse, father of David) and Abner (son of Ner).

NORTHERN PALESTINE

Safad: Ancient synagogues and tombs of holy men, including those of the famous mystic Rabbi, Issac Lurieh, and Joseph Caro, the famous Jewish legislator and author of the Shulhan Aruch, etc.

Meirun: Ruins of an ancient synagogue, since the days of the Mishan and the Talmud.

Tombs of Rabbi Simon Bar Yohai and Rabbi Eleazar. The Yeshivah of Bar Yohai and home for the aged, and many other tombs and burial caves.

Tiberias: A number of holy places and burial caves, including the tombs of Maimonides, Rabbi Yohannan Ben Zakai, Rabbi Aqiba and others.

Tiberias Hot Springs (Hammath): Ancient synagogues, the college of Rabbi Meir Baal ha-Ness of the Merasler, and his tomb.

SAMARIA DISTRICT

Awarta: The reputed burial place of Aaron, the High Priest, and his sons.

One of the greatest modern frauds practiced by the Zionists on the Jews and gentiles of the world is that the "Western" or "Wailing" wall in Jerusalem is a part of the Temple. This wall is not a part of the First Temple built by King Solomon, nor even of the Second Temple built by the Edomite King Herod. This has been proved by the investigation of a League of Nations Commission in 1929, the conclusion of which was confirmed by the Mandatory power in an Order-in-Council in 1931, which stated, inter alia: "To the Moslems belong the sole ownership of, and the sole proprietary right to, the Western Wall, seeing that it forms an integral part of the Haram-esh-Sherif area, which is Waqf property. To the Moslems there also belongs the ownership of the pavement in front of the Wall and of the adjacent so-called Moghrabi (Moroccan) Quarter opposite the Wall, inasmuch as the last-mentioned property was made Waqf under Moslem Sharia law, it being dedicated to charitable purposes."<sup>71</sup>

The above list of Jewish holy places demonstrates how their claims to an exclusive right in Palestine are mitigated by reality. Palestine is holy to Christians, Muslims and Jews, and exclusive claims to it by any one of these groups are to be deplored.

CHAPTER THREE

THE OWNERSHIP OF CAPITAL IN PALESTINE

The Government of Palestine did not inventory the national wealth in Palestine. However, the Department of Statistics prepared certain estimates of the shares of Arabs and Jews in the national wealth of the country. These estimates did not include figures for urban building and lands or village buildings. The estimates prepared for the value of land, industrial establishments, livestock and commodity stocks are arbitrary, based on values existing before World War II. Therefore, these estimates can give only a general idea and do not reflect exact values.

In A Survey of Palestine, Prepared in December 1945 and January 1946 for the Information of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry, the Palestine Government attempted to provide general estimates. The Government stated:

Palestine must be numbered among those countries which have not attempted to compile estimates of the national wealth. Nevertheless, certain basic information is available and presented below...in the form of a series of tables in which the main categories of capital are enumerated and the shares of Jews, Arabs and others are indicated.... The estimates do not include any figures for urban land buildings and improvements, nor for public fixed assets.<sup>1</sup>

The Survey of Palestine gives the value of rural lands but states: "These values, although based on values actually ruling pre-war, are completely arbitrary and have been designed to reflect the share of the two groups of the population rather than the aggregate value of the land."<sup>2</sup>

LAND OWNERSHIP IN PALESTINE

The share of Arabs and Jews in land ownership in Palestine was, as of the 1st April, 1943, 24,670,455 dunums owned by Arabs and 1,514,247 dunums owned by Jews. (A dunum is 1,000 square meters. Four dunums equal one acre.) The following table shows the share of Jews and Arabs (including other non-Jews) in the ownership of land in Palestine as at 1st April, 1943.<sup>3</sup>

Category of land (Fiscal Categories)	Arabs & other non-Jews	Jews	Total
Urban	76,662	70,111	146,773
Citrus	145,572	141,188	286,760
Bananas	2,300	1,430	3,730
Rural built-on area	36,851	42,330	79,181
Plantations	1,079,788	95,514	1,175,302
Cereal land (taxable)	5,503,183	814,102	6,317,285
Cereal land (not taxable)	900,294	51,049	951,343
Uncultivable	16,925,805	298,523	17,224,328
Total area (in Dunums):	24,670,455	1,514,247	26,184,702
Roads, railways, rivers and lakes			135,803
Total including roads, railways, etc.			26,320,505

Subcommittee 2 of the Ad Hoc Committee on the Palestine Question stated in its report to the United Nations General Assembly the following:

Closely connected with the distribution of population is the factor of land ownership in the proposed Jewish State. The bulk of the land in the Arab State, as well as in the proposed Jewish State, is owned and possessed by Arabs. This is clear from the following statistics furnished to the Sub-Committee by the United Kingdom representative, showing the respective percentages of Arab and Jewish ownership of land in the various sub-districts of Palestine.<sup>4</sup>

Sub-district	Percentage of Ownership Arabs & others	Jews
Safad	68	18
Acre	87	3
Tiberias	51	38
Beisan	44	34
Nazareth	52	28
Haifa	42	35
Jenin	84	Less than 1
Nablus	76	Less than 1
Tulkarm	78	17
Ramallah	99	Less than 1
Jerusalem	84	2
Hebron	96	Less than 1
Jaffa	47	39
Ramle	77	14
Beersheba	14	Less than 1

Note: The balance represents waste lands and lands under public ownership, consisting mainly of grazing lands attached to villages.

It will be seen that there is not a single sub-district in which the percentage of Jewish land ownership exceeds 39 percent, and that in nine of the sixteen sub-districts the percentage of Jewish ownership is less than 5 percent.<sup>5</sup>

The Survey of Palestine contained information about the years and number of dunums purchased by Jews from 1920-1945 as follows:<sup>6</sup>

AREAS PURCHASED BY JEWS, 1920-45

Year	Dunums
Area owned before 1920 (estimated)	650,000
1920	1,048
1921	90,785
1922	39,359
1923	17,493
1924	44,765
1925	176,124
1926	38,978
1927	18,995
1929	64,517
1930	19,365
1931	18,585
1932	18,893
1933	36,991
1934	62,114
1935	72,905
1936	18,146
1937	29,367
1938	27,280
1939	27,973
1940	22,481
1941	14,530
1942	18,810
1943	18,035
1944	8,311
1945 (estimated)	11,000
Total	1,588,365

The Survey of Palestine also provides details of the ownership by Arabs and Jews of the citrus groves. The Arabs owned 127,377 dunums of citrus groves. The Jews owned 120,897.<sup>7</sup>

CITRUS GROVES

Figures as at the end of 1944, based on a research work by Messrs. Weitz and Lifshitz on Jewish land in Palestine. Land in Jewish possession at the end of 1945 amounted to 1,778,000 dunums, thereof 1,603,000 dunums by purchase. Non-rural areas comprise towns, suburbs, built on areas in villages and industrial localities (Dead Sea Works, etc.).

The Jewish National Fund made a study of Jewish villages in Israel in 1949 and stated:<sup>9</sup>

Of the entire area of the State of Israel only about 300,000-400,000 dunams — apart from the desolate rocky area of the southern Negev, at present quite unfit for cultivation — are State Domain which the Israel Government took over from the Mandatory regime. The J.N.F. and private Jewish owners possess under two million dunams. Almost all the rest belongs at law to Arab owners, many of whom have left the country. The fate of these Arabs will be settled when the terms of the peace treaties between Israel and her Arab neighbours are finally drawn up. The J.N.F., however, cannot wait until then to obtain the land it requires for its pressing needs. It is, therefore, acquiring part of the land abandoned by the Arab owners, through the Government of Israel, the sovereign authority in Israel.

Whatever the ultimate fate of the Arabs concerned, it is manifest that their legal right to their land and property in Israel, or to the monetary value of them, will not be waived, nor do the Jews wish to ignore them. Legal conquest of territory is a powerful factor in determining the frontiers and the sovereignty of a state. But conquest by force of arms cannot, in law or in ethics, abrogate the rights of the legal owner to his personal property. The J.N.F., therefore, will pay for the lands it takes over, at a fixed and fair price. The Government will receive the money and in due time will make compensation to the Arabs.

Under this arrangement the J.N.F. will acquire this year one million dunams of land for settlement. The forces of history have given the J.N.F. the opportunity — and the necessity — of acquiring in one year as much land as it acquired in the long period of 47 years of unremitting effort. That is an indication of the practical change which has come about as a result of Israel's independence.

Within the first 10 months of the establishment of Israel 51 new villages have been established on J.N.F. land. In all, 200 new villages will arise on the new area of one million dunams. Most of them will be in strategic areas. Besides providing the land, the J.N.F. is contributing 37 1/2% of the initial cost of settlement. These do not exhaust the tasks that face the J.N.F. It is also reclaiming the land, furthering the development of the country's water resources, and, wherever necessary, afforesting areas unfit for cultivation. In and around the cities it must provide land for housing, a vital necessity for the rapidly growing population. These, too, are enormous tasks, and if we do no more than mention them here, it is only because they do not fall directly within the scope of this review.

AREA OF J.N.F. LAND IN PALESTINE (1947-48)

BUILDINGS AND APARTMENTS

There were in Palestine in 1948 four mixed cities in which Arabs and Jews lived together, namely Jerusalem, Haifa, Safad and Tiberias. There were also eight Arab cities and large towns and 833 Arab small towns and villages. There were six Jewish cities or towns, 21 Jewish urban settlements and 266 Jewish rural settlements. Jewish statistics also showed that in 1947 there were 919 Arab towns and villages and 293 Jewish towns and villages.<sup>10</sup> Ninety percent of the Arabs who were living in small towns and cities resided in individual houses built of stone. Ten percent of the Arab city dwellers were living in apartment houses in buildings owned by Arab landlords. The Arabs in villages were living in individual houses built of stone. 80% of these village houses were modern houses and 20% were of inferior quality. The Government of Palestine conducted a census in 1931 of the population of Palestine in every town and village and the number of houses. As this was the last census, the Government gave estimates of the increase of the Arab and Jewish population. The increase of the Arab population was estimated at 30.71 per 1,000. On the basis of this estimate, we computerized the estimates in 1948 and the result was that the Arab population in Palestine in 1948 was 1,440,274 and the number of Arab houses or apartments was 360,068.

OWNERSHIP IN INDUSTRY

The Survey of Palestine dealt with the ownership of industry in Palestine. There were 1,558 Arab industrial establishments and 1,907 Jewish establishments. The details were as follows:

OWNERSHIP OF INDUSTRY IN PALESTINE

CHAPTER FOUR

ZIONIST TERRORISM AND CRIMES IN PALESTINE 1939-1945

ISRAELI LEADERS ARE THE MASTER TERRORISTS

Between 1939 and 1945 Zionist leaders in Palestine directed three bands of killers, the Hagana, the Irgun Z'vai Leumi, and the Stern Gang, all of which specialized in inventing and committing a wide variety of terrorist crimes. Each one of the present sinister top Israeli leaders was a member of one or the other of these three terrorist organizations. Israeli leaders are the Godfathers of terrorism in Palestine and in the Middle East. They are the inventors and masters of international terrorism.

THE GOAL OF ZIONIST TERRORISM WAS TO PREVENT PALESTINE INDEPENDENCE

After the London conference of 1939 between the British government and representatives of the Arab governments, the Palestinian Arabs and the Jewish Agency, the British government issued the White Paper of May, 1939, declaring its intention regarding the future government of Palestine:

1. The objective of His Majesty's Government is the establishment within ten years of an independent Palestine State which will be in treaty relations with the United Kingdom as will provide satisfactorily for the commercial and strategic requirements of both countries in the future; 2. The independent State should be one in which Arabs and Jews share in government in such a way as to ensure that the essential interests of each community are safeguarded.<sup>1</sup>

THE BILTMORE RESOLUTIONS

The American Zionist Conference held in New York in May 1942 formulated the "Biltmore Resolutions." Chief of these resolutions was that Palestine be established as a Jewish Commonwealth integrated in the structure of the new democratic world.<sup>2</sup> In a note from the War Office to the British cabinet it was stated:

In October 1942, the "Biltmore Programme" was discussed at a meeting of the Inner Zionist General Council in Jerusalem and was approved. The salient points of this Programme are:

- (a) Affirmation of the unalterable rejection of the White Paper.
- (b) That the Jewish Agency be vested with the control of immigration into Palestine.
- (c) That Palestine be established as a Jewish Commonwealth.
- (d) The formation of a Jewish military force, fighting under its own flag and under the command of the United Nations.

In both public and private utterance, Zionist leaders have for some time been asserting their determination to resist by force any attempt to frustrate the attainment of what they consider to be their legitimate aims in Palestine, that is, the Biltmore Programme. The rank and file of the Zionist Party, too, have shown an increasingly uncompromising spirit as the Spring of 1944, the end of the period of the White Paper of 1939, approaches.

The New Zionist (Revisionist) Organization has always had as its objective a Jewish State on both sides of the Jordan; and although the Organization has appeared more cooperative with the British since the outbreak of war than the Zionist Organization has, it is not to be supposed that the Revisionists have lost sight of their ultimate aims or in any way weakened in their determination to achieve them. A setback to Zionist aims, which are a stage on the way to New Zionist aims, is a setback to Revisionism.<sup>3</sup>

Commenting on this the High Commissioner (in his Telegram 1495A of 21 November, 1942) stated that "these developments mean that official Zionist policy has been shown publicly to be maximalist." Though the Revisionists have not formally adopted these Resolutions, this is only because their policy is Palestine plus Transjordan as a Jewish State, and acceptance would imply a climb down from their maximum demands. (Revisionists control the Irgun Z'vai Leumi illegal terrorist army of about 3,000).<sup>4</sup>

In a cable from the Government of Palestine to the Secretary of State for the Colonies on October 2, 1944, the government stated:

It may be useful if I supplement my telegram No. 1245 by some general observations regarding the present situation.

I need hardly stress the extent and development of the terrorist campaign which is being carried on in Palestine, culminating in the unsuccessful attempt to assassinate the King's representative, recently concerted, and large scale attacks on Police Stations, and the brutal murder of a Senior Police Officer in the streets of Jerusalem.

Most dangerous development is the growth in numbers of Jewish young men and women who are becoming infected with the gangster virus; these are providing recruits for the terrorist organization. As well as active recruits, passive sympathisers with the terrorists' aims, even while they doubt the wisdom of their methods, are multiplying, especially amongst young people; thus there is a tendency for Yishuv to become more and more demoralised by absorption of this poison.<sup>5</sup>

On September 10, 1945, the British Secretary of State for the Colonies submitted a memorandum to the Prime Minister in which he stated:

The young Jewish extremists, the product of a vicious education system, know neither toleration nor compromise;

they regard themselves as morally justified in violence directed against any individual or institution that impedes the complete fulfillment of their demands. In a similar spirit their ancestors in the second century B.C. laid waste Palestine until a ravaged countryside and ruined cities marked the zenith of Hasmonaean power. The prototypes of the Stern Group and National Military Organization are the Zealots and Assassins according to whose creed even Jews married to Gentiles were worthy of death in Roman times. These Zealots of today, from Poland, Russia and the Balkans have yet to learn toleration and recognition of the rights of others. As the Foreign Secretary said recently of the Balkans, these people do not understand the meaning of the word democracy. The Jewish Agency may deplore terrorism; but every immoderate speech...the flagrant disregard on the one hand for the authority of Government in maintaining law and order and on the other for the Arab case, the chauvinism and intolerance of their educational system, all contribute to an atmosphere in which the fanatic and the terrorist flourish. The Jewish leaders appear to be deliberately pushing extremism to a point when an explosion can no longer be avoided and do not scruple to use the plight of the Jews in Europe as a main political excuse. There are many Jews who deplore this state of affairs, but the rigidity of the discipline imposed by the political machine effectively discourages criticism except where it has no practical effect on Zionist policy. The Jews, like so much in Europe, need education in toleration and democracy.<sup>6</sup>

In a note to the British Cabinet it was stated:

Ben Gurion publicly declared on 7 June, 1944 that, though he once supported partition, in view of the changed world situation of Jewry he now rejected it, and reaffirmed his uncompromising support of the full Biltmore programme, to which the Zionist organization as a whole and most of its constituent parties are committed (this programme demands all Palestine as a Jewish commonwealth).

This policy was reaffirmed shortly afterwards by Mr. Shertok, head of the Political Dept. of the Jewish Agency, who at a Press conference stated that "the attitude of the Executive of the Jewish Agency in regard to the partition of Palestine was now negative. Zionist policy....was based on the Biltmore programme."<sup>7</sup>

The Jewish Agency and the Hagana, headed by David Ben Gurion, the Irgun Z'vai Leumi headed by Menahem Begin, and the Stern Gang co-headed by Yitzhak Shamir, started a campaign of terrorism against members of the British armed forces, British police, Palestinian police and the Palestinian civilian population.

Terrorist operations from 1939-1948 were carried out after being approved by the United Forces or what was called the Command of the United Resistance Movement, which was composed of representatives of the Hagana, the Irgun and the Stern Gang. Moshe Sneh, Israel Galili and others represented the Hagana, Menahem Begin and others represented the Irgun, and Abraham Stern, Nathan Yellin-Mor and others represented the Stern Gang.

The operations agreement between the three terrorist organizations was as follows:

1. The Hagana organization is initiating a military campaign against the British government. (The "Tenuat Hameri" or United Resistance Movement is born.)

2. The Irgun and LEHI (Stern Gang) will not carry out their operational plans without the approval of the command of the Tenuat Hameri.

3. The Irgun and LEHI will carry out the operational plans assigned to them by the command of Tenuat Hameri.

4. The discussions of the proposed operations will not be formal. Representatives of the three fighting organizations will meet regularly, or as the need arises, in order to discuss the plan from a political and practical standpoint.

5. After the operations are approved in principle, the experts of the three organizations will discuss the details of the execution.

6. The approval of the Tenuat Hameri command is not necessary for arms acquisition (taking arms from the British). The Irgun and LEHI are allowed to pursue such operations on their own.

7. The agreement among the three fighting organizations is based on the "commandment of active action."

8. If at any time the Hagana is ordered to give up the military campaign against the British rule, the Irgun and LEHI will continue to fight...<sup>8</sup>

Menahem Begin referred to the agreement between the Zionist terrorist organizations as follows:

The agreement between the groups forming together the Resistance Movement, that is to say between the Jewish Agency and Haganah and the underground organizations, was not written in ink but sealed in blood. Its fundamental condition was action. It imposed grave limitations on us, but we observed it not only in the spirit but even in the unwritten letter."<sup>9</sup>

Begin gave examples of the terrorist operations approved by the United Forces of the terrorist organizations:

The following were the operations officially approved by the United Forces: the attack on the airfields; a widespread sabotage attack in the south; the blowing up of trains on the three main lines of the country; the F.F.I. (Stern Gang) attack on the railway workshops at Haifa; and our attack on the King David Hotel. But there were two more operations carried out during that period by the "dissidents" which were approved only "unofficially" by the Haganah. One was the attack on the Jerusalem Prison carried out by our Assault Force and the F.F.I. and aimed at freeing captive members of both organizations.<sup>10</sup>

The cooperation between the Hagana, the Irgun and the Stern Gang in committing terrorist crimes was confirmed by evidence collected by the Palestine Government in the "Statement of Information Relating to Acts of Violence."<sup>11</sup>

Begin, who masterminded and carried out the attack on the King David Hotel, admitted that the massacre was coordinated with, and carried out under instructions of, the Hagana:

In the Spring of 1946 we submitted our plan for the first time to the Command of the Resistance Movement. I informed Sneh and Galili that we would undertake to penetrate the Government wing of the King David Hotel and to carry out an extensive sabotage operation.<sup>12</sup>

Begin confirmed that the Hagana ordered the operation against the King David Hotel. He stated:

On the 1st July, 1946, two days after Barker's attack on the Jewish Agency, we received a letter from the Hagana Command which ran as follows: "Shalom! You are to carry out as soon as possible the Chick and the house of 'Your slave-and-redeemer.' Inform us of the date. Preferably simultaneously. Do not publish the identity of the body carrying out the operation — neither directly nor by implication."<sup>13</sup>

The Hagana wanted to give only 15 minutes between the introduction of the explosives into the building of the King David Hotel and the explosion itself, but the Irgun wanted to give 45 minutes. Finally, it was agreed by a compromise on half an hour.<sup>14</sup> A wing of the King David Hotel was blown up on July 22, 1946, and 91 British, Arab and Jewish men and women were killed: 46 were wounded, many with permanent disabilities.

The Irgun Z'vai Leumi and the Stern Gang captured the village of Deir Yassin and committed the notorious Deir Yassin massacre on the 9-10 April, 1948. Menahem Begin confirmed that Deir Yassin was captured with the knowledge of the Hagana and with the approval of its commander.<sup>15</sup> Begin glorified the massacre of Deir Yassin and its benefits for Zionist goals. He stated:

Out of evil, however, good came. This Arab propaganda spread a legend of terror amongst Arabs and Arab troops, who were seized with panic at the mention of Irgun soldiers. The legend was worth half a dozen battalions to the forces of Israel.<sup>16</sup>

Menahem Begin bragged in his book that he was considered "Terrorist Number One."<sup>17</sup> Yitzhak Shamir of the Stern Gang was considered "Terrorist Number Two."

The Zionist terrorists were the first to commit political assassinations in the Middle East. The Stern Gang assassinated the British resident minister Lord Walter Moyne in Cairo on November 6, 1944. Yitzhak Shamir, the self-confessed terrorist, a member of the Irgun Z'vai Leumi and later on a member and leader of the Stern Gang, was one of the terrorists who planned the assassination.<sup>18</sup>

The Stern Gang, under Shamir's leadership, also planned and executed the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, the United Nations Mediator on September 17, 1948, because he made suggestions to vary the partition plan of Palestine. John Kifner reported in the New York Times that two Israeli terrorists, Yehoshua Zetler and Meshulam Markover, had told Israeli television that they and two other members of the Stern Gang had on September 17, 1948, assassinated the Swedish United Nations Mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte and his aide, Colonel Andre Serot.<sup>19</sup> Shamir's role in the assassination of Count Bernadotte was described in Dan Kurzman's book, Genesis 1948:

On the muggy afternoon of Friday, September 10, a car sped from Jerusalem to Tel Aviv carrying two men on a fateful mission. Yehoshua Zetler was driving Israel Sheib to a conference with Nathan Friedman-Yellin and Yitshak Yizernitzky (Shamir), the two other members of the Stern Group's Central Committee. And Sheib was determined to leave the meeting with unanimous agreement on a "solution" to the Bernadotte threat — a solution that he had had in mind ever since the Sternist demonstration against the Mediator a month before.

As the car halted before a rundown apartment building on Ben Yehuda Street in Tel Aviv, Sheib told Zetler to wait for word from him. Then he climbed the stairs to Friedman-Yellin's apartment, where his two colleagues were waiting for him. In the simply furnished living room, the three men began to discuss the expected new Bernadotte Plan.

"If the world listens to Bernadotte and pressures our weakling government into making compromises, we will have lost our State," Sheib said. "We can't let this happen. We must show the world that it is just as futile for the United Nations to interfere in our affairs as it was for the British. Demonstrations are not enough."

Yizernitzky agreed. His view had always been, as he had explained to Stern members, that "a man who goes forth to kill another whom he does not know must believe one thing only — that by his act he will change the course of history."

The three men (according to Sheib and Yizernitzky) then discussed Count Bernadotte in the light of this philosophy. And as they exchanged ideas over wine and fruit, it seemed that the clock had been set back four years — to that day in Spring, 1944, when the same three men had met in another dingy room to consider assassinating Sir Harold MacMichael, the British High Commissioner in Palestine, and Lord Moyne, the British Minister of State in the Middle East.

Within months, MacMichael had been wounded in an assassination attempt, and Lord Moyne murdered...

After a long discussion (as Sheib and Yizernitzky relate it) the three men agreed to order Bernadotte's assassination.<sup>20</sup>

THE TAKING OF HOSTAGES

The Zionist leaders were the first terrorists who established the practice of hostage taking in the Middle East. The following are examples:

On June 18, 1946, Jewish terrorists kidnapped five British officers from the Officers Club in Tel Aviv. They were Capt. Spencer, Capt. Taylor, Capt. Warburton, Capt. Rea and F/Lt. Russell. On the same day, they kidnapped Major Chadwick.<sup>21</sup>

Major Chadwick escaped from his kidnappers on June 19, 1946. Capt. Rea and F/Lt. Russell were released by their Jewish captors on June 22, 1946, after spending the interim period bound, shackled and closely guarded by the terrorists in a cellar somewhere in Tel Aviv. F/Lt. Russell was thrown inside a large crate on the lorry where he found Capt. Rea who was gagged with adhesive tape and bleeding from a head wound. The two British hostages were placed later on in a cellar, guarded by four armed Jews; the officers had their hands tied and feet bound. Chains were placed on their feet and wrists. They were released on June 22, 1946.<sup>22</sup>

The Zionist leaders were the first terrorists in the Middle East who hanged hostages. On July 12, 1947 two British non-commissioned officers were abducted in Nathanya by a party of armed Jews. On July 15, 1947, the British Colonial Secretary made a statement about the two British non-commissioned officers who were kidnapped, taken hostage and then hanged by the Jewish terrorists. He stated:

It is with deep regret that I confirm the reports which have been current during the past 24 hours that the two British sergeants, Paice and Martin, abducted at Nathanya on 12th July, have been murdered by Jewish terrorists. I received today the following telegram from the High Commissioner for Palestine: "Most deeply regret to inform you that the two bodies were found at 9 o'clock this morning in an eucalyptus grove at Umm Uleiga, near Beit Lid. They were hanging from two trees. Notices were pinned to the bodies saying that the men had been hanged by the National Military Organization as British spies. The first body was cut down by an Army captain, and as he bent over it a small bomb exploded, injuring him in the face. The surrounding area was found to have been mined."<sup>23</sup>

This ingenious method of terrorism was the product of the wicked minds of Menahem Begin and Yitzhak Shamir. It was Begin in consultation with Shamir and the Hagana leadership who gave the order to hang the two British sergeants.<sup>24</sup>

On December 29, 1946, British Army Major Brett was kidnapped in the Hotel Metropole in Nathanya by a party of armed Jews. He was flogged with 18 strokes and subsequently released. The same evening, two British Staff Sergeants, Wright and Ventham, were abducted by a party of armed Jews at the Armen Hotel in Tel Aviv and taken to the Zoological Gardens. Each was stripped naked and flogged with 18 strokes of the lash. On the same evening, five armed Jews entered the Cafe Tirzah at Rishonlezion and abducted a British Staff Sergeant who was taken away and flogged. He suffered severe bruises and abrasions and was admitted to the hospital for treatment.<sup>25</sup> Also on December 29, 1946, a British soldier, Private Gillam, was kidnapped from a cafe in Richon, and he too was flogged.<sup>26</sup>

The Hagana did not hesitate to kill hundreds of Jews to protest British policy in preventing illegal immigration to Palestine. The ship Patria arrived at Haifa in November 1947 with 1,700 illegal Jewish immigrants aboard. The Palestine Government decided to send the ship to the Mauritius Islands. On November 25, 1947, Jewish terrorists placed a bomb in the ship to prevent it from sailing. As a result, two hundred and fifty-two Jews were killed and many were injured. Menahem Begin confirmed that "the British authorities noted the fact that this was not an Irgun Z'vai Leumi operation; it was Hagana who had placed the bomb."<sup>27</sup>

LETTER AND PARCEL-POST BOMBS

The Jewish terrorists in Palestine under the command of Menahem Begin and Yitzhak Shamir invented a new method of international terrorism which had no precedent in history, namely sending parcel-post bombs and letter bombs to British officials in London. The first parcel bomb was sent on September 3, 1947. Yitzhak Shamir was the mastermind behind this barbaric method. It was addressed to a high official of British Military Intelligence whom the Zionist terrorist organizations suspected of collecting damaging information about them. The parcel exploded in a post office in Howick Place, Victoria Street, London, seriously injuring two postmen.<sup>28</sup>

On May 3, 1948, a parcel bomb was addressed to Roy Farran in London. Farran was a member of the British Anti-Terrorist Squad in Palestine who returned to England. The parcel was opened by Rex Farran, his 25-year-old younger brother. Many of his organs were blown to pieces, and he died instantly.<sup>29</sup>

It was established that the Stern Gang was responsible for this crime. Yitzhak Shamir was one of the triumvirate leadership of the Stern Gang.

The Stern Gang under the leadership of Yitzhak Shamir intensified its campaign of sending letter bombs to British officials. Between 4 and 6 June, 1947, 20 letter bombs were sent. The first shipments of eight letter bombs arrived in London on June 4, 1947. One was addressed to Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister of the Board of Trade, another to Mr. John Strachy, Minister of Food, neither of whom had any connection with the Palestine question. Both letters were intercepted by Scotland Yard and the bombs were defused.<sup>30</sup>

Three more letter bombs were intercepted by Scotland Yard on June 5, 1947. One was addressed to the Foreign Secretary, Ernest Bevin, who was abhorred by the Zionists for his balanced and fair stand on the Palestine question. Letter bombs were also addressed to Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, and Arthur Greenwood, Minister without Portfolio.<sup>31</sup>

The following are examples of the barbaric methods of terrorism committed by the Jewish terrorist organizations from 1939-1945:

- (a) Placing bombs in Arab markets and cafes, killing many civilians, mostly women and children.
- (b) Placing landmines and exploding them by remote control.
- (c) Blowing up of buildings and police stations.
- (d) Placing bombs in cinemas where many people were killed or injured.
- (e) Placing bombs in railway stations, markets and government offices and exploding them, killing and injuring many innocent people.
- (f) Placing bombs in trucks and cars filled with explosives near buildings and exploding them, thereby killing and injuring many innocent people.

(g) Throwing bombs into passing cars and into Arab crowds, killing and injuring many civilians.

(h) Blowing up of Arab houses and hotels, killing hundreds of men, women and children.

Details of the Zionist terrorist crimes in Palestine from 1939-1948 are set out in Chapters 4, 5, 6 and 7 of this encyclopedia. The authoritative descriptions of these crimes were obtained from the Foreign Office files, Colonial Office files and War Office files from the Public Record Office, Kew Gardens, Surrey England. The writer personally selected these files which were photocopied. Each incident recorded in these four chapters are verbatim records. They were taken from reports sent from the High Commissioner for Palestine to the Colonial Secretary in London and from the Officer Commander of British forces in Palestine to the Secretary of War in London. Unfortunately, not all documents about Jewish terrorism in the Colonial Office, War Office and Foreign Office files have been declassified. It was noted in the record: "Retained by the Department." The writer spoke with the Director of the Public Record Office regarding examining these files and he told him, "They will be classified for the next seventy five years."

In 1948 the Zionist leaders started to execute their premeditated plan to expel the Palestinians from Palestine and to usurp their homes, lands and all their worldly possessions. In implementing this plan they committed the following war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide as set out in Chapters 9 to 14 of this encyclopedia:

1. They committed hundreds of massacres throughout Palestine.

2. They erased 492 Arab small towns and villages and Bedouin localities from the map of Palestine and converted them into Jewish settlements.

3. They usurped Arab houses and apartments in twelve large towns and cities for settling Jews.

4. They committed looting, pillage, plunder and spoliation of the personal and real properties of Palestinians in twelve large towns and cities and 526 small towns and villages.

5. They destroyed, desecrated and usurped Muslim Holy Places in Palestine and violated the religious rights of Muslims.

6. They destroyed and desecrated Christian Holy Places in Palestine and violated the religious rights of Christians.

In 1967 Zionist leaders committed a war of aggression against neighboring Arab countries, occupying the West Bank and Gaza, namely the remaining 20% of Palestine. From 1967 to 1989 they committed war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide against the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza and neighboring Arab countries as set forth in Chapters 16-33 of this encyclopedia:

1. Murder, massacres, systematic terrorism, kidnapping and other war crimes and crimes against humanity committed by the Israelis in the West Bank and Gaza and neighboring Arab countries.

2. Looting, plunder, pillage and spoliation and other war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide committed in the Gaza Strip.

3. Plunder and usurpation of Palestinian lands, natural and water resources and the establishment of illegal Jewish settlements in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

4. Willful destruction of the Palestinian economy in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

5. Demolition and sealing of Palestinian homes.

6. Collective punishment, curfews, checkpoints, mass round-ups and closures.

7. Establishing concentration camps and political prisons.

8. Torture and inhuman treatment of Palestinian and Lebanese prisoners.

9. Torture and inhuman treatment of Palestinian women.

10. Illegal administrative detention of Palestinians.

11. Illegal town arrest orders of Palestinian families.

12. Inhuman separation of Palestinian families.

13. Jewish settler terrorism against Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza.

14. Brutal measures, including murder, beating and use of toxic gas to suppress the Intifada.

15. War crimes in Lebanon in the Zionist wars of aggression of 1978 and 1982.

16. Wanton bombing of Palestinian refugee camps in Jordan and Lebanon.

17. Mossad terrorism, including murder and kidnapping, against Palestinians and others in Europe and the Middle East.

18. Piracy and terrorism at sea against unarmed vessels.

ZIONISTS ACCUSE ARABS OF "TERRORISM" IN ORDER TO COVER UP THEIR OWN CRIMES

In order to cover up their terrorism, war crimes and crimes against humanity committed against the Palestinians from 1939 to 1948 and from 1948 to the present, Israeli leaders in occupied Palestine and their vociferous lobbyists in the United States managed to delude President Ronald Reagan, Secretary of State George P. Shultz and a majority of Congressional leaders into believing that international "terrorism" is the root of all evil. They whipped up a frenzy both in the American Administration and Congress on the subject of terrorism, intentionally branding Palestinians, Arabs and Muslims as terrorists. They succeeded in convincing both the United States Administration and Congress that the Palestine Liberation Organization is a terrorist organization and should not be a party to any peace process, thereby perpetuating an agreement made between Henry Kissinger and Yitzhak Rabin in 1975 and fulfilling Israel's determination to sabotage and frustrate the peace process. They know that without the P.L.O. no peaceful settlement to the Palestine problem can be achieved. It is a mockery to read in American newspapers that Israeli leaders such as Yitzhak Shamir, Shimon Peres, Yitzhak Rabin and Ariel Sharon met with President Reagan, and that thereafter the White House issued a Press Release stating that President Reagan and Mr. Peres or Mr. Shamir "discussed the evil scourge of terrorism which has claimed so many Israeli, American and Arab victims and brought tragedy to so many others. We agreed that terrorism must not blunt our efforts to achieve peace in the Middle East."<sup>32</sup>

President Reagan proclaimed, "Terrorists and those who support them, must and will, be held to account,"<sup>33</sup> yet President Reagan knowingly, or unknowingly, ignored the fact that his Israeli "strategic allies" were themselves master terrorists and war criminals and that his Administration was an accessory to Israeli crimes because it aided and abetted the Israelis in the commission of these crimes by giving them billions of dollars and large quantities of the most sophisticated weapons and by politically supporting them in the United Nations. George P. Shultz, the former United States Secretary of State, made himself a Zionist tool and became a Zionist champion for his steadfast campaign against terrorism, despite the obvious contradictions in his position.

Joseph C. Harsch, a highly respected American journalist, wrote an article in the Christian Science Monitor under the title "Preferential Treatment for Israel?" in which a few of these contradictions are spelled out:

The Department of State in Washington has denied an entry visa to Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), on the ground that he "knows of, condones, and lends support" to acts of terrorism and "he therefore is an accessory to such terrorism."

If this logic were to be applied universally, the Prime Minister of Israel would be refused a visa to enter the United States. Yitzhak Shamir was originally a member of a Jewish terrorist group called the Irgun, which was headed by former Prime Minister Menachem Begin. Mr. Shamir later moved over to the even more radical Stern gang.

Whether Mr. Arafat ever specifically sanctioned an act of terrorism against unarmed civilians is disputed. Israel, and the US government, assume he has. PLO spokesmen say that terrorist acts committed by Palestinians or their friends and sympathizers among other Arab communities have been done by fanatical individuals or groups over which Arafat has no control.

That Shamir and Begin have been leaders of terrorist bands that committed many atrocities is beyond question. Shamir himself has defended the various assassinations committed by the Irgun and Stern gangs on the ground that "it was the only way we could operate, because we were so small. So it was more efficient and more moral to go to selected targets." The selected targets in those early days of the founding of the state of Israel included Lord Moyne, British resident minister in Cairo in 1944, and the Swedish Count, Folke Bernadotte, on Sept. 17, 1948. Not all Begin and Shamir targets were so precise. The first act of terrorism in the long Arab-Israeli wars, which involved many victims, was the bombing of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem on July 2, 1946. Many women were among the 91 people killed.

On April 9, 1948, a combined force of Irgun and Stern gangs committed "a particularly brutal massacre of some 250 Arab residents (of the village of Deir Yassin), many of them women and children," according to Evan M. Wilson, author of Decisions on Palestine. Accounts by Red Cross and United Nations observers who visited the scene said that the houses were first set on fire and then the residents were shot down as they came out to escape the flames.

In a book titled Taking Sides, published by William Morrow and Co., Inc., author Stephen Green tells of the "Lavon Affair," which shook more than one Israeli Cabinet. The affair began in June 1954, with the planting of a ring of spies ("moles") in Cairo, ordering it to begin sabotage operations against selected Egyptian, British and American targets. The Alexandria post office was firebombed on July 2. On July 14, the US Information Agency offices in Cairo and Alexandria were damaged by fire started by phosphorus incendiary devices, as was a British-owned theater.

Members of the spy ring were caught, and they confessed. They had been planted by Modiin, the Israeli military intelligence organization. The purpose, presumably, was to sabotage Egyptian relations with the US and Britain. Various commissions of inquiry into the affair conducted in Israel were never able to decide whether or not Israeli Defense Minister Pinchas Lavon authorized the operation.

On Oct. 14-15, 1953, an Israeli force attacked the unarmed Arab village of Kibya, in the demilitarized zone, killing 53 civilians. The details were so gruesome that the US joined in a UN condemnation of the Israeli action and, for the first and only time, suspended US aid to Israel in reprisal.

Israeli armed forces invaded Lebanon on June 6, 1982. Arab casualties vastly outnumbered Israeli casualties. During the invasion, there were brutal massacres of Arabs at Sabra and Shatila camps for which the Israeli High Court held Israeli military officers responsible.

Arafat may well have sanctioned one or more acts of individual terrorism. But so have the leaders of Israel, who are always welcome in Washington. Arafat wanted to come to the US to make a speech at the UN. He has just modified his bargaining position to include implicit recognition of Israel. Prospects of a new peace initiative are regarded as encouraging. Denying him the visa may sabotage the new peace effort.<sup>34</sup>

U.S. CONGRESS ADOPTS MEASURES AGAINST THE PLO

On questions relating to the Middle East, eighty percent of the U.S. Congress is controlled by the Zionist lobby in Washington comprised of AIPAC (American-Israeli Public Affairs Committee) and the Presidents' Conference (Conference of Presidents of Major Jewish American Organizations). When these organizations decided that the offices of the Palestine Liberation Organization in Washington and the PLO Observer Mission to the United Nations must be closed, members of Congress competed to excel each other in showing obedience and loyalty to the Zionist lobby. Between April and June 1987 five bills were introduced that would close the PLO offices or restrict the activities of PLO personnel in the United States. The bills were referred to Committee, but no hearings were held, and none of the bills was reported out of the Committee. The consolidated bill was known as the Anti-Terrorism Act. On May 14, 1987, Senator Charles Grassley (R-Iowa) introduced the Anti-Terrorism Act as Amendment Number 940 to the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Year 1988, and the amendment was agreed to by a voice vote.<sup>35</sup>

Kenneth R. Thomas, Legislative Attorney, American Law Division, of the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress, stated in his report for Congress, the Anti-Terrorism Act of 1987:

Although the House Foreign Relations Authorization Act contained no similar provisions, Representative Burton introduced a motion to instruct the conferees on the Foreign Relations Authorization Act to accept the language of the Anti-Terrorism Act, which was agreed to by the House.<sup>36</sup>

The Anti-Terrorism Act was agreed upon by the conferees, and its provisions were set forth without comment in the conference report. The Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1988 and 1989, containing the Anti-Terrorism Act, was signed by President Reagan on December 22, 1987.<sup>37</sup>

This proves how the Zionist lobby manipulated the U.S. Congress into adopting, in an abnormal legislative procedure, without debate or discussion of any kind, an act against the Palestine Liberation Organization which had international ramifications and drew worldwide condemnation, at the very time the United States Congress was rewarding Israel with three billion dollars of financial and military aid.

The PLO offices in Washington, D.C. were closed by the order of the State Department, but the offices of the PLO UN Observer Mission in New York were not closed. The United Nations General Assembly obtained the Advisory Opinion of the International Court of Justice that it would be a violation of the Headquarters Agreement between the United Nations and the United States. At the same time, the United States District Court of New York ruled "that the language of the Headquarters Agreement and long-standing practice under the Agreement obligated the United States to 'refrain from impairing the function' of the PLO Observer Mission Office in New York."<sup>38</sup> This decision by U.S. District Court Judge Edmund L. Palmieri was not appealed by the United States Administration.

DISCUSSION OF ZIONIST TERRORISM IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

The terrorist acts by the Zionists were thoroughly discussed in the House of Commons in London. Members of Parliament frequently asked questions about Zionist terrorist acts which were answered by responsible British Cabinet Ministers. Parliamentary debates record in detail Zionist terrorist activities in Palestine and their condemnations of them. On November 17, 1944 Prime Minister Winston Churchill described the Zionist terrorists as "a new set of gangsters worthy of Nazi Germany."<sup>39</sup>

Following are excerpts from House of Commons debates on the Zionist outrages committed in Palestine:

On February 25, 1944 the question of Jewish terrorists in Palestine was raised in the House of Commons.

Captain Ramsay asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies (1) whether he has any information which he can give the House concerning the recent murder of Inspector Green and Constable Ewer by Jewish terrorists in Palestine; (2) whether he has traced the source of any of the literature or funds now at the disposal of Jewish terrorists.

Mr. Emrys-Evans answered: On the night of the 14th-15th February in Haifa, British inspector R. D. Green and British constable H. E. Ewer challenged two suspicious characters carrying a parcel, who turned out to be Jews. So far as can be ascertained, while the inspector was examining the parcel, one of the Jews shot him and the constable with a pistol. Both were wounded and fell to the ground, and the Jews ran away. One of them turned back, however, and fired at the policemen as they lay on the ground, and the Jews then made good their escape. The parcel was found to contain Stern Group pamphlets. I very much regret that both of these gallant officers died on the 16th February as the result of this dastardly attack on them while in the execution of their duty.

The Stern Group, to which the assassins apparently belonged, is a secret terrorist organization of Jewish extremists formed in Palestine about the middle of 1940. Soon after the Group was formed, its members entered upon a campaign of organised terrorism primarily with the object of obtaining funds for the furtherance of their so-called political campaign.<sup>40</sup>

On April 5, 1944 the question of the criminal acts by Jewish extremists in Palestine was raised in the House of Commons.

Captain Plugge asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies whether he will make a statement on the terrorist outrages in Palestine and their object.

Colonel Stanley (answered): I regret having to report that since 13th March casualties among police have been nine killed and five wounded or injured. These criminal acts are committed by members of a secret organization of Jewish extremists known as the Stern Group, and members of the Irgun Z'vai Leumi, the military organization of the Revisionists.<sup>41</sup>

On September 26, 1944 the question of terrorist outrages in Palestine was raised in the House of Commons.

Captain Ramsay asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies whether he can give any information concerning the attempt to assassinate Sir Harold MacMichael (the High Commissioner) in Palestine on the afternoon of 8th August; whether any of the terrorists were apprehended; and with what group or groups they are connected.

Colonel Stanley (answered): As regards the first part of the Question, I have nothing to add to the official statements published in the Press. A considerable number of arrests have been made. The primary responsibility for the outrage is attributed to the Stern Group.

Captain Ramsey asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies (1) how many British police and officials have been assassinated since 1st January by Jewish terrorists in Palestine; and whether he will give their names and the amounts of compensation paid to their next-of-kin; (2) how many British police and officials have been wounded since 1st January by Jewish terrorists in Palestine; and whether he will give their names and the amounts of compensation paid to their next-of-kin.

Colonel Stanley (answered): Details of British police and officials killed or wounded between 1st January and 3rd May have already been given in reply to previous questions on the subject. Since the 3rd May Major K. I. Nicholl, Aide-de-Camp to the High Commissioner, and British Sergeant J. H. Smith, were wounded when an attempt was made on the life of the High Commissioner on the 8th August, and British Constable W. J. Turner was slightly wounded in an incident on 22nd August.<sup>42</sup>

On October 11, 1944 the question of terrorist activities in Palestine was raised in the House of Commons.

Mr. Hamilton Kerr asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies whether he has any statement to make regarding recent terrorist outrages in Palestine.

Colonel Stanley (answered): There has unfortunately been a recrudescence of Jewish terrorist activities in Palestine. On the night of 27th September attacks were made on four police stations by members of the Irgun Z'vai Leumi, the military organization of the New Zionist organization. They were planned and executed by a force estimated to have been at least 150 strong and armed with bombs and automatic weapons. There were casualties among Palestinian police and civilians and considerable damage was caused to police buildings.... These attacks, the object of which is to further political aims, seriously impede the war effort of the United Nations and can do nothing but harm to the Jewish cause.... Verbal denunciation is not, in itself, enough. What we want, and what we shall hope to get, is the active collaboration of the whole, of the Jewish population in Palestine.<sup>43</sup>

On November 9, 1944 the previously mentioned assassination of Lord Moyne was discussed in the House of Commons. The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Anthony Eden, stated:

On Tuesday last, my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister undertook to inform the House as soon as fuller details about the assassination of Lord Moyne had been received. It has now been reported from Cairo that the two prisoners have made the following confession:

"We are members of the Fighters for the Freedom of Israel organization and what we have done was done on the instructions of this organisation."

The organisation is that known as the Stern Group.<sup>44</sup>

On November 17, 1944 the Prime Minister Winston Churchill made a statement in the House of Commons on terrorist activities in Palestine in which he said, inter alia, the following:

I have now to make a short statement about Palestine. On Thursday last, my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary gave the House a full report of the assassination of Lord Moyne. This shameful crime has shocked the world. It has affected none more strongly than those, like myself, who, in the past, have been consistent friends of the Jews and constant architects of their future. If our dreams of Zionism are to end in the smoke of assassins' pistols and our labours for its future to produce only a new set of gangsters worthy of Nazi Germany, many like myself will have to reconsider the position we have maintained so consistently and so long in the past. If there is to be any hope of a peaceful and successful future for Zionism, these wicked activities must cease, and those responsible for them must be destroyed root and branch. The primary responsibility must, of course, rest with the Palestine authorities under His Majesty's Government. These authorities are already engaged in an active and thorough campaign against the Stern Gang and the larger, but hardly less dangerous, Irgun Z'vai Leumi.<sup>45</sup>

On December 6, 1944 the question of terrorist outrages in Palestine was raised in the House of Commons:

Earl Winterton asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies if he can state the number and give details of the outrages committed in Palestine by terrorists since 1st January last.

29th January.

Explosions which occurred at the Government Transport Agency Car Park at Jaffa wrecked one lorry and damaged others. A Jew arrested near the scene admitted to being a member of the Irgun. The Irgun openly accepted the responsibility in a letter to the Hebrew Press.

3rd February.

An Arab taxi-driver surprised two Jews tampering with a wall near the entrance to St. George's Cathedral, Jerusalem, and warned a Police patrol who pursued the Jews; the latter opened fire fatally wounding an Arab civilian. The Jews escaped. Subsequent examination of the Cathedral wall indicated preparations to plant an electrically-operated infernal machine in the wall.

12th, 13th February.

Bomb outrages were perpetrated at Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel-Aviv against Immigration Offices causing damage to buildings and to archives at Jerusalem and Tel-Aviv. There were no casualties. The Irgun openly admitted responsibility for the outrages in a letter to the Hebrew Press.

14th, 15th February.

In Haifa two Jews carrying a suspicious parcel were challenged by a British Inspector and British Constable. The Jews opened fire, fatally wounding both Police Officers, and made good their escape. The parcel contained Stern Group literature.

24th February.

A bomb placed in a runway outside the garage of a Deputy Superintendent of Police exploded under his car as he drove out. The car was wrecked, but the officer escaped with superficial injuries. A second bomb planted by the side of the road was exploded as a Police traffic car containing 4 Police Officers was passing. The car was damaged, but the occupants escaped serious injury. A third unexploded bomb was subsequently found concealed at the side of another road. These outrages were thought to be attributable to the Stern Group.

26th February.

Explosions occurred at the Income Tax Offices at Tel-Aviv and Haifa causing extensive damage to buildings. An unexploded bomb was also found at the Income Tax Office, Jerusalem. There were no casualties.

2nd March.

A British Constable saw two men posting pamphlets in a Tel-Aviv street. On approaching them he was shot in the back by a third man. The assailants escaped. Pamphlets were those issued by the Stern Group.

13th March.

16th March.

The Police challenged a man in a Tel-Aviv street who drew a pistol and made off. The Police opened fire, whereupon the man threw away his pistol and a package he was carrying. The package contained three sticks of gelignite, a fuse detonator and rivets. The pistol was loaded. The man was captured and subsequently identified as a leading member of the Stern Group who had been wanted by the Police for over three years.

19th March.

The Police saw a suspicious looking character carrying an attache case, standing at a street corner in Tel Aviv. When the man saw that he was being watched he ran away and dashed into a house with the Police in pursuit. He tried to escape on to the roof but, finding the door locked, turned and fired at the Police. They returned fire and killed him. There were no Police casualties. The attache case contained ten rounds of revolver ammunition and Stern Group literature.

23rd March.

At Tel-Aviv, three British police were killed and one slightly wounded in separate incidents in one street. At Haifa bombs were exploded at police headquarters. Three British constables were found dead when extricated from the wreckage, and three injured. At Jerusalem a number of men wearing articles of police uniform entered police headquarters by means of a ladder. They were disturbed by an assistant superintendent of police, who opened fire. The intruders returned fire and killed him. Bombs which the party had brought with them and deposited subsequently exploded causing serious damage but no further casualties. At Jaffa explosives were discovered in an air-raid shelter below police headquarters. The building was evacuated and shortly afterwards explosions occurred damaging the building but causing no casualties.

1st April.

A British inspector, accompanied by a Palestinian police sergeant, acting on information received that a wounded man was lying in a house at Haifa, entered the House to find within four Jews, one of whom was wounded. Three men escaped through the window. The wounded Jew threw a hand grenade which fatally wounded the sergeant and slightly wounded the inspector. The Jew subsequently escaped but was afterwards found in a Jewish hospital in a dangerous condition. A search of the house revealed military uniforms, arms, electrical appliances and equipment for the production of Stern Group literature.

5th April.

A mobile police patrol in Tel-Aviv approached a man in order to question him. The man opened fire and wounded a British constable. The assailant, who was wounded, was arrested.

6th April.

Acting on information received a police party surrounded a house in the Yavniel Jewish Colony near Tiberias where wounded men were reported to be hiding. Firing was opened from the house and after exchange of shots two Jews in the house were killed. Both were found to be armed with pistols. There were no police casualties.

9th April.

Three unknown persons passing a British police billet in Northern Tel-Aviv fired shots at two British constables on duty outside the billet, simultaneously throwing a grenade. Two British constables and a Jewish constable were slightly wounded. The assailants made off before assistance arrived.

10th April.

A determined, but unsuccessful, attempt was made on the life of a deputy superintendent of police, who was fired on when driving in Tel-Aviv on the way to divisional police headquarters. The officer, who returned fire, escaped injury. The assailants made off before assistance arrived.

10th May.

A Jewish police constable of the C.I.D. was shot dead by an unknown assailant when leaving his house in Tel-Aviv. The assailant escaped.

17th May.

On the night of the 17th May, three Arabs in a taxi were held up outside Ramallah by a road block consisting of boards studded with nails which punctured the tyres. When the taxi stopped an explosion occurred which blew it off the road. On extricating themselves the Arabs were surrounded by 30 Jews dressed in khaki shorts and shirts who ordered them to proceed on their way. When the Arabs walked away the Jews, who were armed with submachine guns, rifles and pistols, opened fire wounding two Arabs. A police party which turned out on hearing the shots found the taxi and the Arabs, but the assailants had made off. Immediately thereafter eight men dressed in khaki entered the Broadcasting Station at Ramallah overpowering and disarming the guard. After unsuccessfully questioning the operator in Hebrew as to the use of the transmitter and the best way of wrecking the building they fired a number of shots causing damage to apparatus and eventually left the building. There were no casualties.

18th May.

A few hours later, a police ambush patrol on a road in the foothills north-east of Lydda was fired on by the occupants of a truck approaching from the Lydda direction. The patrol returned the fire, some of their bullets penetrating the windscreen. The vehicle stopped and about six persons alighted and disappeared in the darkness. Shortly afterwards two more trucks coming from the same direction pulled up some distance away and about 18 persons of both sexes got out and ran away. The three trucks were found to contain a small quantity of gelignite and boards studded with long nails. It was later learned that on the 17th May three truck-owners from Petah Tikvah were commissioned for work at a point outside Petah Tikvah. On arrival they were attacked, removed from their trucks and bound; they were released on the morning of the 18th May.

An attack was made by terrorists on a building in the centre of Jerusalem which houses the Jerusalem District Police Headquarters and the District of Jerusalem and Bethlehem Land Registry. The attack began with a number of minor explosions, accompanied by shooting and throwing of hand grenades. Three large explosions took place in successions doing extensive damage to buildings and starting a conflagration. The ground floor was completely gutted. Between 15 and 25 persons took part in the attack, some of them dressed in clothes resembling police uniforms. They used one or more taxis which had been seized from their drivers at the point of the pistol, and besides employing gelignite bombs and hand grenades appear to have been equipped with tommy-guns and automatic pistols. Responsibility for this outrage was afterwards acknowledged in pamphlets distributed by the Irgun. An Arab supernumerary constable was also dangerously wounded. Two British constables were detained in hospital suffering from shock and six other British police received superficial injuries. Jerusalem District Land Registry records were very extensively damaged by fire and from water used in fire brigade operations, and it was found necessary to close the Registry sine die.

8th August.

The High Commissioner was motoring with Lady MacMichael to a farewell function when the car, under police escort, was ambushed just outside Jerusalem on the Jerusalem-Jaffa road and fire was opened with tommy-guns from the side of the road. The High Commissioner was slightly wounded in the hand and thigh and his A.D.C. was shot through the lung and seriously hurt. The police driver was also seriously wounded. The police subsequently discovered at the spot a quantity of hand grenades, two sub-machine guns, a sack containing bombs capable of being exploded electrically from a distance, and miscellaneous ammunition, explosives and equipment. Several men were seen running from the engagement and entering the Jewish Settlement of Givat Shaul; this was later confirmed by police dogs. Preparations at the scene of the crime had, apparently, been made under cover of bogus survey operations. The police cordoned the Settlement immediately, but no one there volunteered or gave any useful information.

22nd August.

The Jaffa Divisional Police Headquarters and two police stations on the Jaffa-Tel-Aviv border were attacked by armed Jews. The attackers, in three separate parties each numbering about a dozen men, were armed with home-made bombs, grenades and submachine guns, and one party arrived and left in a truck. The way was prepared for the attack by mining of the roads and rail crossings in the neighbourhood and by laying boobytraps. A large ambush party lay near the Divisional Headquarters. Where road junctions were mined posters had been left bearing warnings by the Irgun. The attackers were driven off by small arms fire, except at one police station where the Palestinian personnel on guard were out-numbered. Fourteen rifles were taken from this station. Minor damage was done to the buildings by bombs. Casualties were one British constable wounded, one Arab constable and one Jewish temporary additional constable seriously injured. Six suspects were arrested, one of whom was wounded by police fire and was seen to throw away a bomb.

27th September.

Attacks were made on four police stations by members of the Irgun. They were planned and executed by a force estimated to have been at least 150 strong, armed with bombs and automatic weapons. There were casualties among police and civilians, and considerable damage was caused to police buildings. Casualties were inflicted on the terrorists, and two men were arrested, one of whom had been wounded. Quantities of ammunition, two bombs and Irgun flags were seized.

29th September.

A senior British police officer of C.I.D. was assassinated while walking to his office in Jerusalem. The assailants escaped.

5th, 6th October.

The Tel-Aviv offices and stores of the Department of Light Industries were raided by 50 persons, some of whom were armed, and textiles valued at 100,000 Pounds Sterling were removed. The raiders announced themselves as being members of the Irgun.<sup>46</sup>

On November 16, 1945 the question of rioting in Tel-Aviv by Jews was raised in the House of Commons. Earl Winterton asked:

Mr. Deputy-Speaker, with your permission, and at the suggestion of the right hon. Gentleman the Secretary of State for the Colonies, I desire to ask the Under-Secretary a question of which I have given him Private Notice: whether he has any further information to give on the recent rioting in Tel Aviv.

The Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies (Mr. Creech Jones): On the evening of the 14th November, rioting occurred in Tel-Aviv, following mass meetings by Jews in protestation against the Government statement of policy. The offices of the District Administration, the Control of Light Industries and the Income Tax Department were attacked and set on fire. Damage was extensive. An attack on the Post Office was frustrated by police and military action. As six baton charges were insufficient to disperse the crowd, soldiers who had been brought up to reinforce the police fired ten rounds. The crowd withdrew. Other crowds stoned the police and soldiers. After verbal warning and after three soldiers had been injured, four rounds were fired with the desired effect... Yesterday the curfew imposed on Tel-Aviv was broken by a large number of rioters. Cars were overturned, including a military lorry which was burned out, a section of the railway line was torn up, a branch post office and a number of shops were wrecked and looted. A branch of Barclays Bank was also wrecked but the rioters failed to force the safes. During these incidents, troops were compelled to open fire on threatening crowds after police had been unable to disperse them with baton charges. On two occasions home-made grenades were thrown at troops. Thirty arrests were made for breaking curfew, and five adults and five juveniles were arrested for rioting.<sup>47</sup>

A PROPOSED ALLIANCE BETWEEN THE STERN GANG AND NAZI GERMANY

On January 11, 1941, Avraham Stern proposed a formal military pact between the National Military Organization (NMO), of which Yitzhak Shamir, the current Prime Minister of Israel, was a prominent leader, and the Nazi Third Reich. This proposal became known as the Ankara document, having been discovered after the war in the files of the German Embassy in Turkey. It stated the following:

The evacuation of the Jewish masses from Europe is a precondition for solving the Jewish question; but this can only be made possible and complete through the settlement of these masses in the home of the Jewish people, Palestine, and through the establishment of a Jewish state in its historical boundaries....

The NMO, which is well-acquainted with the goodwill of the German Reich government and its authorities towards Zionist activity inside Germany and towards Zionist emigration plans, is of the opinion that:

1. Common interests could exist between the establishment of a New Order in Europe in conformity with the German concept, and the true national aspirations of the Jewish people as they are embodied by the NMO.

2. Cooperation between the new Germany and renewed folkish-national Hebraium would be possible and

3. The establishment of the historical Jewish state on a national and totalitarian basis, and bound by a treaty with the German Reich, would be in the interest of a maintained and strengthened future German position in the Near East.

Proceeding from these considerations, the NMO in Palestine, under the condition that the above-mentioned national aspirations of the Israeli freedom movement are recognized on the side of the German Reich, offers to actively take part in the war on Germany's side.<sup>48</sup>

They were pursued, and although the money has not been recovered a number of suspects have been arrested in incriminating circumstances. Two of them were found in possession of gold coins and bullion valued at over L (British Pounds) 750. The raid was carried out by the extremist faction of the Irgun Z'vai Leumi headed by Abraham Stern, and is described as an "expropriation for political ends". It is reported that the C.I.D. officer investigating the case has received a letter from the Irgun Z'vai Leumi warning him to refrain from further inquiries as the money was taken for a national cause.

At 0830 hours an employee of the Hamashbir Supply Co., of Tel Aviv, a subsidiary of the Histadruth, left the Workers Bank (also Histadruth) carrying LP1093 in a satchel. He was attacked by two men who made off with the money. They were subsequently joined by a third man. After an interchange of shots, between one of them and British and Jewish Constables, during which two Jewish onlookers were killed, two men, both armed, were arrested. The man with the money is still at large. The assailants' rooms were searched and two seven-chambered loaded revolvers and three homemade bombs were seized. Indications so far point to the outrage being committed by members of the Stern Group.

There have been rumours that they were going to commit a series of robberies. They had pamphlets identical with those picked up later in the day announcing the illegal Stern broadcast and the seized revolvers were the same calibre and make as those used in a previous murder, and also in the Anglo Palestine Bank Robbery in Tel Aviv in Feb. 1940.

At 0930 hrs. on 20/1/42 a small explosion occurred in a room on the first floor of Yael Street in Tel Aviv. The police were summoned and proceeded to the house. When they got into the room, a far more powerful explosion took place. D.S.P. Schiff was killed outright, British Inspector Turton and 1st Inspector Goldman have since died of injuries. A wire was found leading from the room where the explosion took place, over the roof to an adjacent flat. A third mine which is said to have consisted of some twenty sticks of gelignite was found unexploded later under the path leading to the house.

This cold blooded act of terrorism, very similar to the way in which Inspectors Barker and Cairns met their death, is thought to be almost certainly another perpetration of Stern's Group.

24 FEBRUARY 1944

Two further bomb explosions which are thought to be attributable to Stern Gang occurred in Haifa between 8 and 9 o'clock on 24th February. One bomb which had been buried in the runway outside the garage of F.C. Hershburgh, Deputy Superintendent of Police, exploded under the car as he drove out. Car was wrecked but person named escaped with superficial injuries.

Second bomb had been planted by the side of the road and was connected by wire to press button some 60 metres distant. It was exploded as police traffic car containing British Inspectors W.Y.K. Miller and W.E. Frost and British Sergeant D.D. Fairfoul was passing, car was damaged, but occupants suffered only shock.

Third unexploded bomb was found subsequently concealed at the side of another road, consisting of metal container holding 33 sticks of gelignite, 5 hand grenades and some rounds of ammunition, nuts, bolts. Three electric detonators and primers were attached to it and it was connected by some 20 metres of wire to electric plug.

Following incidents, which occurred on the evening of the 26th February, are evidently further developments in anti-Government campaign of Irgun Zvai Leumi.

Tel Aviv. At 8.30 p.m., three explosions took place in the building housing the Income Tax Office, followed by another at 9.25. Notice in English and Hebrew, signed Irgun, was found on the door of the office reading "Danger, house is mined". No damage to records, but extensive damage to the structure of the building.

Haifa. At 10.15 p.m., bomb exploded near the Income Tax Office causing slight damage. It had been placed some five yards from the outside wall. Several sticks of gellignite which had apparently formed part of the bomb had failed to explode.

Jerusalem. During the evening, unknown person threw note through the fanlight of the door to the room in which watchman in the Income Tax Office was sitting. Note, which was in Arabic and Hebrew, stated that bomb had been placed in the building. Area was cordoned off and the building searched early this morning, 27th February. One bomb found and removed to waste ground where it exploded. No damage, apart from broken windows.

13 MARCH 1944

Shortly after 8 p.m. on 13th March, a Jewish C.I.D. Constable named Zev Flesch was fired at outside a cafe in Petah Tikvah, and hit by five shots in the chest, stomach and leg. He died shortly afterwards. Person named was in plain clothes at the time, and was accompanied by an acquaintance and another man who had joined them a few seconds previously. His companions stated that he was shot by two persons whom they could not identify. Four empty parabellum cartridges, and one expended bullet, were found at the scene. Police suspect that this was the work of the Stern Group.

16 MARCH 1944

At about 3 p.m. on 16th March, C.I.D. received information that persons were expected to visit house in Tel Aviv to remove the property of member of the Stern Group who had been arrested there by the Police on 10th March. Armed party of Police went to the house and entered the back garden. Some Police were posted to cover the rear of the house, and two British Sergeants and two British Constables passed through the garden to the front. One of the Sergeants saw a man talking to woman at the gate. From distance of about 20 yards he called upon the man to put up his hands. The man ducked behind the wall and ran away. The sergeant followed, and the man fired at him. Simultaneously second man appeared from among the trees in boulevard fronting the house, fired at the Sergeant and then made off. The Sergeant fired two bursts from the front at the first man, and, as he did so, was fired at by third man who appeared on the pavement. All three men made good their escape. No police casualties, but woman passing by was wounded in the leg, not seriously, by stray bullet.

At 7.30 p.m. on 16th March, Police challenged a Jew in a Tel Aviv Street. He drew a pistol and made off. Police fired six shots, whereupon the man threw away his pistol and a package which he was carrying. He was captured, and the package was found to contain three sticks of gellignite, a fuse detonator, and a number of rivets. Pistol was loaded with seven rounds. He was also in possession of magazine of parabellum pistol containing six rounds. He has been identified as David Mairi, a leading member of the Stern Group, who has been wanted by the Police for over three years.

Tel Aviv. At 6.30 p.m., C. Brown, British Chief Clerk at the District Police Headquarters, was shot as he was leaving his house. He was wounded and died later. Jewish bystander in the hall of the house at the time was wounded, not seriously. At 6.40 p.m., British Constable Langtreay was shot and very seriously wounded in the street. His condition is critical. At 7.30 p.m., British Constable Caley was shot outside the Magistrate's Court and died later.

Jaffa. At 11.40 p.m. four rucksacks containing gellignite were discovered in an air raid shelter below Police Headquarters. Building was evacuated and shortly afterwards a number of explosions occurred completely demolishing one end of the building. Police patrol saw three suspicious looking characters who opened fire on being challenged. Police returned fire and it is believed that two suspects were wounded. One Temporary Assistant Constable was wounded in the foot.

Jerusalem. At 10.30 p.m. number of men wearing articles of Police uniform entered Police Headquarters by means of a ladder. They were disturbed by J. Scott, Assistant Superintendent of Police, who opened fire. Intruders returned fire, killing him. Number of bombs which the party had brought with them and deposited, exploded subsequently, causing very serious damage. One man was arrested in possession of bombs and some ammunition and a discarded pistol was found nearby.

Haifa. At 11.30 p.m. a number of bombs exploded at the rear of C.I.D. Office and billets, damaging entire wing of the building. Three British Constables, Allison, Mackie and Harding were dead when extricated from the wreckage. A fourth, Ball, was admitted to hospital with serious head injuries and two others suffering from abrasions and shock. Four Arab members of the kitchen staff at billets also received injury. Separate casualty telegram has been sent.

14 JULY 1944

At about 12.45 a.m. on 14th July an attack was made by terrorists on a building in the centre of Jerusalem which houses the Jerusalem district police headquarters, and the district of Bethlehem and Jerusalem District Land Registry. The attack began with a number of minor explosions, accompanied by shooting and throwing of hand grenades. As it developed, three large explosions took place in succession doing extensive damage to buildings and starting a conflagration. The ground floor was completely gutted and some damage (extent as yet unascertained) was (group omitted) to the upper floors. The last explosion occurred at 2.05 a.m., and the fire was brought under control at 2.30 a.m.

Number of attackers is not yet known. They used one or more taxis which had been seized from their drivers at pistol point, and besides employing gelignite bombs and hand grenades appear to have been equipped with tommy guns and automatic pistols. In the light of previous outrages the methods and objective in this latest attack clearly point to the Stern Group and/or Irgun as the culprits.

An Arab supernumerary constable and an Arab watchman lost their lives in the attack. A Jewish supernumerary constable is in a dangerous condition suffering from a bullet wound in the chest. Two British constables have been detained in hospital suffering from shock and superficial wounds. Six British police received superficial injuries.

Jerusalem District Land Registry records were very extensively damaged by fire and by water from Fire Brigade operations. Full implication of the loss of these valuable records cannot be determined for some time. It is not yet known what can be salvaged, but preliminary survey indicates that loss is likely to be serious, as it involves the majority principal registers as well as files. It will be necessary to close the Jerusalem District Land Registry sine die.

Jaffa Divisional Police Headquarters, which is close to the Tel Aviv boundary, and two Police Stations on the Jaffa-Tel Aviv border, were attacked by armed Jews on 22nd August at approximately 2300 hours.

Attackers in three separate parties, each numbering about a dozen men, were armed with home-made bombs, grenades and sub machine guns, and one party arrived and left in a truck. Way was prepared for the attack by diversionary mining of the roads and rail crossings in the neighbourhood and the laying of booby traps. In addition, a large ambush party lay near the Divisional Headquarters. Where road junctions were mined, posters had been left bearing warnings by Irgun Zvai Leumi.

Attackers were driven off by small arms fire, except at one Police Station, where the Palestinian personnel on guard were outnumbered. Fourteen rifles were taken from this Station. Minor damage was done to buildings by bombs. Casualties were one British Constable wounded in the leg, one Arab Constable and one Jewish temporary additional Constable seriously injured. The latter's rifle was taken.

Six suspects have been arrested, one of whom was wounded by police fire and was seen to throw away a bomb.

27 SEPTEMBER 1944

On the night of 27th September attacks were made on four Police Stations by members of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, the military organization of the New Zionist Organisation. They were planned and executed by a force estimated to have been at least 150 strong and armed with bombs and automatic weapons. There were casualties among Palestinian police and civilians and considerable damage was caused to police buildings. Casualties were also inflicted on the terrorists and two men were arrested, one of whom had been wounded. Quantities of ammunition, two bombs and Irgun flags were seized.

29 SEPTEMBER 1944

On the 29th September, Asst. Superintendent Wilkin of the Palestine C.I.D. was shot dead in a public street in Jerusalem by two Jews, who escaped. He was known to be an expert on Jewish Affairs. The murder was subsequently claimed by the "Fighters for the Freedom of Israel" in a clandestine pamphlet issued by that organization.

6 OCTOBER 1944

At 2.15 p.m. on 6th October the Tel Aviv offices and stores of the Department of Light Industries were raided by about 50 persons, some of whom were armed. They removed 8 truckloads of textiles. Raiders announced themselves as being, and are believed to have been, members of the Irgun Zvai Leumi. Object of the raid was presumably to raise funds; according to preliminary report value of textiles stolen was 100,000 Pounds.

31 OCTOBER/1 NOVEMBER 1944

The Secretary of State for the Colonies (Mr. George Hall): On the night of 31st October/1st November, a series of concerted attacks was made by armed Jews on the Palestine railway system, culminating in a full-scale attack on the railway station and goods yards at Lydda. Owing to the widespread nature of the attacks, information is still necessarily incomplete, but reports so far received show that the permanent way has been blown up and cut in over 20 places, on the main Gaza-Acre line and especially on the lines between Lydda and Jerusalem and between Haifa and Samakh. In other places there have been reports of explosions and unexploded mines have been found on the line. The attack on the station and goods yard at Lydda resulted in extensive damage to a signal box, a train and three locomotives. The locomotive shed was set on fire and large numbers of unexploded mines and bombs were found in the vicinity.

During the attack, the following casualties occurred: Killed — 1 British soldier; 1 Palestinian policeman and 2 Palestinian members of the railway staff. Believed killed — 1 Palestinian policeman. Wounded — 1 British soldier, 1 Palestinian policeman, 6 Palestinian members of the railway staff.

Subsequently the dead body of one Jewish attacker was found near Lydda. During the night, two police launches at anchor in Haifa harbour were damaged, apparently by limpet bombs. A third police launch was blown up and sunk at Jaffa. Unsuccessful attempt was made on the installation of Consolidated Refineries Limited at Haifa. An explosion occurred and the dead body of a man, believed to be a Jew, was found buried beneath rubble but the installation itself was undamaged.

6 NOVEMBER 1944

On the 6th November, in Cairo, Lord Moyne and his British military driver were assassinated by two men who subsequently confessed that they were members of the "Fighters for the Freedom of Israel" and had carried out the murder on the instructions of that organization, for the reason that Lord Moyne was the highest political representative of the British Government in the Middle East and was pursuing a policy hostile to the interests of the Jewish nation. The men entered Egypt in British military uniform and it is possible that they may be deserters from the Palestine Regiment. One of the weapons with which Lord Moyne was killed has been identified as the same which had been used to kill Mr. Wilkin in Jerusalem a month previously.

10 OCTOBER 1945

A large number of armed Jews attacked Athlit clearance camp for immigrants between 0100 hours and 0130 hours today. Men were armed with rifles, pistols and daggers. Some were in police uniform. Four appointed temporary additional constables on guard were seized, beaten with rifle butts, bound and gagged. One Arab was seriously hurt. One Jewish T.A.C. was tied up but not injured.

Attackers cut wide avenue in the wire on the north side of the camp and cut the telephone wires. 208 illegal immigrants were released, apparently with inside knowledge. Eleven immigrants, who presumably refused to accompany the escapees, were bound and gagged. Of these one Christian woman died of suffocation. Party then escaped in the direction of Mount Carmel.

Police took immediate action to seal the Carmel Range. One police party, proceeding to establish road check, was fired upon from ambush by Jews armed with rifles, sub-machine guns and grenades. Police truck was overturned. One British Constable shot dead. (Separate casualty telegram sent). One Arab Constable seriously wounded, and Jewish Corporal slightly wounded. Scene of ambush was presumably one embarking point for the Athlit party, as the police seized nine lorries, with drivers, near the spot shortly after the incident.

11 OCTOBER 1945

A large gang of armed Jews raided a Military Training Depot at Rehovot Station between 0100 and 0130 hours on 11th October. The Jewish guard made no effective resistance and the key to the armoury was obtained. Following were stolen: 9 Bren guns, 6 machine guns, 218 rifles, 2 pistols, 220 bayonets, 24 training grenades, 39 other grenades, and various miscellaneous articles.

Gang drove away in three trucks stolen from the Depot, two belonging to the Army and one to the R.A.F.

The training depot is used for Palestinian troops, primarily for recruits to the Jewish Brigade.

14 NOVEMBER 1945

During the afternoon a number of isolated incidents occurred on the outskirts of Tel Aviv in which Arab buses were stoned and some slight injuries inflicted on passengers. A number of military vehicles were also stoned in the streets of Tel Aviv.

Streets South and East of Colony Square became packed with hostile crowds and the police and military were heavily stoned. At 1900 hrs a warning banner was raised in Aliyah Street. At 1925 hrs the crowd advanced and three casualties from stoning were suffered by troops. Two rounds were ordered and fired at the crowd and it is reported that a ringleader was wounded. Two more rounds were fired at the crowd at 1930 hrs and the crowd withdrew. The crowds there were estimated at 2,000-3,000 in number.

At 1935 hrs the Head Post Office in Allenby Road was attacked from the north; ground floor doors and windows were smashed and a telephone kiosk destroyed. An attempt to set fire to the building with petrol was unsuccessful. Under heavy stoning police parties made baton charges on six occasions; the crowd, however, advanced and the baton party was obliged to retire. Warning to the crowd was given by the military commander at 1940 hrs and at 1945 hrs a warning banner was raised. The crowd, however, continued to advance and ten rounds were fired, whereupon the crowd withdrew.

At about this time large crowds had gathered in Nahlat Benyamin Street. At 1916 hrs they were reported to be stoning the offices of the Income Tax Department and later to be attempting to set fire to the building. At 1930 hrs the offices of the Department of Light Industries in the same street were also reported to have been fired. A reconnaissance patrol reported both buildings to be alight but pending the arrival of further military assistance it was not possible to take effective action. Reinforcements arrived at 2040 hrs and the situation brought under control by 2130 hrs.

15 NOVEMBER 1945

At 7:50 a.m. an assembly of Jews in Natirva Quarter (outside the curfew area) placed a car across the road, the Salame road railway crossing. A platoon of troops was present and the crowd was ordered to disperse. The situation became more menacing and one round was fired inflicting one casualty. Eight other persons suffered injuries in the incident.

At approximately the same time an unruly mob pulled down and broke the railway crossing barrier in Herzl Street. A part of the line was torn up and as a result a passenger train containing Arabs was held at Tel Aviv Railway Station. The line was quickly repaired and service resumed.

At 7:55 a.m. it was reported that approximately 500 people were outside the offices of the Light Industries Department in Machlat Benyamin Street; that some had entered the building and were attempting to break open the safe; and that furniture was being burned in the street.

At 9 a.m. a crowd of approximately 500 persons assembled in Hagen David Adom Square stoning and attempting to overturn military vehicles. 4-ton military lorry loaded with flour was wrecked and set on fire. The driver, a Jewish soldier, was seriously injured.

Shortly before 10 a.m. a blazing barrier was placed across the Jaffa-Tel Aviv Road at the Herzl Street junction, and troops in the vicinity were heavily stoned by a crowd of hooligans. The crowd was dispersed with a short burst of automatic fire. A few minutes later the crowd reassembled and passing police vehicles were heavily stoned. Further rounds were fired to disperse the gathering.

A branch of Barclay's Bank in Allenby Road, near the Mograbi Cinema and the sub-Post Office in Bialik Street, were attacked simultaneously at 10:30 a.m. Parties were dispatched to these places and both premises were cleared. Later, however, after the departure of the troops, the sub-Post Office was again attacked and an attempt was made to open the safe. Interior fittings were stripped and burned in the streets. A combined police and military patrol which arrived on the scene was stoned and one home made "getaway" type bomb was thrown. Two baton charges were made by the police and the crowd was then warned to disperse. The warning had no effect and troops fired four rounds; the crowd then dispersed. On the Bank premises internal fittings were torn down and burned in the streets. A steel cupboard was left lying on the pavement intact and a large safe inside the premises was found also to be intact. Troops cleared and held the vicinity.

At 12 noon two home-made "getaway" type bombs were thrown at troops in Hagen David Adom Square, one of which failed to explode. There were no casualties among the troops in this incident but one of the attackers is believed to have been injured.

Between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. whilst the incidents described above were taking place, shops belonging to Messrs. Spinney's Ltd. in Nachlat Benyamin Street and Second of November Square were looted and the premises badly damaged. Police parties made a number of baton charges to disperse the rioters but the principal offenders as regards looting were small children.

15 NOVEMBER 1945

Curfew imposed municipal area Tel Aviv last night broken early today by large number rioters carrying out series lawless acts. At 0826, mob blocked road with car at railway crossing Hatiquva Quarter. Crowd refused disperse on orders and military forced to shoot ringleader and around property. Section railway line uprooted Herzl Street, Post Office, Bialik Street, broken into and fittings burnt in street, shops including Spinneys British-owned stores entered and looted, Barclays Bank stripped of fittings but attempted safe opening failed. Troops compelled to open fire several places after police failed disperse crowds with baton charges. Twice mob threw home-made grenades at soldiers. Casualties today — 1 Jew dead, 1 very seriously injured, 13 seriously injured, 3 slightly injured; forces law and order suffered no casualties. 50 arrests curfew breakers; 5 adults, 8 juveniles arrested for rioting. General Officer Commanding Palestine and Acting Chief Secretary morning conferred with General Officer Commanding, Sixth Airborne Division, and local authorities on steps required restore law and order. Clearly evident interests security locally and countryside curfew essential. Military dispositions made for enforcement. Rokach, Mayor of Tel Aviv, summoned and impressed supreme need ensuring law abiders complied curfew restrictions and cooperated maintenance law and order. Mayor agreed pledged municipality take all steps later issuing message Tel Avivians condemning irresponsible elements urging control. Measures generally effective, but situation tense and some firing tonight. Curfew lifted only tomorrow 7 morning to 4 afternoon.

On the 27th December at about 7.15 p.m. Police Headquarters in Jerusalem were attacked by Jewish terrorists armed with automatic weapons and explosives. The attack commenced with heavy fire directed at Police Headquarters; at the same time entry was forced into a large building opposite and some members of the gang gained access to a balcony from which heavy fire was directed at the Police buildings across the road. Under cover of this fire other Jews laid explosives at one corner of the Police offices. The subsequent explosion caused heavy damage to the buildings, one British Assistant Superintendent of Police was killed and buried under the debris together with four Basuto guards. A British Superintendent of Police who was working in the Stores section at the time and four Palestinian Constables on guard were injured.

A British Constable who was on duty at the main door of Police Headquarters, ran out into the road and engaged the attackers with great gallantry. He was killed in action at this point. At about the same time another British Constable was shot dead whilst in action against the Jews nearby. A further body of Jews was encountered by a British Deputy Superintendent of Police while they were engaged in withdrawing from the scene. This officer engaged them and it is believed that he inflicted a number of casualties before being shot down by automatic fire. The body of a dead Jew who had been killed by bullet wounds was subsequently found and another Jew was admitted to hospital with a bullet wound. This man's house was searched and military equipment was found.

Damage to Police Headquarters in Jerusalem was largely restricted to the Stores Section. The C.I.D. Offices and Criminal records escaped with little damage.

At about the same time explosions occurred at District Police Headquarters in Jaffa. As in Jerusalem charges were laid against the building under heavy covering fire. The Police guard returned the attackers' fire. Considerable damage was caused to the Police buildings and an Arab telephone operator was killed at his post. A detachment of Police Mobile Force proceeding to the scene of the outrage was heavily attacked by armed Jews at some distance from the Jaffa Police Headquarters. After an exchange of fire the attackers fled towards Tel Aviv.

CHAPTER FIVE

ZIONIST TERRORISM AND CRIMES IN PALESTINE 1946

In 1946 the Zionist terrorist organizations intensified their terrorist campaign. The military arm of the Jewish Agency — the Hagana and the Palmach — had about 46,000 military-trained men. The Jewish settlement police numbered about 16,000. It was estimated that the Irgun Z'vai Leumi had 3,000 to 5,000 members and the Stern group had 200 to 300 members. Although the Hagana and the Palmach pretended that they were not taking part in terrorist acts, in fact they cooperated with the Irgun Z'vai Leumi and the Stern Gang in committing these acts of terrorism. In July 1946, the British Government published a Statement of Information Relating to Acts of Violence that proves the connection between the Jewish Agency and the other Zionist organizations.<sup>1</sup>

The information which was in the possession of His Majesty's Government when they undertook their recent action in Palestine led them to draw the following conclusions:-

(1) That the Hagana and its associated force the Palmach (working under the political control of prominent members of the Jewish Agency) have been engaging in carefully planned movements of sabotage and violence under the guise of "the Jewish Resistance Movement";

(2) that the Irgun Z'vai Leumi and the Stern Group have worked since last Autumn in cooperation with the Hagana High Command on certain of these operations; and

(3) that the broadcasting station "Kol Israel," which claims to be "the Voice of the Resistance Movement" and which was working under the general direction of the Jewish Agency has been supporting these organisations.

The evidence on which these conclusions are based is derived in the main from three sources:

(i) Information which has been obtained showing that between the 23rd September, 1945, and the 3rd November, 1945, seven telegrams passed between London and Jerusalem, and a further telegram on 12th May, 1946. Copies of these have been interpreted and here are set out;

(ii) various broadcasts by "Kol Israel" between 31st October, 1945, and the 23rd June, 1946, referring to specific acts of violence and sabotage; and

(iii) information on various dates derived from the pamphlet Hamaas (the publication of the Stern Group), from Herut (the publication of the Irgun Z'vai Leumi) and from Eshnav (the publication of "the Jewish Resistance Movement"). Examples from these pamphlets are set out in this Paper.

This evidence relates to the three widespread sabotage operations of the 31st October/1st November, 1945; 20th-25th February, 1946, and 16th-18th June, 1946. All three para-military organisations participated in these actions which not only caused very serious destruction but also loss of life.

I. ATTACK ON RAILWAYS POLICE LAUNCHES AND HAIFA REFINERY 31 OCTOBER-1 NOVEMBER, 1945

Note: The Palmach carried out widespread attacks on the Palestinian Railway system. The line was blown up in 153 places in all, completely disrupting it. Other charges, though laid, did not explode. Three police launches were destroyed by explosives, two at Haifa and one at Jaffa. The same night, the Irgun Z'vai Leumi attacked Lydda Station and Yards causing damage to three locomotives, the destruction of one signal box, and the burning of an engine shed. Several casualties were inflicted, including the death of one British soldier. A further attempt was made on the same night by the Stern Group to blow up the Oil Refinery at Haifa.

This incident was carefully planned in advance as part of a deliberate policy. It was intended as a warning to His Majesty's Government of the consequences that would follow if they did not comply with the wishes of the Yishuv (the Jewish community in Palestine). The Jewish Agency Executive was not prepared to wait for a declaration of Government policy, but decided to cause "one serious incident" in order to influence that policy. These facts can plainly be seen from the following telegrams.

Telegram No. 1

To London from Sneh in Jerusalem — 23rd September, 1945.

"It is suggested that we do not wait for the official announcement but call upon all Jewry to warn the authorities and to raise the morale of the Yishuv. If you agree ask Zeev Sharif for statistical material about the absorptive capacity and if you do not agree tell him that this material is not yet required. It has also been suggested that we cause one serious incident. We would then publish a declaration to the effect that it is only a warning and an indication of much more serious incidents that would threaten the safety of all British interests in the country, should the Government decide against us. Wire your views with the reference as before but referring to statistical material about immigration during the war years. The Stern Group have expressed their willingness to join us completely on the basis of our programme of activity. This time the intention seems serious. If there is such a union we may assume that we can prevent independent action even by the IZL. Wire your views on the question of the union referring to statistical material about Jewish recruitment to the Army. Sneh."

N.B. Sneh is Security member of the Jewish Agency Executive. IZL is the Irgun Z'vai Leumi.

That the Agency Executive agreed to the above action is clearly shown in the following telegrams:

To London from Bernard Joseph in Jerusalem — 10th October, 1945.

"Eliezer Kaplan basing himself on a word from Hayyim via Nbwv says that we should undertake nothing before you give us instructions to do. He is opposed to any real action on our part until we hear from you.

Other members, however, are of the opinion that it is necessary to back your political effort with activities which do not bear the character of a general conflict.

It is essential that we should know at once whether such actions are likely to be useful or detrimental to your struggle.

Should you be opposed to any action whatever, wire that we should wait for the arrival of Wisly.

Should you agree to isolated actions, wire that you agree to sending a deputation to the dominions.

If Hayyim meant us only avoid a general conflict not isolated cases, send greetings to Chill for the birth of his daughter."

N.B. Bernard Joseph is legal adviser to the Jewish Agency and a member of its Executive. He acts in Shertok's absence as Head of the Political Department. Eliezer Kaplan is Head of the Agency's Financial Department and a member of its Executive.

From Moshe Shertok in London to Bernard Joseph in Jerusalem. 12th October, 1945.

"David will not leave before fortnight. Meanwhile probably revisit Paris. Regarding Dobkin written. David himself favoured delegate dominions. Please congratulate Chill on birth of daughter. Signed Shertok."

N.B. (1) Moshe Shertok is Head of the Agency's Political Department and a member of the Executive.

(2) A reference to telegram No. 2 will show that the phrases about "delegate dominions" and "greetings to Chill" meant that it was desired, whilst avoiding a general conflict, to indulge in isolated actions.

To London from Jerusalem. 2nd November, 1945.

"The Executive refuses to give authority to the political department to act within the limits of Ben Gurion's instructions. Gsbr argues that he will oppose this as soon as Ben Gurion and Shertok return. I declared that I will act according to the instructions which I have received until an authoritative message is received which cancels Ben Gurion's instructions. They did not dare to cancel the instructions but insisted that we inform the Executive in advance of each action and that they should have the right of veto. We received agreement for the police boats and for the railway. All activities may thus be spoiled owing to pressure from the party on Bernard Joseph and on Eliahu."

N.B. David Ben Gurion is Chairman of the Jewish Agency Executive.

For the operations of the 31st October to 1st November the Agency sought and obtained the cooperation of the "dissident organisations."

Telegram No. 5.

To London from Jerusalem. 1st November, 1945.

"We have come to a working arrangement with the dissident organisations according to which we shall assign certain tasks to them under our command. They will act only according to our plan. Sneh, Shaul Meiroff, Kn'ny and Bernard Joseph consider such an agreement as most desirable, but it is not being put into effect because the Party is delaying it. Some of them are opposed to any sort of activity and especially to any agreement with the dissidents. Information on the operation follows:

The following activities were carried out on Wednesday night. Two boats were sunk in the Haifa harbour and a third at Jaffa. The boats had been used to chase immigrants. Railway lines were blown up in 50 centres, in all 500 explosions. Railway traffic was stopped from the Syrian frontier to Gaza, from Haifa to Samakh, from Lydda to Jerusalem. In all the activities no one was hurt, stopped or arrested.

The same night the IZL attacked the Lydda station causing serious damage and some casualties. During the same night the Stern Group caused serious sabotage at the refineries at Haifa and one man was killed. The dissidents had previously informed us of this and we did not object to Lydda but were opposed to the refinery job. Had the agreement come into effect we could have avoided victims at Lydda and prevented the refinery operation. I regard the fact that the Party and the Executive are withholding their approval as a crime.

The activities have made a great impression in the country. The authorities are bewildered and have proclaimed a curfew on the roads at night. They are waiting for instructions from London. We are apprehensive of a general attack against the Hagana. We have taken the necessary security measures and are prepared for sacrifices. Confirm by telegram to Ada enquiries about the health of her children."

Hamaas, the publication of the Stern Group in referring to the above operation, stated:

"The events of 1st November have given a striking expression of the firm resolution of the Jews to fight for the freedom of their homeland. The scope of the attack has proved that the Jews are capable of acting under the most difficult conditions.

"However, the most significant achievement on that night was that for the first time the attack was coordinated and concentrated. The Jewish Resistance Movement has embraced all the Jewish resistance forces with a view to their being guided by a single authority which would control the common fight." (Hamaas Issue No. 2 of November, 1945.)

These operations were widely publicised by the Jewish illegal broadcasting station, Kol Israel, as follows:

"The paralysing of the Railways all over the country through cutting the lines in 242 places serves as a warning to the Government of the White Paper.

The nights of heroism since Athlit (On 10th October the Palmach released over 200 illegal immigrants from Athlit Clearance Camp. A British police tender was ambushed during the subsequent search for the escaped persons and one British policeman and two Palestinians were wounded — ed.) are an expression of our strength and decision. We lament the British, Arab and Jewish victims who fell in the attacks on the railways and ports of Palestine. They are all victims of the White Paper. All our men returned safely with their equipment. None of our men is missing." (2nd November, 1945.)

As proof of the fact that the Kol Israel station was working with the agreement of the Jewish Agency, reference may be made to the following telegrams. (See also telegram No. 8):

To London from Sneh in Jerusalem. 12th October, 1945.

"With effect from 4/10 the broadcasts of the 'Voice of Israel' have been renewed. Two broadcasts were successful. Eliezer Kaplan and Bernard Joseph were invited to see the High Commissioner this morning.

The agreement for the renewal of the broadcasts and the Athlit undertakings have been obtained with difficulty. In future I shall not enquire but decide in conjunction with Shaul Meiroff and Kn'ny."

Telegram No. 7.

To London from Jerusalem. 14th October, 1945.

"The Voice of Israel started to function as the broadcasting station of the Jewish Resistance Movement three days before we received your letter and your telegram.

We also have had the same doubts and we voiced them before the broadcasts were started but the expert says that there are no grounds for anxiety from the technical point of view."

N.B. The phrase "grounds for anxiety from the technical point of view" probably refers to apprehension that the station, which is a mobile one, might be located.

II. ATTACKS ON HAIFA RADAR STATION, PALESTINE MOBILE FORCE CAMPS, AND AIRFIELDS — 20-25 FEBRUARY, 1946.

Note: On 20th February, 1946, the Palmach attacked the R.A.F. Station, Haifa, blowing it up and seriously wounding two R.A.F. N.C.Os and inflicting lesser injuries on six others.

Two days later the Palmach carried out coordinated attacks on Palestine Mobile Force Camps at Shaffa Amr, Kfar Vitkin and Sarona. At Shaffa Amr serious damage was caused. One police officer suffered head injuries. Three British women and one child suffered from shock.

On 25th February, the Irgun Z'vai Leumi and Stern Group followed this up with attacks on airfields at Lydda, Petah Tikvah, and Qastina, destroying seven aircraft and damaging eight others.

These incidents seem to have been intended as a "second warning," as the "first warning" on the 31st October/1st November, 1945, had been "disregarded." These incidents were described in a Kol Israel broadcast of the 3rd March, 1946.

"This last fortnight has seen a renewed intensity in the struggle of the Jewish people against the forces which aim to throttle them and their natural aspirations for normal nationhood in their National Home.

"The attack on the Radar Station on Mount Carmel was aimed at destroying one of the principal agents of the Government in its hunt for Jewish refugees. The sabotage of the airfields (i.e., by Irgun Z'vai Leumi and Stern Group) was the sabotage of a weapon which has been degraded from its glorious fight against the evil forces of Nazism to the dishonourable task of fighting against the victims of Nazism.

"Those three attacks are symptomatic of our struggle. In all cases the onslaught was made against the weapon used by the White Paper in its despicable battle to repudiate its undertaking to the Jewish people and the world, and not against the men who use this weapon. It is not our object to cause the loss of life of any Briton in this country; we have nothing against them because we realise that they are but instruments of a policy, and in many cases unwilling instruments."

In addition to the above broadcast, Herut, the publication of the Irgun Z'vai Leumi, and Eshnav, the pamphlet published in the name of the Resistance Movement, made the following allusions to these extensive operations:

"Heavy tasks were imposed on all the forces of the nation. The soldiers of the Hagana were ordered to attack the forces in their lairs (i.e. the Palestine Mobile Force). No less difficult was the task imposed on the members of the National Military Organisation (Irgun Z'vai Leumi) who were sent to attack the military airfields at Qastina and the central airfield at Lydda; and on the members of the Fighters for Freedom of Israel (Stern Group) who were ordered to attack the aerodrome at Kfar Sirkin. The importance of this week's events lies in the fact that this was the first time that the military bases of the British rulers were shaken." (Herut, Issue No. 55 of February, 1946.)

"A Big Week.

"The actions of this glorious week have been carried out with the support of the entire, united Jewish youth. This is a political achievement.

"The Palestine Mobile Force has been attacked by the Hagana; at two camps considerable damage has been inflicted. At Sarona the fighters retired after a continuation of the attack had proved useless. Here four of them fell.

"Lydda and Qastina airfields have been attacked by Irgun Z'vai Leumi whilst Lohemei Herut Israel (Fighters for Freedom of Israel) men chose as their aim the airfield at Kfar Sirkin." (Herut, Issue No. 56 of February, 1946.)

"The first warning on 1st November, 1945, by the Jewish Resistance was disregarded, and the whole Yishuv was compelled to carry out a second warning during the last fortnight expressed in the attacks on Palestine Mobile Force Stations and Airfields." (Eshnav, Issue No. 116 of 4th March, 1946.)

III. ATTACKS ON ROAD AND RAIL BRIDGES, RAILWAY WORKSHOPS AND KIDNAPPING OF BRITISH OFFICERS, 16-18 JUNE, 1946

Note: During the evening of 16th June, 1946, Hagana carried out attacks on road and rail bridges on the frontier of Palestine causing damage estimated at 250,000 Pounds. Four road and four rail bridges were destroyed or damaged during the night, and one road bridge across the Jordan was destroyed by a delayed action mine, while attempts were being made to remove the charges. One British officer of the Royal Engineers was killed by the explosion.

The following evening the Stern Group carried out an attack on the Haifa Railway Workshops.

On 18th June, 1946, five British officers were kidnapped while lunching at an officers' club in Tel Aviv and a sixth British officer was kidnapped in a main street of Jerusalem.

Indication that a further series of incidents might be imminent was given on 12th May, 1946, when Kol Israel broadcast a warning which it considered "desirable" to "lay before His Majesty's Government." The text of this broadcast was as follows:

"The Jewish Resistance Movement thinks it desirable to publish the warning it intends to lay before His Majesty's Government. Present British policy is executing a dangerous manoeuvre and is based on an erroneous assumption: Britain, in evacuating Syria, Lebanon and Egypt intends to strengthen her military bases in Palestine and is using her responsibility to the Jewish people merely as a means to that end. But this double game will not work. Britain cannot hold both ends of the rope; she cannot exploit the tragic Jewish question for her own benefit as mandatory power, while attempting to wiggle out of the various responsibilities which that mandate confers. From the Zionist point of view, the tepid conclusions of the Commission bear no relation to the political claims of the Jewish people, but even so, in the execution of these proposals, the British Government is displaying a vacillation at once disappointing and discreditable. We would therefore warn publicly His Majesty's Government that if it does not fulfil its responsibilities under the mandate — above all with regard to the question of immigration — the Jewish people will feel obliged to lay before the nations of the world the request that the British leave Palestine. The Jewish Resistance Movement will make every effort to hinder the transfer of British bases to Palestine and to prevent their establishment in the country."

This broadcast is of particular significance by reason of the fact that it was given at the express request of Moshe Shertok, Head of the Jewish Agency's Political Department and a member of its Executive Committee, and had also been passed to David Ben Gurion, Chairman of the Executive Committee. This is made clear in the following telegram:

Telegram No. 8.

To "Daniel" in London from Sneh in Jerusalem.

12th May, 1946.

"Please pass on to Ben Gurion the text of the broadcast of Kol Israel sent herewith; with a note that the broadcast was made at the request of Shertok."

The telegram then repeats textually the broadcast message of the same date.

There followed on the night of the 16th June, 1946, the widespread and carefully planned attacks on vital communications and on the following night the attack on railway workshops. Kol Israel accepted full responsibility on behalf of "the Resistance Movement for the renewal of its activity as a result of the delaying policy of the British Government."

Kol Israel Broadcast.

"The action of blowing up the bridges expressed the high morale and courage of the Jewish fighters who carried out the attack. They had to pass long distances and to carry a large quantity of material for that purpose. The withdrawal was most difficult since all the police and army were on their feet and aircraft were looking for the attackers; despite all this the operation was executed and all objectives were reached according to plan without causing any loss of life to the guards. There were some casualties among attackers in the North owing to an unfortunate accident which was caused by the fall of a rocket directly onto a lorry loaded with explosives and the whole load blew up and the persons there were killed. Honour to their memory! The Army and Police became furious and started to discharge their wrath on the peaceful people of the nearby settlements; many settlers of Beth Haareva, Matzuva and Eilon were arrested and taken to Acre.

"Many messages of heartfelt appreciation were sent by various personalities and journalists to the Resistance Movement for the renewal of its activity as a result of the delaying policy of the British Government, the recent Bevin speech and the known announcement of Attlee. These objectives were chosen to disturb British bases and communications, to prevent the Arabs of the neighbouring countries who talked so much about coming to fight the Jews in Palestine, and to mark the closing up of these frontiers before Jewish immigrants."

23rd June, 1946.

"This is the Voice of Israel, the voice of Jewish Resistance. Last week we had to destroy the bridges — these bridges are just as much use to us as the authorities but they had to be destroyed to show our feelings."

CONCLUSION

The evidence contained in the foregoing pages is not, and is not intended to be, a complete statement of all the evidence in possession of His Majesty's Government.

Nor are the specific instances herein referred to by any means a complete list of all the incidents of violence and sabotage which have taken place in recent months.

The fact is that in the first six months of 1946 there were nearly fifty separate incidents involving violence, and in many cases loss of life: material damage to a very great extent has been done to railway installations, police and R.A.F. stations, and coastguard stations. Roads have been mined and vehicles have been blown up.

The above operations were widespread in character and caused very extensive damage. When they were almost immediately followed by the kidnapping of British officers, it was no longer possible for His Majesty's Government to adopt a passive attitude. Unless the Government were prepared to yield to threats of violence and to abandon all hope of establishing law and order, they were bound to take active steps against any persons or organisations who had made themselves responsible for the planning and carrying out of the outrages which are dealt with in this Paper.

This chapter contains details of the crimes committed by Zionist terrorist organizations in 1946. One of the most atrocious crimes was the massacre of the King David Hotel on the 22nd of July, 1946. The Jewish terrorists blew up a wing of the King David Hotel where the Secretariat of the Government of Palestine had its headquarters. Ninety-two persons were killed and 45 were injured. The following is a summary showing the types of terrorism committed in 1946 by the Zionist terrorists:

1. Blowing up of trains and bridges.
2. Killing British soldiers, officers and policemen.
3. Killing Arabs.
4. Taking and torturing hostages.
5. Robbing jewelry stores, mostly diamonds and gold.
6. Kidnapping of Jews.
7. Massacre of the King David Hotel (July 22).
8. Extortion of money from Jews and killing Jews for refusing to contribute to terrorists.
9. Cutting telephone lines and blowing up of central exchanges.
10. Placing bombs in buildings, markets and roads which killed or wounded civilians passing by, members of British armed forces, and British and Arab policemen.
11. Robbing banks and killing people during robberies.

12. Placing bombs in railway stations, markets and Government offices and exploding them, killing and injuring many people.
13. Assassination of British and Arab police officers.
14. Killing Arab children.
15. Derailing railway cars.
16. Placing boobytraps which killed soldiers and civilians.
17. Sniping at police and soldiers.
18. Armed robbery of banks.
19. Placing trucks filled with explosives near buildings, destroying them and killing and wounding many people.
20. Filling cars with explosives (about 40 lbs.) and exploding them by remote control, killing and wounding soldiers, policemen and civilians. Some buildings and houses were completely destroyed.
21. Setting cars of Jews and Arabs on fire and causing damage to passersby.
22. Kidnapping British officers and soldiers, flogging them, torturing them and humiliating them.
23. Throwing bombs in cafes, killing and injuring many people.

HOUSE OF COMMONS DEBATES

These Jewish terrorist crimes were often discussed in debates in the British House of Commons. The following are quotations from these debates.

On April 30th, 1946, Earl Winterton asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies if he had any statement to make on the murder of seven soldiers of the Sixth Airborne Division at Tel Aviv on April 25th.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies (Mr. George Hall): On the night of 25th April, an attack was carried out by 20 to 30 Jewish terrorists in civilian clothes against British soldiers of the 6th Airborne Division who were guarding a car park in Tel Aviv. The attack began with the throwing of an anti-personnel bomb into the car park, followed by heavy bursts of fire from adjoining houses. Under cover of this fire, the guard tent was rushed and two soldiers inside were shot dead in cold blood. Four other soldiers were shot and killed by fire directed at the car park. One lance corporal was fatally wounded and died in the hospital. Police personnel in an adjoining station opened fire on the attackers while retreating. The terrorists had systematically mined all the approach roads with anti-personnel mines which greatly delayed ambulances rushing to the aid of the casualties. While no arrests have been made of the perpetrators of this outrage, investigations are proceeding, and some 79 persons have been detained for interrogation. The town of Tel Aviv has been put out of bounds to British troops. This was a premeditated and vicious attack obviously designed to cause the maximum casualties. I endorse the High Commissioner's description of it as a coldblooded murder.<sup>2</sup>

On July 1, 1946, the question of Jewish terrorism was raised in the House of Commons.

Mr. Sydney Silverman (by Private Notice) asked the Prime Minister whether he has any statement to make concerning the attack by British troops upon the premises of the Jewish Agency and other places in Palestine and the detention by force of its executive members and more than a thousand other persons; under what international authority this step was taken and who will now perform the functions, which, by international law, devolve upon the Jewish Agency.

The Prime Minister (answered): With the permission of the House I should like to make a full statement on the position in Palestine, in the course of which I will deal with the points put by my hon. Friend.

The House has been informed from time to time of acts of sabotage and terrorism in Palestine. In the face of these incidents the military and civil authorities have shown the greatest forbearance, and their action has hitherto been local or directed only against those immediately responsible for each particular incident. It has, however, become increasingly clear in recent months that these incidents form part of a concerted plan prepared and executed by highly developed military organisations with widespread ramifications throughout the country.

The Anglo-American Committee called special attention to the development of illegal armed forces as a sinister feature of recent years in Palestine. The largest of these is the Hagana, estimated to be about 70,000 strong, with a mobile striking force the Palmach, some 5,000 strong. This force has been developed on highly organised military lines and is armed with the most modern equipment. In addition there are two Jewish terrorist organisations — the Irgun Z'vai Leumi, which is believed to have between 5,000 and 6,000 adherents trained in street fighting and sabotage, and the Stern Group which specialises in assassination. The Hagana have been responsible for many instances of destruction of property and armed resistance to the Government; the other two organisations have been responsible for numerous acts of violence and murder and for the recent kidnappings.<sup>3</sup>

Within the past three weeks, sabotage of road and rail communications, including the blowing up of the principal bridges over the Jordan, has caused damage estimated at well over a quarter of a million pounds. On the night of 17th June the railway workshops at Haifa were seriously damaged by explosions and fire. The climax came on 18th June, when six British officers were kidnapped, and two others were seriously wounded. Three of those kidnapped are still held captive. These are the culminating events in a campaign of violence which since December has caused the death of 16 British soldiers and five police (including the seven soldiers murdered in cold blood at Tel Aviv on 25th April). The material damage has exceeded 400,000 Pounds.

His Majesty's Government, as Mandatory, have an international duty to maintain law and order in Palestine and full authority to take all necessary steps to that end. It was clear that we could no longer tolerate this direct challenge to our authority without abdicating this duty. I know what deep sympathy there is for the sufferings of the Jews in Europe and I appreciate the natural intensity of the feelings of those who experienced the atrocities of the Hitler regime, including murder and the taking of hostages. But this cannot condone the adoption by the Jews in Palestine of some of the very worst of the methods of their oppressors in Europe. Accordingly, after consultation with the civil and military authorities in Palestine, His Majesty's Government authorised the High Commissioner to take all necessary steps to restore order and to break up the illegal organisations, including the arrest of individuals believed to be responsible for the present campaign of violence. I am sorry to say that these included some of the leading members of the Jewish Agency. There is evidence of close connection between the Agency and the Hagana.<sup>4</sup>

Again, on July 31, 1946, the question of Jewish terrorism was discussed after the King David Hotel massacre. The Lord President of the Council, Mr. Herbert Morrison, opened the debate and stated:

This debate takes place in the shadow of a tragedy that must have moved the most war-hardened among us. In the destruction of the Government offices at the King David Hotel in Jerusalem, 84 men and women — Arabs, Jews, British — were killed, and 46 injured, while 22 are still missing. These were people innocent of any crime, members of the public going about their ordinary business, and many loyal and single-hearted servants of the community. I am sure that the whole House would wish me to express again the deep sympathy felt by the whole British people for the victims of this outrage. Police and military forces have, on each occasion of acts of terrorism, instituted measures to track down and arrest those responsible.

The greatest obstacle to success in these operations has been the refusal of the Jewish population in Palestine to cooperate with the forces of law and order. Jewish settlers have resorted to passive resistance of the most determined kind against searches for terrorists. The Government have been equally determined to bring the perpetrators of these outrages to account, and reached the conclusion that radical action was needed against the organisers of illegal armed forces, and the organisations they control. Action to this end was initiated on 29th June when widespread arrests and searches were carried out by all the Security Forces in Palestine. The examination of detainees and the scrutiny of documents seized in those searches was still proceeding, when the latest and most tragic incident occurred — the destruction at the King David Hotel. Immediate action was taken to pursue the perpetrators of the outrage and 446 Jews were arrested, whose records showed association with the terrorist organisations. As there was clear evidence that some, if not all, of the persons responsible for the Jerusalem crime came from Tel Aviv, military operations in that town took place on 30th July to apprehend them.

The shock of the King David Hotel explosion has surely aroused us to a fuller understanding, if that were needed, of the horrible and monstrous nature of those "evil things" — to borrow a phrase used on a famous occasion — against which we are fighting. The curse of Hitler is not yet fully removed. Some of his victims fleeing from the ravaged ghettos of Europe have carried with them the germs of those very plagues from which they sought escape — intolerance, racial pride, intimidation, terrorism and the worship of force....

The death of Lord Moyne in November, 1944, came as a startling proof of the evil nature of Palestinian (sic) terrorism and the lengths to which it would go. After that for a time the Jewish Agency cooperated with the Government in a campaign against the illegal organisations, the Irgun Z'vai Leumi and the Stern Gang. There was, for some months, a lull in terrorist activities, but in May, 1945, following threats by the Irgun Z'vai Leumi that V-Day for the world would be D-Day for them, there was a renewed outbreak of violence....<sup>5</sup>

Mr. Oliver Stanley, member of the House of Commons from West Bristol, joined in the debate and stated:

Unfortunately, for the last four years we have seen in Palestine a steady deterioration in the security position. I have seen it myself, during my term of office, pass from the lull which there was when I first came in, to isolated action on the part of the Stern Gang, from that to bigger scale action by the Irgun Z'vai Leumi, at first under conditions which were carefully arranged to prevent the loss of life, and then I have seen that limitation abandoned and life as well as property become exposed to danger. All that time the Hagana and the Jewish Agency who control them not only stood aside but condemned those outrages by dissident bodies and, as the Lord President says, after the murder of Lord Moyne cooperated with the Government.

Unfortunately, it is clear that since those days the position has changed. When we last debated this matter on the Adjournment, the Prime Minister, speaking for the Government, said that he would produce in a White Paper evidence that would implicate both the Jewish Agency and the Hagana in responsibility for these outrages, and would show that they had cooperated with the other dissident bodies which they had condemned before. Having seen the White Paper, I regret to have to say that find that the Government's charge is proved. I say I regret it because it is a matter of great regret that a policy of violence, which before was followed merely by a small and dissident minority, should have received the approval of a body such as the Jewish Agency, which represents so very much in the whole Jewish community in Palestine. I feel that the incident at the end of October, and the exchange of telegrams in connection with that incident which are published in the White Paper, show quite clearly that a definite planned outrage was undertaken by members of the Jewish Agency, and that in that outrage they were acting in the closest cooperation with the Irgun Z'vai Leumi and with the Stern group.<sup>6</sup>

Captain Delargy, member of Parliament from Manchester, stated:

I want to make reference to one point which is not usually raised in this House when Palestine is being debated, probably because it is a subject that is rather disagreeable — the danger of a fresh outburst of anti-Semitism, not merely in Palestine among the Arabs but here and everywhere. It is a danger which does exist and is particularly acute after the recent explosion in Jerusalem. No good whatever can come from hiding the fact and pretending that the danger does not exist. However strongly and sincerely the Jewish leaders and people deplore and condemn the recent outrages in Palestine, nevertheless, there still remains in the minds of many people a suspicion, and more than a suspicion, that these outrages have some connection at least with the extremist political attitude of some Jews here, and more particularly in America. Indeed, the very fact that these acts were committed by Jews makes them appear to some people even more shocking than if they had been committed by other people, simply because there does exist a latent and potential hostility to the Jews.<sup>7</sup>

Mr. Clement Davies, member of Parliament from Montgomery, stated:

We are meeting today at a sad and most depressing moment. Not only have we been deeply shocked by the murders, the inexcusable acts of terrorism, which have been committed recently in Palestine, but there is at this moment a strained feeling between the people of this country and the great Jewish race, which is an even sadder thought. I wish all Jewish people would recall how much the British Government and the British people have endeavoured to assist them over the generations. We not only opened our shores to them, but opened every office to them. I know of no other country where a member of the Jewish race became the occupier of our most cherished position — Prime Minister. Jews have occupied the highest positions in law and on the Bench, and we are under a deep debt of gratitude to them for all they have done in art, culture, and science, and for what they have contributed to the well-being of the world.<sup>8</sup>

Mr. Lever, member of Parliament from Manchester, stated:

Mr. Lever (Manchester, Exchange): It is with some diffidence that I join with other non-experts on this subject in the Debate, but there are a few remarks which I feel ought to be addressed to the House about it. I have never myself been a Jewish nationalist. I have never supported extreme nationalism in Palestine or in Great Britain. I hold no brief for the Jewish Agency leaders in much of their propaganda, particularly that adopted in the United States and in this country, and particularly that which merely contents itself with being anti-British, and which has been used in the United States largely to encourage popularity. Still less have I any sympathy with the villainies of the terrorists of the extreme national movement in Palestine. I am somewhat sickened at the mealy-mouthed hypocrisy which permeates the atmosphere whenever the terrorists are discussed in this House. These terrorists are villainous, stupid and unbalanced people. If anyone is responsible for the deaths of Jews, Arabs and Englishmen in Palestine, it is those who have fomented the desperation of these terrorists, and encouraged their extreme nationalist ambitions without any hope of their being fulfilled.<sup>9</sup>

REPORTS FROM THE PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE, LONDON

Note: LHI = The Stern Gang
IZL = The Irgun Z'vai Leumi
NMO = The National Military Organization

1 JANUARY 1946

On 1 Jan an accidental explosion in a LHI store in Tel Aviv led to Police investigation and the discovery of a large store of arms, ammunition, pamphlets and documents, some of which suggested future targets. LHI broadcasts have threatened reprisals and assassination in return for the "murder" of the two detainees in Eritrea.

10 JANUARY 1946

On the night of 19th January, armed Jews attempted to blow up the studios of the Palestine Broadcasting Service in St. Paul's Road, Jerusalem.

At about 2015 hours, a number of armed Jews placed explosives in the Electric Power Sub-Station near the broadcasting studios. These severed the land lines to the Ramallah transmitter and damaged the Sub-Station. Immediately after the explosion, a police and military patrol operating in the area engaged parties of armed Jews converging on the studio. The Jews opened fire on the patrol, who returned the fire inflicting casualties on the attackers. About the same time, an explosion occurred in the vicinity. This damaged part of the wall of the Central Prison, which abuts on to St. Paul's Road.

12 JANUARY 1946

On 12 Jan. a group of some 50 IZL members stopped, by means of an electrically fired charge, the railway pay train near Hadera. LP.35,000 were stolen. On 19 Jan a combined force of IZL and LHI attacked the Central Prison in Jerusalem with the intention of freeing certain of their members who were held there. A military patrol made contact with one of these groups before the operation had properly commenced and the attack was not successful. Probably severe casualties were inflicted on IZL and LHI including one known dead. One Army officer and one Police Officer were killed

19 JANUARY 1946

At approximately 8 pm on January 19th, 1946, a series of terrorist outrages commenced in Jerusalem. These resulted in the deaths of an Army Officer and a Police Officer and the wounding of a Police Officer and a number of members of His Majesty's Process.

The attacks seem to have commenced at the Jerusalem Electric Corporation Sub-Power Station in the Musrara Quarter. Here, a few minutes before 8 pm, one of the employees of the Corporation found that a padlock and chain on the entrance to the Sub-Station had been cut and were lying on the ground. He put through a telephone call to the Power Station after which he was held up by an armed Jew. This person ordered him to leave the premises, which he did. As he left he was able to see two other Jews, one of them a girl, join the person who ordered him away. Shortly afterwards, at about 8.07 pm, the Sub-Station was extensively damaged by an explosion. A witness living in the vicinity states that there were five Jews concerned in the attack and that the girl carried a pistol. All of them left shortly before the explosion occurred.

It would appear that while the attempt to destroy the Sub-Station was in progress other parties of armed Jews, including girls, were taking up positions in St. Paul's Road. On investigating the Constable saw three or four Jews lying in the road manning a Bren gun, with two or three other Jews standing over them. About eight girls were crouching against a wall and appeared to be carrying small arms. The Jews were wearing battle-dress and steel helmets, some of the girls blue shirts and khaki shorts and others khaki shirts and slacks. At this stage the Bren gun party was seen to open fire on a military patrol moving along St. Paul's Road. The fire was returned.

At approximately 2015 hours 19 January a party of armed Jews destroyed the Electric Power Sub-Station in St. Pauls Road Jerusalem. Shortly afterwards a military patrol encountered two parties of armed Jews in the vicinity of the Palestine Broadcasting Station. Patrol was fired on and returned fire casualties were inflicted one wounded Jew arrested. An explosion occurred which damaged part of the wall of the Central Prison. In vicinity of prison PBS and Police HQ there was considerable firing some of which came from rooftops at police and military personnel. As a result of this one British officer was killed and one wounded. At approximately 2100 hours an army truck ran over a mine in St. Paul's Road which exploded. Shortly before 2200 hours a taxicab called at the Hadassah Hospital with 2 wounded Jews one dead Jew and some arms and ammunition. They were arrested. 2 other wounded also arrested.

19 JANUARY 1946

A parcel containing 8 1/2 lbs of gelignite, and a detonator was found in the garden of the Polish Delegate at 106 Street of the Prophets, Jerusalem, on the morning of the 1st April. These articles are believed to have been dumped in the garden after the terrorist raid on the P.B.S. on 19 Jan '46. This is an added pointer to the existing belief that the terrorists engaged in this operation were panic stricken following the prompt action taken by the military and the police.

On the night of 20/21 January the coastguard station at Givat Olga, previously attacked on 24/25 Nov. was more seriously damaged by a charge introduced during the rebuilding and fired by delay action. No warning by telephone was given this time. British soldier was killed and 14 injured, 1 Palestinian policeman was injured. The foreman and certain workmen responsible for the work of reconstruction, and presumably for the demolition, have been arrested.

On the same night at the R.A.F. Radar station of Mount Carmel a telephone call was received at 21:15 saying that the station would be blown up. A search was made and an explosive charge was found placed against the hut. The charge was fitted with 3 WD red time pencils (half-hour delay) all of which had acted and released the striking pin, but the three firing caps were of local manufacture and defective. The charges were also fitted with booby traps in the form of two pull switches and one release switch which were successfully neutralized by RE. A letter from the Commander Hagana was later received by HQ Palestine congratulating the soldier who disarmed the charge, the object of this letter being, presumably, publicity.

25 JANUARY 1946

On 25 Jan a group of twenty armed Jews stole L6000 worth of yarn from a warehouse in Tel Aviv.

28 JANUARY 1946

At 1215 hours on 28 January 1946, a truck and a Jeep approached Aqir aerodrome along a track from the direction of Aqir village. The two vehicles drew up some distance from the camp and one of the occupants who was wearing the uniform of a RAF Officer alighted. He questioned an Arab working in a field and was directed to the tarmac road, the normal approach to the aerodrome. The vehicles then proceeded direct to 160 MU Armoury which is situated inside Aqir camp near to the hangars. This building is connected by a short corridor to the turret repair room and access to the Armoury is usually through the turret repair room and the corridor. The occupants of the truck entered the turret repair room and held up all those present, a RAF corporal and 3 airmen, who were on guard duty, together with 8 Arab and 6 Jewish civilian employees. The British personnel were tied up and gagged, the others were placed under a guard in the turret repair room. The "Officer" then took two Arab employees to the Armoury where he demanded the keys to the ammunition store and the Sten gun racks. These were not produced, so the corrugated iron door to the store was forced with a crowbar which the attackers had brought with them and the wire hawser holding the Sten guns in their rack was cut.

Meanwhile the truck had been brought to the Armoury door after the gate to the wired-in enclosure protecting it had been broken open. 7 Arab employees were forced to assist in loading Sten guns, Vickers guns and a quantity of ammunition on to the vehicle.

At approximately 1320 hours, the Arabs were returned to the turret room. After a warning had been given that any person moving until ten minutes had elapsed would risk being shot, the truck moved off, to be followed five minutes later by the "Officer" and the remainder of his party. The RAF personnel then gave the alarm and mobile patrols searched the area.

The truck was found bogged and abandoned 800 metres from the camp, but still loaded with arms. All the RAF property with the exception of 9 Sten guns and 50 rounds of ammunition was recovered.

On the 6 Feb, L.H.I. attacked a Kings African Rifle Coy Camp outside Tel Aviv and, killing one British Officer and one African soldier, stole a number of arms which they carried away in two trucks, one of which was a stolen military vehicle. The African soldiers pursued the terrorists into the adjacent village, and three Jewish civilians were killed and five others injured. L.H.I. broadcast claimed the credit for this attack.

On the night of 6 Feb, an unsuccessful attack was made by Hagana on the Police station at Safad. It is thought that the object of the attack was to release eleven Jews who had been arrested and who were held in the Safad Police Station. These Jews have now been transferred to Latrun, and there has again been a report of a contemplated attack on Latrun.

At about 0820 hours today, 15th February, attempt was made by Jewish terrorists on the life of Cafferata, Superintendent of Police, whilst driving from his residence to his office in Haifa. Road was partially blocked by stationary truck and Cafferata was about to slow down when his British police escort noticed tommygun concealed under the raincoat of Jew nearby. Escort opened fire with sten gun and Cafferata accelerated past the stationary truck. Another truck chased Cafferata's car for a short distance firing heavily. Escort returned the fire.

On the night of 20/21 Feb, the Radar Station was unsuccessfully attacked by Hagana. 8 F.A.F. personnel were injured and the station was extensively damaged. The charge was placed in exactly the same position as before, but no time delay fuse was used. It seems that the charge was laid by a small party of two or three men who were covered by larger group outside the wire. A Hachoma broadsheet published after this attack said:-

"The Radar, one of the best inventions of science and culture for the progress and comfort of peoples, is exploited by the servants of a criminal regime to prevent the redemption of stricken refugees. Therefore the instrument has got its punishment.... This morning at 3 a.m. Jewish fighters broke into the place and threw explosives on the Radar with the utmost care not to cause loss of life. The Radar is destroyed! The fighting continues! This is the end of any obstacle put on the way of immigration and rescue of Israel remnants."

On the night of 21 Feb concerted Hagana attacks were made on the P.M.F. stations at Shafr Amr, Kfar Vitkin and Sarona. Some damage to the buildings and vehicles was caused. The attack at Sarona was late and a failure. A military report criticizes the Sarona attack and suggests that the covering fire employed was inadequate and that the attackers did not seem to have tried very hard to maintain their objective. One P.M.F. sentry post succeeded in silencing three Bren guns. Four of the attacking Jews were killed.

21/22 FEBRUARY 1946

Attacks were made last night on Police Mobile Force

Camps at Shafr Amr, Kfar Vitkin and Sarona.

At 10.20 p.m. a party of armed Jews cut through perimeter fence at Shafr Amr and succeeded in placing charges against the building. These exploded causing considerable damage. One British Police Officer received slight head injuries and three British women and one child are suffering from shock. Police opened fire and attacker withdrew.

At about 11 p.m. another party gained access to the Police car park at Kfar Vitkin and placed explosive charges amongst the vehicles, causing damage to six vehicles and the oil store. Four persons seen near the perimeter fence were fired upon by the Guard, but made good their escape.

Shortly after midnight, some Jews were observed acting in a suspicious manner near North fence of Sarona camp. Guard turned out and attacked with small arms and grenades.

2 APRIL 1946

Between 2030 hours and 2200 hours, 2 April 1946, attacks were made on the railway line and installations between Yibna Station 128143 and Isdud 118129, and on the police post at 122136.

The first attack was made by a party of 30-40 armed Jews on the railway station and railway police blockhouse at Yibna 128143 and showed every evidence of careful planning. Mines were placed on the road North of the station and on the road bridge South of it, to delay interference from outside. Meanwhile, under cover of small arms fire, charges were put on the line at several points and under the railway bridge at 12661416.

The police however, soon began a brisk interchange of fire and owing partly to this and partly to the poor quality of the Jewish fuses little damage was done. The railway bridge was not put out of action and only one other charge exploded, which cut a small section of the line.

At 2130 hours a patrol of 9 Para Bn arrived in the Yibna area. A Jeep passing through the mines on the bridge at 12671419 set one off, but itself suffered only minor damage. A 3-ton vehicle following behind also set one off and men jumping from the back exploded a third. It is considered that by this time the attackers had withdrawn, but the patrol was fired on by a police detachment from the area of the railway line 12671417 and it was not until 2315 hours that it could identify itself. At 2210 hours a platoon of 5 Para Bn arrived at the bridge and a fighting patrol was made to the police post at 12751425 where a PMF patrol was contacted.

No casualties were suffered by the police, but the following personnel of 9 Para Bn were injured by the mine on bridge at 12671419:-

3 APRIL 1946

At 0035 hours 3 April 1946 a company of 6 Para Bn was sent off to investigate the road and railway from road junction 12421396 to Al Majdal area 110119.

This company contacted the police post at Sukreir 12201365 which reported being attacked at 2130 hours. They had one minor casualty and attackers were driven off.

At 0145 hours the patrol reached Jisr Isdud where the police at 11871323 reported that they had been attacked at 2130 hours but had had no casualties.

Isdud railway station 11851315 which was contacted at 0200 hours reported an attack at 2130 hours. One Arab TAC had been killed and a railway engine and tender set on fire.

13 APRIL 1946

On 13 April just after noon, the IZL delivered two simultaneous attacks against the guard room at 3 Con Depot and 179 Leave Camp, Nathanya. At the Con Depot six men dressed in military uniform drove up to the guard room in a truck, overpowered the guard and made away with five TSMG and 5 SMLE rifles. Meanwhile at No. 179 Leave Camp a truck and car filled with men disguised as Italian collaborationists drove up to the armoury. They overpowered the guard and demanded the armoury key from the NCC who denied being in possession although it was in his pocket. The raiders then hurriedly left, taking with them one rifle which they had taken from the sentry. The NCC as soon as they had gone, opened up the armoury and fired at the departing vehicle.

On 17 April an explosion took place in a house in Tel Aviv, which blew down the front garden wall, demolished two out-houses, and broke all the windows within a radius of 20 yards. Various damaged parts of warlike equipment were found on the scene of the incident, and it is believed that this was an LHI arms cache.

23 APRIL 1946

On the 23 April at about midday, Police post at Ramat Gan was attacked by a force of between 20 and 30 strong. Yet another ruse was attempted to gain admission to the station while a diversionary show was put on at Tel Aviv. A Jew dressed as a British Sgt went up to the Police post and reported the arrest of 10 Arabs. Whilst he was making his report, two men appeared dressed as soldiers escorting 10 ostensible Arabs. Once inside the wire this party produced concealed weapons and proceeded to attack the post. Reinforcements numbering some 15 to 20 came up and joined in the party. They paid particular attention to the armoury and succeeded in escaping with a good haul of weapons including rifles, brens and a 3" mortar. During the getaway they were engaged by two British constables, and were also fired on by a PMF truck which was hastening to the scene of action. The raiders left behind them one killed and three wounded prisoners. It is reasonable to suppose that they suffered further casualties as a TSMG was emptied into the back of the truck as it drove away. The truck was later found abandoned with plenty of evidence to show that the fire directed at it had proved effective. It would appear that some members of the LHI group assisted in this attack.

25/26 APRIL 1946

At 2030 hours 25 April three vehicles stopped at the house opposite the entrance to the Divisional Car Park in Tel Aviv 12781643. Between 25 and 30 civilians entered the house, where they held up the occupants and established fire positions overlooking the guard tents.

The car park is bounded by Zerubabel Street, Sir Hubert Samuel Esplanade and Ezra Street and faces the sea. Apak Police Station adjoins and East side.

The guard normally consists of 3 NCO's and 12 ORs but at the time of the attack only the guard commander and 7 men were in the car park, the remainder being allowed out for recreation after their tour of duty. When attacked, the NCO and 2 men were in the guard tent, 2 men were in an adjacent tent and 3 men were on actual duty, one as sentry at the entrance and 2 patrolling.

At 2045 hours the gate sentry saw something thrown from the nearby house, which exploded in front of the guard tent. At the same time a burst of automatic fire was directed at him from the same buildings, forcing him to take cover under a vehicle.

At this point the entrance to the car park was rushed by some 20-30 men in civilian clothes who killed a soldier who was standing near the wire. They then entered the first tent where the Sgt of the guard, Sgt Peat, was trying to unlock rifles from the rack and where Pte Mackay and Gilliard were lying on the ground taking cover from the first burst of fire. The attackers shone torches on the 3 soldiers and fired a burst from a TSMG at Mackay and Gilliard killing both. Another burst was fired at Sgt Peat, missing him, and he fell to the ground pretending to be dead.

It is not known what happened in the third tent, as both of the occupants were killed. They were however unarmed.

The raiders removed 12 rifles from the rack in the guard tent and withdrew when a bugle sounded the retreat. A PMF urban patrol consisting of one armoured car supported by a section of 6 GORDONS was at the Apak Police Station at the time of the attack, but the armoured car commander and the officer of the section were inside the station at the time. Small explosive charges were thrown at the armoured car forcing it away. The car commander from the roof of the Police Station observed some 30 persons moving from the entrance of the car park in an easterly direction firing as they went. Attackers dispersed in the Yemenite section of the Karton Quarter.

Road mines had been placed on all roads leading to the area and illuminated warning notices in English, Arabic and Hebrew were put up.

A search was begun at 0530 hours by PMF with 5 Para Bn in support and detachments 9 Airborne Squadron RE, and a prison cage set up in the Airborne Car Park by 0800 hours. At 0930 hours search half completed and 30 doubtful characters detained. At 1145 hours 2 Arabs on the edge of the cordon in area Hacarmel Street were accidentally shot and wounded by a burst of Sten fire; one has since died. The search was completed by 1205 hours, by which time 1491 persons had been interrogated of which 79 were detained. A quantity of WD property including tires and rations were covered. Documents found included a plan for a future attack on Atulit.

14 MAY 1946

At approx 2210 hrs on 14 May in Petah Tiqva, 2 Jews armed with bren guns, automatics and grenades entered the "Bluebird Cafe". Speaking in English they told the customers, who included police and military, to keep their places, and not to move. Another armed Jew who was attempting to start a Jeep which was parked outside said in Hebrew "I can't start it" to which one of the hold-up men replied in the same language "If we can't have it neither will they, set it on fire." During the hold-up the voices of at least 8 more men were heard in the street. The Jeep was set alight and the men escaped. After they left soldiers extinguished the fire which did little damage. It is believed that the men escaped on foot.

At 2220 hours on the same day in Hayarkon St., Tel Aviv, four Jewish youths, one of whom was armed, approached a Jeep vehicle which was parked outside the "Ark" Services Club. The driver was sitting in the vehicle and was shot twice in the leg and the Jew then drove off in the Jeep. Fortunately the driver was not seriously injured.

No reports of any attempts at sabotage have been received by this office except for the HMS Chevron incident reported below, which was at first believed to be sabotage.

On 15 May it was discovered that the seal of an ammunition wagon on a special RAF train was broken. Investigations have shown that some 221 boxes of ammunition are missing containing approximately 134,000 rounds. As this wagon was the only one containing SAAA out of the 28 wagons composing the train, and as the boxes were removed in a very short space of time, estimated at about 4 minutes, it appears that this was a very well organized plan, executed boldly and quickly. It was obvious that previous information of a highly reliable source was obtained. It is reasonable to suppose that this step is accountable to a Jewish organization, in all probability the Hagana.

The first incident of any importance was the discovery of explosives in a kit bag on board the H.M.S. Chevron when she docked at Haifa.

It would appear that in all probability, this was an effort on the part of a Jewish seaman named Martosh, to bring explosives into Palestine for use at a later date in illegal operations. Whether this was so, or on the other hand, whether he had purposed an attempt to damage the destroyer, may come to light during his trial.

On 20 May, three armed men entered Barclays Bank at Nablus and escaped with over L6,000. Preliminary reports say that they were Jews, most probably members of the NMO.

This incident would appear to link up with information received that the illegal organizations would operate away from Tel Aviv if possible, so as not to have disciplinary measures taken against the population, which brought blame upon the terrorist organizations. Also it ties up with the information received that the NMO was running short of financial means and proposed further attacks solely with an aim of obtaining money.

Dr. Israel Sheib, a detainee of Latrun Camp made a spectacular escape on 6 June 1946. At 1000 hrs three detainees were brought into Jerusalem from Latrun by an escort of PMF for medical treatment. Two of the detainees with two Brit constables were dropped at an x-ray clinic while the remainder of the escort took Shieb to Dr. Treu's clinic in the Street of the Prophets. There the Brit Sgt took him into the waiting room while two Brit constables remained on guard outside. Shortly afterwards a grey saloon drove up and two men alighted carrying a third, swathed in blankets and took him inside. They then held up the two Brit Constables, removed their weapons and locked them in a nearby room. The door of the waiting room was flung open, two shots were fired at Brt Sgt, one which wounded him, and Shieb dashed out. The party then made their getaway in the car waiting outside, snatching a rifle as they went from the hands of an RAF man standing nearby. The car, which had been stolen in Tel Aviv at 0730 hours that same evening, was later found abandoned.

Although the neighboring London Square was full of people no one apparently answered his cries for assistance. A train coming from Jerusalem to Jaffa was stopped at approx 1830 hours by the pulling of the communication cord at a point where a track crosses the line (MR 13001615) 3.8 kms from Tel Aviv station. About 25 or 30 armed men and women alighted from the train, cleared out the passengers, set fire to the coaches with the aid of petrol, seriously damaged the locomotive by an explosive charge placed in the driver's cab, damaged one section of permanent way with a charge placed under the ballast and then escaped in vehicles which were waiting not far away.

One TAC escort was wounded. The attackers, who were said to be Jews dressed as Arabs, escaped without any known casualties.

The five coaches of the train were completely gutted.

The train which left Lydda junction at 1815 hrs for Jerusalem was stopped at about 1830 hrs near Neane at MR 13791433. A girl pulled the communication cord in a third class compartment and persons on the line were seen waving a red flag. In each coach two people, said to be Jews, cleared the passengers from the train. A truck was observed coming from the direction of "Na'ana Colony" (probably the Jewish settlement No'ar Oved). This truck dropped 15 armed men, said to be Jews, then returned and brought 15 more. The attackers were soon pouring petrol over the coaches and setting light to them. Two explosions and shots were also heard. The saboteurs then divided into two parties, one of which went into a nearby watch-tower situated on the Colony's lands, and fired shots into the air. The second party remained near the train.

Witnesses stated that they saw two Jews carrying a wounded man along the line and that a wounded man was seen lying on a stretcher surrounded by Jews. This wounded man was removed by truck in the direction of "Na'ana" Colony.

Subsequent investigations by the police revealed the presence of a stretcher with bandages 200 meters from the railway line in the same direction, and tracks were followed by the police to within 500 meters of the main track from Na'ana Colony.

A two gallon tin, containing what was believed to be an explosive substance, was founded attached to the wheel of the locomotive. This appears to have exploded only partially. Five water-bottles smelling of petrol were found near the railway line.

One mail bag is missing from the train: no casualty to TAC escorts have been reported. The five coaches were completely gutted.

As most of these mines were primed and packed in cases, it was appointed to more acts of violence to follow at a near date. It would appear that these mines were proposed for use of either the IZL or the LHI, most probably the latter.

During the evening of 16th June 1946, Hagana carried out attacks on road and rail bridges on the frontier of Palestine, causing damage estimated at L250,000. One British officer of the Royal Engineers was killed by the explosion.

On the night 16/17 June 1946 a series of widespread attacks took place against road and rail communications, which severed the railway both in the North and South and the three main routes across the Jordan.

At approximately 2300 hours a number of Jews (12-20) approached Az-Zib railway bridge (160272) from the South. They split into two groups, one party engaging the police post with small arms fire, whilst the other group laid charges to blow up the bridge. A number of men in this force were observed to be dressed in Army uniform. The TAC Guard engaged this force with fire and hit one of the charges as it was being laid in position. The charge blew up killing four of the raiders. Two others were found dead in the area, killed by small arms fire. During a subsequent search in this area police dogs followed scent to Mesuva colony (165274) which was searched, and one badly wounded Jew was found there. A number of mines and booby traps were found close to Az-Zib village. This bridge was scheduled to be temporarily repaired by 18 June '46.

At approximately the same time a raiding party attempted to blow up the railway bridge at Naamin 15812577 South of Acre. They only succeeded in damaging it slightly as the raiding party made off upon the approach of military patrols. A taxi stopped in this area by a military patrol contained 5 men and 3 women, one of whom was suffering from a wound in the chest. All this party were detained.

In the Northern districts again, a road bridge North of Metulla was blown up. Little information has come to hand concerning this incident and the numbers of the attackers involved are unknown.

At 2350 hours an unknown number of Jews attacked the TJFF Camp in Safad. Grenades were thrown and the attack was driven off. One trooper was slightly wounded.

The TAC on guard over the road bridge at Jisr Banat Yacoub (209269) was held up by six armed men, who then blew up the bridge on the Palestine side. The bridge was destroyed and rendered impassable. The railway bridge at Jisr el Hawi (211231) and the road bridge at Jisr Damiya (200167) were found to have been damaged by explosives.

At approximately 2315 hours Allenby Bridge across the Jordan was attacked by a force of nearly thirty Jews. The police post was engaged and heavy firing continued for some thirty minutes before the raiders succeeded in blowing the bridge. The police post received some assistance in the shape of small arms fire from the Arab Legion Post on the Transjordan side. The bridge is impassable, and will take some weeks to repair. Dogs trailed from the bridge to Qevutsat Ha Hugim colony (200133). Sixty-two men from this colony, who failed to establish their identity were removed to Latrun./ep./

At 2359 hours approximately, a party of about thirty armed men attacked the road and rail bridge at Wadi Gaza (D94096). Heavy covering fire was put down whilst the blowing parties edged in. Bombs were thrown at the buttresses on the railway bridge damaging two pillars. The road bridge was rendered totally impassable by the exploding of a landmine.

Widespread attacks on road and rail bridges on or near the Palestine frontiers were made by armed Jews during the night of 16th-17th June.

At 11 p.m. police post at railway bridge at Az Zib (Acre) was attacked by Jews dressed in military uniforms. The attackers succeeded in blowing up the bridge and rendering it impassable. The body of a dead Jew and portions of another body were later found under the railway bridge. Six haver-sacks filled with gelignite were found on the road bridge nearby and were removed by the Army.

Shortly afterwards, the police post at Allenby Bridge (Jerusalem-Amman Road) was attacked by automatic fire and bombs. After an engagement lasting about half an hour the attackers managed to reach the bridge and blew it up close to the Palestine Bank. The police post and the customs buildings were damaged by explosives. A woman searcher and an Arab boy in a nearby cafe were slightly injured. A party of Beduin near the bridge were subsequently attacked by a gang of some 20 armed Jews, who were presumably returning from this operation. One Beduin was stabbed and seriously injured.

At 11.30 p.m. the road bridge north of Metulla (Northern Frontier) was blown up and shortly afterwards the camp at Safad was attacked with hand grenades. The attack was repulsed, one trooper was injured.

At midnight the road and rail bridges at Wadi Gaza (south of Gaza) were attacked by some 30 men. Bombs were thrown at the railway bridge damaging two of the buttresses. A land mine exploded on the road bridge rendering it impassable. Police proceeding to the scene were fired on from an orange grove near the bridge. Four Army haversacks filled with explosives were found on the road bridge and removed by the military.

Road bridges over the Jordan at Jisr Banat Yacoub (Northern Frontier) and Jisr Sheikh Hussein and the railway suspension bridge between Samakh and El Hamme (Jordan Valley) was also blown up and rendered impassable to traffic. On the bridge at Jisr Damiya over the Jordan a police patrol found a clock, some wire and a switch in the centre of the bridge, together with traces of blood. It is thought that an unsuccessful attempt had been made to blow up this bridge with a time bomb.

17 June 1946

On the morning of 17 June, dogs trailed to the settlement of Qevutsat Ha Hugim (200133), and it was cordoned by troops. Troops moved into the settlement after the males had refused to be segregated. Considerable passive resistance was met. Males lay down on the ground and refused to move, while women assaulted the troops with clubs as they attempted to remove the recalcitrant males, using minimum force necessary. No injuries were sustained by the women and children, though a number of male settlers were slightly injured and one received minor bayonet wounds. In all, 62 men who refused to establish their identities were detained.

At 2325 hours the road bridge at 20472998 to the North of Metulla police post was blown up. Some 30 minutes later, the TJFF Camp at Safad was attacked with hand grenades. The attack was beaten off and one trooper was wounded.

17 JUNE 1946

At approximately 2120 hours on 17 June some thirty to forty members of the LHI attacked the Kishon railway workshop at Haifa. The party arrived in a truck and opening heavy fire rushed the gate and bombed their way in. Soon after this a series of explosions took place which started a fire in the works. Most of the destruction was caused in the machine shop, but a locomotive was completely wrecked, and the engine in the powerhouse was destroyed. A number of buildings were damaged by blast and fire. Fire engines which attempted to reach the scene of the incident found their approach barred by mines which had been laid on roads leading to the workshop. One fire engine was wrecked on a mine.

Road blocks were quickly established by the military, and at approximately 2300 hours a truck was observed approaching the block at Kfar Atar (162045) at high speed. Once the driver of the vehicle spotted the block, he charged up with the idea of crashing through. At the same time the occupants opened fire. The truck struck one of the carriers after the sole occupant had managed to get off two rounds, and swung it round. The opening of fire was the signal for the remaining troops lining the ditch to open up, and as a result seven of the occupants were killed, five were seriously wounded (including one woman), six slightly wounded (incl. two women) and fifteen captured (inc. 1 woman). There were thirty three on the lorry altogether and the twenty six survivors were detained. All of the Jews were armed; their arms included 4 TMG's and 4 stens among other weapons.

Subsequently two more Jews who took part in the raid were found dead at the railway workshop.

17/18 JUNE 1946

At 2110 hours on 17 June the Kishon Railway Workshops in Haifa Bay were attacked. A truck containing the terrorists rushed the gate of the workshops and attacked with automatic fire and grenades. Bombs were laid in the main workshops and subsequent explosions caused considerable damage to the building and did slight damage to a compressor. Total known casualties to the attackers were two dead, whose bodies were found afterwards in the workshops, one of whom had a .45 revolver strapped to his body. There were no casualties among the guards.

The area was found to have been extensively mined, especially in the vicinity of the Consolidated Refineries, on the Haifa-Acre road and on the road to the Airport. This hampered the arrival of troops, and fire engines which were called for to deal with a fire which broke out in the workshops. A fire engine of the Municipal Fire Brigade which ran over a land mine, was wrecked and several of the crew were injured.

At 2300 hours on the same night, a truck attempted to rush at high speed a military road block near Kafr Atta 160245. The truck became entangled in the dannert wire and hit a carrier stationed at the back. The troops opened fire as the occupants tried to reverse the truck, and a fierce gun-fight ensued, as a result of which the entire complement of the truck was accounted for. Seven Jews were killed, five, including one woman, were seriously wounded, six, including two women, were slightly wounded, and fifteen, including one woman, were captured. There were no casualties to British troops. Among the arms found on the truck were 8 machine carbines, 7 pistols, 17 magazines, 344 rounds of ammunition, 25 bombs of varying types and a sack containing 30 lbs of explosives.

At approximately midnight, 30 armed Jews carried out an attack on the road and rail bridge across the Wadi Gaza 094096. Bombs were thrown at the railway bridge, damaging two buttresses, although the bridge remained intact. A land mine exploded on the road bridge, rendering it impassable. Later, four haversacks of explosive were found on the road bridge and were dismantled. As a result of this attack, the settlement of Beerot Yitzhak 102097 was cordoned and searched on the morning of 19 June. The search lasted some five hours and although nothing was found, two men who objected to being interrogated were temporarily detained.

At midnight, the TAC guard on the road bridge at Jist Banat Ya'Aqub 209269 was held up by six armed Jews. The attackers disarmed the guard, threw his rifle into the river and then blew up the bridge on the Palestine side, leaving the bridge passable only by foot.

At midnight the road bridge at Jisr Sheikh Hussein 20432155 was completely destroyed by explosives. Damage to this bridge is estimated at LP 48,000.

At 0100 hours on 17 June, the railway suspension bridge at Jisr El Hawi between Samakh and El Hamme was damaged by an explosion, and rendered impassable.

At 0500 hours, a police party, which went to Jisr Damiya bridge 20051677, found a clock, some wire and a switch in the centre of the bridge. At 1340 hours on 17 June, while a British RE Officer was inspecting the charges on the bridge before dismantling them, the charge blew up, killing the officer and damaging the bridge.

Jewish terrorist campaign continued today with kidnapping five British Officers by armed Jews in Tel Aviv and shooting two British Officers in street in Jerusalem. Official communique issued this evening Tuesday states that 1.15 this afternoon party of armed Jews entered Officers Club in Hayarken Street, Tel Aviv, and held up all Officers present. Jews proceeded select four British Officers of Army, one British Officer Royal Air Force, and then escorted them out of Club. Two Officers were struck with iron piping while attempting resist. Party then entered taxi which found abandoned short distance away soon afterward. It is supposed party got away in another car. At 2.40 this afternoon in King George Avenue, one of main streets Jerusalem, two Army Officers shot wounded by man who alighted from taxi which pulled near them. One Officer grappled with man who shot him. Automatic fire then opened at two Officers and Jew entered taxi which then driven off. Both Officers removed to hospital.

18 JUNE 1946

At approximately 1315 hours on Wednesday 18 June a party of at least 5 armed Jews entered Tel Aviv Officers Club and held up everybody present; five officers were then selected and ordered outside, where cars were waiting. Whilst the operation was proceeding inside the Club, military personnel were held up outside by a further party of terrorists. Their task of selection of hostages completed, the Irgun terrorists made good their escape in vehicles stolen in and around Tel Aviv that morning, taking the undermentioned British Officers with them as hostage: Capt. Spencer, RE, Capt. Taylor, 17 Para Bn., Capt. Warburton, 4 Para Bn., Capt. Rea, REME., F/Lt. Russell, DAPM RAF, Tel Aviv.

At approximately 1430 hours 18 June, Major Chadwick of HQ Palestine was kidnapped outside the Goldsmith Officers' Club by two men who forced him into a taxi. On entering the taxi he was chloroformed by a woman accomplice. He was taken to a building in the Bokharian Qtr and told by his Jewish captors that he was held as a hostage for the two IZL men sentenced to death last week. Major Chadwick escaped from his captors at approximately 1500 hours 20 June.

At 1450 hours on the same day, Major Low, RE and Major Crosthwaite, RE, of HQ Palestine, were held up by an armed Jew near the Goldsmith Officers Club. The Jew, who had alighted from a taxi, obviously attempted to coerce the two British Officers inside. In the subsequent scuffle, both officers were wounded by fire from armed Jews and automatic fire from inside taxi.

At Kefar Giladi 203294 on 19 June the inhabitants were questioned by the Police, names were recorded and a long and thorough, but unproductive search for arms was carried out. The Mukhtar admitted to having illegal arms in his colony but told the SP that they would never be found and that they were intended for defense against Arabs and would never be used against British tps. At the same time a search was carried out in Tel Hai 204293, also without result. In Kefar Giladi, the inhabitants put up some passive resistance at first, some women threw pots and pans at the tps and some men refused to let go of tables, etc., until compelled to do so.

While the search was being carried out a party of about 100 Jews appeared from the direction of Metulla and were told to return to their colonies. However just before the operation was completed, 13 Jews attempted to break through the cordon 400 yards South of Tel Hai, two were killed and five injured when the military were compelled to open fire.

Captain Rea and F/Lt Russell were released by their captors at approximately 2300 hours 22 June 1946 after spending the interim period bound, shackled, and closely guarded by terrorists in a cellar somewhere in Tel Aviv.

It appears that after his capture F/Lt Russell was conveyed by taxi with hands tied, to a green lorry parked in a side street in Tel Aviv, he was then thrown inside a large crate on the lorry where he found Captain Rea who was gagged with adhesive tape and bleeding from a head wound. After proceeding for approximately 15 minutes the lorry stopped, the crate was unloaded and the two British Officers found themselves in a cellar.

Guarded by four armed Jews the officers had their hands retied and feet bound and were visited eight hours later by a masked man who ordered them to be untied and chains to be placed on their feet and wrists. This was done. From then on the masked leader visited them each night at 2000 hours, and on Saturday 22 June he visited them again at 2245 hours and read out a letter to the British Officers' to the effect that they had been prisoners of the Irgun and that they were now to be released on orders from "higher authority." He hoped that they would tell their friends that they had been fairly treated and that they would meet again in some bar or on the battlefield in the fight between the Jewish and British armies. The leader then pushed LP 1 into the pocket of F/Lt Russell and said it was for wear and tear and any inconveniences suffered.

The two British officers were then conveyed with eyes covered by dark goggles, to Trumpledor Street by taxi and released.

During their period of captivity they were fairly well fed and always well guarded, and from Wednesday morning on, both prisoners were gagged with adhesive tape and shackled by hands or feet, but never both. It is interesting to note that one of the Jewish Guards told F/Lt Russell that the Hagana and Irgun were now one force.

On 26 June '46 some 30-40 Jews raided the Diamond Factory at Pardess Katz near Ramat Gan, just at the time the workers were bringing their stones back to the safes. It is estimated that stones to the value of between LP 30,000 and LP 40,000 were stolen. This savours of an IZL operation and supports the information received by this office that this organization was in need of more money.

29 JUNE 1946

At Tel Yosef at 0508 hours on 29 June, it was necessary to break down the gates of the colony, using M 10's, as the Mukhtar refused to open them or cooperate in any way. The Jews of this settlement nearly all offered passive resistance and were extremely truculent and abusive. At 0540 hours one Jew attacked a British NCO and tried to snatch his TSMG from him; another NCO immediately fired one rifle shot at him, mortally wounding both the Jew and Private Pearce of 2 N Staffs.

At 0830 hours 29 June one Jew was killed and another wounded (subsequently died) when they tried to force their way through the outer cordon round Tel Yosef and Ein Harod. They were in a party of approximately 50 Jews in 2 lorries.

30 JUNE 1946

At approximately 1730 hours on 30 June in Haifa, 2 vehicles belonging to 438 Coy RASC were escorting 2 civilian clerks employed by the unit to their homes in Haifa. The clerks were dropped at the eastern end of Herzl Street and the escort vehicles returned in the direction of the Armon cinema. On the way from Herzl Street the vehicles were stoned and at a point approximately 50 yards east of junction Herzl Street and Armon Street a large crowd had gathered in the road. As the vehicles approached, the crowd moved aside revealing a barricade thrown across the road. The leading vehicle braked suddenly and swung down a side street to the right, thus avoiding the block, but when the second vehicle braked, the engine stalled and the driver had difficulty in restarting. At this point the crowd surged forward to the truck, shouting and throwing stones. The escort of this truck considered it necessary to fire one warning shot and he discharged one round into the ground in front of the crowd. Thereupon the crowd dispersed and the second vehicle was able to get away down a side street. Three persons were injured as a result of this shot being fired.

4 JULY 1946

The remaining three kidnapped officers were released on 4 July in Tel Aviv, having been imprisoned for 16 days. During this time they were chained by the wrists, but otherwise were reasonably treated. Their guards were mainly young Sephardic Jews, of whom 4 were on duty at a time, armed with pistols. They appeared to be fanatical Zionists, who gave out earnest propaganda at the slightest provocation.

On their release the officers were placed in a box, chloroformed, and carried by truck to the corner of Shedal Street and Rothschild Street, where they were dumped. Although hundreds of passers-by were present, nobody apparently considered the occasion worthy of note, and no information was obtained from them.

It has now been established that the place of imprisonment was at North Salameth Road, in Givat Moshe, Tel Aviv.

After the search at Mesheq Jagur, two Jews were abducted. The belief that they were informers about the arms caches probably caused the abduction as a means of revenge or as an insurance against further informing. Reports that they have been killed are denied.

11 JULY 1946

One of the two Czechs kidnapped by Hagana for suspected complicity in the discovery of the Yagur arms caches was released on 11 July and some days later the other, Benjamin Papanek, succeeded in escaping from the house in Haifa where he had been detained. He reported to the Police showing considerable signs of ill treatment.

On closer examination he was found in fact to have been tortured. His captors had tortured him by applying lighted cigarettes over the greater part of his body and his suffering seem to have affected his nerves. His kidnappers according to Kol Israel, had only sentenced him to be deported and not to death. This will undoubtedly act as a deterrent to potential informers, in spite of the fact that the two had no connection with the Police or Military, and the incident has been given a great deal of publicity in the Jewish Press. The methods employed by Hagana on Papanek indicates the ruthlessness of the Jewish Underground Organization.

22 JULY 1946

At approximately 1145 hours on 22 July 1946, Jewish terrorists of the Irgun Zvei Leumi succeeded in making their way into the basement of the King David Hotel by way of the hotel staff entrance, and deposited explosives in the Restaurant. At 1236 hours the explosives were detonated and the explosion partially destroyed the Secretariat Wing and the Defense Security Office, HQ Palestine, causing the death of 91 persons, of whom 13 were military.

The attack began at approximately 1145 hours when a commercial truck drove up to the staff entrance of the hotel, and six Jews disguised as Arabs alighted and made to enter the hotel. On being asked by the hotel reception clerk for details of their business, they produced revolvers and forced the clerk back into his office. Another of the terrorists rounded up the remaining hotel employees in the basement and herded all into the kitchen whilst the other members of the gang went along the passage towards "La Regence" Restaurant, carrying explosives and wheeling the milk cans into which the bulk charge had been deposited.

The presence of the Jews was detected at approximately 1200 hours by a British Signals Officer of HQ Palestine Signals, who suspicious of the movement that was taking place outside the signals exchange in the basement, went outside to investigate. He immediately grappled with one of the terrorists, but was overcome and shot in the stomach by another of the Jews. Meanwhile, whilst this was taking place, the hotel clerk succeeded in pressing the alarm bell in his office, and at 1215 hours the alarm was sounded at Jerusalem District Police HQ and a patrol car dispatched to investigate.

The Jews, who by this time had completed the laying of the charge in the restaurant, were soon making good their escape at 1220 hours. They were fired upon by military police personnel on the spot, hits being observed on two of the escaping six. At this time, a diversionary explosion took place on the pavement outside a shop opposite the hotel, and this succeeded in diverting the attention of police and military on the spot. In the ensuing confusion, the Jewish terrorists made good their escape in a black saloon car which had been parked in the side street at the North end of the Hotel.

Immediately after the first explosion, the alarm sirens were sounded by the police, and all the efforts were made to intercept the escaping terrorists. It was not until the tumult and confusion had subsided that it became apparent that the Jews had been in the basement for quite a length of time, and some military and police officers had been down to investigate further. After interrogating the hotel employees in the basement, the officers mentioned were proceeding toward La Regence restaurant to discover the reason for the attack on the building when the main explosion occurred, causing the damage already described.

The "success" of the Jewish terrorists was aided by the confusion their disguise created and the terror their entry caused among the hotel employees in the basement. When the British Officer was shot and fatally wounded, events moved with such rapidity that it was still impossible to elucidate from hotel employees that Jewish terrorists had been in the building for over half an hour. When it did become apparent that the Jewish raiders had conveyed milk churns and bulky packages in the direction of La Regence restaurant, it was too late to avert disaster; in fact, the investigating officers narrowly escaped with their lives, for they were proceeding along the passage to the restaurant when the main explosion occurred.

The casualty roll of 91 dead and 69 injured was extremely high owing to the explosion occurring at a time when the maximum number of people were in the building, a contingency the terrorists must have realized when they planned the outrage. In addition, the first explosion caused casualties to passersby and to passengers in a bus which was passing at the time. Many of those injured by this explosion were also in the Secretariat, receiving first aid, when the final explosion took place.

The terrorists, using preconceived escape routes, escaped on foot and by taxi into the Jewish quarter of the Old City, and early the following day information was received that two wounded Jews were observed being carried into the Jewish Quarter. As a result of this information, a search was instituted, and during the operation the Tachemoni School, a Jewish Orthodox School, was searched. Inside was one dead Jew, and one wounded Jew. Both had bullet wounds. There is little doubt that both had been involved in the attack on the King David Hotel, as equipment found in the room in which they were discovered was sufficient to incriminate them. The dead man was identified as a Jew who had previously been arrested by the police for complicity in a terrorist crime, and had subsequently been released under Police supervision. He was known to be an expert on explosives.

23 JULY 1946

At 0430 hours 23 July, 8 and 9 Para Bns and 3 Para Bde Tac HW moved into Jerusalem where they carried out searches of the Jewish quarter of the Old City and of the Yemen Mosche Quarter and an area North of the Italian Hospital, assisted by a composite Bn from 31 Inf Bde. These searches were completed by 1515 hours. At 0920 hours, 1 dead Jew and 1 wounded man admitted having driven one of the vehicles used in the attack but claimed he was an Arab and was forced to do it. Since his name was Itzak Sadok, it is considered likely that he is a Palestinian Jew. 470 other Jews, 121 Armenians and Arabs were interrogated by the police and released while 43 are detained and evacuated to 51 MP-DB for further interrogating.

At 1235 hours on 10 August, 1946, near Yazur village (MR 13171589 Sheet 9) the Area Hirings Officer, travelling in a 15 cwt truck, was forced on to the verge of the road by a Jewish driven truck, and only the skill and presence of mind of his driver prevented a serious accident. The road was clear of other traffic at the time.

3 FS Section 1 Infantry Division have reported similar incidents in North Palestine.

11 AUGUST 1946

At about 0930 hours on 11 August an ambulance drew up outside the Government Hospital, Jaffa. 5 Jews dressed as hospital orderlies got out and entered. As they passed the TAC on duty they disarmed him. On seeing this, another TAC opened fire causing one Jew to fall and another to show signs of being hit.

The attackers then made off in a taxi after throwing two gelignite bombs, of which one exploded but caused no damage. There were no casualties to TAC, and the Jews left nobody behind.

It is thought that their abortive attack was carried out with the object of liberating terrorists who were until recently held in the prison ward.

As usual, on such occasions, transport for the raid had been arranged by stealing a taxi and holding the driver. In this case, the vehicle was later returned.

12 AUGUST 1946

The robbery described below is of the type carried out by one of the illegal organizations, to gain funds.

At about 0900 hours 12 August, Moshe Branstatter was robbed of diamonds valued at LP 17,000. While returning to his top-floor office, he was attacked by two youths. They took his bag of jewels, threw them to three other youths in the street, and all five then escaped. No arms or transport were used.

At about 2200 hours an explosion occurred in a flour mill belonging to Mr. Schechter, near Citrus House, in Tel Aviv.

Mr. Schechter is believed to have been approached last week by a man demanding a LP 1,200 contribution to Stern Group funds. He refused, and was warned that eventually it would cost him double. Shortly before the attack, an Arab had reported to the police that a party of armed youths were assembled in a vehicle in King George Street. A police patrol investigated, and although the youths had gone, some 30 rounds of .22 ammunition were found. This was probably the covering party for the men who actually placed the explosives.

At 1130 hours on 8 September, two men dressed in khaki shirts and shorts arrived at a railway bridge at 14672483 near Hiat Gaiim, and placed a sack underneath it. Shortly afterwards there was an explosion which, however, did no damage. Police who arrived on the scene discovered another sack of explosive under another culvert nearby, which they removed. About an hour later 3 Jews dressed as Arabs entered the signal box at the Shell Bridge 15222448 and held up the signalman. Charges were placed in the box, and the subsequent explosion wrecked the building, killing an Arab child nearby. Further explosions took place at the level crossing at 15542455 where the oil pipeline was damaged, and again near the Shell bridge.

8/9 SEPTEMBER 1946

During the night 8/9 September, numerous small explosions took place throughout Palestine, all directed against the railway system. On the Haifa-Assir railway, a number of charges were laid but only one caused any damage. At Battir 163126, a goods train travelling towards Jerusalem was stopped by an explosion about 100 yards in front of the train. The crew and escort took to the hills and returned the fire of the attackers. Eleven bombs were found to have exploded on that stretch of line, while a further ten bombs failed to explode. A party of the attackers was intercepted while returning to Jerusalem, by a military patrol, and fire was exchanged. The attackers made off after one of them had been wounded.

Near Qalquilya Railway Station 14619, six bombs exploded, cutting the line in two places, while a further seven failed to explode. Explosions also took place on the Jaffa-Lydd line, causing damage to a culvert and to the line. South of Lydda the line was cut near Rehovoth and more unexploded bombs were found. Later in the morning, at about 0130 hours, sixteen charges exploded between Ras El Ain and Kafr Jinnis, doing no damage. At 0320 hours nineteen bombs exploded near Hadera, doing little damage, while a further fourteen failed to explode.

At 0815 hours on 9 September, British Sergeant Martin of the Political Section of the Haifa C.I.D. left his house in Garden Street, Haifa. A Buick car drew up behind him and two Jews got out, the driver remaining at the wheel. The two Jews then fired seven shots at Martin, five of which hit him in the back. His assailants then made good their escape in the car, which bore false number plates. British Sergeant Martin died two hours later in the Government Hospital.

9/10 SEPTEMBER 1946

At approximately 2010 hours on 9 September, a taxi containing four Jews dressed as soldiers stopped outside the Food Control Office near the Jaffa-Tel Aviv border. They approached the T.A.C. guard and fired several bursts, killing him. A second taxi then drew up, and four men got out. The taxis drove off. Major Doran, Area Security Officer Jaffa, engaged them from the balcony of the house, and was wounded in the shoulder. DSP Cohen, who arrived on the scene to investigate the shooting was also wounded in the shoulder. Some of the terrorists then entered the house of the ASO, which also housed his office and records, and placed charges in position. A large explosion took place almost immediately, and a greater part of the house was demolished. Major Doran died later as the result of multiple injuries, while his wife was seriously injured and another officer was slightly injured.

As a diversion, a bomb was exploded on the railway bridge at 12801630, causing no damage, while scare bombs were thrown near level crossings in Tel Aviv. The terrorists succeeded in escaping without loss. Searches were made on 10 September in the Volovolsky Quarter of Tel Aviv, and in Ramat Gan, as a result of which 103 males were detained. A small Irgun cache was found in Ramat Gan, containing some pamphlets and a duplicating machine, and one Sten gun.

On the same night, elsewhere in Palestine, several attempts were made to cut military telephone communications between Haifa and Tel Aviv. The line was cut twice in the Hadera area by charges inserted into manholes. The overhead telephone wires and the underground cables were also cut at 14021719 by means of landmines. The roads in the area were mined at several points, and one officer and three ORs were injured while attempting to neutralize the charges. In the area of the 6 Airborne Division Training School at Petah Tiqva, a jeep encountered automatic fire near some mines in the roadway, and one sergeant was fatally wounded.

9/10 SEPTEMBER 1946

At 2300 hours 9 September 1946, while at 6 A.D.T.C. Petah Tiqva, I received a signal from 127 Para Fd Amb instructing me to proceed to 2 Para Bde HQ by midnight. I confirmed this with 2 Para Bde HQ and was leaving at 2315 hours when a further signal was received postponing arrival at 2 Bde to 0030 hours 10 September.

While checking out at Guardroom Petah Tiqva at 2330 hours, I noticed tracer bullets coming from direction of main road Lydda-Haifa. I warned guard to take cover. The alarm was sounded and an armed patrol left the camp.

At midnight I left Petah Tiqva 6 A.D.T.C. in my staff car and at junction of road from camp, with Lydda-Haifa road, picked up a jeep detailed by Lt Hughes 2 Para Bn to escort me in direction of Lydda.

The jeep went ahead. After proceeding 1/2 to 3/4 mile I saw a jeep parked facing us about 200 yards ahead, with lights out, and our headlights picked up two shining objects in the road about 100 yards ahead.

We slowed down and in doing so overtook the escort jeep. There was a burst of automatic SA fire from near the parked jeep, followed by another burst a few yards from the road to the right.

During the second burst which occurred at approximately 0005 hours 10 September No 6854402 Sgt Lambert En of 7 Para Bn, in the escort was fatally wounded in the head.

I was standing through the roof of the staff car armed with a sten, at the time of the shooting. The floor of the car had been covered with sand bags before leaving 6 A.D.T.C. Captain (QM) J Webster RAMC 127 Para Fd Amb, was with me in the car.

We dismounted, and went back to attend to the wounded Sgt.

Another Sgt came towards us from the jeep ahead passing the mines on his way. He was 15251939 S/Sgt Arnold C who was returning to 6 A.D.T.C. and he stated he had fired directly across the road, and not in our direction.

I then ordered the staff car and jeep to turn around and return to 6 A.D.T.C. We placed the wounded man on the sand bags in the back of the car.

We had proceeded about 1/4 mile when there was another burst of automatic fire including tracer from the road to the West.

One bullet struck the back of my car.

I returned the fire from my Sten and the jeep ahead also opened fire.

We returned to 6 A.D.T.C. and I found Sgt Lambert was dying.

I attempted to signal 2 Bde HQ and 6 Division HQ but the telephone operator could not get through Central Exchange.

Message was then sent by wireless.

13 SEPTEMBER 1946

At approximately 1130 hours on Friday 13 September, simultaneous attacks were made on the Ottoman Banks in Jaffa and Tel Aviv. At Jaffa, a covering party opened heavy fire on the Central Police Station, and at the same time some eight men dressed in tarbushes and carrying revolvers entered the bank and, holding up the occupants, removed all the available money. Attempts to find the keys of the safe proved unsuccessful, and they left after shooting the Manager in the leg. Outside, the police had succeeded in getting the upper hand, although one Arab T.A.C. was fatally wounded. As a result of operations outside the bank and in the vicinity, most of the stolen money was recovered, and some eleven suspected attackers, all wounded, were arrested. Five are confirmed as members of the Stern gang. During the shooting, eight Arab bystanders were wounded and one was killed.

In Tel Aviv, 10 armed men entered the bank and held up those inside. Collecting all the ready money, they made their getaway without any opposition from the civilian population. None of this money or the attackers have yet been found. As a result of these incidents, curfew was imposed on a part of Tel Aviv and on Ramat Gan, searches were made, and 27 males were detained.

In spite of seething political activity, Palestine has been comparatively quiet during the last two weeks. Only two small incidents have broken the unusual and uneasy peace. On 20 September the Irgun placed a 50 gallon drum of explosive in the Entrance Hall of Haifa East Railway Station. The drum was carefully marked in the three official languages with warning signs and an Arab was told by the Jews who placed the drum in position to clear the station. Just over an hour after the bomb had been planted, while a party of sappers were preparing to move it, a hissing noise was heard and a heavy explosion took place five seconds afterwards. There were no casualties although considerable damage was done to the station and surrounding houses. The line was not damaged.

In the evening of 27 September, information was received that a charge of considerable size and remotely controlled had been placed in Haifa harbour. The intention was apparently to explode it beneath one of HM ships. Widespread searches were made in the harbour throughout 28 September, especially for any sign of a connecting wire. On 29 September at 1600 hours, a broken electric cable was discovered on the oil jetty. This was followed and was found to be connected to a canister of explosive weighing 40 lbs. The canister was fixed to an ingenious contrivance consisting of an extending arm clamped to a pile and kept in extended position by springs. This would hold the charge firmly against the side of any ship which was refuelling at the jetty. HM Destroyers had recently used the jetty.

Later the same night, a British Warrent Officer was fired on whilst riding a motorcycle on the same road and was fatally wounded. He is believed to have been shot by automatic fire from a car which drew up alongside.

At 2200 hours a jeep returning from Nathanya to Tel Litwinsky was fired on by 2 automatics at MR 13921794 near Gan Hayim on the Haifa-Lyddá road. A ricochet from the dash board inflicted a flesh injury on the leg of Corporal Evans, ATS, who was occupying the front seat. In spite of a burst tire on the near side front wheel, the jeep went on for five miles before stopping to examine the damage.

An examination of the spot, the next day, revealed 21 expended 9mm rounds, an exploded "Molotov Cocktail" and tracks of 6 people which led to the roadside, indicating that a vehicle had been used for escaping.

At about 2345 hours QMSI Lehman of HQ 1 Para Bde was returning from Lydda to Nathanya on his MC. At road junction MR 14051677 he encountered a "Mines" notice, and on pulling up was attacked with automatic fire from a car which drew level with him. He was wounded in the chest, stomach and legs, and in spite of an operation the following morning, died in the Hadassah Hospital, Tel Aviv, at 1830 hours.

The "Mines" on the road were dummies.

Widespread road and rail mining operations were carried out yesterday by Jewish terrorists. The first incident occurred at 3 in the afternoon, when a small bomb exploded approximately 30 miles south of Haifa on the Haifa-Kantara main line as a troop train passed over the spot. Examination revealed that the smaller bomb was in reality a detonation charge for a large bomb which had failed to explode. The troop train and railway track were undamaged and the train was able to proceed.

In the Jerusalem area, the road to Government House was mined during the evening. The mines were cleared without casualties or damage. Three land mines were also laid in the Sheikh Jarra quarter on the Mount Scopus Road. One of these exploded injuring an Arab civilian, who was able to return home after hospital treatment.

At Kilo 4 on the Jerusalem-Jaffa road, a British Army 15 cwt. truck was blown up by a prepared charge of considerable size electrically detonated. The truck overturned and caught fire. Of the five occupants, two British other ranks were killed, while one Lt. Col. and two other ranks were severely wounded. Whilst searching in the vicinity, a police patrol made contact with an armed gang and shots were exchanged. There were no casualties inflicted upon the police. Some of the attackers were seen to enter the Jewish Settlement of Givat Shaul.

Mines were also laid during the evening between Jaffa and Beit Dajam, where a civilian car was damaged and its Arab occupant injured. Between Petah Tiqva and Wilhelma and between Tel Aviv and Petah Tiqva, further mines were found.

A British army patrol in the Nathanya area found some 7 road mines to the east of the Khirbst-Beit Lid crossroads. While removing these, the N.C.O. in charge of the patrol was injured.

8 OCTOBER 1946

At 1940 hours on 8 October 1946 a jeep was returning to 1 Airborne Squadron RE, Beit Nabal (MR 145154), from escort duty at Sarafand, when it was fired on from an orange grove about 100 yards north of the road at MR 14161547. Three rounds were fired, believed to be rifle shots. They all missed.

The driver, Spr Hughes, continued at speed while the other two occupants opened fire in return — Spr Emery firing 4 shots with his revolver and Spr Wilkinson 2 shots with his Sten. The result of their fire was not observed. They estimate that 15 seconds elapsed from the time they were fired on and their return fire.

At 2030 hours a mobile patrol of 6 Para Bn, 2 Para Bde, going Southwards from the road Petah Tiqva-Lyddah saw some mines on the road at MR 14121624 illumined by the headlights of the leading jeep. Fire was first opened on the mines with a Bren TGun, but as no results were obtained, the officer in charge of the patrol, Lt. R.M. Jones, examined the mines and found five of them to be dummies, the sixth being a live one. The live one was carefully towed to the side of the road and then taken to Petah Tiqva Police station with the dummies.

Subsequent examination of this mine by 1 Airborne Squadron RE revealed that it was a new type of Jewish Wooden Box Mine, fitted with a device for detonation on lifting. One of the detonators appeared to have gone off without causing the mine to explode.

At approximately 2030 hours a privately owned Arab motor car NO M 308 E driven by Aly Hassan Ishwalt, the only occupant, was blown up by a mine on the main road in Tel Aviv-Sarafand at MR 13051600. The driver, who had injuries to his hands and feet, was taken to the Government Hospital, Jaffa, but his condition is not serious.

A Police patrol arrived shortly after, with a patrol of 3rd Hussars. Six Jewish Wooden Box Mines were found strung across the road, spaced at intervals of approximately 9 inches. The outer mine, on the verge of the road, was the one which had exploded. The remaining mines were destroyed by the patrol "in situ", by the application of petrol and setting light to them. It is not therefore possible in this instance to determine whether or not the other five mines were dummies, as in incident 2.

At approximately 2140 hours a mobile road patrol of 6 Para Bn, 2 Para Bde (the same patrol as in Incident 2 above) found one Jewish Wooden Box Mine on the road between Ramat Gan and Petah Tiqva at MR 13661667. The officer in charge of the patrol disarmed the mine, which was the normal type, and took it back to 6 Para Bn.

At 2245 hours an "I" patrol of 1 Para Bn, 1 Para Bde, which had been carrying out a search in the area of Nathanya, was returning to Camp 21 (MR 143192) when they encountered six Jewish Wooden Box Mines strung across the road about 250 yards East of the Beit Lid X-roads, at MR 14161922. The officer in charge of the patrol, Lt. Brown, left some men on the spot to warn approaching traffic, and with the remainder set out to look for the saboteurs, having also warned the Police at Beit Lid Police Station.

Shortly afterwards two jeeps of the mobile road check platoon of 7 Para Bn came along and were warned by the remaining guard of the presence of the mines. Sgt Cutler, B Coy, 7 Para Bn who was in one of the jeeps, decided to clear the mines off the road. Five of them proved to be dummies, but the sixth was a live one, and apparently of the new type fitted with anti-lifting device, for when the Sgt lifted it to carry it off the road it exploded. The Sgt received multiple superficial abrasions, moderate shock, a dislocated finger, and both his eyes were closed, but it is believed not permanently. He was taken to 12th General Hospital.

The explosion was heard at 1 Para Bde HQ, and the mobile road-check platoon of 7 Para Bn, which was then near Tulkarm, was moved to the scene, and the Bde sapper officer, Captain Adamson, of 9 Airborne Squadron RE was also sent out.

He salvaged the remains of the exploded mine which have since been sent back to HQ RE for examination, and disposed of the dummy mines, after testing them, giving one to the police, one to HQ RE, and the three others to 1 Para Bn.

A road block of 6 Para Bn, 2 Para Bde, at the road junction just North of Petah Tiqva at MR 14051677 (the scene of the shooting of QSMI Lehman on 30 September) arrested a Jew at approximately 2220 hours. The Jew was on foot and had turned about on seeing the road block, when challenged, he attempted to run away, and was chased. He was handed over to the police station at Petah Tiqva, where he spent the night, but was released by the police in the morning.

At 1943 hours a 15 cwt truck returning to 567 CAD (Wadi Sarar Mr 137134) from Jerusalem was overturned and set on fire by a mine at Kilo 4 on the road Jerusalem-Jaffa. All the occupants were either killed or injured. Ptes Carmston and Monaghan were killed by the blast, RSM Simmons and Pte Davies were injured by fire and Lt Colonel Butler, OC 567 CAD, was injured by the blast.

The explosion was caused by a charge of ammonal, estimated to have been 100 lbs, placed under the bank on which the road runs and detonated electrically from a plunger about 50 metres away, behind a small hill. Part of the road was damaged but it is not impassable.

Police soon arrived and commenced to search the area and were fired upon by a group of ten armed Jews. The police returned the fire and claimed to have inflicted casualties. They were seen to disappear into Givat Shaul Mr 168133. Police dogs were used, but no tracks could be picked up.

As a result of this incident a curfew was imposed at 0500 hours on 9 October on four settlements round Jerusalem, including Givat Shaul and searches began at 0600 hours. Explosives, arms and training pamphlets were found at Givat Shaul.

A member of the well known Arab family Nashashibi stepped on a mine in the Nashashibi quarter of Jerusalem and was injured.

Five mines were found about 200 yards from the main gate of Government House, on the road leading up to it.

At 2225 hours 14 October 1946 about 8 Jews were seen by a JSP to enter Yarkona MR 14021727 and start digging. At 2330 hours the Pal Central-Haifa line went dead, and patrols subsequently discovered that it had been cut in Yarkona. WO 261/656

During the night 17/18 October a further road mining operation was carried out by the terrorists. It is not known whether it was done by Irgun or Stern, but in view of the similarity to the operation on night 8/9 October, which was reliably reported to be by Stern, it is probable that Stern were also responsible for this one.

If in fact it was the Stern Gang who did both these operations, it shows a new development in their methods. It has not been normal in the past for Stern to carry out road and rail sabotage and mining, which has been chiefly the commitment of Irgun. The feature of these present operations, however, which does connect them with the current personalities, is that they are designed with a definite anti-personnel role as opposed to the mere sabotage of communications.

The mines in the incidents on night 8/9 October were fitted with anti-lifting devices, which injured one Sgt in this division, and on the same night the electrically detonated mine 4 kilos outside Jerusalem killed 2 ORs and injured a Lt Colonel and 2 other ORs.

The mines which injured two ORs slightly on the road Petah Tiqva-Tel Aviv at MR 13731665 and damaged a 3-ton truck, were laid in an unusual manner. There were two mines, placed on each side of the road close to the verge of the tarmac, both connected by flex to an electric plug about 70 yards distant. This plug was evidently designed to fit into an electric battery, but no battery was found, having presumably been removed by the operator immediately after the incident.

On top of the mines were placed loose stones and bits of glass, obviously designed to have a shrapnel effect. The whole contrivance was camouflaged with loose sand to look like a harmless earth mound. It is probable that a similar type of arrangement was used on the same night near Beit Lid crossroads at MR 14071892, where three men of 1 DWR were injured in a tank transporter.

Apart from these two incidents, a further three sets of dummy mines, consisting of cardboard shoe-boxes linked with wire or string, were placed across the roads in the Divisional area at Shekhunat Ha Tiqva MR 13051620, at the Hulon junction at MR 12931607 and on the Main North Road south of Petah Tiqva at MR 14131623. On this occasion, unlike the last one, the strings of dummy mines did not also include one live mine.

The week has been comparatively quiet in the Divisional area, with only one serious terrorist incident. This occurred at 2100 hours on 20 October 1946 when a jeep was blown up by mines and it is of interest to note that at 2000 hours a warning was issued from this HQ to all troops that road sabotage might be expected that night.

On the night of 20 October 1946 a jeep belonging to 1/6 Queens was on duty visiting road blocks. While travelling southwards along the main road from Beit Dajan to Rishon-Le-Zion it was blown up by electrically detonated mines at MR 13211543, where there is an Ice Factory and Cold Storage building on the east of the road and a tannery on the west.

There were two mines, laid on the verge of the tarmac, about 3 yards either side of an electric pylon which was used as an aiming mark, and the blast was directed, traces of blast being found up to some 110 feet on the other side of the road. The battery exploder was found at the end of 46 yards of flex.

The jeep skidded on for about 20 yards and then landed in the ditch upside down. The occupants, Captain Hodges 21C "A" Coy and Private Telling, his driver, were both seriously injured, with burns, multiple abrasions, shock, and Captain Hodges had a fractured humerus. It is hoped that they will both recover.

At 2330 hours on 29 October 1946 a jeep of 5 Para Bn travelling from Sidna Ali police post north to Camp 21 on duty was blown up at MR 13931785 on the Main North Road (Red Route). The usual two charges were placed on the East of the road, and the flex in this instance was about 150 yards long. Sighting was apparently along a line of trees along the edge of a disused orange grove. The jeep was travelling at 30 m.p.h.

Very little damage was done, apparently partly owing to bad aiming, and partly to inefficient explosives. The charges were 24 feet apart, but at the time of detonation the jeep was evidently not in position midway between charges. The rear of the jeep was undamaged. The windscreen was shattered, and there were cuts in the radiator and front mudguard.

Private Pennington was injured, not seriously, mostly by flying glass and the other occupant was only slightly grazed.

Further terrorist attacks were directed against security forces in Palestine during the course of last night at 10 minutes before midnight on 29/30 October at a point 200 yards south of Kilo 90 on the main Haifa-Jaffa road. Two military vehicles were blown up by electrically detonated mines placed on either side of the highway. One vehicle was badly damaged and its occupants, two British soldiers, injured. Tracks were found which led in the direction of the Jewish Colony of Ganhaiyim. The second attack occurred in the Sheikh Jarrah qtr of Jerusalem shortly before 6 o'clock this morning. Charges placed in the parapet of the road culvert were electrically detonated at the moment when two military vehicles laden with British troops and an Arab civilian truck were passing the spot, at the same time automatic fire was opened on the vehicles from positions North and South of the culvert. Casualties sustained by His Majesty's forces from this attack comprise 2 British other ranks killed, 11 British other ranks injured, 4 of whom are serious, one Arab civilian was injured and has been detained in hospital, for treatment. Police investigations subsequently established that some, at least, of the attackers withdrew in the direction of the Jewish quarters of Nahanayim and Sanhedriya.

30 OCTOBER 1946

At approximately 1420 hours on 30 October 1946 a green saloon car No. M 778 stopped outside Jerusalem Railway Station. One girl and two men — one dressed in European and the other in Arab clothing — got out carrying three suitcases. These were deposited in a doorway to the left of the booking office.

An Arab bystander becoming suspicious attempted to stop the girl who drew a pistol and fired at him. The remaining occupants of the car opened fire while the girl and two men got into the car which drove off in a North Easterly direction. Simultaneously the police opened fire hitting the car.

At approximately 1530 hours one of the suitcases inside the railway station exploded killing British Constable Smith. Shortly afterwards the second suitcase exploded in the road outside the station, where it had been moved, causing minor damage to the area. The third suitcase in the waiting room exploded shortly afterwards causing considerable damage to the station.

In the meantime, a Police Patrol car coming from the Jaffa Gate saw a taxi escaping towards Yemen Moshe and went to that area.

The escaping vehicle had been found abandoned by the Security Coy Arab Legion, stationed in this area, who had arrested two Jews, one of whom was wounded. Another wounded Jew was arrested by the Police in a civilian house nearby. All these were members of the Stern Group.

The military immediately tightly cordoned off the area. The cordon was strengthened later and at about 1710 hours a search by 1 A & SH began. 63 male inhabitants between the ages of 16 and 60 were removed for screening by CID personnel, and a number of suspected terrorists detained.

The successful outcome of the incident was due largely to the prompt action by personnel of the Arab Legion.

At about 1430 hours today taxi drew up outside Jerusalem Railway Station and girl entered station and deposited three suitcases. She then reentered taxi which drove away occupants at same time opening fire on the station. Police guard replied.

A British Police Constable removed one suitcase which was subsequently harmlessly detonated. On reentering to remove second suitcase he was killed by explosion. Third suitcase also later exploded. Considerable damage was caused to station premises and fire broke out which was extinguished by fire brigade.

Police patrol proceeding to scene apprehended Jewish taxi containing three Jews, two of whom were wounded. A further wounded Jew was captured in vicinity. Taxi was found to contain explosives and grenades.

The incident occurred at 2045 hours 31 October 1946 at MR 14121628 South of Petah Tiqva on the Main North Road (Red Route). The 15 cwt truck of 195 Para Field Ambulance was travelling southwards at speed when the explosion caused the driver to lose control. The truck travelled on 30 yards, turned round — and then turned over into the ditch on the same side of the road as the mines (West side). It caught fire and was completely burned out. Two men were trapped, Corporal Voce and Pte Eyre, and both died. Two were thrown clear, Ptes White and Marcroft, escaping with shock and minor injuries.

The first vehicles to arrive at the scene of the incident were those of a patrol of 7 Para Bn, which came along half an hour later at 2115 hours. A road patrol of 2 Para Bn arrived at 2120 hours.

The two injured men are now in 12th British General Hospital, recovering.

At 1845 hours a patrol of 3 vehicles of 7 Para Bn moving West along the road Tel Aviv-Wilhelma was mined while crossing a culvert over a small wadi at MR 13261612.

The charges were detonated to catch the rear vehicle of the convoy. The driver retained sufficient control to run into a field some 30 yards further on, where the truck caught fire but remained upright. It burnt for some 2 hours, destroying some telephone lines.

The damage to the truck was mostly blast effect on the right (or near) side, the petrol tank being "peppered".

The two charges were placed at either end of the culvert wall, of approximately 7 lbs gelignite each, causing large chunks of concrete masonry to be scattered.

The flex was about 50 yards in length, leading up the wadi to an orange grove with a good view of the East end of the culvert. Either the centre or the East end of the culvert was the aiming mark. Immediately after the explosion automatic fire was opened from two positions to the North and South of the road, West of the incident (i.e. towards Tel Aviv). These two positions were attacked by the remainder of the patrol, but no contact was established and the covering party was able to withdraw firing.

Our casualties were 3 stretcher cases and 7 walking wounded, all detained in 12th British General Hospital.

On 3 November a clash occurred between Arabs and Jews in the area of Ez Zawiya 206284. The incident occurred as a result of a Jewish attempt to found a colony close to this Arab village, which is in a predominantly Arab area. It appears that a large number of Jews appeared during the night of 2/3 November and, protected by armed Jewish Settlement Police, they commenced to plough the land and erect huts. The Arabs in the area attacked the Jews and fierce fighting ensued, as a result of which 3 Arabs, including one woman, and two Jews, including one policemen, were killed.

The past week has been eventful. During the weekend, a new type of railway mine, actuated automatically by the weight of the train depressing a sleeper, was used by the terrorists in six places, on 17 and 18 November 1946.

These six mines proved very efficacious — a train was derailed, a rail car was damaged, and two RE officers were killed in attempting to dispose of the others.

The Palestine police have been the targets for a number of recent outrages, and after an incident during the night of 17 November, in which a PMF truck was blown up in Montefiore near Tel Aviv, causing 4 fatal and 6 wounded casualties. A number of individuals in the Palestine police took the matter into their own hands. A certain amount of indiscriminate damage to property was sustained on that night by Jews in Montefiore, but on the following night a small organized party of about 20/25 police invaded Tel Aviv and caused considerable discomfort to some of the inhabitants. Four or five cafes were "beaten up", 25 Jews were treated in hospitals, and some motor-cars were rudely handled.

At approximately 2300 hours on 17 November a PMF police truck was blown up in Montefiore at MR 13021642. 1 RAF Sgt and 1 British policeman were killed — 4 British policemen and 2 RAF ORs were injured. At approximately 2305 hours on 25 November Captain Kingsford of HQ 1 Infantry Division, while returning from Sarafand to Haifa, was fired on at MR 13581581 near Beit Dajan by a man wearing an Airborne beret. Approximately 7 rounds were fired. Captain Kingsford was wounded in the back, and was later taken to 3 RAF Hospital Tel Litvinsky. The driver was unharmed.

At about 2315 hours 25 November 1946 a 3-tonner of 2 Para Bn driven by Driver Tarks with 15 soldiers inside was travelling from Sarafand to Tel Litvinsky. The driver and one man, Private Bint, were armed with pistols; the remainder were unarmed. When the lorry was passing MR 13571579 a man in the uniform of the Para Regt was seen standing on the right side of the road waving a rifle above his head and shining a torch. The troops in the lorry shouted to him to put his torch out which he did. The lorry pulled up about fifty yards further on. Private Bint went back down the road and challenged the man with the rifle who had by now been joined by another man, dress unrecognised. No reply was given to Private Bint's challenge, so he said he would open fire if the man refused to reply. As he said this a burst of Sten or TSMG fire whipped over Private Bint's head. There is doubt as to whether the fire came from the side of the road or not, but Private Bint considers that it came from one of the two men. Being armed only with a pistol Private Bint took cover in the ditch and worked his way back to the lorry. After a pause during which nothing else happened, the lorry moved on. The incident was reported on return to camp. In the opinion of Private Bint and the remainder of the men in the lorry, the two men seen were not English.

Corporal Keates who was in the back of the lorry states that he heard the men talking in a foreign tongue and one of the troops in the lorry said, "He's a pretty rum looking Airborne soldier".

3,4,5 DECEMBER 1946

The following is the general chain of events surrounding the explosion at HQ South Palestine District on 5 December 1946 as revealed by investigations up to 2000 hours the same day.

On 3 December 1946 3-ton truck L 5616841 on the charge of 478 Coy RASC (Tel Aviv Detachment) was driven to the Coy's workshops, Sarafand, by civilian driver Moshe Marinburg and left there for routine inspection, etc.

The truck was last seen in the workshops at 1600 or 1615 hours 4 December 1946 by a 478 Coy NCO; it almost certainly did not leave there before 0700 hours 5 December, 1946.

Between, most probably, 0730 and 0930 hours 5 December 1946 it was driven out of workshops, but not "signed off" in the normal way, by an unknown person who would have had to produce a work ticket in order to pass the BOR gate-sentries who are of average efficiency.

At approximately 1040 hours the vehicle was driven into the roadway beside A/Q and Medical Branches HQ South Palestine District. The driver produced a workticket, which was in order, when challenged by Pte Mooney, sentry on duty at the entrance to the compound, who, almost due for relief, asked him the time. Pte Mooney described the driver as being a Jew, fairly tall, fair complexioned, wearing a light-brown military-type raincoat and khaki shorts, shoes and short grey stockings; Pte Kestle of 252 FSS who was leaving the compound as the Jew entered described him as being tall, "Germanic," very fair complexioned with blonde hair and a small moustache and wearing a raincoat, shorts, etc., as already noted. Both witnesses noticed the Jew lift the bonnet of his truck and remove, as they thought, the rotor-arm, paying him thereafter no further attention. It is not improbable that the man was either connecting an electrical timing-mechanism in motion and inserting a detonator into a firing-charge.

The Jewish driver was not seen again. At 1125 hours a charge concealed beneath the driving-cab of the vehicle exploded, completely destroying the 3-ton truck of which only one metal strut bearing the vehicle number remained intact and severely damaging A/Q and Medical Branches of HQ South Palestine District (nearest wall 15 yards away), inflicting casualties as already reported.

At 1130 hours all gates in Sarafand perimeter were closed. By 1145 hours a description of the Jewish driver had been circulated by FS to all gate-guard-commanders; ASP (Palestine Police) Ramle was escorted into the garrison and briefed shortly after midday and by 1230 hours the unit owning the 3-ton truck had been traced. Inquiries were then taken over by DSP, CID, Jaffa. Upon agreement with "G" Branch HQ South Palestine District, APM and OC tps Sarafand gate-traffic was allowed to resume by 1300 hours under close scrutiny which resulted in a number of temporary detentions.

An identification parade of drivers of 478 Coy RASC Wksps, conducted by SIB and Palestine Police at 1700 hours, was unsuccessful, but a study of employees' photographs produced 'recognition' by both Mooney and Kestle of an ex-commando, Richard Nettl of 16 Melech Koush Street, Tel Aviv, who at least resembled the Jewish driver. Palestine Police are taking necessary action.

At 1125 hours this morning a military truck blew up apparently as result of time bomb placed in vehicle in front of Military Headquarters, Sarafand. Casualties are reported as one British Officer killed, or believed killed and several military personnel injured.

5 DECEMBER 1946

At 1125 hours a 3-ton Dodge parked 40 feet outside AQ and ADMS huts exploded, demolishing the two huts and causing considerable damage and casualties.

1 Officer and 1 OR were killed — 8 Officers and 15 ORs and 5 civilians were injured. The killed were Captain Laferla — DADH, and Sgmn Lawrence of No. 2 Special Wireless Section.

The truck was driven into the perimeter by a Jewish civilian dressed in mackintosh and shorts and wearing a tooth-brush moustache. His identity card and work ticket were checked by the sentry, and both were in order.

The truck had been taken from No. 478 Workshops,

Sarafand, where it had been brought for inspection on the previous day, probably during the same morning. The movements of the official driver of the truck Moshe Marinburg were suspicious on that morning, and he had in fact ample opportunity to have driven it out of the workshops to a pre-arranged rendezvous with the tooth-brush moustache operator. Marinburg has been arrested.

5 DECEMBER 1946

On 5.12.46 at 11:30 a.m. an explosion was heard in the direction of Sarafand Camp. Police investigation revealed that the explosion had occurred outside the "A" Branch HQ in Sarafand Camp. No 14705421 Rfn R Mooney of 2 Bn RUR, "S" Coy on guard at the "A" Branch HQ states that at 10:15 a.m. he saw a 3 ton truck draw up outside the "A" Branch. He checked the work-ticket and found it in order. The driver alighted and inspected the truck, first the rear and then the bonnet. The guard later asked the driver the time and was told 10:40 a.m. At 11:00 a.m. the guard was relieved by Rfn Hickling of the same unit. Rfn Mooney does not remember seeing the driver between 10:40 a.m. and the time he was relieved. At 11:30 a.m. the explosion occurred, completely wrecking the truck and demolishing two buildings.

Casualties: Captain Laferla and Driver Lawrence RASC both killed, Rfn Hickling wounded in the leg, and a number of civilians suffered injuries from flying debris, etc. Description of the driver that drove the truck into the camp as follows: height about 5'5", dark wavy hair, dark complexion, clean shaven, slim, hatless wearing light fawn raincoat, khaki shorts, grey army socks, civilian shoes. Speaks good English. Amongst the wreckage of the truck was found a WD number plate L 5616841 and a mudguard bearing unit sign 1243 (478 Coy). Investigations proceeding.

At 1125 hours on 5 Dec 46 a heavy explosion from a 3-ton Dodge truck parked outside A/Q branch Hut of HQ South Palestine District devastated the A/Q Hut, severely damaged the adjacent ADMS Hut and caused other damage within a wide area. Windows were broken nearly a quarter of a mile away.

Casualties were two killed and 28 injured, of whom 22 were detained in hospital. The killed were: Captain Laferla, DADH HQ South Palestine District, Sigm Lawrence, NO 2 Spec Wrls Gp.

The explosion must have been caused by a very large quantity of explosive, of the order of up to 200 lbs (RE estimate not yet available). The concrete road was cratered with a hole 4/5 feet in diameter and over 1 foot deep, and nothing remained of the lorry except a few springs and an axle. A nearby truck of No 2 Spec Wrls Sec was severely damaged and the driver killed.

1128 hours. Truck blew up completely wrecking "A" "Q" "MED" Branches and Camp Comd's Offices. Truck nearby also blown up.

At 1855 hrs on 5th December in Jerusalem a stolen taxi hit a traffic island and driver lost control, one Jewish occupant and some mines which were being carried in the vehicle fell out into the road, the mines exploded, the Jew was fatally injured, the taxi then hit a tree and blew up, this explosion killed the second Jewish occupant.

Sirens were sounded at 1858 hrs and shortly afterwards heavy firing was directed at the Mustashfa police billet from surrounding houses, attack was beaten off, sniping also took place in the vicinity of Mustashfa police station, a British constable was shot and seriously injured.

At about the same time two grenades were thrown at the guards on a military mess adjoining the G.O.C.'s residence, these exploded but caused no casualties.

5/6 DECEMBER 1946

At 1855 hours on 5 December 1946 an explosion occurred at the junction of St. Paul's Road and Street of the Prophets, Jerusalem. The alarm sirens were sounded and simultaneously heavy small arms fire broke out at many points in the city. The explosion was caused by a taxi, which had been stolen earlier in the day from Tel Aviv, running over a mine as it was passing the traffic island in the Street of the Prophets. The occupants of the taxi were themselves in the process of laying mines and one terrorist was flung onto the road and seriously injured subsequently dying in hospital. The driver of the taxi was killed outright and the taxi then ran over another mine which exploded. During this period the vehicle was out of control and an unknown child was knocked down and slightly injured.

At approximately 1900 hours 9 Inf Bde bomb disposal team reported to the Street of the Prophets and proceeded to clear the mines. The taxi was found to contain some more explosive and it was blown up with the body of the terrorist inside.

At approximately 1900 hours highway small arms fire was directed at the Mustashfa Police Billet from surrounding houses. Sniping also took place from the rooftops of isolated houses in the vicinity of the billet. One British Constable was seriously wounded whilst returning fire from the roof of the billet. Small arms fire was directed at the terrorists until 1950 hours when the attack was beaten off. Several grenades were thrown at the billet and some unexploded grenades were found in the vicinity after the incident was over.

Two homemade grenades were thrown at the guards on the GOC's house at 1908 hours. The guards opened fire at the man who threw the grenades but he escaped into Rehavia.

At approximately 1921 hours firing was reported by the RAF police in King George V Avenue opposite the DAPM's offices. This incident did not develop.

At approximately 1900 hours an oil bomb was found in Meashearin Street outside the Syrian Orphanage. 1 A & SH disposed of this bomb.

At approximately 2105 hours a truck and a taxi were found abandoned in the Street of the Prophets near Damascus Gate. The taxi contained a quantity of mines and 36 grenades and was pointing in the direction of the Damascus Gate. The truck contained approximately 400 lbs of explosive and a quantity of box mines. Eight men were seen to escape from the vicinity of the truck and the taxi. Blood trails and two pistols were found in the area.

9 Inf Bde bomb disposal team reported to the area of the taxi and truck and proceeded to investigate. The vehicles were considered to be 'booby trapped' and at approximately 2230 hours the taxi was blown up causing very little damage to buildings in the area. At approximately 2240 hours the truck was blown up and caused considerable damage to houses in the area. One house was completely destroyed and six houses were very badly damaged. The whole area had been cleared of civilians before the explosion and in consequence there were no casualties.

The principle object of the terrorists may have been an attempt to destroy Air HQ Levant, which is situated at the Damascus Gate. The attack on the Mustashfa billets and the mine laying being major diversionary attacks. It is interesting to note that all the taxis and trucks involved in the latest incident were stolen in Tel Aviv.

Total casualties throughout the incident were one British Constable injured, one unknown child injured and the two terrorists killed and one terrorist injured.

10 DECEMBER 1946

The Davar of 10 December, 1946, stated that a car belonging to a Naafi worker in Natanya had been blown up on the night of 9/10 December on passing two jeeps. The Haaretz presumes that a "Molotov Cocktail" was thrown at it. In fact, the car in question was stationary, and investigation disclosed that it had almost certainly been blown up as a warning by the terrorists, due to a delay by the owner in payment of subsidies to them.

11 DECEMBER 1946

At approximately 0420 hours 25 armed Jews entered the house of Mousa Abu Hasheh near Salama MR 13281622 and demanded "the arms that had been taken from them".

Abu Hasheh was beaten up and his son and nephew aged 20 and 19 were abducted. The Muhktar who came with a shotgun (licensed) to assist, was shot in the face and hands by 9mm automatic fire from a covering party; he is detained in hospital.

The boys state that their heads were covered in a sack and they were taken to a hut somewhere on the Herziliya road North of Ramat Gan where they were questioned about the location of certain Jewish arms which had disappeared. They were not badly treated. They returned home at 1420 hours. Had they not been returned, Abu Hasheh, who is an old Arab Rebellion leader, might easily have taken reprisals, with far-reaching consequences.

15/16 DECEMBER 1946

Once again, for the second week running, there are no anti-British incidents to report. During the lull, the Jews have turned their attention to Arabs and to unpopular Jews. The Salama incident of last week, already referred to in para 1 (b) of this summary was repeated in a very similar form in the North near Nathanya on 15 December, and once again this week a second instance of a Jewish civilian car being fitted with an explosive charge occurred in Nathanya on 16 December.

On 15 December at about 0100 hours 12 armed Jews entered the home of Salman Massoud Metabaleh near Nathanya at approximately MR 13801930 and assaulted his two sons.

Police followed tracks in the morning leading straight into Kefar Haiyim MR 141195, stopping 150 yards short of the JSP post, where the party appear to have entered a motor car. The Arab has identified Emanuel Shababu, watchman of Kefar Haiyim, as being one of the party. The JSP deny all knowledge of the incident. Shababu has been arrested. On the tracks were found one 9mm Pistol No. 9502 with 8 rounds, and also 8 rounds of 4.5 ammunition.

The purpose of the assault on the Arab is not known, but it looks very much like another Haganah revenge in connection with illegal Haganah arms losses.

At approximately 1300 hours on 16 December a RE party was called to deal with an explosive charge fixed to the exhaust manifold of a lorry belonging to Selig Kunin of Nathanya. The charge was intended to be fired by the dynamo, but was incorrectly wired. A No. 33 electric detonator was used. The charge was successfully removed.

This appears to be an attempt at assassination.

24/25 DECEMBER 1946

On the night of 24/25 December, in Rehovot, two organized gangs, each of about 40 young Jews, armed with sticks, stones and bottles, attacked Airborne troops who were in that town. There were casualties on both sides, but the initiative lay with the Jews, who even set up a partial road block on the main street and stoned passing military vehicles. Mr. Jacoby, the Davar correspondent, who was intentionally brought out and given a ring-side seat by a member of 317

F.S. Section, had no comment other than that it was an unfortunate accident which he intended to forget. The Jewish attack on British troops on Christmas night was thus not recorded in the Jewish press. It should be mentioned that the Airborne Division behaved with remarkable restraint, and no reprisals were taken for an organized act of hooliganism by the local population, in which three quite innocent troops were seriously injured, one losing his eye.

26 DECEMBER 1946

Since the termination of the Zionist Congress there have been no terrorist incidents against members of the Forces. There was, however, an organized riot against all uniformed personnel in Rehovoth on Christmas Eve:-

2115 hours — A gang of 10 Jewish youths set upon 3 Airborne troops and 1 KRRC. They were dispersed by 2 Palestine Policemen.

2200 hours — An organized gang of approximately 80 young Jews under control of a leader, armed with sticks, stones and bottles set up a road block in Herzl Street. They attempted to stop Army vehicles and threw stones, etc., at all uniformed personnel, damaging windows in surrounding buildings.

It is noteworthy that the Jewish Special Police made no effort to disband the mob.

The Stern gang raided two Diamond Factories on the afternoon of the 26 December. One in Tel Aviv and the other in Nathanya.

In Tel Aviv at 1630 hours three armed men entered the Shamr Diamond Factory. They held up the two clerks on duty, obtained the keys to the safe, which they opened and removed:- L6000 worth of diamonds, L700 in cash, 60 Government bearer bonds, and 10 Golden Sovereigns.

At Nathanya at 1635 hours 5 armed Jews entered Even Diamond Factory and locked up 4 employees, who hadn't the keys. The five bandits went down the stairs and met the foreman, removed his keys and locked him up.

They then stole raw diamonds valued at LP 15,000. The employees and foreman were warned not to move for half an hour and not to phone the police until 1800 hours. They obeyed these instructions implicitly allowing the robbers to escape.

26/27 DECEMBER 1946

On the night of 26/27 December, 1946, stones and bricks were hurled at Airborne troops in Natanya as part of the same organized campaign of Christmas provocation. Even in the outbreak in Natanya on 26 December by a small number of friends of the soldiers who had been injured on Christmas Eve, no physical damage to the inhabitants was caused. The Jewish press was once again remarkably quiet about the whole affair, thus showing that in fact the blame lay in great part with the Jews, and that they were not willing to resuscitate the matter.

29 DECEMBER 1946

At 1925 hours on 29th December, a British Army Major was kidnapped from a hotel in Nathanya by a party of armed Jews. He was flogged with 18 strokes and subsequently released and returned to the hotel.

The same evening, at about 2030 hrs, two British Staff Sergeants were abducted by a party of armed Jews in Tel Aviv and taken by car to the Zoological Gardens. Each was flogged with 18 strokes.

At 2130 hrs, the same evening, five armed Jews entered a cafe at Rishonlezion and abducted the most senior officer present, a British Staff Sergeant. He was removed a short distance and flogged with a rope and received 18 strokes. He suffered severe bruises and abrasions and was admitted to hospital for treatment.

Five armed Jews attempted to rush a road block near Wilhelma shortly before midnight. In the ensuing gunfight, one Jew was seriously wounded and three Jews were captured. Among the equipment in the car was one Thompson machine gun, 2 pistols, 4 hand grenades and 2 rawhide whips.

29/30 DECEMBER 1946

During a recent armed robbery perpetrated by terrorists on a bank in Jaffa, one of the last Jews who was caught, was sentenced to receive eighteen strokes of the whip. The sentence was promulgated on 17 December.

NMO broadcasts, and IZL posters which appeared in the Division Area on 17 December, threatened the British Authorities that any British Officer who fell into the hands of the terrorists would be flogged if the sentence passed on the bank robber was carried out. The sentence was, in fact, carried out shortly afterwards.

It was to be expected, therefore, that some further kidnaping of British personnel would take place in the near future.

On the evening of 29 December, three kidnaping incidents took place, and one British officer and three British ORs were flogged. A fourth incident is suspected to have taken place, but information concerning this and the second two confirmed incidents, is still neither detailed nor complete.

At 1925 hours the BM of 2 Para Bde was captured by 10 armed men in Nathanya whilst inspecting a picket of his Bde which was at that time in the town which was, otherwise, out of bounds to troops not on duty.

The BM was driven in a taxi to a coastguard station about three miles south of Nathanya, was bound to a bench, and received 18 lashes. The Jews then made off, leaving one behind, to untie the MB's hands. The BM is able to recognize the last of the Jews after whom he ran as soon as he had finally released himself.

The BM accompanied a Police patrol to the scene of the incident shortly afterwards.

S/Sgts Wright and Ventham were captured in Tel Aviv at about 2000 hours and flogged in a similar manner in the Zoological Gardens of that town.

Pte Gillam of 414 Horse Tpt Coy, RASC was kidnapped from the Cafe Tirza in Richon somewhat later in the evening.

He apparently only received 8 lashes, but is being detained in 12 General Hospital.

An Airborne soldier was seen by a Palestine Policeman and some onlookers to have been kidnapped by the occupants of a taxi which drew up beside him on the Jaffa-Tel Aviv road. The taxi then set off in the direction of Allenby Road.

Two incidents took place in Rehovoth at about 300315 B hours and 300320 B hours respectively. They are as follows: (a) 20-30 shots were fired at a JSP patrol in Rehovoth. One policeman wounded in leg. No other casualties. (b) Light automatic fire was aimed from an easterly direction at Rehovoth Police Station. The Police answered with two 2" mortar shells and 6 red flares. There were no casualties.

On 13 September 1946, the Ottoman Bank in Tel Aviv was raided by armed Jewish terrorists. Casualties were caused to civilians and to bank employees, and a number of the raiders were captured. One of these, Benjamin Kimchin, was tried by Military Court during December and sentenced to 18 strokes of the cane and 18 years imprisonment. This sentence was confirmed by the GOC on 17 December. As a result of this, the Irgun issued pamphlets threatening that if the punishment were carried out, British officers were liable to be caned.

During the evening of 29 December, four members of HM Forces were abducted and whipped by gangs of terrorists. At 1925 hours at the Hotel Metropole in Natanya, five armed Jews entered the Hotel lounge and removed Major EAS Brett DSO. Outside he was forced into a car and taken to a point two miles south of the town. Major Brett was then marched into a field and stripped of his clothes. He was tied face downwards on a bench and given 18 strokes with a whip. After the gang had departed Major Brett succeeded in freeing himself and walked back to the hotel.

At 2030 hours on the same evening, two Staff Sergeants were kidnapped by 8 armed Jews at the Armen Hotel in Tel Aviv. They were forced into a car and taken to the Zoological Gardens. Both were stripped and given 18 strokes each with what appeared to be a gharry whip, and then released. Later, in Rishon, 6 armed, masked men entered the cafe Tirza and held up all the soldiers, who were then searched for arms. The senior rank, a Staff Sergeant, was then removed from the cafe and marched about 50 yards away where his clothes were taken off. He was given 8 strokes with what appeared to be a heavy rope and then released.

As a result of these outrages, road-blocks were established throughout the coastal area. Near Petah Tiqva, a car tried to force a road-block. During an exchange of shots, the car was halted, one Jew was mortally wounded and four more were captured. In the car, as well as 2 TSMGs, 2 revolvers and four grenades, 2 rawhide whips were found.

29/30 DECEMBER 1946

On the night of 29/30 December, 1946, unarmed British personnel were captured and flogged by terrorists, yet in subsequent searches, Airborne soldiers behaved with moderation and control. Members of 317 F.S. Section took the Jewish newspaper correspondent to the scene of the screening in Rehovot, and showed him what was taking place. The Mayor of Rehovot had no complaints, yet next day in Davar, the reporter claimed that he had been present, without comment, and added that he "received a number of reports of savage and cruel behavior by Airborne troops; the KRRC behaved well."

CHAPTER SIX

ZIONIST TERRORISM AND CRIMES IN PALESTINE 1947

In 1947 Jewish terrorism intensified and became more ruthless. The cooperation between the Irgun Z'vai Leumi, the Stern Gang and the Hagana made it possible for the terrorist organizations to intensify their campaign against the British administration and the Arabs throughout the country.

A Stern Gang pamphlet found in Hadar Hacarmel, Haifa, on May 7, 1947, illustrates their fanaticism and intellectual confusion:<sup>1</sup>

Innocent blood will not be shed, but the blood of rioters, pogrom-heroes and murderers will be shed, for it is defiled. And so is the blood of each Briton, ruling beyond the frontiers of his country. The British blood-sucker, to be a soldier, a constable, a clerk, so long as he obeys orders to exploit and murder, he is indicted. He is here to guard the imperialist rule and prevent the rescue of the Jews. For this his blood will be shed.

It is unavoidable that in this war innocent blood will be shed as well, but there has never been a war or revolution "with all comforts," without privations, without destruction, without bloodshed. Let those among us who are afraid of bloodshed and destruction say openly that they surrender to a New Munich, to each White Paper, which leads to a ghetto and ultimately to new gas-chambers a la Auschwitz. They sit in their homes waiting for the day of the great slaughter which Bevin and his partner Kaukji are preparing for us, waiting for Jewish youth to be mobilized by the Anglo-Saxons in their war against the Soviet Union. They cry over defiled British blood, but remain silent over the blood of innocent refugees. The blood of the strong one must be protected, the blood of the weak one may be shed. Why don't they try to force the British to stop bloodshed, why do they force us?

Why are you shouting from your walls (Hahoma Wall) about innocent Jewish blood being shed by the "terrorists," while not admitting the murder of 230 innocent refugees of the "Patria"? How dare you accuse us of murder while you killed tenfold as many Jews on a single occasion? Reply!

Jewish blood is sacred and pure. The blood of Britons suppressing foreign countries is defiled. Therefore it will be shed to prevent innocent blood from being shed.

The Jewish terrorist organisations even tried to place bombs in the buildings of the British government offices in London, such as the building in the Colonial Office and they sent letters containing explosives to several British officials. The Stern Gang pamphlet refers to the bomb in the Colonial Office.<sup>2</sup>

Scotland Yard publicly promised to arrest the woman who laid the bomb in the Colonial Office within 48 hrs. Hundreds of hours have passed and Scotland Yard's promise remains unfulfilled. They are now telling stories about "a Jewish terrorist of Polish or Czech nationality" whose arrest is dependent on the cooperation of the French Surete....

We learn that the demand for detective novels describing Scotland Yard's activities has slackened to the lowest possible level...

The following are examples of the Jewish terrorist crimes committed in 1947:

1. Placing mines in government departments or houses and exploding them by remote control devices, thereby killing many British and Palestinian officials and civilians.
2. Sabotaging the Iraq Petroleum Company pipelines.
3. Attacking government buildings during the night and placing explosives, thereby destroying nearby businesses and injuring many civilians.
4. Placing bombs in British banks, such as Barclays Bank.
5. Blowing up military and police trucks.
6. Blowing up boats used for transshipment of illegal immigrants.
7. Placing bombs near police headquarters in several cities.
8. Using mines to blow up oil trains.
9. Robbing of Jewish banks, such as the Palestine Discount Bank in Tel Aviv.
10. Destruction of oil tanks owned by the Shell Oil Company.
11. Placing bombs in Arab cinemas, causing death and injury to several innocent civilians.
12. Placing bombs in Arab cafes, and after exploding them by remote control, shooting at customers, killing and injuring many people.
13. Bombing railway stations and placing bombs on railway lines and destroying trains.
14. Attack on Jewish-owned restaurants whose owners refused to pay money to the terrorists.
15. Assassination of British military officers and British and Arab police officers.
16. Placing incendiary bombs in Arab markets.
17. Attacking Jewish cafes which were used by British troops.
18. Throwing bombs from passing cars into Arab crowds, killing and injuring many civilians.
19. Abduction of British officers as hostages, torturing and, in some cases, killing them.

The details of these outrages and many others are contained in documents in the Public Record Office, London.

These outrageous Zionist crimes were subjects of debate in the British House of Commons. On the 28th of January, 1947, Oliver Stanley, member of Parliament from West Bristol, asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies whether he had any statement to make about the recent outrages in Palestine.<sup>3</sup>

The Secretary of State for the Colonies (Mr. Creech Jones) replied: I have so far received only summary reports, and in spite of my prompt efforts to obtain the completest information, the fuller report which is expected from the High Commissioner, has not yet reached me. It appears, however, that at 5.10 p.m. on 26th January a British civilian, Major H. A. I. Collins, was abducted by terrorists from his flat in Jerusalem. He is believed to be seriously injured. At 12.35 p.m. yesterday, in Tel Aviv, Judge Ralph Windham was abducted by eight armed Jews as he was leaving the District Court. So far as is known he was not injured. The car used in this abduction was later found abandoned at Ramat Gan. Extensive military searches following these abductions have, according to the latest report in my hands, so far yielded no results.

It is believed that these abductions may be prompted by the desire to take hostages against the execution of Dov Gruner, a Jewish terrorist under sentence of death following conviction by a military court and confirmation by the General Officer Commanding. Yesterday afternoon intimation was received that an application for special leave to appeal on behalf of Dov Gruner was being lodged. The General Officer Commanding accordingly was obliged to grant a delay.

Immediately following the kidnapping of Judge Windham, the High Commissioner summoned Mrs Meyerson, Mr. Rokach and Mr. Kaplan, leaders of the Jewish community, and gave them an ultimatum that unless Judge Windham and Major Collins were produced unharmed within 48 hours, he proposed to withdraw all civil administration and facilities from Tel Aviv, Petah Tikvah and the Ramat Gan area, which would be cordoned off and be placed under the orders of a military commander.

I know with what detestation the House will have learned of these latest criminal outrages. The abduction of a judge from his own court must arouse a special sense of horror, for such a crime is an attack on the very foundations of society, and of civil government.

His Majesty's Government have recently brought into review the whole problem of terrorism in Palestine, and, in consultation with the High Commissioner and the Chief of the Imperial General Staff, have issued a strong directive intended to ensure the application of more effective military and police measures for dealing with the situation. Vigorous searches have already been undertaken in certain areas, and the military and the police have actively cooperated. An appeal has also been made to all responsible elements among the Jews to give their full cooperation with the Administration in rooting out this evil. The suppression of terrorism demands the active participation of the whole Jewish community and also a direct cooperation by the Jewish Agency which, I regret, has not been forthcoming to the extent essential for preventing these acts of terrorism. His Majesty's Government will continue to give their unreserved support to the Palestine civil and military authorities in applying all possible measures for bringing a speedy end to these despicable evils.

I make one more solemn appeal to the leaders of the community and to each individual Jew to recognise the end to which such crimes must lead, and to prove that they have the will and the power to maintain the ordinary decencies of civilised life and the essential conditions for the continuance of civil government. I warn the Jews in Palestine, and those who condone such brutalities, that the course recently taken by events must lead to the placing of the country under full military control with all that implies.

Mr. Churchill: I am not quite sure whether the right hon. Gentleman did not suggest that the death sentence upon this Jew had been respited on account of the hostages which had been taken by the Jewish terrorists. If that were so, I should like to ask: Is it not a very serious thing to turn aside from the normal path of justice because of threats of murder by terrorists launched against hostages whom they have taken?

Mr. Creech Jones: There has been no turning aside from the normal process of justice. It is a respite order which must come into operation when a request for an appeal to be heard before the Privy Council has been made.

Mr. Churchill: There has been no departure from the normal procedure as a result of terrorist activities?

Mr. Creech Jones: No, Sir.

On the 31st of January, 1947, another debate took place in the House of Commons about Jewish terrorism. Mr. Oliver Stanley, member of Parliament from West Bristol, made a long statement in which he said, inter alia, the following<sup>4</sup>:

The last time this House debated the security problems in Palestine was last July. The Debate followed immediately the arrest of the leaders of the Jewish Agency, and came, I think, shortly after the outrage at the King David Hotel. Since that time outrages have continued almost incessantly. Hardly a week has passed since then when there has not been some loss of British life, or some injury to British personnel, or some damage to British property. During all that time the British personnel in Palestine, troops, police and administration, have been in constant peril and under conditions of never ceasing tension. All of us on every side of the House will wish to pay a tribute to their behaviour under those circumstances....

As I said, since last July there has been a continuation of this sordid story of outrage. During that time, it is necessary to point out, despite the number of murders of British personnel, no one responsible for those murders has been apprehended, convicted or punished. But I shall not deal today with the general run of the outrages in the past six months, I want to refer more particularly to the events of the last few weeks, because in that period we have seen in Palestine a most sinister development. We have seen the emergence of a new challenge, carefully thought out and skilfully carried out, before which, if it is not true to say that the Government have been forced to surrender, at least by some ill chance the facts have given all the appearance of such a course upon their part.

Let me recall to the House the details of the two incidents to which I wish to refer. First, there was the flogging case. On 27th December, a young Jew, who had been sentenced to imprisonment and caning, had the sentence of caning carried out. His offence, I believe, had been robbery with violence at a bank. On 29th December, a British officer and three non-commissioned officers were kidnapped and flogged. It was openly said by the Irgun that that was a reprisal for the caning of the youth. It was deliberately declared that reprisals of that kind would take place whenever a punishment of that nature was inflicted. That was 29th December. On 8th January, a sentence of caning on another Jewish youth, which had been passed by the military court and had been confirmed by the General Officer Commanding, was remitted by the acting High Commissioner for Palestine.

Then there is the case of Gruner. On 1st January, Gruner was sentenced to death for taking part in an attack on a police post. On 24th January, that sentence was confirmed by the General Office Commanding. On the evening of 26th January, Major Collins was kidnapped, and, on the morning of 27th January, Judge Windham was kidnapped and taken from the very court in which he was sitting.... These two gentlemen were kidnapped, under the express threat of reprisals, with the implied or actual threat that their kidnapping would be followed by their murder, if the sentence of death on Gruner was carried out. That was on the morning of the 27th.

On the afternoon of the 27th, it was announced that the sentence of death on Gruner had been stayed, because of an appeal to the Privy Council. On 28th January, Judge Windham was released and, a day later, Major Collins....

I do not believe that, on these lines, it is possible to carry on the Government of Palestine. No authority can stand up against such blows. No troops, no police can carry out their duties in circumstances such as these. We cannot have a situation where the administration of justice and the punishment of offenders are being dictated by the criminals themselves. Frankly, so far as I am concerned, sooner than that this country should have to endure further humiliations of this kind, I would prefer that we should clear out of Palestine and tell the peoples of the world that we are unable to carry out our Mandate there. But, I myself believe that that would be a disaster, for Palestine and for all the communities there, and that such a retreat would only be the signal for a bloody civil war. Whatever the official policy is to be, any chance of its success depends on a firm and resolute authority in Palestine.

I would now like to ask him a question concerning the present relationship between His Majesty's Government and the Jewish Agency. In the past it has been a fluctuating relationship. When we discussed this matter in July, the leaders had just been placed in a detention camp. In November they were released, and a reconciliation took place following the statement by the Jewish Agency that they condemned terrorism. Yesterday I saw that the house of the acting leader of the Jewish Agency was searched by the police. I do not know whether that was a mere accident of geographical location, or whether it involved some new departure in policy....

I cannot believe that it would be possible for the campaign of the Irgun Zvai Leumi to continue if the Jewish Agency and, through them as their leaders, the Jewish community was giving really active cooperation to the forces who are attempting to suppress them.

Mr. Lipson, member of Parliament from Cheltenham, intervened in the debate and stated, inter alia, the following<sup>5</sup>:

We are not dealing with reasonable men, but with fanatics who will pay no respect to the opinions of Jews in this country or anywhere else as far as I can see. I cannot agree with the right hon. Gentleman the Member for West Bristol (Mr. Stanley) that there is strong discipline among the Jews —

Mr. Stanley: In Palestine.

Mr. Lipson: I should have thought it was very doubtful. Anyhow, I do not believe the responsibility is primarily the British Government's. We have the right to insist that the British Government should carry out in Palestine the responsibility that is theirs, and I hope, as a result of this Debate, that the Minister will say that he is prepared to do so.

The situation at present is such that I believe we have got to the state where the terrorists are almost enjoying what they are doing in Palestine. It is something of a game to them to be able to flout the great British Government with impunity, and to get away with it practically every time; the appetite is growing upon what it feeds on. The events in Palestine are having repercussions not only in Palestine, but in this country as well. These terrorists are doing a great disservice to the Jewish cause throughout the world, and it is not by methods such as these that the cause of Jewry can be advanced. I therefore ask the Government to say clearly whether they have given the authorities on the spot all the powers they require to restore law and order in Palestine. Will they say what exactly is the objection they have to the establishment of martial law, if that is considered necessary by the authorities on the spot?

Sir Peter Macdonald, member of Parliament from the Isle of Wight, intervened in the debate and stated, inter alia, that the refugees in the U.N.R.R.A. camps were being recruited for the Jewish Army, and that that was why they were on their way to Palestine, with the connivance of the American and Russian Governments. He stated<sup>6</sup>:

Sir P. Macdonald: An hon. Member has made the suggestion that more Jews should be admitted to Palestine to restore order in that country. I want to bring to the notice of the Government the type of emigrant who is now going there. What did we find when we were making our investigation? We heard that in the British zone in Austria there were U.N.R.R.A. camps occupied by Jews — some of the displaced persons in connection with whom were making our investigation — and we thought that we would like to visit them. We obtained permission from the general commanding, and we visited one camp. What did we find? We found that this camp was run under the auspices of U.N.R.R.A. A lady commandant — a very efficient lady, who had been a Labour candidate at the last Election — was in charge of this camp, and a very able commandant she made. She was as bewildered as we were, as to why she had been put in charge of this camp, because we found 5,000 or 6,000 Jews, who were there because the general commanding the American zone had asked our Commander-in-Chief if he would take these people off his hands temporarily, because his own zone was overcrowded with the same type of displaced person....

This type of emigration to Palestine is not, I hope, one which the Government are being asked to encourage, because these are recruits for the Jewish Army, and that is why they are on their way to Palestine, with the connivance of the American and Russian Governments. They can have only one purpose and that is to embarrass the British Government. General Morgan reported these things before we saw them. He has now been brought home from Germany and given a bowler hat. Anyone who knows General Morgan knows full well that he is one of the most brilliant soldiers turned up by the war. He was in charge of all the detailed planning organisation for the invasion of Europe and there can be no question about the efficiency of that organisation. I saw it being assembled around my constituency for weeks, and it was the greatest piece of organisation that I had ever seen, and I have had many years' service. It was a most successful piece of planning and General Morgan is the man to whom the credit for it was given by the Minister of Defence, who ought to know. Because of General Morgan's great skill as an organiser, he was selected for this job of British representative on U.N.R.R.A. He was deputy to the heads of U.N.R.R.A. — first Mr. Lehman and later ex-Mayor La Guardia — and because he told the truth in regard to the exodus of Jews, through Europe, to Palestine, he was suspended. Later he was reinstated for a time and then he was dismissed from his post by ex-Mayor La Guardia, and a Mr. Cohen was appointed in his place. Now we are told that he has been dismissed from the Army and given a bowler hat — not at his own request — at the age of 53. I think that is a scandal. We can ill afford to lose the services of men like General Morgan when the Army is being reorganised as it is today. I consider that that soldier has had a very raw deal, just because, on this occasion, he exposed this exodus of Jews through Europe. He could do nothing else, in justice to his own friends in the Forces when he saw that sort of thing going on.

I am convinced that these people who are making their way to Palestine are creating most of the trouble there. No one has control over them; they owe no allegiance to anyone. They are prepared to undertake any kind of atrocity so long as they are provided with the weapons to carry out such atrocities. I hope that when the Secretary of State for the Colonies replies he will give an answer to some of the questions put to him by my right hon. Friend the Member for West Bristol.

Mr. Younger, member of Parliament from Grinsey, intervened in the debate and stated, inter alia, the following<sup>7</sup>:

The hon. and gallant Member for North Blackpool talks about mass searches at Tel Aviv. Any police or intelligence officer would tell him how unlikely it is that a mass search by whole divisions who are untrained in this work will unearth any of the activities of a highly trained body like the Irgun. The trouble is that although the right hon. Gentleman who opened the Debate was quite right in describing the terrorists as criminals, he was not telling the whole truth. They are criminals, and something else as well. They are political bodies, and, as such, they excite a certain amount of sympathy and a very considerable amount of dread among the population. They have therefore the cooperation, passive if not active, of a large number of the population, and I believe that purely military repression would be likely to turn a large portion of the Jewish population in Palestine into their active allies.

Air-Commodore Harvey, member of Parliament from Macclesfield, intervened in the debate and stated, inter alia, the following<sup>8</sup>:

The hon. Member for Grimsby (Mr. Younger) said there are only a few criminals at work. If there are only a few criminals, they are certainly creating a lot of bother. The hon. Member for Nelson and Colne (Mr. S. Silverman) congratulated the Government on what they have done in the last few months. I am sorry that I am unable to congratulate the Government on their policy during the last six months. What worries me is that by this lenient policy the right hon. Gentleman has made more difficulties for himself with the Arabs. I do not agree with what happened in Palestine in 1937 or 1938, but, nevertheless, the Arabs are now saying to themselves, "One hundred and eighty of our people over a period paid the supreme penalty for criminal offences, and not one single Jew has paid the penalty when he has committed murder." That will create difficulty in any negotiations which the right hon. Gentleman may undertake —

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Creech Jones, replied to the statements of the members of Parliament and stated<sup>9</sup>:

I think the whole House shares the horror of the recent outrages and disasters which have occurred in Palestine during the last year or so. I should like on behalf of the Government to pay tribute to those in Palestine who have borne the strain and the responsibilities of administration in that very unhappy territory. It is not often recognised that, in spite of the difficulties, civil government has continued, and that alongside the police and the soldiers our civil administration have played a great part in contending with the obstacles and difficulties made for them by the conditions prevailing in that country....

During 1946 there were 22 Jews sentenced to death, but the sentences were commuted to long terms of imprisonment up to a maximum of 20 years. There have been 83 Jewish terrorists convicted by the military courts for carrying or discharging firearms, and all of them have been sentenced to long terms of imprisonment. By way of information, 26 terrorists have actually been killed and 28 wounded, during actions with the Police and Military.

I want now to come to the two events referred to by the right hon. Member for West Bristol — the kidnapping of Major Collins and the kidnapping of Judge Windham. In regard to Major Collins, it is quite true that this was an outrage of the worst possible kind, that he was manhandled and severely hurt, and that immediately the information came to the notice of the authorities, appropriate action was taken to round up, where they could, those who were thought to be concerned in it. In regard to Judge Windham, I promised that I would inquire for the information of the House as to the degree of protection which was afforded to his court.

The question of Jewish terrorism was debated again in the House of Commons on March 3, 1947. Mr. Winston Churchill asked the Prime Minister whether he had any statements to make on the latest outrages in Palestine. The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Creech Jones, said he had been asked to reply and stated the following<sup>10</sup>:

At half-past three on the afternoon of 1st March a vehicle drove into the wire defences of the Goldsmith Officers' Club in Jerusalem, while the guards were engaged by machine-gun fire from terrorists who had taken up position outside the wire defences. A heavy explosion followed which destroyed a considerable part of the building. A few hours later an attack was carried out on a car park at Haifa and a number of vehicles wrecked. Other less serious outrages, of which full reports are not yet fully available, occurred in other parts of the country. Total casualties so far reported in this day of violence amount to 18 killed and 25 injured, of whom a number are civilians. In the last month 48 outrages have occurred in which 20 people have lost their lives and 31 have been injured.

Following on the events of 1st March the High Commissioner decided to place certain Jewish areas, from which it is well known most operations of the extreme terrorist groups are conducted, under statutory martial law. The effect of this decision is to withdraw normal facilities for civil government, including civil courts of law, from the areas concerned and involves the closing of banks, control of entry into and departure from specified areas of persons and vehicles by order of a Military Commander, and the trial of all criminal offenders in specified areas by Military Courts. Localities so far affected are a restricted Jewish area of Jerusalem and an area including Tel Aviv, Ramat Gan, Benei Beraq and Petah Tikvah. His Majesty's Government have approved this action and the authorities in Palestine will receive the full support of the Government in any further action which may prove necessary. I am sure that they will carry the full support of this House.

I must again condemn these murderous outrages in Palestine. I need only add that they can in no way help towards a solution of the problems in that country, especially at a time when His Majesty's Government have announced their intention to refer the whole question to the United Nations. The House will deplore the decision of the Jewish community not to respond more whole-heartedly to the recent invitation of the High Commissioner to cooperate against the terrorists. I desire also to express the profound sympathy of His Majesty's Government and that of the House with those who have been bereaved in these recent tragic incidents. All possible steps are being taken to bring the criminals to justice.

Jewish terrorism and anti-terrorist measures were debated in the House of Commons on June 25, 1947. Mr. Lipson, member of Parliament from Cheltenham, asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies if he would make a statement on the failure of the recent attempt to blow up the British headquarters at Tel Aviv when a Palestinian Jew, Zeev Werber, sacrificed his life to save the lives of 300 British troops. The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Creech Jones, stated<sup>11</sup>:

Shortly after 11 o'clock on 18th of June an explosion occurred in the basement of a house near the Military Cantonment in Citrus House, Tel Aviv. On investigation the body of a young Jew was found at the opening of a tunnel leading in the direction of Citrus House. The tunnel was timbered and construction must have been in progress for some time. In the basement was a chalked message in Hebrew, reading, "The Hagana were here. We want you by force not to carry out your evil intentions. Signed, Hagana." Outside the building was a vehicle loaded with cement which had been removed without permission from the Municipal garage. It appears that the Hagana had learnt that an attempt by terrorists to blow up Citrus House was in progress, and had decided to frustrate it by blocking the entry to the tunnel with cement. The entry had, however, been booby trapped; and when the leader of the Hagana party, identified as Zeev Werber, the son of a municipal employee in Tel Aviv, attempted to enter, he was fatally wounded by an explosion. His funeral in Tel Aviv the next day was attended by representatives of the District Commissioner and of the Superintendent of Police in recognition of the fact that he had lost his life as a result of action which had probably prevented a serious terrorist outrage and consequent British casualties.

On July 15, 1947, the British Colonial Secretary was asked to make a statement about the two British Sergeants who were kidnapped and taken as hostages by Jewish terrorists. The Colonial Secretary stated<sup>12</sup>:

It is with deep regret that I confirm the reports which have been current during the past 24 hours that the two British sergeants, Paice and Martin, abducted at Nathanya on 12th July, have been murdered by Jewish terrorists.

I received today the following telegram from the High Commissioner for Palestine:

"Most deeply regret to inform you that the two bodies were found at 9 o'clock this morning in an eucalyptus grove at Umm Uleiqa, near Beit Lid. They were hanging from two trees. Notices were pinned to the bodies saying that the men had been hanged by the National Military Organisation as British spies. The first body was cut down by an Army captain, and as he bent over it a small bomb exploded, injuring him in the face. The surrounding area was found to have been mined."

In the long history of violence in Palestine there has scarcely been a more dastardly act than the cold-blooded and calculated murder of these innocent young men after holding them as hostages for more than a fortnight. I can only express what I know to be the deep feelings of horror and revulsion shared by all of us here at this barbarous crime. I am sure that this House would also wish me to convey their most sincere sympathy with the families and friends of the murdered men in the anguish they have endured during the days of waiting and now in their irreparable loss.

His Majesty's Government also pay tribute to the Services in Palestine for their courage and good bearing in conditions of risk and arduous responsibility.

Such an outrage against men discharging a service in fulfilment of international obligations is not only abhorrent in the eyes of all civilised persons everywhere, but must surely mean the final condemnation of the terrorists in the eyes of all their own people. We can only hope that this latest act will stir the Jewish community in Palestine to root out this evil from their midst.

2 JANUARY 1947

Jerusalem. At 17.55 hours two hand grenades were thrown at a military billet in Jerusalem and three hand grenades were thrown into the Air Ministry Works Department yard. No damage or casualties. At 18.15 hours a Police Patrol car was attacked with flame throwers, two of which were subsequently found in the vicinity. No damage or casualties. At 18.45 hours a mine was found on a road in the Sheikh Jarrah quarters. It was removed and detonated.

Haifa. At 17.55 hours the R.E.M.E. Camp at Hadera was attacked with automatic fire and a number of small bombs. Attack was beaten off and no damage resulted. One Arab T.A.C. was seriously wounded. At 18.42 hours a stolen tender left Kiryat Haim colony and ran alongside the military camp nearby, its occupants throwing bombs and firing automatic weapons. Fire was returned and vehicle returned towards the settlement where an explosion was soon to take place inside the tender. At 19.00 hours a Bren gun carrier was blown up by a road mine near Haifa Town, one British Officer received fatal injuries and four British O.R.'s were wounded. At 19.24 hours in Haifa an armoured OSR and truck of a combined Police and Military Patrol were blown up by a road mine. No casualties and slight damage.

Galilee. At 18.15 hours a party of Jews attacked a military car park in Tiberias with flame throwers. They were beaten off. Two flame throwers were subsequently recovered. No casualties and no damage.

Lydda. At 18.10 hours in Tel Aviv a British Police Billet and a military establishment were attacked with mortar bombs and automatic fire. One Arab T.A.C. was seriously wounded. Three Jewish civilians were slightly injured in the exchange of fire. A Jewish T.A.C. was shot and slightly wounded by three persons armed with automatic weapons. At 18.40 hours several explosions took place in a Tel Aviv street. No casualties and no damage. At about 18.40 hours a police armoured car was blown up in Tel Aviv. One British Sergeant was wounded and another slightly injured. Damage was caused to the vehicle. At 20.08 hours on the Haifa-Tel Aviv road a mine was detonated when two vehicles of the 6th Airborne Division were passing. No casualties and no damage. At 23.15 hours on the Haifa-Tel Aviv Road a taxi containing Police personnel and a wounded Jew was blown up by a mine. A Palestinian Corporal was slightly injured.

2 JANUARY 1947

Citrus House, Tel Aviv, was attacked with LMG and Rifle fire at 1810 hours, 2 January, 1947. The attack continued sporadically for one hour. Empty Bren magazines and Grenades were discovered by troops of 1 Para Brigade in neighboring houses. One Naafi girl and one Private soldier were injured.

The same night, three attacks were made on vehicles of 6 Airborne Division, one near Hadera, when a mine exploded between two jeeps of 9 Airborne Squadron Royal Engineer, without damaging either. The second, North of Petah Tiqva, when a 3-ton lorry was mined and 5 soldiers injured. The third, South of Petah Tiqva, when a jeep was blown up injuring three.

3 JANUARY 1947

At 0435 hours on 3rd January two Military vehicles were blown up on the Haifa-Tel Aviv road, near Petah Tiqva. Six Military personnel were injured.

At 0750 hours on the 3rd January a Military vehicle was blown up near Willhelma. Three British soldiers were injured.

FO 371/61761

5/6 JANUARY 1947

Road mining incidents occurred on the 5th and 6th in the areas of Rishon Jerusalem and Haifa. The only casualties were one officer and one driver injured near Carmel College, Haifa.

12 JANUARY 1947

At 1710 hours, 12 January, a truck entered the compound of Headquarters District Police, Haifa. The guard checked the identity of the driver who parked the truck outside the canteen. The guard became suspicious and the truck was searched. On discovering a bomb in the back of the vehicle, orders were given to evacuate the building. A few minutes later the bomb exploded, killing two British constables and two Arab TACs, and injuring a considerable number of Police personnel and civilians.

At 17.25 hours on 12th January a small motor vehicle, believed to have been a stolen W.D. staff car and driven by a person in battledress and wearing Palestine Police shoulder flashes, entered the compound of the security area at District Police Headquarters Haifa.

The guards became suspicious of the driver and he was challenged but ran and made good his escape. The vehicle was examined and it was found that a fuse had been lit. The alarm was sounded and evacuation was begun. Three minutes later the vehicle blew up causing extensive damage to the building and inflicting the following casualties: British Police: two dead, two dangerously wounded, seven seriously wounded, three slightly wounded. Palestinian: two Arab T.A.C.s dead, fifty T.A.C.s wounded.

13 JANUARY 1947

On 13 January, 1947 three Arabs, who had just appeared before the magistrates' court at Petah Tiqva for alleged assault on a Jewess, were waiting by the Petah Tiqva bus stop when a black covered-in truck drew up, and armed Jews abducted one of the three, who was shortly afterwards found nearby, castrated.

23 JANUARY 1947

A most interesting incident took place at 1825 hours on 23 January, 1947, which indicates to some extent the development that may be expected in terrorist sabotage in the near future. A petrol point at Kfar Yona was destroyed by two charges and a proportion of the three thousand gallons which had been earmarked as a reserve for the move of 2 Para Brigade Gp on the following day, was lost.

26 JANUARY 1947

On 26 January, 1947, Mr. H.A.I. Collins was in the house of a Jewish female friend in Mamillah Road, Jerusalem. At 1710 hours a female caller asked to speak to him, and when he went to the door, he was attacked by three armed men who attempted to chloroform him. He struggled, but was struck on the head with a pick handle, placed in a sack, and removed from the building. It is reported that one of the abductors stated that they intended to take Mr. Collins to the Mamillah Cemetery and "deal with him there." Another armed man, according to the Jewish girl, remained with her until 1750 hours, after which he was released and informed the police.

The alarm was sounded in Jerusalem at 1800 hours and searches were carried out. On the following morning, the Meashearim Quarter of the town was searched but without result. Unconfirmed reports stated that the Irgun issued warnings that Mr. Collins was being held in a house in Jerusalem, but that it was mined and would be destroyed if searched.

27 JANUARY 1947

At 1230 hours on 27 January, 1947, a second kidnapping took place in broad daylight in Tel Aviv. While Judge Windham, President of the District Court was hearing a case, 10 armed men entered the building and simultaneously four men in the court room rose and held up all present in the Court. The judge was ordered out of the building and driven away in a car. All other offices in the building had been held up at the same time, and telephone communications severed.

10 FEBRUARY 1947

On 10 February, three members of the Irgun were sentenced to death at a Military Court for their part in a fight at a road block on 29 December, 1946. During the night following the flogging of four members of HM Forces, a car carrying five Jews attempted to crash a road block near Petah Tiqva. In the gun battle which ensued, one of the Jews was fatally wounded and one soldier slightly wounded. The remaining four Jews were captured and a search of the car revealed a number of weapons and two rawhide whips. Although it was fairly clear that they had been involved in the flogging, they were charged with the illegal possession and use of arms.

13 FEBRUARY 1947

At 0430 hours, 13 February, 1947, the Agricultural and Fisheries launch Forerunner blew up and sank with her bows "blown out." Shortly afterwards, a second explosion damaged a WD Z craft of the type used in transhipment of illegal immigrants.

18 FEBRUARY 1947

A W.D. truck was blown up by a remote control road mine. Following military personnel were injured — 2 British other ranks seriously and 3 British other ranks slightly. Following the incident, a number of persons were seen to run in direction Telarza Quarter. At 2120 hours on 18th February at Kilo 89-90 on Haifa-Jaffa Road opposite Gan Bayim Colony, a W.D. vehicle was blown up by a remote control mine. The driver a British other rank was slightly injured. Two Jews observed in the vicinity have been detained.

19 FEBRUARY 1947

At 0730 hours on 19th February on the main Gaza-Rehovoth Road just south of Rehovoth two mines disguised as kilos stones were found and disposed of. The mines were attached to electric detonating sets in a nearby orange grove.

19 FEBRUARY 1947

At 2200 hours on 19th February in Haifa, two electrically detonated mines exploded at the road side as two W.D. trucks were passing. No, repeat no, casualties, one vehicle was slightly damaged. At 2245 hours, mortar and small arms fire was directed at the R.A.F. airfield at Ainsheinar. Some 10-12 mortar shells were fired, no, repeat no, casualties or damage. Three small mortars have been found abandoned in vicinity, as well as sabotage material and a stolen truck.

19/20 FEBRUARY 1947

A Palestine Command Signals Regiment truck was blown up by two electrically detonated mines near the Moriah Cinema, Haifa, on the night of 19/20 February. The equipment used was apparently of the standard type, but only slight damage was sustained by the vehicle.

20 FEBRUARY 1947

Sabotage of the Iraq Petroleum Company pipe-line took place on the same night at two different points. Firstly, an attempt was made to blow out the line 5 miles from Afula. The tins of explosive jam which were prepared by a demolition expert would have been adequate for cutting the pipe-line, and their discovery obliged the Jewish cell in question to use a type of explosive unsuited to the task (ammonal or commercial blasting powder), and resulted in the failure of the operation as far as Afula was concerned. It is interesting to note that the job was carried out by untrained personnel, who made two major errors; the first of which was the use of a low-explosive which could only dent the pipe-line, and the second of which was the faulty placing of the charges, out of contact with the metal itself. The line at this point runs about a yard below the surface of the ground, and a first attempt had been made to locate it wide of the mark. Two more holes were then dug, and an acid delay charge was inexpertly placed in each. It may safely be stated that the Afula sabotage cell consists of badly trained but willing Jews, who lost the charges which had been sent to them from Tel Aviv, and then tried to make up for having hidden them badly, by procuring the best substitute which they could find locally. Three saboteurs were seen by a patrol of the Arab legion. The second pipe-line attack took place on the same night at Wadi Malak near Haifa, and blew out a valve, causing some loss of oil, and a temporary closing of the line.

28 FEBRUARY 1947

The explosion took place on the third floor in the corridor outside the Area Cash Office.

The third floor was totally wrecked inside, but the shell remains undamaged. By some freak of explosives, the blast appears to have run around the central block of the building, flattening walls, etc., but doing little damage to the Area Cash Office on the second floor. However, the windows on the second floor were blown out and the ceiling holed.

Casualties. Admitted to BMH, Haifa: 1 Arab civilian — injuries left thigh; 1 Arab Legion Soldier — fractured skull and internal injuries; 1 British Soldier — fractured skull; 1 British civilian — bruises and shock.

Admitted to Government Hospital, Haifa: Yehud Melhud badly injured, since died. Josef Fogelstein fractured legs and ribs, since died. Three others who have since been discharged.

At approximately 1430 hours, 28 February, 1947, two men dressed in the uniform of the Palestine Police entered the building. They were carrying a kit bag of unknown description. On reaching the Area Cashier Office, they deposited the kit and left.

Shortly afterwards, the Arab guard saw the kit bag smoking and raised the cry of fire and ran off to collect the fire brigade. Private Ellis, a pay clerk in the Cash Office, turned a fire extinguisher on the kit bag which blew up.

28 FEBRUARY 1947

At 14.50 hours today 28th February an explosion occurred in the offices of the Haifa Shipping Agency situated on third floor of Barclays Bank building in Kingsway, Haifa. The entire third floor suffered considerable damage. Preliminary reports indicate that 3 employees of the Haifa Shipping Agency were seriously injured. The Bank premises suffered little damage and the Bank staff were safely evacuated after the explosion.

28 FEBRUARY 1947

The second attempt to attack Barclays Bank took place on the afternoon of 28 February. It is not yet certain what the motive was, and it is possible that the source who forecast the attack had speculated on the question of monetary gain, since no money was taken, and there appeared to be no attempt at robbery. It is more likely, however, that the recent arrests deprived the Jews of the necessary cover party, and that the explosive was used up in spite of the impossibility of carrying out the original plan in its entirety. The most damaged portion of the building was the Admiralty Cash Office, the Area Cash Office, and the Haifa Shipping Office. No organization has specifically claimed the discredit for this outrage, nor has a bulletin as yet been published. The incident was carried out by two Jews dressed in Khaki uniform, carrying army packs, who walked into the building in a leisurely manner, talking to each other. Three minutes later, the packs were noticed to be smoking, and the warning was given to clear the building. Two minutes later, the packs exploded, fatally wounding, inter alia, a private soldier who had been trying bravely to put out the fuse with a stirrup pump. It is felt that some additional general directive should be issued to all ranks, on sabotage equipment, and particularly that it is only possible to extinguish a burning fuse by cutting it at least six inches from the burning end.

1 MARCH 1947

At approximately 3.20 p.m. on 1st March, 1947, truck No.

M74OR drove into King George Avenue, Jerusalem, from Keran Kayemeth Street through the barbed wire surrounding Goldsmith House Officers Club in King George Avenue. One person dismounted and placed a package in the building. At the same time, automatic fire was opened upon the sentries at Goldsmith House from the vicinity of the houses adjacent to the Synagogue in King George Avenue. The sentries replied. A small explosion occurred at this time at the rear of the East side of Goldsmith House which set a tent on fire. During exchange of shots, a number of persons dressed in Khaki as British O.R.'s jumped from the truck and ran away. A heavy explosion then occurred causing extensive damage to Goldsmith House.

Shortly before the explosion, a police vehicle proceeding along King George Avenue in the direction of Goldsmith House, was caught in cross-fire. Mr. Beynon, British Clerical Officer of Police H.Q., was killed and Inspector Price, British Constable Church and Mr. Cleary, British Clerical Officer of Police H.Q., were wounded. Casualties as known at present are twelve dead, including Jewish female Telephone Operator, fifteen injured.

At least three more bodies are believed to be under the rubble.

1 MARCH 1947

At about 1830 on the following day, 1 March, a party of Jews attacked the R.N. car park near Kingsway, Haifa, and destroyed seven trucks by placing explosive incendiaries in the driving cabs of five of them. The Jewish guards were held up at pistol point, while the charges were being placed, but it is thought that the Jews made their getaway some time before the explosion, trusting to the natural fear in which the local population holds them, not to give the alarm before the fires began. Brief descriptions of two of the Jews and further details of the incident passed to addressee No. 13.

1 MARCH 1947

At 1845 six armed Jews held up T.A.C. guard on naval car park in Haifa. Explosives were laid and fourteen vehicles were damaged by three explosions. No (repeat no) casualties. At 1900 hours a W.D. truck was damaged by a land mine at Kiriat Haim on the Haifa-Acre Road. One British soldier was slightly injured. At 20.00 hours a land mine disguised as a kilo stone was detonated in Haifa as a military jeep was passing. Two N.C.O.'s were killed and two were injured. At 20.00 hours a mortar shell was fired at a military camp at Hadera. No (repeat no) casualties.

At 1847 hours near Khirbet Beit Lid a road mine exploded as two military vehicles were passing. Two British soldiers were injured. Vehicles were not damaged. At 1910 hours eight mortar shells were fired into a military camp near Khirbet Beit Lid. One British soldier was killed and three were injured.

1 MARCH 1947

At about 2000 hours, on 1 March, an Airborne Provost jeep was blown up by an electrically detonated shrapnel road mine on the Mountain Road, Haifa. Three of the occupants were killed, or died of their wounds, and the fourth was seriously injured. The battery box was situated near a house owned by a middle-aged Jew and Jewess, who were sweeping up broken glass quite calmly when a member of the section arrived about two minutes after the explosion. Neither of them would answer a word of English, French or German, and it turned out later, that as usual, neither had seen anything. The saboteurs were seen, however, and a description obtained through an Arab source has been sent to D.I.D. Haifa, and addressee No. 13.

14 MARCH 1947

An attack on the oil pipe line junctions near Haifa Power station on 14 March, which was carried out by a team of 4 Jews who arrived on the scene at a quarter to eight in the morning, in a dark grey open P.U., which bore the number M 297 N. 3 of the Jews jumped out carrying prepared explosive charges and ran quickly and surely, showing careful pre-operational recce, to three points where the IPC, CRL and Shell pipe lines cross or branch. The fourth Jew remained at the wheel of the P.U. with the engine running. When the charges had been placed, the Jews ran back to the P.U. and escaped.

A few seconds later, three explosions took place and some damage was done to the oil lines. Only in one case, where some cast iron valves were shattered, was any real success scored, although a small quantity of oil was lost and a small but quickly extinguished fire was started; the damage, however, was repaired on the same day. The choice of targets and the placing of the charges shows a fair theoretical knowledge on the part of the saboteurs, but the poor results can be attributed to lack of experience in choice and quality of explosives used. The P.U. was recovered later that morning.

On the same night (16/17 March), a CRMP Jeep was mined at Tiberias. The equipment was a slight variation on that previously used by Jews; consisting of two shrapnel mines, disguised as kilo stones and whitewashed joined by flex to a junction box, and thence, to a dry-cell exploder set of the usual bell-push button type. A small pile of stones was set up as an aiming mark but, as in the two incidents reported above, Jewish training was bad in practice. One of the junction box plugs fell out, only one mine exploded and that one a trifle too soon. The four occupants of the jeep escaped with slight injuries. Note: It has normally been the practice for Jews to use either two blast mines, buried in the roadside (this went out of fashion last November) or one Shrapnel-type mine, the debut of which took place near Latrun three months ago.

At approximately 0905 hours, 28 March, 1947, truck No M 4925, containing 5 Jewish youths dressed as Arabs, drove over the level-crossing into Acre Beach Area. Two men, armed with automatics, stayed with the truck, and the other three, armed with revolvers, walked 100 yards to the seven pipelines which run from CRL to the tank farm of the IPC, and which are open at this point. They placed the charges under the pipelines and ignited them. They then returned to the truck, and all five drove back as far as the level-crossing, where the gate was down, as shunting was taking place. They then abandoned the truck and ran off in all directions.

The explosion took place at 0915 hours, and at 0930 hours a further two explosions occurred due to the heat. Six out of the seven pipelines were blown, and caught fire. The IPC and Army Fire Services dealt with the fires, and by 1040 hours the only line still burning was one containing Benzine.

There were no casualties.

A cordon was immediately thrown around the area, and a number of people were detained for questioning.

3 APRIL 1947

At 0830 hours on 3 April, 1947, a mine was detonated on the Mountain Road MR 14952465 damaging a 3-ton vehicle and injuring two men.

A 3-ton truck was driving down the Mountain Road and just after turning the corner at MR above, a mine was detonated. The main force of the explosion was taken by the cab of the vehicle.

The vehicle continued on down the road for about 60 yards and then went into the ditch on the left of the road. Two men were injured.

The position of the mine (which was definitely larger than usual) was, as shown on the sketch. A crater 4' dia. x 2' deep was left, the edge of which was just on the edge of the road, where was some shrapnel in the vicinity; which was almost certainly incorporated in the mine. Estimated charge 30 lbs. The mine was probably disguised as a stone used for building purposes and was partly buried.

A length of insulated cable was run off to a firing point beside a house on the East of the road, a distance of about 75 yards. No pressure switch assembly was found; this is the first time an assembly has been removed.

4 MAY 1947

IZL announced their intention of taking revenge for the hanging of Dov Gruner and his confederates. They stated that they would hang British officers on a four-to-one basis. This may have proved impracticable and have forced them to adopt other means.

After a lull of some seven days either for the purpose of preparation or for mourning, a large scale attack on guerilla lines took place on Acre gaol where Dov Gruner had been hanged, and resulted in the escape of 230 prisoners of whom 45 were Jews. The Jews who escaped were a mixed bag of Stern, IZL and civil criminals.

During the morning of 4 May, 1947, some Jews were seen in the environs of Acre prison ostensibly cutting down branches of trees overhanging electric wires. The Palestine Electric Corporation later denied all knowledge of this work and it is thought that these Jews formed part of last-minute reconce.

Conversation with captured prisoners and IZL disclosed that at least a certain number of the inhabitants of the prison had been carefully briefed as to the time, date and form of the attack, the measures that they should adopt on liberation, and the escape routes which they would follow, down to the last detail.

Two ladders were seen on the morning of 4 May lying beside the wall of an old Crusader chapel near the prison.

At about 1615 hours on 4 May, a WD 15-cwt truck full of Jews drew up near the Crusader chapel. Then, with the aid of ladders, which had previously been left there, they scaled the outer wall and dropped a charge, estimated as being of about 250 lbs weight HE in all, against the wall of the prison.

At this time, a large number of mixed prisoners, both Jew and Arab, were taking exercise in the prison yard. As soon as the explosion occurred, a few pre-selected leaders gave directions for the escape and the prisoners ran out through the breach in the wall.

The majority of the prisoners made good their escape by means of an unknown number of stolen WD vehicles lined up on the road.

One of the 15-cwt trucks involved, in which there was one Jew dressed as a captain, and another as a lieutenant (the latter escaped) broke down for a short while, and was then intercepted by members of a nearby Airborne bathing party who gave chase in a civilian car which they commandeered and who succeeded in killing the bogus captain and capturing five others. The bogus captain had previously fired at his pursuers with a Bren gun from the back of the truck.

As the prisoners escaped through the hole in the wall some of them were given spare weapons by the attackers, all of whom apparently were dressed in British Army uniform, including webbing, anklets, belts and pouches.

Due to an error in timing, one of the parties who had been detailed to seal an escape route with mines in fact prevented a mixed truck load of prisoners and attackers from leaving the scene. These were intercepted by other Airborne soldiers who had been attracted by the sound of shooting, and a certain number were killed, wounded and captured.

It is interesting that apparently most of the prisoners were well aware that the attack was carried out by IZL specifically.

The system of extensive road mining and diversionary measures carried out by the Jews were as follows: The roads to the North and South of Acre were heavily mined at bottlenecks, such as bridges, whereas the road leading East from Acre was apparently free from obstruction.

At the same time as the explosion at Acre prison a WD 15-cwt loaded with Jews drew up outside 2 Para Bn camp, whereupon the passengers, fired a salvo of 6 HE mortar bombs into the camp. The duty officer pursued the truck eastward on the Safad road, finally losing it near Tarshiha. This diversion was no doubt intended to confuse the earnest military unit and to prevent them from taking effective measures to round-up the escaping Jews.

Particular attention seems to have been paid to the Haifa-Acre road, which was lavishly mined. Five of the now-out-of-date wooden box mines (including one dummy) were placed on the Na' Amin Bridge just South of Acre, with large notices in English and Hebrew "Danger". 6 more similar mines were placed at Kefar Attak, a few miles further South, with identical notices.

Oddly enough, the Jews were not content with placing box mines, but included two electrically-detonated mines in their plan. The first of these damaged a 3-tonner at Kiryat Blalik on the main road, and the second was discovered unexploded by the schoolmaster in the same colony. The latter mine was of the Stern Gang (shrapnel) type.

In spite of the extensive mining cover for the escape of the prisoners and attackers alike, no attempt seems to have been made to complete the cutting of signal wires except possibly in the case of 142 MU (RAF), who were originally reported to have been attacked and who have since been out of telephonic communication.

The Jews who took part in the attack were probably some 40 in number, and those who were dressed in uniform appear to have been selected for their physical resemblance to Englishmen.

Two of the attackers were Poles, and one was a Bulgarian. The rest gave their nationality as 'Palestinian'. All of them considered themselves to be soldiers completely ignoring the fact that they were wearing a uniform to which they were not entitled. Some of the original inhabitants of Acre prison, when speaking about them to an officer whom they supposed to be a 'News Chronicle' reporter, also referred to them as 'our soldiers'.

As usual, in this type of para-military attack, the Jews who took the most active part came from other towns; in this case, Tel Aviv and Jerusalem. Some of them had identity cards but a few carried false British military documents, which are at present being examined by CID.

British casualties were light. On information so far received, it appears that one British soldier was seriously injured and some six or seven more received minor injuries.

Apart from some ex-prisoners who were killed or injured shortly after escaping, two unknown Jews were killed, and two were injured.

It was most unfortunate that no local Arab doctors could be found to treat the injured Jews. When summoned by telephone, they were either all out or engaged on other urgent cases.

The members of IZL who were captured were, quite naturally, obstructive, in that they gave different names and particulars on each succeeding interrogation, thereby, incidentally, confusing the issue, and delaying their own evacuation to hospital. The final score which is by no means certain is as follows: Ya'Acov Weiss (23) from Nathanya; Meyer Nakay (21) from Jerusalem; Sha'alom Havis (21) from Jerusalem; Shmuel Brabowitz (24) from Tel Aviv; Nahman Sittelbaum from Petah Tiqvah, and three unknown Jews dead.

The total bag of Jewish casualties is at present 7 dead, and 12 injured. This includes both IZL attackers and would-be escapees from Acre.

At 1630 hours on 4th May, a party of armed Jews wearing British Military uniforms arrived in Acre Suq in two Jeeps. Simultaneously, explosion occurred and firing broke out in various parts of Acre town. Four main explosions occurred in the vicinity of the old Turkish Baths and breached the walls of Acre prison. 191 Arab and 60 Jewish prisoners escaped through the breach. At the time of this escape, grenades were thrown into the criminal lunatic section of the prison as a diversion and a number of lunatics received minor injuries. Three unexploded bombs were found in front of the prison, the lighting and telephone systems of Acre were damaged. Military and Police patrols were immediately organized and one of these, a party of paratroopers, having been fired on by a number of Jews, returned fire and inflicted five casualties, one of which was fatal. This was a Jew dressed as a Captain of the Royal Engineers.

At 0815 hours 16 May, 1947, a civilian car, No M 4280 described as a Pick-up, probably green from examination of wreckage found later, drove up from direction of El Kababir, turned round and parked outside 15 Aviv Street, Central Carmel. Three young Jews were in the car, two got out as it stopped and walked away in the direction of Margoa Street. One Jew stayed in the car for a few minutes, and then got out and walked after the others.

At 0825 hours, a Police Ford saloon car containing a Jewish CID inspector and three British constables wearing civilian clothes approached the stationary car from the direction of El Kababir. As the police car drew alongside, the stationary car exploded. The CID car crashed about 20 yards further up the road on the right hand side, caught fire and burnt out.

The following police casualties were caused: B/C Windsor, Driver — killed; B/C Chesterman — serious burns; Insp. Schindler — slightly injured; B/C Windram — slightly injured.

Several Jewish civilians living in houses nearby were injured by the blast.

The stationary car contained a charge of explosive (estimated at 40 -50 lbs packed with shrapnel) which was electrically detonated by the usual bell-push device from some waste ground approximately 80 yards away towards Magoa Street. The car itself was completely destroyed — fragments of the wreckage were found as much as 400 yards away. Considerable damage was done to Jewish civilian houses in the vicinity.

An unconfirmed report states that the Jewish Inspector said after the attack, that just prior to the explosion he saw a youth dressed in Police uniform who aroused his suspicions and at whom he fired while telling the driver to accelerate. It is not known whether the youth was hit or not.

The two tanks contain water and are joined by a six-inch metal pipe which is above ground approximately two feet behind the wall.

The Jews hurled two boxes over the eight-foot high fence; the first of these exploded.

On hearing the explosion, Sgt. Cassel of the IPC Security Police went to the spot and observed the second, which he described as a brown battery box measuring 1 foot x 1 foot x 6 inches with a fuse sticking out of the top. He pulled out the fuse and observed that the box was smoking; he ran. The box exploded and he was thrown to the ground, knocked unconscious, but only slightly injured.

The explosion blew a hole in the reinforced wall measuring 3' x 3' and a six-inch gash in the water pipe.

No description of the two Jews is available, nor of the vehicle used, nor is it known how it entered the Port Area.

Some 75 yards away the tanker "British Drummer" was being loaded with benzine.

It appears probable that the Jews were under the impression that the tanks and pipe contained oil and not water. If this is true, it indicates a much lower standard of background information than heretofore.

He then jumped into a taxi and reported to a 9 Para Battalion patrol on Mountain Road and asked to be escorted to the Counter Intelligence Division. He was escorted to Police Headquarters where he gave a description of the three men, two of whom were immediately identified as being members of the Stern Gang. Michell is a CQMS in the Royal Engineers, and is stationed at a German PW camp in Egypt. He is at present on leave in Palestine. He has served in the British Army since 1941. He is wanted by the Haganah for having given information to the Police about arms caches and is also on the Irgun Z'Vai Leumi and Stern blacklists. At 0315 hours on 5 June, 1947, the IPC Oil pipeline was cut with explosives at MR 15942378 near Kefar Hasidim. The oil seeped into the wadi Quishon and at 0650 hours the oil, which was floating on top of water in the wadi, ignited, it is not known how, and some damage was caused to crops and groves belonging to the Colony of Kefar Hasidim. The fire was extinguished at approximately 0830 hours.

It is estimated by a British IPC engineer that the pipe will be repaired by 1630 hours. About 800 tons of oil was lost.

The method employed by the Jews seems to have been by digging down some three feet to the twelve inch mild steel pipe and placing some twelve pounds of explosive at the side of it. The charge crushed and bent the pipe, though it did not directly fracture it, and caused a break in a joint about three feet along the pipe.

The break was discovered by a patrol from Jalama Police Post which went out to investigate on hearing the explosion.

At 0145 hours on 5 June, 1947, an explosion took place at the Athlit Railway Station (MR 14472333) which damaged two stone buildings, one of which is the Station Office, Waiting Room, and Signal Box, the other contains the Station Master's rooms. The two buildings are surrounded by a single coil dannert fence. The rear wall of the Station Office was cracked, and half the side wall blown down, the room is full of debris though the signal levers which are on a raised platform at the front of the building are still functioning. A wall joining the two buildings was demolished and though the Station Master's rooms are filled with debris there appears to be no structural damage. The track is not damaged.

At 0115 hours on 5 June, 1947, a Jewish TAC, Zwi Rosenbaum, was on guard inside the perimeter when a dog which was with him started barking. He went to the perimeter entrance and saw "three shadowy figures about forty yards away". The three figures approached and one hit him on the face, knocking him to the ground. The Jews then entered the perimeter and placed two boxes against the wall of the station office. On leaving the perimeter, the Jews told the guard to tell everyone in the two buildings to get out as it would be blown up in ten minutes. The three Jews then departed.

The TAC warned the Station Master and then informed Athlit police station by phone at approximately 0130 hours. Police from Athlit went to the station but the explosion took place before they arrived.

9 JUNE 1947

Abduction of two British Police at approximately 1700 hours on 9th June.

A Jew approached the Gal Gil bathing pool at Ramat Gan and pushed his way into enclosure. At the same time six other Jews armed with T.S.M.G.S. and revolvers also entered the enclosure and one of them approached and held up with a revolver a British Police N.C.O. and Constable who were in bathing costumes near the entrance. One of these who tried to resist was struck on the head with a stick. He and his companion were marched under armed escort to a waiting vehicle which drove off. As the abductors left they threw two smoke bombs. The telephone at the entrance to the pool was later found disconnected. The truck used in the abduction, a stolen vehicle, was recovered at 04.10 hours in Hertzlia.

Two small explosions took place on the evening of 12 June. The first was in the iron-mongers shop belonging to Ernst Simonsohn of 10 Sara Street, Haifa, and the second was in the Carmel Oriental Wine Company, at the junction of Phelia Street and King George Avenue, also in Haifa. In each case, some damage was done to property only, and about 8 lbs of explosive was used. The bombs appear to have been fired by a normal time fuse, and could both have been placed and initiated by one almost untrained Jew. The motive seems to have been either intimidation or extortion, and both incidents closely resemble a spate of similar minor explosions which took place towards the end of last year. It is interesting that Simonsohn was supposed to have been a purchaser of milk from Arab merchants.

On the evening of the 19 June, a small bomb containing about two lbs of explosive blew up in a porch of the English Girls School in Shabatai Levy Street, Haifa. Very little damage was done, and it is thought that the object of the incident was to deter Jewish mothers from sending their daughters to a "foreign" school. If this is, in fact, the reason, then the bomb failed to achieve the object.

28 JUNE 1947

The recent lull in Jewish activity was broken at 10 o'clock on the evening of Saturday, 28 June, when two or three young Jews — it is still not certain exactly how many were involved — drove up in a taxi which had previously been borrowed in the usual manner, to the Astoria restaurant in the centre of Haifa. One of the Jews jumped out of the taxi and directed several bursts of light automatic fire through a frosted and curtained window at the people within the restaurant. Three officers were hit and a civilian barman was injured by splinters. Two Airborne officers, who were standing just out of the direct line of fire, ran out by a side door and opened fire on the Jew as he was getting back into the taxi, which immediately drove off. A number of hits were registered, and a tire was punctured by bullets. The occupants, however, were able to escape along a side street and were lost among the many Jews in the streets at that time of night. One Sten gun, one TSMG and two grenades were found in the back of the taxi which had been riddled with bullets, together with some loose hair and a satisfactorily large number of pools of blood.

The attack was probably carried out by the Stern Gang, and bears the ruthless kill and run stamp of that organization. The choice of time and place appears to have been carefully decided before the attack since firstly, the Jewish proprietress of the Astoria is well known for her reasonable outlook and views on the Palestine problem and secondly, the restaurant is usually crowded with officers on Saturday night.

28 JUNE 1947

At approximately 2230 hours a taxi stopped outside the Astoria Bar Haifa. From the taxi jumped a youth of about 17 years of age who entered the bar with TSMC in his hand. He fired one burst round the room and severely injured Captain Kissane 9th Bn. Then there was a slight lapse in which time most of the occupants had gone to earth. Then another youth entered with a TSMC and fired another burst round the Bar injuring (not severely) Major Waddy 9th Bn and Lieutenant Laws 6 Airborne Division Anti-Tank Regiment.

Lieutenant Colonel Rickford, CO 3rd Bn phoned me up and corroborated this and said that he had dispatched Captain Kissane to Government Hospital under escort of Captain Glover 9th Bn, also present in the Bar, and Major Waddy and Lieutenant Laws to 42nd General Hospital.

Besides the aforementioned officers, Major Lawson 9th Bn, Major Liddle Daaq., Major Cordaza GII "I" and other officers of 3rd Bn were also present.

Members of the party had fired at taxi on its departure and when found in Hadar had several bullet holes in back.

There is information phoned 3rd, 8th and 9th Bns with reference to the woman who was detained by Military Personnel.

All Bns 'C' Squadron have been informed of this incident, and the three injured officers were admitted to 42 General Hospital this evening.

'C' Squadron and 8th Bn instructed to maintain Road blocks until further notice though as from 0500 hours they may allow vehicles into Haifa at same time keeping strong check on passengers, etc.

Received following information from 42 General Hospital: Captain Kissane 9th Para Bn — Died at 0355 hours 29th June; Major Waddy 9th Para Bn — has been operated on successfully and is in satisfactory condition. Lieutenant Laws 6 Airborne Anti-Tank Regiment — O.K.

Two Jeeps of the Palestine Comd Sigs Regt proceeding along the Jewish Quarter in Jerusalem, were fired on by automatic fire. The vehicles stopped and the occupants took cover and failed to return the fire. There were no casualties. Later dogs were sent for and followed the scent to a place where the fire came from, where two hangman's ropes were found. Later in the month the occupants were tried for leaving their vehicles and mail without defending them. Two were convicted.

Shortly before the Brigade Comd made a broadcast to the civilians on the position of the British soldiers and the question of restriction and cooperation on both sides — two British Constables were shot dead. This resulted in certain areas in Jerusalem which were to be put back as In Bounds, being kept Out of Bounds.

There is a report from Haifa that three attacks were carried out by Irgun Z'vai Leumi on middle-aged Jews and their families living in the town. Joseph Grossfield of 17 Pevsner Street, Joseph Ahroni of 19 Sokoloff Street, and Joseph Aharonovitz of 29 Hashomair Street, together with friends and relatives in their houses were beaten up by parties of 15 or 20 Jews who left notes with the Irgun Z'vai Leumi emblem on top, saying that these acts were in the nature of a reprisal for previous beatings up, and for the "anti-terrorist" attitude of the victims. A usually reliable source has reported that these acts are part of the increasing feud between the Haganah and Irgun Z'vai Leumi, and that this vendetta and retaliation is liable to continue indefinitely. News of the incident reached the Jewish Press.

At approximately 0045 hours on 12th July two military N.C.O.'s of the Field Security were abducted in Nathanya by a party of armed Jews who arrived in a taxi. The two N.C.O.'s were in the company of a Jewish clerk. All three were ordered to enter the vehicle. Whilst doing so one of the N.C.O.'s was struck on the head with a firearm. The Jewish clerk was blindfolded. Car was driven round for some twenty minutes and then the clerk was put out of the vehicle and placed under guard. Later a car drove up and the Jewish clerk was interrogated. On being satisfied that he was a Jew his interrogators placed him in the car and he was driven for another twenty minutes. He was then left bound and still blindfolded in an orange grove. At dawn he managed to escape with the assistance of a local resident and reported to Security Authorities. Orange grove is short distance north of Nathanya. Clerk states one of the N.C.O.'s may have been chloroformed. Captors reported to have said the lives of the condemned Jewish prisoners were more valuable than those of British Sergeants.

At 1828 hours on 21 July, a jeep, belonging to 6 Airborne Division Signals, which was carrying the Public Address equipment, was blown up in Hehalutz Street, Haifa. The BOR driver was slightly injured. Another BOR in the vehicle received face injuries, and a Jewish Palestine Police interpreter was seriously wounded in the neck. Casualties were caused to nearby Jewish civilians, a boy being killed by blast and a woman and two children injured.

It is estimated that approximately 5 lbs of explosive were used in the mine which was electrically detonated by the usual bell-push device from a house 30 yards away. The jeep was damaged by blast and rubble from the buried mine. (Orders are being issued for the forfeiture of the house to the Government.

21 JULY 1947

At 1815 hours on 21 July, two explosions were heard in the area of the Jewish settlement, Tel Adashim, 179229.

Investigation revealed that the IPC pipeline had been cut in two places, a 100 metres apart, approximately one kilo east of Tel Adashim, MR 17972294. This pipe is of standard mild steel construction, 12" in diameter, and is covered by about 3 feet of heavy red soil.

The saboteurs had packed charges against the pipe which in the resulting explosions was in both cases dented on the side nearest the charge and shattered by tension on the far side. From the size of the craters, 4' x 4', and from the damage caused to the pipe, it is estimated that each charge consisted of about 12 lbs of high speed explosive, which had been initiated in the usual manner by Bickford fuse, detonator and gun cotton primer. As the flow of oil had been cut off whilst repairs were being carried out on the fracture which had occurred at 1114 hours on the same day near Kefar Nehoshua, only a slight amount of static oil was lost.

Between the craters, an excavation was discovered which was thought might contain an unexploded charge. A det from 9 Airborne Squadron RE was called in to investigate. Owing to the darkness, it was found impossible to conduct a detailed inspection and therefore, 2 lbs of gun cotton were placed in the hole and detonated. The resultant explosion indicated that no other explosives were present.

At approximately 1145 hours, 4 August, 1947, Taxi, M 923 E, was hired in the New Business Centre, Haifa, by a young man and a young girl. They instructed the driver to take them to Mt. Carmel. On reaching the road between Mt. Carmel and Shuza, he was told to stop; the young man then asked him the cost, and on being told drew a pistol from a basket he was carrying and told the driver to get out. The driver was ordered to walk away without turning his head and eventually to reach Hadar Hacarmel Police Station; he was also told that the taxi will be left on the corner of Acader (?) Street.

It is presumed that after stealing the taxi, the man and woman picked up five other accomplices and proceeded to Barclay's Bank.

At approximately 1230 hours, the taxi drew up outside Barclay's Bank in Herzl Street and six men and one girl armed with Sten Guns and automatic pistols entered the Bank. Six of them jumped over the counter and held up the cashiers while the seventh person went into the Manager's Office and demanded the keys of the safe. The manager, however, refused to give them up and was struck twice on the head with a pistol butt. The remainder of the Bank was ransacked and approximately LP 1250 was taken; they then left the Bank discarding one Sten and one automatic pistol as well as one 77 phosphorous bomb. As they entered the taxi, one of the Bank clerks rushed out to try and stop them; he was shot down and died soon afterwards in the Hadassah Hospital. The taxi made off and whilst passing along Nordau Street, they threw out of the taxi a flash-bomb which was later picked up by the Palestine Police.

The names of the casualties are: Zodak Lisbona — 18, Tabor Street, Haifa; Pinhaf Shurki — 10, Omar El Mukhtar Street, Haifa.

Zodak Lisbona is the Bank clerk who tried to prevent the escape of the aforementioned 7 persons; he was shot and has since died in the Hadassah Hospital.

Pinhaf Shurki one of the Bank customers was hit by a stray bullet; he is only slightly injured and is in the Hadassah Hospital where the Police are taking a statement from him.

The only incident worth mentioning was an armed daylight robbery, probably by the Irgun Z'vai Leumi, on the all-Jewish branch of Barclays Bank in the centre of Haifa. This attack, in which one employee was killed and a customer was wounded, only benefited the gang by some LP 1250. A taxi was stolen in the usual way, and there was the usual Irgun Z'vai Leumi assortment of weapons and home-made grenades. A well informed source who maintains that the population is too scared of the "terrorists" to take action against them said, "Do you think that these people would have got away if the population hadn't thought that they were connected with the terrorists?" The Sephardic Jewish Cashier, Lisbona, who was killed after having given chase to the robbers, amongst whose number was a woman, was a veteran member of Haganah.

All three police constables were fatally wounded. The attackers then made off with the two sacks containing LP 150,000. During ensuing actions between the police and thugs, a further British Constable was killed and another British Constable received wounds from which he is not expected to recover. WO 275/64

On the morning of 29 September at 0600 hours a dastardly attack was made against Police Headquarters, Haifa. A bomb, perhaps better described as a landmine, was launched over the perimeter wire, from a passing vehicle, which exploded and caused considerable damage and inflicted heavy casualties.

Shortly afterwards, the IZL claimed this as another victory. They declared, in the usual manner, that it was a reprisal for "Farida" transshipment. So a form of "reprisal" was not entirely unexpected but the form it took was such a new departure as to be quite unforeseeable if indeed it were possible to take any action to forestall such an event. This is the second attack on this Headquarters within the last 9 months.

The truck, a 3-ton grey painted Commer, was driven down Kingsway, Haifa, with two Jews aboard, preceded by a private car which had been stolen in Haifa the previous night. As the vehicles approached the building, they slowed down to walking pace, close to the perimeter wire which was about 28 feet from the building. The bomb was launched from the truck and exploded after about 60 seconds delay. TAC guards raised the alarm by blowing whistles.

In the meantime, both vehicles accelerated down Kingsway into Kefar Square. Here the truck was abandoned and fairly near by the private car also. A British constable on duty in the vicinity heard the explosion and seeing two Jews leave a truck in a hurry gave chase immediately; unfortunately, he lost them in the maze of side streets in this area. Subsequently, four Jews were arrested, two of whom are possibly identical with the two who abandoned the truck. In the private car were traces of flesh and blood on the wheel and the floor, the driver presumably having been injured by blast or flying glass.

Following the explosion troops were quickly on the scene and the area was cordoned off to prevent looting of damaged shops in the vicinity.

The bomb was in the form of a heavy steel cylinder some 7 feet in length and over each end was affixed a motor car tire. These tires were to facilitate its run, also to take the shock on landing. The charge which is estimated as being between 400 and 500 lbs was apparently initiated by a pull switch, the pin of which was released by a cord which tightened when the bomb began to move. The ramp device mounted on the truck from which the bomb was released was very similar to a raft launching apparatus. Two metal runways with a flap were each mounted on a frame operated by a single lever from the cab, the whole secured firmly to the bottom of the truck. The ramp and bomb were camouflaged in the front by a tarpaulin, the back and sides by cardboard and brown paper, giving the appearance of a normally loaded truck.

Further points of interest concerning the truck were its protection. The roof of the cab was strengthened inside with a steel plate, the door on the driver's side was fitted with a steel plate, likewise the sides of the bonnet and the front of the radiator. This was all effected in a manner as to be quite unnoticeable to the ordinary passerby. In addition to this protection, a steel sheet was hinged on the inside of the driver's window which could be raised or lowered at will. Finally, a steel plate was hinged from the front of the windscreen and when in the down position, rested on the top of the engine cover. This plate could also be raised by a wire operated from inside the cab by the driver. It will, therefore, be seen that the driver could be completely enclosed by steel plate, although if the windscreen cover was up he would have to drive "blind".

Fortunately, the building is of massive construction with floors of reinforced concrete. Despite this, the damage was very extensive. From the ground floor to and including the fourth floor, in the front, were completely wrecked. The fifth and sixth floors were extensively damaged. The windows of the whole headquarter block were blown out, almost without exception. It is not yet known whether the main building can be shored up on a permanent basis, there is a possibility that the whole structure may collapse. Blast caused very considerable damage to the row of Jewish shops standing opposite. Every shop window was smashed and its contents reduced to a shambles. Blocks of flats above were similarly treated and now look a sad sight with glassless window frames smashed and sun blinds hanging grotesquely at all angles. After the explosion, the street was reminiscent of a street in England during the Blitz period. The whole roadway was covered with glass, masonry, timber and pieces of the trees that line the footway. The crater was some 15-20 feet across and about 4 feet in depth.

Considering that a large number of men were sleeping in the part of the building that was wrecked, casualties were not so heavy as was feared. There were no officer casualty. Casualties were as follows: British Constables — 4 killed, 13 seriously wounded, 16 slightly wounded; Pal Police — no casualties; Constables — 2 killed; TACs — 2 killed; Arab civilians — 2 killed, 11 slightly wounded; Jewish civilians — 14 seriously wounded. Totals: 10 killed, 27 seriously wounded, 27 slightly wounded, for total 10 killed, 54 wounded.

It is greatly feared that three of the seriously wounded British constables will not survive their injuries.

The attack could not have been prevented in view of close proximity of the building to the main road. The operation was a carefully and deliberately planned one and quite obviously not decided upon in a few hours as a result of the arrival of the Farida. Had it not been for the enterprise and initiative of a Palestine policeman, the Jews would have escaped entirely, as it is, it is not going to be an easy task to prove their guilt.

29 SEPTEMBER 1947

On the morning of 29 September, the Irgun Z'vai Leumi carried out a fiendish attack on the Central Police Station at Haifa as a reprisal for the deportation of the "Warfield" and "Farida" passengers. At approximately 0600 hours, a civilian truck came momentarily to a standstill against the perimeter wire of the Police Station, and from a specially constructed ramp built at right angles to the truck, a composite charge on wheels consisting of approximately 500 lbs of explosive was released. After clearing the wire, the bomb came to rest by the wall of the Police Station; and a few seconds later exploded with tremendous force, severely damaging the Police Station and shops in the vicinity. The casualties caused by the outrage were: 4 British Constables killed, 2 Palestinian Constables killed, 2 TACS killed, 4 Civilians Killed, 13 British Constables seriously wounded, 16 British Constables slightly wounded, 14 Jewish Civilians injured, 11 Arab Civilians injured.

At 1000 hours on 12 November, a house situated in Ra'anana was cordoned by military and police. A search party entered by the main door and came upon a group of young Jews, male and female, engaged in weapon training in an inner room. One youth, on seeing the search party, gave an order in Hebrew to open fire. The search party withdrew, followed by the youths who ran out of the room, firing wildly. Cordoning troops returned the fire, killing three girls and two youths, while a further youth was badly wounded. A girl and a youth were captured uninjured. Following the action, the house was searched and a quantity of arms and ammunition discovered.

Reaction by the Jewish people to this incident has been surprisingly unanimous, even amongst those normally opposed to the Stern Group's aims and methods. While decrying the Stern Group for permitting "children of tender years" to train for murder, they criticize the brutality with which children were shot down by the security forces. The fact that those children were training to do murder did not detract from the usual vituperative criticism of HMG.

An hour and a quarter after the Ra'anana incident, a group of British Police sitting outside a cafe in Haifa was fired on by a thug with a machine carbine from the balcony of an office block about 15 yards away. One British sergeant was killed, and two British Constables seriously wounded. The method of this outrage was typical of gangsters. Two Jews entered the office block, one covered the staff with a pistol while the second removed a TSMG from the valise which he was carrying and emptied a magazine at the group of British policemen. A significant feature was that all customers left the cafe and its vicinity immediately before the firing started.

On the evening of 13 November, four unarmed British civilians, employees of the Oil companies, were murdered in cold blood by Stern Gang while walking from the May cinema to the Astoria restaurant. At the time of the incident, the streets of Hadar were crowded with Jews, tons if not hundreds of whom must have seen a number of details of the outrage, and many of whom could have described the murderers accurately. So far, no information whatsoever has been given by any of those Jews to assist the Security forces in rounding up the gang. A whispering-campaign, believed to have been started by Stern Gang, suggests that this incident is a reprisal for what the gang is pleased to call the "Rana' ana Massacre", the official version of which is said to be false — that the trainees did not actually shoot at the troops before going on an initial course and never having handled fire-arms before. Therefore, says the whisper, the youngsters were deliberately murdered while trying to escape. The fact that nobody has informed against the Stern Gang murders, and the success of this whispering-campaign, shows that there is a great deal of sympathy for Stern activities among the local Jewish population, who would appear to be infected with totalitarian ideology which permits any means to achieve an end and calls murder by another name when carried out on behalf of the Jewish people.

On the morning of 10 December, 1947, two D.R.s were fired upon and injured, one of them fatally, at the junction of Herzl Street and Prophet Street. An officer who was nearby at the time, but who did not actually witness the shooting, states that a number of Jews made what appears to be a concerted effort to put the blame on three unfortunate Arabs hiding in a nearby lavatory (having heard the shooting), and who almost certainly had nothing to do with it. The streets were fairly crowded at the time, and if Haganah had been willing, instead of merely demonstrative, they would have obtained, if not arrested, then at least a description of the culprits.

A British Military Policeman was shot at and murdered whilst on patrol near the Eldorado Cafe in a completely Jewish area. It is thought that this outrage may have been a reprisal for the recent arrest of a Stern Gang member, but it is significant that no member of the Jewish population was able to produce any description of the murderers. The Eldorado Cafe, which was the most likely hiding place, was searched immediately by a number of officers and soldiers who arrived on the scene having heard the shooting, but without any results, except the indignant protests of the manager.

Unlike the Irgun Z'vai Leumi, the Stern Gang do have a political programme, which has been the subject of discussion amongst Jews in Haifa. It is said that the policy is in home affairs extreme-leftist, advocating a planned economy, nationalization of the basic industries and profit sharing amongst employees. In foreign policy, however, the trend is towards "the liberation" of the minorities in the Middle East, the recognition of the Soviet Union as the ally of the Jews in Palestine and the Arab countries, and an alliance with the Arab left wing. At the present, however, the party is cooperating with Haganah in the Jewish National Defence.

When the shots were fired, the crowd immediately dispersed, and the two Jews who committed the outrage walked up the steps of a narrow passage into Nordau Street, where they sat down in Cafe Sternheim and took a coffee before returning, probably to Tel Aviv. The officer and three soldiers were all seriously wounded, one having fallen out of the Jeep; and since no help came from any local Jew or Jewish doctor, the officer reorganized the party, and they drove to hospital by themselves, he changing gear, having been hit in the stomach and legs, while the driver, whose right arm and side had been hit, handled the steering wheel. Lydda. 0145 hours. A number of persons, believed Jews, dressed in battledress, some wearing steel helmets and others civilian hats, entered Tel Litwinsky Camp by cutting away a complete section of the northern perimeter fence, some 200/300 metres south of the northern entrance to the camp. Proceeding due west, the raiders cut away through an inner perimeter wire situated some 15 metres from the armoury of the 2nd Battalion Royal Lincolnshire Regiment based inside Tel Litwinsky camp. The armoury is housed in a silicate brick building some 15 metres in length and about 4 metres wide. The building also contains a store which adjoins the armoury and a Company office. Inside the armoury itself there is a small cubicle in which the Armourer and his assistant sleep. On the western and eastern sides of the armoury there are three windows; at the northern end a door; and an inner door leading to the store. Approaching the armoury from the west, the raiders cut the barbed wire lacing of two of the windows on that side and also one window of the store on the same side and, by applying pressure to the windows, forced them open. One of the windows led immediately into the cubicle where the two Armourers were sleeping. The assistant Armourer, a private of the Royal Lincolnshire Regiment, was shot dead and the Armourer, a Lieutenant escaped injury by leaping through the window past the raiders. His mental state at present is such that it is impossible to obtain any form of statement from him. Two storemen who were sleeping in a cubicle situated in the stores were fired at. One is suffering from gunshot wounds in the side and head and is in a critical condition. The other received slight gunshot wounds in the head. Both are now in Bir Ya'acov Military Hospital.

Having accounted for all four personnel, the raiders entered the armoury through the windows; and cutting the chains and by other means securing the rifles and other weapons to racks, commenced to move the contents of the Armoury. Meanwhile, a Lieutenant/Corporal who was sleeping in the company office at the other end of the building and who the raider apparently overlooked, was awakened by the commotion going on outside. He got out of bed, looked through the window and saw between 20/30 persons armed with Sten guns, some of whom were positioned around the building whilst others covered tents containing sleeping troops close by. He also saw others putting firearms into sacks outside the armoury. He immediately informed the Camp Duty Officer by 'phone of what was going on. The Duty Officer sounded the camp alarm. On hearing the alarm, the raiders immediately made off taking with them: 74 rifles, 7 sten guns, 6 pistols, 3,000 rounds of .303 ammunition, 4 boxes of Bren gun magazines.

A military patrol vehicle proceeded to the scene when alarm was sounded and seeing some of the raiders retreating, opened fire on them. Casualties are believed to have been inflicted. The raiders escaped through the gaps they had made on entry to the camp. Leaving the outside perimeter of the camp, the raiders passed through an orange grove on to a track and continued on foot for approximately one kilometre, boarded three vehicles at approximately MR 16171346, and thence drove along the track leading into Kefar Azar Colony. About 10/15 yards from the entrance to Kefar Azar, the tire tracks had been obliterated, either by the raiders or those in league with them. The vehicles passed through Kefar Azar Colony on to the main Tel Litwinsky/Benei Beraq road. Near the spot where the raiders boarded their vehicles was found a stretcher bearing the red star of David on each handle, a blood-stained bandage, some unused bandages and the wrappings of others, all bearing signs of Jewish origin. In the armoury, the raiders left behind two axes, one torch, a piece of iron tubing, a steel helmet and a khadi S.D. cap. Investigations are proceeding.

At about 1020 hours, on 30 December, 1947, Stern Gang members passing in a black taxi threw two home-made grenades into the large crowd of Arabs which normally assembles outside the CRL in the mornings in the hope of getting casual employment. 6 were killed, and a large number were wounded. The results, however, could scarcely have been anticipated by the attackers. The Arab employees, angered by the sight of dead countrymen and by tales of bomb-throwing, attacked the Jewish technical and clerical staff scattered and isolated throughout the large area covered by CRL, killing 41, principally by beating them to death: eleven were seriously injured. Prompt action by Police and troops prevented an even greater slaughter, and the Jews and Arabs were later escorted or sent home separately. One such attack took place at 1100 hours on 30 December, 1947, when Jews in a large black saloon car passing in front of the main entrance to CRL refineries, Haifa, threw two home-made normal anti-personnel grenades at a crowd of some hundred Arab civilians waiting outside the gate for employment as casual labour within the refinery. ## CHAPTER SEVEN

ZIONIST CRIMES AND TERRORISM IN PALESTINE 1948

In 1948 the Jewish terrorists in Palestine became increasingly ruthless and committed more massacres, such as the one at the Semiramis Hotel. Hagana terrorists attacked the hotel at 1 o'clock in the morning of January 5, 1948. As a result of the bombs they planted in its basement, the whole building collapsed on top of its residents, killing more than 25 men, women and children and injuring 16.

On April 9, 1948, the Irgun Z'vai Leumi and the Stern Gang, in coordination with the Hagana, committed the infamous massacre of Deir Yassin, where 250 men, women and children were butchered and many of their houses blown up over their heads.

Another important crime committed in 1948 was the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, the United Nations Mediator for Palestine, and Colonel Serot of his staff. Dr. Ralph Bunche, representative of the Secretary General of the United Nations attached to the Mediator's staff, sent a telegram describing the murder:

Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Mediator on Palestine, brutally assassinated by Jewish assailants of unknown identity, in planned, cold-blooded attack in the New City of Jerusalem at 14.05 G.M.T. today, Friday, 17th September.

Count Bernadotte was assassinated by the Stern Gang, and it is a well established fact that Yitzhak Shamir (alias Ysernitzsky) was one of the three leaders of the Stern Gang who plotted and executed the assassination.

The Stern Gang (LEHI) was led by a triumvirate comprising Israel Eldad (alias Scheib), Nathan Yellin-Mor (alias Friedman), and Yitzhak Shamir (alias Yzernitzsky). The Sunday Observer published an article on September 18, 1988, with the title "Death Warrant Returns to Haunt Shamir," by Eric Silver from Jerusalem:

A former leader of the Stern Gang has named Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir as one of those who authorised the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, the Swedish United Nations mediator on Palestine, 40 years ago this weekend.

Dr. Israel Eldad, one of the three who commanded the Jewish terrorist group after the death of its founder, Avraham Stern, at the hands of the British police, said last week the decision to "execute" Count Bernadotte was taken at two clandestine meetings in June and September 1948.

Shamir, another of the triumvirate, was at the first meeting, which agreed in principle that the mediator had to be killed. The second meeting gave the order to go ahead.

Three men involved in the assassination broke a 40-year vow of silence last week and talked about it to the Israeli media. They were Eldad, the fanatical theoretician of the Stern Gang, now aged 78 and still dreaming of a Jewish State on both banks of the Jordan; Yehoshua Zettler, the gang's Jerusalem commander who initiated and planned the operation; and Meshulam Makover, one of the two survivors of the four-man hit squad. Their revelations prompted Sweden to demand that the case be reopened.

The disclosures come at an embarrassing time for Shamir, who is projecting himself in this autumn's election campaign as an elder statesman. But he has not denied his part in the murder.

Shamir's spokesman, Josef Ahimeir, said: "The Prime Minister is concentrating on the present and future problems of the State of Israel. We don't want to deal with this affair. All that can be said has been said."

Count Bernadotte, a cousin of the Swedish royal family, became a target after he published a plan proposing the internationalisation of Jerusalem and a re-drawing of the partition borders which would have reduced the area of the Jewish State. Israelis detected the hand of their old foe, the British Foreign Secretary, Ernest Bevin, in a plot to increase the foothold of Britain's protegee, King Abdullah, west of the Jordan.

The Stern Gang veterans are as convinced today as they were forty years ago that the Count had to die. "Bernadotte's plan was to dismantle the State of Israel," Eldad told the Observer. "He was an agent of Bevin. We saved Jerusalem and possibly the State of Israel."

Zettler, who is now in his early seventies and runs a garage in Jaffa, told the evening paper, Yediot Ahronot: "There was a real fear for the fate of Jerusalem.

"We believed that the man (Bernadotte) was dangerous, that he meant to determine historical facts which would seal our fate. We demonstrated against him and when we saw that the demonstrations didn't help there was no alternative but to decide on his execution."

The new account identifies Yehoshua Cohen as the gunman who commanded the operation and fired the fatal shots when Bernadotte's car was ambushed in a West Jerusalem suburb on 17 September. Cohen, who died in 1986, had earlier trained the two Jews who assassinated the British Minister of State, Lord Moyne, in Cairo in 1944.

Zettler and Makover said last week that they had decided to break their silence because the integrity of Israel was again under threat, apparently a reference to the Labour Party and others on the Left who are ready to bargain territory for peace.

The Jerusalem Post said last Friday that this "could only be interpreted as a hint that this threat may again require personal terror in the Stern Gang fashion."<sup>1</sup>

Shamir's role in the assassination of Count Bernadotte was described in Dan Kurzman's book, Genesis 1948:

On the muggy afternoon of Friday, September 10, a car sped from Jerusalem to Tel Aviv carrying two men on a fateful mission. Yehoshua Zetler was driving Israel Sheib to a conference with Nathan Friedman-Yellin and Yitzhak Yizernitzky, the two other members of the Stern Group's Central Committee. And Sheib was determined to leave the meeting with unanimous agreement on a "solution" to the Bernadotte threat — a solution that he had had in mind ever since the Sternist demonstration against the mediator a month before.

As the car halted before a rundown apartment building on Ben Yehuda Street in Tel Aviv, Sheib told Zetler to wait for word from him. Then he climbed the stairs to Friedman-Yellin's apartment, where his two colleagues were waiting for him. In the simply furnished living room, the three men began to discuss the expected new Bernadotte Plan.

"If the world listens to Bernadotte and pressures our weakling government into making compromises, we will have lost our state," Sheib said. "We can't let this happen. We must show the world that it is just as futile for the United Nations to interfere in our affairs as it was for the British. Demonstrations are not enough."

Yizernitzky agreed. His view had always been, as he had explained to Stern members, that "a man who goes forth to kill another whom he does not know must believe one thing only — that by his act he will change the course of history."

The three men (according to Sheib and Yizernitzky) then discussed Count Bernadotte in the light of this philosophy. And as they exchanged ideas over wine and fruit, it seemed that the clock had been set back four years — to that day in Spring, 1944, when the same three men had met in another dingy room to consider assassinating Sir Harold MacMichael, the British High Commissioner in Palestine, and Lord Moyne, the British Minister of State in the Middle East.

Within months, MacMichael had been wounded in an assassination attempt, and Lord Moyne murdered.

After a long discussion (as Sheib and Yizernitzky relate it) the three men agreed to order Bernadotte's assassination.<sup>2</sup>

The details of the crimes committed by Zionist terrorist organizations in 1948 are recorded in this chapter by date and are verbatim reports photocopied from the War Office, Colonial Office and Foreign Office files in the Public Record Office, Kew Gardens, Surrey, the United Kingdom. Following is a summary of the types of crimes committed by Zionist terrorists in 1948:

1. Sneak attacks on many Arab villages, resulting in the death of many men, women and children.
2. Blowing up of bridges in different parts of the country.
3. Blowing up of Arab houses and hotels.
4. Firing on Arab cars and killing many Arabs.
5. Robbery of Barclay's Bank.
6. Assaulting British officers walking alone.
7. Firing into cafes and streets and cars, killing many innocent civilians.
8. Blowing up Arab trucks and killing occupants.
9. Attacking Arab shepherds and stealing their flocks.
10. Throwing hand grenades into churches.
11. Robbery of arms, ammunition, trucks, provisions and equipment from British Army depots.
12. Throwing bombs into Arab markets, killing and injuring many men, women and children.
13. Blowing up of trains and killing many passengers; in one incident alone, 40 Arabs were killed.

Jewish terrorism was the subject of many debates in the House of Commons. On March 1, 1948, Mr. Anthony Eden asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies whether he had any statement to make on the mining of the Cairo-Haifa train the previous day. The Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Rees-Williams, replied as follows<sup>3</sup>:

It is with the deepest possible regret that His Majesty's Government announce that at approximately 8.40 in the morning of 29th February the passenger train from Kantara to Haifa was blown up by unknown persons a short distance north of Rehovoth railway station. The train consisted of 13 coaches, five of which were military, and the last three coaches which contained military personnel only were completely wrecked. The following casualties, all British Service personnel, were caused by the explosion: dead 27; dangerously wounded, six; seriously wounded, nine; slightly wounded, 20. The casualties were cleared by 10.30 a.m. and were admitted to the British Military Hospital at Beer Yaacov.

On investigation it was found that four charges had been laid under sleepers approximately 10 yards apart. Three of these had been detonated and the fourth, which failed to explode, was found to contain 100 lbs. of ammonal in sandbags. All four charges were wired to an ignition point in an orange grove 300 yards from the track. No assistance was given to military personnel who were carrying out investigations, by persons in the locality. There is as yet no information available as to the identity of persons responsible for this outrage, except a report that the Stern Gang have claimed responsibility.

I wish, on behalf of His Majesty's Government and the Government of Palestine, to express deep sympathy with the relatives of those who lost their lives as a result of this shocking outrage.

A statement has been issued by the Government of Palestine in Jerusalem today recalling the catalogue of enormities perpetrated by Jewish terrorists in recent months, and drawing attention to the failure of the Jewish community to assist in bringing the guilty to justice and, in particular, the refusal to give evidence in the official police inquiries into the Ben Yehuda Street explosion.

The statement declares:

"The leaders of the Jewish community have felt themselves unable, for political reasons, to take any steps to bring to justice the persons responsible for these crimes and have thus facilitated the spread of lawlessness and disorder to a point at which the community itself is threatened with destruction by elements within itself. In this neglect of its responsibilities the Jewish Agency has attempted to excuse itself by resort to calculated innuendoes, falsehoods and propaganda directed against British members of the Security Forces who are, in fact, every day protecting Jewish property and saving hundreds of civilian lives, even at the risk of their own."

Referring to the Ben Yehuda Street outrage the statement points out that "in spite of official denials the Jewish Agency has repeated that it was a British Army convoy that was responsible," and continues: "...nobody outside Jewish circles believes this, and there can be no other purpose in repeating it other than to stir up racial hatred. The fact is that the vehicles responsible for this outrage were no more a British Army convoy than the vehicles stolen from time to time by Jews and used by them on numerous occasions for the murder of many more people than were killed in Ben Yehuda Street...."

"The Government, mindful of the duty of the Security Forces to maintain law and order, and confronted with the deliberate policy of the Jewish Agency to render their task as difficult as possible, desires now to bring once more to the serious attention of the Jewish community in Palestine the fact that the continuance of indiscriminate murder and condoned terrorism can lead only to the forfeiture by the community of all right in the eyes of the world to be numbered among civilised peoples."

On April 12, 1948, the outrages committed by Jewish terrorists were debated in the House of Commons. Mr. Oliver Stanley, member of the House of Commons from Bristol, asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies whether he had any statement to make about the capture of Deir Yassin by Jews the previous Friday and the reports of a widespread massacre of the villagers, including many women and children. The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Creech Jones, stated<sup>4</sup>:

I still await a detailed report from the High Commissioner about this matter. He informed me on Saturday that investigations were proceeding as rapidly as possible. His preliminary report states that approximately 200 Jews attacked the Arab village of Deir Yassin in the Jerusalem district on the 9th of April. Eight armoured vehicles drove into the village and laid explosive charges, which destroyed five houses. In a Press conference given by a Jewish spokesman for the Irgun Zvai Leumi and Stern Group near Jerusalem in the evening of 9th April to American and Jewish correspondents, it was claimed that of the 700 Arab inhabitants of the village 200 had been killed, approximately half of whom were women and children, and 200 wounded. One hundred and forty had been taken prisoner, removed to Jerusalem and later released. The remainder escaped into the hills.

The whole affair points to another brutal and appallingly cruel outrage. I can hardly express the horror with which His Majesty's Government regard such barbarous action. These acts shock the world and arouse deep anger and bitterness and make the prospect of settlement recede still further. As soon as I receive a further report from the High Commissioner I will arrange for another statement to be made to the House.

The following discussion ensued<sup>5</sup>:

Mr. Lipson: Does the Colonial Secretary propose to ask the Jewish Agency to follow up their condemnation of this outrage by giving every possible assistance to get hold of the perpetrators?

Mr. Creech Jones: I am afraid it is of little use asking the Jewish Agency to do anything further. From time to time we have appealed to them for the fullest cooperation with the civil authorities in rooting out terrorism and bringing to our notice these conspiracies, which are calculated to create so much havoc among the Jewish and Arab peoples.

Earl Winterton: Will the right hon. Gentleman explain how it is that one set of Jewish terrorists claim credit, if it is credit, for this, and another set of Jewish terrorists, mainly the Haganah, controlled by the Jewish Agency, regret it? Is it fact that these two sets of thugs are fighting each other, instead of the Arabs?

Mr. Creech Jones: If the noble Lord will await the statement, I think it is possible he will discover that the Haganah are to some extent involved in these operations.

Colonel Gomme-Duncan: Did I understand the right hon. Gentleman to say that the perpetrators of these outrages were in the possession of 14 armoured vehicles? If so, can he give any information where they came from?

Mr. Creech Jones: They were in possession of eight armoured vehicles, but I have no knowledge of their origin.

Mr. Peter Thorneycroft: If I heard aright, the right hon. Gentleman said that the Irgun had a more or less official Press conference, at which they announced that they had successfully perpetrated this outrage and correspondents, British and American, attended. If this took place, why were no arrests made on the spot?

Mr. Creech Jones: What I said was that a Jewish representative had met American and Jewish correspondents and had conveyed the information to these correspondents of this battle in the hills, but beyond that we have no knowledge.

Mr. Swingle: Is it not clear that there is open warfare in Palestine now, and that our military commanders are given an impossible task? Would it not be far better to admit the situation, and tell the United Nations organisation what are the facts?

Major Beamish: While fully appreciating the immense difficulties under which British troops have to operate in Palestine, may I ask if the fact that no British troops were able to go to a village within five minutes' drive of Jerusalem to stop this massacre means that no mobile troops are left in Jerusalem?

Mr. Creech Jones: I think that question must be left — (Hon Members: "No.") As to the disposition of troops in Palestine during this very difficult situation, I ask the House to remember that not only are the troops engaged in guarding frontiers and keeping open lines of communication, preventing civil war and defending various villages and settlements, but are also in packing up and preparing for withdrawal. This is a very heavy task on the military at present.

Earl Winterton: Cannot the right hon. Gentleman tell us who these Jewish correspondents were who claim to have interviewed these self-confessed murderers, scoundrels and anarchists who confessed that they had murdered women and children? Why cannot these so-called Jewish correspondents be arrested?

Mr. Creech Jones: I have no information. I must ask the noble Lord to await my further statement.

On April 19, 1948, Jewish outrages in Palestine were discussed in the British House of Commons. The Secretary of State for the Colonies was asked if he had any further statements to make about the capture of the Arab village of Deir Yassin in Palestine by Jews on the 9th of April, 1948. Mr. McNeil of the Colonial Office answered as follows<sup>6</sup>:

I have been asked to reply. My right hon. Friend has now received additional information from the High Commissioner. The figure of Arab casualties given to the House on 12th April has been confirmed by a visit to the village by a representative of the International Red Cross, who has stated that in one cave he saw the heaped bodies of some 150 Arabs, men, women and children, whilst in a well a further 50 bodies were found. The approaches to the village are strongly held by Hagana and the Palestine Police could not enter to conduct investigations without a considerable show of force. The terrorist groups claim that Hagana facilitated the mounting of their attack on Deir Yassin, although the Jewish Agency issued a statement on 12th April expressing horror and disgust at the barbarity of the manner in which this action had been carried out by the terrorists. The Zionist General Council, however, meeting in Tel Aviv on the same day, ratified an agreement for cooperation between the Hagana and the Irgun Zvai Leumi. Units of the Hagana have now taken over occupation of Deir Yassin from the members of the terrorist groups who originally attacked the village.

Invitations to the Press conference given by a Jewish spokesman for the Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern Group, which took place in the heavily guarded Jewish settlement of Givat Shaul, near Deir Yassin, were issued by telephone to selected American and Jewish correspondents. The fact that this conference had taken place was not known to the authorities until the following day. No correspondents of British newspapers were invited.

Again, on the 20th of April, 1948, the question of Jewish terrorism was raised in the House of Commons. The following discussion took place<sup>7</sup>

Major Tufton Beamish (asked) the Secretary of State for War if he will describe the steps taken by the anti-tank unit, whose camp was raided by Jewish terrorists at Pardus Hanna recently, and by other units, to recover the arms stolen from them, to capture the vehicles used by these terrorists and to kill or capture those responsible for the attack; and what success has attended these efforts.

Mr. A. R. W. Low (asked) the Secretary of State for War how many sentries were on duty at the Pardus Hanna Camp of the 12th Anti-Tank Regiment when it was attacked by Jewish terrorists on 6th April; whether they had anti-tank weapons immediately available; and what anti-tank obstacles there were to prevent the camp gates being rushed.

Mr. Shinwell: The unit had four sentries on duty at the gate. The obstacles were perimeter wire and a drop-bar entrance. It must be realised that entry to the camp was effected by subterfuge. The terrorists arrived in Army and police vehicles dressed as officers and other ranks in correct British R.A.S.C., R.E.M.E. and Palestine Police uniforms. The unit was preparing to move and was expecting R.A.S.C. transport to arrive. Officers and soldiers made for the spot instantly the alarm was raised. Although no anti-tank weapons were immediately available covering the gate, on hearing the shooting officers in the car park ordered self-propelled anti-tank guns to be set up, and move inwards. This caused the terrorists to abandon the attack, and withdraw. As they withdrew they were engaged by small arms, and subsequently by 17-pounder high explosives, which killed one terrorist and wounded an unknown number. The military and civil authorities were at once notified and the whole area surrounding the camp was systematically searched, but this was hindered for about an hour by fire from nearby orange groves. A curfew was imposed in the neighbourhood. It seems clear that the unit concerned and other available units took all conceivable steps open to them.

On the 5th of May, 1948, the question of the attack by the Irgun Z'vai Leumi on Jaffa was raised. The Secretary of State for the Colonies was asked whether he had any statement to make on the present situation in Jaffa. Mr. Rees-Williams, the Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies answered as follows<sup>8</sup>:

In the early hours of 28th April a heavy attack on the Arab town of Jaffa was made by the Irgun Zvai Leumi, the method adopted being an indiscriminate mortar bombardment, apparently designed to create panic among the civilian inhabitants. British forces intervened, supported by aircraft, and in the course of the afternoon the Jews retired to their original positions. By nightfall the border was quiet except for occasional sniping. A cease-fire was ordered for both sides by the military commander and was observed. British troops then occupied a line between Arabs and Jews on the Tel-Aviv-Jaffa border. On the evening of 30th April, the cease-fire order was broken by fire from the Jewish side, which was quickly silenced by military action. Latest reports indicate that the town is now quiet. As a rough estimate, some 30,000 Arabs left Jaffa and more are leaving. The Arab mayor is still in Jaffa and municipal services are functioning, although with difficulty. Casualties suffered by British forces were one non-commissioned officer killed, and five other ranks wounded.

1 JANUARY 1948

At about one o'clock in the morning the villagers of Balad El-Sheikh and Hanasa were asleep. Haganah men disguised in British uniforms made a surprise attack bombing and demolishing houses, shooting and killing the villagers indiscriminately, men, women and children. Among those killed were a pregnant woman, 35 years old, a child 11 years old, and five other men, while 32 were wounded, 25 seriously, among them many women and children.

1 JANUARY 1948

In our special report on the CRL massacre, we forecast that the most likely form of any retaliatory action by the Jews would be an attack on the village of Balad es Sheikh, from which many of the Arab laborers at the CRL came. Early on the morning of 1 January, 1948, Haganah patrols, in fact, carried out an attack on Balad es Sheikh. While one group of about 15 Jews disguised in white Arab head-dresses gave covering fire from the hills overlooking the village, a second party, somewhat larger than the first, entered the outskirts and attacked several houses with grenades and sub-machine gun fire. 14 Arabs were killed and 11 seriously wounded. Although the inhabitants of Balad es Sheikh claimed to have killed and wounded some of the attackers, no bodies were handed over to the police. This is somewhat strange, since confirmation of the Arab report was supplied in the Palestine Post when Major Levin (late of IJI ship "Unafraid") wrote an article in the memory of Haim Ben-Dor who was killed in the attack.

Lydda. Approximately 1330 hours, Jaffa. A W.D. armoured vehicle travelling down Salameh Road towards Abu Kebir closely followed by a blue jeep containing six men in military uniform. The driver was wearing an Officer's badges of rank. On the jeep were mounted two bren guns, one forward and the other on a stand at the rear, and the occupants of the vehicle were armed with Sten guns. The jeep followed the armoured car through a road block in Salameh Road and, near the Post Office, the driver of the jeep turned the vehicle round and drove back along Salameh Road. Opposite the Salameh Garage, the occupants of the jeep opened fire at an Armenian cafe, and also at Arab police at a road block. Owing to the fire power being directed at them, the police were unable to reply but did fire when the jeep had passed the road block and was making towards Tel Aviv. The rear Bren-gunner was seen to fall back into the jeep and is stated to have been hit by a bullet. The occupants of the vehicle wore regimental badges of the Royal Irish Fusiliers but are believed to have been Jews. The following casualties resulted from the attack: Dead — Hamed Marouf Abdul Khader (27) of Jaffa; Ali Mansour Ali (35) of Trans-Jordan. Injured — Shama bint Abdul Najid (30) of Jerusalem, condition not serious; Lewti Assour (25) of Jaffa, condition serious; Ibrahim Said Mas-soud (25) of Jaffa, condition serious; Nimer Akyelieh (11) of Jaffa, condition serious; Ibrahim Hussein Eissa (21) of Abbasaiya village, condition serious; Abdulla Ezra Allweh (20) of Jaffa, condition serious; Ismail Moussa Mahmoud (11) of Jaffa, condition serious; Hassan Jaber (27) of Salameh vil-lage, condition serious.

Lydda. 1555 hours, Rehovoth. Following a report that an armed Jewish party was operating at the Aqir crossroads, a police party went to the scene but, on arrival, found that they had left in a westerly direction. Police followed and, on passing through an orange grove to the south of Havatzelet Hash-Sharon Colony, men were observed passing through the perimeter fence of the colony. Two of these, Daniel Zus-manobitz and Yehuda Yoash, both of Rishon Le Zion, were arrested. A search of the grove revealed the following: 1 Mk. 1 Bren gun No. M.497; 4 Sten guns Nos. 205999, 20546, 20699 and 20366; 6 grenades, American type; 3 S.M.L.E. rifles Nos. K.4822, P.1642 and S.4886; 6 Sten gun magazines; 69 Rounds of .303 ammunition in clips; 161 rounds of 9.mm. ammunition.

During a search, a house in the colony, owned by a certain Weisspaun, was found to be unoccupied, and this building is believed to be a hide-out for a terrorist party. A box containing new bread and tins of bully-beef and sardines were found in the house.

Lydda. 1240 hours, Jaffa. The Old Serrai in Clock Tower Square which houses the offices of the Arab National Committee, was completely destroyed by an explosion which killed 15 and injured 98 persons. Buildings nearby including Barclay's Bank, the Central Police Station and several shops and houses were also extensively damaged. Full details of how the attack was carried out are not yet available, but it is believed the attackers arrived at the scene in two vehicles, a 3-ton truck laden with orange boxes and a saloon car. Proceeding up Bustros Street towards Clock Tower Square, the truck turned left into the narrow lane between Barclay's Bank and the Old Serrai. The saloon car was seen to park some 20 metres north of Central P.S. near the road leading to the port area. The truck was parked at a point about 20 yards along the above mentioned lane. Two persons, dressed as Arabs, were seen to alight from the truck and walk across the square. They got into the waiting car which drove off in the direction of the Ajami Quarter. Almost immediately following the departure of the car, the explosion occurred. Tons of masonry from the Old Serrai building completely blocked the land running beside it.

A fire subsequently broke out in Barclay's Bank but was extinguished. A strong-room situated in the upper storey of the bank was blown in and a considerable amount of money was salvaged and taken into police custody. The entire area was wired off to facilitate salvage operations and to prevent looting.

It is reported from Tel Aviv that Irgun Z'vai Leumi have claimed responsibility for this outrage.

Tension has risen to a high pitch in Jaffa as a result of this attack, and a certain degree of anti-Government feeling has been expressed.

Two examples of attacks officially recognized by Hagana have occurred during the past fortnight. The first began at 1800 hours on Sunday, 11 January, when, following a day of almost continuous sniping from the Romema area, a Hagana force took the matter into their own hands and blew up the house of Haj Suleiman Heminie, the Mukhtar of Badr esh Sheikh. The attack followed the usual line and a diversion was first made by the throwing of a grenade into the house of Sa'ad, setting fire to a dry fodder store, after which the main charge was laid and blown, killing one Arab and completely demolishing the Mukhtar's house. The second occurred at 0100 hours on 13 January when Hagana launched an attack on the Sheikh Jarrar Quarter of Jerusalem in which, during the course of an hour, some twenty Arab houses in the area were sufficiently seriously damaged to ensure the evacuation of the residents. An interesting point about both of these attacks is that they demonstrate conclusively the elastic interpretation with which Hagana endow their use of the word "defence." It seems that in both cases, the continuous sniping suffered by the neighboring Jewish quarters from these two areas was enough to induce them to break their own order, namely, never to attack unless it is with the object of regaining lost ground. It is extremely doubtful whether the Arab fire was so accurate that the Jewish areas concerned were rendered completely untenable.

There have been two incidents of shooting involving the Arab Legion and Haganah. The first of these was on Sunday, 15 February, when shots were fired from a Jewish bus at the Arab Legion guards around Barclays Bank in Kingsway. The guards replied with fire in all directions, killing one Jew, who appears to have been innocent of any connection with the incident. Early on Monday evening and Tuesday morning, there were a series of incidents near the Arab Legion camp at Ahuzzat. The Arab sentry there was shot by a Jew in a bus passing through the barrier. A taxi following the bus was shot up by a bren gun post of the camp and brought to a halt. The story of what then happened is conflicting, but it seems probable that the Jews were in fact beaten up and shot by the guard, and their bodies placed in the positions where they were later found by the police. Early the following morning, an Arab Legion truck passing a Haganah post was shot up, and a battle developed between the post and the Arab Legionnaires, who arrived as reinforcements. When British troops arrived on the scene, they had two vehicles put out of action by fire from the post and later carried out a platoon attack on it. The Jews wisely withdrew. One senior Haganah leader has said that if "provocative" attacks by the Arab Legion continue, younger and less responsible members of Haganah may take "drastic and regrettable" action.

Gaza. Morning, Beersheba. Abdul Khader Mohammed Abdul Khader of Ishira Abu Shimar, Khirbat El Huzaiyil area, reported that of early in the morning, his brother, Ahmed, together with eleven goats had been placed in an armoured car by ten armed Jews at a point one kilo west of the track between Khirbat El Huzaiyil and Mishmar Hanegeve, and that the vehicle had then disappeared travelling towards Mishmar Hanegev. Complainant accompanied a party of police and military personnel to the Colony, but the (Jewish) mukhtar denied all knowledge of the incident. A police officer was refused permission by the mukhtar to look round the colony and the O.C. troops called up a platoon of infantry by wireless. The Outbuildings were visited in the failing light but no signs were seen of the missing boy or goats, and the mukhtar was informed that police would return on 17 February, 1948, and his assistance was requested in clearing up the matter. Abdul Khader maintained that he recognized an armoured car present in the colony as the one used in the abduction, but the mukhtar stated that his complainant was false. Lydda. 1215 hours, Tel Aviv. Mr. Lawrence, A.D.C. Lydda District, was proceeding into Tel Aviv by the Jaffa/Tel Aviv road and had passed through the barriers at the Mishmar boundary when he was compelled to stop as a truck parked across the road. He saw several Jews taking objects out of a store and asked them if it was Arab property — they informed him it was Jewish. Two armed Jews then ordered him out of the car and drove it into Tel Aviv. Hagana information states that the vehicle was to be used in an attempt to blow up buildings in the Jaffoun compound hut, but, at 1230 hours, the car was observed by the crew of a police armoured car proceeding towards Jerusalem. Description of vehicle — make 'Allard' — color dark blue — four heater open sports model — fitted with 'Ford V8' engine and gear box — registration number 288Z.

Following are details of Count Bernadotte's assassination. His convoy of three cars left Government House on Jewish side returning to Jewish Jerusalem. First car contained United Nations personnel, Belgian observer and Jewish liaison officer. Second car Red Cross. Third car driven by Colonel Begley American observer with Commander Cox in front. The Mediator, Colonel Serrot and General Landstrum in rear seat. While proceeding through Jewish Jerusalem at a point about three hundred yards from Salvia Hotel the road was blocked by a jeep containing four men dressed in Jewish uniforms and wearing berets. Mediator convoy stopped and one of the assassins punctured the tyre of the leading vehicle with a shot. They then walked down the convoy inspecting each vehicle until the last into the rear compartment of which they fired an automatic weapon. Colonel Serrot was shot through the head and died immediately. The Mediator was shot in the region of the heart and died soon afterwards. Colonel Begley got out and grappled with one of the assassins all of whom then fled and made good their escape. The bodies are now in the Y.M.C.A. and are being evacuated by air from Kulundia tomorrow morning.

CHAPTER EIGHT

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL LAW

The term "international criminal law" is here used to signify the international law relating to war crimes, crimes against humanity, crimes against peace, membership in criminal organizations, and the crime of genocide. The judgment of the International Tribunal in the Hostages Trial referred to the sources of international criminal law as follows:

The sources of international law which are usually enumerated are (1) customs and practises accepted by civilized nations generally, (2) treaties, conventions and other forms of interstate agreements, (3) the decisions of international tribunals, (4) the decisions of national tribunals dealing with international questions, (5) the opinions of qualified text writers, and (6) diplomatic papers.<sup>1</sup>

Similarly, the Tribunal acting in the Justice Trial said:

International law is not the product of statute. Its content is not static. The absence from the world of any governmental body, authorized to enact substantive rules of international law has not prevented the progressive development of that law. After the manner of the English common law it has grown to meet the exigencies of changing conditions.

It must be conceded that the circumstance which gives to principles of international conduct the dignity and authority of law is their general acceptance as such by civilized nations, which acceptance is manifested by international treaties, conventions, authoritative textbooks, practice and judicial decisions.<sup>2</sup>

DEVELOPMENT IN THE NINETEENTH CENTURY AND EARLY TWENTIETH CENTURY

The laws and customs of war and the laws governing military occupation of enemy territory and the protection of the civilian populations in occupied territories were formally recognized in the second half of the nineteenth century and at the beginning of the twentieth century through international agreements, covenants and declarations, the most important of which are the following:

1. The Declaration of Paris, 1856, concerning maritime law in time of war. Signed by seven Powers, acceded to later by all the maritime Powers.
2. The Geneva Convention, 1864, for the amelioration of wounded soldiers in armies in the field. Signed by nine Powers. Acceded to by almost all civilized States.
3. The Geneva Convention of 1906, signed in 1906, by thirty-five States. Its principles incorporated into the Hague Convention.

4. The Declaration of St. Petersburg, 1868, prohibiting the use in war of certain projectiles. Signed by seventeen States.

5. The Hague Declaration, concerning projectiles diffusing asphyxiating or deleterious gases, 1899.

6. The Hague Declaration, prohibiting the use of expanding bullets, 1899.

7. The Hague Convention, respecting the laws and customs of war on land. Signed in 1899, revised in 1907 in the Second Hague Conference.

8. The Third Hague Convention, concerning opening of hostilities, 1907.

9. The Fourth Hague Convention, respecting the laws and customs of war on land, 1907.

10. The Fifth Hague Convention, respecting the rights and duties of neutral Powers and persons in case of war on land, 1907.

11. The Sixth Hague Convention, relative to the status of enemy merchant ships at the outbreak of hostilities, 1907.

12. The Seventh Hague Convention, relative to the conversion of merchant ships into warships, 1907.

13. The Eighth Hague Convention, relative to the laying of automatic submarine contact mines, 1907.

14. The Ninth Hague Convention, respecting bombardment by naval forces in time of war, 1907.

15. The Tenth Hague Convention, for the adaption of the principles of the Geneva Convention to Maritime War, 1907.

16. The Eleventh Hague Convention, relative to certain restrictions on the exercise of the right of capture in maritime war, 1907.

17. The Thirteenth Hague Convention, respecting the rights and duties of neutral Powers in maritime war, 1907.

18. The first Hague Declaration, prohibiting the discharge of projectiles and explosives from balloons, 1899-1907.

19. The London Declaration of 1909, concerning the laws of naval warfare, signed by ten States.<sup>3</sup>

CUSTOMS AND PRACTICES ACCEPTED BY CIVILIZED NATIONS GENERALLY

A rule of international law can be valid without being stated in any international agreement. The statement just quoted from the judgment delivered in the Justice Trial was followed by the comment that "it does not, however, follow from the foregoing statements that general acceptance of a rule of international conduct must be manifested by express adoption thereof by all civilized States." The judgment implicitly adopted a passage from Hyde's International Law pointing out that a binding rule of law could become established even by "the failure of interested States to make appropriate objection to practical applications of it." The Hostages Trial judgment stated: "In any event, the practices and usages of war which gradually ripened into recognized customs with which belligerents were bound to comply, recognized the crimes specified herein as crimes subject to punishment. It is not essential that a crime be specifically defined and charged in accordance with a particular ordinance, statute or treaty if it is made a crime by international convention, recognized customs and usages of war, or the general principles of criminal justice common to civilized nations generally."<sup>4</sup>

THE SECOND HAGUE PEACE CONFERENCE AND 1907 CONVENTION REGARDING THE LAWS AND CUSTOMS OF LAND WARFARE

The following are the relevant articles regarding belligerent occupation:<sup>5</sup>

Article 42: A territory is considered as being occupied when it is actually under the authority of the hostile army.

The occupation extends only to the regions where this authority is established and capable of being asserted.

Article 45: Compelling the people of an occupied territory to take an oath of allegiance to a hostile power is prohibited.

Article 46: The honor and the rights of the family, the life of individuals, and private property, as well as religious convictions and religious worship, should be respected.

Private property shall not be confiscated.

Article 47: Looting is positively forbidden.

Article 50: No public penalty, pecuniary or otherwise, shall be pronounced against the inhabitants on account of individual acts for which they cannot be considered collectively responsible.

Article 55: The occupying nation shall consider itself merely as the administrator and usufructuary of the public buildings, real estate, forests, and farms belonging to the hostile government and situated within the occupied territory. It shall protect this property and administer it in accordance with the rules governing usufruct.

Article 56: The property of communes, of institutions devoted to religious worship, charity, and instruction, or to arts and sciences, even when belonging to the government, shall be treated as private property.

THE INTERNATIONAL MILITARY TRIBUNAL AT NUREMBERG UPHELD THE VALIDITY OF THE 1907 HAGUE CONVENTION

After World War II the International Military Tribunal at Nuremberg upheld the validity of the 1907 Hague Convention as follows:

In the opinion of the Tribunal it is not necessary to decide this question. The rules of land warfare expressed in the Convention undoubtedly represented an advance over existing international law at the time of their adoption. But the Convention expressly stated that it was an attempt "to revise the general laws and customs of war," which it thus recognized to be then existing, but by 1939 these rules laid down in the Convention were recognized by all civilized nations, and were regarded as being declaratory of the laws and customs of war which are referred to in Article 6 (b) of the Charter....

"Although Czechoslovakia was not a party to the Hague Convention of 1907, the rules of land warfare expressed in this Convention are declaratory of existing international law and hence are applicable."

The International Military Tribunal for the Far East expressed the following opinion:

"The effectiveness of some of the Conventions signed at The Hague on 18th October, 1907, as direct treaty obligations was considerably impaired by the incorporation of a so-called 'general participation clause' in them, providing that the Convention would be binding only if all the belligerents were party to it. The effect of this clause is, in strict law, to deprive some of the Conventions of their binding force as direct treaty obligations, either from the very beginning of a war or in the course of it as soon as a non-signatory Power, however insignificant, joins the ranks of the Belligerents. Although the obligation to observe the provisions of the Convention as a binding treaty may be swept away by operation of the 'general participation clause,' or otherwise, the Convention remains as good evidence of the customary law of nations, to be considered by the Tribunal along with all other available evidence in determining the customary law to be applied in any given situation."<sup>6</sup>

The Tribunal acting in the High Command Trial substantially adopted the opinion of the Nuremberg International Military Tribunal that the Hague Convention No. IV of 1907 had by 1939 become recognized as being merely declaratory of existing international law, and that its provisions bound all belligerents irrespective of signature and despite the "general participation" clause. The Tribunal conducting the Krupp Trial fully concurred in the opinion of the International Military Tribunal.<sup>7</sup>

THE 1919 PEACE CONFERENCE AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

At the end of World War I, a Commission was appointed by the Peace Conference to examine the criminal responsibility for starting that war and for the acts committed during its conduct. The Commission, known as THE COMMISSION OF 15, came to the conclusion "that the gravity of these outrages committed during the war against the law of nations and international good faith is such that the Commission thinks they should be subject of a formal condemnation by the Conference." The Commission further declared "that it is desirable that for the future, penal sanctions should be provided for such grave outrages against the elementary principles of international law."

In 1923, the League of Nations prepared a draft of a Treaty called the TREATY OF MUTUAL ASSISTANCE. Article One of the said Treaty states, "that aggressive war is an international crime and that the parties hereto would undertake that no one of them will be guilty of its commission."<sup>8</sup>

The preamble to the League of Nations' 1924 Protocol for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes ("Geneva Protocol") declared "that a war of aggression constitutes an international crime." Members of the League of Nations unanimously approved the said Protocol by 45 members. Article 6 of the said Protocol stated that the sanctions provided by Article 16 of the Covenant of the League should be applicable to any state resorting to war in disregard of its undertakings under the Protocol.

On September 24, 1927, the Assembly of the League of Nations adopted a declaration concerning wars of aggression which states:

The Assembly,

Recognising the solidarity which unites the community of nations; Being inspired by a firm desire for the maintenance of general peace;

Being convinced that a war of aggression can never serve as a means of settling international disputes and is, in consequence, an international crime....<sup>9</sup>

KELLOG-BRIAND PACT OR "PACT OF PARIS"

On August 27, 1928, the Kellogg-Briand Pact or "Pact of Paris" was signed in Paris by 46 states. It was signed by members of the League of Nations and Germany. The said Pact condemned recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, renounced war as an instrument of national policy and bound the nations signing the Pact to seek the settlement of all disputes only by pacific means. Although the Pact did not make the violations of its terms crimes punishable either by an international tribunal or by national courts, many international jurists meeting in the conferences of the International Law Association were of the opinion that unleashing aggressive wars is an international crime and must be punished.

DECLARATIONS OF PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCES

The unanimous Resolution (February 18, 1928) of the twenty-one American Republics at the Sixth (Havana) Pan-American Conference declared that "war of aggression constitutes an international crime against the human species."

At the International Conference of American States on Conciliation and Arbitration, assembled in Washington in December, 1928, representatives of all twenty republics at the Conference signed a General Convention of Inter-American Conciliation, of which the preamble contains the statement, "Desiring to demonstrate that the condemnation of war as an instrument of national policy in their mutual relations," set forth in the Havana Resolution, "constitutes one of the fundamental bases of inter-American relations...."

The Anti-War Treaty of Non-Aggression and Conciliation signed at Rio de Janeiro, October 10, 1933, was ratified by 25 States, including the United States of America. The preamble to that treaty states that the Parties were entering into the agreement "to the end of condemning wars of aggression and territorial acquisitions that may be obtained by armed conquest, making them impossible and establishing their invalidity."

THE LONDON AGREEMENT AND THE INTERNATIONAL MILITARY TRIBUNAL

On August 8, 1945, the major allied powers signed the London Agreement and adopted the Charter of the International Military Tribunal. Article One of the Agreement provided for the establishment of an International Military Tribunal "for the trial of war criminals whose offenses have no particular geographical location whether they be accused individually or in their capacity as members of organizations or groups or in both capacities." Article Six of the said Charter defined the crimes within the jurisdiction of the tribunal as follows:

(a) Crimes against peace: namely, planning, preparation, initiation or waging of a war of aggression, or a war in violation of international treaties, agreements or assurances, or participation in a common plan or conspiracy for the accomplishment of any of the foregoing.

(b) War crimes: namely, violations of the laws or customs of war. Such violations shall include, but not be limited to, murder, ill-treatment or deportation to slave labor or for any other purpose of civilian population of or in occupied territory, murder or ill-treatment of prisoners of war or persons on the seas, killing of hostages, plunder of public property, wanton destruction of cities, towns or villages, or devastation not justified by military necessity.

(c) Crimes against humanity: namely, murder, extermination, enslavement, deportation, and other inhuman acts committed against any civilian population, before or during the war, or persecution on political, racial or religious grounds in execution of or in connection with any crimes within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal, whether or not in violation of the domestic law of the country where perpetrated.

(d) Leaders, organizers, instigators, and accomplices participating in the formulation or execution of a common plan or conspiracy to commit any of the foregoing crimes are responsible for all acts performed by any persons in execution of such plan.

Article 7 of the Charter of the Tribunal provides as follows:

The official position of defendants, whether as heads of state or responsible officials in government departments, shall not be considered as freeing them from responsibility or mitigating punishment.

THE INDICTMENT OF THE MAJOR NAZI WAR CRIMINALS

The 24 major Nazi defendants were charged on an indictment which included four counts. Count One stated, "Our case against the major defendants is concerned with the Nazi master plan and charged all the defendants that they engaged in a gigantic common plan or conspiracy to acquire totalitarian control of Germany, to mobilize the German economy for war, to construct a huge military machine for conquest, and to overrun and subjugate Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, and the other victims of German arms; and, in the course of all the foregoing, to commit numerous war crimes and crimes against humanity."<sup>10</sup> Count Two of the Indictment contained the charge that all the defendants committed crimes against peace "by planning, preparing, initiating, and waging wars of aggression against twelve named countries."<sup>11</sup> Count Three of the Indictment "accused the defendants of violating the laws and customs of war, specifying the murder and ill-treatment of millions of civilians in the German-occupied countries, deportation of other millions to slave labor, murder and ill-treatment of prisoners of war, killing of hostages, plunder and looting and unjustified devastation, forcing non-German civilians to swear allegiance to Hitler, and despotically 'Germanizing' occupied areas, particularly Alsace and Lorraine and parts of Poland."<sup>12</sup>

Count Four charged the defendants with crimes against humanity which were incorporated in Count Three, but, in addition, Count Four included accusations of acts committed in Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia prior to the outbreak of the war and laid stress on the imprisonment and persecution of Jews and political opponents at Dachau, Buchenwald and elsewhere and on general mistreatment and persecution of Jews and other political, racial and religious groups by the Nazis.<sup>13</sup>

JUDICIAL DECISIONS REGARDING INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL LAW

The International Military Tribunals which sat in Nuremberg and Tokyo and which tried the German and Japanese war criminals, dealt extensively with international criminal law and contained important dicta regarding war crimes, crimes against peace, and crimes against humanity as follows:

1. To initiate a war of aggression is not only an international crime; it is the supreme international crime differing only from other war crimes in that it contains within itself the accumulated evil of the whole.
2. It is contrary to military tradition to kill or injure prisoners of war.
3. The territories occupied by Germany were administered in violation of the laws of war. The evidence is overwhelming of systematic rule of violence, brutality and terror.
4. The evidence in this case has established that the territories occupied by Germany were exploited for the German war effort in the most ruthless way, without consideration of the local economy, and in consequence of a deliberate design and policy. There was in truth a systematic "plunder of public or private property," which was criminal under Article 6(b) of the Charter.

5. The ill-treatment or deportation to slave labor or for any other purpose of civilian population of or in occupied territory is a war crime.

The International Military Tribunal of Nuremberg summarized the principles of the law of the charter and the principles of international criminal law as follows:

THE COMMON PLAN OR CONSPIRACY AND AGGRESSIVE WAR

The Tribunal now turns to the consideration of the crimes against peace charged in the Indictment. Count One of the Indictment charges the defendants with conspiring or having a common plan to commit crimes against peace. Count Two of the Indictment charges the defendants with committing specific crimes against peace by planning, preparing, initiating, and waging wars of aggression against a number of other States. It will be convenient to consider the question of the existence of a common plan and the question of aggressive war together, and to deal later in this Judgment with the question of the individual responsibility of the defendants.

The charges in the Indictment that the defendants planned and waged aggressive wars are charges of the utmost gravity. War is essentially an evil thing. Its consequences are not confined to the belligerent states alone, but affect the whole world.

To initiate a war of aggression, therefore, is not only an international crime; it is the supreme international crime differing only from other war crimes in that it contains within itself the accumulated evil of the whole.<sup>14</sup>

The Tribunal stated further on Page 42:

THE LAW AS TO THE COMMON PLAN OR CONSPIRACY

In the previous recital of the facts relating to aggressive war, it is clear that planning and preparation had been carried out in the most systematic way at every stage of the history.

Planning and preparation are essential to the making of war. In the opinion of the Tribunal aggressive war is a crime under international law. The Charter defines this offence as planning, preparation, initiation or waging of a war of aggression "or participation in a common plan or conspiracy for the accomplishment... of the foregoing."<sup>15</sup>

The Tribunal further stated on Pages 44-45:

WAR CRIMES AND CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY

The evidence relating to war crimes has been overwhelming, in its volume and its detail. It is impossible for this Judgment adequately to review it, or to record the mass of documentary and oral evidence that has been presented. The truth remains that war crimes were committed on a vast scale, never before seen in the history of war. They were perpetrated in all the countries occupied by Germany, and on the High Seas, and were attended by every conceivable circumstance of cruelty and horror. There can be no doubt that the majority of them arose from the Nazi conception of "total war," with which the aggressive wars were waged. For in this conception of "total" war, the moral ideas underlying the conventions which seek to make war more humane are no longer regarded as having force or validity. Everything is made subordinate to the overmastering dictates of war. Rules, regulations, assurances and treaties all alike are of no moment; and so, freed from the restraining influence of international law, the aggressive war is conducted by the Nazi leaders in the most barbaric way. Accordingly, war crimes were committed when and wherever the Fuehrer and his close associates thought them to be advantageous. They were for the most part the result of cold and criminal calculation.

On some occasions, war crimes were deliberately planned long in advance. In the case of the Soviet Union, the plunder of the territories to be occupied, and the ill-treatment of the civilian population, were settled in minute detail before the attack was begun. As early as the Autumn of 1940, the invasion of the territories of the Soviet Union was being considered. From that date onwards, the methods to be employed in destroying all possible opposition were continuously under discussion.

Similarly, when planning to exploit the inhabitants of the occupied countries for slave labour on the very greatest scale, the German Government conceived it as an integral part of the war economy, and planned and organized this particular war crime down to the last elaborate detail.

Other war crimes, such as the murder of prisoners of war who had escaped and been recaptured, or the murder of Commandos or captured airmen, or the destruction of the Soviet Commissars, were the result of direct orders circulated through the highest official channels.

The Tribunal proposes, therefore, to deal quite generally with the question of war crimes, and to refer to them later when examining the responsibility of the individual defendants in relation to them. Prisoners of war were ill-treated and tortured and murdered, not only in defiance of the well-established rules of international law, but in complete disregard of the elementary dictates of humanity. Civilian populations in occupied territories suffered the same fate. Whole populations were deported to Germany for the purposes of slave labour upon defence works, armament production and similar tasks connected with the war effort. Hostages were taken in very large numbers from the civilian populations in all the occupied countries, and were shot as suited the German purposes. Public and private property was systematically plundered and pillaged in order to enlarge the resources of Germany at the expense of the rest of Europe. Cities and towns and villages were wantonly destroyed without military justification or necessity.<sup>16</sup>

The Tribunal is of course bound by the Charter, in the definition which it gives both of war crimes and crimes against humanity. With respect to war crimes, however, as has already been pointed out, the crimes defined by Article 6, section (b), of the Charter were already recognized as war crimes under international law. They were covered by Articles 46, 50, 52, and 56 of the Hague Convention of 1907, and Articles 2, 3, 4, 46, and 51 of the Geneva Convention of 1929. That violations of these provisions constituted crimes for which the guilty individuals were punishable is too well settled to admit of argument.<sup>17</sup>

ICTA OF OTHER WAR CRIMES TRIBUNALS

War Crimes tribunals were set up in Germany, Japan, Belgium, France, Holland, Norway, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia, and tried hundreds of persons accused of war crimes.

OFFENCES AGAINST PRISONERS OF WAR

The following acts were held by these Tribunals to be war crimes against prisoners of war:

- The killing of prisoners of war.
- Torturing prisoners of war.
- Denial of fair trials to prisoners of war.
- Denial to prisoners of war of the minimum conditions conducive to life and health.
- Infringement of the religious rights of prisoners of war.

DENATIONALIZATIONS

A category of war crimes recognized by the war crimes courts is that of denationalization. In the Greifelt Trial, the Military Court convicted the accused of the crime of "Forced Germanization." It is worthy of note that the Australian and Netherlands War Crimes Law provide that "attempts to denationalize the inhabitants of occupied territory is a war crime." The Chinese War Crimes law of October, 1946, includes in war crimes "scheming to deprive the inhabitants of occupied territory of their status and rights as nationals of the occupied country."

INVASION OF THE RELIGIOUS RIGHTS OF INHABITANTS OF OCCUPIED TERRITORIES

The invasion of the religious rights of inhabitants of occupied territories has been recognized as an offense under international criminal law. It was pointed out that Article 46 of the Hague Regulations of 1907 provides, "family honor and rights, individual life, and private property, as well as religious convictions and worship must be respected." In the Trial of Willy Zuehlke, the Netherlands Special Court of Cassation held, "This court...is of the opinion that the refusal to allow spiritual assistance to someone under sentence of death does...in itself definitely constitute a crime, both a war crime and a crime against humanity."

OFFENSES AGAINST PROPERTY IN THE OCCUPIED TERRITORIES

In the Flick Trial, the Farben Trial, and the Krupp Trial, the military tribunals held various offenses against private and public properties in the occupied territories to be war crimes. The following are examples:

Pillage, plunder and spoliation, confiscation and requisition of private property.

Depriving the owner from the use of his factory was held to be a war crime.

Destruction of inhabited buildings was held by the permanent tribunal at Dijon to be a war crime. In the Trial of Franz Hostein and 22 others in 1947 the accused were convicted for the war crimes of destroying 12 houses at Dus-Les-Places, 11 houses at Vermont, 7 houses at Crux-la-ville and one house at Vieux-dun.

In many trials held by the French Military Court, the accused were convicted for destruction of public monuments and the seizure, destruction and willful damage to buildings dedicated to public worship, charity or education in accordance with Articles 55 and 56 of the Hague Regulations.

The following are instances of the judgments regarding war crimes, crimes against humanity and crimes against peace which were extracted verbatim from Volume XV of the Law Reports of Trials of War Criminals selected and prepared by the United Nations War Crimes Commission:

WAR CRIMES

OFFENCES AGAINST PRISONERS OF WAR

The killing of prisoners of war without due cause is a clear violation of both customary and conventional international law. Thus, Article 23 of the Hague Convention provides that:

"In addition to the prohibitions provided by special Conventions, it is particularly forbidden —

"(c) To kill or wound an enemy who, having laid down his arms, or no longer having means of defence, has surrendered at discretion."

A great many war crimes trials have involved convictions on charges alleging responsibility for such killings.<sup>18</sup>

A number of war crimes trials have involved the physical ill treatment of prisoners of war:

The Judgment in the High Command Trial also regarded as declaratory of customary law that part of Article 3 of the Geneva Convention which provides: "Prisoners of war are entitled to respect for their persons and honour. Women shall be treated with all consideration due to their sex"; that part of Article 46 which states: "All forms of corporal punishment, confinement in premises not lighted by daylight and, in general, all forms of cruelty whatsoever, are prohibited"; and also the following passage from Article 56: "In no case shall prisoners of war be transferred to penitentiary establishments (prisons, penitentiaries, convict establishments, etc.) in order to undergo disciplinary sentence there."

In other trials the allegations made concerned the denial to prisoners of war of the minimum conditions conducive to life and health whose provision is made compulsory by the Geneva Convention.<sup>19</sup>

In the trial of Tanaka Chuichi and two others by an Australian Military Court, the accused was found guilty of ill-treatment of prisoners of war. Prominent among the evidence against the accused was the fact that they cut off the prisoners' hair and beards and forced a prisoner to smoke. Since the prisoners were Sikhs, such acts were a violation of their religious feelings. In this trial therefore, an infringement of the religious rights of prisoners of war was apparently punished but since the Court did not deliver a reasoned judgment it cannot be stated definitively that such infringements of the religious rights of prisoners of war were regarded as separate punishable war crimes.<sup>20</sup>

OFFENCES AGAINST INHABITANTS OF OCCUPIED TERRITORIES

The protection afforded by international law to inhabitants of occupied territories derives largely from the Regulations attached to the Hague Convention No. IV of 1907 and from the rules of customary law of which these Regulations are a codification. The relevant Articles of the Hague Regulations are Articles 42-56, which fall under the heading: Section III — Military Authority over the Territory of the Hostile State. Of these, Article 50 is quoted on page 179 and Articles 43 and 46 provide as follows:

Article 43:

"The authority of the power of the State having passed de facto into the hands of the occupant, the latter shall do all in his power to restore, and ensure, as far as possible, public order and safety, respecting at the same time, unless absolutely prevented, the laws in force in the country."

Article 46:

"Family honour and rights, individual life, and private property, as well as religious convictions and worship, must be respected. Private property may not be confiscated."

The unwarranted killing of inhabitants of occupied territories is a war crime and has often been made the subject of war crimes proceedings.<sup>21</sup>

The ill-treatment of inhabitants of occupied territories is also a recognized war crime, and there have been many trials in which this offence has been charged.

A special type of ill-treatment which has received attention in Volume VII of these Reports, and which has been the fate of many concentration camp inmates, is subjection to illegal experiments. It may safely be said that subjection to experiments is prima facie ill-treatment and requires justification.<sup>22</sup>

DEPORTATION OF THE INHABITANTS OF OCCUPIED TERRITORY

A further recognized war crime is the deportation of inhabitants of occupied territories. Judge Phillips, in his concurring opinion in the Milch Trial, made some interesting remarks on deportation of civilians as a war crime or crime against humanity, and based his views upon, inter alia, Article 52 of the Hague Regulations and Article II(1) of Control Council Law No. 10. He pointed out that: "International Law has enunciated certain conditions under which the fact of deportation of civilians from one nation to another during times of war becomes a crime."

These conditions he enunciated as follows: "If the transfer is carried out without a legal title, as in the case where people are deported from a country occupied by an invader while the occupied enemy still has an army in the field and is still resisting, the deportation is contrary to international law." The rationale of this rule lies in the supposition that the occupying power has temporarily prevented the rightful sovereign from exercising its power over its citizens. Articles 43, 46, 49, 52, 55 and 56, Hague Regulations, which limit the rights of the belligerent occupant, do not expressly specify as a crime the deportation of civilians from an occupied territory.<sup>23</sup>

The judgment of the Tribunal stated further:

Article II (1) of Control Council Law No. 10 specifies certain crimes against humanity. Among those is listed the deportation of any civilian population. The general language of this subsection as applied to deportation indicates that Control Council Law No. 10 has unconditionally contended as a crime against humanity every instance of the deportation of civilians. Article II (1) (c) states that the enslavement of any civilian population is a crime against humanity. Thus Law No. 10 treats as separate crimes and different types of crime "deportation of slave labour" and "enslavement." The Tribunal holds that the deportation, the transportation, the retention, the unlawful use and the inhumane treatment of civilian populations by an occupying Power are crimes against humanity.

This statement was adopted by the Military Tribunal which conducted the Krupp Trial.<sup>24</sup>

ILLEGAL DETENTION OF CIVILIANS IS A WAR CRIME

Under the Australian and Chinese war crime laws, to mention two that refer to wrongful internment of civilians specifically, it is internment "under inhuman conditions" that is described as a war crime. While false imprisonment alone seems to have been comparatively rarely charged, there seems to be no reason for not regarding it as illegal under some conditions merely to imprison civilians from occupied territories. The opinion of the Tribunal which conducted the Justice Trial declared the taking away of "Nacht und Nebel" prisoners to be illegal, but as the Tribunal pointed out, the "Nacht und Nebel" scheme involved deportation, internment under inhuman conditions, torture and starvation, in addition to the inhumane treatment of friends and relatives.

A Netherlands provision declaring criminal "indiscriminate mass arrest," was enforced in the trial of Shigeki Motomura and others at Macassar while the following French provision, Article 341 of the Code Penal, was enforced in several French trials, including the Wagner Trial:

"Those who, without order of the proper authorities and excepting cases in which the law prescribes the seizure of accused persons, arrest, detain or restrain any persons, shall be punished with a term of hard labour."

Illegal detention, as such, was punished by Netherlands courts in the Rauter and Zuehlke Trials.<sup>25</sup>

THE CRIME OF GENOCIDE IN POST-WORLD WAR II TRIBUNALS

The crime of genocide has received a detailed treatment in the notes to the Greifelt Trial, held before a United States Military Tribunal, and to the Goeth and Hoess Trials, held before the Polish Supreme National Tribunal.

The Judgment of the Tribunals which conducted these trials did not in fact use the term "genocide" (the United States and Polish Prosecutions, however, did so) but the term has received judicial recognition from the Tribunal which conducted the Justice Trial, in whose judgment it is used to signify a type of crime against humanity which may be committed either by enemy nationals against enemy nationals or by enemy nationals against Allied nationals. The Tribunal quoted with approval a resolution of the United Nations General Assembly which defined genocide as "a denial of the right of existence of entire human groups as homicide is a denial of the right to live of individual human beings." In its judgment in the Greiser Trial, the Supreme National Tribunal of Poland stated in a summary way that certain groups of crimes had been committed against the Polish population, including the following of which the words italicized are of particular significance in this connection.

(a) Illegal creation of an exceptional legal status for the Poles in respect of their rights of property, employment, education, use of their national language, and in respect of the special penal code enforced against them;

(b) Repression, genocidal in character, of the religion of the local population by mass murder and incarceration in concentration camps of Polish priests, including bishops; by restriction of religious practices to the minimum; and by destruction of churches, cemeteries, and the property of the Church;

(c) Equally Genocidal attacks on Polish culture and learning;

(f) Debasement of the dignity of the nation (degradation of the Poles to citizens of a lower class, Schutzbefohlene, in accordance with the distinction drawn between German "masters" and Polish "servants");

"The accused," said the Tribunal, "ordered, countenanced and facilitated, as is shown by the evidence, criminal attempts on the life, health and property of thousands of Polish inhabitants of the 'occupied' part of Poland in question, and at the same time was concerned in bringing about in that territory the general totalitarian genocidal attack on the rights of the small and medium nations to exist, and to have an identity and culture of their own."

A category of war crime which is older established, in the matter of recognition as such, than genocide, although apparently narrower in scope, is that of denationalization, and here some of the findings of the Tribunal in the Greifelt Trial are of interest. Apart from finding various accused guilty of crimes such as forced evacuation, plunder of property and enslavement, which are dealt with as war crimes elsewhere in this volume, and of such offences as kidnapping and forced abortion which as unjustifiable invasions of personal integrity were clearly war crimes, the Tribunal found certain of the accused guilty of a separate crime of "forced Germanization." The substance of what the Tribunal regarded as constituting this offence may be judged from a study of a summary of the relevant evidence which was derived from the judgment of the Tribunal.

It may be added that under the Australian and Netherlands war crimes Law the expression "war crime" includes "attempts to denationalize the inhabitants of occupied territory," and that Article III of the Chinese war crimes Law of 24th October, 1946, includes within the definition of "war crime,"

"scheming to enslave the inhabitants of occupied territory or to deprive them of their status and rights as nationals of the occupied country." In a sense the entire paragraph 3 of Article II of the Chinese law is relevant here:

"Article II. A person who commits an offence which falls under any one of the following categories shall be considered a war criminal...."<sup>26</sup>

VIOLATION OF RELIGIOUS RIGHTS

Some recognition has been given to invasion of the religious rights of inhabitants of occupied territories as an offence under international criminal law. In the trial of Willy Zuehlke, the Netherlands Special Court of Cassation held that "This Court... is of the opinion that the refusal to allow spiritual assistance to someone under sentence of death does... in itself definitely constitute a crime, both a war crime and a crime against humanity."<sup>27</sup>

OFFENCES AGAINST PROPERTY

On offences against property in occupied territories the principal judicial authorities are those treated in Volumes IX and X of these Reports, which include the Flick, I.G. Farben and Krupp Trials. The main conclusions derived from a study of the reports contained in these two volumes are briefly the following:

(a) In the numerous attempts which have been made at defining the precise limits of the war crime of pillage, plunder or spoliation, stress has been placed on one or both of the following two possible aspects of the offence:

(i) that private property rights were infringed;

(ii) that the ultimate outcome of the alleged offences was that the economy of the occupied territory was injured and/or that of the occupying State benefited.

"In so far as private property is concerned it seems sounder to base a definition of a war crime involved upon the first aspect, namely the infringement of the property rights of individual inhabitants of the occupied territory. The gist of the matter appears in the words which occur in the Krupp Judgment:

"Article 46 (of the Hague Regulations) stipulates that 'private property... must be respected.' However, if for example, a factory is being taken over in a manner which prevents the rightful owner from using it and depriving him from lawfully exercising his prerogative as owner, it cannot be said that his property 'is respected' under Article 46 as it must be."

It would appear that, at least in the view of the Tribunals which conducted the Flick Trial, and the I.G. Farben Trial, that a sufficient infringement of private property rights has been proved to bring the offence within the terms of the Hague Regulation. The Tribunal added that the provisions of the Hague Convention regarding private property "relate to plunder, confiscation, and requisition which, in turn, imply action in relation to property committed against the will and without the consent of the owner. We look in vain for any provision in the Hague Regulations which would justify the broad assertion that private citizens of the nation of the military occupant may not enter into agreements respecting property in occupied territories when consent of the owner, is, in fact, freely given."

In the Krupp Trial Judgment, it may be thought that rather more stress was placed on the second possible approach to war crimes committed against property rights. Here it was stated that "just as the inhabitants of the occupied territory must not be forced to help the enemy in waging the war against their own country or their own country's allies, so must the economic assets of the occupied territory not be used in such a manner." The Tribunal added later:

"Spoliation of private property, then, is forbidden under two aspects; firstly, the individual private owner of property must not be deprived of it; secondly, the economic substance of the belligerently occupied territory must not be taken over by the occupant or put to the service of his war effort — always with the proviso that there are exemptions from this rule which are strictly limited to the needs of the army of occupation in so far as such needs do not exceed the economic strength of the occupied territory."<sup>28</sup>

The Krupp Trial Judgment, moreover, laid down that the laws and usages of war do not authorize "the taking away by a military occupant of live stock for the maintenance of his own industries at home or for the support of the civil population of his country"; moreover the requisitions and services contemplated by Article 52 "must refer to the needs of the Army of Occupation," whereas "it has never been contended that the Krupp firm belonged to the Army of Occupation."

The rules of international law regarding illegal requisitioning of private property, which were crystallized in Article 52 of the Hague Regulations, were applied by a French Military Tribunal in the Trial of Philippe Rust; the accused was found guilty of having requisitioned vehicles (and men) without paying or delivering receipts in lieu of immediate payment.

Property offences recognized by modern international law are not, however, limited to offences against physical tangible possessions or to open robbery in the old sense of pillage, but include the acquisition of intangible property and the securing of ownership, use or control of all kinds of property by many ways other than by open violence.

It has been said that proof that consent was "obtained by threats, intimidation, pressure or by exploiting the position and power of the military occupant under circumstances indicating that the owner is being induced to part with his property against his will" would make a transfer illegal under international law. The possible means of coercion were further elaborated in the I.G. Farben Judgment when it was said that in the many instances "in which Farben dealt directly with the private owners, there was the ever present threat of forceful seizure of the property by the Reich or other similar measures, such, for example, as withholding licences, raw materials, the threat of uncertain drastic treatment in peace-treaty negotiations or other effective means of bending the will of the owners. The power of the military occupant was the ever present threat in these transactions, and was clearly an important, if not a decisive factor."

If property has been acquired without the consent of the owner, the proof of having paid consideration is no defence.

Neither will the fact that the reality of a transaction was hidden behind a pseudo legal facade afford a defence.

One French trial reported in Volume VIII and two in Volume IX dealt with wanton destruction of inhabited buildings and the theft of personal property, offences which are war crimes of the more traditional type.

If wrongful interference with property rights has been shown, it is not necessary to prove that the alleged wrongdoer was involved in the original wrongful appropriation.

In dealing with public property, the United States Military Tribunals have relied upon Article 55 of the Hague Regulations according to which the occupying power has only a right of usufruct over such property, and that only for the duration of the occupation.

Other offences. An examination of the French, Australian, Polish, Netherlands and Chinese Laws on war crimes will reveal that they not only provide against a number of offences whose punishment has been illustrated by trials reported in these volumes, but also define certain crimes which have not been charged before the courts in trials so reported, including some not mentioned elsewhere in this present volume. It has not been thought necessary to quote here all of the provisions relating to offences of the latter type, since the texts may be examined in full in the earlier volumes, but it may be added that they include usurpation of sovereignty during military occupation, which is declared a crime by the Australian, Netherlands, and Chinese laws.<sup>29</sup>

CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY

The commission of crimes against humanity has been charged in a number of trials reported upon in these volumes and in this sphere the United States Military Tribunals have applied Article II, paragraph 1, of Control Council Law No. 10 which provides that:

"Each of the following acts is recognized as a crime:

(c) Crimes against Humanity: Atrocities and offences, including but not limited to murder, extermination, enslavement, deportation, imprisonment, torture, rape, or other inhumane acts committed against any civilian population, or persecutions on political, racial or religious grounds, whether or not in violation of the domestic laws of the country where perpetrated."

Of the trials referred to above the most important from the point of view of the definition of the scope of the concept of crimes against humanity have been the Justice Trial and the Flick Trial. The law laid down in these trials and in some others reported upon may be summarized as follows:

(i) In the first place it is clear that war crimes may also constitute crimes against humanity; the same offences may amount to both types of crime. If war crimes are shown to have been committed in a widespread, systematic manner, on political, racial or religious grounds, they may amount also to crimes against humanity.

(ii) On the other hand, not all types of acts which could constitute war crimes could also constitute crimes against humanity, and the dividing line between the acts which could constitute both and acts which, in their nature, could only be war crimes is not always easy to draw, in the absence of relevant judicial pronouncements covering certain types of offences. That crimes against humanity are not limited to offenses against inhabitants of occupied territories is shown by a pronouncement made in the Judgment delivered in the High Command Trial, that the plan of the German Government "to inspire the German population to murder Allied fliers by lynch law or mob justice" was a crime against humanity.

The Judgment in the Flick Trial declared that "a distinction could be made between industrial property and the dwellings, household furnishings, and food supplies of a persecuted people," and thus left open the question whether such offences against personal property as would amount to an assault upon the health and life of a human being (such as the burning of his house or depriving him of his food supply or his paid employment) would not constitute a crime against humanity. Certain passages from the Judgment of the Nuremberg International Military Tribunal treating certain offences against property as crimes against humanity could refer to acts of economic deprivation of this more personal type.<sup>30</sup>

CRIMES AGAINST PEACE

The following paragraphs attempt to analyse the law relating to crimes against peace (including in the meaning of that term "planning, preparation, initiation or waging a war of aggression" and "participating in a common plan or conspiracy for the accomplishment of any of the foregoing," to use the language of Article II 1 (a) of Law No. 10 as that law has been developed in the trials by United States military Tribunals in Nuremberg which were bound by Law No. 10. The Polish and Chinese decisions are next referred to, and finally some remarks regarding the legal effects of the fact that a crime against peace has been committed are set out.

Deeming it necessary "to give a brief consideration to the nature and characteristics of war," the Tribunal which conducted the High Command Trial said:

"We need not attempt a definition that is all inclusive and all exclusive. It is sufficient to say that war is the exerting of violence by one state or politically organized body against another. In other words, it is the implementation of a political policy by means of violence. Wars are contests by force between political units but the policy that brings about their initiation is made and the actual waging of them is done by individuals. What we have said thus far is equally as applicable to a just as to an unjust war, to the initiation of an aggressive and, therefore, criminal war as to the waging of defensive and, therefore, legitimate war against criminal aggression. The point we stress is that war activity is the implementation of a predetermined national policy.

"Likewise, an invasion of one state by another is the implementation of the national policy of the invading state by force even though the invaded state, due to fear or a sense of the futility of resistance in the face of superior force, adopts a policy of non-resistance and thus prevents the occurrence of any actual combat....

"The initiation of war or an invasion is a unilateral operation. When war is formally declared or the first shot is fired the initiation of the war has ended and from then on there is a waging of war between the two adversaries."

The characteristics of illegal warfare are left rather undefined:

"Whether a war be lawful or aggressive and therefore unlawful under international law, is and can be determined only from a consideration of the factors that entered into its initiation. In the intent and purpose for which it is planned, prepared, initiated and waged is to be found its lawfulness or unlawfulness...

"By the Kellogg-Briand Pact the sixth-three signatory nations including Germany, renounced war as an instrument of National Policy. If this, as we believe it is, is evidence of a sufficient crystallization of world opinion to authorize a judicial finding that there exist Crimes against Peace under International Common Law, we cannot find that law to extend further than such evidence indicates. The nations that entered into the Kellogg-Briand Pact considered it imperative that existing international relationships should not be changed by force. In the preamble they state that they are:

"...persuaded that the time has come when... all changes in their relationships with one another should be sought only by pacific means."

"This is a declaration that from that time forward each of the signatory nations should be deemed to possess and to have the right to exercise all the privileges and powers of a sovereign nation within the limitations of International Law, free from all interference by force on the part of any other nation. As a corollary to this, the changing or attempting to change the international relationships by force of arms is an act of aggression and if the aggression results in war, the war is an aggressive war. It is, therefore, aggressive war that is renounced by the pact. It is aggressive war that is criminal under International Law.

"The crime denounced by the law is the use of war as an instrument of national policy."

Elsewhere the Tribunal acting in the High Command Trial quoted the section of the Judgment of the Nuremberg International Military Tribunal which is headed "Violations of International Treaties". Here the latter court, having pointed out that "The Charter defines as a crime the planning or waging of war that is a war of aggression or a war in violation of international treaties," refers to violations by Germany of the most important of these treaties that were in fact broken by that State.

The Judgment of the Tokyo International Military Tribunal recognizes five separate crimes as crimes against peace:

"Under the heading of 'Crimes against Peace' the Charter names five separate crimes. These are planning, preparation, initiation and waging aggressive war or a war in violation of international law, treaties, agreements, or assurances; to these four is added the further crime of participation in a common plan or conspiracy for the accomplishment of any of the foregoing. The indictment was based upon the Charter and all the above crimes were charged in addition to further charges founded upon other provisions of the Charter."<sup>31</sup>

The Tribune added, however:

"A conspiracy to wage aggressive or unlawful war arises when two or more persons enter into an agreement to commit that crime. Thereafter, in furtherance of the conspiracy, follows planning and preparing for such war. Those who participate at this stage may be either original conspirators or later adherents. If the latter adopts the purpose of the conspiracy and plan and prepare for its fulfilment, they become conspirators."

The requisite knowledge must be of plans for specific invasions or wars of aggression:

"The International Military Tribunal required proof that each defendant had actual knowledge of the plans for at least one of the invasions or wars of aggression, in order to find him guilty."

Judge Anderson emphasized that:

"The requisite knowledge, I think, can be shown either by direct or circumstantial evidence but in any case it must be knowledge of facts and circumstances which would enable the particular individual to determine not only that there was a concrete plan to initiate and wage war, but that the contemplated conflict would be a war of aggression and hence criminal. Such knowledge being shown, it must be further established that the accused participated in the plan with the felonious intent to aid in the accomplishment of the criminal objective. In the individual crime of aggressive war or conspiracy to that end as contradistinguished to the international delinquency of a state in resorting to hostilities, the individual intention is of major importance."

Judge Wilkins also stressed that the requisite knowledge must include knowledge that the envisaged warfare would be criminal in character:

"To establish the requisite criminal intent, it seems necessary to show knowledge that the military power would be used in a manner which, in the words of Kellogg Pact, includes war as an 'instrument of policy.'"<sup>32</sup>

THE CRIME OF GENOCIDE

On the 11th day of December, 1946, the United Nations General Assembly in its first session adopted resolution 96 (I), in which it declared that genocide is a crime under international law. The said resolution states:

Genocide is a denial of the right of existence of entire human groups, as homicide is the denial of the right of individual human beings; such denial of the right of existence shocks the conscience of mankind, results in great losses to humanity in the form of cultural and other contributions represented by these human groups, and is contrary to moral law and to the spirit and aims of the United Nations.

Many instances of such crimes of genocide have occurred when racial, religious, political and other groups have been destroyed, entirely or in part.

The punishment of the crime of genocide is a matter of international concern.

The General Assembly, therefore,

Affirms that genocide is a crime under international law which the civilized world condemns, and for the commission of which principals and accomplices — whether private individuals, public officials or statesmen, and whether the crime is committed on religious, racial, political or any other grounds — are punishable;

Invites the Member States to enact the necessary legislation for the prevention and punishment of this crime;

Recommends that international co-operation be organized between States with a view to facilitating the speedy prevention and punishment of the crime of genocide, and, to this end,

Requests the Economic and Social Council to undertake the necessary studies, with a view to drawing up a draft convention on the crime of genocide to be submitted to the next regular session of the General Assembly.

Pursuant to the above resolution, a United Nations Ad Hoc Committee on Genocide was established by the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC Res. 117(VI)). The Ad Hoc Committee, in turn, was entrusted with the preparation of a draft convention on the Crime of Genocide, and such a draft was prepared by it in 1948. The Economic and Social Council transmitted the draft to the Third Session of the General Assembly (ECOSOC res. 153 (VII)).

Following consideration of the draft text in the Legal Committee (Sixth Committee) of the General Assembly in 1948, the Assembly by Resolution 260A(III) unanimously approved the text of a Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide and proposed it for signature and ratification or accession. The scope of the Convention is not limited to crimes of the nature described committed during war. Its preamble and substantive articles read:

The Contracting Parties,

Having considered the declaration made by the General Assembly of the United Nations in its resolution 96(I) dated 11th December, 1946, that genocide is a crime under international law, contrary to the spirit and aims of the United Nations and condemned by the civilized world;

Recognizing that at all periods of history genocide has inflicted great losses on humanity; and

Being convinced that, in order to liberate mankind from such an odious scourge, international co-operation is required,

Hereby agree as hereinafter provided:

ARTICLE I

The Contracting Parties confirm that genocide, whether committed in time of peace or in time of war, is a crime under international law which they undertake to prevent and to punish.

ARTICLE II

In the present Convention, genocide means any of the following acts committed with intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnical, racial or religious group, as such:

Killing members of the group;

Causing serious bodily or mental harm to members of the group;

Deliberately inflicting on the group conditions of life calculated to bring about its physical destruction in whole or in part;

Imposing measures intended to prevent births within the group.

ARTICLE III

The following acts shall be punishable:

Genocide;

Conspiracy to commit genocide;

Direct and public incitement to commit genocide;

Attempt to commit genocide;

Complicity in genocide.

ARTICLE IV

Persons committing genocide or any of the other acts enumerated in Article III shall be punished, whether they are constitutionally responsible rulers, public officials or private individuals.

ARTICLE VIII

Any Contracting Party may call upon the competent organs of the United Nations to take such action under the Charter of the United Nations as they consider appropriate for the prevention and suppression of acts of genocide or any of the other acts enumerated in Article III.

THE INTERNATIONAL BILL OF HUMAN RIGHTS

In the preamble of the United Nations Charter, the United Nations have expressed their determination, "to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, and in the equal rights of men and women." Article I of the Charter states that one of the purposes of the United Nations is the "promoting and encouraging respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion."

The United Nations General Assembly, in Article 13 of the Charter, is enjoined "to initiate studies and make recommendations for the purpose of the realization of human rights and fundamental freedoms." Article 15 of the Charter states that the United Nations "shall promote universal respect for, and observance of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all." Article 56 states "all members pledge themselves to take joint action in cooperation with the Organization for the achievement of the purposes set in Article 55." The Economic and Social Council was enjoined by Article 68 to set up a Commission for the promotion of human rights.

The Commission on Human Rights was established in 1946 and was able to draft The Universal Declaration of Human Rights in 1947, which was adopted by the General Assembly on the 10th day of December, 1948. The thirty Articles of the Declaration set forth the basic right and fundamental freedoms to which all men and women everywhere in the world are entitled to without any discrimination.

PROMOTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN THE UNITED NATIONS

The Economic and Social Council authorized the Commission on Human Rights to establish a sub-commission on the protection of minorities and a sub-commission on the Prevention of Discrimination and other sub-commissions. The General Assembly instructed the Economic and Social Council to widen the scope of studies to include the right of peoples to self-determination and economic, social, cultural and political rights. On December 14, 1960, the General Assembly adopted a Resolution entitled "Declaration on the granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples." It proclaimed "the necessity of bringing a speedy and unconditional end of Colonialism in all its forms and manifestations." The operative paragraphs declare that:

1. The subjection of peoples to alien subjugation, domination and exploitation constitutes a denial of fundamental human rights, is contrary to the Charter of the United Nations and is an impediment to the promotion of world peace and cooperation.

2. All peoples have the right to self-determination, by virtue of that right they freely determine their political status and freely pursue their economic, social and cultural development.

4. All armed action or repressive measures of all kinds directed against dependent peoples shall cease in order to enable them to exercise peacefully and freely their right to complete independence, and the integrity of their national territory shall be respected.

6. Any attempt aimed at partial or total disruption of the National unity and the territorial integrity of a country is incompatible with the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations.

The General Assembly, on November 20, 1963, adopted the United Nations Declaration on the Elimination of all Forms of Racial Discrimination. In 1964, it adopted the Draft Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Racial Discrimination. The General Assembly on the 16th day of December, 1966, by Resolution 2200A(XXI), adopted and opened for signature, ratification and accession The International Covenant of Civil and Political Rights. Eighty-three members of the United Nations have already made declarations ratifying this Covenant. (Up to the present day Israel has not ratified this covenant.)<sup>33</sup>

The following is an abstract of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights:

Part 1, Article I (1) states: "All peoples have the right of self-determination. By virtue of that right they freely determine their political status and freely pursue their economic, social and cultural development."

Part 3, Article 9 (1) states: "Everyone has the right to liberty and security of person. No one shall be subjected to arbitrary arrest or detention. No one shall be deprived of his liberty except on such grounds and in accordance with such procedure as are established by law."

Part 3, Article 12 (4) states: "No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of the right to enter his own country."

VIOLATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IS A CRIME AGAINST HUMANITY

The aforementioned provisions of the United Nations Charter constitute legal obligations of United Nations members and the World Organization as a whole to promote respect for Human Rights, and therefore, they are legal rights of the individual recognized by international law and must be protected and not violated.

On December 13, 1966, the United Nations General Assembly adopted Resolution 2184(XXI) which condemned "as a crime against humanity the policy of the Government of Portugal which violates the Economic and Political Rights of the indigenous population by the settlement of foreign immigrants in the Territories and by the exporting of African workers to South Africa," and "further condemns the activities of the financial interests operating in the Territories under Portuguese domination which exploit the human and material resources of the Territories and impede the progress of their people towards freedom and independence."

In 1968, the Commission on Human Rights adopted a resolution in which it inter alia reaffirmed "that the practice of apartheid is a crime against humanity."

The International Law Commission in its report to the General Assembly on 5 May-11 July, 1986 (10 A/41/10) attempted to define crimes against humanity. It states:

All writers, all resolutions, all judicial decisions agree that what characterizes a crime against humanity is the motive, that is, the intention to harm a person or group of persons because of race, nationality, religion or political opinions. The Charter of the Nuremberg Tribunal, the Charter of the International Military Tribunal for the Far East and Law No. 10 of the Allied Control Council all emphasize this aspect....

Some members of the Commission indicated that the draft Code should expressly and specifically condemn, as a crime against humanity, any acts committed, with or without support from abroad, in order to subject a people to a regime not in keeping with the right of peoples to self-determination and to deprive such people of human rights and fundamental freedoms.

THE GENEVA CONVENTION OF 1949

(United Nations Treaty Series Volume 75 (1950) Nos. 970-973). In 1949, the International Committee of the Red Cross called for an international conference to develop, revise and reform the International Law of Belligerent Occupation. The Conference was held at Geneva from April 21 to August 12, 1949. It was attended by representatives of sixty-three states and by many observers of International Organizations. The Conference adopted four conventions relating to the following:

1. The Treatment of Prisoners of War;
2. The Amelioration of the condition of the wounded and sick in Armed Forces in the field;
3. The Amelioration of the condition of the wounded, sick and shipwrecked members of Armed Forces at sea;
4. The protection of civilian persons in time of war.

At the close of the Conference, the Four conventions were signed by the representatives of sixty-one States.

The Fourth Geneva Convention for the protection of civilian persons in time of war contained many articles prohibiting the military occupier of a country from illegal practices against the civilian population. The following are a selection of these articles:

ARTICLE 27

Protected persons are entitled, in all circumstances, to respect for their persons, their honour, their family rights, their religious convictions and practices, and their manners and customs. They shall at all times be humanely treated, and shall be protected especially against all acts of violence or threats thereof and against insults and public curiosity.

Women shall be especially protected against any attack on their honour, in particular against rape, enforced prostitution, or any form of indecent assault.

ARTICLE 30

Apart from the visits of the delegates of the Protecting Powers and of the International Committee of the Red Cross, provided for by Article 143, the Detaining of Occupying Powers shall facilitate as much as possible visits to protect persons by the representatives of other organizations whose object is to give spiritual aid or material relief to such persons.

ARTICLE 31

The High Contracting Parties specifically agree that each of them is prohibited from taking any measure of such a character as to cause the physical suffering or extermination of protected persons in their hands. This prohibition applies not only to murder, torture, corporal punishments, mutilation and medical or scientific experiments not necessitated by the medical treatment of a protected person, but also to any other measures of brutality whether applied by civilian or military agents.

ARTICLE 32

No protected person may be punished for an offence he or she has not personally committed. Collective penalties and likewise all measures of intimidation or of terrorism are prohibited.

Pillage is prohibited.

Reprisals against protected persons and their property are prohibited.

ARTICLE 47

Protected persons who are in occupied territory shall not be deprived, in any case or in any manner whatsoever, of the benefits of the present Convention by any change introduced, as the result of the occupation of a territory, into the institutions or government of the said territory, nor by any agreement concluded between the authorities of the occupied territories and the Occupying Power, nor by any annexation by the latter of the whole or part of the occupied territory.

ARTICLE 49

Individual or mass forcible transfers, as well as deportations of protected persons from occupied territory to the territory of the Occupying Power or to that of any other country, occupied or not, are prohibited, regardless of their motive.

Nevertheless, the Occupying Power may undertake total or partial evacuation of a given area if the security of the population or imperative military reasons so demand. Such evacuations may not involve the displacement of protected persons outside the bounds of the occupied territory except when for material reasons it is impossible to avoid such displacement. Persons thus evacuated shall be transferred back to their homes as soon as hostilities in the area in question have ceased.

The Occupying Power undertaking such transfers or evacuations shall ensure, to the greatest practicable extent, that proper accommodation is provided to receive the protected persons, that the removals are effected in satisfactory conditions of hygiene, health, safety and nutrition, and that members of the same family are not separated.

The Protecting Power shall be informed of any transfers and evacuations as soon as they have taken place.

The Occupying Power shall not detain protected persons in an area particularly exposed to the dangers of war unless the security of the population or imperative military reasons so demand.

The Occupying Power shall not deport or transfer part of its own civilian population into the territory it occupies.

ARTICLE 51

The Occupying Power may not compel protected persons to serve in its armed or auxiliary forces. No pressure or propaganda which aims at securing voluntary enlistment is permitted.

The Occupying Power may not compel protected persons to work unless they are over eighteen years of age, and then only on work which is necessary either for the needs of the army of occupation, or for the public utility services, or for the feeding, sheltering, clothing, transportation or health of the population of the occupied country. Protected persons may not be compelled to undertake any work which would involve them in the obligation of taking part in military operations. The Occupying Power may not compel protected persons to employ forcible means to ensure the security of the installations where they are performing compulsory labour.

The work shall be carried out only in the occupied territory where the persons whose services have been requisitioned are. Every such person shall, so far as possible, be kept in his usual place of employment. Workers shall be paid a fair wage and the work shall be proportionate to their physical and intellectual capacities. The legislation in force in the occupied country concerning working conditions, and safeguards as regards, in particular, such matters as wages, hours of work, equipment, preliminary training and compensation for occupational accidents and diseases, shall be applicable to the protected persons assigned to the work referred to in this Article.

In no case shall requisition of labour lead to a mobilization of workers in an organization of a military or semi-military character.

ARTICLE 52

No contract, agreement or regulation shall impair the right of any worker, whether voluntary or not and wherever he may be, to apply to the representatives of the Protecting Power in order to request the said Power's intervention.

All measures aiming at creating unemployment or at restricting the opportunities offered to workers in an occupied territory, in order to induce them to work for the Occupying Power, are prohibited.

ARTICLE 53

Any destruction by the Occupying Power of real or personal property belonging individually or collectively to private persons, or to the State, or to other public authorities, or to social or cooperative organizations, is prohibited, except where such destruction is rendered absolutely necessary by military operations.

ARTICLE 54

The Occupying Power may not alter the status of public officials or judges in the occupied territories, or in any way apply sanctions to or take measures of coercion or discrimination against them, should they abstain from fulfilling their functions for reasons of conscience.

ARTICLE 56

To the fullest extent of the means available to it, the Occupying Power has the duty of ensuring and maintaining, with the cooperation of national and local authorities, the medical and hospital establishments and services, public health and hygiene in the occupied territory, with particular reference to the adoption and application of the prophylactic and preventive measures necessary to combat the spread of contagious diseases and epidemics. Medical personnel of all categories shall be allowed to carry out their duties.

ARTICLE 66

In case of a breach of the penal provisions promulgated by it by virtue of the second paragraph of Article 64, the Occupying Power may hand over the accused to its properly constituted, non-political military courts, on condition that the said courts sit in the occupied country. Courts of appeal shall preferably sit in the occupied country.

ARTICLE 68

Protected persons who commit an offence which is solely intended to harm the Occupying Power, but which does not constitute an attempt on the life or limb of members of the occupying forces or administration, nor a grave collective danger, nor seriously damage the property of the occupying forces or administration or the installations used by them, shall be liable to internment or simple imprisonment, provided the duration of such internment or imprisonment is proportionate to the offence committed. Furthermore, internment or imprisonment shall, for such offences, be the only measure adopted for depriving protected persons of liberty. The Courts provided for under Article 66 of the present Convention may at their discretion convert a sentence of imprisonment to one of internment for the same period.

ARTICLE 76

Protected persons accused of offences shall be detained in the occupied country, and if convicted they shall serve their sentences therein. They shall, if possible, be separated from other detainees and shall enjoy conditions of food and hygiene which will be sufficient to keep them in good health, and which will be at least equal to those obtaining in prisons in the occupied country.

They shall receive the medical attention required by their state of health.

They shall also have the right to receive any spiritual assistance which they may require.

Women shall be confined in separate quarters and shall be under direct supervision of women.

Proper regard shall be paid to the special treatment due to minors.

Protected persons who are detained shall have the right to be visited by delegates of the Protecting Power and of the International Committee of the Red Cross, in accordance with the provisions of Article 143.

Such persons shall have the right to receive at least one relief parcel monthly.

The United States ratified the 1949 Geneva Convention and it came into force for the United States from the 2nd day of February, 1956. Thereafter, the United States incorporated the provisions of these conventions, together with the 1907 Hague Convention and 1929 Geneva Convention relative to the treatment of prisoners of war, into the Law of Land Warfare, a manual issued by the Department of the Army in July, 1956. This manual contains a summary of the Customary Law of War to which all states are subject.

The following sections extracted from the said manual summarizes the Law of Belligerent Occupation:<sup>34</sup>

SECTION 351: MILITARY OCCUPATION

Territory is considered occupied when it is actually placed under the authority of the hostile army.

The occupation extends only to the territory where such authority has been established and can be exercised.

SECTION 353: SUBJUGATION OR CONQUEST DISTINGUISHED

Belligerent occupation in a foreign war, being based upon the possession of enemy territory, necessarily implies that the sovereignty of the occupied territory is not vested in the occupying power. Occupation is essentially provisional.

SECTION 358: OCCUPATION DOES NOT TRANSFER SOVEREIGNTY

Being an incident of war, military occupation confers upon the invading force the means of exercising control for the period of occupation. It does not transfer the sovereignty to the occupant, but simply the authority or power to exercise some of the rights of sovereignty. The exercise of these rights results from the established power of the occupant and from the necessity of maintaining law and order, indispensable both to the inhabitants and to the occupying force.

It is therefore unlawful for a belligerent occupant to annex occupied territory or to create a new State therein while hostilities are still in progress.

SECTION 359: OATH OF ALLEGIANCE FORBIDDEN

Protected persons who are in occupied territory shall not be deprived, in any case or in any manner whatsoever, of the benefits of the present Convention by any change introduced, as the result of the occupation of a territory, into the institutions or government of the said territory, nor by any agreement concluded between the authorities of the occupied territories and the Occupying Power, nor by any annexation by the latter of the whole or part of the occupied territory.

SECTION 369: LOCAL LAW AND NEW LEGISLATION

The penal laws of the occupied territory shall remain in force, with the exception that they may be repealed or suspended by the Occupying Power in cases where they constitute a threat to its security or an obstacle to the application of the present Convention. Subject to the latter consideration and to the necessity for ensuring the effective administration of justice, the tribunals of the occupied territory shall continue to function in respect of all offences covered by the said laws.

The Occupying Power may, however, subject the population of the occupied territory to provisions which are essential to enable the Occupying Power to fulfil its obligation under the present Convention, to maintain the orderly government of the territory, and to ensure the security of the Occupying Power, of the members and property of the occupying forces or administration, and likewise of the establishments and lines of communications used by them.

SECTION 372: PROHIBITION AS TO RIGHTS AND RIGHTS OF ACTION

It is especially forbidden to declare abolished, suspended, or inadmissible in a court of law the rights and actions of the nationals of the hostile party.

SECTION 380: RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS

Family honour and rights, the lives of persons, and private property, as well as religious convictions and practice, must be respected.

SECTION 382: DEPORTATIONS, TRANSFERS, EVACUATIONS

Individual or mass forcible transfers, as well as deportations of protected persons from occupied territory to the territory of the Occupying Power or to that of any other country, occupied or not, are prohibited, regardless of their motive.

"The Occupying Power shall not detain protected persons in an area particularly exposed to the dangers of war unless the security of the population or imperative military reason so demand.

The Occupying Power shall not deport or transfer parts of its own civilian population into the territory it occupies.

SECTION 393: DESTRUCTION AND SEIZURE OF PROPERTY

(a) Prohibition

It is especially forbidden to destroy or seize the enemy's property, unless such destruction or seizure be imperatively demanded by the necessities of war.

(b) Occupying Power

Any destruction by the Occupying Power of real or personal property belonging individually or collectively to private persons, or to the State, or to other public authorities, or to social or cooperative organizations, is prohibited, except where such destruction is rendered absolutely necessary by military operations.

SECTION 397: PILLAGE

(a) Treaty provision

Pillage is formally forbidden.

SECTION 399: PROPERTY CONTROL

Property within occupied territory may be controlled by the occupant to the degree necessary to prevent its use by or for the benefit of the hostile forces or in a manner harmful to the occupant. Conservators may be appointed to manage the property of absent persons (including nationals of the United States and of friendly States) and of internees, property managed by such persons, and property of persons whose activities are deemed to be prejudicial to the occupant. However, when the owners or managers of such property are again able to resume control of their property and the risk of its hostile use no longer exists, it must be returned to them.

Measures of property control must not extend to confiscation. However, the authority of the occupant to impose such controls does not limit its power to seize or requisition property or take such other action with respect to it as may be authorized by other provisions of law.

SECTION 400: REAL PROPERTY OF A STATE

The occupying State shall be regarded only as administrator and usufructuary of public buildings, real estate, forests, and agricultural estates belonging to the hostile State, and situated in the occupied country. It must safeguard the capital of these properties, and administer them in accordance with the rules of usufruct.

SECTION 402: OCCUPANT'S DISPOSITION OF REAL PROPERTY OF A STATE

Real property of the enemy State which is essentially of a non-military nature, such as public buildings and offices, land, forests, parks, farms, and mines, may not be damaged or destroyed unless such destruction is rendered absolutely necessary by military operations. The occupant does not have the right of sale or unqualified use of such property. As administrator or usufructuary he should not exercise his rights in such a wasteful and negligent manner as seriously to impair its value. He may, however, lease or utilize public lands or buildings, sell the crops, cut and sell timber, and work the mines. The term of a lease or contract should not extend beyond the conclusion of the war.

SECTION 405: MUNICIPAL, RELIGIOUS, CHARITABLE AND CULTURAL PROPERTY

(a) Treaty provision

The property of municipalities, that of institutions dedicated to religion, charity and education, the arts and sciences, even when State property, shall be treated as private property.

All seizure or destruction of, or wilful damage to, institutions of this character, historic monuments, works of art and science, is forbidden, and should be made the subject of legal proceedings.

SECTION 406: PRIVATE PROPERTY: GENERAL

(a) Treaty provision

Private property cannot be confiscated.

(b) Prohibited acts

The foregoing prohibition extends not only to outright taking in violation of the law of war but also to any acts which, through the use of threats, intimidation, or pressure or by actual exploitation of the power of the occupant, permanently or temporarily deprive the owner of the use of his property without his consent or without authority under international law.

SECTION 407: PRIVATE REAL PROPERTY

Immovable private enemy property may under no circumstance be seized. It may, however, be requisitioned.

SECTION 418: LABOR OF PROTECTED PERSONS

The Occupying Power may not compel protected persons to serve in its armed or auxiliary forces. No pressure or propaganda which aims at securing voluntary enlistment is permitted.

SECTION 425: TAXES(a) Treaty Provision*

If, in the territory occupied, the occupant collects the taxes, dues, and tolls imposed for the benefit of the State, he shall do so, as far as possible, in accordance with the rules of assessment and incidence in force, and shall in consequence be bound to defray the expenses of the administration of the occupied territory to the same extent as the legitimate Government was so bound.

SECTION 446: TREATMENT OF DETAINEES

Protected persons accused of offences shall be detained in the occupied country, and if convicted they shall serve their sentences therein. They shall, if possible, be separated from other detainees and shall enjoy conditions of food and hygiene which will be sufficient to keep them in good health, and which will be at least equal to those obtaining in prisons in the occupied country.

They shall receive the medical attention required by their state of health.

They shall also have the right to receive any spiritual assistance which they may also require.

Women shall be confined in separate quarters and shall be under the direct supervision of women.

Proper regard shall be paid to the special interest due to minors.

Protected persons who are detained shall have the right to be visited by delegates of the Protecting Power and of the International Committee of the Red Cross, in accordance with the provisions of Article 143.

Such persons shall have the right to receive at least one relief parcel monthly.

SECTION 448: PENALTY FOR INDIVIDUAL ACTS OF INHABITANTS

No general penalty, pecuniary or otherwise, shall be inflicted upon the population on account of the acts of individuals for which they cannot be regarded as jointly and severally responsible.

BREACHES OF THE FOURTH GENEVA CONVENTION OF 1949 ARE TRIABLE BY THE COURTS OF THE HIGH CONTRACTING PARTIES

Article 146 of the Fourth Geneva Convention of 1949 states:

The High Contracting Parties undertake to enact any Legislation necessary to provide effective penal sanctions for persons committing, or ordering to be committed, any of the grave breaches of the present convention defined in the following Article.

Each High Contracting Party shall be under the obligation to search for persons alleged to have committed, or to have ordered to be committed, such grave breaches, and shall bring such persons, regardless of their nationality, before its own courts. It may also, if it prefers, and in accordance with the provision of its own legislation, hand such persons over for trial to another High Contracting Party concerned, provided such High Contracting Party has made out a prima facie case.

Each High Contracting Party shall take measures necessary for the suppression of all acts contrary to the provisions of the present Convention other than the grave breaches defined in the following Article."

Article 148 states: "No High Contracting Party shall be allowed to absolve itself or any other High Contracting Party of any liability incurred by itself or by another High Contracting Party in respect of breaches referred to in the preceding Article."

Paragraph 3 of Article 149 states "that once the violation has been established, the Parties to the conflict shall put an end to it and shall repress it with the least possible delay."

In 1977, two protocols to the Geneva Conventions were signed by the contracting parties. Article 1, Paragraph 1 of Protocol No. 1 states, "the High Contracting Parties undertake to respect and to ensure respect for this Protocol in all circumstances." Paragraphs 3 and 4 of Article 1 state: "This Protocol, which supplements the Geneva Conventions of 12 August 1949 for the protection of war victims, shall apply in the situations referred to in Article 2 common to these conventions"; and the "situations referred to in the preceding paragraph include armed conflicts in which peoples are fighting against colonial domination and alien occupation and against racist regimes in the exercise of their right of self-determination, as enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations and the Declaration on Principles of International Law concerning Friendly Relations and Co-operation among States in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations."

Paragraph 4 of Article 85 of Protocol No. 1 states: "In addition to the grave breaches defined in the preceding paragraphs and in the Conventions, the following shall be regarded as grave breaches of this Protocol, when committed willfully and in violation of the Conventions of the Protocol: (a) the transfer by the occupying Power of parts of its own civilian population into the territory it occupies, or the deportation or transfer of all or parts of the occupied territory within or outside this territory, in violation of Article 49 of the Fourth Convention."

Article 86, Paragraph 1 of Protocol No. 1 states: "The High Contracting Parties and the Parties to the conflict shall repress grave breaches, and take measures necessary to suppress all other breaches, of the Conventions or of this Protocol which result from a failure to act when under a duty to do so."

PUNISHMENT OF CRIMINALS

International criminal law as adopted by all nations considers the following offences as war crimes and crimes against humanity:

Murder and massacres; Systematic terrorism; Putting hostages to death; Torture of civilians; Deliberate starvation of civilians; Rape; Abduction of girls and women for the purpose of enforced prostitution; Deportation of civilians; Internment of civilians under inhuman conditions; Forced labour of civilians in connection with the military operations of the enemy; Usurpation of sovereignty during military occupation; Compulsory enlistment of soldiers among the inhabitants of occupied territory; Pillage; Confiscation of property; Exaction of illegitimate or of exorbitant contributions and requisitions; Debasement of the currency and issue of spurious currency; Imposition of collective penalties; Wanton devastation and destruction of property; Deliberate bombardment of undefended places; Wanton destruction of religious, charitable, educational and historic buildings and monuments; Destruction of merchant ships and passenger vessels without warning and without provision for the safety of the passengers and crew; Destruction of fishing boats and of relief ships; Deliberate bombardment of hospitals; Attack and destruction of hospital ships; Breach of other rules relating to the Red Cross; Use of deleterious and asphyxiating gases; Use of explosive or expanding bullets and other inhuman appliances; Directions to give no quarter; Ill-treatment of wounded and prisoners of war; Employment of prisoners of war on unauthorized works; Misuse of flags of truce; Poisoning of wells; Indiscriminate mass arrests for the purpose of terrorizing the population whether described as taking of hostages or not; Ill-treatment of interned civilians or prisoners; Carrying out of or causing execution to be carried out in an inhuman way; Refusal of aid or prevention of aid being given to shipwrecked persons; Intentional withholding of medical supplies from civilians; and Commission, contrary to the conditions of a truce, of hostile acts or the incitement thereto, and the furnishing of others with information, the opportunity or the means for that purpose.<sup>35</sup>

Punishment of criminals has been established by the Tribunals which tried war criminals after World War II. The International Military Tribunal which tried major Nazi war criminals, namely Goering and others, sentenced them either to death by hanging or to imprisonment for life. Other war crime Tribunals sentenced war criminals to death or imprisonment.

The following is an extract from the Law Reports of Trials of War Criminals, Volume 15, Pages 200-201:

International law lays down that a war criminal may be punished with death whatever crime he may have committed. Some use has been made of the latitude allowed in this matter insofar as certain offences other than killing have, on occasion, been punished with death, for instance cases of torture and/or rape punished by the Norwegian and Australian courts. Illustrative Norwegian trials have been reported upon in these volumes. Among the Australian trials mention should be made of the trial of Tsugiji Matsumoto and others at Rabaul, 6th April, 1946, when three accused were sentenced to death for torturing a civilian inhabitant of occupied territory, and the trial of Hiroe Sakoda and others at Rabaul, 26th-29th April, 1946, when the accused Hiroshi Nakajima and Shigenobu Takahashi were sentenced to death for torturing another civilian. In each case the charge was one of torture; the record contains no mention of any death of the victims having resulted, and the findings and sentences were confirmed and carried out. In a third trial held at Rabaul on 13th December, 1945, an Australian Military Court sentenced to death Yoshio Taki on charges of rape and torture committed against a Chinese civilian of Rabaul, although the victim survived. Again the sentence was confirmed and carried out.

Death sentences have also been awarded by several Australian Courts for cannibalism and mutilation of the dead. These sentences have however usually been either commuted or overruled by the Confirming Authority.

On the other hand, it is open to the courts to award sentences less than the death sentence to accused found guilty of charges of unlawful killing and this has been done in many trials, including some Australian cases where the charges were explicitly charges of murder.

It has thus been seen above that the death sentence has been generally reserved for cases of killing unlawfully, torturing and rape. Similarly, a study made in Volume IV of the punishment meted out to certain military commanders and a police chief for not preventing crimes, including killings, on the part of their subordinates has shown that, after action by reviewing of appellate authorities, no guilty accused suffered death with the exception of Lt. General Masao Baba and General Yamashita; and in the case of Yamashita there was some, though not uncontradicted, evidence that he had actually ordered his subordinates to commit atrocities.<sup>36</sup>

STATUTES OF LIMITATION SHALL NOT APPLY TOWARDS WAR CRIMES AND CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY

The United Nations General Assembly adopted Resolution 2391 (XXIII) on the 26th of November, 1968, in which it decided to adopt a convention on the non-applicability of statutory limitations to war crimes and crimes against humanity.

The most important parts of that convention are the following:

The States parties to the present convention,

Recalling resolutions of the General Assembly of the United Nations 3 (I) of 13 February 1946 and 170 (II) of 31 October 1947 on the extradition and punishment of war criminals, resolution 95 (I) of 11 December 1946 affirming the principles of international law recognized by the Charter of the International Military Tribunal, Nurnberg, and the judgment of the Tribunal, and resolutions 2184 (XXI) of 12 December 1966 and 2202 (XXI) of 16 December 1966 which expressly condemned as crimes against humanity the violation of the economic and political rights of the indigenous population on the one hand and the policies of Apartheid on the other,

Recalling resolutions of the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations 1074 D (XXXIX) of 28 July 1965 and 1158 (XLI) of 5 August 1966 on the punishment of war criminals and of persons who have committed crimes against humanity,

Noting that none of the solemn declarations, instruments or conventions relating to the prosecution and punishment of war crimes and crimes against humanity made provision for a period of limitation,

Considering that war crimes and crimes against humanity are among the gravest crimes in international law,

Convinced that the effective punishment of war crimes and crimes against humanity is an important element in the prevention of such crimes, the protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms, the encouragement of confidence, the furtherance of co-operation among peoples and the promotion of international peace and security,

Noting that the application to war crimes and crimes against humanity of the rules of municipal law relating to the period of limitation for ordinary crimes is a matter of serious concern to world public opinion, since it prevents the prosecution and punishment of persons responsible for those crimes,

Recognizing that it is necessary and timely to affirm in international law, through this Convention, the principle that there is no period of limitation for war crimes and crimes against humanity, and to secure its universal application,

Have agreed as follows:

ARTICLE I

No statutory limitation shall apply to the following crimes, irrespective of the date of their commission:

(a) War crimes as they are defined in the Charter of the International Military Tribunal, Nurnberg, of 8 August 1945 and confirmed by resolutions 3 (I) of 13 February 1946 and 95 (I) of 11 December 1946 of the General Assembly of the United Nations, particularly the "grave breaches" enumerated in the Geneva Conventions of 12 August 1949 for the protection of war victims;

(b) Crimes against humanity whether committed in time of war or in time of peace as they are defined in the Charter of the International Military Tribunal, Nurnberg, of 8 August 1945 and confirmed by resolutions 3 (I) of 13 February 1946 and 95 (I) of 11 December 1946 of the General Assembly of the United Nations, eviction by armed attack or occupation and inhuman acts resulting from the policy of apartheid, and the crime of genocide as defined in the 1948 Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, even if such acts do not constitute a violation of the domestic law of the country in which they were committed.

ARTICLE II

If any of the crimes mentioned in article I is committed, the provisions of this Convention shall apply to representatives of the State authority and private individuals who, as principals or accomplices, participate in or who directly incite others to the commission of any of those crimes, or who conspire to commit them, irrespective of the degree of completion, and to representatives of the State authority who tolerate their commission.

ARTICLE III

The States Parties to the present Convention undertake to adopt all necessary domestic measures, legislative or otherwise, with a view to making possible the extradition, in accordance with international law, of the persons referred to in article II of this Convention.

ARTICLE IV

The States Parties to the present Convention undertake to adopt, in accordance with their respective constitutional processes, any legislative or other measures necessary to ensure that statutory or other limitations shall not apply to the prosecution and punishment of the crimes referred to in articles I and II of this Convention and that, where they exist, such limitations shall be abolished.

PRINCIPLES OF INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION IN THE DETECTION, ARREST, EXTRADITION AND PUNISHMENT OF PERSONS GUILTY OF WAR CRIMES AND CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY

On December 3, 1973, the United Nations General Assembly adopted Resolution 3074 (XXVIII), in which it declared the following:

1. War crimes and crimes against humanity, wherever they are committed, shall be subject to investigation and the persons against whom there is evidence that they have committed such crimes shall be subject to tracing, arrest, trial and, if found guilty, to punishment.

2. Every State has the right to try its own nationals for war crimes or crimes against humanity.

3. States shall co-operate with each other on a bilateral and multilateral basis with a view to halting and preventing war crimes and crimes against humanity, and shall take the domestic and international measures necessary for that purpose.

4. States shall assist each other in detecting, arresting and bringing to trial persons suspected of having committed such crimes and, if they are found guilty, in punishing them.

5. Persons against whom there is evidence that they have committed war crimes and crimes against humanity shall be subject to trial and, if found guilty, to punishment, as a general rule in the countries in which they committed those crimes. In that connection, States shall co-operate on questions of extraditing such persons.

6. States shall co-operate with each other in the collection of information and evidence which would help to bring to trial the persons indicated in paragraph 5 above and shall exchange such information.

CHAPTER NINE

THE CONSPIRACY TO EXPEL AND THE EXPULSION OF PALESTINIAN ARABS 1948-1950

Of all Israeli war crimes, none was committed on such a massive scale as the expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs from their homes, towns and villages, uprooting an entire population through forcible expulsion, as part of a calculated design.

Article 49 of the Fourth Geneva Convention of 1949 states, without any ambiguity whatsoever, that "Individual or mass forcible transfers, as well as deportations of protected persons from occupied territory to the territory of the Occupying Power or to that of any other country, occupied or not, are prohibited, regardless of their motive."

The Nazi war criminals' expulsion of the Jews from Germany was the immediate precedent for the Israeli war criminals' mass expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs.

Alfred Rosenberg, the chief ideologist of Nazism who was hanged for his role in the Nazi war crimes, wrote: "Zionism must be vigorously supported so that a certain number of German Jews is transported annually to Palestine or at least made to leave the country."<sup>1</sup>

This should be compared with the wholesale expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs, who were ordered to leave after many had been tortured and killed, not being allowed to take any of their possessions with them.

The expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs by the Zionists would have been a crime even if the Zionists had had a reasonable motive. But, in fact, the Zionists' motive was in itself a war crime. In 1930 Zionist official Gerhard Holdheim, wrote:

The Zionist programme encompasses the conception of a homogeneous, indivisible Jewry on a national basis. The criterion for Jewry is hence not a confession of religion, but the all-embracing sense of belonging to a racial community that is bound together by ties of blood and history and which is determined to keep its national individuality.<sup>2</sup>

This racist Zionist counterpart of the Nazis' German racism had the blessing of no less a Nazi than the Fuhrer, Adolf Hitler himself. Zionist writers Jon and David Kimche have confirmed that "Hitler, with unambiguous determination, ordered the promotion of mass immigration to Palestine."<sup>3</sup>

What the Nazis did to the Jews was not a tragedy for those Zionists determined to found an exclusively Jewish state in Palestine at the expense of the indigenous inhabitants. As David Ben-Gurion himself said, "What Zionist propaganda for years could not do, disaster has done overnight."<sup>4</sup>

On December 19, 1940, Joseph Weitz, director of the Jewish National Fund, the central Zionist organization acquiring land in Palestine and settling it with Jewish colonists, wrote in his diary:

It must be clear that there is no room for both peoples in this country. If the Arabs stay, the country will remain narrow and miserable. The only solution is Eretz Israel, or at least western Eretz Israel, without Arabs. There is no room for compromise on this point.<sup>5</sup>

Hitler shared this concept of the narrowness of a country due to the presence of "foreigners" on the land. That the alleged "foreigners" were actually the native inhabitants and rightful owners of the land could not deter such warped Nazi or Zionist minds in the quest for Lebensraum. As Hitler said:

Our space is absurdly small, for a plane can cross our German territory in barely four hours. That is no longer a land surface bearing a protection in itself. This land surface does not suffice by far to nourish our population. It is clear that the more a nation grows in numbers, the more its soil is bound some day to become too narrow; that such a nation must some day either succumb to this restriction of its soil and collapse, or that it will burst this restriction and acquire new soil elsewhere.<sup>6</sup>

The conspiracy to expel the Palestinian Arabs from their homes, and their subsequent expulsion, were war crimes inevitably associated with the "Master Race" basis of Zionist ideology. The intrinsic evil of the Zionist ideology was the father of the evil act; the brutal disappearance of the Palestinians was the child.

The expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs from their homes and lands was a premeditated crime committed by the Zionists.

The highest body of MAPAI, at the time the leading party among the Jewish population in Palestine, convened a congress in Zurich of its supporters from Palestine and other countries from July 29 to August 7, 1937. At that congress the expulsion of the Palestinians, under the euphemism of "transfer," became MAPAI's policy, planned and supported by most of its highest-ranking leaders and opposed on moral grounds by none. In the proceedings of the congress, edited by David Ben Gurion and published in Tel Aviv in 1938, Ben Gurion commented: "It seems to me unnecessary to explain the fundamental and deep difference between expulsion and transfer."<sup>7</sup>

That expulsion and transfer were identical terms is shown by David Ben Gurion's private remarks in a letter he wrote in the same year, 1937, to his son, in which he remarked that when a Jewish state was created, "We will expel the Arabs and take their places."<sup>8</sup>

Ten years later, in his diary entry for December 19, 1947, David Ben Gurion wrote even more crudely: "In each attack, a decisive blow should be struck, resulting in the destruction of homes and the expulsion of the population."<sup>9</sup>

Again, on April 4, 1948, Ben Gurion told a delegation from his MAPAI party: "We shall enter the vacated villages and settle in them."<sup>10</sup>

David Ben Gurion was not only the leader of the MAPAI Party, but from 1935 to 1948 he was Chairman of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, and thus the ranking Zionist in Palestine.<sup>11</sup>

After the bogus Declaration of Independence of so-called Israel on May 14, 1948, Ben Gurion implemented the evil design of expelling the Palestinian Arabs and stated: "We must do everything in our power to ensure that they never return."<sup>12</sup>

Common criminals often seek to justify their crimes, even to the extent of blaming their victims. The Zionists are no exception. Ruthlessly driving the Palestinian Arabs from their homes, depopulating town after town, village after village, the Zionists created the myth that the Arab leaders supposedly told their people to leave! Recent revelations detailed in once-secret Zionist intelligence reports disclose the truth: the expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs was willfully planned and executed by the Zionists. It was a premeditated war crime.

The Zionist apologists reacted to the uncovering of their own documents with the "big lie" technique. Shmuel Katz, a notorious Zionist propagandist, wrote in The Jerusalem Post that in 1948 the Arabs "did not even hint that the Palestinian Arabs were being expelled by the Jews." Those who rightfully condemned this abominable war crime were, he claimed, guilty of "the mass expulsion lie."<sup>13</sup>

That Katz and his Zionist colleagues are the liars is incontestably proved by official United Nations records. On September 16, 1948, Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Mediator for Palestine, submitted a Progress Report to the Secretary-General of the United Nations in which he stated: "the exodus of Palestinian Arabs resulted from panic created by fighting in their communities, by rumours concerning real or alleged acts of terrorism, or expulsion."<sup>14</sup>

This United Nations report states categorically the term "expulsion," not "flight," and the Israeli Intelligence reports reveal that the fighting in many cases was solely designed to impel mass expulsion, and that the panic concerning massacres was deliberately spread to encourage exodus. The evidence, supported by eyewitness testimony, confirms that many villages were bombed, and many non-combatants ruthlessly murdered, without any relation to military objectives. The common denominator was to impel the exodus of the native Palestinian population.

The objective conclusion can only be that there is but one fundamental cause for the homelessness of the Palestinians: their mass expulsion by the Zionists. All other alleged reasons are but examples of differing methods utilized by the Zionists to bring about their mass expulsion.

That Count Bernadotte revealed the truth about the expulsion was undoubtedly one of the causes of his murder by the infamous Stern Gang. And who among these cold-blooded killers is (dis)credited with prime responsibility in the murder of the United Nations mediator? None other than Yitzhak Ysernitzky, alias Yitzhak Shamir, less than forty years later Prime Minister of Israel.

But were Shamir and his Stern Gang and Begin and his Irgun the only fascists among the Zionists? Were they the only extremists among a civilized body of Zionist Jews? No less a figure than Chaim Weizmann, first President of Israel, called David Ben-Gurion "that damned fascist" in an interview on February 1, 1947, with noted Jewish journalist C.L. Sulzberger.<sup>15</sup>

By reason of their very objectives, Nazis and Zionists are fascists, a fact confirmed by their methods of doing things, and their attitude toward human life. This is demonstrated in their attitude toward war. Adolf Hitler said: "Every war costs blood, and the smell of blood arouses in man all the instincts which have lain within us since the beginning of the world; deeds of violence, the intoxication of murder, and many other things. A humane war exists only in bloodless brains."<sup>16</sup> To the Nazis and the Zionists the "enemy" was somehow sub-human, their lives counting for naught. For "their own people" the sacrifice in battle was primarily for political, not military, purposes. When the loss of young officers for non-military objectives was pointed out to Hitler, he commented, "But that is what the young men are there for!"<sup>17</sup>

The same attitude was shown by the Zionists in their war for the partition of Palestine in 1948. "When a number of Jewish military experts contended that it would be best to evacuate those Jewish settlements in danger of falling, the decisive consideration was political, rather than military. It was decided to risk the settlements on the assumption that the size and borders of the Jewish state would ultimately be decided by the area that the Jews succeeded in holding."<sup>18</sup>

This callous disregard by the Zionists for the lives of their own people, sacrificing lives unnecessarily against all of the rules of military science, also offers the key for explaining their success in expelling the Palestinian Arabs from so many towns and villages of Palestine. The Arab forces, composed of volunteers, cannot be faulted for considering each Zionist thrust to have been a military attack, a feint, or a diversionary action. As civilians, they responded accordingly, with resultant confusion, for with rare exceptions the Zionist thrusts were not attacks for military objectives, nor feints nor diversionary actions. They were non-military-related violence perpetrated for the sole purpose of impelling the native Palestinians to leave their homes and homeland.

The allegation that the Arabs "fled at the behest of their leaders" is contradicted by the historical evidence itself. A good example of a Zionist career-liar is President of so-called Israel, General Chaim Herzog. This man, twice head of Military Intelligence, and first Military Governor of the West Bank and Gaza in 1967, writes, in a bold-faced lie, that when "the Golani Brigade of the Hagana cut the city of Tiberias in two, the Arabs of Tiberias chose to evacuate the city and were transported east to Transjordan. Thus began the great tragedy of the Arab refugee population, which was to plague the Middle East for decades after the war."<sup>19</sup>

So this war criminal and scribbler of fiction he calls history says that "the Arabs of Tiberias chose to evacuate their city" and "thus began the great tragedy of the Arab refugee problem"! The "historian" Herzog — as dubious a "historian" as he is a "general" or "President" — should check his facts. On April 19, 1948, the Hagana occupied the town of Tiberias, but as early as "March 2, Zionist soldiers attacked the adjacent village of El Manara (a village of 490 Arab inhabitants), chased its inhabitants out, destroyed some houses, and left leaflets behind warning the inhabitants not to return because the village had been mined."<sup>20</sup>

Again, on "April 10, the Zionists attacked the adjoining village of Nasr-ed-Din (with 90 Arab inhabitants) and destroyed all its houses, killing most of its inhabitants, including women and children, and expelling all the rest."<sup>21</sup>

The inhabitants of the two Arab villages of El Manara and Nasr-ed-Din, adjacent to Tiberias, are not real people, apparently, to Mr. Herzog! Intent on establishing as fact the bold-faced lie that the Palestinian Arab "refugee problem" began with the evacuation of the Arabs from Tiberias on April 19, 1948, Herzog deliberately conceals the prior expulsion of the Arab inhabitants of El Manara and Nasr-ed-Din. Is this to cover up the murderous acts in these two villages? Or is it even faintly possible that this head of the Security Department of the Jewish Agency and twice head of Israeli Military Intelligence does not have access to the facts of what took place in 1948-1950?

The facts concerning the evacuation of the Arabs from the city of Tiberias on April 19, 1948, are as follows:

1. The Zionists besieged the city from April 3 to 16, ruthlessly shelling the civilian inhabitants of the city and distributing propaganda threatening those who opposed them.

2. The departing British authorities offered transport for the panic-stricken Arab population who, faced with continued bombardment if they remained, accepted the British offer.

3. The acceptance of the offer was given urgency by the news of the April 10th massacre committed by the Zionists at Deir Yassin and the fate of the adjoining villages of El Manara and Nasr ed Din.<sup>22</sup>

The expulsion of the Arabs from Jaffa in April 1948, a large city adjacent to Tel Aviv, was brought about through the same combination of threatening propaganda — using real massacres as examples — and the indiscriminate shelling of civilians. Jaffa was taken by the Irgun, perpetrators of the infamous Deir Yassin massacre, and the account of the Irgun's gangster leader, Menachem Begin, proves that the departure of the Arab population from the large city of Jaffa was, in fact, caused by the terrorist methods of the Irgun. Begin writes:

Then a strange phenomenon was revealed before our eyes: the mass flight from Jaffa. Arab civilians and a variety of Arab "fighters" suddenly began to leave the town in panic.

There appear to have been two causes for this epidemic flight. One was the name of their attackers and the repute which propaganda had bestowed on them. The Beirut correspondent of the United Press cabled that when the first boat-load of refugees arrived there from Jaffa they reported that the information that this attack was being made by the Irgun had thrown the population into a state of abject fear. The second factor was the weight of our bombardment. I do not know exactly how many shells we sent into Jaffa. Yigal Yadin, Operations Officer of the Hagana, told me afterwards that we had not been sufficiently economical with our precious shells. The total load was certainly very heavy. We went all out.

Our shelling made the free movement of enemy forces impossible and forced them to seek doubtful shelter in buildings. It disrupted telephone communications, cut the electricity supply, and broke water mains. Confusion and terror, deepened by the noise of the battle raging at no great distance from the central streets, reigned in the town, and the great flight began, by sea and land, on wheels and on foot. It started with thousands, but very quickly tens of thousands were sucked into the panic flood. British sources reported numerous Arab casualties in all parts of the town.<sup>23</sup>

British officer Sir Henry Gurney, who witnessed the Irgun attack on Jaffa, wrote in his diary: "The Irgun mortar attack was indiscriminately aimed at civilian targets and was designed to create panic among the population."<sup>24</sup>

Writer Michael Palumbo describes the Irgun's criminal behavior in Jaffa:

There was a great deal of looting in Jaffa, particularly by the Irgun. At first the young "freedom fighters" robbed Jaffa shops of dresses and ornaments for their girlfriends. Soon, however, everything that was movable was carried off from Jaffa: furniture, carpets, pictures, crockery and cutlery. Not content with looting, the Irgun fighters smashed or destroyed everything which they could not carry off, including pianos, lamps and window-panes. Ben Gurion afterwards admitted that Jews of all classes poured into Jaffa from Tel Aviv in order to take part in what he called "a shameful and distressing spectacle."<sup>25</sup>

The Irgun also looted the city of Haifa as well. Golda Meir visited Haifa and later briefed her fellow members of the Jewish Agency Executive about conditions in the city. She estimated that there were about "3,000 to 4,000" Arabs left in the city. Michael Palumbo reports that Golda Meir "blamed the Irgun for looting the area under their control. 'Not a thread was left in any of the houses, everything was sold on the spot.'"<sup>26</sup>

A hitherto-secret IDF Intelligence Branch Report, "The Emigration of the Arabs of Palestine in the Period from the First of December 1947 to the First of June 1948" proves beyond doubt, in the accurate assessment of the Zionists themselves, unadorned by propaganda, that they deliberately created the Palestinian refugee problem. This report, dated June 30, 1948, is direct evidence debunking decades of Zionist myth-making which tried to shift the blame to the victims.<sup>27</sup>

clear that more than 99 percent of the Palestinian Arab exodus was caused by various factors engineered by the Zionists. Objective analysis of these factors, using the Zionists' own statistical breakdown, should end any controversy, which has always been an artificial, Zionist-inspired one, on this question.

This IDF Intelligence Branch Report of June 30, 1948, ascribes responsibility for 55 percent of the Palestinian Arab refugees to two causes: "Direct hostile Jewish (Hagana/IDF) operations against Arab settlements" and "the effect of our Hagana/IDF hostile operations on nearby Arab settlements."

Thus the IDF/Haganah Intelligence Branch claims direct responsibility for engineering 55 percent of the dispersal of victimized Palestinian Arabs.

The report ascribes responsibility for 15 percent of the Palestinian Arab refugees to: "Operations of the Jewish disidents (Irgun Z'vai Leumi and the Stern Gang)."

However, it is clear from the remarks of Irgun leader Menachem Begin regarding the Irgun's role in the expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs from Jaffa that the Irgun's actions were not disassociated from the Haganah/IDF but in concert with them. This is also proved by the fact that the Irgun and Stern Gang perpetrators of the Deir Yassin massacre of April 9, 1948, had been given formal prior approval for the action by David Shaltiel, the Haganah area commander.<sup>28</sup>

Thus causes (1), (2), and (3) are admissions of real, direct responsibility for a total of 70 percent of the Palestinian Arab refugees by the IDF/Haganah Intelligence Branch.

The Intelligence Branch ascribes responsibility for 5 percent of the Palestinian Arab refugees to "Orders and decrees by Arab institutions and gangs."

It would seem from the Report that this mere 5 percent of the Palestinian Arab refugees were not the direct responsibility of the Zionist war criminals. But examination of the military action in Palestine clearly indicates that even this 5 percent was not an Arab-impelled exodus, but a Zionist-instigated one.

In the first period of the Zionist war for the partition of Palestine, the Zionist forces bombarded indiscriminately every possible Arab village with mortar fire, killing innocent men, women and children. In some cases the villagers fled the murderous fire on their own; in other cases Arab authorities recommended flight to the villagers to escape the murderous fire raining down upon them for no apparent military reason.

Let us examine the fate of the two Palestinian Arab villages of Beit Surik and Biddu in the vicinity of Abu Gosh on the main Jerusalem/Lyddah road. According to the testimony of Lt. Col. Yasef Tabenkin, commander of the Harel Palmach Brigade at the time:

The eastern company was ordered to take the village after a mortar bombardment. One of its platoons seized the buildings and the other two attacked at the flanks. The village was conquered and its occupants fled, and the demolition of buildings started.

As soon as Beit Surik was taken our reserve force set out to take Biddu. After a short bombardment with the Davidka the place was captured and its houses were demolished.<sup>29</sup>

The Davidka was a home-made mortar, ineffective in normal military combat, but suitable for raining terror on unarmed villagers.

The regular mortars and Davidkas of the Zionist armed gangs were improved upon after the so-called independence of Israel, on May 14th, 1948. The Zionists then received from Czechoslovakia Messerschmitt 109 aircraft. These planes, which had terrorized Europe in the service of the Nazis, were now to be used to bomb and strafe defenseless Arab villages in Palestine.<sup>30</sup> If professional soldiers had sometimes panicked under the attack of Nazi Messerschmitts, one should not be surprised that defenseless Arab villagers, or leaders concerned with saving their people's lives, would seek safety in flight from such indiscriminate bombing and strafing.

It is appropriate that the Zionists used Nazi planes to impel the Palestinian Arabs from their homes. The Zionists who bombarded Palestinian Arab villages with mortars and Davidkas, who strafed and bombed them, raining down death and destruction indiscriminately from the skies, behaved like utter villains, and it was to this ruthless, barbaric behavior that some Arab institutions responded by urging their unarmed people to flee for their lives.

The Israeli Intelligence Branch ascribes responsibility for 2 percent of the Palestinian Arab refugees to: "Jewish 'whispering' (psychological warfare) operations." According to Jewish scholar Benny Morris, although Jewish psychological warfare operations accounted for only some 2 percent of the exodus nationwide in the report, in a number of regions, states the report, "whispering" campaigns were of considerable importance. In the Tel Aviv and Haifa subdistricts, for instance, such a campaign in April-May accounted for 18 percent of the Arab exodus, and in the coastal plain for six percent. In the coastal plain and in the Gilboa district, whispering operations were disorganized and unsystematic. But in the Tel Aviv and Haifa subdistricts, "the operation was carried out with predetermination, with relatively wide scope and organization," and so led to greater results. The operation itself was carried out, explains the report, in the form of "friendly advice" by Jews to their neighbouring Arab friends.<sup>31</sup>

This systematic propaganda carried out in a predetermined manner by the Zionists would have had the admiration of Joseph Goebbels, who said:

That propaganda is good which leads to success, and that is bad which fails to achieve the desired result, however intelligent it is, for it is not propaganda's task to be intelligent, its task is to lead to success. Therefore no one can say your propaganda is too rough, too mean; these are not criteria by which it may be characterized. It ought not to be decent, nor ought it to be gentle or soft or humble; it ought to lead to success.<sup>32</sup>

And this Zionist propaganda "whispering" campaign, mean in purpose, rough in implementation, achieved its purpose, propelling its Arab listeners from their homes and villages, leaving their homes to the mercy of Zionist bulldozers, and their ancestral village land to the exploitation of the alien conquerors.

The IDF Intelligence Analysis ascribes responsibility for 2 percent of the Palestinian Arab refugees to "orders of expulsion by Jewish forces to Arab villages." This percentage is small compared with the latter part of the war after June 1948, and the post-war expulsions were almost entirely by means of orders of expulsion. Up to the start of June 1948 such orders were especially prominent in the coastal plain, and the report states that, "of course, the effect of such an ultimatum, like the effect of friendly advice, came after a certain laying of the groundwork through hostile Jewish operations in the area. Therefore, such expulsion orders are more in the nature of a final motivation and propellant, than a decisive factor."<sup>33</sup>

The Intelligence Branch ascribes the cause of 1 percent of the Arab emigration to "Arab fear of Jewish retaliation after an Arab attack on Jews." According to the Report, this "occurred in the Western Galilee (following the Arab attack on the Yehiam convoy), and after the attacks in April on Kibbutz Mishmar Ha'emek (western Jezreel Valley) and Kibbutz Geshar (Jordan Valley)."<sup>34</sup>

Because of the massacre of Deir Yassin, and other massacres of innocent civilians in many villages of Palestine, this Arab fear of Zionist retaliation on defenseless civilians for Jewish losses in combat with Arab forces was a very real one.

As Ze'ev Schiff, the leading military authority of the newspaper Ha'aretz says, Deir Yassin "caused masses of Arabs to flee in fear of further atrocities, making the battle for distant Haifa all the easier for Jewish forces. As the story of the massacre spread among the Arabs it gathered gruesome detail and became a serious blow to the morale of the civilian Arab population."<sup>35</sup>

The Intelligence Branch Analysis attributes less than 1 percent of the Arab refugees to the three following causes combined: "The arrival of Arab irregular forces in a village; villagers' fears that the impending Arab invasion would turn their homes into a battleground, and the fact of being an isolated village in a predominantly Jewish area." It is obvious that these causes would prompt villagers' fears that their village would become a target of indiscriminate Zionist shelling or bombing and that it might become the choice for yet another Zionist massacre of innocent men, women and children. Thus these causes are not truly "causes" but "effects" — the effects of the inhuman methods used by the Zionists to depopulate Arab Palestine.

The last cause is especially the effect of Zionist propaganda to encourage Palestinian Arab flight. Those villages, hopelessly surrounded, with only Jewish neighbors, were prime targets for Zionist propaganda campaigns, following the formula prescribed by Goebbels of the Third Reich:

Put pressure on your adversary with ice-cold determination. Probe him, search out his weak spot; deliberately and calculatingly sharpen the spear, hurl it with careful aim where the enemy is naked and vulnerable, and then perhaps say with a friendly smile, "Sorry, neighbor, but I can't help it!"<sup>36</sup>

The IDF "Intelligence Branch Report of 30 June, 1948," thus ascribes 81 percent of the Arab refugees of Palestine to Causes (1) through (10), each and all of which were either directly engineered by the Zionists or were the effect of directly engineered Zionist actions.

The Intelligence Branch Analysis attributes the remaining 19 percent of the Palestinian Arab refugees to "Various local factors and general fear of the future."

The report ascribes approximately 9 percent of the exodus to "local factors" such as "the breakdown in specific localities of Arab-Jewish peace negotiations and the Arabs' inability to adjust to certain real situations."

The Intelligence Branch obviously uses these explanations as euphemisms for common Zionist misconduct, like urging peace negotiations while surreptitiously carrying out armed actions, and using subterfuge to expand territory held. During the United-Nations-arranged truce from 11 June to 9 July, 1948, the UN mediator received 147 serious Arab complaints concerning the truce area outside the city of Jerusalem. In his report, the UN mediator stated: "The most serious of these complaints dealt with attacks on villages and included the alleged occupation of villages, strategic hills and road junctions after the commencement of the truce."<sup>37</sup> The Zionists were undoubtedly aware that their seizure of strategic hills permitting easy bombardment of a village, or the seizure of a road junction which could prevent transit to and from a village, would impel Arab villagers to become refugees. These "real situations" would not only be difficult to adjust to, but together with incessant Zionist propaganda would impact on the simple villagers in such a way as to impel flight.

The Intelligence Branch Analysis ascribes the remaining 10 percent of the Arab refugees to "general fear of the future." Benny Morris states:

In this context the report mentions the initial waves of emigration at the start of the hostilities, caused at first glance, by no special reason. These were rooted in a "general fear" resulting primarily from "the crisis in confidence in Arab strength."

The Intelligence Branch thus places this "crisis of confidence" in the Arab power to fight and withstand or defeat Jewish arms as the "third most important factor after our own operations and those of the dissidents," in the Arab exodus.<sup>38</sup>

Anyone accustomed to the incessant Zionist propaganda campaign about the allegedly "blood thirsty" and "war-mongering" Arabs must be bewildered that 10 percent of the Arabs fled because they knew that it was the Zionists, and not the Arabs, who were "bloodthirsty" and "war mongering." The Palestinian Arabs were, and are, essentially a peaceful and peace-loving people. It was the Zionists who were preparing to slaughter the Arabs, not the other way around. To prove this, we will quote no less a Zionist authority than Yisrael Galili, last commander in chief of the Haganah, in his address to the National Council of the Histadrut delivered in Tel-Aviv on September 30, 1947: "In point of fact we have no certain knowledge that the Palestinian Arabs are engaged in country wide military preparations, such as training armed forces, planning operations, and setting up commands."<sup>39</sup>

Further proof is that after the Arab revolt of 1936 against the British ended, almost all of the violent acts in Palestine were committed by the Zionists against the British, against the Palestinian Arabs, and even against dissident Jews.

Mr. Morris, by uncovering this Zionist Defence Intelligence Branch Report of 30 June 1948, has greatly helped to prove the truth: that the expulsion of all the Palestinian refugees was caused directly or indirectly by Zionist actions.

He provides interesting commentary on the intelligence report:

Following this statistical breakdown, the report offers some "general comments" identifying some direct and indirect contributory factors which hastened, precipitated or increased waves of emigration in various areas at different times. First and foremost, the report refers to a "psychosis of evacuation" which gripped some Arab communities during the hostilities, "increasing the rate of evacuation." It appeared, stated the report, "like a contagious disease." As an example Intelligence Branch cites the case of Acre, which fell to Haganah forces on 17 May. There "it is possible to assume...that the massive arrival on the scene (a fortnight before) of the refugees from Haifa, who planted in the hearts of Acre's inhabitants a psychosis of evacuation...had a decisive influence." Thus, "light attacks" and "nudges" by the Jewish forces around Haifa had the effect of precipitating flight in a population already affected by "evacuation psychosis." The appearance of typhus also prompted flight. "More than the disease itself," states the report, "the panic created by the rumours of the spread of the epidemic was a factor prompting evacuation." The report points out that where there was a "strong Arab military force" the villagers did not evacuate "readily," and "only a direct and serious operation (by the Jewish forces) brought about the destruction of this (military) force, bringing flight (of the civilian population) in its wake."<sup>40</sup>

Of course one must understand that Zionist "light attacks" and "nudges" by the Jewish forces means shooting at unarmed civilians who can't shoot back. Mortars and Davidkas are the perfect instruments for "nudges."

The once-secret Intelligence Report definitively absolves the Arab leadership of the blame for the Palestinian Arab exodus — those very leaders whom official Zionist historiography tries to blame for the refugee problem!

At the start of the evacuation "the Arab institutions attempted to struggle against the phenomenon of flight and evacuation, and to curb the waves of emigration." The Arab Higher Committee decided to impose restrictions and issued threats, punishments and propaganda in the radio and press to curb emigration. The committee also tried to mobilize the government in the neighboring Arab states to assist in this; there was a coincidence of interests.<sup>41</sup>

Mr. Morris gives a fair assessment of the over-all accuracy of the Intelligence Branch Report:

How accurate is the information conveyed in this document? How sound is its analysis of the causes of the Palestinian exodus up to June 1948? What is its significance in relation to the traditional perceptions of the character and causes of that exodus?

In theory at least, the IDF Intelligence Branch — Israel's only intelligence service in June 1948 — was very well placed to collect and analyse data about the Palestinian exodus. The team of officers who produced this report had access to the reports of Israeli agents and Arab informants in the various Arab localities, to the signals and reports of the Haganah IDF unit intelligence officers (one at least was attached to every battalion and brigade) and front commanders around the country.

It is also possible that the authors of the report were supplied, at their request, with special reports by unit intelligence officers and perhaps unit commanders as well as detailing each unit's history of conquest and treatment of Arab settlements. The respite provided by the first weeks of the First Truce would have made possible the writing of such reports. An indirect indication that such reports were indeed produced and, at least in part, serves as the basis of this analysis is afforded by the absence of one of the two appendices which, according to the table of contents printed on the covering page of the document, were to have accompanied the text — "appendix 1" giving "regional surveys analyzing the problems of emigration in each and every district." Presumably, these surveys were to have been written by unit front (hazit) or district (nafa) intelligence officers. Either some of them were not delivered or those delivered were regarded as inadequate for reproduction along with the text and the originally entitled "appendix 2," which details the exodus from each village, by district, around the country. (Appendix 2, in fact, was included, retitled "appendix 1").

In the end, the authors apparently decided that the analysis, buttressed by the village-by-village appendix, was sufficient, and the regional analyses at first contemplated were left out (though sallies into regional analysis are to be found interspersed unsystematically throughout the text).

The reservations about sourcing aside, there is no reason to cast doubt on the integrity of IDF Intelligence Branch in the production of this analysis. The analysis was produced almost certainly only for internal IDF top brass consumption.<sup>42</sup>

Mr. Morris' commentary on the Intelligence Branch Analysis shows that such errors or distortions as exist within the report, when examined closely, reveal an even greater direct Zionist responsibility for expelling the Palestinian Arabs than the report admits:

The village-by-village survey in the appendix lists 14 villages evacuated as a result of Haganah or IDF orders or ultimatums. In peacetime these villages together had a population of some 20,000. Yet in the analysis of causes of the exodus, the report speaks of only two per cent "of the villages" (out of a total of 250 evacuated) as leaving because of Haganah/IDF expulsion orders. Fourteen out of 250 represents more like five percent.

Moreover, the report leaves a large, poorly demarcated grey area between outright expulsion by Jewish order and evacuation of Arab villages in the course of Haganah/IDF "military operations" (which are said to account for 55 per cent of the exodus).

Some of the villages said to have been evacuated because of "military operations" (and presumably included in that 55 per cent), are seen in the detailed breakdown in the appendix to have been depopulated in a somewhat less straightforward manner. For example, the 710-strong population of Khirbet Lid (al-Awadim), near Afula, in the Jezreel Valley, is said in the appendix to have left because of "the influence of (the nearby battle of) Mishmar Ha'emek" in April 1948. But in the subsequent "comment," the appendix also states: "They tried to return. And were expelled." Khirbet Lid was presumably not included under the expulsion category.

Nor was Fajja, a large village next to Petah Tiqva. Part of the population left after the Irgun Z'vai Leumi (IZL) attack on 17 March. The final evacuation on 15 May took place, according to the appendix, because of "pressure by us (and) a whispering (i.e., psychological warfare) campaign." Presumably Fajja was listed among the two per cent of evacuations caused by psychological warfare; but, given the reference to "pressure" by the Haganah, it could also have been included perhaps in the expulsion category (which it presumably was not).

Nor was Al Khalisa, the site of present-day Kiryat Shmona, in the Galilee Panhandle. The village, with a population of 1,840, is said to have been evacuated on 11 May because of the "fall of Safad," a major Arab centre to the south. But according to the appendix, that was not all. "They wanted (to reach) an agreement with us. They were turned down. (So) they fled," states the report. Presumably, Khalisa was included under the "local factors" category rather than under the expulsion category. As in Al Khalisa, so in As Salihya, a village of 1,520 a few kilometres to the south. "They wanted to negotiate — we did not show up," states the report. The villagers fled Palestine on 25 May.

In military operations, such as the IZL attack on Jaffa, and probably the Haganah offensive in Western Galilee in May 1948, the flight of the Arab inhabitants was clearly desired and deliberately provoked by the attacking troops. The IZL (LH) attack on Deir Yassin near Jerusalem on 9 April ended not only in a massacre but also in the expulsion by the conquering unit of the surviving Arab villagers. (The Intelligence Branch report categorizes the flight of the Deir Yassin inhabitants as a result of a dissident operation rather than under the heading of expulsion.)

While the report was not produced with any propagandizing intention in mind, its authors seem to have exhibited a perhaps understandable tendency to minimize the role direct expulsion orders played in bringing about part of the Palestinian exodus. The proportion of villagers expelled is computed incorrectly and a large grey area of "semi-expulsion" is included under the category of flight due to "military operation" or some other "non-expulsion" category.

Moreover, the report also includes a number of factual errors and omissions in this context; presumably these were the result of misinformation in the reports by local unit commanders and field intelligence officers. For instance, part of the population of the Arab town of Beisan (Beit Shean) is said to have fled on 1 May as a result of "fear and the influence of (the fall of Arab) Haifa." The remainder of the population, according to the appendix, is said to have left on 12 May as a result of the Haganah "conquest (of the town). Fear. The influence of Haifa." But this is not completely accurate. Hundreds of the town's residents stayed on after the conquest, and were expelled only days later — some to Nazareth, others across the Jordan River — at Haganah command."

The small village of 140 tenant farmers of Qira wa Qamun, near Yoqne'am, on the western edge of the Jezreel Valley, was evacuated in March by its inhabitants after they received "friendly advice" from the local Haganah intelligence officer at Yoqne'am, Yehuda Burstein. But the report gives the reason for the Qira evacuation as "fear and influence of the attacks in the area" — not really the same thing.

More inexplicable is the omission altogether from the appendix of the fate of a string of Western Galilee villages — Az Zib, Manshiya, As Sumeiriya, Al Bassa and others — all evacuated during or before the Haganah's Operation Ben-Ami in mid-May. It is quite possible that the Haganah commander in Western Galilee or the relevant intelligence officers simply failed to submit to Intelligence Branch a report on the Arab exodus from their area.

What then is the significance of the IDF Intelligence Branch report in understanding the Palestinian exodus of 1948? To begin with, it thoroughly undermines the traditional official Israeli "explanation" of a mass flight.

The report makes no mention of any blanket order issued over Arab stations or through other means, to the Palestinians to evacuate their homes and villages. Had such an order been issued, it would without doubt have been mentioned or cited in this document; the Haganah Intelligence Service and the IDF Intelligence Branch closely monitored Arab radio transmissions and the Arabic press.

Indeed, the Intelligence Branch report in its main thrust seems to go still further in undermining the official Israeli historiography. For not only is the "Arab orders" explanation seen to be limited in the numbers it affected and extremely restricted geographically; but the report goes out of its way to stress that the exodus was contrary to the political-strategic desires of both the Arab Higher Committee and the governments of the neighbouring Arab states. These, according to the report, struggled against the exodus — threatening, cajoling, imposing punishments, all to no avail. There was no stemming the panic-borne tide.

One must again emphasize that the report and its significance pertain up to 1 June 1948, by which time some 300,000-400,000 Palestinians had left their homes. A similar number was to leave Jewish-held areas in the remaining months of the war.<sup>43</sup>

Mr. Morris has done further scholarly research on the expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs during the second half of the Zionists' war for the partition of Palestine. His research, using official Zionist political and military documents, shows that the same methods of propelling the expulsion of the Palestinian Arabs from their native land that were used by the Zionists in the first half of the war were used even more efficiently in the second half. Mr. Morris proves this with his account of "Operation Dani and the Palestinian Exodus from Lydda and Ramle in 1948":

Operation Dani, starting on the night of July 9-10, was to demoralize swiftly the inhabitants of Lydda and Ramle, and within days to result in a complete exodus of the population to the areas held by the Arab Legion to the east.

From the start, the military operations against the two towns were designed to induce civilian panic and flight — as a means of precipitating military collapse and possibly also as an end in itself. As land battles raged north of the towns, IDF bombing raids hit Lydda and Ramle. Operation Dani HQ at 11.30 hours on July 10 informed IDF General Staff/Operations in two messages that there was a “general and considerable (civilian) flight from Ramle. There is great value in continuing the bombing.... Inform us of possibilities of aerial bombardment of Ramle now.” The linkage in the minds of the Operation Dani commanders between the bombings and the desirability of civilian flight is clear. Later that afternoon Dani HQ radioed IDF General Staff/Operations: “Immediate aerial bombardment is needed as follows: 1. A strong bombardment of Lydda. 2. Bombardment of Ramle...” A few minutes later, Dani HQ radioed Yiftah Brigade HQ: “Flight from the town of Ramle of women, the old and children is to be facilitated. The males (of military age) are to be detained...” A similar message was sent from “Malka” to “Tziporen,” the code names of two Operation Dani units: “Speedy flight from Ramle of women, the old and children is to be facilitated.”

The bombing and shelling of the two towns caused panic and flight (mostly from Ramle). Yiftah Brigade’s intelligence officer on July 11 reported: “The bombing from the air and (shelling by) artillery of Lydda and Ramle cause flight and panic among the civilians (and) a readiness to surrender.” Operation Dani HQ that day repeatedly asked General Staff/Operations for further bombing of the two towns “including incendiaries.”

On July 11 the Israeli air force, in a psychological warfare ploy, also showered Ramle and Lydda with leaflets stating: “You have no chance of receiving help. We intend to conquer the towns. We have no intention of harming persons or property. (But) whoever attempts to oppose us — will die. He who prefers to live must surrender.”<sup>44</sup>

On July 12 Ramle and Lydda were occupied by the Zionists. They imposed a curfew. At 11.30 hours on July 12 the relative calm in Lydda was shattered by some firing. Then all hell broke out for the poor, civilian inhabitants of the city. Mr. Morris describes the horror that took place, the orgy of vengeance by the Zionist soldiers on innocent civilians that Israeli historiography now calls an “uprising”:

Apparently, many Lydda inhabitants, shut up in their houses under curfew, took fright at the sudden outbreak of shooting outside; they may have feared that a massacre by Third Battalion troops was in progress. Some rushed into the streets, only to be cut down by Israeli fire. Some of the soldiers also fired and lobbed grenades into houses from which they suspected snipers to be operating. In the confusion, many unarmed detainees in the detention areas in the center of town — in the mosque and church compounds — were shot and killed. Some of these had attempted to escape, perhaps fearing a massacre.

By 14.00 hours it was all over. Yeruham Cohen, an intelligence officer at Operation Dani HQ, later described the situation in Lydda at the time: “The inhabitants of the town have become panic-stricken. They feared that...the IDF troops would take revenge on them. It was a horrible, earsplitting scene. Women wailed at the tops of their voices and old men said prayers, as if they saw their own deaths before their eyes...” The wailing may have been precipitated less by fear than by the sight of the carnage on the streets, at which Cohen only hinted.

The Israeli troops’ fire between 11.30 and 14.00 hours had caused “some 250 dead...and many wounded.”

The commanders of the (Palmach) Yiftah Brigade, one of the best in the IDF in 1948, were later to admit that the Third Battalion had not written in Lydda on July 12 one of the glorious chapters in its history. Brigade Commander Mula Cohen was to write of the slaughter that “the cruelty of the war here reached its zenith. The conquest of the town which had served as a loyal base for the enemy...gave rise to vengeful urges (among the Israeli troops), which had sought an outlet...”<sup>45</sup>

The massacre at Lydda directly involved then, and future, top leaders of the Zionist State in the war crime of forcibly expelling the Palestinian Arabs from Lydda and Ramle:

The outbreak of shooting at Lydda around noon, on July 12, focused minds wonderfully at Operation Dani HQ at Yazur. A strong desire to see the Arabs of the two towns flee already existed: the shooting seemed to offer the justification and opportunity for what the bombings and artillery barrages, which were insubstantial by World War II standards, had in the main failed to achieve.

Ben-Gurion spent the early afternoon at Operation Dani HQ. Also present were IDF OC Operations General Yadin, Deputy Chief of Staff General Zvi Ayalon, Yisrael Galili (former chief of the defunct Haganah National Staff and a senior, if at this time shadowy, defense establishment figure), Allon, and his deputy, Operation Dani OC Operations Yitzhak Rabin. There was shooting in Lydda. According to the best account of that meeting, someone, possibly Allon, proposed expelling the inhabitants of the two towns. Ben-Gurion said nothing, and no decision was taken. Then Ben-Gurion, Allon and Rabin left the room. Allon asked: “What shall we do with the Arabs?” Ben-Gurion made a dismissive, energetic gesture with his hand and said “expel them (garesh otan).”

At 13.30 hours, July 12, before the shooting had completely died down in Lydda, Operation Dani HQ issued the following order to Yiftah Brigade: “1. The inhabitants of Lydda must be expelled quickly without attention to age. They should be directed towards Beit Nabala. Yiftah (Brigade HQ) must determine the method and inform Dani HQ and 8th Brigade HQ. 2. Implement immediately.” A similar order was apparently communicated to Kiryati Brigade at about the same time.<sup>46</sup>

During the afternoon and evening of July 12, thousands of Ramle’s inhabitants streamed out of the town, on foot or in trucks and buses. The expulsion from massacre-shocked Lydda had not yet begun. A new eyewitness arrived at the two towns, Bechor Shitrit, a long-time career civil servant in the Palestine Police and the “token” Palestinian Arab Jew among a European born or bred Zionist leadership.

As Morris relates it:

Then Minister for Minority Affairs Bechor Shitrit appeared on the scene, almost halting the exodus from Ramle and stymying the expulsion from Lydda before it had begun.

The Cabinet knew nothing of the expulsion orders, and Shitrit arrived in Ramle during the afternoon of July 12 to look over part of his new "constituency"; he was responsible for the welfare of Israel's Arab minority. He was shocked by what he saw and heard; the Kiryati commanders in the town were in the midst of preparations to expel its inhabitants.

The majority of Ramle's inhabitants, he wrote the following day in his report on the visit, had not fled during the fighting and had stayed put. But Kiryati Brigade OC Ben-Gal had told him that "in line with an order from the commander of the operation, Paicovitch (i.e., Yigal Allon), the IDF was about to take prisoner all males of military age, and the rest of the inhabitants — men, women and children — were to be taken beyond (sic) the border and left to their fate."

"The army intends to deal in the same way" with the inhabitants of Lydda, Shitrit reported that he was told.<sup>47</sup>

Despite Shitrit's attempts to halt the expulsion of the population of Ramle and Lydda, the Zionist leadership was undeterred, and on the morning of July 13th the expulsion of the Arabs began.

An intelligence officer, probably of Kiryati's 42nd Battalion, on July 13 described the situation in Ramle to 43rd Battalion HQ: "The transfer of the refugees began at 17.30 (hours, July 12). The majority of the refugees are strewn along the main street...at the entrance to Ramle from the Jerusalem side. From there the refugees were transported in vehicles along the Jerusalem road to a point 700 metres from Al-Qubab and were sent by foot to Beit Shanna and Salbit."

By 18.15 hours, July 13 Operation Dani HQ clearly felt that the evacuation of Lydda's population to Arab Legion lines should have been completed. The campaign HQ cabled Yiftah Brigade: "Has the removal of the population (hotza' at ha' ochlosiah) of Lydda been completed...?"

During the afternoon of July 13 a problem cropped up which threatened to endanger the eviction operation just as the last of the two towns' inhabitants were being dispatched towards the Arab Legion lines. The General Staff received word that an International Red Cross team was about to descend on Ramle. General Staff/Operations informed Dani HQ and Dani HQ instructed Kiryati Brigade: "The Red Cross or any other foreign element is not to be allowed to visit Ramle" that day. But the Red Cross team would visit the city at 13.30 hours the following day, July 14, and must be received properly. Kiryati responded: "The Red Cross visit tomorrow is too early. It must be delayed..."

But General Staff/Operations, probably for political reasons, refused to sanction a major delay. At 01.15 hours on July 14 Dani HQ, after hearing from General Staff/Operations, instructed Kiryati: The visit would take place at 15.00 hours that day. "You must by then evacuate all the refugees, remove the bodies of the dead and fix up the hospital." The order was signed "Yitzhak R(abin)"<sup>48</sup>

Yitzhak Rabin personally took part in killing Palestinians, expelling Palestinians, and in covering up war crimes during the expulsion of the inhabitants of Ramle and Lydda. He later became Chief of Staff of the Army, Ambassador to Washington and Prime Minister. At present he is Defense Minister responsible for the war crimes and crimes against humanity committed daily against the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza and in the Golan Heights.

Benny Morris reports what the Zionist soldiers related about the suffering of the Palestinian refugees. He states:

All IDF soldiers who witnessed the events agreed that the exodus turned into an extended episode of suffering for the refugees, especially for the towns-people of Lydda, who had to cover the 6-7 kilometers to Beit Nabala northeastwards and the 10-12 kilometers to Barfiliya on foot, on dusty tracks under a hot July sun.

In general, the refugees were sent on their way unmolested. According to Guttman, orders were issued to at least some units not to check the refugees' baggage (carried in animal-led carts or on their backs). But many cases were reported of robbery by IDF troops en route. One Minister complained in Cabinet on July 21 of refugee women being robbed of their jewels. Several months later, a complaint reached Allon that troops at the checkpoints on the way out of Lydda had been "ordered" to "take from the expelled Arabs every watch, piece of jewellery or money...so that arriving completely destitute, they would become a burden on the Arab Legion." The complainant, Aharon Cohen, the director of Mapam's Arab Department, who based himself on the eyewitness testimony of a soldier who was at the scene, said that he did not know whether the order had been a "local" one or had been a general one issued from on high.

A British teacher, working for the Jerusalem and East Mission in the C.M.S. School in Amman, late in July investigated the state of the Palestinian refugees in Transjordan and in the Triangle. She came away with the testimony confirming that of Aharon Cohen's unnamed informant. She had heard "the same tale" from all the Lydda refugees: "They were told by the Jews that they might leave at their leisure and take what they could carry, then as they got outside the town they were met by Jews who stripped them of all their valuables, even to the women's ear-rings, bracelets and head coins. One woman told me she started with only 11 piastres and that was taken from her."

The spectacle of the stream of refugees on the roads out of the two cities under the hot sun (30-35C) shocked many of the IDF soldiers. Guttman five months later described it thus: "A multitude of inhabitants walked one after another. Women walked burdened with packages and sacks on their heads. Mothers dragged children after them...Occasionally warning shots were heard."

Another Israeli soldier, from Kibbutz Ein Harod (probably from the Third Battalion), recorded a few weeks after the event vivid impressions of the thirst and hunger of the refugees on the road, of how "children got lost" and of how one child fell into a well and drowned, ignored as the refugees fought each other to draw some water.

The suffering of some of the Lydda refugees on the roads had been extreme. "Many of them had walked for three days, sleeping out two nights, before they were picked up by the Arab Legion... Most of them" told Winifred Coate "that they started out carrying some bedding, but with exhaustion from thirst and the frightful heat of the journey they threw away everything they had and just escaped with nothing. One woman nursing a baby showed me her two other toddling children, whom she said she had (had) to carry in turns all the way, with the baby, so that it was impossible to carry anything. Another woman, who was unmarried and an aunt, had brought along seven children, all young, whose parents had been killed before their eyes."

Coate went on to describe the condition of the thousands of Ramle-Lyddá refugees who had reached Amman. The Transjordan government was giving each refugee two loaves (Ed: presumably two pancake-sized loaves) of bread per day. "Small children and babies are suffering terribly," she reported. In one school building in Amman she saw "twelve families in a medium-sized classroom; it was easy for them to get in as they have no possessions, nothing in which to cook and in most cases no bedding. They were lying on old sacks and rags. Near the school about ten families were living out under the trees in private gardens which had a few olive trees" in improvised tents. Coate commented that "many of them" were used to camping out in vineyards "at this time of year, but this is in the middle of Amman and is most unsuitable in a town." She feared an outbreak of disease.<sup>49</sup>

Other eyewitness accounts are equally heart-rending<sup>50</sup>:

A blind teenager Raja'i Buseilah (now an English professor at an American University) remembers being huddled with the other frightened people of Lydda. "The streets were full of sound and bustle, more of relief than of loss, of disaster, of the misery lying in wait on the road." Raja'i's keen ears heard the Israeli loudspeakers broadcasting from trucks, warning the people that they had better leave quickly or they would suffer a similar fate as those massacred in the Dahmash Mosque. The hordes of civilians were marched eastward, each step taking them closer to their new life as refugees.

As the London Economist reported, "The Arab refugees were systematically stripped of all their belongings before they were sent on their trek to the frontier. Household belongings, stores, clothing, all had to be left behind."<sup>51</sup> Though blind and defenceless, Raja'i recalls, "I was searched twice and lost a watch." According to Saba A. Saba, another Palestinian youth, some were treated even more brutally. "Two of my friends were killed in cold blood. One was carrying a box presumed to have money and the other a pillow which was believed to contain valuables." Sayid Nasrallah had a similar experience. "A friend of mine resisted and was killed in front of me. He had 400 Palestinian pounds in his pocket." Most of the people, however, turned over their valuables without a struggle...

The mood of these tragic events would later be captured by Ismail Shammout, an eighteen-year-old survivor of the death march who would eventually become a recognized artist. Ismail was expelled from Lydda along with his parents and eight brothers and sisters. While marching in the blazing heat, he spotted some water. He rushed to fill a pot he was carrying. He later recalled, "At that moment a jeep pulled up with three people. One of them, a Zionist officer, got out. He pulled a gun and put it to my head and ordered me to put the water down."<sup>52</sup> The Arab teenager had no choice but to obey.

Ismail would never forget the thirst of the thousands of people who trudged on, not knowing where they were going. He saw people chewing grass in the hope of obtaining a bit of moisture. Others drank their children's urine. By the roadside pregnant women were prematurely delivering babies, their labor brought on by the strain of their ordeal. None of these infants survived. Since no one had any opportunity to bury the dead, they were covered with grass and abandoned...

Many of those on the death march came from Ramle. Abu Hassan was a prominent member of the community who represented Ramle on the government tax assessment committees. When the Zionists invaded Ramle, five Israeli soldiers broke into his home and ordered him and his family to leave, saying, "This is our country and these are our homes; get out!"

But according to Abu Hassan not all the members of his family left willingly. "My first-born aged sixteen years tried to protect his mother and grandmother from the rough handling of the intruders only to be shot dead." The rest of the family were dumbfounded by the murder as they were pushed out of their homes with rifle butts. They were not allowed to take anything and indeed Abu Hassan was robbed of the few coins in his pocket. But this was not the worst part of the tragedy. "We were not allowed to attend our dead son. How and where he is buried I shall never know..."

A woman who calls herself "Hanan" reported what happened when Zionist troops broke into her Ramle home. Her father begged the troops to leave his family alone. But the officer in charge threatened to avenge Arab insults against Jews. After robbing the house the Zionist officer pointed to "Hanan" and told his men "She is yours, take her." Her father was shot when he tried to stop the soldiers.

"Hanan" was taken to a bedroom where she was attacked by three Israeli soldiers. "They threw me on the bed and helped each other to undress me and before I was attacked, I fainted. I came to, bleeding and in pain and realized that the three soldiers had raped me in turn." The young woman was taken back to join her family where she found her father dead on the floor with her mother bending over him weeping. Soon after the Israeli soldiers shoved "Hanan" and her mother toward the door and warned them that if they wished to remain alive they should join the crowd in the street. The residents of Ramle were loaded into trucks and driven part of the way to Ramallah but had to walk the last few miles.

"Hanan" saw that all her neighbors had suffered the same fate as her family. Sari Nair recalls that his family was routed out of his home in Ramle by a Jewish soldier who came to the door and told Sari's father that everyone must leave. "Otherwise you know what will happen. What happen at Deir Yassin will happen to you."<sup>53</sup>

According to a report on the situation of the refugees in and around Ramallah transmitted to the Foreign Office in London by British Consul-General in Jerusalem, Sir Hugh Dow, their situation was catastrophic:

Everywhere children and tiny babies and worn-out women and old men, have come in, wave after wave, into this town. Seventy thousand people into a township of ten thousand...The lucky ones with camels and crowded trucks, the unlucky ones, bleeding, and a woman crying out for news of her only child that escaped. People have brought away nothing but blankets. They have seen terrible and unforgettable things in their streets...Every roadside, the shade of every tree, every corner of every house and hotel is crowded with makeshift families...The smell is beginning to be bad in so many places...There won't be a drop of water left in Ramallah in three days...<sup>54</sup>

The towns of Lydda and Ramle were thoroughly ransacked and looted by the Zionist soldiers. Civilians from surrounding Jewish settlements and from Tel Aviv also joined in the looting. All movable goods vanished. Doors, windows and tiles were ripped out of their houses.

David Ben-Gurion confirms this in his diary entry for July 15, 1948:

The bitter question has arisen regarding acts of robbery and rape in the conquered towns. Soldiers from all the battalions robbed and stole.<sup>55</sup>

The expulsion of the Arab populations of Lydda and Ramle in July 1948 accounted for a full one-tenth of the Arab expellees from Zionist-occupied Palestine during the war for the partition of Palestine. Seventy thousand civilians were totally uprooted and their property looted in this great war crime by the Zionists.

The robberies, rapes and murders accompanying the Zionist expulsion of the inhabitants of Lydda and Ramle were not unique, for equivalent crimes took place throughout Palestine. Neutral observers stated that the Zionist terrorization and other atrocities committed against the Palestinian Arabs and the wholesale looting of their possessions, were part of a calculated design by the Zionists to expel the Palestinians and deter them from ever returning.

Michael Palumbo reports:

The expulsion from Al Rama took place after the completion of Operation Matateh, when there were UN observers in the area. An American UN observer spotted the villagers on the road after they had been forced out of their homes by the Jews. Dr. Abdullah Sherban, a local doctor, told the UN investigators, "I have been expelled from my village with all of the Christian inhabitants. I would like the UN to take action so that such a shame be stopped." After a thorough investigation at Al Rama, Commandant Perrossier of France, a senior UN observer, stated in his report: "The Jews have terrorized the Christian Arabs to force them to emigrate to Lebanon so that the Jews can get their land." He also noted, "The acts of looting in the village are similar to those in all of the villages evacuated by the inhabitants." Some villagers, however, suffered a worse fate than the people of Ghuweir and Al Rama.<sup>56</sup>

A. L. Miller, a YMCA official, was in Jerusalem when the Zionist atrocities were revealed. He reported to his superiors that Arab morale was affected by the crimes committed by the Jews, which in his view "really have been atrocities." Miller believed that the Jewish crimes greatly contributed to the Palestinian exodus. He noted: "In my opinion the atrocities were committed with this in view."<sup>57</sup>

Several months after the Israeli capture of Acre, Lieutenant Petite, a United Nations observer from France, visited Acre to investigate Arab charges that those Palestinians who remained under Israeli rule were being mistreated. Petite reported that looting was being conducted in a systematic manner by the Israeli army which was carrying off furniture, clothes, and any other property that could be used by new Jewish immigrants who were being settled into the city. The UN observer reported that the looting was part of "a Jewish plan to prevent the return of refugees," similar to what was being done in other parts of the new Jewish state.<sup>58</sup>

Israeli journalist Tom Segev describes how many Zionists enriched themselves because of this policy:

And so tens of thousands of Israelis, soldiers and civilians, helped themselves to the spoils. One took an armchair, another a rug, a third took a sewing machine and a fourth — a combine; one took an apartment and another took a vineyard. Very quickly and easily a whole class — albeit a small one — of newly prosperous people appeared on the scene: merchants, speculators, contractors, agents of all sorts, industrialists and farmers. Some stole what property they could, others received theirs legally. A good many of the transactions fell into that grey area between what the law permitted and what was considered illegal, between outright robbery and official expropriation.<sup>59</sup>

SUMMARY OF EXPULSIONS OF PALESTINIAN ARABS FROM APRIL 1, 1948

1. On April 1, 1948 "Operation Nachson" was launched to carve out and hold a corridor from Tel Aviv on the coast to Jerusalem in the interior. This involved the occupation and destruction of Arab villages in this corridor. The massacre of Deir Yassin on April 10th was part of this operation. By April 12th, the Zionists had expelled about 15,000 Arab villagers from this corridor.

2. On April 13, 1948 "Operation Jephtha" was launched to clear eastern Galilee of Arabs and to link Tiberias and Safad. On April 18, the Zionists occupied Tiberias and brutally expelled 4,500 Palestinian Arabs from that city as well as about 14,000 Arabs from the neighboring villages.

3. On April 22, 1948, "Operation Misparayim" was launched for the capture of the whole of Haifa. Fearing for their lives, all but a few thousand of Haifa's more than 60,000 Arab inhabitants fled.

4. On April 27 the Zionists attacked the villages around Jaffa, occupying Salameh, Yazur and others, expelling about 5,000 Arabs.

5. Also on April 27 the Zionists invaded the suburbs of Jerusalem and were able to occupy the quarters of Katamon, the German colony, and upper Bakaa, expelling about 30,000 Arabs.

6. Between April 28 and May 6 the Zionists attacked more Arab villages in Galilee and in the district of Beisan, expelling their inhabitants and committing horrid massacres to impel flight.

7. On May 7 the Zionists attacked the city of Safad. As a result, 25,000 Arabs were expelled from Safad and the surrounding villages.

8. On May 11 the Zionists completed their attack on the city of Jaffa, expelling 67,000 Arabs.

9. Also on May 11th the Zionists occupied the town of Beisan in Northern Palestine, expelling 15,000 Arabs from the town and its surrounding villages.

10. On May 12 and 13 large scale operations were launched in the southern region of Palestine, expelling about 25,000 of its Arab inhabitants.

11. On May 14 "Operation Ben-Ami" was launched with the objective of occupying the city of Acre and its surrounding villages. More than 30,000 Arabs were expelled.

12. On May 14 following the withdrawal of the last British forces from Jerusalem, the Zionists occupied upper Baka, Mount Zion, Mamillah, Musrara and the southern outskirts of Jerusalem. More than 15,000 Arabs left the Jerusalem area, completing the expulsion of Arabs from modern Jerusalem.

13. On July 12-13 "Operation Dani" was launched with the Zionists occupying the cities of Ramle and Lydda and ruthlessly expelling 70,000 Arabs from their homes.

14. Between July 18-25 the Zionists attacked the Arab villages of Ein Ghazal and Jaba by air and land, systematically destroying the villages and making their 8,000 inhabitants homeless.

15. On October 31 the Zionists occupied the village of Ikrit in western Galilee, subsequently expelling its inhabitants. On the same day the village of Kfar Berem was occupied, and its inhabitants, too, were expelled.

This summary by no means exhausts the list of expulsions perpetrated by the Zionists against the Palestinian Arabs during the war. Many villages throughout the land were ruthlessly depopulated and then razed to the ground. Not even churches, mosques and cemeteries were spared.

This summary is not just cold numbers. The numbers represent a compendium of individual suffering by a huge proportion of the Palestinian Arab people. These civilian victims suffered the indiscriminate shelling and bombing of their native towns and villages. Their womenfolk experienced robbery and rape and the death of their infant children. Their menfolk experienced murder, humiliation and the loss of all their worldly possessions. Having been totally dispossessed and left destitute, their ancestral homes were looted of movable goods and then razed to the ground. The people themselves were herded like cattle in trucks or forced to tramp on aching feet to Jordan, Lebanon or Syria. The suffering of the despoiled Palestinians continues today as a homeless refugee nation.

Michael Palumbo writes:

Most of the Israeli atrocities in Upper Galilee were motivated by a desire to terrorize the population into fleeing. Some murders were committed for vengeance or to cover up looting. A few Zionist outrages appear to be almost senseless brutality. The American diplomat William Burdett reported to Washington that "after the surrender in three Arab villages in the Galilee area, the Jews ordered the villagers to turn in all of their arms in twenty-five minutes. When unable to meet the deadline, five men from one village and two each from another were selected at random and shot. Killings confirmed by UN investigations."<sup>60</sup>

At Safed prisoners captured during the fighting were treated by the Zionists with brutality. Netiva Ben Yehuda has written honestly about the slaughter of several groups of Arab POWs during and after the battle for Safed.

In one case she saw an intelligence officer torture about ten Arab prisoners with a hoe until they bled to death. "He beat these wounded men, burnt men who had not slept for days with their lips swollen from lack of water." The intelligence officer refused to allow the accumulated bodies to be carried out of the interrogation room since he wished to frighten the other Arabs who were brought in. Ben Yehuda was overwhelmed by the experience. Many of her fellow Palmachniks were also disgusted by the sight of blood and splattered brains. But the intelligence officer had only contempt for their humane sentiments.

He mumbled as he murdered the helpless prisoners: "These Palmachniks! Weaklings, what do they think? They escaped! Did they think we can maintain a state without such things? And is this the first time? So where are we to get men with guts to do things for us? Maybe we should hire people? Or hire some British? Free some Nazis!"<sup>61</sup>

...In the village of Jish in the Safed district, the thievery was particularly vicious. Two days after the village was captured, Israeli soldiers stole money, jewellery, and other valuables from several homes. An Arab member of the Knesset later noted: "When the people who were robbed insisted on being given receipts, they were taken to a remote place and shot dead." The village complained to the local commander who had the bodies brought back to the village. "The finger of one of the dead had been cut off to remove a ring." In a conversation with Ben Gurion one of the Prime Minister's most trusted military advisers, Fred Grunich, revealed that among the atrocities he had observed was "the horror of the seizure of the Arab village Jish including the massacre of civilians."<sup>62</sup>

Dr. Nafez Nazzal personally interviewed witnesses in refugee camps in Lebanon, Syria and Jordan. His book provides the best direct evidence from witnesses who testified about their personal experience and what happened to their families, relatives and the inhabitants of their towns and villages.

The Arab village of Safsaf is about seven kilometers northwest of Safad. In 1948 it had about one thousand inhabitants. On the evening of October 29, 1948, the Zionists shelled the village, occupying it the next day and ordering the villagers to line up. Eyewitness Umm Shahadah al-Salih testifies:

As we lined up, a few Jewish soldiers ordered four girls to accompany them to carry water for the soldiers. Instead they took them to our empty houses and raped them. About seventy of our men were blindfolded and shot to death, one after the other, in front of us.<sup>63</sup>

Seventy unarmed men shot to death out of a village with a total population of 1,000 men, women and children! The world cannot believe that Jewish survivors of Nazi atrocities could commit cold-blooded murder on Palestinian Arabs who did them no harm. But the bullets directed by Nazi war criminals at Jews were echoed by bullets directed by Zionist war criminals at Arabs.

As for rape, a contempt for womanhood is clear in the words of Agriculture Minister Aharon Zisling:

It has been said that there were cases of rape. I could forgive acts of rape but I won't forgive other deeds, which appear to me much graver. When a town is entered and rings are forcibly removed from fingers and jewellery from necks — that is a very grave matter.<sup>64</sup>

A crime against a woman's body, if she is an Arab woman, is not as grave as stealing her jewellery in Zionist eyes! Defiling her body is of minor importance. Not turning her jewelry over to the Zionist authorities is a "grave" crime! Eyewitness Kamal Sulaiman 'Abdulmu'ti testifies about what happened in the Arab village of El Bi'na:

When El Bi'na was taken by the Jews, my family and I were in El Bi'na's orchards to the north. The Jews grouped us with the other villagers, separating us from our women. We remained all day in the village courtyard, thirsty and hungry. Two villagers asked permission to bring water to the elderly and the children. The Jews took the men to get the water, but they shot them instead. The Jews searched us, took what little money we had, our rings and watches, and chose about 200 men at random and drove away with them in trucks toward Er Rama. We do not know what happened to them. The rest of us were to proceed north to Lebanon. We were forced to travel at night with our old men, women and children. The Jews shot into the air to terrify us. They injured my nine-year-old son in his knee. We walked for hours.<sup>65</sup>

The shooting of unarmed men was a common practice. What the Zionists so proudly proclaim a "War for Independence," was more exactly an exercise in butchery. Even a white flag of surrender in an unarmed village was not respected. A good example is the village of Majd el Kurum, about 18 kilometers east of Acre, with a population of 1,400 Arabs. According to the eyewitness testimony of 'Umm 'Abid al-Qiblawi:

During the morning of October 30, 1948 a few villagers decided to carry white flags and meet the Jews west of the village, to tell the Jewish soldiers that the village was prepared to surrender. The Jewish force entered the village and ordered us to assemble in the center of the village. Jewish soldiers picked twelve of our men at random, blindfolded them, and shot them in front of us.<sup>66</sup>

In many cases the Zionists killed Palestinian villagers by bombardment from the air, the same type of war crime they continued for decades afterwards against Palestinians in refugee camps. A good example is the Arab village of Safuriya, about six kilometers northwest of Nazareth. It had a population of 4,330 Palestinians. During the night of July 15, 1948, three airplanes bombed Saffuriya. According to the eyewitness testimony of a village farmer, Salih Muhammad Nassir:

Three Jewish planes flew over the village and dropped barrels filled with explosives, metal fragments, nails and glass. They were very loud and disrupting. They shook the whole village, broke windows, doors, killed at least eleven and wounded at least four of the villagers and many of the village livestock. We expected a war but not an air and tank war.<sup>67</sup>

The ruthless shelling and bombing of civilian targets was designed to impel the flight of the Palestinian Arabs, to force their expulsion from their homeland. A good example is the village of Kuweikat about nine kilometers northeast of the city of Acre, with a population of 1,050 Arabs. During the night of July 9-10, 1948, the Zionists shelled Kuweikat. According to the eyewitness testimony of Hassan Ahmad 'Abdullatif:

We were wakened by the loudest noise we had ever heard, shells exploding and artillery fire. The whole village was in panic. Women were screaming, children were crying. Most of the villagers began to flee with their pajamas on.<sup>68</sup>

Those few villagers, mostly elderly people, who remained in Kuweikat during the night of the attack, were expelled.

When indiscriminate bombing and shelling did not sufficiently impel the civilian Arab population to leave, the Zionists utilized other methods to "encourage" the depopulation of Arab villages. According to the eyewitness testimony of the uncle and aunt of Hussain As'ad Khalil of the village of El Bassa, about 18 kilometers north of Acre with a population of about 3,000 Arabs:

On May 14, 1948 the day the village fell, Jewish soldiers ordered all those who remained in the village to gather in the church. Simultaneously they took a few young people, including Salim Darwish and his sister 'Illin, outside the church and shot them dead. Soon after, they ordered us to bury them. During the following day we were transferred to El Mazra'a, where we met other people gathered from the surrounding villages.<sup>69</sup>

When bombing and shelling and the shooting of unarmed civilians to set an example of the fate awaiting those who would remain in their village was insufficient to force the Palestinians out, the Zionists would simply order the inhabitants to leave. The eyewitness testimony of Hussain 'Ali Yusif recounts what happened when the village of Er Rama fell to the Jews:

The people in Er Rama were ordered to assemble at the center of the village. A Jewish soldier stood on the top of a rise and addressed us. He ordered us to leave to Lebanon, threatening death to those taking any of their belongings with them.<sup>70</sup>

It was not enough that Palestinians should have their homes and farmland stolen; they faced the death penalty if they should try to carry out any of their belongings with them!

Sometimes a villager would try to sneak back to his home to save some of his worldly possessions. His fate was often death at the hands of the Zionists. According to the eyewitness testimony of Hussain 'Ali Hamid of the Arab village of 'Ein ez Zeitun:

I and five other villagers went back to get the money that we had buried in our courtyards. Rashid Khalil, the first to enter the village, was shot dead by a Jewish soldier. We saw it was too dangerous to go in and decided to leave to Lebanon.<sup>71</sup>

'Ein ez Zeitun' is a village on the northern outskirts of the city of Safad, with a population of approximately 900 Palestinian Arabs. It became the scene of barbarous cruelties. After the Palmach terrorists occupied the village on the night of May 1, 1948 they ordered the villagers to assemble at Mahmud Hamid's courtyard. Then the women were separated from the men and were taken to a courtyard behind the village mosque. According to the eyewitness testimony of Muhammad Ahmad Hamid, a mechanic:

I decided not to leave the village and hid in a nearby stable, close to my house. I remained in hiding for a while and then decided to join the people assembled at Mahmud Hamid's courtyard. As I was crossing the street, I was caught. The Jewish soldiers took me to the center of the village. There I saw Jamil Ahmad Idris crucified on a tree. I was beaten and questioned, then I was ordered to join the men in the courtyard.<sup>72</sup>

In 'Ein ez Zeitun, Palestinians were killed as they tried to surrender. According to villager Mansur Shaibi:

We were terrified and decided to remain in our house with some of our relatives. We were afraid to surrender because Rashid Shaibi, who was hiding with us, had seen 'Abdullah Shaibi killed as he was trying to surrender.<sup>73</sup>

At the courtyard a horrible crime took place. According to the testimony of eyewitness Munira Hamid Shaibi, after being taken to the courtyard where the villagers had been gathered,

A Palmach officer ordered his soldiers to choose thirty-seven teenaged boys at random, ordering the rest of the villagers to move into the storage rooms of the mosque. Those boys were taken away and were never seen again. One was my brother. I do not think my brother is alive. I think the Jews killed him. Why would the Jews keep him for so long? What use is he to them?<sup>74</sup>

It is unreasonable to believe that not even one of thirty seven teenaged boys in 1948 would try to contact their families during the four decades since they were separated from them. The only reasonable assumption is that they cannot speak because they are buried in an unmarked mass grave.

After expelling those Palestinian Arabs they had not murdered, the Zionists wantonly burned and destroyed the houses of the inhabitants they had expelled. An example is the village of El Khalisa, about 28 kilometers north of Safad, which had a population of approximately 1,900 Arabs. Eyewitness testimony of villager Ahmad Hussain al-'Ali, who had fled with his family for their lives to Lebanon, recounts:

I left the village without harvesting my grain. I returned to collect some of our tobacco and grain to keep my family from starving in Lebanon. At the village we found that the Jews had burned and destroyed many houses. The village was in ruins.<sup>75</sup>

Many times Palestinian Arabs from villages on main roads fled temporarily for safety to nearby villages, expecting to return to their homes when the fighting died down. When they tried to return home, they found that the Zionists had wantonly destroyed their homes to make it impossible for the indigenous Arab populace to return. A good example is that of Es Sumeiriya, a village about six kilometers north of the city of Acre on the main road between Acre and the Lebanese border. It had a population of about 800 Arabs. According to the eyewitness testimony of such a villager, Ibrahim Taher Sa'ayah, who returned to Es Sumeiriya three days after the village was captured by the Zionists: "Few people were in the village. Most of the village was destroyed."<sup>76</sup>

Many of the villagers of Es Sumeiriya had temporarily fled for relative safety to the village of El Ghabisiya, about twelve kilometers northeast of the city of Acre, with about 1,300 inhabitants. According to the eyewitness testimony of Hus-sain Shahadah:

At dawn on May 21, the Zionists approached El Ghabisiya. They shelled the village, killing and injuring many of the villagers as they were fleeing. We left in such a hurry that I was unable to take anything with me.<sup>77</sup>

When an entire village was not immediately destroyed at the time of its occupation, it was nonetheless predestined for obliteration. An example is the village of Ez Zib, about 14 kilometers north of Acre with a population of approximately 2,000 Palestinians. According to the eyewitness testimony of villager As'ad Qiblawi:

I returned to the village about a month after it had fallen into Jewish hands, to bring a few things from my home. I talked to the elderly people who had remained; they were all staying at Abu Salih's house. They said that the Jewish soldiers had destroyed most of the al-Ramil area, south of the village, and the eastern section.<sup>78</sup>

Ez Zib, like many other Arab villages, had totally disappeared. It was pulled down and converted into a kibbutz, Geshar Hazaf, now inhabited by American, British and South African Jews. Its inhabitants have seen their ancestral village erased from the map, their lands expropriated for the benefit of foreign colonists receiving largesse from abroad while they subsist in the bitterness of enforced exile.

On the path to this enforced exile the Palestinian Arabs had many bitter pills to swallow. Here is the eyewitness testimony of Aminah Muhammad Musa of the village of Kabri:

My husband and I left Kabri on foot the day before it fell. We were met by the Jews, who stopped and searched us. They took my jewelry — gold earrings, a necklace, and four bracelets — and forty Palestinian pounds we had with us. One of the Jews kept saying, "I will give this necklace to my girlfriend." I did not say a word to him because I knew they were our enemies and that they had no mercy on us. A Jewish officer interrogated us and, putting a gun to my husband's neck, took him away. An officer came and asked me not to cry. He said he would bring my husband back, except that he had already been killed. The next morning I found the body of my dead husband. He was shot in the back of the head. I did not know what to do. I could not dig a grave for him. We carried him on a piece of wood to the cemetery and buried him in his mother's grave. Until today I worry and pray that I buried him the right way, in the proper position.<sup>79</sup>

The Zionists chased their Palestinian Arab victims from town to town, from village to village. According to eyewitness testimony of Muhammad Qassim Tarawiya of the village of Edh Dhahiriya et Tahta, about two kilometers southwest of Safad, with a population of about 400 Arabs:

With the fall of Safad we left with our families. I tried to return to our village with some others to bring out some of our belongings. The Zionists had planted mines. Some were blown up by Jewish mines. My father, brother, wife and children stayed with me on the outskirts of the village of Farradiya. My mother, sister, cousin and nephew stayed at Safsaf. When the Jews bombed Safsaf, my mother, sister and other relatives were among those killed there.<sup>80</sup>

Massacre, murder, rape, robbery, death and destruction propelled the Palestinians from their homeland. Even Zionist soldiers themselves admit to these unspeakable crimes for example, in the village of Duwayma, in the Hebron district:

They killed some eighty to one hundred Arabs, women and children. The children were killed by smashing their skulls with clubs....In the village there remained Arab men and women who were put in the houses without food. Then the sappers came to blow up the houses.<sup>81</sup>

One of the survivors of the massacre, Hassan Mahmud Hodeib, said that on 28 and 29 October 1948, 20 tanks from Moshe Dayan's 89th Battalion surrounded the village and committed mass murder against its civilian inhabitants. Among the victims were 75 elderly people who took refuge in a mosque. Members of 35 families were discovered hiding in a cave and were machinegunned. The Israeli newspaper Hadashot confirmed the massacre when its correspondent, Yoella Har-Shefi, uncovered skeletons in a cistern near the village 36 years later, in 1984.<sup>82</sup>

The depopulation and destruction of Palestinian Arab cities, towns and villages was also accompanied by the expulsion of thousands of Bedouins from their traditional lands, many of whom "had definitely reached the semi-nomadic stage in pre-Partition Palestine."<sup>83</sup> In the Negev alone, there were "approximately 90,000 Bedouins divided among ninety-five tribes."<sup>84</sup> Due to the attacks of the Zionist invaders in their lands, only about 10,000 Bedouins were left in the Negev after the 1948 war.<sup>85</sup>

All of these expulsions, from towns and villages, and of the Bedouin tribes, Zionist propaganda attributes to appeals by radio broadcasts of the Arab leaders telling their people to leave. These non-existent appeals are a total fabrication intended to cover up the war crime of the expulsion of the Palestinians.

Erskine Childers, a British journalist, examined the records of all broadcasts by Arab transmitters in the Middle East in 1948, which had been monitored by the BBC. Childers concludes that

There was not a single order, or appeal, or suggestion about evacuation from Palestine from any Arab radio station, inside or outside Palestine, in 1948. There is repeated monitored record of Arab appeals, even flat orders, to the civilians of Palestine to stay put.<sup>86</sup>

The IDF Intelligence Branch Report, in the words of Jewish scholar Benny Morris, as reported in The Jerusalem Post, confirms Childers' conclusions:

Significantly... the report makes no mention of any blanket order issued over Arab radio stations, or through other means, to the Palestinians to evacuate their homes and villages.<sup>87</sup>

So, when the transcripts of the Arab broadcasts and the Zionists' own internal intelligence documents are examined, the official reason given by the Zionist State for the exodus of the Palestinians is found to be a pure hoax.

The expulsion of the Palestinians continued after the 1948 war. Using allegedly "legal" methods, this removal and expulsion of as many as possible of the remaining Palestinian Arabs was directed from the highest levels of the Zionist State by a "Committee for Removal and Expulsion," chaired by David Ben-Gurion. Tom Segev discovered that although "Ben-Gurion in his diary referred to the Committee for 'Removal and Expulsion,' the editors of the Prime Minister's diary saw fit to 'correct' his wording. According to them, the committee dealt with 'evacuation and repopulation.'"<sup>88</sup>

The legal fictions used by the Zionists to expel Palestinians from their homes after the creation of Israel are practically without precedent. They declared people whose entire roots are in Palestine for millennia to be aliens, and have made automatic citizens of Jews who have no roots in Palestine whatsoever.

If a Palestinian had so much as left Palestine for a visit to another country, or had even left his town or village, or even his part of a city at any time after November 29, 1947, he was declared an "absentee" without any rights whatsoever!<sup>89</sup>

Even if he had never left his village, a Palestinian was subject to eviction from his home on the flimsiest of pretexts. Entire villages were expelled to make room for new, alien immigrants.

On November 5, 1948 all of the Arabs of the village of Ikrit in western Galilee were expelled from their village.

On February 4, 1949 all of the inhabitants of the village of Kfar Anan were evicted from their homes, and half of them were forced to cross the armistice lines into the West Bank.

On June 5, 1949 the Zionist army and police surrounded three Arab villages in Galilee-Khasas, Qatiya and Yanuh, and expelled the inhabitants.

In January, 1950 a Zionist army unit ordered the Arab villagers of Ghabisiya to leave their homes within two days.

On July 7, 1950 some one hundred residents of the village of Abu Ghosh near Jerusalem were rounded up and taken to an "unknown destination."

On August 17, 1950 the Arab inhabitants of Mijdal in the south received an expulsion order and were dumped across the armistice line of the Gaza Strip over the next three weeks.

On November 17, 1951 a Zionist military detachment surrounded the village of Khirbet Buweishat, expelled the inhabitants and dynamited their homes.<sup>90</sup>

All of these Arabs were illegally expelled from their homes by any objective standard of law, and illegally forced to become refugees either within or without their native land.

The Zionists were implementing in Palestine the same "technique of depopulation" Adolf Hitler had called for in his speech to the Reichstag of October 6, 1939.<sup>91</sup>

Where the Zionists did not utilize legal fictions to expel Palestinian Arabs remaining in Occupied Palestine after the 1948 war, they continued using their established terrorist methods to frighten Palestinians into leaving. One of the most insidious methods they used was the placing of bombs by "persons unknown" in or near schools attended by Palestinian children.

As reported by Professor Sabri Jiryis, "In the years from 1956 through 1958, bombs were found near schools in Tayba, Nazareth, the villages of Ein Mahil and Jish, Baqa al Gharbiya, Kfar Kassim, Ramle and Tur'an, near a church at Safa Amr, in a children's playground in Baqa al Gharbiya, and in the village of Sandaleh. A bomb exploded in August 1957 in Umm al Fahm, wounding four children, and in 1956 a bomb exploded in Sandaleh, causing the deaths of fourteen schoolchildren who had found it and were playing with it."<sup>92</sup>

The waging of such merciless war against schoolchildren could have had but one purpose: to frighten their parents into fleeing their homeland. Needless to say, the much admired Israeli Intelligence services were "unable" to find the perpetrators of these crimes.

That it was the policy of the Zionists to encourage the remaining Palestinian Arabs living under occupation to leave is supported by ample historical evidence. The diary of Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion has an entry for September 26, 1948, in which he records that the notorious Yosef Weitz, head of the Jewish National Fund, proposed a series of measures to drive the Palestinian refugees further away. "They must be harassed continually," Weitz insisted.<sup>93</sup>

Yehoshua Felmann, Advisor on Arab Affairs to Prime Minister Ben-Gurion, said in an interview:

I was not surprised that the Arabs fled. It was a natural reaction. I behaved towards those who remained as a wolf in sheep's clothing — harsh, but outwardly decent.<sup>94</sup>

How "outwardly decent" were the Zionists in their treatment of the Palestinian Arabs? Let us quote from a report made by M. Sela, an officer from the Zionist police national headquarters on his visit to the Arab village of Elabun:

All the inhabitants of Elabun were deported, excepted for a small number of old people and children. The total number of inhabitants left in the village is fifty two. The priests complained bitterly about the expulsion of the villagers and demanded their return.<sup>95</sup>

It was, and is, the policy of the Zionist leaders to prevent the return of the Palestinian Arab refugees to their homeland, let alone to their ancestral homes and properties.

The Nazi war criminals were brought to justice for their war crime of expelling Jews, Poles, Frenchmen, Yugoslavs and others, but Zionist war criminals still enjoy the unlawful fruits of their war crimes. And the forcibly expelled Palestinian Arabs remain dispossessed — but they will never cease their yearning to return home, and sooner or later they will do so. Crime never pays and justice always triumphs in the end.

CHAPTER TEN

EXAMPLES OF MASSACRES COMMITTED BY THE ZIONISTS

The horrendous crimes of World War II left in their wake an advancement in the international legal system concerning criminal responsibility for the commission of war crimes and crimes against humanity. Political authorities, military commanders and their subordinates alike have since legally borne full responsibility in international criminal law for failure to act as well as for any acts in regard to crimes perpetrated within their realm of responsibility.

It is a great tragedy for the Jews of the world that the relatives and descendants of Jews who perished by the massacres and brutalities committed by the Nazi war criminals in Babi Yar and Dubno and in the concentration camps of Auschwitz, Belsen, Buchenwald, Flossenberg, Mauthausen, Natzwiler, Neuengamme, Ravensbruck, and Sachsenhausen, have committed similar crimes against the Palestinians in Palestine.

Study of the war crimes committed by the Zionists in Palestine discloses that those who were responsible for these crimes ensured that all others in the Zionist structure would have to be accomplices. The Zionists have systematically striven to remove conscience as a factor from any individual Jew in Palestine in the perpetration of their crimes.

To the outside world the Zionists have often tried to excuse crimes as "isolated incidents," "unpremeditated incidents," "acts of ultra-extremists," and other whitewashes that have misled world public opinion. In fact, all Zionist war crimes and crimes against humanity are planned in advance and executed for a desired effect, with malice aforethought and full knowledge of the consequences involved in order to serve the Zionist objective, namely, the annihilation of the Palestinians and the establishment of a Jewish State.

The Zionists claim that 6,000,000 Jews were killed by the Nazis, but the Zionists killed more than 100,000 Palestinians and committed genocide by destroying the existence of Palestinians as a nation and made Palestinians refugees living in exile. Massacres are massacres, whether six million or one hundred thousand are massacred. The Zionists throughout the world and particularly in the United States of America are accessories to the war crimes committed by their co-religionists in Palestine because they have aided and abetted them in the commission of these crimes and try to whitewash and cover up these war crimes committed against the Palestinians.

This chapter recounts the massacres at the King David Hotel, the Semiramis Hotel, Deir Yassin, Dawayma, Kibya, Kafr Kassim, the attacks on the USS Liberty and the Libyan Boeing 727 Airliner, and the massacres against Sabra and Shatila and other refugee camps in Lebanon.

THE KING DAVID MASSACRE

The King David Hotel explosion of July 22, 1946, which resulted in the deaths of 92 Britons, Arabs and Jews, and in the wounding of 58, was not just an "extremist act" of "Jewish extremists," but a premeditated massacre conducted by the Irgun in agreement with the highest Jewish political authorities in Palestine, the Jewish Agency and its head David Ben-Gurion.

According to Yitshaq Ben-Ami, a Palestinian Jew who spent 30 years in exile after the establishment of Israel investigating the crimes of the "ruthless clique heading the international Zionist movement,"

The Irgun had conceived a plan for the King David attack early in 1946, but the green light was given only on July first. According to Dr. Sneh, the operation was personally approved by Ben-Gurion, from his self-exile in Europe. Sadeh, the operations officer of the Haganah, and Giddy Paglin, the head of the Irgun operation under Menachem Begin agreed that thirty-five minutes advance notice would give the British time enough to evacuate the wing, without enabling them to disarm the explosion.<sup>1</sup>

The Jewish Agency's motive was to destroy all evidence the British had gathered proving that the terrorist crime waves in Palestine were not merely the actions of "fringe" groups such as the Irgun and Stern Gang, but were committed in collusion with the Haganah and Palmach groups and under the direction of the highest political body of the Zionist establishment itself, namely the Jewish Agency.

That so many innocent civilian lives were lost in the King David massacre is a normal part of the pattern in the history of Zionist outrages: A criminal act is committed, allegedly by an isolated group, but actually under the direct authorization of the highest Zionist authorities, whether of the Jewish Agency during the Palestine Mandate or of the Government of Israel thereafter.

The following is a statement made in the House of Commons by then British Prime Minister Clement Attlee:

On July 22, 1946, one of the most dastardly and cowardly crimes in recorded history took place. We refer to the blowing up of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem.

Ninety-two persons lost their lives in that stealthy attack, and 45 were injured, among whom there were many high officials, junior officers and office personnel, both men and women. The King David Hotel was used as an office housing the Secretariat of the Palestine Government and British Army Headquarters. The attack was made on 22 July at about 12 o'clock noon when offices are usually in full swing. The attackers, disguised as milkmen, carried the explosives in milk containers, placed them in the basement of the Hotel and ran away.

The Chief Secretary for the Government of Palestine, Sir John Shaw, declared in a broadcast: "As head of the Secretariat, the majority of the dead and wounded were my own staff, many of whom I have known personally for eleven years. They are more than official colleagues. British, Arabs, Jews, Greeks, Armenians; senior officers, police, my orderly, my chauffeur, messengers, guards, men and women, — young and old — they were my friends.

"No man could wish to be served by a more industrious, loyal and honest group of ordinary decent people. Their only crime was their devoted, unselfish and impartial service to Palestine and its people. For this they have been rewarded by cold-blooded mass murder."

Although members of the Irgun Z'vai Leumi took responsibility for this crime, yet they also made it public later that they obtained the consent and approval of the Haganah Command, and it follows, that of the Jewish Agency.<sup>2</sup>

The King David Hotel massacre shocked the conscience of the civilized world. On July 23, 1946, Anthony Eden, leader of the then British opposition Conservative Party, posed a question in the House of Commons to Prime Minister Atlee of the Labor Party, asking "the Prime Minister whether he has any statement to make on the bomb outrage at the British Headquarters in Jerusalem." The Prime Minister responded:

Hon. Members will have learned with horror of the brutal and murderous crime committed yesterday in Jerusalem. Of all the outrages which have occurred in Palestine, and they have been many and horrible in the last few months, this is the worst. By this insane act of terrorism 93 innocent people have been killed or are missing in the ruins. The latest figures of casualties are 41 dead, 52 missing and 53 injured. I have no further information at present beyond what is contained in the following official report received from Jerusalem:

"It appears that, after exploding a small bomb in the street, presumably as a diversionary measure — this did virtually no damage — a lorry drove up to the tradesmen's entrance of the King David Hotel and the occupants, after holding up the staff at pistol point, entered the kitchen premises carrying a number of milk cans. At some stage of the proceedings, they shot and seriously wounded a British soldier who attempted to interfere with them. All available information so far is to the effect that they were Jews. Somewhere in the basement of the hotel they planted bombs which went off shortly afterwards. They appear to have made good their escape.

"Every effort is being made to identify and arrest the perpetrators of this outrage. The work of rescue in the debris, which was immediately organized, still continues. The next-of-kin of casualties are being notified by telegram as soon as accurate information is available. The House will wish to express their profound sympathy with the relatives of the killed and with those injured in this dastardly outrage."<sup>3</sup>

THE SEMIRAMIS HOTEL MASSACRE

The Jewish Agency escalated their terror campaign against Palestinian Arabs. They decided to perpetrate a wholesale massacre by bombing the Semiramis Hotel in the Katamon section of Jerusalem, in order to drive out the Palestinians from Jerusalem. The massacre of the Semiramis Hotel on January 5, 1948, was the direct responsibility of Jewish Agency leader David Ben-Gurion and Haganah leaders Moshe Sneh and Yisrael Galili. If this massacre had taken place in World War II, they would have been sentenced to death for their criminal responsibility along with the terrorists who placed the explosives.

A description of the massacre of the Semiramis Hotel from the United Nations Documents follows, as well as the Palestine Police report on the crime sent to the Colonial Office in London:

5 January 1948. Haganah terrorists made a most barbarous attack at one o'clock in the early morning of Monday, 5 January 1948, at the Semiramis Hotel in the Katamon section of Jerusalem, killing innocent people and wounding many. The Jewish Agency terrorist forces blasted the entrance to the hotel by a small bomb and then placed bombs in the basement of the building. As a result of the explosion the whole building collapsed with its residents. As the terrorists withdrew, they started shooting at the houses in the neighborhood. Those killed were: Subhi El-Taher, Moslem; Mary Masoud, Christian; Georgette Khoury, Christian; Abbas Awadin, Moslem; Nazira Lorenzo, Christian; Mary Lorenzo, Christian; Mohammed Saleh Ahmed, Moslem; Ashur Abed El Razik Juma, Moslem; Ismail Abed El Aziz, Moslem; Ambeer Lorenzo, Christian; Raof Lorenzo, Christian; Abu Suwan Christian family, seven members, husband, wife and five children.

Besides those killed, 16 more were wounded, among them women and children.<sup>4</sup>

The following is a text of a cable by the High Commissioner for Palestine to the Colonial Office about the massacre:

Jerusalem. 0117 hours, Urban. At approximately 0117 hours, a grenade was thrown into the Semiramis Hotel, Katamon Quarter, causing superficial damage but no casualties. During the ensuing confusion, a charge was placed in the building and it exploded about one minute later, completely demolishing half the hotel. Witnesses have stated that the perpetrators arrived by way of the Upper Katamon Road in two taxis. Four persons are reported to have alighted from the first taxi, and one person, who apparently covered the main party, from the second. All were wearing European clothes.

The following are the known casualties: Dead — Manuel Allendesalazar y Traveseda — Spanish Consul at Jerusalem; Nazira Lorenzo; Mary Lorenzo; Abbas Ahmed Awadin, an Egyptian waiter, and Ashur Abdul Razzik Juma. (The last two named have not yet been extricated from the debris.) Seriously Injured — Mrs. Georgette Khouri, aged 38, of Jaffa. Slightly Injured — Silvo Lorenzo; Eddy Lorenzo; Rene Lorenzo; Rita Lorenzo; Joseph Lorenzo; Dr. Abu Sawan; Cyril Abu Sawan; Matier Abu Sawan; Friek Batawi; Daoud Khadoush; Mohammed Ahmed Abdul Najib; Ibrahim Nicola; Hassan Mohammed; Awad Mohammed; Hassan Ibrahim; and No. 874 F.P.C. Hamil Ragheb Dajani.

The following are believed to be buried underneath the debris: Raouf Lorenzo and his wife; Lutfi Abu Sawan (62) and his wife (45); Labibeh Lorenzo (40); Hubert Lorenzo (25); Subhi Taha (25); Amneh Abdul Azziz Zorob (34); Ismail Zaid Abdo (15), son of Amneh Zorob; and Gharviayah Saoud Abu Yunis (30).

The bodies of two of these persons have been extricated from the debris but have not yet been identified.

Heavy firing broke out in the Katamon area after the first explosion, and Mohammed Ahmed Saleh of Beit Rima, who was near the hotel in the company of another Arab, was shot in the head and killed.<sup>5</sup>

DEIR YASSIN MASSACRE, APRIL 9, 1948

The first major massacre in the 1948 War was the massacre of Deir Yassin on April 9/10, 1948. It was designed to spread terror and panic among the Palestinian population in every city and village of Palestine in order to frighten them into fleeing, so that their homes and land could be confiscated for the use of Jewish colonialist settlers. The tactics of the Zionist Jews were to frighten defenseless people into fleeing their homes out of fear for their lives.

Two hundred and fifty people were slaughtered. Mutilating the bodies, even before death, the culprits cut off parts and opened the bellies of others. Nursing babies were butchered on the bosoms of helpless mothers.

Of those two hundred and fifty people, twenty-five pregnant women were bayoneted in their abdomens while still alive. Fifty-two children were maimed under the eyes of their own mothers, and then they were slain and their heads cut off. Their mothers were in turn massacred and their bodies mutilated. About sixty other women and girls were also killed and their bodies mutilated. Such are the historical facts concerning the horrible crime perpetrated against the Arab village of Deir Yassin.

On the night of April 9/10, 1948, the peaceful Arab village of Deir Yassin, a suburb of Jerusalem, was surprised by loudspeakers calling upon the inhabitants to evacuate the village immediately. The villagers woke up and, in a state of turmoil and fear, proceeded to investigate what was going on, only to find themselves surrounded on all sides by Jewish gangs. The Jews made use of the prevailing state of fright and disorganization by killing and mutilating people who had been deprived of every opportunity to defend themselves.

The marauders were not satisfied with the crimes they had committed in the village. They gathered together the women and girls who were still alive, and after removing all their clothes, put them in open cars, driving them naked through the streets of the Jewish section of Jerusalem, where they were subjected to the mockery and insult of the onlookers. Many took photographs of those women.

The crime of Deir Yassin shocked the world, which called upon the International Red Cross Society to establish the truth. The representative of the Red Cross, Mr. Jacques Reynier, asked the Jewish Agency for permission to visit the site of the massacre. The granting of this permission was delayed twenty four hours while the Jews tried to erase the traces of their crimes. They gathered together all that was possible to collect of the parts of the mutilated bodies of their victims, dumped them in the cistern of the village and locked it up. They did all they could to obliterate any traces that the representative of the Red Cross could come across. On visiting the site of the crime, however, the representative of the Red Cross discovered the cistern, and found one hundred and fifty maimed bodies of women and children. He could express his horror, disgust and fright at the sight only by declaring that "the situation was horrible."

In addition to the bodies that he had found in the cistern, the representative of the Red Cross discovered many other corpses scattered throughout the backstreets of the village and buried under the debris of the destroyed homes. Mr. Reynier found under a mound of dead bodies a girl of six who had been seriously wounded, but was not yet dead. He extracted the girl from under the human debris and carried her with him to the hospital.

All the Jewish Agency (the body responsible at that time for the activities of the Jewish gangs) did was to express its sorrow and condemn the affair as if it had been completely unaware of it.

David Shaltiel, Commander of the Haganah, released a communique about Deir Yassin on April 10, in which he stated:

This morning, the last Lehi and Etzel soldiers ran from Deir Yassin, and our forces entered the village.

We were forced to take command of the village after the splinter forces (Irgunists and Sternists) opened a new enemy front and then fled, leaving the western neighborhoods of the city open to enemy attack.

The splinter groups did not launch a military operation... They could have attacked enemy gangs in the Jerusalem area and lightened the burden which Jerusalem bears. But they chose one of the quiet villages in the area that has not been connected with any of the gang attacks since the start of the present campaign; one of the few villages that has not let foreign gangs in.

For a full day, Etzel and Lehi soldiers stood and slaughtered men, women and children, not in the course of the operation, but in a premeditated act which had as its intention slaughter and murder only. They also took spoils, and when they finished their work, they fled....<sup>6</sup>

The communique denied Irgun and Sternist claims that a Palmach force had participated in the attack. Enraged by this declaration, Raanan and Zetler released the text of the letter Shaltiel had sent them guardedly approving the attack in advance. Israel Galili, the Haganah commander, then asked Shaltiel about this letter, which Tel Aviv had never sanctioned. Shaltiel cabled back on April 15:

I learned they were preparing action against Deir Yassin. As I didn't want to meet them I sent a letter. I would stop to the extent possible future operations of dissidents.<sup>7</sup>

Two days after this maneuver of the Jewish Agency, the newspaper Hamashekev, the organ of the Irgun, replying to the Jewish Agency's condemnation of the Deir Yassin massacre, published the fact that the Commander of the Haganah (the organized forces of the Jewish Agency) had been fully aware in advance of the details of the plan and had already contemplated the occupation of Deir Yassin by the Irgun terrorists. Meanwhile, Menahem Begin, the leader of the Irgun gang, himself admitted on December 28, 1950, in a press interview in New York, that the Deir Yassin incident had been carried out in accordance with an agreement between the Irgun and the Jewish Agency and the Haganah.

Four criminals who had taken part in the Deir Yassin massacre and had been badly injured demanded remuneration from the Jewish authorities in occupied Palestine on the basis of a government decision to compensate all persons who suffered injuries during the fighting in Palestine. The authorities refused the request on the grounds that the Deir Yassin incident had not been perpetrated on orders from responsible Jewish authorities. The four culprits raised an action before the District Court at Tel-Aviv. They produced evidence that the Deir Yassin massacre had been carried out on the orders of the Jewish Agency, and in agreement with the Haganah. The District Court considered the evidence produced to be genuine and irrefutable and ruled that the plaintiffs should be compensated by the state.

By the criteria established in the International War Crimes Tribunals after World War II, the Irgun and Stern gang members directly responsible for the Deir Yassin massacre would receive death sentences for committing such an atrocity. The leaders of both gangs, including Menachem Begin of the Irgun and Yitzhak Shamir of the Stern Gang, would have been convicted with a death sentence for their Command Responsibility for the massacre. Moreover, the senior commanders of the Haganah, especially Chief of Staff Yaacov Dori and Commander David Shaltiel, and the political authority responsible for the discipline of the Jewish armed units, the Jewish Agency leaders and its head David Ben-Gurion, would have borne ultimate responsibility and would have been hung like their Nazi political counterparts after World War II.

THE MASSACRE OF DAWAYMA IN 1948

The following testimony of a soldier who participated in the occupation of the Palestinian village of Dawayma (in Haifa sub-district) on October 29, 1948 is only the most recently disclosed item in a long chain of evidence:

...They killed between eighty to one hundred Arab men, women and children. To kill the children they (soldiers) fractured their heads with sticks. There was not one home without corpses. The men and women of the villages were pushed into houses without food or water. Then the saboteurs came to dynamite them.

One commander ordered a soldier to bring two women into a building he was about to blow up.... Another soldier prided himself upon having raped an Arab woman before shooting her to death. Another Arab woman with her newborn baby was made to clean the place for a couple of days, and then they shot her and the baby. Educated and well-mannered commanders who were considered "good guys"...became base murderers, and this not in the storm of battle, but as a method of expulsion and extermination. The fewer the Arabs who remain, the better.<sup>8</sup>

THE MASSACRE OF KIBYA

The Massacre of Kibya on October 14, 1953, was a continuation of such brutal, inhuman massacres as the King David Hotel, Semiramis Hotel and Deir Yassin. But it was also a watershed in one of the most sinister grand designs in military history — a deliberate turning of an entire officer corps into a cabal with shared personal guilt for vicious war crimes.

The Nazis organized a separate all-volunteer army, under Heinrich Himmler, the Waffen SS. The SS was responsible for the majority of the German war atrocities comparable to those committed by the Zionists. In 1953, Ben-Gurion established an SS equivalent in the Zahal, designated as Commando Unit 101. This all-volunteer unit was responsible for the Kibya massacre and was given exemption from the rules of war as if the Geneva Convention never existed. The first, and only, commander of Commando Unit 101 was Ariel Sharon, the single person most responsible years later for the notorious Sabra and Shatila massacre in Beirut, Lebanon.

The guilt of Commando Unit 101 was in the most sinister fashion extended first to the Israeli Airborne forces, and subsequently to the entire career officer corps of the Israeli Army. Sharon maneuvered the resignation of the professional commander of the Israeli paratroops, Yehuda Harari, and amalgamated the paratroops along with Commando Unit 101 into Unit 202 of the Israeli Army.

The professionalism of the Israeli Airborne troops was thus destroyed, turning all Israeli paratroopers, not just the participants in the Kibya Massacre, into common criminals and murderers of innocent men, women and children.

The Zionists, having destroyed the professionalism of their own Airborne Force, proceeded to destroy the professionalism of the entire career Officer Corps of the Israeli Defense Forces. No senior officer of the IDF could gain promotion without prior service in the paratroops, and all paratroopers shared in war crimes guilt through assignments given them to murder civilians and to commit other acts illegal under the Geneva Convention.

According to an authoritative survey of the Israeli Army: "The silver parachute 'jump-wings' are worn by almost all Zahal officers, as it is normally a required qualification."<sup>9</sup>

The Government of Israel at the time claimed that the Kibya Massacre was performed by "civilian Jewish settlers." But the historical record shows that it was sanctioned by acting Prime Minister Moshe Sharrett, and was planned by Defense Minister Pinhas Lavon, the Chief of the General Staff Mordecai Maklef, and the Chief of Operations, General Moshe Dayan, in concert with vacationing Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion.

Despite the Israeli Government's attempt at cover-up, word spread of their responsibility for the Kibya Massacre and Ariel Sharon's role ultimately came out in connection with this crime. No less a Zionist figure than I.L. Kenen, the founding father of AIPAC (American Israel Public Affairs Committee), the official Israeli lobby in the United States, revealed in his Memoirs:

I was on my way home on the subway, headed for Riverdale, when I heard a brief news flash in the World Telegram disclosing that 66 Arabs had been killed at Kibya as Israelis sought to avenge the slaughter of an Israeli family. I did not know until years later that the raid was ordered by Ariel Sharon, the Israeli commander who led the invasion of Lebanon in 1982.<sup>10</sup>

At 9.30 p.m., on Wednesday, October 14, 1953, Israeli troops attacked the border Jordanian village of Kibya, Northwest of Jerusalem. Seven hundred regular Israeli troops participated in the attack in which mortars, machine guns, rifles and explosives were used. Forty-two houses as well as the school and the mosque of the village were dynamited. Every man, woman and child found by the criminal attackers was killed; all in all, seventy-five innocent villagers were murdered in cold blood that night. Later, the attackers turned their fire on the cattle, killing 22 cows. The attack was the bloodiest and most brutal Zionist crime since the infamous Deir Yassin massacre of 1948.

The Jordanian Government immediately informed the Truce Supervision Organization of the attack. The signatories of the Three Power Declaration of 1950 (U.S.A., Britain and France) were also informed of the serious consequences of the despicable Zionist aggression.

The Arab Legion cancelled all leaves, thousands of persons demonstrated in the streets of Amman, Nablus and Old Jerusalem asking for arms to avenge the innocent victims of Kibya. The Jordan Cabinet held a series of meetings with military chiefs to discuss measures to be taken to deal with the situation resulting from the Zionist attack. After a two-hour meeting, the Jordan-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission convicted Israel of the Kibya aggression.

REACTION OF WESTERN POWERS

In London, the Ministers of major western powers who were meeting in the British capital condemned the Israeli crime. The British Foreign Office issued a statement in which the attack was described as constituting the gravest violation of the Palestine Armistice Agreement and a serious threat to peace in the area. The statement added: "Her Majesty's ambassador in Tel-Aviv has been instructed to express to the Israeli Government the horror of her Majesty's Government at the apparently calculated attack. Her Majesty's Government expects the Israeli Government to bring to justice those who are responsible and to take measures to compensate the victims."

In Paris, the French Government announced that it associated itself with Great Britain in protesting in horror against the Israeli attack. A spokesman for the French Foreign Ministry also confirmed that a French note of protest was delivered to Israel through the French embassy in Tel-Aviv.

In Washington, the Department of State issued a statement in which it said: "The U.S. Government has the deepest sympathy for the families of those who lost their lives in and near Kibya during the recent attack by Israeli forces. The shocking reports which have reached the Department of State of the loss of lives and property involved in this incident convince us that those who are responsible should be brought to account and that effective measures should be taken to prevent such incidents in the future."

JORDAN REPORTS KIBYA MASSACRE TO SECURITY COUNCIL

On October 16, 1953, Dr. Yousif Haikal, Jordanian Ambassador to the United Nations, addressed the following letter to the President of the Security Council reporting the Israeli Kibya attack<sup>11</sup>:

Under instructions from my Government I have the honour to bring the following matter to your attention:

On Wednesday, October 14, 1953, at 9:30 p.m., a battalion scale attack was launched by Israeli troops on the village of Kibya in the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan. The Israelis entered the village and systematically murdered all occupants of houses, using automatic weapons, grenades, and incendiaries; and dynamited houses over victims' heads. On October 14, the bodies of forty-two Arab civilians were recovered. Four men and thirty-eight women and children bore small-arms or grenade wounds. Several more bodies were still under the wreckage. Forty houses, the village school, and a reservoir were destroyed. Twenty-two cattle were killed and six shops looted. Approach roads from neighbouring villages were mined. Several men of the village police and National Guards, who were absent on frontier duty preventing Jordan infiltrators from entering Israel, lost their families — one man lost his entire family of eleven. Quantities of unused explosives bearing Israel Army markings in Hebrew were found in the village.

At about 3:00 a.m., to cover their withdrawal, Israeli support troops began shelling the neighbouring villages of Budrus and Shuqba from positions in Israel, damaging a number of houses.

On that same day, October 14, Israel had been condemned by the Mixed Armistice Commission for ambushes on a civilian bus and taxi travelling between Beit Sira and Latrun. At an emergency meeting on October 15, the Mixed Armistice Commission condemned Israel by majority vote for the shelling of Budrus by a supporting unit of the Israel attacking forces (under the Armistice Agreement, Article 3, Paragraphs 2 and 3). The Commission passed a resolution by majority vote, calling upon the Israeli Government to take immediate and most urgent steps to prevent the recurrence of such steps on Jordan and Jordan citizens.

The Jordan Government has taken appropriate measures to meet the emergency. However, it feels that this criminal Israeli aggression is so serious that it might start a war in the area. It has the view, therefore, that the situation calls imperatively for an immediate and effective action by the United Nations, and especially by those nations party to the Tripartite Declaration of May 25, 1950.

SECURITY COUNCIL DEBATE ON ISRAELI BORDER AGGRESSIONS

On October 19, the United Nations Security Council met at the invitation of the three great Western Powers to discuss the Israeli border aggressions.<sup>12</sup>

On October 26, General Van Binnike testified before the United Nations Security Council. He gave irrefutable evidence that the brutal attack on Kibya was undertaken by regular army units of Israel and not by irregulars as claimed by official Israeli sources. The following is the full text of General Van Binnike's report on Kibya:

The information I am going to submit on the Kibya incident is based on reports received from United Nations observers, in particular from the senior officer who is the Acting Chairman of the Mixed Armistice Commission.

Following the receipt of a Jordan complaint that a raid on the village of Kibya had been carried out by Israel military forces during the night of 14-15 October, between 9:30 p.m. and 4:30 a.m., a United Nations investigation team departed from Jerusalem for Kibya at about 6:30 a.m. on 15 October. The Acting Chairman also left for Kibya on the same morning. On reaching the village he found that between thirty and forty buildings had been completely demolished, including the school, the water pumping station, the police station and the telephone office.

Near the police station, one lorry had been completely destroyed by fire. The necks and trigger attachments of incendiary bombs were found nearby.

Bullet-riddled bodies near the doorways and multiple bullet hits on the doors of the demolished houses indicated that the inhabitants had been forced to remain inside until their homes were blown up over them.

There were several small craters along the western perimeter of the village, and the tails of two-inch mortar shells were found. Four gaps, approximately three metres in width, had been blasted in the barbed-wire protective fence surrounding the village. Fragments, easily identifiable as parts of Bangalore torpedoes, were found near these gaps.

By the time the Acting Chairman left Kibya, twenty-seven bodies had been dug from the rubble. The villagers were digging for others who they knew were still buried beneath the building stones. They believed that the number of dead might reach sixty. Six wounded persons were seen in the village, and the Acting Chairman was told that there were other wounded persons in the hospital.

Witnesses were uniform in describing their experiences as a night of horror, during which Israel soldiers moved about in their village, blowing up buildings, firing into doorways and windows with automatic weapons and throwing hand grenades. A number of unexploded hand grenades, marked with Hebrew letters indicating recent Israel manufacture, and three bags of TNT were found in and about the village.

An emergency meeting of the Mixed Armistice Commission was held in the afternoon of 15 October. The following resolution, moved by the Jordan delegation, was adopted by majority vote, with the Israel delegation voting against it:

"(a) The crossing of the demarcation line by a force approximately one half of a battalion from the Israeli Regular Army, fully equipped, into Kibya village on the night of 14-15 October, 1953, to attack the inhabitants by firing from automatic weapons and throwing grenades and using Bangalore torpedoes together with TNT explosives by which forty-one dwelling houses and a school building were completely blown up, resulting in the cold-blooded murder of forty-two lives, including men, women, children, and the wounding of fifteen persons and the damage of a police car, (and) at the same time, the crossing of a part of the same group in to Shuqba village, (are) a breach of article III, paragraph 2 of the General Armistice Agreement.

"(b) The shelling by a supporting unit to that force by three-inch mortar guns resulted in the damage of some houses and a bus and the wounding of a N.C.O. in charge of the National Guards, is a breach of article III, paragraph 3 of the General Armistice Agreement.

"The Mixed Armistice Commission decides that it is extremely important that the Israeli authorities should take immediately the most vigorous measures to prevent the recurrence of such aggressions against Jordan and its citizens."

I discussed with Commander Hutchison, of the U.S.A. Navy, the Acting Chairman of the Mixed Armistice Commission, the reasons why he had supported the resolution condemning the Israel Army for having carried out this attack and, after listening to his explanations and technical arguments, I found them most convincing.<sup>13</sup>

SECURITY COUNCIL CONDEMNS ISRAEL FOR KIBYA RAID

On November 9, the British, United States, French and Greek delegates to the Security Council told the Council they held Israel responsible for the raid on Kibya. After a long debate which occupied a number of meetings of the Council and in which the Israeli delegate to the UN tried to drown the aggression on Kibya in a generalized discussion of all sorts of aspects of the Palestine Question, the Council finally approved on 25 November a draft resolution introduced by France, the United Kingdom and the United States. The resolution condemned Israel's crime at Kibya in unmistakable terms. It said in part:

The Security Council,

Recalling its previous resolutions on the Palestine question, particularly those of 15 July 1948, 11 August 1949, and 18 May 1951 concerning methods for maintaining the armistice and resolving disputes through the Mixed Armistice Commissions;

Noting the reports of 27 October 1953 and 9 November 1953 to the Security Council by the Chief of Staff of the United Nations Truce Supervision Organization and the statements to the Security Council by the representatives of Jordan and Israel;

Finds that the action at Kibya taken by armed forces of Israel on 14-15 October 1953 and all such actions constitute a violation of the ceasefire provisions of the Security Council resolution of 15 July 1948 and are inconsistent with the Parties' obligations under the General Armistice Agreement and the Charter;

Expresses the strongest censure of that action which can only prejudice the chances of that peaceful settlement which both Parties in accordance with the Charter are bound to seek, and calls upon Israel to take effective measures to prevent all such actions in the future.<sup>14</sup>

AMERICAN PRIVATE CITIZENS EXPRESSED OUTRAGE AT ISRAEL FOR THE KIBYA MASSACRE

The following comments are by Passionist Father Ralph Gorman, Editor of The Sign, National Catholic Magazine of the United States:

Terror was a political weapon of the Nazis. But the Nazis never used terror in a more cold-blooded and wanton manner than the Israelis in the massacre at Kibya.

The official report of the Palestine Truce Supervisor removed any possible doubt that the Israelis, themselves in large part refugees from Hitler's terror, were perpetrators of this horrible slaughter of innocent men, women, and children. It also reveals that it was an official act of the State, carried out by an official organ, the army.

Kibya is an Arab village twenty miles northeast of Jerusalem and a mile and a half from the border of Israel. The evening of October 14 was like any other for the 1500 inhabitants of the peaceful village until at 9:30 all hell let loose. Mortar shells began exploding from artillery that had been carefully aimed from Israel before dark. After the town had been partly demolished and many of its inhabitants buried in the rubble of falling homes or blown to bits by the exploding shells, half a battalion of the regular Israeli army moved in and surrounded the village to cut off escape.

Then followed an orgy of murder that would be incredible if it had not been verified by reliable neutral testimony. Women and children as well as men were murdered deliberately, systematically, and in cold blood.

The only response the Israelis have made to outraged protest of the civilized world had been one of defiance and self-justification. Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion excused the murderers. Israeli newspapers openly gloated over the deed, and even American Zionists showed little concern other than a fear that American dollars might not continue to flow as freely as before into the coffers of the new state.

Most of our readers know by now our attitude on Zionism. We are not anti-Semitic, although anybody who criticizes Israel is tarred with this brush in some quarters. We have always advocated help for persecuted Jews and an open-door policy for Jewish immigration into the United States. But Palestine has been an Arab country since the seventh century and it is a horrible injustice to rob the Arabs of their land and drive them into exile in order to make a home for Jewish refugees. If we want a measure of justice for all concerned, if we want any respect for the United Nations and its decisions, if we want peace in the Middle East and the vast Moslem world on our side, then we must take action now. We simply cannot permit the Israelis to go on thumbing their noses at the United Nations and flouting the most fundamental decencies of the civilized world.

We should demand that the Israelis accept, and accept as final, the territorial limits established by the United Nations, with minor rectifications to return to Arab villages land which has been cut off by an arbitrary drawing of boundaries. We should give a guarantee to the Arabs that in case of further Israeli aggression we shall shut off all help to Israel and give all possible aid to the Arabs. We can and should force the Israelis to accept the United Nations decision to internationalize Jerusalem. This is a matter in which the whole Christian world has an interest. These are minimum and essential demands.

We must confess a fear that little or nothing will be done in spite of the tremendous issues involved. The Zionist pressure group in this country is so powerful that even the highest Government officials either talk as if they were citizens of Israel or keep silent.<sup>15</sup>

John Barwick is an American citizen who was for many years YMCA Representative in the Middle East and was then living in Jerusalem. In the following article he describes the indelible effect of the fact that American ammunition was used in the Kibya Massacre:

FA 43, that is what is stamped on the rim of this cartridge shell. There is a dent in the copper center which means it had done its job.

But it was still vigorous enough at midnight on October 14, 1953 to penetrate a baby's skull as it lay on its mother's lap. Its fellows in the magazine of that gun did the same for a three-year old boy, his four-year old sister and their mother. All the wounds were in the back of their heads. Their bodies were bowed as in prayer when the stones of their home were lifted off them. Those who made that cartridge hoped it would keep the Nazis behind the Rhine.

The Arab village of Kibya will probably outlive Lidice in the hot memories of hate. To Kibya, Israel dispatched its army, as its instrument of national policy, to use artillery to blast its way into an unarmed village of 2,000 people, kick open a few doors, shoot in cold blood a dozen families, put demolition bombs under their houses then sit on the wall in the moonlight to watch them blow up, smoking cigarettes looted from the shops. After that the soldiers loaded the loot on a few donkeys, shot the rest of the livestock and went leisurely home to well-earned rest.

The irony of all this is that for centuries Arab countries had been the refuge of Jews persecuted in so-called Christian lands. The practical problem the world faces today is the mind of the Arab holding this shell. He has been told it is of American origin and he is not surprised, although it is not what he hoped for from a country known for its kindness. FA 13 against the background of a white hot memory - that night when his world fell around him, his army 75 miles away, unable to respond to his pleas, his women and children dying under the rubble of his roof, no help of any kind for hours, no doctors or nurses until all but two had died, not even an ambulance for almost 24 hours.

The conclusion is inescapable: all he held dear was destroyed through barbarism made possible by American bullets and shells. All the missionaries America may send from now on, all the Point Four we can pour into the country, all the U.N. relief we can provide, will not wipe out the memory.<sup>16</sup>

REVELATIONS FROM THE DIARY OF MOSHE SHARRETT

Years after the Kibya incident, the diary of then Acting Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Moshe Sharrett was published. Sharrett had originally sanctioned a "reprisal" raid of some kind, but he changed his mind and tried to abort a major raid. But the ruthless clique then headed by Ben-Gurion ignored Sharrett's reservations. Sharrett's diary entries disclose:

I told Lavon that this (attack) will be a grave error, and recalled, citing various precedents, that it was never proved that reprisal actions serve their declared purpose. Lavon smiled... and kept to his own idea.... Ben Gurion, he said, didn't share my view.(10/14/53)

According to the first news from the other side, thirty houses have been demolished in one village. This reprisal is unprecedented in its dimensions and in the offensive power used. I walked up and down in my room, helpless and utterly depressed by my feelings of impotence.... I was simply horrified by the description in Radio Ramallah's broadcast of the destruction of the Arab village. Tens of houses have been razed to the soil and tens of people killed. I can imagine the storm that will break out tomorrow in the Arab and Western capitals.(10/15/53)

I must underline that when I opposed the action I didn't even remotely suspect such a bloodbath. I thought I was opposing one of those actions which have become a routine in the past. Had I even remotely suspected that such a massacre was to be held, I would have raised real hell.(10/16/53)

(In the cabinet meeting) I condemned the Kibya affair that exposed us in front of the whole world as a gang of blood-suckers, capable of mass massacres regardless, it seems, of whether their actions may lead to war. I warned that this stain will stick to us and will not be washed away for many years to come.(10/18/53)<sup>17</sup>

THE MASSACRE OF KAFR KASSIM

The aftermath of Kibya was a continued, and still continuing, Zionist policy of perpetrating massacres to serve the political purpose of the Zionist clique. In 1956, they joined in a conspiracy with the British and French to invade Egypt. The conspiracy to commit aggressive war was accompanied by atrocities against innocent civilians.

Although the defenseless Arab population in Zionist-occupied Palestine posed no military threat to the Zionist Defence Forces, the Zionists feared the emotional arousal that would inevitably accompany their waging of a new, aggressive war. They decided to instill total fear in the hearts of the helpless Palestinian Arab communities, and selected the peaceful village of Kafr Kassim to perpetrate a cold-blooded massacre. Fifty one men, women and children were murdered on October 29, 1956, by the Frontier Guard Force.

According to the precedents established by the International War Crimes Tribunals, not only the Zionist Frontier Force personnel involved were guilty of this heinous war crime, but also the officials who gave them orders to impose rigid curfews without simultaneously insuring that noncombatants were unharmed.

Because the Kafr Kassim Massacre took place during a time of war, the then Chief of Staff, General Moshe Dayan, and the then Chief of Operations of the IDF, General Meir Amit, had direct command responsibility for the actions of the Zionist Frontier Force.

Beneath them, Israeli court records disclose, command responsibility was also held by the Commander of the IDF Central Area, Major General Zvi Tsur; Frontier Guard commander Brigadier Yehishkar Shadmi; and the Commander of the unit perpetrating the massacre, Major Shmuel Melinki; Lieutenant Dahan, Sergeant Shalom Ofer, Private Makhlouf Hreish, Private Eliahu Abraham, Corporal Gabriel Olial, Private Albert Fahimi and Private Edmond Nahmani.

They should all have been hanged for their roles in the massacre in the same way German Generals such as Keitel and Jodl were hanged for their failures to prevent massacres in commands under their responsibility.

The Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion was culpable under international law because it was his responsibility to establish rules for maintaining order in territory under his control. This responsibility was also directly borne by his personal delegate in the Defense Ministry, the then Director General of the Ministry of Defence, Shimon Peres. Peres cannot plead ignorance to what was taking place at Kafr Kassim; it was his duty to be informed of possible war crimes and to prevent their occurrence.

The following is a detailed account of the horrible massacre of Kafr Kassim as told by eyewitnesses.

The Israeli daily, Kol Haam came out on Wednesday, December 19, carrying on its front page the following detailed story of the Kafr Kassim massacre which was committed by the Israeli army on October 29, 1956, against the Arabs in occupied Palestine and in which 49 people — men, women and children — were slaughtered in cold blood.

Kol Haam published the story of the massacre under the title, "In This Way Were the 49 Inhabitants of Kafr Kassim Slaughtered". The following is a literal translation:

Here are the details of the massacre in which 49 of the peaceful inhabitants of Kafr Kassim — all Arabs living in Israel — were slaughtered in cold blood. Another thirteen of these inhabitants also sustained serious injuries in this horrible massacre committed by the troops of the Israeli frontier guards.

On October 29, 1956, the day on which Israel launched its assault on Egypt, units of the Israeli frontier guards started at 4 p.m. what they called a tour of the Triangle Villages. They informed the Mukhtars and the rural councils that the curfew in those villages was from that day onwards to be observed from 5 p.m. instead of 6 p.m. as was the case before, and that the inhabitants were, therefore, requested to stay home as from that very instant.

One of the villages the frontier guards passed through was Kafr Kassim. This is a small Arab village situated near the Israeli settlement of Betah Tefka. The villagers there received the alert at 4:45 p.m., only 15 minutes before the new curfew time. The "Mukhtar" of Kafr Kassim promptly informed the unit officer that a large number of the villagers, whose work took them outside the village, knew nothing of this new curfew. The officer in charge replied that his soldiers would take care of these. The villagers who were home complied with the newly-imposed curfew and remained indoors. Meanwhile, the armed frontier guards posted themselves at the village gates. Before long, the first batch of villagers came into sight. The first to arrive was a group of four laborers, home-bound, on bicycles. Here is what one of these laborers, Abdullah Samir Bedir by name, said about the incident:

"We reached the village entrance at about 4:55 p.m. We were suddenly confronted by a frontier unit consisting of 12 men and an officer, all occupying an army truck. We greeted the officer in Hebrew saying 'Shalom Katsin' which means 'Peace be unto you officer,' to which he gave no reply. He then asked us in Arabic: 'Are you happy?' and we said 'Yes.' The soldiers started stepping down from the truck and the officer ordered us to line up. Then he shouted to his soldiers this order: 'Laktasour Otem,' which means 'Reap them!' The soldiers opened fire, but by then I had flung myself on the ground, and started rolling, yelling as I rolled over. Then I feigned death. Meanwhile, the soldiers had so riddled the bodies of my three friends with bullets that the officer in charge ordered them to cease firing, adding that the bullets were merely being wasted. As he put it, we had more than the necessary dose of those deadly bullets.

"All this occurred while I lay very still, feigning death. Then I saw three laborers approaching on a small horse cart. The soldiers stopped the cart and killed all three of them. Soon after, the soldiers moved a few yards down the road, apparently to take up positions that would enable them to stop a new truckload of home-bound villagers, as well as a bunch of workers returning home on their bicycles. I seized this opportunity and moved as quickly as I could to the nearest house. The soldiers saw me and opened fire, but I was already in safety.

"One of the trucks used for transporting farm produce was again stopped while carrying thirteen olive pickers, all women and girls, and two male laborers and the driver. They were attacked by the same group of frontier guards, who pitilessly butchered all but one of them."

This is what 16-year-old Hanna Soliman Amer, the only survivor, said about this incident:

"The soldiers brought our car to a halt at the entrance of the village and ordered the two workers and the driver to step down. Then they told them they were going to be killed. On hearing that the women started crying and screaming, begging the soldiers to spare those poor workers' lives. But the soldiers shouted at the women, saying that their turn was coming and that they, too, were going to be killed.

"The soldiers stared at the women for a few moments, as if waiting for their officer to give the order. Then I heard the officer talk over the wireless set, apparently asking his headquarters for instructions regarding the women. The minute the wireless conversation was over, the soldiers took aim at the women and girls, who were 13 in number, and who included pregnant ones (Fatma Dawoud Sarsour was in her eighth month of pregnancy) as well as an old woman of sixty and two thirteen-year old girls (Latifa Eissa and Rashika Bedair)."

The number of cars stopped by the Israeli soldiers of the frontier guards was three; the people in all three cars were ordered to descend and were shot by machine-gun fire, killing them instantly.

A fourth car, which was a little late in coming, met with better luck, for the driver, seeing the bodies scattered around, didn't heed the order to stop. He pressed the accelerator and thus managed to escape with his car. The soldiers, however, succeeded in shooting one of the passengers as the car sped by.

With the massacre practically over, the soldiers moved around finishing off whoever still had a pulse beating in him. Later on, the examination of these bodies showed that the soldiers had mutilated them, smashing the heads and cutting open the abdomens of some of the wounded women to finish them off. The only survivors were those who for some time lay buried under the corpses of their comrades and thus had their bodies covered with the blood of these victims, giving the impression that they, too, were dead. Those were the only ones who lived to speak of the horrors of the massacre of Kafr Kassim.

The massacre lasted for an hour and a half and the soldiers looted whatever they could find, apparently while going round the bodies doing their finishing-off job. However, thirteen of those wretched people only fainted when they were shot at. These were taken to Bilinson as well as to other hospitals.

One of those wounded was Osman Selim, who was travelling on one of the trucks. He witnessed the massacre, and escaped by pretending to be dead among the pile of corpses. Asaad Selim, a cyclist, was seriously injured. So was Abdel Rahman Yacoub Sarsoura, a youth aged 16, who is deaf and dumb. The only one who managed to escape death and reach Kroum El-Zeitoun is Ismail Akab Badeera, aged 18, who nursed his wounds until he got there, then climbing up an olive tree despite his suffering. He remained there for two whole days until a passing shepherd came along and carried him to a hospital where one of his legs had to be amputated for gangrene.

The blood bath was not restricted to the entrance or outskirts, but was carried right into the village itself. Talal Shaker Eissa, aged 8, left his home to bring in a flock of goats. He had hardly stepped out of his home when he was murdered by a shot fired by one of the soldiers. When his father ran out to investigate, he was killed by another shot. The mother, dragging in his body, was then shot. Noura, the remaining child, followed the cries of agony coming from her parents, and was killed on the spot by a hail of bullets. The only survivor of the family, a frail and aged grandfather, hearing the horror and the sounds of death, succumbed to a heart attack and died.

The next day, 31 October, 1956, a curfew was imposed on the village of Kafr Kassim, and during that time, the Israeli police brought over some of the villagers from neighbouring Galgoulia and ordered them to bury the corpses, which included fathers, mothers, sons and daughters. Among these were Safa Abdalla Sarsour, a woman aged 45, who was killed with her two sons, Jihad, 16, and Abdalla, 14. Osman Abdalla Eissa was killed with his son Fathi aged 12; and Zeinab Abdel Rahman Taha and her daughter Bikria, aged 17.<sup>18</sup>

DETAILS OF THE MASSACRE AS REPORTED BY DR. SABRI JIRYIS FROM THE RECORDS OF THE DISTRICT COURT IN ISRAEL, FILE NO. 3/57, ISRAELI NEWSPAPERS, AND RECORDS OF THE KNESSET

The massacre was carried out by the Frontier Guard, which had been formed in the early 1950's to protect Israel's borders. A description of the events at Kafr Kassim follows, as recorded by the Israeli military court:

"On the eve of the Sinai War...a battalion attached to the Central Area Command was ordered to prepare itself to defend a section of the Israeli-Jordanian frontier. (With this end in view)...a unit of the Frontier Guard was attached to the said battalion and the commander of this Frontier Guard unit, Major Shmuel Melinki, was placed under the orders of the battalion commander, Brigadier Yshishkar Shadmi. In the morning of 29 October 1956, the Commander of the Central Area, Major General Zvi Tsur informed Brigadier Shadmi and the other battalion commanders, of the policy it had been decided to adopt toward the Arab population.

"The area commander went on to emphasize to the battalion commanders that the safeguarding of the operation in the south (the Suez campaign) required that the area coterminous with Jordan be kept absolutely quiet.

"... Brigadier Shadmi requested that he be empowered to impose a night curfew in the villages of the minorities in the area under his command in order to: (a) facilitate the movements of his forces, and (b) prevent the population being exposed to injury by the reserve troops. These arguments convinced the area commander, who empowered Brigadier Shadmi to impose a curfew....

"On the same day Brigadier Shadmi summoned Major Melinki to his headquarters, informed him of the duties of the unit under his command, and gave him instructions about the execution of these duties. One of the duties of this Frontier Guard unit was to impose the curfew... in the villages of Kafr Kassim, Kfar Barra, Jaljulya, Tira, Tayba, Qalansuwa, Bir al Sikka, and Ibtin during the night. The two commanders agreed that the curfew would be enforced between 5 P.M. and 6 A.M.

"The battalion commander (Shadmi) also told the unit commander (Melinki) that the curfew must be extremely strict and that strong measures must be taken to enforce it. It would not be enough to arrest those who broke it — they must be shot. In explanation he said, 'A dead man' (or according to other evidence 'a few dead men') is better than the complications of detention.

"When Melinki asked what was to happen to a man returning from his work outside the village, without knowing about the curfew, who might well meet the Frontier Guard units at the entrance to the village, Shadmi replied: 'I don't want any sentimentality' and 'That's just too bad for him.'

"Shadmi gave his orders to Melinki verbally, while they were alone, and Melinki wrote the following words in his diary during the interview: 'Curfew imposed from evening till morning (1700-0600). Strict policy.'"<sup>19</sup>

Similarly, the order drafted by Melinki and handed to the reserve forces attached to his group, shortly before the curfew was imposed, contained the following words under the heading "Method": "No inhabitant shall be allowed to leave his home during the curfew. Anyone leaving his home shall be shot; there shall be no arrests."<sup>20</sup>

Armed with these instructions, Major Melinki returned to his headquarters, where with the help of his officers, he prepared a series of orders for his forces. During this meeting,

"He informed the assembled officers that the war had begun, that their units were now under the command of the Israeli Army, and that their task was to impose the curfew in the minority villages from 1700 to 0600, after informing the mukhtars to this effect at 16.30. With regard to the observation of the curfew, Melinki emphasized that it was forbidden to harm inhabitants who stayed in their homes, but that anyone found outside his home (or, according to other witnesses, anyone leaving his home, or anyone breaking the curfew) should be shot dead. He added that there were to be no arrests, and that if a number of people were killed in the night (according to other witnesses: it was desirable that a number of people be killed as) this would facilitate the imposition of the curfew during succeeding nights.

"... While he was outlining this series of orders, Major Melinki allowed the officers to ask him questions. Lieutenant Frankenthal asked him, 'What do we do with the dead?' (or, according to other witnesses 'with the wounded?'). Melinki replied, 'Take no notice of them' (or, according to other evidence, 'There will not be any wounded.') Arie Menches, a section leader, then asked, 'What about women and children?' to which Melinki replied, 'No sentimentality' (according to another witness, 'They are to be treated like anyone else; the curfew covers them too.'). Menches then asked a second question: 'What about people returning from their work?' Here Alexandroni tried to intervene but Melinki silenced him and answered: 'They are to be treated like anyone else' (according to another witness, he added, 'It will be just too bad for them, as the commander said.')"<sup>21</sup>

In the minutes of the meeting, which were taken down and signed by Melinki a short time after he signed the orders, the following appears: "As from today, at 1700 hours, curfew shall be imposed in the minority villages until 0600 hours, and all who disobey this order shall be shot dead."<sup>22</sup>

After this psychological preparation, and the instructions given to the policemen-soldiers to "shoot to kill all who broke the curfew," the unit went out to the village of Kafr Kassim to start its work. There Lieutenant Gabriel Dahan divided his unit into sections of three or four men each (including their leader) armed with submachine guns, rifles, and automatic rifles, and posted each section in a place overlooking one of the quarters of the village, at the entrance to the village, and at its end. He made the leaders of each section responsible for the enforcement of the curfew and authorized them to shoot according to his previous instructions, which he repeated.

On the same day at 16.30 hours, a Frontier Guard sergeant informed the mukhtar of the village that a curfew was to be imposed from 5 P.M. to 6 A.M. the following morning and warned him that it would be strictly enforced and would involve danger of death, telling him to inform the village. The mukhtar, Wadi Ahmad Sarsur, informed the sergeant that there were four hundred villagers who worked outside the village, some of them in the neighborhood or in nearby places, while the remainder were in more distant places like Petah Tikvah, Lydda, Jaffa and elsewhere, so that he could not inform them all of the curfew in time. After an argument the sergeant promised the mukhtar that he would let all men returning from work pass on his own responsibility and that of the government. The mukhtar, assisted by his relations, announced the imposition of the curfew in the center and to the north and the south of the village, saying that everyone inside the village must enter his home before 5 P.M.<sup>23</sup>

In other words, the curfew, of which the mukhtar was informed at 4.30 P.M., came into force half an hour later when dozens of the villagers were in different places of work, so that they could not possibly know of the curfew. And a bitter fate awaited them when they returned to the village. In the first hour of the curfew, between 5 and 6 P.M., the men of the Israeli Frontier Guard killed forty-seven Arab citizens in Kafr Kassim. The killing was carried out in cold blood and for no reason. Of the forty-seven, forty-three were killed at the western entrance to the village, one in the center, and three to the north; several other villagers were wounded.

The forty-three killed at the western entrance included seven boys and girls and nine women of all ages - one sixty-six years old. Most of them were inhabitants of Kafr Kassim, returning from their work outside the village, nearly all by the main road, a few on foot, the majority on bicycles or in mule carts or lorries. In most cases the villagers were met by sections of the Frontier Guard who ordered the passengers to get down from their transport. When it was clear that they were residents of Kafr Kassim returning from their work, the order to fire was given, and shots were immediately fired at short range from automatic weapons and rifles, "and of every group of returning workers, some were killed and others wounded; very few succeeded in escaping unhurt. The proportion of those killed increased, until, of the last group, which consisted of fourteen women, a boy and four men, all were killed except one girl, who was seriously wounded.

"The killing might have gone on like this but Dahan who had personally taken part in the killing and who had seen what was going on as he went round the village in his jeep, informed the command several times over the radio of the number killed. Opinions differ as to the figure he gave in his reports, but all agree that in his first report he said 'one less' (one killed), and in the next two reports 'fifteen less' and 'many less'; 'it is difficult to count them.' The last two reports, which followed each other in quick succession, were...passed on to Melinki who was at Jaljulya. When he was informed that there were 'fifteen less' in Kafr Kassim, Melinki gave orders, which he was unable to transmit to Dahan before the report of 'many less' arrived, for the firing to stop and for more moderate procedures to be adopted in the whole area.... This order finally ended the bloodshed at Kafr Kassim."<sup>24</sup>

This is an outline of the principal events in Kafr Kassim, but the details are no less important as reported in the files of the Israeli military court:

"The first to be shot at the western entrance to the village were four quarrymen returning on bicycles from the places where they worked near Petah Tikva and Ras al Ayin. A short time after the curfew began these four workmen came round the bend in the road pushing their bicycles. When they had gone some ten to fifteen meters...they were shot from behind at close range or from the left. Two of the four were killed outright. The third was wounded in the thigh and the forearm, while the fourth, Abdullah Samir Badir, escaped by throwing himself to the ground. The bicycle of the wounded man fell on him and covered his body, and he managed to lie motionless throughout the bloody incidents that took place around him. Eventually he crawled into an olive grove and lay under an olive tree until morning. Abdullah was shot at again when he rolled from the road to the sidewalk, whereupon he sighed and pretended to be dead. After the two subsequent massacres, which took place beside him, he hid himself among a flock of sheep, whose shepherd had been killed, and escaped into the village with the flock.

"A short time after the above incident, a two-wheeled cart drawn by a mule arrived at the bend. Sitting in it were Ismail Mahmud Badir... and his little daughter, aged eight, who were coming back from Petah Tikva in the cart, with three people, one of whom came from Kfar Barra, walking beside or behind the cart, carrying vegetables. One of these was a boy of fourteen, Mohammed Abdul Rahim Issa. At this moment Dahan arrived at the bend in the jeep with the mobile squad... on a tour of inspection. Dahan ordered his men to get out of the jeep.... He then told Ismail to get out of the cart and stand in a row with other two men (who had been walking beside the cart) at the side of the road. Dahan then ordered the boy Muhammed to get into the cart, and sent him off to the village with the weeping girl. Dahan ordered the three men to be shot, shooting them with the Auzi he was carrying. The three men fell under the rain of bullets and the firing continued after they had fallen. Two of them... were killed, while Ismail was seriously wounded, with several bullets in his hips and thigh — he survived only because the Frontier Guards believed him dead.

"A short time after this killing a shepherd and his twelve year old son came back from the pasture with their flock. They approached the bend... the shepherd throwing stones at sheep that had strayed to turn them back onto the road. Two or three soldiers, standing by the bend, opened fire at close range on the shepherd and his son and killed them....<sup>25</sup>

"A man in a lorry was killed, then a four-wheeled cart carrying two men arrived at the bend. Near the bend, a soldier stopped the car, ordered the two men to get down and to stand beside it in the road.... Immediately after the arrival of this cart, several groups of workers started arriving, riding bicycles with lighted lamps. The soldiers ordered them all to lay their bicycles beside the cart and stand in a row with the two men.... There were thirteen men in this row, and when one of them...tried to stand at the end of the row, the soldier shouted at him: 'Dog, stand in the middle of the row.' He thereupon moved to the middle.

"When no more bicycle lamps were visible on the horizon, the same soldier asked the men standing in the row where they came from. They all answered that they came from Kafr Kassim, whereupon the soldier took a step backwards and shouted to the soldiers lying opposite the row: 'Mow them down.' All the men in the row fell under the hail of bullets that followed, except for (one) who escaped by jumping over the wall. The soldiers continued firing at any of the fallen men who showed any signs of life. When it was clear that they were all dead, or almost so, the soldiers cleared the road of the bodies, piling them on the side of the road. Of these thirteen men, six were killed, while four were seriously injured....<sup>26</sup>

"A short time after the killing of the cyclists, a lorry with its lights on approached the bend. Ten to fifteen meters before the bend it was stopped by a soldier, who ordered the driver and passengers (eighteen persons) to get out and stand in a single group to the left of the road, in front of the vehicle. The soldier then asked them where they came from, and when they said they were from Kafr Kassim, he ordered two of his men, who were lying beside the road between this group of workers and the bend, to open fire. They killed ten of the nineteen....

"(A survivor) Raja (Hamdan Daud) said in his evidence that at five o'clock, his little son Riyadh came with the boy Jamal and told him that there was a curfew in the village and that his mother had said that he must hurry home.... Nineteen people got into the lorry, including the driver...and set out for the village. The people in this lorry, unlike most of the other people returning to the village, knew of the curfew, but they did not see that this prevented them from returning to the village. On the contrary...they tried to get back to their homes as soon as possible because of the curfew. Indeed, it was Raja who persuaded the driver, who had no license to carry passengers, to take them because he thought that it would be safer to go by lorry rather than on foot during the curfew. After the lorry had been stopped, and Raja and his companions got out, his little son shouted: 'Father, take me down.' This was why Raja went back and took his son down from the back of the lorry, and rejoined the group on the road.

"Raja held out his identity card to the soldier and was about to ask him why they had been detained, but at that moment the soldier gave the order to fire, and a hail of bullets mowed down the workmen. When Raja jumped over the wall, the Bren gun was fired at the wall, and this is perhaps how some of the workmen escaped. But Raja's son, Riyadh, aged eight, and his friend Jamal, aged eleven, were among those killed.<sup>27</sup>

"Two more men in a lorry were killed, and then a third lorry arrived, carrying four men and fourteen women, aged twelve to sixty-six years, on their way to Kafr Kassim. The lorry went on past the bend without stopping, whereupon a soldier who was still at the site of the previous incident ran behind it shouting 'Stop!' The lorry had already passed the bend and was making for the school road; the soldier crossed the space between the two roads and again shouted 'Stop! Stop!' At the same time he called to two or three other soldiers who were standing in the space between the two roads to follow him, which they did.

"The lorry stopped in the road that passes near the school, whereupon the first soldier ordered the driver and the passengers to get out. The driver hooked the steps on to the back of the lorry, and said to the women: 'Get out sisters, and have your identity cards ready.' The women had already seen the dead bodies of people from their village as the lorry turned the bend, and started imploring the soldier in command to let them stay in the bus. But he took no notice of the identity cards or of the women's entreaties, and insisted on their getting out. As soon as the fourteen women and four men had got down from the lorry he ordered the other soldiers, who had by then joined him, to fire. They obeyed and continued firing until seventeen of the total of eighteen persons were killed. The sole survivor was a girl of fourteen, Hannah Suleiman Amer, who was seriously wounded in the head and leg and appeared to be dead....

"Two of the girls who were killed were twelve years old, and two others fourteen."<sup>28</sup>

The government took great pains to remove all traces of the crime in Kafr Kassim and to hide the truth from the Jewish population, despite the fact that certain circles spread news of the massacre throughout the Arab sectors, apparently to "encourage" the Arabs to leave. A three-member committee headed by Benjamin Zohar, a district court judge in Haifa, was appointed to investigate the incident. The two other members, in whom the authorities had great confidence, were Abba Hoshi, mayor of Haifa and head of the Arab department in the ruling Mapai, and Aharon Hotar Yshay, who had once been a lawyer for the Haganah. When the committee had concluded its investigation, some ten days after the massacre, Prime Minister Ben-Gurion issued a brief press release in which he referred to the fact that some people in the Triangle had been "injured" by the Frontier Guards and stated the government's determination to bring the matter before the courts and to pay compensation.

This did not stop rumors about the extent of the crime from spreading. Tawfiq Tubi made his way to Kafr Kassim as soon as news of the crime reached him in order to see for himself what had happened. On his return he gave his information to Uri Avneri, the editor of the periodical Haolam Hazeq, which devoted a special issue to it. The story was taken up by the press, there was a great uproar, and a wide range of Jewish groups expressed concern. The poet Nathan Alterman, a close friend of Ben-Gurion's, was moved to publish a poem censuring the deed and calling for a trial of all those responsible, with detailed disclosures of what had taken place.<sup>29</sup> A special session of the Knesset was held, lasting twelve minutes, during which Ben-Gurion spoke of the "shocking incident in the villages of the Triangle," and cited his appointment of the fact-finding committee as soon as he had heard of the event — three days after it occurred. He added that the government had paid compensation ranging between one thousand and five thousand pounds to the families of the dead, but clearly that "no sum of money could compensate for the loss of human life."<sup>30</sup> At the end of the session, all members present stood in mourning for the dead.

Following the recommendations of the committee, eleven officers and soldiers of the Frontier Guard were brought to trial for "carrying out illegal orders."

"The trial was lengthy; judgment was finally given on 16 October 1958, two years after the incident.

"The court found Major Melinki and Lieutenant Dahan guilty of killing forty-three citizens and sentenced the former to seventeen years imprisonment and the latter to fifteen years. The third accused, Sergeant Shalom Ofer, who perpetrated most of these terrible killings, was found guilty, with Dahan, of killing forty-one citizens, and was sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment. The accused Private Makhlouf Hreish and Private Eliahu Abraham were found guilty of killing twenty-two citizens, while Corporal Gabriel Olial, Private Alber Fahimi, and Private Edmond Nahmani were found guilty of killing seventeen citizens. All these five were sentenced to eight years imprisonment and deprived of their ranks. The remaining three accused, including two young Druze volunteers, were acquitted."

These light sentences (premeditated murder incurs a sentence of life imprisonment or twenty years) astounded many Jews as well as Arabs and gave rise to deep fears that similar incidents might occur in the future. On the other hand, there were many in Israel who thought that the trial of the killers, and even their arrest, seemed a grave injustice. They argued that these men were performing their duty and were therefore in no way responsible for their deeds. An extensive campaign for the release of the killers was launched as soon as it was known that they would be brought to trial. This was intensified after the sentencing. The Israeli press was clearly involved in the campaign.

"With two or three exceptions, the press has been party to a conspiracy of silence, throwing a veil over the incident. It wrote of condemned men instead of killers; instead of a killing or a crime in Kafr Kassim it wrote of a 'misfortune' and a 'mistake' and a 'regrettable incident.' When it mentioned the victims of the calamity, it was difficult to tell whom it meant, the dead or the killers. When the sentences were handed down, a cowardly campaign against the judge was begun...."<sup>31</sup>

What was remarkable about the official Israeli attitude was that various authorities made efforts to lighten the killers' sentences. An appeal was brought before the Supreme Military Court, which rendered a judgment that the sentences were harsh and should be reduced. Thus Melinki's sentence was reduced to fourteen years, Dahan's to ten years, and Ofer's to nine years. The chief of staff then proposed to reduce Melinki's sentence to ten years, Dahan and Ofer's to eight years, and the rest of the killers' to four years each. The president of the state followed suit; he granted a "partial pardon" to Melinki and Dahan and reduced their sentences to five years each.<sup>32</sup> Finally it was the turn of the "Committee for the Release of Prisoners," which ordered the remission of a third of the prison sentences of all those convicted. Thus, the last man was released at the beginning of 1960 — about three and a half years after the massacre. They reportedly did not spend the time in prison but were held in a sanatorium in Jerusalem.

Moreover, in September 1960 the municipality of Ramle engaged Gabriel Dahan, convicted of killing forty-three Arabs in one hour, as officer for Arab affairs. Melinki, ten years after the event, felt no embarrassment about boasting of his services to Israel in the field of security, both before and after the massacre.<sup>33</sup>

But the Kafr Kassim affair would not go away. Particular concern was aroused by the part played by Brigadier Yshishkar Shadmi, the man under whose command Melinki's unit had operated. Shadmi was not originally brought to trial and the part he played became known only after the military court had rendered its judgment. During the trial, public indignation was aroused by certain comments Brigadier Shadmi had made during his briefing concerning the imposition of the curfew, particularly his replies to the officer who asked what was to happen to people returning from work: "I don't want any sentimentality" and "Allah have mercy on them." In its judgment, the military court (presided over by Dr. Benjamin Halevy, president of the District Court in Jerusalem, who was on loan to the army for the trial) stated indisputably that Shadmi was responsible to a greater degree than any of the others. This put the Israeli authorities in an embarrassing situation. They were forced to bring Shadmi to trial, with the knowledge that in self-defence he would reveal the instructions he must have received from his immediate superiors, including Major General Zvi Tsur, commander of the Central Area, and Moshe Dayan, army chief of staff. The military court found the following in assessing Shadmi's role in the massacre of Kafr Kassim:

"The defendant Melinki, when he gave his orders to his unit, was not acting on his own initiative or according to his own judgment. He was obeying orders. It was not he who initiated the imposition of the curfew — either as a curfew or as regards the manner of its enforcement. He only passed on the order he had received from his responsible commander, Brigadier Shadmi.... There can be no doubt that the order given by Melinki was only one link in a chain of firm orders given in detail by the brigade commander. The orders given by Melinki were the direct result of the placing of a Frontier Guard unit under the orders of the brigade of the Israel Army commanded by Brigadier Shadmi and of the assignment to that unit of a task in accordance with the wishes of the brigade commander and with the direct order he gave in connection with the curfew and the way in which it was to be carried out.

"Shadmi not only entrusted Melinki with the 'task'; he also informed him of the 'method' by which the curfew was to be enforced. The method... was defined, as stipulated by the brigade commander, as one of 'stringent severity' and 'decisive policy,' the enforcement of the curfew by firing rather than by arrests. We are satisfied that the 'method' prepared by Melinki before the bloody incidents at Kafr Kassim, as a summary of the orders of the brigade commander and for the purpose of including it in the orders to be given to the units ('No villager shall leave his home during the hours of curfew'; 'Anyone leaving his home will be killed'; 'There will be no arrests') was a true reflection of the order given by the brigade commander. There was no misunderstanding by Melinki as to how the curfew was to be enforced, as decided by the brigade commander, and the harsh distinction made in the order given by the unit commander, Melinki, between villagers in their homes, who were to come to no harm, and persons out of doors, to whom the principle of shooting was to be applicable in its full severity, derived from the order given by the brigade commander, Shadmi. The unit commander's statement that, 'It would be better that several people should be killed' was derived directly from the statement of the brigade commander to the effect that 'It is better to get rid of some in this way' (his words being accompanied by a gesture with his hand as described by Melinki) 'than to have the complications of arrests.' ...Our conclusion is that the method of enforcing the curfew, as decided by Melinki in his orders (before the questions and answers), corresponded in all important aspects with the methods of enforcing the curfew stipulated in the order given by the brigade commander. It was Brigadier Shadmi who initiated and ordered, in a manner that could not be disobeyed, the enforcement of the illegal instructions; it was he who ordered the shooting of citizens as a way of enforcing the curfew, and Melinki, in submitting to the orders of his commander, was only transmitting these instructions to his subordinates."<sup>34</sup>

This is a very clear indictment of Shadmi, and when it was published it aroused several demands that he be brought to trial. Opposing the trial was a group led by officials of Shadmi's own party, Achdut Haavoda, who warned of the consequences of such action. A week after the court decision, an article appeared in the party's daily newspaper signed by a "Hebrew prisoner," the nom de plume of Knesset member Moshe Carmel, one of Achdut Haavoda's leaders and then Minister of Transportation.

"It is essential that we should ask whether the ultimate responsibility was Shadmi's and his alone. A brigadier commanding a brigade in the Israel Army who is charged with the task of supervising an area of operations does not act in accordance with his own personal opinions; he is restricted to a framework of plans, orders, and instructions drawn up somewhere and imposed on him by the authority of a higher command. And in as much as the court has disclosed the facts to the people at large, the people have the right to know, and insist on knowing, what orders and instructions were given to Brigadier Shadmi by those responsible for him, in accordance with which orders he acted, and then gave his own more detailed orders in the light of conditions as he saw them and in the field in which he had experience, and also from whom he received his orders.

"If it is indeed found that the orders given by Brigadier Shadmi, whether oral or written, were a cause of the tragedy that took place, the following questions must be asked: Were these orders incompatible or compatible (italics in the original) with the orders he received? It is on this basis that the problem must be considered."<sup>35</sup>

The warning behind these words is clear. If Shadmi were brought to trial it would lead to the exposure of the role of his superiors, who no doubt briefed him and gave him the instructions which led to the massacre. But the authorities soon found a way out. Shadmi was hurried into court, but there was a change in the formation of the court. Justice Halevy had stepped down. The second court tried Shadmi rapidly, found him guilty of a "technical error," and sentenced him to a reprimand and a fine of one Israeli piaster. (Since then "Shadmi's piaster" has become proverbial among the Arabs in Israel.) And so the curtain was lowered on the massacre at Kafr Kassim.<sup>36</sup>

THE MASSACRE OF THE USS LIBERTY

Even though the United States, beguiled by Zionist propaganda and fearful of domestic political pressures by the Israeli lobby in the United States, has been the major supporter of Israel and has become an accessory to Israeli crimes by providing the financial backing and sinews of war used by the Israelis, Americans, and even American servicemen, are not exempt from Israeli-perpetrated massacres if the highest Israeli authorities consider them to be in the way of their objectives.

During the June 1967 war of aggression unleashed by Israel against Egypt, Jordan and Syria, it was vitally important to the Israeli leaders that their plan for aggression against the Arab countries should not be monitored. They were exceedingly upset at the presence of an American intelligence ship, the USS Liberty, in the Eastern Mediterranean monitoring communications traffic in the area.

According to CIA Intelligence Reports, General Moshe Dayan ordered the June 8, 1967, strafing by Israeli aircraft of the USS Liberty and the resultant massacre of her defenseless crew of American sailors. In the words of Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, United States Navy, "During this unprovoked attack, 34 U.S. Navy men were killed and 171 wounded."

General Dayan was a hero to the media in the United States. They never mentioned his complicity in such massacres as Kibya, as we have previously seen. They swept under the rug his direct responsibility for the USS Liberty massacre. Even worse, the United States Government, for domestic political reasons, conducted a massive cover-up of the crime — making it an accessory after the fact to this slaughter of American servicemen.

If the same criteria were used to investigate and try those responsible for the USS Liberty massacre as had been used on German and Japanese war criminals, the entire Israeli War Cabinet and General Staff would have been convicted for the crime. For his direct order of the massacre of defenseless sailors on an unarmed communications vessel sailing in neutral waters, General Dayan would have been hung, and then President of the United States Lyndon Johnson would have been sentenced to many years of incarceration in prison for obstructing justice in a criminal cover-up of the USS Liberty massacre.

Although Minister of Defense General Moshe Dayan was principally responsible for the USS Liberty massacre, then Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol also shared responsibility. Because the USS Liberty was an intelligence monitoring vessel, it is also certain that Meier Amit, head of Mossad (Israeli Intelligence) in 1967, and Gen. Aharon Yariv, then head of Military Intelligence, had to give clearance for the attack. Amit had previously been a participant in the Kibya massacre, as we have seen. Further, the Chief of Staff of the Israeli Armed Forces in 1967, General Yitzhak Rabin, had legal responsibility to ensure that Israeli aircraft did not fire upon neutral vessels in neutral waters. General Mordekhai Hod, then Commander of the Israeli Air Force, and later president of Israeli Aircraft Industries, Ltd., also was legally responsible for the crime committed by his pilots, as were the pilots themselves for carrying out obviously unlawful orders to strafe an unarmed neutral vessel in international waters. The same criteria of judgment rendered on the German and Japanese war criminals of World War II would have held these as well as other Israeli political and military leaders individually responsible and accountable for their acts of omission and commission regarding the USS Liberty massacre.

Following are details on the massacre recounted by the distinguished former U.S. Congressman from Illinois, Paul Findley:

The day of the attack began in routine fashion, with the ship first proceeding slowly in an easterly direction in the eastern Mediterranean, later following the contour of the coastline westerly about fifteen miles off the Sinai Peninsula. On the mainland, Israeli forces were winning smashing victories in the third Arab-Israeli war in nineteen years. Israeli Chief of Staff Yitzhak Rabin, announcing that the Israelis had taken the entire Sinai and broken the blockade on the Strait of Tiran, declared: "The Egyptians are defeated." On the eastern front the Israelis had overcome Jordanian forces and captured most of the West Bank.

At 6 a.m. an airplane, identified by the Liberty crew as an Israeli Noratlas, circled the ship slowly and departed. This procedure was repeated periodically over an eight-hour period. At 9 a.m. a jet appeared at a distance, then left. At 10 a.m., two rocket-armed jets circled the ship three times. They were close enough for their pilots to be observed through binoculars. The planes were unmarked. An hour later the Israeli Noratlas returned, flying not more than 200 feet directly above the Liberty and clearly marked with the Star of David. The ship's crew members and the pilot waved at each other. This plane returned every few minutes until 1 p.m. By then, the ship had changed course and was proceeding almost due west.

At 2.00 p.m. all hell broke loose. Three Mirage fighter planes headed straight for the Liberty, their rockets taking out the forward machine guns and wrecking the ship's antennae.

The Mirages were joined by Mystere fighters, which dropped napalm on the bridge and deck and repeatedly strafed the ship. The attack continued for over 20 minutes. In all, the ship sustained 821 holes in her sides and decks. Of these, more than 100 were rocket size.

As the aircraft departed, three torpedo boats took over the attack, firing five torpedoes, one of which tore a 40-foot hole in the hull, killing 25 sailors. The ship was in flames, dead in the water, listing precariously, and taking water. The crew was ordered to prepare to abandon ship. As life-rafts were lowered into the water, the torpedo boats moved closer and shot them to pieces. One plane concentrated machine-gun fire on rafts still on deck as crew members there tried to extinguish the napalm fire. Petty Officer Charles Rowley declares, "They didn't want anyone to live."<sup>37</sup>

Paul Findley continues:

At 3:15 p.m. the last shot was fired, leaving the vessel a combination morgue and hospital. The ship had no engines, no power, no rudder. Fearing further attack, Captain McGonagle, despite severe leg injuries, stayed at the bridge. An Israeli helicopter, its open bay door showing troops in battle gear and a machine gun mounted in an open doorway, passed close to the deck and then left. Other aircraft came and went during the next hour.

Although U.S. air support never arrived, within fifteen minutes of the first attack and more than an hour before the first assault ended, fighter planes from the USS Saratoga were in the air ready for a rescue mission under orders "to destroy or drive off any attackers." The carrier was only 30 minutes away, and, with a squadron of fighter planes on deck ready for a routine operation, it was prepared to respond almost instantly.

But the rescue never occurred. Without approval by Washington, the planes could not take aggressive action, even to rescue a U.S. ship confirmed to be under attack. Admiral Donald Engen, then captain of the America, the second U.S. carrier in the vicinity, later explained: "President Johnson had very strict control. Even though we knew the Liberty was under attack, I couldn't just go and order a rescue." The planes were hardly in the air when the voice of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was heard over Sixth Fleet radios: "Tell the Sixth Fleet to get those aircraft back immediately." They were to have no part in destroying or driving off the attackers.

Shortly after 3 p.m., nearly an hour after the Liberty's plea was first heard, The White House gave momentary approval to a rescue mission and planes from both carriers were launched. At almost precisely the same instant, the Israeli Government informed the U.S. naval attache in Tel Aviv that its forces had "erroneously attacked a U.S. ship" after mistaking it for an Egyptian vessel, and offered "abject apologies." With apology in hand, Johnson once again ordered U.S. aircraft back to their carriers.<sup>38</sup>

The callous attempt by the Israeli airforce to ensure that there would be no survivors to their crime constituted an offence in its own right. Lord Russell of Liverpool, who was legal adviser to the Commander-in-Chief in respect of all trials of German war criminals in the British Zone of Occupied Germany, reports a similar crime committed by German submarine U-852's commander Kapitanleutnant Heinz

Eck, who had ordered his crew to open fire on the rafts of the Greek vessel SS Peleus in 1943:

The commander and four members of his crew were tried by a British Military Court in Hamburg in October 1945 for being concerned in the killing of members of the crew of the Peleus by firing and throwing grenades at them. All were found guilty of the charge and the commander and three others sentenced to suffer death by shooting.<sup>39</sup>

Details on CIA documents indicting the Israeli leadership for murder of the defenseless crew of the USS Liberty were uncovered through the painstaking research of James M. Ennes, Jr., an officer of the USS Liberty and an eyewitness to the massacre:

The CIA reported a conversation with a confidential Israeli source who strongly implied that the attack was no error. The message read in part:

He said that "you've got to remember that in this campaign there is neither time nor room for mistakes," which was intended as an obtuse reference to the fact that Israel's forces knew what flag the Liberty was flying and exactly what the vessel was doing off the coast. (The source) implied that the ship's identity was known at least six hours before the attack but that Israeli headquarters was not sure as to how many people might have access to the information the Liberty was intercepting. He also implied that there was no certainty or control as to where the information was going and again reiterated that Israeli forces did not make mistakes in their campaign. He was emphatic in stating to me that they knew what kind of ship USS Liberty was and what it was doing offshore.

This report gains credibility when we recall that Israel did identify the ship six hours before the attack. Hence, the informant does indeed have access to inside information.

On November 9, 1967, a confidential source reported clearly and unequivocally that General Moshe Dayan ordered the attack. The message read:

"(The source) commented on the sinking (sic) of the US Communications ship Liberty. They said that Dayan personally ordered the attack on the ship and that one of his generals adamantly opposed the action and said, 'This is pure murder.' One of the admirals who was present also disapproved the action, and it was he who ordered it stopped and not Dayan."<sup>40</sup>

LIBYAN BOEING 727 AIRLINER MASSACRE

On February 21, 1973, Israeli aircraft shot down a peaceful Libyan civil Boeing 727 airliner, murdering 106 innocent passengers. This brazenly criminal act was perpetrated over the then illegally occupied Egyptian territory of Sinai. The airliner was in distress, and Israel's leaders, not caring about its civilian passengers of many different nationalities, had their fighters shoot it down.

The decision to shoot down this Libyan airliner in distress was made by then Chief of Staff of the IDF General David Elazar, acting on erroneous intelligence data supplied by Mossad and cleared with Military Intelligence. Then Head of Mossad, General Zvi Zamir, and Head of Military Intelligence, General Eli Zeira, share General Elazar's responsibility for the brutal massacre of these innocent civilian airline passengers.

The responsibility of then Minister of Defense General Moshe Dayan and then Prime Minister Golda Meir in this crime is also clear and established.

The following is from the United Nations Security Council Documents in an account of the Libyan Boeing 727 airliner massacre sent by the Ambassador of Egypt<sup>41</sup>:

Upon urgent instructions from my Government and in view of the seriousness of the situation arising from the most brazenly criminal act perpetrated by Israeli fighters over the occupied Egyptian territory of Sinai against a Libyan civil Boeing 727 airliner in distress and carrying civilian passengers of different nationalities, I would like to bring the following points to your attention, as well as to the attention of the members of the Security Council.

On 21 February, 1973, a Libyan airliner proceeding on a scheduled flight from Benghazi to Cairo, deviated from its original course owing to navigational difficulties as well as to bad weather conditions. The airliner, therefore, accidentally overflew the occupied Egyptian territory of Sinai. Thereupon the civil aircraft was intercepted by four Israeli fighters and, in spite of the fact that the aircraft was unmistakably civilian, the Israeli fighters, upon direct instructions, cleared with the highest authorities in Israel, treacherously and without warning attacked the airliner with cannon fire and missiles while it was heading west. This flagrant premeditated and barbaric act of aggression resulted in the crash of the civil aircraft and caused the death of 106 helpless and defenseless victims.

It is worthwhile to note that the aircraft deviated into Sinai, which is illegally occupied by Israel, in defiance of the principles and purposes of the Charter of the United Nations and the numerous resolutions of the world Organization. Had Israel respected and implemented its obligations under the Charter and the United Nations resolutions, the said massacre would have been avoided and the innocent lives would have been spared.

The Egyptian Government considers the Israeli act of shooting down a civilian aircraft to be another aggression carried by Israel to new heights, as well as a crime committed in cold blood against a civil air transport vehicle, and, as such, it is a flagrant and serious threat to the safety of international aviation.

The Egyptian Government draws attention to the fact that Israel is callously engaged in a premeditated campaign of massacre and mass killings in the occupied Arab territories in particular and in the region in general. The recent unprovoked aggression against Lebanon which resulted in the killing of tens of civilians is a case in point. It occurred on 21 February, the day that the horrible crime against the civil aircraft occurred. Other official Israeli terrorist operations in the Middle East need not be enumerated in this respect. It is a matter of criminal record and common indignation.

THE MASSACRES OF THE SABRA AND SHATILA PALESTINIAN REFUGEE CAMPS IN BEIRUT, LEBANON

The massacres detailed in this chapter — the King David Hotel, the Semiramis Hotel, Deir Yassin, Dawayma, Kibya, Kafr Kassem, the USS Liberty and the Libyan Boeing 727 Airliner — practically pale into insignificance compared to the carnage perpetrated at the Sabra and Shatila Palestinian Refugee Camps in Beirut, Lebanon, during the Israeli invasion of Lebanon in 1982. The mass murder of more than 2,750 men, women and children (according to a body count taken in the camps by the International Committee of the Red Cross on September 23, 1982) — whose only "crime" was to be homeless exiles from their native land — by the Phalangist puppets of the Israelis has been studied exhaustively.

The studies disclose that any rational person would place responsibility on the Israelis for inspiring the massacres. Without question it has been established that the Israelis bear responsibility for the killings.

The principal war criminal bearing legal responsibility for the massacres is the then Israeli Minister of Defence, General Ariel Sharon — the perpetrator of the Kibya Massacre nearly thirty years before. He was aided and abetted in this criminal responsibility by the Foreign Minister of Israel, Yitshak Shamir, who previously had criminal responsibility associated with the Deir Yassin Massacre and other massacres and the assassination of United Nations Representative Count Bernadotte. Responsibility was shared by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, guilty of war crime atrocities in both the King David Hotel Massacre in 1946 and that of Deir Yassin and other massacres.

Three senior Israeli Generals were found to have Command Responsibility for the Sabra and Shatila war crime. Chief of Staff General Rafael Eitan, Commanding General of the Northern Command, General Amir Drori, and the Field Commander for the IDF division occupying West Beirut, Brigadier General Amos Yaron, were all found guilty of criminal responsibility related to the Sabra and Shatila massacre.

Issue No. 107 of Military Law Review, the official legal periodical of the U.S. Department of Defense issued by the Department of the Army, published an exhaustive 118 page analysis by Lieutenant Commander Weston D. Burnett, Judge Advocate General's Corps, United States Navy, on the Israeli responsibility for the massacre. In his study, entitled, "Command Responsibility and a Case Study of the Criminal Responsibility of Israeli Military Commanders for the Pogrom at Shatila and Sabra," Commander Burnett concluded:

The screams of the victims at Dubno, My Lai and Sabra and Shatila should never be forgotten. In assessing the blame for such atrocities, command responsibility must play a key role.<sup>42</sup>

The verdict, established by all the precedents established in the history of warfare and by the International War Crimes Tribunals after World War II, can only be guilty in regard to the Israelis.

The following is a day-by-day, hour-by-hour chronology of the events surrounding the Sabra and Shatila massacre<sup>43</sup>:

September 13

The last French contingent of the multinational peacekeeping force departed Lebanon.

5:10 p.m. Prime Minister Begin and Defense Minister Sharon, without Cabinet consultation, decided to implement "Operation Iron Brain," which includes the occupation of West Beirut in order to "prevent dangerous developments and to preserve tranquility and order."

September 14

A bomb blast kills president-elect Bashir Gemayel with 50-60 colleagues in Phalangist headquarters in East Beirut. 350 members of rival Phalangist factions arrested by the SKS, the Kitaeb (Phalange) security service. Before the announcement of Gemayel's death is officially made, Begin and Sharon, without cabinet consultation, set in action "Operation Iron Brain": it involves the occupation of West Beirut.

6.00 p.m. An Israeli air bridge was set up at Beirut Airport, and tanks and men disembarked. Later, following the announcement of the death of Bashir Gemayel, Sharon talked to Begin and the decision was made to invade West Beirut. Only Foreign Minister Shamir was informed and he endorsed the plan. The Israeli forces made their last preparations.

7.30 p.m. Even before the meeting between Israeli and Phalangist leaders at which the Phalangists were told to enter the camps, the first Hercules C-130 transports began landing at the Beirut Airport from Israel. Sharon had ordered the supplies and material for the operation within ten minutes of learning of Gemayel's death.

8.30 p.m. Approximately four hours after Bashir Gemayel's death, Defense Minister Ariel Sharon and Chief of Staff Rafael Eitan finalized the decision to send the Phalangists into the camps. The reason, according to Eitan, was "because we could give them orders whereas it was impossible to give the Lebanese Army orders." Contrary to Israeli government statements, the Israeli Army command did not first urge the Lebanese Army to enter the camps, but directly approached the Phalangists. Only Major Gen. Amir Drori, who feared a massacre, urged the Lebanese army to enter the camps.

11.00 p.m. A public announcement of Bashir Gemayel's death was made by Radio Lebanon and Lebanese Forces Radio.

11.00 p.m. General Eitan, chief of staff, arrived at Israeli headquarters at Kofhr-Sil and again reviewed the plan to occupy West Beirut.

12.30 a.m. Prime Minister Begin and Defense Minister Sharon, in consultation with Foreign Minister Itzhak Shamir, further discussed the decision to occupy West Beirut. This decision, made one hour after the assassination of Bashir Gemayel, was later claimed by the Israeli Army to have been made to "prevent bloodshed."

12.40 a.m. General Drori, commander of the region north of Israel received an order to take all key points in West Beirut. (On Israeli television Friday, September 24, Sharon acknowledged for the first time that this reason, provided by the military command, was only a "smoke screen" to hide Israel's real intentions — the destruction of the remaining Palestinian guerillas claimed to be still in the city.)

2.00 a.m. Israeli armed forces began their move forward into West Beirut.

Sometime between midnight and 3.30 a.m. the Phalangist General staff acting in the absence of its 13-man political "war council" met for a second time and decided to order some 1,500 of their special troops to assemble the next day (Thursday) at Beirut airport.

3.30 a.m. Generals Eitan and Drori met with the leaders of the 'Christian Militia,' including Fadi Frem, Lebanese Forces and Phalangist commander-in-chief, and Elias Hobeika, Phalangist chief of intelligence. The meeting place was the roof of the seven-story observation building which served as headquarters for both the Israeli Army and Hobeika, who was the leader of the massacre. Also present were Dib Anastas, head of the Phalangist military police, Col. Michel Oun, the pro-Phalange Lebanese army commander in West Beirut, and Joseph Edde, commander of the militia forces in southern Lebanon. Together they reviewed details of the operation to invade West Beirut. Also discussed was the Phalangist assault on the refugee camps. At the end of the meeting, a Phalangist military leader told the Israelis present, "For years, we have waited for this moment." (This statement was confirmed to the Knesset on September 22 by Sharon.)

September 15

During the day, the preparations for the killer units to enter the camps were accelerated by the Israeli Army. Among them was the painting by Israeli soldiers of the letters MP (Military Police), and a triangle drawn inside a circle, the symbol of the Phalangist forces. The purpose was to show the route to be taken from Choueifat and the Beirut Airport to the Kuwait embassy across the road from Sabra and Shatila camps. Phalangist forces from East Beirut and Damour as well as Saad Haddad forces followed these directional signs.

Approximately 4.30 a.m. The Israeli bombardment of West Beirut began.

5.00 a.m. Ninety minutes after Eitan and Drori met with Phalangist leaders, the Israeli Army, in violation of the August 20 ceasefire and freeze-in-place, moved its forces into West Beirut. Between 11.45 a.m. and noon it occupied areas encircling Sabra and Shatila camps.

Between 5.00 and 5.30 a.m. Israeli planes made low-level flights over the camps. From the roof of Gaza Hospital, artillery bombardment of Sabra and Shatila camps is witnessed by hospital staff.

By 4.00 p.m., the shelling zone is estimated by hospital staff to be less than a kilometer from the hospital and by nightfall, the staff observes that the camps are entirely surrounded by Israeli troops.

8.00 a.m. Israeli 15 mm artillery shelling of Sabra and Shatila began. Israeli snipers fired on the camps from the sports stadium with 800-type high velocity rifles. The sixth story of the Mukhalalati building at Shatila square was shelled.

9.00 a.m. Sharon arrived on top of the seven-story Israeli headquarters overlooking Sabra and Shatila camps. In the presence of Generals Eitan and Drori, he telephoned Menachem Begin and told him, "Our forces have advanced towards their target, I can see them with my naked eye."

9.30 a.m. Special U.S. Envoy Morris Draper visited Prime Minister Begin in Jerusalem to discuss the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Lebanon under the Habib Accords. Begin greeted him as follows, "Mr. Ambassador, I have the honor to advise you that since 5 a.m. this morning our forces have advanced and taken positions inside West Beirut. Our goal is to maintain order inside the city. With the situation created by the assassination of Bashir Gemayel it was necessary to protect the camps." On September 24, Sharon changed the explanation and stated that the reason was in fact that 2,000 "armed terrorists" were left behind with huge arms supplies. General Eitan added that the "armed terrorists" who had stayed behind were in the refugee camps.

(Earlier, on September 15, 1982, Eitan had told the Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee of the Knesset that "there remain in West Beirut only a few terrorists and a small PLO bureau." Indeed, during the two weeks' occupation of West Beirut, the Israeli Army conducted a systematic search but arrested only a few dozen people.)

Approximately 10.00 a.m. The Israeli Army sealed off the north boundaries of the camps and at approximately noon they sealed off the east side of Shatila, completing the encirclement of Sabra and Shatila with tanks, their cannons pointed towards the camps. Shortly thereafter, Israeli soldiers set up control points at the entrances and exits of the camps. The Israeli Defense Force Headquarters was located approximately 500 meters from the main street of Sabra and Shatila camps, and from the headquarters the Israeli Army had extensive visibility of the inside of the camps.

12.00 noon. Foreign doctors at Gaza Hospital reported the first 25 casualties from within Shatila, thought to be from two Israeli tanks positioned close to the sports stadium with their guns trained on the camp.

12.00 noon. Reports began circulating from residents at Choueifat that trucks belonging to Phalangist units were moving towards the Israeli base on Runway 2 at Beirut airport.

Wednesday Afternoon. According to one Phalange participant in the massacre, quoted by Der Spiegel in its February 21, 1983 issue, "300 Phalangists from East Beirut, South Lebanon, and from Akkar Mountain in the North met in the Wadi Shahrour (Valley of the Birds) Southeast of Beirut."

At this meeting one of the Phalange officers announced that men were needed for a "special operation." He stated: "You came voluntarily to avenge the abominable assassination of Bashir Gemayel. You are tools of God. Each one of you is to seek vengeance."

"The Phalange participant continued to say that during the meeting "more than a dozen Israelis in green fatigues, without designation of rank, showed up. They had maps, and their Arabic was pretty good, only they pronounced the hard 'h' like 'ch' as all Jews do. They were talking about the Palestinian camps Sabra and Shatila. We all had to look at the maps for hours — it was a waste of time because it was clear to us what we were supposed to do, and we looked forward to it."

During late afternoon, the Israeli Army fired several artillery and tank rounds into the Sabra and Shatila camps. Also in the afternoon, Israeli planes made low-level flights over the camps. (Dr. Per Maehlumshagen, a Norwegian surgeon at Gaza Hospital, testified that approximately 15 persons came to the hospital Thursday, having been wounded by these shells. Other casualties arrived at Akka Hospital which is located at the southern end of Shatila camp.)

Shortly after nightfall, the electricity was suddenly cut in West Beirut. At 10.00 p.m., an Israeli soldier, he later testified, had received orders to begin firing flares over Sabra and Shatila camps. Close to midnight, sporadic gunfire began in the camps.

The Lebanese State Radio announced that Israeli forces controlled Sabra and Shatila camps.

Thursday, September 16

Between 5.00 - 5.30 a.m. Low-level flights of Israeli planes over the camps were followed by artillery shelling. Throughout the morning, Gaza Hospital staff heard distinct small-arms fire from within the camp. By mid-morning, approximately 150 casualties with high-velocity gunshot wounds had entered Gaza Hospital. Approximately 30 died while receiving treatment. By nightfall, an estimated 2,000 refugees had entered Gaza seeking refuge.

Approximately 10.00 a.m. The Phalangists completed their preparations to enter the camp. After a conversation with Sharon, Eitan asked General Drori to check to see if the Phalangists were ready to enter.

11.20 a.m. The Ministry of Defense in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem issued the following statement: "The IDF controls all the strategic points in Beirut. The refugee camps harboring terrorist concentrations are encircled and closed." Israeli forces occupied the commercial districts of Hamra, and Corniche Mazra.

11.45 a.m. General Drori met at Amos Yaron's office with the Phalangist commander in Beirut, Fadi Frem and Elias Hobeika, intelligence chief of the Phalange, "to coordinate the entrance of the Phalange units into the Shatila camp." It was decided that 150 Phalangist fighters would enter the two camps. Drori asked Frem if his men were ready to enter Sabra and Shatila. Frem answered, "Yes, immediately." Both Frem and Hobeika commented that there would be a "kasah" (chopping) in the camps. According to Sharon's Knesset speech on September 20, "The conclusion was that a military force would enter the Shatila camp from the South and West to mop up terrorists." Sharon also reported they had told the Phalange to take action only against "terrorists". (Editor's note: Earlier versions from the Israeli Army and government stated that the Israeli Army had not encircled the refugee areas, but had held the positions only to the north, south and west and that the killer militia had entered unseen from the unguarded east.)

12.00 noon. Casualties with high-velocity gunshot wounds began arriving at Gaza Hospital.

Approximately noon. The municipal council which governs the camps sent five elderly men delegates with white flags to negotiate with the Israeli units near the Kuwaiti embassy. Four of the men were killed. They were Hamid Ismail (age 55), Ahmed Said (age 65), Abou Soueid (age 62) and Tawfik Hachmeh (age 64).

2.00 p.m. Lebanese officers at Beirut Airport reported seeing two Israeli C 130 Transports arrive and unload vehicles and men, some of whom were identified as Haddad militiamen.

3.00 p.m. General Amos Yaron, commander of the Israeli forces in Beirut, met with Hobeika and Frem of the Phalangists. They looked over aerial photographs furnished by Israel. They pinpointed that the Israelis would give all necessary assistance "in order to eliminate the terrorists in the camps."

Drori telephoned Sharon and told him, "Our friends are advancing into the camps. I have coordinated their entry with the top men." Sharon answered, "Felicitations, the operation of our friends is approved."

General Yaron later stated to the Israeli Commission investigating the massacres that he was so concerned about the possibility of slaughter of civilians that he "placed observation posts as close as possible to the area of their operations" and had "agents listen in on Phalangist radio communications."

3.00 p.m. Choueifat residents reported seeing Phalangists and possibly Haddad forces on the road to Beirut airport.

The group of about 300 Phalangists met again and were obliged to swear an oath to their militia commander never to talk to anybody about the "operation".

According to Der Spiegel of February 21, 1983, several Israelis wearing Phalange uniforms joined the Phalange unit. One of the Phalange officers told his men: "Our Israeli friends are going with you. They are also volunteers. They haven't told their army what they are doing. They will make your task easier."

An officer of the Phalange maintained contact with the Israelis at the entrance to the camp. A man wearing a mask led the unit to a slope close to the abandoned Embassy of Kuwait. The order was given "Iqfiz" (hop off).

4.00 p.m. A unit of 150 Phalangists assembled near the airport moved across Quzai along Henri-Chehab Boulevard to the general quarters of the Lebanese Army in the abandoned United Nations building. They were watched from across the road from the seven-story Israeli observation post.

This building was 500 meters from the main road running through Sabra and Shatila camps.

4.00 p.m. The Israeli soldiers manning the barricades at the entrances to Shatila camp received orders on their walkie-talkie, to allow the Phalangist forces in.

4.10 p.m. Twenty-five jeeps filled with Phalangist militia passed by Bir Hassan toward the Kuwaiti embassy. Alarmed camp residents approached Israeli officers, who told them to return to their homes and that they had nothing to fear.

5.00 p.m. London Times and other correspondents observed Phalangists setting up a command post at the Lebanese University building west of Shatila.

Between 5.00 and 5.15 p.m. Three killer units of approximately 50 men each entered the camps. The leaders of the groups included Michel Zouein, a close aid to Hobeika, and Marun Mishalai, a Phalangist commander in East Beirut. The groups included Deb Anastas' Military Police, Joseph Edde's Black Beret Commandos, Elie Hobeika's Special Security Unit, and the Damour Brigade which included fighters from Saadiyat and Nameh. Two routes were used. One entered exactly in front of the Israeli observation post (diagonally across the street from the Kuwaiti embassy) into the Arsal Section of Shatila. This advance unit was led by Hobeika, Hobeika himself did not enter the camp with his men, but joined the Israelis in the forward command post. The other entered from the main road in the camp to the Horch Tabet Section. A majority of the units entering the camps consisted of Phalangist Lebanese Forces and several Phalange military police and at least a few dozen men from Saad Haddad's forces driving in jeeps supplied by the Israelis. (After first denying any involvement, Saad Haddad later told an Israeli press conference that some of his men could have been working with the Phalangists. Washington Post correspondent Loren Jenkins, an Israeli television reporter, and dozens of inhabitants of Choueifat, a neighborhood near the airport, claimed they saw a convoy of Haddad's forces moving toward the airport from the south. Moreover, several journalists and diplomats reported seeing Haddad's men the day following the massacres mingling with Israeli soldiers throughout West Beirut.)

At 5.30 p.m. Artillery flares from Israeli howitzers and aircraft are dropped on the camps. While the sky was not yet dark, the alleyways were becoming dark and the flares made the area as light as day.

5.30 p.m. Additional bands of militia in the Shatila camp conducted the first massacres in the section of the camp called Arsal in front of and perhaps 100 meters from the Israeli observation post.

Almost immediately, the Israeli soldiers who had encircled and sealed off the camps were besieged by hysterical, screaming Palestinian women running from the refugee neighborhoods and telling of the massacre. These women were prevented from leaving the camps by the encircling Israeli Army. West and south of the camps, Israeli tanks were placed every 100 to 200 meters. Reports of a massacre in the camps were immediately relayed to officers and transmitted along the Israeli command chain.

5.30 p.m. A man aged 55 was brought to Akka Hospital outside the Shatila camp after being forced out of his house and shot in the street. At least one doctor suspected that a slaughter was taking place.

Further evidence that the massacre began came from Gaza Hospital where one of the early victims was Milad Faruk, aged 11. He had gunshot wounds in the arms and legs and had a finger shot off. His parents and younger brother were already dead. The family was watching television when Christian militiamen kicked down the door of their house and opened fire.

7.00 p.m. An hour after Phalangists had entered the camps, an Israeli lieutenant identified only as Elul, an aide to the division commander, General Yaron, "overheard a conversation that took place over the Phalangist transmitter" that was being monitored in the Israeli forward command post. According to Lieutenant Elul's testimony, he "heard a Phalangist officer from the force that had entered the camp tell Hobeika that there were 50 women and children and what should he do." Lieutenant Elul testified that Hobeika's reply over the radio was, "This is the last time you're going to ask me a question like that, you know exactly what to do." Lieutenant Elul said that at that point, "raucous laughter broke out among the Phalangist personnel on the roof." The Israeli officer said that he understood that what was involved was the murder of women and children, and told Yaron.

7.00 p.m. Another radio communication indicated that 45 people who were captured were to be killed.

Between 7.00 and 8.00 p.m. Israeli soldiers from a mortar unit fired 81 mm flares at the rate of two per minute into the camps. The flares continued throughout Thursday night and Friday night. Some flares were also dropped by aircraft. Throughout the night, Israeli observers, 200 meters from the center of the killing, watched the massacre with infrared binoculars, which essentially convert the night to day for the viewer.

Approximately 7.00 p.m. Sharon met with Morris Draper, who requested that the Israelis leave Beirut. Sharon refused.

Approximately 8.00 p.m. A Phalange liaison officer "told various people" that about 300 people had already been killed by the Phalangists (later he reduced it to 120). About an hour later the divisional intelligence officer of the IDF presented his "intelligence survey" in which he said, "The impression is that their (the Phalangists') fighting is not too serious. They have casualties, as you know — two wounded, one in the leg and hand...And they, it turns out, are pondering what to do with the population they are finding inside. On the other hand, it seems, there are no terrorists there, in the camps; Sabra camp is empty. On the other hand, they have amassed women, children, and apparently also old people." He also reported the 7 p.m. radio communication from a Phalange officer indicating that these people should be killed.

At a meeting between Yaron and an Israeli intelligence officer who had been inside the camps, the officer stated

"there are no terrorists in the camp. The Sabra camp is empty."

Several hours later the Israeli Cabinet issued the following statement: "Following the assassination of President-elect Bashir Gemayel, the I.D.F. took positions in West Beirut in order to prevent the danger of violence, bloodshed and anarchy, while about 2,000 terrorists, equipped with modern and heavy weapons, remained in West Beirut, thus blatantly violating the departure agreement."

9.30 p.m. Sharon later acknowledged, "The word revenge also appeared I would say, in discussions among us," and he conceded that he had known that the Phalangists "tended toward creating conditions so that eventually the Palestinians would leave Lebanon."

10.00 p.m. An American army truck which the Israelis had given the militia was boarded and driven near the circular flower bed at Beirut International Airport. At that location next to the Israeli position several trucks were parked.

Afternoon. According to the Phalange participants in the massacre, noted above, "During Thursday evening after the killing had started, soon I saw the Israeli advisers who had been at our secret planning session. One of them had a radio and told us to retreat to the entrance of the camp. A few minutes later Israeli artillery sent a massive barrage of fire over to the part of the camp that was resisting. When we advanced again the Israeli shot flares to help us distinguish friend and foe."

Approximately 10.00 p.m. According to General Yaron, Israeli soldiers under his command monitored a radio conversation between a Phalangist militiaman in the field and his commander. Asking for advice on the camp operation, the militiaman was told to "do what God commands you."

At approximately 10.00 p.m. Israeli Army Lieutenant Avi Gabowski (a tank commander) later testified that he saw Phalangists killing civilians and one of them told him "pregnant women give birth to terrorists." He reported this incident to his superior.

10.12 p.m. IDF Radio monitored by the BBC, announced that Israeli control over the coastal axis, from the airfield in the south to the port in the north, was total. After referring to pockets of resistance to the IDF troops, the report said: "The intention is that the IDF will not operate tonight to purge the areas of Sabra and Shatila and nearby camps. It was decided to entrust the Phalangists with the mission of carrying out these purging operations."

11.00 p.m. The Phalangist commander of the troops in Shatila reported to General Yaron, "Until now, 300 civilians and terrorists have been killed." This report was immediately given to Eitan and more than 20 high-ranking officers in Tel Aviv. Despite this report, which was confirmed on Sept. 24, 1982 by Jerusalem Post military correspondent Hirsch Goodman, and those who received it, the massacre continued until late Saturday morning. (General Yaron later said this report convinced him that more than "fighting against the terrorists was going on." He contacted the Phalangist commander staff, but stated he didn't forward the report to Commanding Officer Drori).

Toward Nightfall. An indefinite curfew was imposed in all areas under Israeli control, including Sabra and Shatila refugee camps.

During Thursday Night. Eighty-two wounded persons from Shatila made their way to Gaza Hospital. The route to Akka Hospital, which was closer, was blocked by Israeli forces. Some of the injured were wounded in the massacre and some by the shelling by the Israeli Army earlier in the afternoon.

During Thursday Night. Between 1,000 and 2,000 persons from Sabra and Shatila, in a state of panic, sought refuge in Gaza Hospital.

Midnight. The Israeli Cabinet met in extraordinary session. The minutes of the Cabinet meeting showed no dissent from the decision to send the Phalange into the camps. Deputy Prime Minister David Levy and General Eitan spoke of possible Phalangist revenge against Palestinians. According to the minutes of the Cabinet meeting, Eitan predicted "the outbreak of acts of revenge...It will be an outburst the likes of which we have not seen. I already see in their eyes what they are waiting for...." This same report was made by Jerusalem Post correspondent Hirsch Goodman. Eitan reported on the West Beirut situation, including limited engagements with Muslim militias such as Al-Mourabitoun. He offhandedly mentioned that the Phalangists entered the refugee camps in order to "mop up nests of terrorists." He added that the Phalangist activities were completely coordinated with those of the Israeli Army. During the four-hour discussion of West Beirut, approximately three minutes were devoted to the Phalangists being sent into the camps.

Friday, September 17

Shortly past 1.00 a.m. Israeli Army radio announced that the Israeli Army was leaving the "cleansing of the camps" to the Phalange.

4.00 a.m. According to the Phalange participant in the massacre, noted above, "At about four in the morning my unit went back to the truck. Apparently only one truck had been used at the time. We went back to the entrance of Hadath to sleep. At dawn we went back to the camp. We passed corpses, fell over corpses, shot at and bayoneted eyewitnesses.... Then the first bulldozer of the Israeli Army arrived. 'Plow everything under the ground, kill all eyewitnesses, everything has to go very fast,' a Phalange officer ordered."

4.00 a.m. The same Israeli mortar unit which fired the flares Thursday and Friday night fired several 155 mm high explosive and phosphorus shells into the camps.

5.30 a.m. Israeli Military Intelligence Officer Moshe Hevroni received the report that 300 were dead and had his aide forward the report to Sharon's office. (At Sharon's office, Lieutenant Colonel Reuvan Fai, an officer in the Israeli National Security Unit, reported that he passed it to Sharon's civilian aide, Avi Dudai, at 11.00 A.M. Dudai denies receiving their report.)

Early Friday Morning According to Israeli Colonel Eli Geva, he saw Israeli soldiers and officers watching from their observation post the piling of bodies, and the execution of civilians. During this period, the Israelis from time to time gave food and water to the militiamen across their barricades in front of Shatila. Rumors of a massacre began to spread through the IDF units.

At about the same time, several journalists learned of the massacre in progress and Zeev Schiff, the military correspondent of Ha'aretz, contacted several Israeli officials, including Minister of Communications Mordechai Zippori. Zippori telephoned Foreign Minister Shamir and reported a massacre was taking place in the refugee camps of West Beirut. Zippori, whose personal relations with Sharon were not good, urged Shamir to find out from Sharon exactly what was going on in the camps.

(Sharon told the Knesset on September 22, "When we first had doubts about what was going on in the camps, the Commander of the North Front Drori immediately took measures to stop the action of the Phalangists at Shatila.... We put an end to the Phalangist activity towards Friday, noon, and we definitely evacuated them towards Saturday noon." In reality, the massacre activity continued all day and all night until Saturday morning. During this period, fresh Phalangist troops entered the camps.)

Approximately 6.00 a.m. Israeli tank commander Gabowski saw Phalangist militiamen kill a group of five women and children. His tank crew informed the Israeli regimental commander who told them "not to intervene."

During the morning of September 17, 1982, Captain Moshe Sinai reported to Lieut. Col. Gai, that "300 civilians have been killed in the camps." Gai reacted with the words, "Listen, that's very interesting — I spoke with the minister during the night, and I'll go talk with him in a little while; the story is very interesting, and the minister will be very happy to hear the report." (Between 12.30 and 3.00 p.m., Lt. Col. Gai reported this information to Avi Dudai at the Ministry of Defense, a personal aide to Sharon.)

Approximately 11.00 a.m. The Phalangists asked for more ammunition to be sent into the camp as well as fresh soldiers to replace those who were tired. Yaron agreed with Hobeika that two more battalions of militiamen could enter the camps, but only one entered. He later stated that the new supplies were sent into the camps between "11.00 a.m. and 2.00 or 3.00 p.m."

Approximately 11.00 a.m. Yaron met with Drori and raised suspicions concerning Phalangist activities inside the camps.

Approximately 11.00 a.m. and noon. Akka Hospital, located just across the street from Shatila camp, was invaded by a killer unit and several of the wounded were killed in their beds including 14-year-old Moufid Asad. Several staff members also were killed and some, including Dr. Sami Katib were taken away and never returned. Intissar Ismail, a 19-year-old Palestinian nurse, was repeatedly raped by Saad Haddad forces and her body mutilated so completely that the only means of recognition was the ring on her finger. A Lebanese colleague at Akka confirmed this event and some of the conversation of her killers. Two other nurses were taken and one was raped 10 times and then killed.

11.05 a.m. Communications Minister Zippori telephoned Shamir to forward a report that "the Phalangists are massacring" in the camps. At 12.00 noon, Shamir met with Sharon and top generals, but claims he did not mention the reports of the massacre to Sharon.

About 11.30 a.m. Three large Phalangist trucks and two smaller pick-ups were loaded with men, women, and children and left the camps toward the south. These trucks passed Israeli units in front of the camps. This activity was filmed by Danish television cameraman Flint Pederson. Residents of Choueifat and Hadath, south of the camps, reported the trucks passed their area heading south.

Also on the Danish film can be seen an elderly man, a Mr. Nouri, being turned back with other civilian into Shatila. Some 24 hours later Robert Fisk of The London Times saw Mr. Nouri lying dead near the main road running through the camp.

According to The New York Times of January 30, 1983, "Palestinian and independent medical sources in Beirut stated that several hundred men rounded up by the militias in Sabra and Shatila were turned over to the Israelis and were in detention in Israeli prison at Ansar."

Approximately 11.45 a.m. Drori called the Army Chief of Staff Eitan with news of the massacre. Eitan told Drori that he was coming to Beirut.

About 11.45 a.m. Residents in the Bourg el-Brajneh camp near Shatila reported seeing Christian militiamen bringing people out of Shatila on to the main road. This was within sight of Israeli positions. About 100 Palestinians were separated from the Lebanese and made to squat on the road, where they were interrogated, their faces being slashed by bayonets to force a reply. All this went on in sight of an Israeli position beside the Kuwaiti Embassy.

Approximately noon. Shamir and Sharon met with U.S. envoy Morris Draper and urged him to pressure the Lebanese government into sending its army into the camps. According to Draper, neither Shamir nor Sharon told what both of them knew — that for more than 12 hours the Phalangist had been engaged in a massacre.

Beginning in late morning, at least three Israeli bulldozers entered the camps and groups of militia prepared mass graves in order to hide the bodies. Throughout the afternoon and night, they also destroyed houses. One grave was dug below the Israeli observation post as Israeli soldiers watched.

In early afternoon, Yaron spoke to Colonel Agmon, the Phalangist liaison officer, and was told that Phalange militiamen were killing women and children. Yaron did not inform Drori or Eitan during their meeting.

3.30 p.m. Eitan arrived at Beirut Airport. He saw the Phalangist troops and spoke with some of their leaders.

4.00 p.m. A Norwegian diplomat named Gunnar Flakstad while trying to get through to the Norwegian doctors at Gaza and Akka Hospitals observed that the scoop of one of the bulldozers was filled with bodies.

Mid-afternoon. Approximately 400 civilians seeking to escape the massacre and carrying a white flag approached Israeli soldiers. According to Time Magazine, (October 4, 1982), "They were turned back to the camps at gunpoint." The civilians said the massacres were taking place.

4.00 p.m. At the checkpoint outside Shatila in front of the Kuwaiti embassy, Israeli soldiers lounged among militia men and gave them food and water. One Israeli soldier present later reported, "We were giving the men some rest before they went back in."

4.30 p.m. Eitan again met with Drori and Fadi Frem, the head of the Phalangist forces in East Beirut. According to Drori, Eitan congratulated the Phalangists on their smooth military operations inside the camps. Eitan explained to Frem that the Americans had asked him "to stop the operations in the camps." (An interesting revelation that the pressure to stop the massacre came from U.S. not Israeli authorities -ed.) Frem asked Eitan "for more time in order to clean them out." Eitan agreed and reversed Drori's earlier order to stop and allowed the Phalangists to remain in the camps until 5.00 a.m. Saturday morning. While both sides agreed that the "operation" (i.e. massacre) could continue until Saturday morning, they agreed that other supplementary Phalangist units were not to enter the camps. However, fresh troops were sent into the camps. This decision gave the Phalangists 13 more hours of killing. In reality the killing continued for approximately 17 more hours.

Contrary to what Drori claimed they agreed to, the Hobeika unit and fresh Phalangist troops entered the camps and continued their killings.

Reuters correspondent Paul Eddle interviewed an Israeli colonel during Friday afternoon who told him that two principles had guided the refugee camp operations: "That the Israeli Army should not become involved and that the area needed to be purified."

During the late morning, Ron Ben Yishai, military correspondent for Israeli television, followed a group of Phalangists, who stated that they were on a military mission from East Beirut to the Beirut Airport. There he saw units of Phalangists with Israeli uniforms — with the Israeli inscription replaced with one reading "Lebanese forces." He also saw several (some witnesses counted 11-ed.) U.S. — supplied Sherman M-47 and T-54 tanks, as well as 120 mm guns, 13 military trucks, and command cars. The clothing and helmets were spread on the ground, being delivered to the Phalangists by the Israeli Army. Several journalists present spoke with the Phalangists, who left no doubt about their mission. "We are going to kill them, we are going to fuck their mothers and their sisters," the journalists were told, according to Ben Yishai. Israeli correspondent Alex Fishman has reported that several of the militia took alcohol with them and one told him "before going I must take a good supply of hashish."

Approximately 5.15 p.m. Approximately 200 militiamen prepared to leave the airport for the camps. Eitan, Drori, and several Israeli officers arrived from their meeting with Fadi Frem. Eitan spoke with several Israeli and Phalangist officers and then piloted an airplane to Ramat-David airport in Israel and then to his home at Tel Acachim.

At 9.00 p.m., according to Sharon, Eitan called him and stated "Hem higzimu." ("They went wild.")

According to a report on Israeli television, Sharon was awakened Friday evening by a telephone call from military correspondent Ron Ben Yishai, who reported about the massacre. According to Ben Yishai, Sharon replied "Happy New Year."

Sharon said he telephoned Beirut following this call, but his subordinates advised him the massacre was over. (Editor's note: In fact, the massacre continued throughout the night for approximately another ten hours.)

Saturday, September 18

Between midnight Friday and approximately 8.00 or 9.00 a.m. Saturday. The massacre continued unabated with over 200 militiamen in the camps killing whomever they could find, with the realization that they had been directed by the Israelis to leave the camps by early morning. According to eyewitnesses, most of the killing took place between Friday night and Saturday morning.

Between 6.00 and 7.00 a.m. Several Phalangist militiamen entered Gaza Hospital and forced medical staff — some 20 individuals from England, Norway, Sweden, Ireland, Denmark, Finland, and the United States — to assemble outside. (According to Norwegian orthopedic surgeon Per Maehlumshagen who was present and is familiar with the distinction between troops of Saad Haddad and Phalangist troops — having served in South Lebanon — most of the group was Haddad forces.) Arab staff members were shot. The group was marched down towards the entrance of Shatila while gunmen hurled abuse at them. A Palestinian Laboratory technician who had been trying to walk with them was pulled away by the militia, who said: "Come with us." Dr. Maehlumshagen asked "what are you going to do with him?" but a gunman replied, "It's none of your business. You have your job to do and we have ours." The Palestinian was marched down an alley and behind a house. A burst of gunfire followed — and the Palestinian did not return.

A gunman told the frightened medical staff: "We believe in the Geneva Convention. We'll show you how we treat our prisoners." Then a jeep drew up with a terrified Palestinian teenager on board, his cheek bleeding from a number of cuts. "Who are you?" a gunman demanded. "I am a Palestinian," the teenager replied. "Say it again," the militiaman snapped. The boy repeated it several times. Meanwhile more and more men were gathered. The medical group was then taken to Phalangist headquarters and turned over to the Israeli Army, which released them.

6.00 a.m. to 8.00 a.m. Loudspeakers were used to call inhabitants from Sabra to assemble on the main street. "Sallimu tislam," (Come out and you will be safe.) the residents were told. Several hundred assembled and were herded south on the main road of Shatila. Some small groups were separated and shot against a wall. Bulldozers covered some of the bodies in crushed houses. Some were put into trucks in front of the Kuwaiti embassy. One survivor reported hearing a militiaman say, "Better liquidate the maximum before anyone interferes." Some were taken away in trucks, other shot, still others taken to the sports stadium.

9.00 a.m. A U.S. Embassy staff member visited Shatila camp, confirming that a massacre had occurred and informed his superiors.

Throughout the morning inhabitants of the camps were periodically put into trucks and taken to unknown destinations. Dozens of relatives were carried away during this period and never seen again.

Bodies have been discovered along a route leading from the camps through the area of Ouzai, Khalde, Harat en Naameh, Kafr Chima and around the airport. The killer militia worked quickly to dispose of bodies. The Egyptian news service reported that more than 50 Egyptian bodies were carried by helicopter and dropped into the sea.

Close to 10.00 a.m. A stillness began to envelop the camps. Some isolated killing continued. Israeli tanks closed off the entrances to the camps. The Phalangist militias climbed into their vehicles and returned to their bases.

Towards 11.00 a.m. Journalists and photographers descended on the camps. They found freshly bleeding corpses. Shortly thereafter, the world learned of the massacre at Sabra and Shatila.

Lebanese press accuses Haddad Militia of playing a role in massacre. U.N. Security Council unanimously adopts resolution 521 demanding the immediate deployment of U.N. observers in Lebanon.

THE KAHAN COMMISSION REPORT, FEBRUARY 7, 1983

(Excerpts from the report of the Kahan Commission to investigate the massacre at the Sabra and Shatila refugee camps, which was signed by Chairman Yitzhak Kahan and members Aharon Barak and Yona Efrat.)

Before we discuss the essence of the problem of the indirect responsibility of Israel, or of those who operated at its behest, we perceive it necessary to deal with objections that have been voiced on various occasions, according to which if Israel's direct responsibility for the atrocities is negated — i.e., if it is determined that the blood of those killed was not shed by I.D.F. (Israel Defence Force) soldiers and forces, or that others operating at the behest of the state were not parties to the atrocities — then there is no place for further discussion of the problem of indirect responsibility. The argument is that no responsibility should be laid on Israel for deeds perpetrated outside of its borders by members of the Christian community against Palestinians in that same country, or against Muslims located within the area of the camps. A certain echo of this approach may be found in statements made in the Cabinet meeting of 9.19.82, and in statements released to the public by various sources.

We cannot accept this position. If it indeed becomes clear that those who decided on the entry of the Phalangist camps should have foreseen — from the information at their disposal and from things which were common knowledge — that there was danger of a massacre, and no steps were taken which might have prevented this danger or at least greatly reduced the possibility that deeds of this type might be done, then those who made the decisions and those who implemented them are indirectly responsible for what ultimately occurred, even if they did not intend this to happen and merely disregarded the anticipated danger. A similar indirect responsibility also falls on those who knew of the decision: it was their duty, by virtue of their position and their office, to warn of the danger, and they did not fulfill this duty. It is also not possible to absolve of such indirect responsibility those persons who, when they received the first reports of what was happening in the camps, did not rush to prevent the continuation of the Phalangists' actions and did not do everything within their power to stop them....

We would like to note here that we will not enter at all into the question of indirect responsibility of other elements beside the State of Israel. One might argue that such indirect responsibility falls, inter alia, on the Lebanese Army, or on the Lebanese government to whose orders this army was subject, since despite Major General Drori's urgings in his talks with the heads of the Lebanese Army, they did not grant Israel's request to enter the camps before the Phalangists or instead of the Phalangists, until 9.19.82. It should also be noted that in meetings with U.S. representatives during the critical days, Israel's spokesmen repeatedly requested that the U.S. use its influence to get the Lebanese Army to fulfill the function of maintaining public peace and order in West Beirut, but it does not seem that these requests had any result. One might also make charges concerning the hasty evacuation of the multinational force by the countries whose troops were in place until after the evacuation of the terrorists...

As has already been said above, the decision to enter West Beirut was adopted in conversations held between the Prime Minister and the Defense Minister on the night between 14-15 September 1982. No charge may be made against this decision for having been adopted by these two alone without convening a Cabinet session...

The demand made in Israel to have the Phalangists take part in the fighting was a general and understandable one; and political, and to some extent military, reasons existed for such participation. The general question of relations with the Phalangists and cooperation with them is a saliently political one, regarding which there may be legitimate differences of opinion and outlook. We do not find it justified to assert that the decision on this participation was unwarranted or that it should not have been made.

It is a different question whether the decision to have the Phalangists enter the camps was justified in the circumstances that were created...

In our view, everyone who had anything to do with events in Lebanon should have felt apprehension about a massacre in the camps, if armed Phalangist forces were to be moved into them without the I.D.F. exercising concrete and effective supervision and scrutiny of them...

The decision on the entry of the Phalangists into the refugee camps was taken on Wednesday (9.15.82) in the morning. The Prime Minister was not then informed of the decision. The Prime Minister heard about the decision, together with all the other ministers, in the course of a report made by the Chief of Staff at the Cabinet session on Thursday

(9.16.82) when the Phalangists were already in the camps. Thereafter, no report was made to the Prime Minister regarding the excesses of the Phalangists in the camps, and the Prime Minister learned about the events in the camps from a BBC broadcast on Saturday (9.18.82).

THE PRIME MINISTER, THE FOREIGN MINISTER, AND THE HEAD OF THE MOSSAD

We have heretofore established the facts and conclusions with regard to the responsibility of the Prime Minister, the Foreign Minister, and the head of the Mossad. In view of what we have determined with regard to the extent of the responsibility of each of them, we are of the opinion that it is sufficient to determine responsibility and there is no need for any further recommendations.

THE MINISTER OF DEFENSE, MR. ARIEL SHARON

We have found, as has been detailed in this report, that the Minister of Defense bears personal responsibility. In our opinion, it is fitting that the Minister of Defense draw the appropriate personal conclusions arising out of the defects revealed with regard to the manner in which he discharged the duties of his office — and if necessary, that the Prime Minister consider whether he should exercise his authority under Section 21-A (a) of the Basic Law of the Government, according to which "the Prime Minister may, after informing the Cabinet of his intention to do so, remove a minister from office."

THE CHIEF OF STAFF, LT.-GEN. RAFAEL EITAN.

We have arrived at grave conclusions with regard to the acts and omissions of the Chief of Staff, Lt.-Gen. Rafael Eitan. The Chief of Staff is about to complete his term of service in April, 1983. Taking into account the fact that an extension of his term is not under consideration, there is no (practical) significance to a recommendation with regard to his continuing in office as Chief of Staff, and therefore we have resolved that it is sufficient to determine responsibility without making any further recommendations.<sup>44</sup>

Lieutenant Commander Burnett further discussed the principles of Command Responsibility according to International Criminal Law and came to the following conclusion<sup>45</sup>:

The second portion of this study consisted of an examination of the responsibility of Rafael Eitan, who had been a participant in the Kibya Massacre in 1953, the Israeli Chief of Staff, in 1982, Amir Drori, the area commander for Lebanon, and Amos Yaron, the division commander in West Beirut, for the massacre in Shatila and Sabra. Although none of those Israeli officers expressly ordered the commission of war crimes, the facts and law applicable to each officer's case demonstrate their criminal liability as military commanders for the Phalangist atrocities. This finding is consistent generally with the conclusions of the Israeli Board of Inquiry and the Private International Commission, although the former was never specific in articulating the sources for its jurisprudence, whether national or international, statutory, conventional or customary, and the latter dealt primarily with the responsibility of the State of Israel. Significantly, the finding by the Israeli Board of Inquiry of indirect responsibility for the massacre in the cases of Eitan, Drori, and Yaron, like the administrative decision of the Secretary of the Army in Koster's case, may be treated as customary international law practice.

CONCLUSION

Systematic analysis of the nine massacres detailed in this chapter — the King David Hotel in 1946, the Semiramis Hotel in 1948, Deir Yassin in 1948, Dawayma in 1948, Kibya in 1953, Kafr Kassim in 1956, the USS Liberty in 1967, the Libyan Boeing 727 Airliner in 1973, and Sabra and Shatila in 1982 — indicates the presence of a pattern:

1. These war crimes were not isolated incidents erratically performed by fringe groups of military units which had lost their coherence, but instead were conducted for predetermined objectives;
2. Each massacre was planned in advance for a political rather than a military purpose;
3. Each massacre was conducted for psychological terroristic impact not solely related to the massacre itself;
4. Each massacre was conducted under the auspices of a well-defined chain of command descending from a political authority to a terroristic organization or military structure;
5. The individuals who are the actual war criminals were never conscripts, but voluntary leaders sharing Zionist ideological fervor; and
6. Regardless of political party affiliations, those individuals with proven guilt in war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide, such as Ben-Gurion, Dayan, Begin, Shamir, Rabin, Sharon and Peres, as examples, seem to have ensured political dominance in Israel by individuals who were guilty of these crimes in their past. This would seem to indicate a criminal conspiracy to ensure that those guilty of war crimes and crimes against humanity and genocide would never be brought to justice, and that those who would oppose the perpetration of these crimes would always be excluded from achieving real political power in Israel.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

1. ERASING ARAB TOWNS AND VILLAGES FROM THE MAP AND CONVERTING THEM INTO JEWISH SETTLEMENTS 2. USURPING ARAB HOUSES AND APARTMENTS IN TWELVE CITIES AND LARGE TOWNS FOR SETTLING JEWS

TOWNS AND VILLAGES IN PALESTINE

On June 7, 1945, the government of Palestine published in the Palestine Gazette No. 1415 in Supplement No. 2 a proclamation by the High Commissioner of Palestine regarding the administrative divisions of the country. This proclamation contains the sub-districts of all of Palestine and the names of the cities, towns, villages and Bedouin tribes which existed in the country in 1945.

We quote this proclamation in full in order to show the magnitude of usurpation and destruction which the Israelis inflicted on the Palestinian towns and villages.

SUPPLEMENT NO. 2 TO THE PALESTINE GAZETTE NO. 1415 OF 7 JUNE, 1945

PALESTINE ORDERS IN COUNCIL, 1922-1939.

PROCLAMATION BY THE HIGH COMMISSIONER UNDER ARTICLE 11.

In exercise of the powers vested in me by Article 11 of the Palestine Orders in Council, 1922 to 1939, I, John Standish Surtees Prendergast Vereker Field Marshal Viscount Gort, V.C., G.C.B., C.B.E., D.S.O., M.V.O., M.C., High Commissioner for Palestine, with the approval of the Secretary of State, do hereby proclaim as follows:-

1. This Proclamation may be cited as the Administrative Divisions (Amendment) Proclamation, 1945, and shall be read as one with the Administrative Divisions Proclamation, 1939, hereinafter referred to as "the principal Proclamation."

2. The Schedule to the principal Proclamation shall be revoked, and the Schedule hereto shall be substituted therefor.

3. This Proclamation shall be deemed to have come into force on the 1st January, 1945.

29th May, 1945. GORT
(L/156/33) High Commissioner.

DISTRICTS AND SUBDISTRICTS OF PALESTINE

As can be seen from the proclamation of the High Commissioner for Palestine published in the Palestine Gazette No. 1415 of the 7th of June, 1945, there were six districts in Palestine, namely:

1. Galilee District, composed of the five subdistricts of Acre, Beisan, Nazareth, Safad and Tiberias;
2. Haifa District, coextensive with the Haifa subdistrict.
3. Samaria District, composed of the three subdistricts of Jenin, Nablus and Tulkarm;
4. Jerusalem District, composed of the three subdistricts of Hebron, Jerusalem and Ramallah;
5. Lydda District, composed of the subdistricts of Jaffa and Ramle;
6. Gaza District, composed of the subdistricts of Beersheba and Gaza.

In 1948, there were in Palestine four cities and towns that had a mixed Arab and Jewish population, namely, Safad, Haifa, Tiberias, and Jerusalem. There were also 91 cities and towns inhabited only by Arabs, and there were 837 Arab villages as well as 108 villages and localities inhabited by Bedouins in several subdistricts. There were also six cities and towns inhabited by Jews, and there were 287 Jewish settlements.

The 91 cities and towns inhabited only by Arabs were the following: 1. Acre subdistrict — Acre, El Bassa, Sakhnin and Tarshiha; 2. Beisan subdistrict — Beisan; 3. Nazareth subdistrict — Nazareth, Kafr Kanna and Saffuriya; 4. Safad subdistrict — El Khalisa; 5. Tiberias subdistrict — Lubiya, Maghar and Samakh; 6. Haifa subdistrict — Shafa 'Amr and Et Tira; 7. Jenin subdistrict — Jenin, 'Arraba, Umm el Fahm, Ya'bad and El Yamun; 8. Nablus subdistrict — Nablus, 'Agraba, 'Asira esh Shamaliya, Tammun and Tubas; 9. Tulkarm subdistrict — Tulkarm, 'Anabta, 'Attil, Baqa el Gharbiya, Deir el Ghusun, Qalqiliya, Shuweika, Et Taiyiba and Et Tira; 10. Hebron subdistrict — Hebron, 'Ajjur, Bani Na'im, Beit Jibrin, Beit Nattif, Ed Dawayima, Edh Dhahiriya, Dura, Halhul, Idna, Es Samu', Si'ir, Surif and Yatta; 11. Jerusalem subdistrict — Bethlehem, Beit Jala, Beit Sahur, 'Ein Karim, Lifta, Silwan, Et Tur and Jericho; 12. Ramallah subdistrict — Ramallah, El Bira, Bir Zeit and Deir Dibwan; 13. Jaffa subdistrict — Jaffa, Beit Dajan, Kafr 'Ana, Es Safiriya, Salama, El Yahudiya and Yazur; 14. Ramle subdistrict — Ramle, 'Aqir, Beit Nabala, Lydda, El Qubab and Zarnuqa; 15. Beersheba subdistrict — Beersheba; 16. Gaza subdistrict — Gaza, Bani Suheila, Beit Daras, Bureir, Deir El Balah, El Majdal, El Faluja, Hamama, Hirbiya, Isdud, Jabaliya, El Jura, Khan Yunis, El Masmia, Rafah and Yibna.

ARAB CITIES, TOWNS AND VILLAGES OCCUPIED IN 1948

In 1948 Zionist forces occupied the mixed populated towns and cities, namely, Safad, Tiberias, Haifa and all the modern sections and quarters of Jerusalem, namely: Mamilla, Jaffa Gate, El Maskubia, Bab El Jadid, El Musrara, El Baka El Fuka, El Baqa Altahta, Katamon, Greek Colony and Talbieh. Zionist forces also occupied fifty cities and towns inhabited by Arabs only. They are the following:

1. Acre subdistrict — Acre, El Bassa, Sakhnin and Tarshiha; 2. Beisan subdistrict — Beisan; 3. Nazareth subdistrict — Nazareth, Kafr Kanna and Saffuriya; 4. Safad subdistrict — El Khalisa; 5. Tiberias subdistrict — Lubiya, Maghar and Samakh; 6. Haifa subdistrict — Shafa 'Amr and Et Tira; 7. Jenin subdistrict — Umm el Fahm, El Yamun; 8. Nablus subdistrict — none; 9. Tulkarm subdistrict — Baqa El Gharbiya, Et Taiyiba and Et Tira; 10. Hebron subdistrict — 'Ajjur, Beit Jibrin, Beit Nattif and Ed Dawayima; 11. Jerusalem subdistrict — 'Ein Karim and Lifta; 12. Ramallah subdistrict — none; 13. Jaffa subdistrict — Jaffa, Beit Dajan, Kafr 'Ana, Es Safiriya, Salama, El Yahudiya and Yazur; 14. Ramle subdistrict — Ramle, 'Aqir, Beit Nabala, Lydda, El Qubab and Zarnuqa; 15. Beersheba subdistrict — Beersheba; 16. Gaza subdistrict — Beit Daras, Bureir, El Faluja, El Majdal, Hamama, Hirbiya, Isdud, El Jura, El Masmia and Yibna. The Zionists also occupied 476 villages in the subdistricts of Acre, Beisan, Nazareth, Safad, Tiberias, Haifa, Jenin, Nablus, Tulkarm, Hebron, Jerusalem, Jaffa, Ramle, Beersheba and Gaza.

When the Armistice agreements were signed by Zionist authorities, Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan and Syria, the Zionists were in occupation of 80% of the territory of Palestine, which included all of the subdistricts of Acre, Beisan, Nazareth, Safad, Tiberias, Haifa, Jaffa, Ramle, and Beersheba, and parts of the subdistricts of Jenin, Nablus, Tulkarm, Hebron, Jerusalem and Gaza. They occupied the four cities and towns of mixed Arab and Jewish population, namely Tiberias, Safad, Haifa and Jerusalem. They also occupied 50 Arab towns and 476 Arab villages as well as 108 villages and localities inhabited by Bedouins in the aforementioned subdistricts.

The Zionist terrorist organizations, the Haganah, Irgun and the Stern, practically emptied the subdistricts they occupied of their Arab inhabitants. They expelled by force, massacre and threats over 800,000 Muslim and Christian Palestinians. We shall deal in detail with the expulsion of the Palestinian Arab population in the chapter relating to expulsions. But it is important to state that not more than 100,000 Palestinian Arabs remained in the occupied areas. The Zionists immediately set up a military government in the occupied areas whose task was to prevent Palestinians from returning to their homes and to further expel more Palestinians who remained in their towns and villages. The Zionists acted on the racist principle that there is no room for Arabs and Jews to live in the "Jewish State," and therefore, the "Military Government" was doing everything in its power to further empty the areas of their Arab inhabitants. Yosef Weitz stated: "I marked on my map land areas of one village after another and I should like to swallow it all."<sup>1</sup>

After the great majority of the Palestinian Arab population had been expelled, the Zionist terrorist organizations, together with other Jews, looted more than 200,000 Arab homes and apartments and looted all Arab shops, stores, factories and commercial buildings. After the Zionists declared martial law in the occupied areas, they formed a committee for the allocation of Arab homes and apartments for settling Jews. This committee was composed of representatives of the Jewish Agency, war victims' organization, Ministry of Commerce and Industry of the provisional government, the military governor of each area and a custodian. It assigned new Jewish immigrants and Jews from other areas to live in Arab houses and apartments.<sup>2</sup>

The Zionists expropriated the private property of Arabs who remained in the boundaries of the so-called Jewish State. Tom Segev recounts:

Yosef Yaakobson — an orange grower, and later an advisor to the Ministry of Defense — suggested to Ben-Gurion that he expropriate a shoe-making plant from its Jaffa owner and turn it over to the shoe-making enterprise Min'al of kibbutz Givat Hashloshah. Ben-Gurion consulted the Minister of Finance and Kaplan expressed the opinion that the private property of Arabs who remained in Jaffa should not be expropriated. Ben-Gurion disagreed; in his opinion only the property found inside private residences should not be expropriated. Yaakobson told him that the army was removing goods from Jaffa property estimated at 30,000 pounds daily.<sup>3</sup>

The abandoned Arab homes in the occupied Arab towns and villages were dealt with in a similar manner. A committee of the Jewish Agency Settlement Department and the Jewish National Fund was established to survey the 528 Arab towns and villages in all the occupied subdistricts. Those villages that contained houses that could be used to settle Jews were immediately converted into Jewish settlements by bringing new Jewish immigrants or Jews from the Kibbutzim. The villages that had either few houses or houses of different styles than Jews would live in were completely demolished. The bulldozers of the Haganah and the Jewish National Fund were sent to these villages to completely demolish their houses. They were erased from the map of Palestine. New Jewish settlements were immediately established on their sites or nearby. The Zionists completely demolished the mosques and cemeteries in all Arab towns and villages converted into Jewish settlements.

Levi Eshkol of the Settlement Department of the Jewish Agency (who later became so-called Premier) and the notorious Yossef Weitz of the Jewish National Fund coordinated the program for Judaization of Arab villages in the latter half of 1948. Eshkol relates in his diaries, "I sent for the engineers, asked the engineer corps for assistance and began to turn the great wheel which enabled us that very winter to transform more than 45 abandoned villages into lively new Jewish settlements."<sup>4</sup>

Yosef Weitz states in his diaries that he had formed a "transform committee" and was travelling about the areas seized by the Haganah working out the implementation of his view on the abandoned villages...destruction, improvement and settlement.<sup>5</sup>

Tom Segev, a former writer for the Ha'aretz and co-editor of the Israeli Newsweekly Koteret Rashit, describes the destruction of Arab villages and their conversion into Jewish settlements. He states:

In the latter half of 1948, the settlement department of the Jewish Agency prepared a list of several dozen Arab villages which it proposed to repopulate with new immigrants. Most of the villages had been abandoned, but a few were not quite empty. Some were meant to be demolished and their lands to be used for new settlements. Some of the Cabinet ministers criticized the army for demolishing some of the villages it occupied. The subject was brought up time after time by Ministers Shitrit, Bentov and Cizling. "As I travel about I hear rumors about the destruction of property and I should like to know who gave the order to do this," said Cizling at one meeting. "I was in Beit Shean and was told by people I trust that the army commander had received an order to destroy the place.... These are facts about villages which have been destroyed. In the Hefer Valley I saw Arab villages which had been abandoned by their inhabitants and were not destroyed during the campaign. Now they are in ruins and whoever did it should be called upon to explain...." Ben-Gurion replied: "When you say Beit Shean, that is a particular place. But when you mention generally 'ruined villages' — I can't send people to look for ruined villages." Cizling asked: "Who destroyed the village of Cherkass in the Hefer Valley? At an earlier meeting I mentioned Moussa Goldenberg who reported an order to destroy 40 villages and named you as the source of that order. I stated then that I did not believe it was really done in your name. I am not speaking now about the political aspect, but about things which seem to be happening by themselves, without control. Even if I agreed with a certain act — I wouldn't accept it being done by itself."<sup>6</sup>

Not everything happened "by itself": in September Ben-Gurion informed the Ministerial Committee for Abandoned Property that the commander of the central front, Tsvi Ayalon, considered it necessary "to demolish partially" 14 Arab villages, for reasons of security. "As it is extremely difficult to convene the committees," Ben-Gurion wrote his ministers, "would you please let me have your opinion (on the destruction of Arab villages) in writing. I shall await your answer within three days... Lack of response will be viewed as consent." The ministers demanded further information. In September 1949 the Cabinet debated the destruction of the old city of Tiberias. Yigael Yadin was quoted as recommending that the entire city, except for the holy places, be destroyed, in order to prevent the Arab residents from returning.<sup>7</sup>

The authorities also included in their plans lands owned by Jews. They were inclined to emphasize that most of the Arab lands they proposed to expropriate were not cultivated, and that even after the expropriations the Arab villages would still have enough lands to sustain them. The army recommended certain locations and often demanded that they be settled. The assumption was that the new settlements would serve to fortify the country's borders and prevent the return of the villagers who had fled and been driven out in the course of the war and its aftermath.<sup>8</sup>

On June 27, 1948, Aharon Zisling, Minister of Agriculture, who throughout 1948 criticized Ben-Gurion's policy towards the Palestinian Arabs, asked Ben-Gurion "about the rumoured plans to destroy 40 abandoned Arab villages and about the burning of the standing crops of Arabs in various parts of the country. Ben-Gurion apparently did not reply."<sup>9</sup> from their homes in the cities to different homes abandoned by the refugees in different sections of the towns. Their objective was to segregate the Arab population in the worst sections of each city. An example of these operations is the one conducted in the city of Haifa.

Tom Segev in his book, 1949 The First Israelis, described what happened when Haganah forces moved Arab inhabitants of Haifa from one area to another. He describes the meeting between the Commander of occupied Haifa with representatives of the Arab community. The commander was Rehavam Amir. He met Tewfik Toubi and Bulus Farah and informed them of the order to remove the Arabs from the Carmel Ridge and the German colony area and other more well-to-do areas to the area of Wadi Nisnas, where abandoned houses had been prepared for them. The Military Order stated that the operation was to be carried out by July 5, within four days. Mr. Toubi and Mr. Farah protested vehemently against such a measure, but the Jewish Commander told them, "There is no room for argument," and insisted that the 90 Arab families in Stella Maris, the 180 Arab families in the German colony and the 47 families in Wadi Jamal must be removed to the houses in Wadi Nisnas which were homes of Arabs who had abandoned the city.<sup>10</sup>

THE DESTRUCTION AND RESETTLEMENT OF ARAB VILLAGES

The expulsion of the populations of the Christian villages of Iqrit and Kafr Bir'im and the village of El Khisas and the destruction of their homes are examples of the war crimes committed by Zionist leaders against the Palestinians and their villages. The following developments were related by the Mukhtar of Iqrit village to the late advocate Hanna Nakara of Haifa:

(a) IQRIT (ACRE SUBDISTRICT)

Iqrit is an Arab village in Western Galilee next to the Lebanese border with an area of 15,650 dunums. It was occupied by the Haganah on October 31, 1948. Six days later, on November 5, the villagers were ordered, for "security reasons" and on the pretext of safeguarding their lives, to leave their homes "for two weeks" until military operations in the area were concluded. They refused to cross the border to Lebanon, and hence were advised to take only what they needed for this short period of "two weeks." The Haganah deceived them by providing locks for the houses and handing the villagers the keys. Within three days the villagers were evacuated to Er Rama in central Galilee on the main Acre/Safad road.

Military operations ceased and an armistice agreement was concluded between Israel and Lebanon on March 23, 1949, but still the villagers of Iqrit were not allowed to return to their village, despite what had been promised them. All appeals to Haganah leaders went unheeded or were rejected. After more than two years of unabated applications, correspondence, delegations, meetings and negotiations without avail, the villagers realized that the Israelis had no intention of allowing them to return to their homes and lands. Thus they petitioned the High Court of Justice in High Court Case No. 64/51.

On July 31, 1951, the High Court ruled that "there is no legal obstacle to petitioners returning to their village."

The villagers, believing that the authorities would honor the High Court's decision, applied to the Military Governor to implement it. He referred them to the Minister of Defense, who referred them back to the Governor. This seesaw continued for about a month, while the villagers, living in Er Rama and elsewhere impatiently awaited their return. At the end of the month the government, incredibly, gave the people formal orders to leave their village, which they had left about three years before. These orders were purported to be in accordance with the provisions of the Emergency Regulations (Security Zones), 1949.

In spite of the absurdity of these orders, the villagers appealed at once to the military appeals committee, which, after a show-hearing lasting until after midnight, ratified the so-called expulsion orders. The villagers thereupon petitioned the High Court of Justice once again. An order nisi was issued, and the case was fixed for hearing on February 6, 1952.

Although the matter was under consideration before the highest court in the country, the Israeli army, following an order from the Military Governor or the Minister of Defense, blew up all the houses of this Maronite Christian Arab village on Christmas Day, 1951. The High Court was thus presented with a fait accompli.

On August 25, 1953 (Official Gazette No. 309 of September 3, 1953, p. 1446), the Minister of Finance issued a certificate under which the whole of Iqrit, with its area of 15,650 dunums, was requisitioned pursuant to Section 2 of the Land Acquisition (Validation of Acts and Compensation) Law, 1953.

(b) KAFR BIR'IM (SAFAD SUBDISTRICT)

The case of Kafr Bir'im, another Maronite Christian Arab village, is similar to that of Iqrit. The village was occupied on the same day, October 31, 1948. The inhabitants were ordered to evacuate their village and go to the neighboring village of Jish. Their evacuation was imposed in the same way as that of the people of Iqrit, under the same circumstances, under the same pretexts and with the same promises that they would be allowed to return.

The villagers of Kafr Bir'im petitioned the High Court of Justice in 1953. The court issued an order nisi to the authorities concerned to show cause, if any, why the villagers were prevented from returning to their homes.

Once more the reply was contrary to all principles of justice and equity, and a direct insult to the authority of the judiciary. In a display of force and impudence, the infantry and air force attacked the vacant village on September 16, 1953, bombing and shelling the houses until they were completely demolished.

Kafr Bir'im, with an area of 11,700 dunums, was also expropriated under the Land Acquisition (Validation of Acts and Compensation) Law, 1953. The certificate of the Minister of Finance was published in the Official Gazette No. 307 of August 27, 1953, p. 1419.

(c) EL KHISAS

This is a small village in the Hula basin whose inhabitants numbered 470 Arabs and 60 Jews in 1945. The Arabs owned 1,480 dunums. The village is about six kilometers from the Lebanese border and ten kilometers from the Syrian border. In the area there are a number of Jewish settlements closer to the borders. Only fifty-seven Arabs remained in the village after 1948. They owned three hundred dunums, most of which were fruit orchards. The Arabs had friendly relations with their Jewish neighbors and with the Jewish authorities. Six youngsters had volunteered for the Jewish Army and served eight months fighting side by side with Jewish soldiers and forces.

Israel's peculiar reward for friendly relations and military cooperation came shortly thereafter. On June 5, 1949, before sunrise, the village was encircled by army units, the Arabs were forcibly loaded onto army trucks, their houses were blown up and the inhabitants were transferred to Mount Kan'an, near Safad. They were placed in an open area under the burning June sun.

The people of El Khisas lodged protests against this unwarranted and inhuman treatment. They petitioned and approached several military and civil bodies, as well as many political figures, including the President, Prime Minister and Chairman of the Knesset. Their only demand was to be allowed to return to their village.

After nearly six months of living in the open air, with the approach of the harsh winter months, they were transferred to a desolate place called Wadi el Hammam in the vicinity of Tiberias.

They were assured time and again that their case was under consideration. On one occasion, after they were transferred to Wadi el Hammam, they were told by the Military Governor, Elisha Sols, that their evacuation was a mistake. He expressed his regret at what had befallen them and promised to arrange for their prompt return. Yet, still nothing was done to help them.

At last, feeling that all entreaties had gone unheard and that their stay in Wadi el Hammam was becoming permanent, and seeing that many other Arabs had been allowed to return to their villages under the Armistice Agreements concluded with Lebanon and Syria, the villagers decided to petition the High Court of Justice.

On June 12, 1952, they lodged their petition (High Court Case No. 132/52). An order nisi was issued on the same day ordering the Minister of Defense and the Military Governor of Galilee to show cause within twenty days why they did not allow the petitioners (thirteen heads of families) to return to El Khisas.

In their petition the villagers stated inter alia the following:

1. That they were Israeli citizens, held Israeli identity cards, were born in El Khisas and had lived there with members of their families (sixty in number) since their birth;
2. That during the Mandate they had cooperated with the Haganah and the Keren Kayemet Le-Israel Ltd. (Jewish National Fund), and were on the best of terms with the settlements surrounding their village.

The Respondents (the Minister of Defense and the Military Governor of Galilee) were in a very bad situation. There was no lawful order against the petitioners to evacuate their village. There were no legal grounds to remove them from their houses by force, demolish their houses and transfer the people to Mount Kan'an. The petitioners' case seemed unanswerable.

But Israel's government had its own crooked ways and means. The competent authority under the Emergency Regulations (Security Zones), 1949, issued fraudulent orders on July 8, 1952, against all the people of El Khisas to leave the security zone within fourteen days of the date on which the order was delivered. They were served with these orders in Wadi el Hammam on July 7 and 8, 1952.

It was maintained in these orders that on November 2, 1951 — two and a half years after the villagers' expulsion — the Minister of Defense had published in the Rules Collection No. 215 an order declaring El Khisas to be in a "security zone."

The people of El Khisas, as we have seen, were forcibly removed from their village on June 5, 1949. The area was not declared a "security zone" until November 2, 1951, and the orders to leave the village were issued on July 7, 1952, i.e., three years after the villagers' forced removal. It is obvious that the expulsion was ab initio unlawful and illegal.

When they returned to court on March 3, 1953, the petitioners, finding that their chances of success were weak, accepted the suggestion of the High Court of Justice that they lodge an appeal against the order of July 7, 1952, before the Appellate Commission under the Emergency Regulations (Extension) (Security Zones) (No.2) Law, 1949. The petition before the High Court of Justice stood adjourned pending the decision of the Appellate Commission.

Predictably, the appeal was dismissed on the pretext of "security." Although the High Court of Justice recommended that the authorities concerned should do everything possible to find a suitable solution which would meet security requirements and would also enable the petitioners to go back to their village, nothing was done, and to this day the villagers of El Khisas continue to live in Wadi el Hammam under miserable conditions.

It was clear that the question was not one of security, but one of grabbing the land and "clearing" the Hula Basin and Tiberias area of Arabs.

EXPULSION OF THE INHABITANTS OF OTHER VILLAGES AND TOWNS

Dr. Sabri Jiryis, in his book The Arabs in Israel, describes how Israel expelled the inhabitants of several Arab villages from their homes and destroyed the villages:

One of the first incidents of the expulsion of Arabs from their villages was the evacuation of Iqrit in western Galilee and the transportation of its inhabitants to the village of Er Rama, on November 5, 1948. Three months after that, on February 4, 1949, the inhabitants of Kafr Anan were evicted from their homes; half were sent to the Triangle where they were forced to cross the armistice lines into the West Bank. Three years later, when the villagers submitted a request to the Supreme Court to be allowed to return to Kafr Anan, all its houses were destroyed by the Israeli army.

On February 28, seven hundred refugees were expelled from Kafr Yasif, to which they had fled from nearby villages during the fighting in Galilee. Most were loaded onto trucks, driven to the Jordanian border and forced to cross.

The forced removals continued. On June 5, 1949, the army and police surrounded three Arab villages in Galilee — Khisas, Qeitiya, and Yanuh — and expelled the inhabitants to the Safad area. In January 1950 an army unit arrived in the village of El Ghabisiya and told the inhabitants they had to leave within two days or be expelled across the frontier. Seeing no alternative, they left their homes and moved to Sheikh Dannun, an abandoned village. On July 7, after a search in the village of Abu Ghosh near Jerusalem, some one hundred residents were rounded up and taken to an "unknown destination."

On August 17, the inhabitants of Majdal in the south (now called Ashkelon) received an expulsion order and were transported to the border of the Gaza Strip over a three-week period. At the beginning of February 1951, the inhabitants of thirteen small Arab villages in Wadi 'Ara in the Triangle were sent over the border. And on November 17, 1951, a military detachment surrounded the village of Khirbat Buweishat (near Umm el Fahm in the Triangle), expelled the inhabitants, and dynamited their homes.

In addition to these collective expulsions, the Israeli government carried out "selective" expulsions in most of the Arab villages in Galilee between 1948 and 1951. Several dozen men would be chosen and forced to leave — notably heads of families, the eldest sons of large families, and the breadwinners — no doubt in the hope that they would soon be followed by their dependents.

Wholesale expulsions continued well into the early years of the Israeli State. In September 1953, the villagers of Umm el Faraj (near Nahariya) were driven out and their village destroyed. In October 1953, seven families were expelled from Er Rihaniya in Galilee, despite a Supreme Court ruling that the expulsion was illegal. On October 30, 1956, the Baqqara tribe was forced to cross from the northern part of Palestine into Syria.

As late as 1959 — eleven years after the establishment of the State — Bedouin tribes were expelled to Jordan and Egypt; the action was reversed only after United Nations intervention.

Many other villages were either partly or completely demolished and many of their inhabitants now live as refugees in various parts of Israel. But the incidents described are a fair sample of the "redemption of the land" operations undertaken by the Israeli authorities during the first years after the creation of the state.<sup>11</sup>

Tom Segev testifies to the settlement of Jews in a total of 350 Arab villages. He states:

The press expressed no qualms in reporting the resettlement of the abandoned villages, a total of 350. The reports reflect a solid belief in the right and justification of the resettlement. Davar: "At the sound of the Israeli soldiers marching, the Arabs were seized with a great terror and left their homes, with their heavily loaded camels and donkeys, en route for the border.... And now in Jasmin — renamed Givat Amal — live new residents, recently arrived via Cyprus, survivors of the camps of Europe.... They sit around a long table, with one remnant of the abandoned furniture, and tell their tales..." Ha'aretz: "...Patches of brilliant green are now surrounding the houses in the abandoned villages, thanks to the activities of the Ministry of Agriculture that helps the new immigrants develop their home farms..." Davar Hashavua: "...You will not recognize 'Aqir! More than a thousand immigrants have settled in the abandoned village..." Similar descriptions were published about Deir Yasin. The immigrant camp was later turned over to the Ministry of Health, which converted it to a sanatorium for the mentally ill. Parts of the village became one of the neighborhoods of the new city of Jerusalem, other parts remained deserted.<sup>12</sup>

ZIONIST SETTLEMENTS BUILT ON THE SITES OF PLUNDERED ARAB VILLAGES

The Zionist leadership envisioned the erasing of Arab villages and the settling of Jews on their sites as the way of expanding the borders of the Jewish State. As succinctly stated by Golda Meir: "The boundary is wherever Jews are living, not a line on the map."<sup>13</sup>

Levi Eshkol, Head of the Settlement Department of the Jewish Agency, described the sites of such Jewish settlements when he "went on a tour of the Arab villages which had recently been abandoned and captured. As he put it, he saw 'the traces of what had been and was no longer' — the houses broken into, plundered and burned. 'The sight sank through my eyes and nostrils into my head, brain, blood and heart....'"<sup>14</sup>

Zionist leaders have admitted that the settling of Jews on Palestinian lands was not the colonizing of unpopulated lands, but the colonizing of depopulated lands rightfully belonging to their expelled Palestinian Arab inhabitants. General Moshe Dayan stated in 1969:

We came to this country which was already populated by Arabs, and we are establishing a Hebrew, that is, a Jewish State, here. Jewish villages were built in the place of Arab villages. You do not even know the names of these Arab villages, and I do not blame you, because those geography books no longer exist. Not only do the books not exist, the Arab villages are not there either. Nahalal arose in the place of Mahalul; Gevat in the place of Jibta; Sarid in the place of Haneifa; and Kefar Yehoshua in the place of Tell Shaman. There is not one place built in this country that did not have a former Arab population.<sup>15</sup>

General (Reserve) Rehav'am Zeevi said that "more than 400 Arab localities which were still existence in the late '40s had been replaced by Jewish settlements."<sup>16</sup>

The late Martin Buber, the great Jewish philosopher, professor of Sociology and Philosophy at the Hebrew University, wrote in 1961 an article in the Hebrew magazine Ner, stating:

Only an internal revolution can have the power to heal our people of their murderous sickness of causeless hatred (for the Arabs). It is bound to bring complete ruin on us. Only then will the old and young in our land realize how great was our responsibility to those miserable Arab refugees in whose towns we have settled Jews who were brought from afar; whose homes we have inherited, whose fields we now sow and harvest; the fruits of whose gardens, orchards and vineyards we gather; and in whose cities that we robbed, we put up houses of education, charity, and prayer while we babble and rave about being the "people of the book" and the "light unto the nations!"<sup>17</sup>

An official publication of the Jewish National Fund stated: "The Jewish National Fund and private Jewish owners possess under two million dunums. Almost all the rest belongs by law to Arab owners, many of whom have left the country.

'Whatever the ultimate fate of the Arabs concerned, it is manifest that their legal right to their land and property in Israel will not be waived. Conquest by force of arms cannot, in law or ethics, abrogate the rights of the legal owner to his present property.'<sup>18</sup>

HOW WE ASCERTAINED WHICH TOWNS AND VILLAGES WERE DESTROYED AND WHICH ARE STILL IN EXISTENCE

The Zionists changed the name of Palestine and changed the names of the sub-districts in the areas they occupied, amounting to 80% of the territory of the country. They changed the names of the localities, completely destroyed the houses and buildings in many villages, usurped the lands belonging to those villages and established Jewish settlements on their sites. All this was done in order to erase the Arab connection to the land and to prevent the Arab refugees from returning to their homes and villages as called for by the United Nations.

In order to ascertain which towns and villages were erased from the map and which still exist, we reviewed the publication entitled The List of Localities: Geographical Information and Population 1948, 1961, 1972, Population and Housing Census 1972 Series, published in Jerusalem by the Central Bureau of Statistics of Israel in 1975.

The said list published the following: the name of the town or village, the name of the locality, code of locality, central grid reference, subdistrict, natural region, municipal status, type of locality, organization affiliation, year of Jewish settlement, and the size of the population in 1948, 1961 and 1972. The list refers to the existing Arab localities as follows:

- Small village, non-Jewish;
- Large village, non-Jewish;
- Town, non-Jewish;
- Bedouin Tribe.

The following list contains all the names of Arab villages and towns which still exist in Israel.

Having determined the list of towns and villages described as non-Jewish (i.e., Arab towns and villages), we compared that list with the list of towns and villages in the Proclamation of 1945 by the British High Commissioner for Palestine (see the beginning of this chapter) and with the list of Jewish settlements. In this way, we ascertained the names and numbers of Arab towns and villages destroyed.

THE FATE OF THE BEDOUIN POPULATION IN PALESTINE

According to the Proclamation published in the Palestine Gazette No. 1415 of the 7th of June, 1945, Supplement No. 2, there were in Palestine villages and localities inhabited by Bedouin Tribes in the following subdistricts: Acre, Tulkarm, Tiberias, Beisan, Haifa, Jerusalem, Hebron and Beersheba. The number of localities and villages inhabited by these tribes in 1948 was 108.<sup>19</sup>

In 1947, the Representative of the United Kingdom submitted a note to Committee No. 1 of the Ad Hoc Committee in the United Nations which was discussing the proposal for the partition of Palestine in which he stated that the total Bedouin population in Palestine was as follows:<sup>20</sup>

	1931 Census	1946 Estimate
Beersheba	48,000	92,000
Nablus	220	400
Hebron	2,000	3,800
Jerusalem	7,070	13,400
Gaza	530	1,000
Ramle	3,780	7,200
Jaffa and Tulkarm	5,000	9,500
TOTAL	66,600	127,300

According to the Census Department of the Government of Palestine, the annual increase of the Arab population in Palestine was about 30.71 per thousand. Therefore, the total Bedouin population in 1948 would have been 135,236. The Bedouins were semi-Nomadic tribes and they had their villages, localities, agricultural lands and grazing lands for their sheep, goats and cattle.

Following the system we employed to locate the Arab towns and villages in the List of Localities, Geographical Information and Population 1948, 1961, 1972 published by the Central Bureau of Statistics in Israel, we were able to locate only 41 villages and localities listed as Bedouin Tribes, with a total Bedouin population of 22,578 in 1961, after 13 years of Israeli occupation. It must be remembered that this figure of 22,578 is one that has been swollen by the natural increase in the population during the 13 years from 1948 to 1961. Given that the Arab population in Palestine was increasing at the rate of 30.71 per thousand, we estimate that the number of Bedouins who originally escaped expulsion would have been 11,250. This would mean that between 1948 and 1961 the Zionists expelled approximately 116,050 members of these tribes. They destroyed 65 of their villages and localities and usurped all their lands. The town of Arad in the subdistrict of Beersheba was established on 12,000 acres of Bedouin lands.

The expulsion of Bedouins to Jordan, Egypt and Syria was carried out in 1948, 1949, 1951, 1957, 1959, and 1979. Many of the Bedouins in the southern part of Palestine were placed in reservations and were not allowed to leave the area without a permit.

We have dealt with the question of the expulsion of the Bedouin tribes in detail in Chapter Nine. However, we wish to refer to a few instances from the United Nations records. In October and November, 1950, the Security Council discussed the complaint of Egypt regarding the crimes committed by the Israeli authorities against the Bedouins. Dr. Mahmoud Fawzi, representative of Egypt, stated in the meeting of the Security Council of October 16, 1950, the following:

I am instructed by my Government to bring officially to your notice the following events, the great seriousness of which will not escape anybody, and certainly not the authorities and organs of the United Nations.

As long ago as 20 August last (1950), the Israeli authorities undertook a large-scale military operation, using troops, automatic weapons and armoured cars, in order to drive out of the El Auja area of Palestine all the Bedouin settled in that demilitarized zone and its surrounding areas. After being driven as far as the Egyptian frontier by the Israeli forces, which were guided by an Israeli reconnaissance aeroplane, those Bedouin were compelled, on 2 September, to cross the frontier between Egypt and Palestine at a point not far from the locality known as Ain el Qideirat, and to seek refuge in the Egyptian territory of Sinai, where they are now concentrated at El Qusaima, Sabha, Dahra and Ain Qadeis.

On being notified of these acts of violence, the United Nations observers in Palestine proceeded to the spot and found that at least 13 of these new victims of Jewish terrorism, including two women and two children, had died in the course of this tragic manhunt; and the bodies of some of these victims were found crushed by the armoured vehicles of their inhuman pursuers.

Not satisfied with this mass expulsion and the cold-blooded manner in which it was carried out, the Jews vindictively set fire to the shelter tents, crops and personal belongings of their victims.

By 3 September the number of Bedouin so expelled had reached 4,071. It is also an established fact that the persons concerned were genuine Palestinians; and that during the period of the British Mandate most of them had lived in the Beersheba area. Driven from their homes by the Jews for the first time when the Jews occupied this important area, they went to settle in the El 'Auja area — since demilitarized — where they had been living for more than two years when these fresh and deplorable incidents occurred.<sup>21</sup>

Israeli war crimes against the Bedouins continued in 1953. The Chief of Staff of the Truce Supervision Organization in Palestine submitted a report to the Security Council on October 27, 1953, in which he stated the following:

South of the Gaza Strip, after a long period of quiet on the Egypt-Palestine frontier, the Israelis started in the early summer intensified action against the few Bedouins who lived in the empty wastelands of the desert on both sides of the frontier, and north of the El 'Auja Demilitarized Zone. Israeli aeroplanes attacked Arabs and their herds of camels and goats.

At the same time, incidents of increasing gravity occurred in the Demilitarized Zone itself. Israeli armed groups patrolled the Zone; they shot at Bedouins at the two main wells; Arabs and their herds were killed by air and ground attacks; armed Israeli forces, up to approximately 30 men, shot the herds and burned the tents of Bedouins.

This appears to have been preparation for the establishment in September of an Israeli settlement at Abu Ruth, just east of the Demilitarized Zone, at about 8 kilometers from the road junction at El Auja. Three weeks later a new and smaller settlement, Rahel, was established in the Demilitarized Zone, at 2 kilometers from the road junction at El Auja.

The Egyptian delegation sent a complaint to the Mixed Armistice Commission concerning these developments. In an emergency meeting held on 2 October, the following draft resolution moved by the Egyptian Delegate was adopted by a majority vote, Israel voting against:

"The Mixed Armistice Commission, having discussed the Egyptian complaint no. 336 decides:

"1. That an armed Israeli force has entered several times the Demilitarized zone and attacked the Bedouin inhabitants in the area, killing them and their livestock and preventing them from having water from the wells in the area, thus constituting a flagrant violation of Article VIII, paragraphs 1 and 5, of the General Armistice Agreement.

"2. That the existence of an Israeli armed force and regular Israeli police in the new kibbutz established in the Demilitarized Zone is a violation of Article IV, paragraph 1, and Article VIII of the General Armistice Agreement.

"3. That the Chairman of the Mixed Armistice Commission is called upon to take such measures as he deems necessary to avoid future violations of the Demilitarized Zone."<sup>22</sup>

Israel's war crimes against the Bedouins continued, as is evident from the decision adopted by the Egyptian-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission of October 6, 1959.

DECISION ADOPTED ON 6 OCTOBER 1959 BY THE EGYPTIAN-ISRAELI MIXED ARMISTICE COMMISSION

The Egyptian-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission, having discussed complaint No. E-49-59, of the United Arab Republic (Southern Region),

Recalling the resolution concerning the Palestine question adopted by the Security Council at its 524th meeting on 17 November 1950,

Taking into consideration the resolution dated 30 May 1951 of the Egyptian-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission,

1. Finds that, on 18 September 1959, and on the days following that date, a number of Bedouin estimated at about 350 of the Azazme tribe, have been expelled from the area under Israeli control across the international frontier into the territory of the United Arab Republic;

2. Finds further that the Israeli troops have committed hostile acts against these Bedouin, which include the killing of some Bedouin, burning their tents and depriving them of their property, as a result of which the Bedouin were compelled to flee into the territory of the United Arab Republic;

3. Finds further that those actions were carried out in a harsh and cruel way, contrary to accepted humanitarian considerations;

4. Finds further that firing by Israeli troops resulted in the killing of one of the Bedouin on the territory of the United Arab Republic across the international frontier;

5. Decides that the actions of the Israeli troops, which forced the Bedouin to flee from Israeli-controlled territory into the territory of the United Arab Republic, is contrary to the Security Council resolution of 17 November 1950 and to the Commission's resolution of 30 May;

6. Decides further that the killing of a Bedouin by Israeli troops across the international frontier on the territory of the United Arab Republic is a violation of Article II, paragraph 2, of the General Armistice Agreement;

7. Decides further that the action of Israeli troops compelling the Bedouin to leave Israeli territory is a violation of Article V, paragraph 4, involved in the crossing of the international border;

8. Condemns Israel for the above hostile acts.<sup>23</sup>

In 1948 there were one hundred and eight localities and villages belonging to Arab Bedouin tribes in Palestine. Now only 41 of these villages and localities remain. The other 67 Bedouin villages and localities have been destroyed.

THE SCHEDULE OF TOWNS AND VILLAGES IN PALESTINE AND THEIR FATE AFTER 1948

We have copied the names of the Arab towns and villages and Jewish settlements which existed in Palestine in 1945 as published by the proclamation of the High Commissioner for Palestine in Supplement No. 2 of the The Palestine Gazette No. 1415 of the 7th June, 1945. In order to find out the fate of the Arab towns and villages which were mentioned in that proclamation, we have studied the following maps and documents:

1. The original maps of Palestine in 1947, published by the Government of Palestine.
2. The new maps published by Israel.
3. The atlases of Israel.
4. The map of the West Bank and Vicinity published by the CIA.
5. The U.S. Gazeteer for Israel.
6. The U.S. Gazeteer for the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.
7. Lists of geographical localities published by the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.
8. List of Localities, Geographical Information and Population, 1948, 1961, 1972: Population and Housing Census, 1972 Series, No. 5, Jerusalem, 1975, published by the Central Bureau of Statistics of Israel.

The List of Localities, Geographical Information and Population, 1948, 1961, 1972 (No. 8 above) describes all Arab towns and villages still in existence in Israel as follows: "non-Jewish large village, non-Jewish small village or non-Jewish urban area or Bedouin tribe." However, the major towns and cities of Acre, Safad, Haifa, Tiberias, Beisan, Jerusalem, Jaffa, Ramle, Lydda, Beersheba and Majdal are all described as being Jewish.

In the column of explanation in this Schedule we describe the village or town as either existing or destroyed, or as a Jewish settlement. For the Arab towns and villages which still exist in Israel, we give in each case the percentage of the population that remained after the expulsions of 1948 and the percentage of the land usurped by Israel.

The Arab towns and villages which existed in the areas occupied by the Zionists in 1948 and which do not appear in the List of Localities, Geographical Information and Population, 1948, 1961, 1972, were bulldozed, erased from the map and then converted into Jewish colonies. The other towns and villages that still exist outside the areas annexed by the Zionists are located in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

THE SCHEDULE

A. GALILEE DISTRICT

1. Acre Sub-District

Towns and Villages	Explanations
Abu Sinan:	Still exists. 50% of population remained. Zionists usurped 70% of its land.

CONCLUSION

In January, 1948 there were in Palestine 833 Arab towns and villages, as well as 108 villages and localities inhabited by semi-Nomadic Bedouin tribes. The Zionists, by war and aggression, occupied in 1948-49 the sub-districts of Acre, Beisan, Nazareth, Safad, Tiberias, Haifa, Jaffa, Ramle and Beersheba. They also occupied parts of the sub-districts of Jenin, Tulkarm, Nablus, Hebron, Jerusalem and Gaza. The areas they occupied constituted 80% of the total area of Palestine. According to the thorough survey in this chapter, the Zionists occupied in the above mentioned sub-districts 526 Arab towns and villages as well as 108 villages and localities inhabited by Bedouins. They expelled more than 90% of the inhabitants of the occupied area by massacre and force. They destroyed 425 Arab towns and villages and 67 villages and localities of the Bedouin tribes. They usurped their lands and established Jewish colonies on their sites.

According to the List of Localities, Geographical Information and Population 1948, 1961, 1972 prepared by the Central Bureau of Statistics in Jerusalem, only 101 Arab towns and villages are still in existence in Israel today, and these are referred to as "non-Jewish small villages," "non-Jewish large villages" or "urban localities." There are also only 41 villages and localities of the Bedouin tribes which are referred to as "Bedouin tribes." This means that the Zionists destroyed 492 Arab towns, villages and Bedouin localities, together with their mosques, churches and cemeteries and erased them from the map of Palestine. 95% of Arab houses and commercial buildings in the cities and towns of Acre, Beisan, Safad, Tiberias, Haifa, Jaffa, Ramle, Lydda, Beersheba and the New City of Jerusalem were usurped and used for the settlement of Jews. The Zionists referred to these towns and cities as "Jewish."

THE DESTRUCTION OF ARAB TOWNS AND VILLAGES AND THE SPOILIATION AND USURPATION OF ARAB HOUSES, APARTMENTS, AND COMMERCIAL BUILDINGS ARE WAR CRIMES

Under Article 23 of the Hague Regulations, public and private property must be respected. Public and private property cannot be confiscated. Public and private property must not be destroyed. The same principles were adopted in the Charter of the International Military Tribunal. Article 6b of the Charter states:

War Crimes: namely, violations of the laws or customs of war. Such violations shall include, but not be limited to, murder, ill-treatment or deportation to slave labor or for any other purpose of civilian population of or in occupied territory, murder or ill-treatment of prisoners of war or persons on the seas, killing of hostages, plunder of public or private property, wanton destruction of cities, towns or villages, or devastation not justified by military necessity.

The indictment presented to the International Military Tribunal sitting at Berlin on 18th October, 1945, in the trial of major Nazi war criminals, charged the defendants with having committed war crimes in their wanton destruction of cities, towns and villages and in devastation not justified by military necessity. It stated:

The defendants wantonly destroyed cities, towns and villages and committed other acts of devastation without military justification or necessity. These acts violated Articles 46 and 50 of the Hague Regulations, 1907, the laws and customs of war, the general principles of criminal law as derived from the criminal laws of all civilized nations, the internal penal laws of the countries in which such crimes were committed and Article 6 (b) of the Charter.

Particulars by way of example and without prejudice to the production of evidence of other cases are as follows:

1. Western Countries: In March, 1941, part of Lofoten in Norway was destroyed. In April, 1942, the town of Telerag in Norway was destroyed. Entire villages were destroyed in France, among others Oradour-sur-Glane, Saint-Nizier and, in the Vercors, La Mure, Vassieux, La Chapelle en Vercors. The town of Saint Die was burnt down and destroyed. The Old Port District of Marseilles was dynamited in the beginning of 1943 and resorts along the Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts, particularly the town of Sanary, were demolished.

In Holland there was most widespread and extensive destruction, not justified by military necessity, including the destruction of harbours, locks, dykes and bridges; immense devastation was also caused by inundations which equally were not justified by military necessity.<sup>24</sup>

The Tribunal convicted the accused on this count of the indictment.

The Permanent Military Tribunal at Clarmont-Terrard in France tried Hans Zabados (Case No. 49) and delivered its judgment on the 23 of June, 1946 in which it convicted the accused of the war crime of arson and destruction of inhabited buildings and sentenced him to imprisonment with hard labor for life. The court stated: "The specific provisions of the laws and customs of war which covers such a type of destruction is Article 23 (g) of the Hague Regulations of 1907. It forbids the destruction or seizure of enemy property unless it is imperatively demanded by the necessities of war."<sup>25</sup>

Applying these principles of international law to the criminal acts of wanton destruction of Palestinian Arab towns and villages, the Zionist political and military leaders in Israel who planned, ordered, or took part in the operations of destruction of Palestinian Arab villages and towns should be indicted for the following war crimes:

1. The willful and wanton destruction of 492 Palestinian towns, villages and Bedouin localities, resulting in their complete disappearance from the land and map of Palestine.

2. The usurpation of 90% of the lands of the Palestinians in the towns and villages occupied by the Zionists and the establishment of Jewish settlements on those sites and lands.

3. The usurpation of over 90% of the houses, apartments and commercial buildings owned by Palestinians in the towns and cities of Acre, Tiberias, Safad, Haifa, Beisan, Jaffa, Lydda, Ramle, Jerusalem, Majdal and Beersheba.

CHAPTER TWELVE

LOOTING, PILLAGE, PLUNDER AND SPOILIATION OF THE PERSONAL AND REAL PROPERTIES OF PALESTINIANS IN TWELVE CITIES AND LARGE TOWNS AND 526 SMALL TOWNS AND VILLAGES 1948-1967

In the wake of World War II, in which the Nazi war criminals looted, pillaged and plundered the property of Jews and non-Jews in Europe, it is astonishing that similar crimes were committed against the Palestinian Arabs by Jews, many of whom were either victims or the relatives of victims of Nazi persecution.

The crimes committed by the Zionists against the Palestinian Arabs were verified in their own unguarded remarks. For example, Levi Eshkol "went on a tour of the Arab villages which had recently been abandoned and captured. As he put it, he saw 'the traces of what had been and was no longer — the houses broken into, plundered and burned. The sight sank through my head, brain, blood and heart.'"<sup>1</sup>

Many cases of robbery committed against Palestinian Arabs during their expulsion by Israeli soldiers acting under the orders of their commanders have been reported. For example, Aharon Cohen, the director of Mapam's Arab Department, recalls that Israeli "troops at the checkpoints out of Lydda had been ordered to take from the expelled Arabs every watch, piece of jewelry or money."<sup>2</sup>

A British teacher reported confirmation of this provided by Arab refugees from Lydda:

They were told by the Jews that they might leave at their leisure and take what they could carry, then as they got outside the town, they were met by Jews who stripped them of all their valuables, even to the women's earrings, bracelets and head coins. One woman told me she started with only 11 piastres and that was taken from her.<sup>3</sup>

The homes these people were forced to leave behind them were then systematically looted by Israel. Cabinet Minister Bechor Shitrit confirms this official looting. He stated, "The army from Lydda alone had taken over 1,800 truckloads of property."<sup>4</sup>

Yet while theft on a grand scale was practiced by the Zionist authorities, the big thieves of Zionism complained about the personal thefts made by the little thieves in the Zionist rank and file.

David Ben-Gurion recorded in his diary entry for July 15, 1948: "The bitter question has arisen regarding acts of robbery and rape in the conquered towns. Soldiers from all the battalions robbed and stole."<sup>5</sup>

Yosef Lamm, a Member of the Knesset, officially admitted on November 22, 1949: "None of us behaved during the war in a way we might have expected the Jewish people to behave, either with regard to property or human life, and we should all be ashamed."<sup>6</sup>

The punishment of the Nazi war criminals by the international community was meant to deter the future commission of such war crimes as those to which the Zionists have in some cases confessed their guilt. That they should also be brought before the same type of bar of justice is a moral imperative facing the international community.

It is a generally accepted principle of law that "a criminal may not derive benefit from the perpetration of his criminal act." The entire Zionist edifice is constructed on the foundation of usurped Palestinian lands and proceeds of plundered Palestinian possessions. The Zionist regime in Palestine and its people have nothing of any value that does not incorporate the use of purloined Arab property. The establishment of Israel and its survival would not have been possible without the benefits the Zionists have derived from usurped Arab lands and possessions.

The Custodian of Absentee Property reported to the Finance Committee of the Knesset in 1949 that they were the receivers of "great quantities of property in hundreds of thousands of dwellings, shops, storehouses and workshops, as well as produce in fields and fruit in orchards, groves and vineyards."<sup>7</sup>

Israeli leaders officially admitted to the United Nations in 1966:

So far as the facts are concerned, the abandoned properties in question, mainly agricultural land, have long become an integral and indivisible part of the country's economy.<sup>8</sup>

So it is beyond question, from the admissions of the Israelis themselves, that the gains they received from their crimes against the Palestinians "have long become an integral and indivisible part" of their economic life-blood.

The Nazi Jurist Hans Frank who was tried and found guilty of war crimes, for which he was subsequently hanged, made autobiographical notes in the Nuremberg prison. In these notes he recalled that one of his teachers of law, old Geheimrat von Calker, had warned him to stay away from the infant Nazi movement: "I beg you to leave these people alone! No good will come of it! Political movements that begin in the criminal courts will end in the criminal courts."<sup>9</sup> The prophetic words of the wise German professor were unheeded by Hans Frank, to his later regret. The same words are equally applicable to the Zionist movement, which has ended up as an ignoble perpetrator of war crimes and crimes against humanity. The only difference is that the Nazi war criminals have already been brought to justice, and the Zionist war criminals have not yet been brought to justice.

If anyone should consider the equation of the Zionists with the Nazis to be too extreme, he should simply examine the facts of their crimes. The facts themselves can only lead objectively to the conclusion that the Zionists and the Nazis are culpable of many of the same crimes.

This was admitted by Israeli Minister of Agriculture Aharon Cizling, recorded in the Minutes of the Cabinet Meeting of November 17, 1948:

I often disagreed when the term Nazi was applied to the British. I wouldn't like to use the term, even though the British committed Nazi crimes. But now Jews too have behaved like Nazis and my entire being has been shaken.<sup>10</sup>

Following its collapse at the end of World War II, Nazi Germany was erased from the map. But the ill-gotten gains of the Nazi war criminals' looting, pillaging and plundering were disgorged, and returned to their rightful owners. Further, the German people were saddled with the burden of reparations for both property destroyed and for having deprived their victims of the use of their property. In no case did the commission of a war crime allow its perpetrator to have title to any criminally obtained property or valuables.

The Israeli regime is still functioning, but through its co-mingling of stolen goods and usurped Palestinian lands, with outside economic assistance, none of its people can claim clear title to any fruits connected with any Israeli endeavors. Those whose aid alone allows Israel to survive must realize that they are aiding and abetting robbery and murder.

A prophetic statement by Israeli Attorney General Moshe Shapira is contained in the Memorandum of the August 4, 1949, Meeting on Abandoned Property: "In the end we shall both pay compensation and still be considered thieves."<sup>11</sup>

It is not compensation that is due to the Palestinian Arabs, but the restitution of their homeland, lands and possession and reparations for having been criminally deprived of the use of their property and having been reduced to a refugee nation in exile. The United States of America and European nations who aided and abetted the Israelis must also pay a price.

Official United Nations confirmation of the looting, pillaging and plundering of the property of the Palestinian Arabs is found in Count Folke Bernadotte's Report of September 16, 1948:

There have been numerous reports from reliable sources of large-scale looting, pillaging and plundering, and of instances of destruction of villages without apparent military necessity. The liability of the Provisional Government of Israel to restore private property to its Arab owners and to indemnify those owners for property wantonly destroyed is clear.<sup>12</sup>

Nearly forty years later the Palestinian Arabs are still awaiting the restoration of their properties and indemnification for the damages done to them. The international community has been both lax and dilatory in supporting the fair application of international law on behalf of the Palestinian victims of Israeli war crimes.

Instead, nations like the United States seem to have swallowed Zionist myths and canards about the Palestinian Arabs. Zionists claim that the Palestinian Arabs did not exist as an entity, or, if they did, that Palestine was a primitive backwater of the Arab world. In fact, a separate Palestinian Arab identity is rooted in the most ancient history of Palestine, and Palestine, on a per capita basis, had, and has today, a larger proportion of educated people than many of the nations of the world. Palestinian physicians, lawyers, professors, bankers and businessmen are found all over the world. The properties stolen from them were not the artifacts of primitive tribes, but the worldly possessions accumulated over generations by a sophisticated and often well-to-do people. Many Palestinian farmers possessed carefully nurtured vineyards, citrus groves, olive trees, orchards and agricultural fields producing crops of a quality only possible after years of cultivation. Palestinian livestock were not the scrawny beasts of primitive tribes, but a stock of wealth representing continual improvement in breeding. Palestinian shopkeepers sold wares from all over the world, as well as the products of skilled Palestinian artisans and the products of modern factories financed by Palestinian capital.

It is important to recognize that the Israelis looted, pillaged and plundered the property of a prosperous infrastructure, well developed in comparison with much of the world at the time.

Jerusalem is an excellent case in point. The city retained its ancient charm, but also had a bustling, modern economy and lifestyle wantonly destroyed by the looting of the Israelis after the British Mandate ended.

Palestinian Arab citizens of Jerusalem record the orgy of robbery committed by the Israelis on the day the British left Jerusalem. In the Palestinian Arab neighborhoods of Greek Colony, German Colony, Qatamon, Upper and Lower Beqaa, May 14, 1948 was a date not just marking the birth of the alien regime of Israel in their midst but a date of rapine destruction of the Palestinian Arabs of Jerusalem and the looting of their property by Zionist mobs. Contrary to Zionist propaganda, the birth of Israel did not represent liberty for the Jews, but license to steal for its most criminal element. This is proved by their behavior in the Holy City of Jerusalem.

For Naim Halaby, as for most of the Arabs left in those middle-class neighborhoods, the memory of May 14 and 15, 1948, would always be associated with a sight he watched from his window, "an orgy of looting."

Halaby saw one group bring a horse and a cart up to his next-door neighbor's abandoned home and systematically strip it bare. Down the street other looters carried away tires, furniture, kerosene and heaps of clothing from another house. Halaby's worst shock, however, came when he saw a green Willys drive by his window. It was his. He had left it in a friend's garage with its distributor cap removed, thinking that no one would be able to move it.<sup>13</sup>

The wanton looting, pillaging and plundering of the property of the Palestinian Arabs of Jerusalem is attested to by other eyewitness testimony:

Dr. Boulos, the surgeon at Government Hospital, looked on helplessly as a wave of looters picked his home clean, even stripping the clothes from his closet. "If I had known," he later lamented, "at least I would have put on a good suit that morning."

Daoud Dajani heard a noise outside his house. Stepping out, he saw a man trying to get into his home through a little door under its eaves. He yelled and the frightened looter tumbled at his feet. It was a Yemenite truck driver from the Dead Sea Potash Works who had been a customer of Dajani's grocery store for years.

Emile Hourani overheard two elderly Jewish women who were looting his neighbor's house bitterly complain, "The rich people took all the good things and left nothing for us."<sup>14</sup>

The looting, pillaging and plundering of the property of the Palestinian Arabs certainly was part and parcel of the Zionist plan to expel all Palestinians and erase their presence from Palestine. From official Zionist Archives we may quote the words of Eliyahu Carmeli, a Mapai Member of the Knesset: "I'm not willing to accept a single Arab, and not only an Arab but any gentile. I want the State of Israel to be entirely Jewish."<sup>15</sup> Though the presence of Arabs was unacceptable to an ardent Zionist, their property was vitally useful.

A secret report, written by Dov Shafir, Custodian of Abandoned Property, tried to explain how "people succumb to the grave temptation of looting," and why. First there was the massive flight of panic-stricken Arabs who abandoned thousands of apartments, stores and workshops as well as crops and orchards. Second, the property concerned was in the midst of the front-line combat area during the transition from mandatory to Israeli rule. This meant there was no stable authority with which to be reckoned. "The moral sense of the few who were attacked by the many and managed to survive, justified the looting of the enemy's property," reported the Custodian. "Passions of revenge and temptation overcame great numbers of people. Under those conditions only an extremely firm action by the military, administrative, civil and judiciary authorities might have saved, not only the property, but also many people, from moral bankruptcy. Such firm action did not take place, and perhaps could not, given the circumstances, and so things continued to go downhill without restraint."<sup>16</sup>

This once-secret report of the Zionist Custodian of Abandoned Property constitutes an admission of the widespread looting, pillaging and plundering of Palestinian Arab property. But its caveats are worthy of analysis.

1. The abandonment of their property by the Palestinian Arabs who owned it was impelled by the Israelis themselves.

2. The very fact that there was combat in Palestine was the result of Zionist ideology's determination to seize the land of the Palestinians, land which did not belong to the Zionists, in order to establish an all-Jewish State.

3. The "passions of revenge and temptation" which overcame a great number of Jewish people at the time were totally contrary to the Commandments and moral code of Judaism, but were wholly consistent with the amoral code of Zionism. Thus Zionism itself destroyed the Jewish moral restraints of these people, replacing those restraints with Zionist attitudes towards non-Jews.

4. The Zionist authorities themselves were stealing Palestinian land and property for the Zionist cause and thus were in no position to control or criticize their rank and file for doing exactly what they themselves were doing on a larger scale.

Years later the Custodian removed the veil of secrecy: "The inspectors found most of the houses broken into, and rarely was there any furniture left," he wrote in his memoirs. "Clothes, household effects, jewelry, bedding — other than mattresses — never reached the warehouses of the Custodial authority. More than 50,000 Arab homes had been abandoned, but only 509 carpets reached the Custodial authority."<sup>17</sup>

It should be noted that every Arab house had one or more carpets of some value. Carpets were not only an essential component of Arab living standards, but also represented part of a family's store of value.

The Custodian's complaint, boiled down to its essential ingredients, is that the Israeli rank and file stole for their own use or sale tens of thousands of valuable Arab carpets, property which the Zionist authorities considered it permissible to steal for their own use. To the victims of these crimes, as to justice, it matters not whether the proceeds of the theft of their property wound up in the pockets of an individual criminal or in the coffers of the Zionist State. What is important to the victim, and to justice, is that the property was stolen, and has not been restored.

According to Israel's own official Yearbook of 1951-1952: "During and after the War of Liberation, goods, equipment and belongings of absentee owners were collected in storehouses. In 1948-49 most of these stores were liquidated through sale."<sup>18</sup>

No Palestinian Arab authorized the Government of Israel to conduct a sale of his stolen property. The sale of these goods, as admitted by Israel itself, was illegal.

Abandoned property was one of the greatest contributions toward making Israel a viable state. Ten thousand shops, businesses and stores were left in Jewish hands. At the end of the Mandate, citrus holdings in the area of Israel totaled about 240,000 dunums of which half were Arab owned. Most of the Arab orange groves were taken over by the Israel Custodian of Absentee Property. In 1951-52, former Arab groves produced some one and a quarter million boxes of fruit, of which 400,000 were exported. Arab fruit sent abroad provided nearly 10 per cent of the country's foreign currency earnings from exports in 1951. In 1949 the olive produce from abandoned Arab groves was Israel's third largest export, ranking after citrus and diamonds. The relative economic importance of Arab property was largest from 1948 until 1953, during the period of greatest immigration and need.<sup>19</sup>

These facts, fully supported by the Zionists' own statistical data, provide evidence that the assets built in subsequent years by Zionist immigrants to Israel are capitalized on the assets of usurped Palestinian property and possessions.

The Zionist authorities retained the fiction that they were acting as trustees for some of this property's absentee Arab owners for some time, but the history of the world has never shown a more massive example of fiduciary embezzlement by an alleged trustee of someone else's property. The crimes of the Custodian of Absentee Property are not merely textbook examples of the failure of a trustee to protect property in its charge, but classic examples of a trustee's looting of property in its care.

Gradually, according to their own admission, the Zionist authorities siphoned off the property of the Palestinian Arabs under the trusteeship of the Custodian.

The 1953-54 Government of Israel Yearbook admits that:

The properties under the control of the Custodian were an important source of employment; 185,600 work-days were provided in the urban sector, and 463,550 work-days in the rural sector... The necessary action was taken during the year to effect the legal and orderly transfer of properties to the Development Authority.<sup>20</sup>

Any transfer of property without the consent of its rightful owner is illegal, and thus null and void.

The transfer of stolen goods by one receiver of stolen goods to another receiver of stolen goods confers no rights, interest or title in those goods.

But the Zionists tried to obfuscate the rightful ownership through such sham transfers. For example, according to their own official statement:

The area of absentee-owned plantations totals 126,000 dunums, comprising olives, grapes, figs, apricots, almonds and other fruit orchards. Of this total, 55,000 dunums are leased to settlements, 16,000 dunums to various lessees, and 55,000 dunums have been handed over to the Israel Plantations Corporation.<sup>21</sup>

The sole right to the stolen property belongs to its original Arab owners, who were criminally and forcibly robbed by the Zionists. According to Amin Jarjouria, an Arab Member of the Israeli Knesset:

Two days after the seizure of Jish, in the Safad district, the army surrounded the village and carried out searches. In the course of the search soldiers robbed several of the houses and stole 650 Palestinian pounds, jewelry and other valuables. When the people who were robbed insisted on being given receipts for their property, they were taken to a remote place and shot dead. The villagers protested to the local commander, Manu Friedmann, who had the bodies brought back to the village. The finger of one of the dead had been cut off to remove a ring.<sup>22</sup>

These criminal acts, revealed in the Knesset, are typical of the methods by which the Zionists came into possession of Palestinian Arab property and goods.

After a while the Custodian himself began to distribute the confiscated property. To begin with, Shafir later reported, goods, materials and equipment were turned over to the army, directly from the stores in the occupied towns. Merchandise which the army did not require was put up for sale. The sale was conducted by special departments instituted for the purpose, staffed, as much as war conditions allowed, by personnel trained in the principal branches of commerce. Other merchandise was sold through negotiation with merchants or industrialists, depending on the type of materials. "The army had the first choice of any goods and materials it might require," Shafir said. "Next were the government office, the war disabled, the Jewish Agency, the local authorities and public bodies, such as Hadassah." The army also needed most of the workshop equipment such as cabinet-making shops, locksmiths-works, turneries, iron-works, tin-works and the like. Industrial plants which could be operated on their existing sites were leased out by contract, "whenever possible," according to Shafir. Plants which no one wanted to lease were sold to the highest bidder.

"The sale of furniture, Shafir said, "was an especially complex and difficult business and took a long time." The army had removed from the houses and obtained from the warehouses furniture worth tens of thousands of pounds for its offices, homes and clubs. A ministerial committee resolved to have the remaining furniture, which was mostly from warehouses, evaluated by professionals and furniture dealers, and sold to a variety of buyers at this valuation price. If any furniture was left after the general sale, the Custodian would determine the method of selling it. The priority list for buyers was as follows: the families of the war disabled, soldiers' families, government employees who had been transferred from Jerusalem, civilians who had been injured in the war, and last of all, ordinary civilians. "In reality," the Custodian later remembered, "the last category never got to purchase any of the furniture, because the higher categories bought practically all of it."<sup>23</sup>

Yosef Yaakobson — an orange grower, and later an advisor to the Ministry of Defense — suggested to Ben-Gurion that he expropriate a shoe-making plant from its Jaffa owner and turn it over to the shoe-making enterprise Min'al of kibbutz Givat Hashloshah. Ben-Gurion consulted the Minister of Finance and Kaplan expressed the opinion that the private property of Arabs who remained in Jaffa should not be expropriated. Ben-Gurion disagreed; in his opinion only the property found inside private residences should not be expropriated. Yaakobson told him that the army was removing goods from Jaffa property estimated at 30,000 pounds daily. Attorney Naftaly Lifshitz of Haifa informed him that in the banks of that city there were 1,500,000,000 pounds in deposits belonging to Arabs. "The banks are willing to turn this property over," noted Ben-Gurion, and so the government, too, took a hand in the division of the spoils.<sup>24</sup>

The purchasing power of this one and one-half billion Palestinian pounds of Arab deposits in Haifa banks alone gives a clue to the magnitude of the theft committed against the Palestinian Arabs.

The culpability and guilt of Israel in the looting, pillaging and plundering of the Palestinian Arabs' land and possessions is admitted by then Minister of Agriculture Aharon Cizling in a document sent by him to David Ben-Gurion on June 16, 1948:

Again and again in our meetings we discuss the issue of the abandoned property. Everyone expresses shock, bitterness and shame, but we have yet to find a solution...up to now we have dealt with individual looters, both soldiers and civilians. Now, however, there are more and more reports about acts which, judging by their nature and extent, could only have been carried out by (government) order. I ask...on what basis was the order given (I hear it has been held back to dismantle all the water pumps in the Arab orange groves)...If there is any foundation to the reports which have reached me, the responsibility rests with a government agency....Meanwhile, private plundering still goes on, too.<sup>25</sup>

The response by the Custodian of Absentee Property to Cizling's complaint was as follows:

A widespread operation of dismantling the (water pump) engines had been carried out throughout the country. This had to be done in order to collect all the motors in the abandoned orange groves because of the many robberies, and so they could be put to use when they would be needed.<sup>26</sup>

In other words, Israeli officials admitted that they stole the water pump engines in question in order to ensure that the rank and file Zionists didn't steal them!

The effect of the Zionist looting of Palestinian Arab irrigation machinery was translated into later statistics concerning the Arab farmers remaining inside the so-called State of Israel. In 1975-1976, 43 percent of Jewish land was irrigated; the figure for Arab land was 7.6 percent. In 1974-1975, Arab farmers cultivated over 20 percent of the crops but received only 2 percent of the water.<sup>27</sup>

No proof that the whole Zionist edifice is built on the foundation of land possessions belonging to the Palestinian Arabs is more damning than that found in the Official Zionist Archives. The Report of Custodian Dov Shafir proving that the present Israeli inhabitants of Haifa and Jaffa are the beneficiaries of stolen Arab goods is a case in point:

With the intensification of immigration in the summer of 1948, the institutions which looked after the immigrants themselves began to demand that parts of the city which were still under occupation be made available to them. The property included warehouses and shops from which the merchandise had yet to be removed, as well as fully equipped workshops and plants. In Haifa the inspector's office began to issue apartments to the Absorption Department as early as July. The intention was to proceed through the city, quarter by quarter, allocating the apartments and business premises, after the goods had already been taken out of them. But the order was not followed. Hundreds of immigrant families were sent to take possession of apartments, and this caused confusion both in the collecting of goods and in the distribution of apartments. In Jaffa the situation was considerably worse. A certain part of the city was scheduled to be opened on September 10, and a particular allocation of houses was actually agreed upon — to be given to the Absorption Department, the army, the government officials who had been transferred from Jerusalem, and for the children of the settlements who had been evacuated during the war and who had been living in Tel Aviv schools, as well as to the soldiers' families. The Tel Aviv Absorption Department ignored this agreement and went ahead and organized a mass invasion of hundreds of families...before the date that was originally agreed upon for the opening of the city to civilians. The government appointed a committee to handle the distribution of apartments in Jaffa. The committee met and reached authoritative conclusions. But once again no heed was paid to the proper agreement. This time the social welfare officers sent hundreds of soldiers' families. Thus the populating of Jaffa was achieved by continuous invasions and counter-invasions (of unauthorized immigrants).<sup>28</sup>

Tom Segev, who has researched the official Zionist Archives with exemplary objectivity, writes:

By established custom, whoever succeeded in placing a bed in a room and spending the night in it, acquired the right of possession. One day Avraham Amsalem, age 19, entered the house of Mohammed Abu Sirah in the Ajjami quarter, and, threatening the Arab with his submachine gun, invaded and occupied the hallway of his house. The man was brought to trial and in court he explained that he was about to get married and had nowhere to live. He was sentenced to five days in prison. A few weeks previously, a few score soldiers, some of them disabled, invaded Arab houses in Wadi Nisnas and Abbas Street in Haifa. Carrying arms, they appeared at six o'clock in the morning, and forcibly ejected the residents. Then they threw out their belongings and brought in their own. The police came and removed them, but by evening they had invaded other people's homes. They, too, had nowhere to live.

Not only Arabs were subjected to such violence. Moshe Yupiter, an Israeli immigrant, got his apartment from the Custodian, but he was constantly harassed by people who would present themselves, in twos and threes, as Jewish Agency officials, demand to inspect his rooms, check the lease agreement and ask other questions pertaining to the apartment. Yupiter sensed that they were not Jewish Agency officials, and more than once these "visits" ended in threats and curses. He was fearful. "There was no one to go to," he complained. "There is no civil police and the military police is far away from here." Custodian Shafir confirmed that "the police help little and the military police not at all." After receiving permission from the Ministry of Police, Shafir managed to recruit a few policemen of his own to work for his office.

Altogether, between 140,000 and 160,000 immigrants were settled in abandoned homes: in Jaffa some 45,000, in downtown Haifa about 40,000, and in Acre about 5,000. The man who was put in charge of resettling Acre was Mordehai Sarid. "We consulted a map," he later recalled. "I knew which houses I was getting and I worked with engineers to determine what we would do with each apartment. One place needed sinks installed, another required a coat of paint, while other places needed flooring and sewage." The expenses were covered by the Jewish Agency. One day Sarid asked about some immigrants and was told that they were "getting organized." "Splendid," he said, "let them get organized." One of his aides explained what the phrase meant. "They are stealing tables and wardrobes from abandoned houses."<sup>29</sup>

American Jews like to think that their contributions to the Zionist cause created the shops and factories in Israel on “empty” land. In fact, many of the shops and factories were already there, previously built by their Palestinian Arab owners. The land was not “empty,” as American Jews were told, but emptied of its rightful inhabitants by Zionist violence. Tom Segev writes:

By the end of the year some 600 shops in Ramleh had been distributed to immigrants. Elkayam had no idea what a city might need, so he went to Tel Aviv. “I went through the streets and made a list of all types of shops,” he related later. “I estimated more or less how many groceries were needed, how many butcher shops, how many barber shops and how many cafes.” The shops were then distributed, as he described it, by a special committee, giving first consideration to the disabled. But some of the shops were leased to people who could pay for them. By May 1949 some 8,000 people had been settled in Ramleh. In Lydda, too, some 8,000 were settled. At that time there was still no electricity in Lydda, and there was a water shortage. However most of the political parties had already opened offices and clubs in the town. Of the abandoned properties turned over to immigrants, those already operative were: a button manufactory; a carbonated-drinks plant; sausage, ice, textile and macaroni factories.<sup>30</sup>

Segev also recounts the situation in Jerusalem, giving the fate of the houses and apartments of the Palestinian Arabs that had been previously looted of their furnishings:

In Jerusalem the situation was the same. In April it was decided to allocate 400 apartments to government officials who would move to Jerusalem. They had a choice of homes in the better neighborhoods of Baq’a, the “German Colony” and the “Greek Colony.” The Absorption Department got the poorer houses of Musrara and Lifta. Shaul Avigur, one of Ben-Gurion’s closest advisors, was to be the absolute arbitrator in any disputes. The document detailing this division of property does not mention the elegant quarter of Talbieh. The houses there were given to senior officials, associates and people with important connections — government officials, judges, professors at the Hebrew University, etc. In Jerusalem, too, people were sent to take possession of empty houses. The immigrants’ center in Baq’a sent them to occupy apartments assigned to government officials.<sup>31</sup>

Thus, the Zionist political and intellectual elite, and those with “connections” to that elite, were the receivers of stolen property for their personal residences. This self-same elite is constantly pontificating about Israel’s “moral basis.” When they return from their speechifying jaunts around the world, they do not return to what could be called their own homes or apartments, but to the homes and apartments of the criminally dispossessed Palestinian Arabs.

Ian Lustick describes properties looted and usurped by the so-called State of Israel.

These properties included extensive stone quarries, forty thousand dunums of vineyards, 95 percent of Israel’s olive groves, nearly one hundred thousand dunums of citrus groves, and ten thousand shops, businesses, and stores. The abandoned olive and citrus groves were instrumental in alleviating the serious balance-of-payments problem which Israel suffered from 1948 to 1953.<sup>32</sup>

Tom Segev states:

Before long, the government decided to promote the settlement of immigrants in the abandoned villages of Galilee. In August 1948, the Ministerial Committee discussed the creation of 61 new settlements. The settling authorities recommended that only 32 of them, on some 30,000 acres, be built for the time being. Of those lands some 14,500 acres belonged to Arabs, 5,000 to the government, 5,000 to other owners, chiefly German and in one case to the Waqf; about 5,000 acres belonged to Jews. The Ministers considered the future of the Arab inhabitants and made suggestions for transferring them legally. The Minister of Agriculture described the legal arrangements as “a fiction.”<sup>33</sup>

It should be pointed out that no Israeli can use the excuse that “he didn’t know the property was stolen.” Even David Ben-Gurion “ordered an inspection of all the kibbutzim and moshavim of Lower and Upper Galilee for an inventory of ‘flocks of cattle and sheep, and other property taken from the Arab villages during the war, and after, crops, furniture and all other objects, were to be presented to the Minister of Defense.’”<sup>34</sup>

The looting was total. As Tom Segev recounts:

And so tens of thousands of Israelis, soldiers and civilians, helped themselves to the spoils. One took an armchair, another a rug, a third took a sewing machine and a fourth — a combine; one took an apartment and another took a vineyard. Very quickly and easily a whole class — albeit a small one — of newly prosperous people appeared on the scene: merchants, speculators, contractors, agents of all sorts, industrialists and farmers. Some stole what property they could, others received theirs legally. A good many of the transactions fell into that grey area between what the law permitted and what was considered illegal, between outright robbery and official expropriation.<sup>35</sup>

With all due respect to Mr. Segev, it should be pointed out that under international criminal law none of the transactions dealing with the property stolen from the Palestinian Arabs was legal, or could possibly be legal. As Israeli poet Nathan Altermann wrote: “Theft had become a tolerated flavor of life.”<sup>36</sup>

SPOLIATION OF SO-CALLED “PRESENT ABSENTEES”

On May 14, 1948 35 European-born Jews, 1 Yemeni Arab Jew, and 1 Palestinian Arab Jew issued the so-called Declaration of Independence of the so-called State of Israel. In this Declaration its Zionist signers promised that they would “promote the development of the country for the benefit of all its inhabitants...uphold the full social and political equality of all its citizens, without distinction of religion, race or sex.”

It further called "upon the Arab inhabitants of the State of Israel to preserve the ways of peace and play their part in the development of the State on the basis of full and equal citizenship..." It specifically expressed its readiness "to cooperate with the organs and representatives of the United Nations in the implementation of the Resolution of the Assembly of November 29, 1947..."<sup>37</sup>

In its General Provision the United Nations Resolution of November 29, 1947 stated:

A declaration shall be made to the United Nations by the provisional government of each proposed State before independence. It shall contain inter alia the following clauses:

General Provision

The stipulations contained in the declaration are recognized as fundamental laws of the State and no law, regulation or official action shall conflict or interfere with these stipulations, nor shall any law, regulation or official action prevail over them...

Chapter 2 — Religious and Minority Rights

2. No discrimination of any kind shall be made between the inhabitants on the ground of race, religion, language or sex...

3. All persons within the jurisdiction of the State shall be entitled to equal protection of the laws...

8. No expropriation of land owned by an Arab in the Jewish State shall be allowed except for public purposes. In all cases of expropriation full compensation as fixed by the Supreme Court shall be paid previous to dispossession....<sup>38</sup>

Totally contrary to the letter and spirit of the above promises pledged by the Zionist leadership, when assuming power in the so-called State of Israel they created for the Arabs remaining in the territory of that so-called State a status of "Present Absentee," a concept which in its very essence is alien to any rational standard of logic, let alone of justice.

Ian Lustick writes:

Much of the Arab land acquired by the Custodian of Absentee Property, by the Jewish National Fund, or directly by Jewish agricultural settlements and municipalities in the first years of the state's existence consisted of property owned by Palestinian Arabs who fled from one part of Israeli-controlled territory to another, or who for some other reason were assigned the status of "internal refugees" or "present absentee." In other words, although these Arabs were Israeli citizens, they were forcibly prevented from reasserting possession over property declared to have been "abandoned." In 1949 approximately 75,000 of Israel's 160,000 Arabs were in this category.<sup>39</sup>

Tom Segev recounts the history of the so-called "Present Absentee" concept:

Starting in the latter half of 1948, the Ministry of Justice worked on the drafting of an Absentees' Property Law, giving the Custodian a share in the ownership of the property he had hitherto controlled as a trustee, and authorizing him to transfer it to a newly established "Development Authority." The Ministry's draft proposed a literal definition of the term

"Absentee," namely, one who was no longer present in the territory of the state. When the draft was brought before the Ministerial Committee, Moshe Sharett demanded that the definition be changed to designate anyone who had left his home after a certain date (November 29, 1947), regardless of where he might have lived thereafter. He drew attention to thousands of refugees who had left their villages and settled in Nazareth. If they were not defined as absentees, it would be necessary to let them return to their homes. Sharett also raised the possibility that Israel might one day seize Nablus on the West Bank, which was a "reasonable likelihood," he thought. In that case thousands of refugees would come within Israel's jurisdiction and they would demand to return to their homes and take back the properties they had abandoned. Sharett's reservation was accepted. Consequently, the definition in the law was changed to embrace all who had abandoned their usual "place of residence," even if they were still living in Israel. Some time after, the Custodian was authorized to sell the abandoned property to the development authority, and the Government of Israel authorized the latter to sell it to the Jewish National Fund. More than half a million acres were thus expropriated from their owners. A few thousand of these owners were actually living in Israel, yet the law defined them as absentees, even if they had only left their homes for a few days and stayed with relatives in a nearby village or town, waiting for the fighting to end. Later they came to be referred to as "present absentees." The majority of them were not allowed to return to their homes. Those refugees who were permitted to return to Israel after the war were also formally absentees and their property was not restored to them.<sup>40</sup>

Roberta Strauss Feurlicht comments:

Most of the land was expropriated, not only from Arabs who fled, but from Arabs who did not flee. Those who fled were not permitted to return, even if they went no farther than the next village. Arabs who never moved an inch had their land taken from them, usually without compensation. It is estimated that at least 40 percent of the land was confiscated from Arabs who were legal residents of Israel. An Israeli journalist described land seizures as "wholesale robbery in legal guise."<sup>41</sup>

The effect of this discriminatory application of so-called Israeli laws to the "Present Absentees" — who were all Arab Muslims and Christians, of course — was tragic and bred great resentment among them. Tom Segev documents:

In September 1951 the Custodian M. Porat — who had succeeded Shafir — sent a secret report to the Minister of Finance. He wrote, "The fact that we are holding the property of legal residents of the country, who otherwise enjoy all the normal rights of citizenship, is a source of great bitterness and constant agitation among the Arabs who are affected by it. Most of the complaints made by Arabs against our department are made by "absentees" who see their property in the hands of others and can't bear it. These absentees try by every means to get their lands back, and offer to lease them even at exorbitant rents. In accordance with the general rule originally established...our office does not lease the lands expropriated by the government to the present absentees, so as not to weaken our control over the properties in our charge, and this gives rise to complaints and bitterness. Clearly, this policy does not enhance a spirit of good citizenship among Arabs who returned, and the question arises whether the state, having allowed certain Arabs to come back, or approved their infiltration de facto, should provoke their extreme resentment and expose them to the inordinate incitement of certain political elements. In my opinion, it should not. That is to say — the government policy should make the legal definition of “absentee” match the normal connotation of the word’s meaning, i.e., a person who is absent. That should be the policy. It seems to me that at present there is no practical way of carrying out the policy I have suggested, at least with regard to real estate. The number of “present absentees” runs into the thousands, most of them owners of real estate. There are already new people living on some of these properties, particularly in the border settlements. Any attempt to return the properties to these absentees would, therefore, adversely affect thousands, or tens of thousands, of settlers, not to mention army camps and installations.”<sup>42</sup>

The amount of land usurped from the so-called “Present Absentees” was huge. Claiming these lands to have been “abandoned” by their owners even though their owners were allegedly “citizens of Israel,” at “least 250,000 dunums of the land classified as abandoned were in fact owned by Arab residents of Israel who had been assigned “absentee” status by the government under the Absentee Property Act of 1950.”<sup>43</sup>

In the case of Arab villages such as Ghabasiyeh, “internal refugees” who had managed clandestinely to resume residence in their still-vacant villages were forcibly expelled. More houses were made available for Jewish habitation as a result of the removal of Arabs from their homes in the large “mixed cities” and their concentration in specified Arab quarters.<sup>44</sup>

Lustick summarizes:

Much of the Arab land acquired by the Custodian of Absentee Property, by the JNF, or directly by Jewish agricultural settlements and municipalities in the first years of the state’s existence consisted of property owned by Palestinian Arabs who fled from one part of Israeli-controlled territory to another, or who for some other reason were assigned the status of “internal refugee” or “present absentee.” In other words, although these Arabs were Israeli citizens, they were forcibly prevented from reasserting possession over property declared to have been “abandoned.” In 1949 approximately 75,000 of Israel’s 160,000 Arabs were in this category. One of the primary concerns of Israeli Arabs at this juncture was that the government allow “internal refugees” to return to their homes and/or reclaim their property.<sup>45</sup>

Rather than allowing the so-called “Present Absentees” to return to their homes, the Zionists created new so-called “legal” pretexts for confiscating their property:

The Government introduced a number of laws which did injustice to the Arab villagers and deprived them of about

1,000,000 dunums of land from which they and their families had made, though often with great difficulty, a bare living. Those laws, such as the law of uncultivated land, and so on can have but one aim: to deprive the Arab population of land which is then transferred to Jewish ownership and use. The Arab peasant clings to his land which he considers to be his soul. He regards, therefore, the laws depriving him of his land as the bitterest injustice done to him.<sup>46</sup>

Professor Elia T. Zureik writes:

In 1960, the Knesset enacted Basic Law: Israel Lands, which meant that state land is defined under the principle of the Jewish National Fund, whose original constitution stipulates the inalienable right of the Jews to the land.

Two principles of Zionist colonization, both incorporated in the constitution of the Jewish Agency, are especially resented by the Arabs. These are: (i) the principle that Jewish property is inalienable; no Zionist settler may dispose of his lease to anyone but a Jew; (ii) the principle carefully safeguarded by the powerful Jewish Federation of Labor, that only Jewish Labor may be employed in Zionist colonies. The net result is that, when the Jewish National Fund makes a purchase the Arabs lose not only the land itself but also any chance of being employed on this land.<sup>47</sup>

Thus the laws passed by the Israeli Parliament make a mockery of the solemn Zionist promise that “no discrimination of any kind shall be made between the inhabitants on the ground of race, religion, language or sex...”

The original Absentee Properties Law did not discriminate in its wording — only in its practice. “Yohanan Bader, MK (Herut) stated, ‘According to this law, the Israeli army is full of absentees....Every man who went to war on or after November 29, that is to say, left his city — is an absentee, unless he has a certificate to prove that he is not an absentee.’”<sup>48</sup>

Needless to say, Jews could get certificates proving that they were not absentees, while Arabs could get no such certification. So much for the solemn Zionist promise of “equal protection of the laws.”

Whether they were expelled from the borders of the Zionist State, or succeeded in remaining within those borders, the result was the same for Palestinian Arabs. To the Zionists they were “non-persons” entitled to no rights. Rights in the Zionist State belonged only to Jews — including the right to take over the homes of the Palestinian Arabs as their residences.

THE USURPATION AND DESTRUCTION OF ARAB HOUSES AND APARTMENTS IN TOWNS, CITIES AND VILLAGES

At the beginning of 1948 there were in Palestine 4 cities and large towns with mixed Arab and Jewish population. There also 8 cities and large towns which were wholly Arab. There were 833 Arab small towns and villages. There were 108 Beduin localities.

The Zionists occupied 526 small towns and villages as well as the 4 mixed cities and large towns and the 8 wholly Arab cities and large towns.

They totally destroyed and erased from the map of Palestine 425 small towns and villages and 67 Beduin localities. Therefore the total number of towns, villages and Beduin localities the Zionists erased from the map of Palestine is 492.

In all of the cities, large towns, villages and small towns occupied by the Zionists they destroyed or usurped the houses and apartment buildings, commercial buildings and the lands of Palestinian Arabs.

In 1948 the Palestinians in towns, cities and villages were living either in houses built by themselves or by their families or in apartments leased from Palestinian landowners. The following Tables provide an itemization of the Arab housing units in each town, city and village in the areas occupied by the Israelis in 1948, and an itemization of the Arab housing units either usurped or destroyed by the Israelis in these towns, cities and villages.

The itemization of Arab housing units was calculated for 1948 on the basis of the 1931 Census of Palestine: Populations of villages, Towns and Administrative Areas, published by the Government of Palestine in Jerusalem, and prepared by E. Mills, Assistant Chief Secretary and Superintendent of Census.

The magnitude of the looting, pillaging and plundering perpetrated by the Zionists is almost beyond one's ability to comprehend. They descended upon the Palestinian Arabs' homes, shops, farms and factories, destroying in months a sophisticated infrastructure that had taken many generations of Palestinians to build. The usurpation and destruction of Palestinian Arab houses and apartments was almost always accompanied by the looting and plundering of all their furniture and household goods.

According to the Summary in Table 16 above, Arab houses and apartments which existed in the areas of the Sub-Districts which were occupied in 1948 by the Zionists totaled 179,316. Out of these housing units, the Zionists usurped or wantonly destroyed 158,332. The Zionists usurped 95% of Arab houses and apartments in the cities and towns of Acre, Beisan, Safad, Tiberias, Haifa, Jaffa, Ramle, Lydda, Beersheba and the New City of Jerusalem and used them for the settlement of Jews. The Palestinian houses in small towns, villages and Bedouin localities were either completely destroyed or partly destroyed and the small towns and villages were converted into Jewish colonies for settling Jews.

The Custodian of Enemy Property appointed by the Provisional Government of Israel took possession of the apartments and houses which had not been destroyed and settled in them Jews from other areas or Jewish immigrants who came to Palestine after the occupation. Many of the houses of affluent Arab owners were usurped by top Zionist leaders

The above-mentioned facts of looting, pillaging and plundering prove beyond any doubt that the Zionist State was established on usurped Arab lands. Zionists were housed in usurped Arab houses and apartments. The Zionists enriched themselves by taking possession of all Arab lands including orange groves, fruit orchards, fields, livestock and farm tools and equipment, by taking possession of all goods, merchandise and fixtures in Arab shops and warehouses, by taking possession of all equipment, machinery, raw materials and finished goods in Arab factories, and by usurping all Palestinian commercial buildings in twelve cities and 492 towns and villages which they occupied and pillaging all their contents. They further enriched themselves by taking possession of Arab furniture and household goods, clothing and jewelry, and many of them robbed the refugees they expelled.

The Zionists, in other words, completely robbed the Palestinians in 80% of Palestine of their entire real and movable property. They made the Palestinians, who were once a prosperous nation, a destitute, refugee nation in exile, thereby committing the crime of genocide in addition to war crimes and crimes against humanity.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

DESTRUCTION, DESECRATION AND USURPATION OF MUSLIM HOLY PLACES AND THE VIOLATION OF MUSLIM RELIGIOUS RIGHTS

The Zionists planned to create a Jewish State in Palestine that would be 100% Jewish. Christianity and Islam were to be stamped out and Christians and Muslims were to be excluded. The Zionist plan calls for the expulsion of all non-Jews from Palestine and the destruction of Muslim and Christian Holy Places and sanctuaries.

In 1948 the Zionists succeeded in realizing their first objective by creating a Jewish State in 80% of the territory of Palestine. By force and massacres they expelled from the area they occupied over 800,000 Palestinians, of whom 700,000 were Muslims and 100,000 Christians. They completely destroyed over 492 Arab villages by bulldozing all of the houses and other buildings in the villages, in order to erase the Arab character of the land. According to the records of the Islamic Higher Council in Jerusalem, Zionist forces completely destroyed and erased 480 Muslim Mosques and converted 14 Muslim Mosques to secular control as factories, clubs or for other nonreligious purposes. They completely destroyed 410 Muslim cemeteries, bulldozing all the stones and remains. The Hilton Hotel in Tel Aviv was built on the Abed Al-Nabl Muslim cemetery.

The Zionists occupied all Muslim religious properties (Waqf property) in the twelve cities they occupied and in many villages as well, usurping buildings, lands, shops, and other assets of these religious charitable institutions.

DESTRUCTION OF MUSLIM MOSQUES AND WAQF PROPERTY IN 1967

During the June 1967 war, the Israelis bombarded the Holy City of Jerusalem. The central gate of Al Aqsa mosque was shattered. One of the Al Aqsa minarets received a direct hit and its dome was damaged. After the occupation of Jerusalem in 1967, Israelis held demonstrations, dancing festivals and immoral parties in the sacred area of Haram Al-Sherif. The gates of the Dome of the Rock and Al Aqsa Mosque were opened for Jewish tourists of both sexes with their dogs. Men and women entered these holy places dressed in shorts and committed acts of indecency, disrespect and desecration. Israel dynamited 135 buildings and Mosques owned by Muslim Waqfs in old Jerusalem in order to clear the way for a square in front of Al Buraq, the Western Wall of Al Aqsa Mosque.

On August 26, 1967, fourteen Muslim and Christian leaders of Jerusalem submitted a memorandum to the personal representative of the Secretary-General of the United Nations in which they described the desecration by Israelis of Muslim and Christian Holy Places. Paragraph 7 of that memorandum states:

The Israeli authorities did not respect the sanctity of Muslim and Christian religious shrines and thus forced the custodian of the Holy Places to close some of the churches. Moreover, the Chief Rabbi of the Israeli army, Brigadier Goren, conducted a prayer, together with some followers, in the Haram Al-Sherif (Holy Mosque), thus blatantly offending Muslim susceptibilities and infringing upon their established rights, while the Minister for Religions in Israel announced that the Muslim Mosque is Jewish property, and that sooner or later they will rebuild their temple there. Finally, the Ministry of Religious Affairs announced its intention of expanding the Wailing Wall area by destroying some of the Muslim buildings surrounding it, and constructing a synagogue there, in contravention of the status quo, and in an outright violation of the rights of Muslims and Muslim Waqf.

ISRAELI DESECRATION AND ATTEMPTS TO DESTROY THE HOLY AL AQSA MOSQUE IN JERUSALEM

Reports concerning the following criminal acts by the Israelis were taken from the records of the Islamic Higher Council in Jerusalem:

March 2, 1982

Armed Jewish settlers and students from Kiryat Arba raided the Al Aqsa Mosque from the Silsilah gate, after assaulting the guards. One guard was injured.

March 30, 1982

Jewish extremists called the Temple Mount Faithful group, accompanied by two Knesset members, Geula Cohen and Ben Porat, entered the Al Aqsa Mosque yard in a provocative manner.

April 3, 1982

A group of extremist Jews tried to raid the Al Aqsa Mosque from the Dung Gate, but were prevented by Waqf guards. One of the guards was shot.

April 8, 1982

The Temple Mount Faithful group of Jewish extremists placed a fake bomb and a threatening letter in front of the Aqsa Mosque door. The bomb consisted of a transistor radio and a timing device. The guard of the mosque found and dismantled it.

April 11, 1982

An Israeli soldier, American-born Allan Goodman, entered the Dome of the Rock Mosque and started firing shots randomly. One person was killed and dozens were injured.

May 12, 1982

A sergeant from the Jerusalem municipal police trespassed on Al Aqsa Mosque land. He claimed he was trying to verify allegations made by Geula Cohen that there were illegal buildings in the Mosque area.

May 22, 1982

Extremist Jews entered the Haram al Sharif area, distributing leaflets and inciting Jews to go to pray in the Al Aqsa Mosque area.

June 4, 1982

Extremist Jews sent a letter to the Islamic Council threatening the demolition of Al Aqsa Mosque.

July 7, 1982

The Temple Mount Faithful Jewish extremist group entered the Mosque yard to hold a demonstration in support of the Israeli invasion of Lebanon.

July 28, 1982

Armed Jewish yeshiva students seized three apartments near the Al Aqsa Mosque, and left only after they were ordered to evacuate by the police.

March 5, 1983

An explosive charge was found on the road leading to the Al Aqsa Mosque, near the entrance of Bab al Majles.

January 14, 1984

Israeli tourist guides handed out false maps to tourists showing two Jewish altars in place of the two mosques on Haram al Sharif.

January 27, 1984

At night a group of extremist Jews entered the mosque with explosives, intending to blow up Al Aqsa Mosque.

March 24, 1984

An extremist Jewish group publicly declared its intention to perform the Passover prayers and animal sacrifice in the Al Aqsa Mosque.

March 29, 1984

The Israeli Archaeological Department of the Ministry of Religion constructed a tunnel, one meter in length, two meters wide and ten meters deep, near the western part of the Al Aqsa Mosque near the Dung Gate. The tunnel endangered the Islamic Council Building.

April 23, 1984

Extremist Jews entered the Al Aqsa Mosque yard, holding weapons, during the prayer time. They proceeded to commit immoral and indecent acts on the holy site.

September 25, 1984

Members of the Temple Mount Faithful Jewish extremist group attempted to enter the Al Aqsa Mosque yard to pray, but were prevented by Waqf guards.

January 8, 1986

Some Knesset members accompanied by other extremist Jews tried to hold prayers in the Al Aqsa Mosque yard.

January 9, 1986

The Temple Mount Faithful extremist Jews entered the Al Aqsa Mosque yard, after hoisting the Israeli flag at the Dung Gate. Police removed the flag.

January 14, 1986

When Rabbi Eliezer Waldman trespassed into the Al Aqsa Mosque yard, hundreds of Muslim youth demonstrated against his entry. Military forces used tear gas to disperse the demonstrators and arrested 19 persons.

January 19, 1986

The Kach movement, led by Meir Kahane, violently attempted to enter the Al Aqsa Mosque yard. They were prevented by border guards, and detained for one hour and then released.

THE IBRAHIMI MOSQUE (MOSQUE OF THE PATRIARCHS) IN HEBRON

Since 1967, Israeli authorities have violated Muslim rights in the Ibrahimi Mosque (Mosque of the Patriarchs) in Hebron, by restricting Muslims to praying in the Mosque only on Fridays. Jewish tourists desecrated this holy Mosque and often embarrassed and ridiculed Muslims while praying. Contrary to Muslim rights, Jews encroached on the Mosque and started using part of it for Jewish prayers. Against the protests of the Muslims of Hebron and the Islamic Higher Council in Jerusalem, Jewish authorities brought hundreds of benches and placed them in the Mosque. Jews built a roof on a part of the mosque, with the object of converting it into a Jewish synagogue.

On the 16th of November 1972 the Chairman of the Islamic Higher Council in Jerusalem, Sheikh Hilmi Al-Muhtasib, held a press conference outside Al Aqsa Mosque. As reported in the Jerusalem Post of November 17, 1972, Sheikh Al-Muhtasib stated: "Ever since the West Bank was occupied in June 1967, Jews have been forcing their way into Hebron's Ibrahimi Mosque, committing acts of provocation and being insensitive to the feelings of the Muslims, the shrine's legitimate owners." Sheikh Al-Muhtasib stated further "that the site was gradually being turned into a synagogue. The latest act of aggression at the Hebron shrine was the most serious in a list of trespasses committed since 1967." In reply to a question, Sheikh Al-Muhtasib said: "Muslims did not oppose Jewish visits to the Hebron shrine, but were against Jews holding prayers on the site, which has been a mosque for the past 14 centuries. There can be no compromise on this.”

During the first week of August, 1975, the Jewish press published information that the Israeli cabinet had decided to introduce new arrangements for Jewish and Muslim prayers at the Muslim mosque. The new arrangements provided for the divisions of the Holy Site space-wise rather than time-wise, as theretofore. Two halls of the Mosque were to be reserved for Muslim prayers throughout the day, and three halls were to be used for Jewish prayers only.

RECENT INCIDENTS OF DESECRATION AND USURPATION OF THE IBRAHIMI MOSQUE (THE RECORDS OF THE ISLAMIC HIGHER COUNCIL, JERUSALEM)

May 27, 1982

On Friday a group of Jewish settlers prevented Muslims from praying in the Ibrahimi Mosque and brought in a three meter long table and put wine on it.

June 2, 1982

Jewish settlers made preparations for prayer in the Ibrahimi Mosque with the full knowledge in advance of the Israeli Military Governor.

June 13, 1982

Jewish settler trespassers held a wedding in the Ibrahimi Mosque hall from 6 p.m. until midnight.

July 1, 1982

Jewish settler trespassers brought iron cupboards and chairs into the Jacobite and Ibrahimi tomb rooms inside the Ibrahimi Mosque.

September 14, 1982

Israeli soldiers prevented Muslims from holding their dawn prayers.

September 27, 1982

Jewish settlers blew on the ram's horn to disrupt the noon, afternoon and sunset Muslim prayers.

October 24, 1982

Jewish settlers brought Hebrew manuscripts in frames into the Ibrahimi and Jacobite tomb rooms, as part of their attempt to change the Ibrahimi Mosque into a synagogue.

November 27, 1982

Those responsible for the Ibrahimi Mosque were informed that Jews would place the Torah inside the mosque, as part of their attempt to change the Mosque into a synagogue.

November 29, 1982

Two hundred Jewish settlers broke into the Ibrahimi Mosque at night, bringing tables and bottles of Coke into the Jacobite and Yusifyeh tombrooms.

December 16, 1982

Soldiers placed a candlestick on the Salah Eddin Ayubi citadel, close to the Ibrahimi Mosque, and then brought a gas stove into the mosque.

December 18, 1982

Israeli soldiers brought a dining table into the Ibrahimi Mosque and ate their lunch.

January 29, 1983

Jewish settlers drank wine in the Ibrahimi Mosque.

February 28, 1983

After finishing their prayers inside the Ibrahimi Mosque, Jewish settlers damaged the copper crescent on Lady Rifqa's window.

April 16, 1983

Jewish settlers held a circumcision ceremony inside the Ibrahimi Mosque, drinking wine and partying in desecration of Islamic standards.

May 1, 1983

Jewish settlers held a circumcision ceremony inside Ibrahimi Mosque and Israeli military forces prevented Muslims from visiting the Ibrahimi tomb.

September 9, 1983

A Jewish officer broke a door leading to the Ibrahimi Mosque minaret and damaged its microphone. He then moved the Muslim carpets to make a path for the Jews to enter the Mosque.

November 2, 1983

Jewish settlers put a table and chair in the pulpit, changing the area into a Jewish religious school.

November 23, 1983

Jewish settlers hung the Ten Commandments in the Ibrahimi and Jacobite tomb rooms as part of their attempt to transform the Mosque into a synagogue.

December 26, 1983

Jewish settlers prevented Muslims from entering the Mosque until late morning, as a way of asserting their claim to control the Ibrahimi Mosque.

January 11, 1984

The Military Governor hung three copper pieces holding the Ten Commandments on the three doors of Ibrahimi Mosque, as part of the attempt to transform the Mosque into a synagogue.

May 8, 1984

Jewish settlers erected electric lamps forming Stars of David in the eastern part of the Ibrahimi Mosque and also placed a rostrum there, as part of the attempt to transform the Mosque into a synagogue.

June 14, 1984

Jewish settlers held a wedding inside the Ibrahimi Mosque yard, accompanied by a musical band.

June 24, 1984

Jewish settlers held a circumcision ceremony in the Ibrahimi tombroom, as part of their attempt to seize possession of the Mosque.

September 24, 1984

Israeli soldiers fixed television lenses inside Ibrahimi Mosque.

September 25, 1984

Israeli soldiers stood by as a settler attacked the Mosque guard, Ismail Hamlush.

October 1, 1984

During the noon prayer in Ibrahimi Mosque Jewish settlers provoked praying Muslims by dancing in circles.

ISRAELI DESECRATION AND DESTRUCTION OF OTHER MUSLIM MOSQUES (THE RECORDS OF THE ISLAMIC HIGHER COUNCIL, JERUSALEM)

July 15, 1983

Jewish settlers placed bombs inside the Khaled Ibn al Walid Mosque in Hebron. They were discovered and removed before exploding.

December 20, 1983

Jewish extremists placed bombs in the Izariyah Mosque in Jerusalem. They were discovered and removed before exploding.

August 4, 1986

The Haraa Mosque in Gaza was sealed by the Israeli Military Governor on the pretext that it was unlicensed.

September 9, 1986

The Kammaaneh Mosque in Safad was demolished by the Israeli authorities on the grounds that it was built without a license.

December 28, 1986

The Israeli Jerusalem municipal authorities demolished the Hizma Mosque in Jerusalem on the pretext that it was built without a license.

TESTIMONY OF THE ARAB MAYOR OF EAST JERUSALEM

At the 1,421st meeting of the United Nations Security Council on May 3, 1968, the Mayor of East Jerusalem, Mr. Rouhi El Khatib, stated:

To begin with I have to go back to the first week of the occupation and summarize as follows. The Israeli authorities started by spreading horror in all corners of the city, outside the walls and inside, in the mosques as well as in the churches, occupying large buildings and hotels, raiding houses, shops and garages, looting whatever came into their hands, treating cruelly anyone who showed the slightest sign of dissatisfaction, gathering the inhabitants from their homes under severe and arrogant measures, keeping them standing for hours, irrespective of age or sex, and gaoling hundreds and up to thousands for unlimited periods and for no reason whatsoever. In a nutshell, the Israelis were creating waves of fear and terror to force people to leave.

By the end of a week of their occupation the Israeli authorities started a new campaign directed this time against the buildings and the residents of the Maghrabi quarter. That quarter belonged to the North African Moslem communities including those from Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia and Libya. Here the Israelis bulldozed 135 houses belonging to the Moslem Waqf-Moslem Trust — named after a very respected religious leader called 'Abu Madyan el-Gouth. The houses were demolished and razed within two days, at a time when the curfew extended eighteen hours a day giving the poor residents a warning of only two to three hours. The poor bewildered people were lost and many of them were unable to save more than what they could carry — and that only if it happened that they had no children to look after. No response came to my quick appeal and that of the Municipal Council through the Army liaison officer who was attached to us. The bewildered inhabitants were scattered in the adjacent lanes and streets and some at a later stage found refuge in the neighbouring villages. The total number of persons affected by this campaign was 650. Two small mosques were amongst the demolished buildings. A few days later, a modern plastics factory, owned by an Arab and quite near to the former buildings, was burnt and destroyed by the Israeli armed forces. Two hundred labourers, maintaining two hundred families, became unemployed. Until I was forced to leave the city, and to my knowledge, no compensation was paid to the owner. Similarly, the Israeli authorities continued to occupy many large buildings, including tourist hotels, looting articles therein and adding to the increasing numbers of unemployed Arabs.

In the second week, the Israeli authorities and Jewish religious bodies directed a third campaign against the inhabitants of the neighbouring area of the Western Wall of the Al Aqsa Mosque, popularly known as the Wailing Wall and legally proved to be Muslim property. That campaign was later extended to cover wider areas in the heart of the Moslem quarters and, to some extent, the standing houses in the old Jewish Quarter, 80 percent of which is Arab property. Inhabitants of that area, comprising some 650 families, constituting around 3,000 inhabitants, were given a warning by Israeli religious bodies — later confirmed by the army authorities — to evacuate within three days at the maximum.

That poor group was forced to leave, adding more sorrows to the atmosphere of the city and its embittered residents. Appeals were again submitted by the Arab Municipal Council, which was still operating, but with no response from the Israelis. The destiny of the second group was no less tragic than the former.

At the end of the third week the most effective blow was directed at the entity of the Arab status in Jerusalem. On 27 June, 1967, the Israeli Parliament issued a decree of death to the Arab status of Jerusalem by passing an illegal act through which it announced the annexation of Arab Jerusalem to Israel. That act continued the defiance of General Assembly resolutions 2253(ES-V) and 2254 (ES-V) of 4 and 14 July 1967 respectively. A day later — that is, on 28 June 1967 — the Israeli Minister of Internal Affairs, relying on the former act of the Israeli Parliament, issued an order by which he merged the town planning area of the two sectors of Jerusalem, irrespective of the legal presence of the Arab Municipal Council and against the will of the Arab residents.

On the following day — that is, 29 June 1967 — the Israeli forces completed their plan and issued a Military Defence Order calling for the dissolution of the Arab Municipal Council and dismissing the Mayor and members of the Council. This order was conveyed to a few of us in an urgent and dramatic way — by bringing us from our homes and gathering us in a hotel room occupied by the Israeli forces, where the Israeli Assistant Military Governor of the area then read the contents of that order in Hebrew, with a simultaneous interpretation by their Military Liaison Officer. A copy of the Arabic translation was prepared on the spot and given to us upon our demand by the same Liaison Officer. I still have that document in my possession; a photostatic copy, marked Exhibit I, is presented to the Council. It reads in translation:

“In the name of the Israeli Defence Army, I have the honour to declare to Mr. Rouhi El-Khatib and to the Members of Jerusalem Municipal Council, that the Municipal Council is hereupon dissolved. The Municipality employees, of all departments including administrative and technical, are, hereupon, considered as temporary employees in Jerusalem municipality until their employment is decided by the Jerusalem Municipality after they submit written applications for employment.

“In the name of the Israeli Defence Army, I call upon the Municipality employees to continue their necessary services to the inhabitants of the City.

“I thank Mr. Rouhi El-Khatib and the members of the Municipality for their services rendered during the transitional period commencing upon the entry of the Israeli Defence Army until today.”

The document was dated 29 June, 1967; it was read by the Assistant Military Governor of Jerusalem, Yacoub Salman, and translated by Army Liaison Officer David Farhi.

We were subjected to intimidation, and could not show at that time any resistance against such Israeli measures. The only thing left to us was to advise our employees to continue their services for the welfare of the population and the upkeep of the city.

In this respect I am bound to explain that the Arab Council and myself have spared no effort in quickly resuming our responsibilities and duties right from the second day of the Israeli occupation. We managed to see that services in the fields of sanitation, water supply and electricity were put in order and that shops were reopened, and particularly that foodstuffs were within reach of all residents. We did this in spite of all the difficulties encountered.

The Arab Municipal Council, the various Arab unions and religious representatives in Jerusalem and the west bank of the Jordan have objected and protested in writing against the Israeli destructive measures. Originals of their memoranda were presented to the Israeli military authorities, and copies were handed over to Mr. Ernest A. Thalmann, Special Representative of the Secretary-General of the United Nations, when meeting our representatives in Jerusalem in August 1967. Texts of these memoranda are to be found in Mr. Thalmann's report to the Secretary-General of 12 September 1967. Full texts of those memoranda are also included in Arabic basic documents under the title: “The Resistance of the Western Bank of Jordan to Israeli Occupation 1967.” A copy of his booklet in English, marked Exhibit II, is hereby presented for the information of the Council.

Since the taking of those destructive measures, the situation in Arab Jerusalem has been deteriorating. Day after day the Israeli authorities are taking one measure after another, carefully planned and quickly executed. It is greatly feared that the Israeli acts will create more bitterness in the hearts of the Arab population, Christians and Moslems, and will incite the feelings of the Moslem and Christian worlds against such measures; it is feared that these may obstruct the mission of Mr. Jarring and may add fuel to the fire in the Middle East.

The Israeli authorities have by their inaction authorized the desecration of Christian and Moslem Holy Places and have permitted access by Jews to these Holy Places during hours of prayer. This complete lack of respect has grossly offended the religious sensitivities of the believers of both religions.

The Holy Places, Christian and Moslem alike, were subjected to repeated desecration not familiar to us. An example was the infamous burglary of one of the largest and holiest churches in the world, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. The priceless diamond-studded crown of the statue of the Virgin, Our Lady of Sorrows, on Calvary was stolen. Priests have been victims of aggression, offences and maltreatment by the Jews of Israel. These and similar acts would not happen under Jordanian rule.

The Chief Rabbi of the Israeli Army, Brigadier Goren, with his escort and other Jews, on 15 August 1967, mounted to the Dome of the Rock area with Rabbinical vestments and prayer-books. They conducted a prayer lasting two hours within the confines of the Mosque of Omar area, thus infringing the inviolability of a most Holy Place venerated by Moslems. The Israeli Minister of Religion announced at another time that the Moslem Mosque was Jewish property and that sooner or later they would rebuild their Jewish temple thereon, paving the way to creating the opportunity for laying hands on and destroying the Dome of the Rock, the second holiest place after Mecca for Moslems. Buildings belonging to Islamic Waqf, an Islamic religious institution, adjacent to the Mosque area have been demolished, as stated earlier, with the idea of setting up a Jewish praying centre thereon. What has been Moslem Arab becomes Jewish and Israeli.

“In August 1967 the Israeli army confiscated the keys to one of the gates of the Al Aqsa Mosque. They opened the door to Jewish visitors, or, to be more accurate, Jewish vandalism and desecration. The Israelis made it a point, when visiting the Aqsa, not to miss the Moslem prayer and so disturb those who prayed. The Israeli authorities did not even care to reply to a protest submitted by Moslem religious authorities against such Israeli behavior. The keys to that gate are still in Israeli hands.

A girls' school building belonging to Moslem Waqf was confiscated by the Chief Rabbi and turned into the High Court of Appeals for Jewish Religious Affairs, inside the city walls. Again, those in charge of Moslem Waqf protested, but in vain, and again what is Moslem and Arab becomes Jewish and Israeli.

Following the annexation of the Arab sector of Jerusalem by Israel, the Israeli Municipality and various Israeli ministerial offices started to apply Israeli laws and regulations and instruct the Arabs of Jerusalem to observe and abide by those laws and regulations. Israeli currency, customs duties, excises and income taxes, traffic, telephone rates, municipal taxes and by-laws were imposed. Hebrew school curricula were applied for Arab schools and students. The worst of all laws applied was the one called the "Absentees Property Law." This law entitled the Israeli authorities to lay full hands on all movable and immovable properties of absentee Arabs. The so-called "Absentee Arabs" included those working in one of the Arab countries or deserting after 5 June 1967. That illegal practice swallows a great deal of Arab property in the area and is one of the means intended to be used to liquidate the Palestinians and the Palestinian case.

The Israeli Cabinet has recently taken a decision to turn a newly built Arab hospital which was to accommodate patients from Jerusalem and the neighbouring villages into an Israeli police headquarters.

The Arabs of Jerusalem were mostly dependent on the tourist trade. In the past twenty years they succeeded in establishing over fifty hotels and developed a number of tourist agencies, souvenir industries and hundreds of tourist cars and pullman buses, employing over 2,000 employees in those trades. The building industry, with all its branches, was also progressing, recruiting into it about 6,000 employees. Other trades and industries employed about 4,000. The effects of the war, the closing of Arab banks and the confiscation of their cash money, the unbearable conditions imposed by the Israeli authorities for restoring their operations, the stoppage of the flood of cash investments and deposits abroad, the continuous drop in the tourist industry and the closing down of Jerusalem Airport — all those factors have reduced Arab employment by more than 50 percent. Both Arab investors and employees are suffering heavily and the result is serious and dangerous. As a result of all the economic and political pressures, over 8,000 persons have had to leave their city — Jerusalem — and cross the Jordan River.

What is more, merchants of the city sold their goods within almost the first month after the occupation. Israeli trade regulations force them to limit new purchases to articles and goods produced and manufactured mostly in Israel. They are finding themselves dragged under the Israeli national economy umbrella and automatically bound up with the expansionist policy of Israel. Arab wealth and capital are being absorbed and are vanishing in the ocean of Israeli rules and regulations. It is because of such measures and others that the Arabs feel insecure, that their lives and property are in danger, that more signs of danger and expansion are to come and that what is Arab becomes Jewish and Israeli.

I am taking the liberty of delivering two photostatic copies of two new Israeli plans which were disclosed and distributed in Jerusalem early last March.

The first plan, marked Exhibit III, is a survey plan of the northern part of Jerusalem. In the centre of the plan there is a dark patch which represents the first area of land which the Israelis have selected for the construction of the first Israeli quarter to be established on the recently seized Arab lands.

The second plan, marked Exhibit IV, is, as you can readily discern, a town planning scheme of the site on which the first Israeli quarter will be constructed. The plan defines two roads, open spaces and building units. Those two plans have been extracted from an official Israeli pamphlet in Hebrew. I am not aware if the same document is available in Arabic or English for the benefit of the Arabs or others in the occupied territories. It is certain that the publication was originally issued in Hebrew on purpose for the benefit of the Israelis and nobody else. The document contains details of the housing project and methods of appropriating housing sites and building the housing units with long-term and low-interest loans. It is clearly stated that the price of each site is only nominal. Elsewhere in the document are examples of the application forms and advice about the possibility of completing the necessary transactions before the end of March 1968.

The lands concerned are part and parcel of Arab lands and properties in Arab Jerusalem. The Israelis seized these lands under the stress of military occupation. These lands were "seized" because the lands involved were pillaged and confiscated from their rightful and established owners as far back as 11 January 1968, in accordance with a so-called Expropriation Bill issued by the Israeli authorities. I present to you a copy of this Bill as an addition to the plans; it is marked Exhibit V.

The area of the land seized is 3,345 dunums — a dunum is equal to 1,000 square meters — and is roughly equal to 848 acres. During the Security Council meeting of 27 April 1968, the Israeli representative claimed that: "Most of the land involved in the reconstruction projects is not Arab, but Jewish-owned and public domain." He further claimed that: "The land records happen to be in Jerusalem, not in Amman." On the other hand, the Israeli authorities in Jerusalem told another story. They said: "One third of the area belongs to Jewish individuals, one third to the Jordan Government and the last third to Arab individuals and corporations."

Both Israeli claims are unfounded and certainly untrue. Official records in the Department of Land Registry in Jerusalem, identical copies of which are available in Amman and London, show beyond any doubt that Jewish organizations and individuals do not own more than 250 dunums, or less than 8 per cent of the total area seized. The Jordan Government owns less than 50 dunums and this is far less than 1 per cent, the remaining area, exceeding 3,000 dunums — or roughly 91 per cent — belongs to Arab individuals, families and companies in Jerusalem.

Israel seized these lands in order to build up a Jewish housing area; the initial project covers 600 dunums for about 2,500 housing units. It is reported that construction will be starting very soon.

The present Israeli project is obviously a part of an Israeli expansionist plan designed to build up a belt of Jewish houses, extending from the perimeter of the Jewish quarter in western Jerusalem and heading northeast through the heart of Arab lands and housing areas, with the clear purpose of setting up a fence or rather a dam to separate the Arabs of Jerusalem from their Arab brethren in adjoining villages and other Arab towns to the north of Jerusalem. This project will annul the Arab development plan, which the Arabs have been planning for a number of years.

The map showing the plan and the land expropriated is also presented, as Exhibit VI.

The Israeli project will also contain the Arabs of Jerusalem in a limited space, which will ultimately reduce their numbers and afford Israel the opportunity to bring in new immigrants and make Jews the majority of the population in Arab Jerusalem in a few years.

The constructions of the new Israeli quarter, and the other similar quarters which are intended to follow it, confirms and proves the anxiety and fears of the Arabs that Israeli leaders are planning and working for expansion, and that shows clearly and glaringly that their plea for peace, which they so frequently repeat, is nothing more than a cover for their real expansionist intentions. It is indeed, as time and events have proved, a hypocritical plea.

This Israeli project, like other projects and designs, is most oppressive. It suffocates the attempts and endeavours being made by a number of peace-loving quarters to achieve peace for the area. It in fact impedes and destroys the mission of Mr. Gunnar Jarring the representative of the United Nations.

The Israeli project further shows beyond any doubt that Israel aims at defeating any just solution, in spite of the repeated allegations of its leaders that they cooperate with Mr. Jarring and support his mission.

The Arabs of Jerusalem have raised their voices against the seizure of these lands and branded the Israeli measures as a violation of the United Nations resolutions, of international law and of the Geneva Convention. They confronted the Israeli authorities with a memorandum on 14 January 1968 protesting against this seizure and demanding its annulment. They also forwarded copies of this memorandum to the representatives of the foreign Governments residing in Jerusalem, to the Secretary-General of the United Nations and to his personal representative, Mr. Jarring. A copy of this memorandum is now being presented to you as Exhibit VII.

In addition, the proprietors of the lands concerned have made a similar protest. They totally rejected the seizure of the lands; and a copy of their protest is also presented to you as Exhibit VIII.

We consider the Israeli housing project and the Israeli insistence on carrying it out as fast as possible to be an act of extreme arrogance, calculated, as indeed it is, to disregard and show disdain for the resolutions of the United Nations and strongly infringe the rights of civilian Arab inhabitants. It is an act of aggression against the rights of a sovereign nation, Member of the United Nations.

We also see clearly in this project Israel's deliberate and determined policy to change the outlook and character of Jerusalem and consolidate Israel's territorial expansionist gains, which were brought about by aggression, as the Council is already aware.

Yesterday's military parade is another dagger directed at the core of our hearts and at the prestige of the United Nations. Every Arab in Jerusalem is threatened with being the next victim and every resident in Arab Jerusalem has but one choice: stay and live in misery and oppression, or leave.

The Arabs of Jerusalem raised their voices and protested against the parade. A copy of their protest is hereby presented to the Council as Exhibit IX. The Arab ladies of Jerusalem protested and demonstrated on 25 April 1968. Their demonstration was broken up by Israel police forces. A copy of their protest, together with a set of nine photographs showing the mistreatment by the Israeli policemen, was presented to the Council by the Permanent Representative of Jordan, Mr. El-Farra, on 1 May 1968.

Last but not least, the Israeli authorities refused to implement the Council's resolution 237 (1967), unanimously adopted on 14 June 1967, calling upon the Government of Israel to ensure the safety, welfare and security of the inhabitants of the areas where military operations have taken place and to facilitate the return of those inhabitants who have fled the areas since the outbreak of hostilities.

All the above-mentioned Israeli measures of desecration of Holy Places, of expropriation and annexation of Arab property and land, of confiscation of the so-called absentee property, of refusal to permit Arabs to go back to their houses in Jerusalem, of arresting and arbitrarily detaining thousands of Arabs, of expulsion of many dignitaries of Jerusalem against their will, of dynamiting and bulldozing Arab houses, of building new Jewish settlements within and around Jerusalem, and imposing harsh economic pressures — all these acts and measures are most oppressive; they are designed to change the identity and character of Jerusalem, to turn what is Arab into Jewish and Israeli, and to ensure that the Arab majority there becomes a minority. These unlawful Israeli procedures will continue and gain momentum as long as the Israeli occupation of our Holy City and Arab territories continues. The so-called "Land of Israel Movement" calls for the establishment of Jewish settlements, in what they call the "liberated area," as first priority. The motto of this movement is: "The land is ours if we will occupy it and build it up." That is exactly what the Israeli Government is engaging in, without saying it out loud.

The inhabitants of the Arab sector of Jerusalem and those of the West Bank resolutely proclaim their opposition to all measures which the Israeli occupation authorities have taken and which those authorities regard as constituting a fait accompli not subject to appeal or reversal, namely, the "unification" of the two sectors of the City of Jerusalem under Israeli sovereignty. They proclaim to the whole world that this annexation, sometimes camouflaged under the cloak of administrative measures, was carried out against their will and against their wishes.

We consider the Israeli acts of annexation, confiscation and Jewish settlement in Arab land as acts of extreme aggression, calculated, as indeed they are, to disregard and strongly infringe the rights of Arab civilian inhabitants.

The Arabs still have faith in the United Nations, but for how long this will continue is another question.

EXCAVATIONS UNDER AND AROUND AL AQSA MOSQUE

Since March, 1968, the Israeli authorities have engaged a Jewish archaeological team for excavations under, and around, Al Aqsa Mosque with the object of finding traces of the Jewish Temple. They introduced in the Haram Al-Sherif area large digging and earth-moving equipment and made excavations in many parts of the sacred area. They dug tunnels beneath the foundations of Al Aqsa Mosque. The Jerusalem Post Weekly of June 7, 1968, published two pages of photos of the areas excavated and a report about the findings under the headline "Uncovering of the Temple Wall's Outer Pavement."

The Jerusalem Post Weekly states:

Of the Temple itself, not a trace survived Titus' fire in 70 A.D. The only relics are Herod's retaining Walls and — or so the excavators hope — a large part of the First Century B.C. pavement surrounding it. Reaching this marble floor, also laid down by Herod, is the first major goal of the expedition at the site, headed by Prof. Binyamin Mazar. Professor Mazar's workmen are now concentrated along the 70-meter length of the southern wall and, just around the corner, at the Robinson's Arch area of the Western Wall. (Further north along the Western Wall, beyond structures tacked on at later dates, is the section known as the Wailing Wall.)

Professor Mazar told the Post this week that the stratigraphy of the site is "becoming clearer" working down from the Mameluke level in the XIII or XIV Century to the Second Temple period.

Part of the "vision for the future," Prof. Mazar said, "is to move the dig eastward, in the direction of the Ophel, to reach down to the period of the First Temple."

The New York Times of July 11, 1968, published a dispatch from Jerusalem sent by Terrence Smith, under the title, "Traces of Second Temple Found," which stated:

Professor Mazar and a small army of archaeologists and volunteers have been at work at the site since March. The Western and Southern retaining walls are all that remain of the Second Temple. The former, better known as the Wailing Wall, is regarded as Judaism's most sacred site.

Last month the team reached a pavement dating to the Herodian period, and it was at this level that the fragment was discovered. The find was made near the eastern end of the southern wall, in front of what was the double gate that served as the main entrance to the temple.

Again the New York Times of August 15, 1968, published another dispatch from the same correspondent under the title, "Israelis Press Excavation at Temple in Old City of Jerusalem," which stated:

A small army of archaeologists, volunteers and workmen were scraping away the layers of dirt that have for centuries covered the southern retaining walls of the temple. The huge wall and the adjacent one of the west, the Wailing Wall, are all that remain of the magnificent Second Temple that was destroyed by the Roman legions under Titus in A.D. 70.

By sinking sample trenches at various points near the southern wall, Professor Mazar has found evidence that there was a huge formal square in front of the temple through which visitors passed en route to the temple. The main entrance to the temple according to Josephus, was through a double gate in the center of the southern wall.

Professor Mazar hopes to expose this gate as well, but if he does, he is likely to encounter resistance from the Muslim religious authorities in Jerusalem. They have already made a protest to the United Nations over his work at the western edge of the southern wall charging that it is Moslem property.

The double gate is an even more sensitive issue, however, since it is beneath the silverdomed Al Aqsa Mosque, which is one of the most sacred mosques in Islam. Al Aqsa is situated on top of the southern wall, as is the Islamic Museum and a smaller building known as the Women's Mosque. These buildings lead into the temple mount area, where the shrine of the Dome of the Rock is situated.

ATTEMPT TO BURN AL AQSA MOSQUE IN 1969

A complaint was submitted to the United Nations Security Council on August 28, 1969, by twenty-four Muslim countries due to the attempt to burn Al Aqsa Mosque.

Ambassador Mohmamad El Farra of Jordan made a statement to the Council in which he stated:

Today, my delegation joins the 24 other members, representing 750 million adherents of the Moslem faith, which requested a meeting to consider another, more serious tragedy, namely, that of Al Aqsa Mosque, and the fire which severely damaged that historic Holy Place on the morning of 21 August 1969.

The Israeli authorities introduced more than one explanation for the start of the fire and at last charged an Australian with the arson. According to news that originated from Israeli sources, the Australian suspect is a friend of Israel who was brought by the Jewish Agency to work for Israel. The Jewish Agency arranged for this Australian to work in a Kibbutz for some months, so that he could learn the Hebrew language and acquire more of the Zionist teachings. The report published in The Jerusalem Post — an Israeli semi-official newspaper — of 25 August 1969 concerning the life of this Australian in the Kibbutz and his dreams of building Solomon's Temple casts doubt on the case and adds to the fears and worries of the Moslems about their holy shrines; it also throws light on who is the criminal and who is the accomplice.

We have not forgotten statements in the early days of the 5 June 1967 Israeli occupation about the future of Jerusalem, nor have we forgotten the report of Menahem Borsh, which was published in Yediot Aharanot of 18 August, 1969, only three days before the burning of the Mosque, emphasizing that the Temple would be built anew in the same spot that "Strangers tried to seize." The desecration of this holy Mosque by a group of the Bitar members only three days before the arson is a living example of Israeli motives and designs.

What happened on 21 August 1969 was not only a premeditated burning of a sacred monument but also an open defiance of our people's feelings and heritage and a cause of deep concern to all peace-loving States. As a result of that criminal act, tension has been escalated in our area, outrage has reached its peak, and there is a situation seriously endangering international peace and security. As I shall now show, the responsibility for the act of arson lies squarely with the Israeli occupiers, who are intoxicated by their military victory and are adamantly proceeding with their illegal plans of expansion, in complete disregard of the will of the international community.

Let us see what did and what did not happen on Thursday, 21 August 1969. In the early hours of that morning fire broke out in the Al Aqsa Mosque. Moslems praying in the Mosque and others rushed to the scene to remove some of the valuables in the Mosque and extinguish the fire. The Jordanian fire brigade in Jerusalem was called. Moslem religious leaders as well as Jordanian officials within the Israeli-occupied area came to the scene.

To the outside world news of the fire came in Arabic from Radio Israel at 8.30 a.m., that is, one hour and ten minutes after the fire started. The broadcast carried the news of the arson; it did not give any reason for the fire and did not say whether it was extinguished. Meanwhile, Jordanian fire brigades from Ramallah, and even those from Al Khalil (Hebron) and Nablus, were sent to the scene — and we all know it takes an ordinary car more than one hour to reach Jerusalem from those two cities. With the help of those brigades and the co-operation of the local population, the fire was at last extinguished and contained. According to Reuters, it took the fire brigades over five hours to extinguish the fire; this, to a certain extent, was substantiated by Israeli authorities. As stated at a press conference that same day by Teddy Kollek, the illegally appointed Mayor, and according to Radio Israel, it took them until 10.30 a.m. to extinguish the fire. We think Mr. Tekoah should have exchanged notes with his authorities, with Radio Israel and Mr. Kollek, before coming here to say that it took about one hour. We find it took them until 10.30 to extinguish the fire. Certainly Mr. Tekoah seems to disagree with the Israeli eye-witnesses who admitted that there was delay and tried to find justification for that delay. There was no doubt among the inhabitants and eye-witnesses that the arrival of the Israeli fire-brigades, in short reach of the scene, was delayed and their job was unsatisfactory.

That same afternoon the commander of the fire brigades told the journalists that the pumping of water was working swiftly and in an orderly manner at the beginning but that eight minutes later something happened — the pumping of the water was interrupted and could not work as before. This is something for every member to ponder. The commander of the fire brigades reported that it had not been indicated whether that was due to a technical mishap or to a premeditated act. It must be remembered, however, that after the Israeli occupation the water system in the city was connected to the western part so that the Israelis would be in full control of the water system. This, among other things, elicited sharp criticism and apprehension from Arab Mayor Rouhi El-Khatib and the former President of the Moslem Council, Abdul Hamid Es-Sayeh, both of whom were expelled from Jerusalem to the East Bank of Jordan.

Was Rohan, after all, acting on his own initiative? Was he not brought to Israel and sponsored by the Jewish Agency? Where did he get all the money which he offered to the guards of Al Aqsa on the morning of the fire and which the guards declined to take? According to The Times of London, of 12 September 1969: "On Rohan's way out he offered each 110 pounds sterling but they declined, Mr. Hilwani said." The Sheikh, thinking there must be something wrong, then entered into the Mosque and rushed out crying: "They have burnt the pulpit." According to the same semi-official Israeli newspaper, The Jerusalem Post of 25 August 1969, Rohan's foster-parents in the kibbutz said: "He never appeared to be short of money to us."<sup>1</sup>

After several meetings by the Security Council to discuss the complaint, it adopted on September 15, 1969, Resolution 271 (1969), which condemned the act of destruction and profanation of the Holy Al Aqsa Mosque. It states:

RESOLUTION 271 (1969) OF 15 SEPTEMBER 1969

The Security Council,

Grieved at the extensive damage caused by arson to the Holy Al Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem on 21 August 1969 under the military occupation of Israel,

Mindful of the consequent loss to human culture,

Having heard the statements made before the Council reflecting the universal outrage caused by the act of sacrilege in one of the most venerated shrines of mankind,

Recalling its resolutions 252 (1968) of 21 May 1968 and 267 (1969) of 3 July 1969 and the earlier General Assembly resolutions 2253 (ES-V) and 2254 (ES-V) of 4 and 14 July 1967, respectively, concerning measures and actions by Israel affecting the status of the City of Jerusalem,

Reaffirming the established principle that acquisition of territory by military conquest is inadmissible,

1. Reaffirms its resolution 252 (1968) and 267 (1969);

2. Recognizes that any act of destruction or profanation of the Holy Places, religious buildings and sites in Jerusalem or any encouragement of, or connivance at, any such act may seriously endanger international peace and security;

3. Determines that the execrable act of desecration and profanation of the Holy Al Aqsa Mosque emphasizes the immediate necessity of Israel's desisting from acting in violation of the aforesaid resolutions and rescinding forthwith all measures and actions taken by it designed to alter the status of Jerusalem;

4. Calls upon Israel scrupulously to observe the provisions of the Geneva Convention and international law governing military occupation and to refrain from causing any hindrance to the discharge of the established functions of the Supreme Moslem Council of Jerusalem, including any co-operation that Council may desire from countries with predominantly Moslem population and from Moslem communities in relation to its plan for the maintenance and repair of the Islamic Holy Places in Jerusalem;

5. Condemns the failure of Israel to comply with the aforementioned resolutions and calls upon it to implement forthwith the provisions of these resolutions;

6. Reiterates the determination in paragraph 7 of resolution 267 (1969) that, in the event of a negative response or no response, the Security Council shall convene without delay to consider what further action should be taken in this matter;

7. Requests the Secretary-General to follow closely the implementation of the present resolution and to report thereon to the Security Council at the earliest possible date.

Adopted at the 1512th meeting by 11 votes to none, with 4 abstentions (Colombia, Finland, Paraguay, United States of America.)

FURTHER EXCAVATIONS BENEATH AND AROUND AL AQSA MOSQUE

On 8 September, 1981, Ambassador Hazem Nuseibeh of Jordan, former Minister for Foreign Affairs, sent a letter to the Secretary General of the United Nations regarding the continued excavations, in which he stated:

Upon instructions from my Government, I wish to bring to your most urgent attention the latest Israeli occupation's deep diggings and excavations beneath the Al-Aqsa Mosque within the Al-Haram Al-Sharif holy sanctuary, the first Qibla in Islam and the third of the three holy sanctuaries. These diggings and desecrations, in deep tunnels reaching 15 metres and more below this 1300-year-old place of worship of God and a symbol of a great spiritual and historical legacy, have been a prime target of the Israeli occupation authorities' relentless and reprehensible efforts since the occupation of Arab Jerusalem in 1967 fundamentally to alter the landmarks, legacy and history of a large segment of mankind. Hundreds of millions of adherents to the Islamic faith look to Jerusalem and the monumental Al Aqsa sanctuary as its focal point and its centre-piece. The collapse of this holy sanctuary would be nothing less than a cultural, political and spiritual genocide against this legacy and its innermost and immortal soul.

So serious are these Israeli transgressions against hundreds of millions of adherents of the Islamic faith that they pose a real and inevitable threat to world peace and security.

The latest clandestine Israeli desecrations have reached a stage where the Al Aqsa Mosque is presently in danger of total collapse. The religious Islamic institutions in the occupied territories have condemned these most serious underground Israeli excavations and the claims of finds announced on 25 August 1981. The Mufti of Jerusalem, Sheikh Sa'ddudin Al-Alami, has described these dangerous diggings as blatant desecrations of the Al Aqsa Mosque.

The heads of all the Islamic Waqf (charitable) foundations have described these persistent desecrations of the holiest Islamic site as a part of the Zionist effort to seize the holy sanctuary.

The Jordan Mission finds itself duty-bound to alert the community of nations to the fact that a destruction or collapse of the 1350-year-old Al-Aqsa Mosque would not only constitute a crime against humanity and the historic landmarks whose preservation has been entrusted to UNESCO; it would also most certainly bring in its wake a serious threat to world peace and security.

The Government of Jordan reserves the right to submit this aggression before the Security Council unless the Israeli occupation authorities stop forthwith these acts of desecration before irreversible damage is perpetrated.

I request that this letter and the attached documents be circulated as an official document (S/14684) of the General Assembly and of the Security Council.

(Signed) Hazem Nuseibeh, Permanent Representative of Jordan to the United Nations."

ANNEX 1

Communications from Mr. Marwan Kasim, Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan on Israeli occupation authorities; incessant diggings and desecration beneath and around the holy sanctuary of the Al-Aqsa Mosque and the Dome of the Rock.

Since the Zionist occupation of the Arab lands in 1967, the city of Jerusalem has been subjected to an horrendous Zionist plan designed to Judaize the city and to obliterate its Arab and Islamic quarters. This awesome plan has entered a new phase whereby Israeli occupation authorities have intensified their diggings in the vicinity as well as beneath the Al-Aqsa Mosque, the Dome of the Rock and the areas and open spaces contiguous to the holy sanctuary with a view to dismantling and eventually wrecking the holy structures built upon them with the avowed aim of enabling Israel to build what it calls Solomon's Temple on their ruins.

In view of the utmost gravity and seriousness of this Israeli plan and because it poses a fundamental challenge to the entire Arab world and the Islamic World, the Government of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan finds itself duty-bound to present the following:

A. ISRAELI ATTEMPTS TO DESTROY THE AL-AQSA MOSQUE AND THE DOME OF THE ROCK

The Israeli attempts to wreck the Al-Aqsa Mosque and the holy Dome of the Rock have passed through several stages, the most important of which are as follows:

1. On 21 August 1969, the occupation authorities were involved in an attempt to burn down the Al-Aqsa Mosque. That act of arson destroyed the historic Salahuddin pulpit and sizable parts of the Mosque. The fire caused serious cracks in a number of the Mosques' pillars which resulted, in turn, in the collapse of a portion of the ceiling. The Arab inhabitants of Jerusalem confronted this abominable act of arson without assistance from occupation authorities by transporting water buckets by hand until they succeeded in extinguishing the fire.

2. Early in 1980, an attempt was made to blow up the Al-Aqsa Mosque by explosives in a conspiracy plan for execution by Rabbi Meir Kahane. The explosives were discovered minutes before detonation at a distance of 50 metres from the Mosque.

3. Jewish religious fanatics have repeatedly attempted to conduct prayers within spacious areas of the Al-Aqsa Mosque, similar to what they had done within the Ibrahimiyah holy sanctuary at Hebron. The Jewish extremists, furthermore, attempted on 9 August 1981 to enter the holy sanctuary in big numbers and on several occasions and from various gates leading to Al-Aqsa holy sanctuary to conduct prayers therein. They broke the Magharbah Gate, the Iron Gate and the ascended to the Tankinazia building in which the occupation authorities are garrisoned and which overlooks the open spaces of the Mosque. But the Moslem worshippers confronted those transgressors and repelled their intrusions.

4. Many Israeli diggings were made in the vicinity, as well as under the foundations of the Al-Aqsa Mosque and the holy Dome of the Rock.

B. CHRONOLOGY OF THE MOST IMPORTANT OCCUPATION ATTEMPTS

First Phase: Towards the end of 1967 and the beginning of 1968, extensive diggings were carried out on an area of 70 square meters under the southern wall of the Al-Aqsa Mosque.

Second Phase: In 1969, the diggings exceeded an area of 80 square metres adjacent to the wall of the Al-Aqsa Mosque. These ongoing diggings caused a serious undermining of the foundations of the adjacent building. Subsequently, the entire Magharbah quarter was demolished.

Third Phase: The diggings carried out in 1970 resulted in serious cracks in the foundations of the Ottoman Mosque (Ribat Al-Kurd), and the Jawhiriya School.

Fourth Phase: Israeli diggings between 1972 and 1974 behind the wall of the Al-Aqsa Mosque and extending across the southern wall of the Mosque and under the Mihrab pulpit and beneath the Mosque of Omar.

Fifth Phase: The diggings in the middle of the eastern side of the wall near the Golden Gate, where those diggings inflicted extensive damage upon an ancient Islamic cemetery near the site.

Sixth Phase: An expansion of the area of the Wailing Wall designed to destroy all the buildings in the area surrounding the Wailing Wall. An Israeli Ministerial Committee endorsed in 1977 the implementation of this plan, which includes the demolition of several Islamic historic buildings, including the Old Islamic Shari's Court, the Tankinazia School, the Khalidiya Library, a charitable Zawiya (corner) and the Abu-Midian ancient Mosque.

Seventh phase: The most ominous and menacing of these continuous diggings perpetrated by the Israeli occupation authorities started when the occupation authorities declared on 27 August 1981 that they had discovered a tunnel beneath the Wailing Wall and the holy Dome of the Rock which extends between both, as well as beneath the foundations of the Al-Aqsa Mosque. The occupation authorities alleged that this tunnel had been discovered a month before the discovery was announced. But that the announcement had been withheld and kept secret after informing the two Chief Rabbis of Israel as well as the Minister of Religious Affairs and the Defence Minister.

The Israeli officials visited the area and requested that the matter remained shrouded in secrecy. However, the news reached the world media which compelled the Ministry of Education to stop the diggings and to close the tunnel in order to avoid far-reaching Islamic reactions.

However, the diggings did not in fact stop and were resumed when the Israeli Supreme Court issued a decision on 4 September which revoked the decision of the Minister of Education and permitted a resumption and completion of the diggings, which were resumed on 6 September.

C. THE ARAB INHABITANTS' RESISTANCE TO THESE ISRAELI DIGGINGS

The Government and people of Jordan have reacted to news of these Israeli transgressions with anger and consternation. This Jordanian reaction is based upon the following facts:

1. The tunnel which the occupation authorities claimed to have discovered is a purely Islamic legacy, as proved by reports of archaeologists for over 100 years, and is located on the map which was prepared by Colonel Warren towards the end of the nineteenth century around 1880. It is part and parcel of the canals which were constructed during the past 1400 years. The tunnel which the Israelis claimed to have discovered had been closed for decades. The mere tampering and opening of this tunnel should be viewed as an aggression against the Islamic holy places and a danger to the expansive spaces and the structures of the Al Aqsa Mosque and the Dome of the Rock built upon them. It should be stressed that the latest Israeli diggings have resulted in serious cracks in the middle of the western wing of the Mosque.

2. The continuance of Israeli diggings beneath, as well as adjacent to the Al Aqsa Mosque is a flagrant violation of Security Council as well as General Assembly resolutions which have called upon Israel to refrain from pursuing these acts of desecration. By continuing these acts of diggings, Israel is not only violating international law, but is also assailing fundamental religious beliefs, principles and ethical values. Israel's dastardly acts will have far-reaching Islamic dimension and are a crime against civilization.

3. Jordan firmly believes that the Israeli conspiracy to destroy the Al Aqsa Mosque and the Dome of the Rock is still continuing, notwithstanding the varying statements of Israeli officials concerning the existing excavations. The incontrovertible truth is that all those Israeli leaders are in agreement on the Judaization of the Holy City, the destruction of the Al-Aqsa Mosque and the exploitation of blind religious bigotry to serve the Israeli political objectives and to impose a new fait accompli.

ISRAELI EXCAVATIONS THREATEN THE AL AQSA MOSQUE AND THE DOME OF THE ROCK AT JERUSALEM

1. Newspapers, broadcasts and reports from Jerusalem indicated that the Israeli excavations around the holy Al Aqsa Mosque and the Dome of the Rock were continuing and that they threaten to cause cracks and bring down both temples.

2. The Jerusalem Post, in its 4406th edition of 22 August 1981, reported that archaeological teams belonging to the Israeli military occupation authorities were carrying out excavations under the southern walls of the sacred shrine, allegedly aimed at discovering the tombs of the kings of Israel; a picture is enclosed.

3. The Israeli military occupation radio reported on the morning of Thursday, 27 August 1981, that the two Chief Rabbis in occupied Palestine had visited a tunnel discovered recently under the Wailing Wall — i.e., the Holy Bozak — leading to a sensitive area — i.e., the Sacred Shrine. The next morning, on 28 August, the enemy radio announced that the Islamic Organization at Jerusalem had asked the occupation authorities to allow its engineers to explore the site of the tunnel, and to undertake the necessary measures in the light of their discovery. The broadcast further said that the tunnel was no more than an old well and that it had been discovered well over a month earlier.

4. The Jerusalem Post reported in its edition of 28 August details of the tunnel excavations carried out a month earlier by a task force belonging to the Israeli Ministry of Religions. The report added that the excavations had begun a century ago, and that a room had been built there for a synagogue. The report further said that the excavations extended for some distance under the Sacred Shrine, and that they were meant to reach the Dome of the Rock. In view of the importance of this report, I enclose a photograph thereof.

5. The construction engineer of the Holy Al-Aqsa Mosque, Essam Awaad, released a later report concerning the digging of the tunnel. The report revealed that the excavations started down below the western wall of the sacred shrine in the place known as Matthara, between Selselah and Kattantin gates, and extended 25 metres east at a depth of 6 metres, reaching a place in front of Kaitbai fountain facing the western part of the Dome of the Rock. I enclose herewith a copy of this report.

6. These excavations, it has been noted, surround the sacred shrine and the Al Aqsa Mosque from the south and the Dome of the Rock from the west. These excavations are an extension of their counterparts and of the incessant encroachment on Islamic cultural buildings adjacent to the western and southern walls of the sacred shrine, as well as the Holy Al-Aqsa Mosque and the Dome of the Rock, as shown by the enclosed map.

7. Regardless of the dispute between the religious communities and the Israeli military governors on the site of the first excavations, and their allegations that they are the burial places of the ancient kings of Israel, and regardless of their claim that the tunnel they had discovered in the second place was no more than an old well, the Israeli excavations in the said area constitute a flagrant violation of the sanctity of the holy Islamic sites, and persistently threaten to bring them down, thus paving the way for their demolition and the setting up of a shrine for Judaism in their stead and in the courtyards of the sacred shrine thereof.

8. These excavations constitute a challenge to the Arab and Islamic worlds, and constitute constant violations of The Hague and Geneva Conventions as well as the resolutions of UNESCO, the Security Council and the entire United Nations, and hence deserve attention and action on all levels.

REPORT ON THE TUNNEL BENEATH THE GROUND OF AL-HARAM AL-SHAREEF

Introduction

Since the Israeli occupation of Jerusalem in 1967 the religious authority has started the digging of a tunnel parallel to the western wall of the Holy Mosque in an effort to uncover the lower foundations of the wall, as part of a broader scheme aimed at discovering the relics of the Temple. This led, at the time, to serious cracks in the historic Islamic buildings adjacent to the western wall of the Holy Mosque, namely the Ottoman School, the Jawhariya School and the Ribat Al-Kurd.

In spite of the opposition and the protests of local and international bodies, tunnel-digging operations continued. The latest information available to the office of its resident engineer indicates that the tunnel currently stretches between the courtyard outside the Bozak wall and a point below the Wagf Department and the gate of the Council.

Location of new tunnel

The tunnel, which the rabbi of the Wailing Wall claims has been discovered recently, lies beneath the area south of the Matthari and stretches to the east just below the Kaitbai fountain. It is six metres wide and 25 metres long.

The fact is untrue that the tunnel has been discovered recently. It exists actually in the map of the area drawn up by Colonel Warren late in the nineteenth century, around the year 1880. It is also untrue that the stones were removed and the tunnel discovered in the attempt to investigate the cause of water leakage. In fact the tunnel-digging, which takes a southern-northern direction parallel to the western wall, has led to the discovery of a closed Islamic door shaped as a vault in the same western wall of the "Temple Mount," at the level of the tunnel.

It may be true that the decision to open the door and gain access to the area under the "Temple Mount" was taken a month earlier.

This tunnel was closed in earlier times and turned into a well. There are three screws atop the well, one of which was closed 20 years ago; the second is the one on which the Kaitbai well was erected, and the third lies in the courtyard in front of the fountain.

On the morning of Saturday, 29 August 1981, the screw located in front of the fountain was unsealed, and wooden planks were discovered while the opening were blocked with reinforced concrete.

THE ATTACK ON AL AQSA MOSQUE IN 1981

The United Nations Security Council was convened in April, 1981, to discuss the new attack and desecration by Zionists of the Holy Al Aqsa Mosque. Dr. Hazem Nuseibeh, the Ambassador of the Kingdom of Jordan, described the said attack in his statement to the Council in its meeting of April 13, 1982 (S/pv.2352) as follows:

On Sunday, 11 April, at 9.20 a.m., a gang of armed Israeli troops directed heavy fire from various directions at the Al Aqsa Mosque, the first Kiblah in Islam and the third holiest shrine, and the magnificent Dome of the Rock from which the prophet Muhammed — upon whom be peace — made his nocturnal and spiritual ascension to heaven. This great monument had been painstakingly constructed by artisans to the glory of God over many, many centuries, 14 in all.

That Israeli carnage was carried out to give cover to an Israeli soldier — or is he an American? He is in fact both — by the name of Alan Harry Goodman, who was on a murderous journey of death and desecration. He killed in cold blood a 65-year old unarmed Arab guard at the Magharba — Moroccan Gate — evidently unchallenged by the armed Israeli trooper who sits there. He murdered in cold blood two other unarmed guardians and seriously wounded a third at the entrance to the Dome of the Rock Mosque; and, having forced his entry into the Dome of the Rock, opened up his fire-arms at the worshippers in every direction, for a duration of half an hour. Eyewitnesses at the scene reported that he had a large stock of ammunition on his shoulders, to murder the maximum number of devout worshippers and civilians in the vicinity. Having murdered nine and wounded 40 others in the Mosque, this Israeli-American criminal directed his fire at the Al-Manbar — pulpit — the chandeliers, the mosaic, the marble and the carpets, some of which caught fire. The casualties in that premeditated and well-planned assault totalled at least 100 inside and outside the holy Mosque.

Fearful that the highly provoked victims would capture that gutter terrorist, his accomplices — the Israeli so-called anti-riot troops — imposed a total curfew on that historic and ancient City, demolished a part of one of the walls of the holy sanctuary, stormed the Dome of the Rock and ensured the safety of the criminal by firing at the crowd, and then whisked him away to safety in a closed military van.

The Israeli racist, exclusive and bloodthirsty ends and objectives are the following:

The first is to complete the incarceration, strangulation and expulsion of the lawful Palestinian owners of Palestine.

Secondly, there is a determination by a racist Zionist entity and ideology to tolerate no faith or existence other than its own implanted one. They are determined to destroy every Islamic vestige or legacy in the Holy Land, the eternal symbol of which is the holy sanctuary comprising Al Aqsa Mosque and the noble Dome of the Rock. On their list of targets, of course, are Christian holy sites which they have frequently vandalized during the occupation.

The Islamic Council in Jerusalem, which has called a seven-day general strike throughout the occupied territories, denounced a statement issued Sunday by the office of Prime Minister Menachem Begin which described the Israeli soldier as mentally ill. The criminal, Alan Harry Goodman, formerly of Baltimore, was inducted into the army last month for the brief service customary for immigrants. Of course, he has dual nationality.

The Higher Islamic Council said it was absurd of the Prime Minister's office to describe the assailant as deranged, because soldiers were supposed to undergo physical examinations. Moreover, the Higher Islamic Council added, the assailant was not alone. It asserted that he had been covered during his attack by fire from many directions. How else could he have continued his shooting spree within the Dome of the Rock for half an hour until he had expended all his bullets?

The Zionist designs against the Islamic Holy Sanctuary are long and infamous. A chronological survey of these activities includes the following:

First, continuous and sustained deep digging under the Al Aqsa Mosque and the Holy Sanctuary as a whole — structures which are 14 centuries old — began immediately after the Zionist occupation of the Holy City, in addition to the demolition of hundreds of buildings in the area adjacent to it. These deep diggings have reached such depths that entire structures are threatened with collapse. The diggings are still continuing.

Secondly, on 21 August 1969 the Zionists carried out a plot of arson to set the entire Al Aqsa Mosque on fire. The fire resulted in the total destruction of an 800-year-old magnificent Salahaddin pulpit, hand-made over seven years by highly-skilled artisans in Aleppo, and other sizable sections of the Mosque. The arsonist, Michael Rohan, a Zionist Australian, was declared deranged — not unlike the person in question today — and sent to Australia.

Thirdly, on 9 May 1980, 120 kilos of high explosives, scores of bombs, wires and other explosive contraptions were accidentally discovered a mere few minutes away from the time of detonation on the roof of a Jewish school in the Old City, 150 yards away from the target. The Gush Emunim terrorist movement was behind the plan, which aimed at blowing up the Al Aqsa Mosque and other historical buildings. The day was a Friday and tens of thousands of worshippers might have been killed or maimed if that arsenal of explosives had not been accidentally discovered two minutes before the explosion.

Fourthly, repeated attempts have been made by Israeli groups to force their way into the mosques of the holy sanctuary, leading to numerous clashes.

Fifthly, last year the Israeli Gush Emunim started digging a tunnel leading to the Dome of the Rock. The attempt was discovered and foiled by the civilian inhabitants.

Sixthly, last Thursday, 7 April 1982 — that is, three days before the Easter Sunday Massacre — explosive charges placed by the same Zionist terrorist gangs were discovered at the entrance to the Al Aqsa mosque and dismantled. Beside the charges were pamphlets threatening to blow up the Al Aqsa Mosque and physically liquidate the religious dignitaries. The threats were written in broken Arabic and issued from the Kiryat Arba illegal settlement overlooking the City of Al-Khalil (Hebron).

“More revealing about the character and orientation of the culprits are a few sentences which appeared in an article dated 11 April 1982 from Jerusalem, reporting on the events, an article by New York Times correspondent David Shipler. He said, referring to the Israeli troops, that

“Just before going, one of them, with a laugh, threw a tear gas grenade near the (Al Aqsa) Mosque, upwind of the main door. Smoke from the perfectly placed canister blew into the mosque, and worshippers came out coughing and wiping their eyes. One elderly man was carried to an ambulance. A few of the troops walked away laughing.” (The New York Times, 12 April 1982, p. 12).

If the spot is as sacred to those troops as they claim it is, it is truly incongruous that the soldiers would have behaved with that bellicose and nauseating meanness which truly reveals what lies deep in their sick hearts. It is not a lone deranged soldier: it is a deranged society, the more dangerous as it is being armed to the teeth by its strategic ally and mainstay, the United States.

But as in all encounters throughout history, the Spirit is always more formidable than the machine, for the machine is but an invention of the spirit and of man. The attempt to deprive 1 billion Moslems, close to a quarter of humanity, of one of their most cherished spiritual anchors will not remain unanswered.

NEW AGGRESSION AGAINST AL AQSA MOSQUE IN 1986

On January 9, 1986, Mr. Abdullah Salah, Ambassador of Jordan and former Minister of Foreign Affairs, sent a letter to the United Nations General Assembly and Security Council (A/41/82,S/17727) reporting new desecrations of the Al Aqsa Mosque. He stated:

On instructions from my Government, I have the honor to bring to your attention the blatant desecration of the Al-Aqsa Mosque in the occupied Arab city of Al-Quds committed by some 20 members of the Israeli Knesset on 8 January 1986 while the faithful were engaged in the midday prayer. The members of the Knesset, who belong to the Internal Affairs Committee of the Israeli Parliament, entered the place of prayer there for adherents of the Jewish religion. Immediately upon entering the mosque, the Israeli parliamentarians encountered members of the faithful, who drove them out. The intruders then called the Israeli police. Before long a large number of police officers, led by the commander of the Southern Unit and the Al-Quds Chief of Police, arrived on the scene, entering the mosque with great show, provoking and outraging the faithful and offending the sentiments of the believers by flouting the inviolability of that holy place of Islam. In addition, the Israeli police attacked Muslims who were present and the civilian guards of the mosque, who were shocked by this humiliating treatment. It should be pointed out that this is not the first time that the Al-Aqsa Mosque has been the target of desecration and violation by Israeli extremists. This despicable attack and irresponsible behaviour on the part of members of the Israeli legislature has aroused the indignation, repulsion and anger of the inhabitants of Al-Quds, the West Bank and the entire Muslim world. Sheikh Saad Eddine El-Ilmi, President of the Higher Islamic Council, has sent a telegram of protest to the Israeli leaders demanding the withdrawal of their occupation troops which have, since yesterday, been blocking the entrance to the mosque.

This act of aggression committed by members of the Israeli Knesset, including Julia Cohen, who has openly advocated the expulsion of Arabs from Al-Quds and the West Bank, constitutes a violation and a desecration of the holy places of Islam and a challenge to hundreds of millions of Moslems, for whom the Al-Aqsa Mosque is the place towards which all the faithful turn at the beginning of their prayers and the third most holy place of Islam. This act of aggression is part and parcel of an Israeli plan directed against Muslim and Christian sacred monuments in Al-Quds and the occupied Arab territories.

Jordan, which condemns and strongly denounces such acts, is deeply concerned at their consequences, which can only be detrimental to the cause of peace and stability in the region. Moreover, such an act runs counter to the international rules and principles governing foreign occupation, which forbid an occupying State to interfere with the private and public life of the civilian inhabitants living under its occupation and prohibit infringements of the freedom of worship and the violation of holy places.

I should be grateful if you would arrange for the text of this letter to be circulated as a document of the General Assembly, under the items entitled "The Situation in the Middle East" and "Report of the Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Territories," and of the Security Council.

(Signed) Abdullah Salah, *Ambassador,
Permanent Representative.*

The Delegations of Muslim States in the United States submitted a complaint to the United Nations Security Council about these Israeli desecrations of Muslim Holy Places. While the Security Council was discussing this complaint, Zionist fanatic groups again committed acts of desecration of Al Aqsa Mosque. The representative of Jordan sent a letter to the Security Council on the 20th of January, 1986 reporting these new desecrations (Document S/17749). He stated:

Further to my letter of 9 January, 1986, and on instructions from my Government, I have the honour to inform you of the following:

Yesterday morning, Sunday, 19th January 1986, as part of the series of incessant acts of aggression directed against the Haram al-Sharif in Jerusalem by fanatical Jewish groups encouraged and sponsored by the Israeli authorities, a group of the Kach terrorist gang, which is led by Rabbi Meir Kahane, intruded into the Haram al-Sharif. This group, which included a number of Rabbis, held a provocative, racist demonstration from which were emitted shouts threatening the Arabs with death or expulsion and with seizure of the holy Al Aqsa Mosque. Given this situation, Arab citizens resisted the intruders and prevented them from achieving their goal, while members of the gang gathered at the Bab al-Magharibah under the protection of occupation troops, who, in turn, arrested a number of Arab citizens in the Holy City.

This attempt was preceded by yet another Israeli attempt to desecrate the holy Ibrahim Mosque in the city of Hebron on Friday, 17 January 1986, when a group of Israeli settlers invaded the mosque during the Friday sermon and prayer service. This prompted the Muslim worshippers to resist those settlers and to prevent them from desecrating the holy mosque. Clashes took place between Muslim worshippers, on the one hand, and Israeli settlers and occupation forces on the other.

The latest attempt to desecrate the Haram al-Sharif, coming after repeated attempts since 1968 to enter the Al Aqsa Mosque and hold prayers there, the blatant statements made by Israeli leaders (including statements by the Prime Minister of Israel in which he has said that all of Palestine is Israeli territory, including the Haram al-Sharif), as well as the intrusion of the Internal Affairs Committee of the Israeli Knesset into the Haram al-Sharif and the attempt made by Sharon on the following day to enter the precinct of the sanctuary, all confirm Israeli ambitions with respect to the Islamic Holy Places.

I request you to have this letter circulated as an official document of the General Assembly, under the items entitled "The Situation in the Middle East" and "Report of the Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Territories", and of the Security Council."

(Signed) Farouk A. Kasrawi, Charge d'affaires a.i.

On January 21, 1986 the Acting Representative of Jordan, Mr. Farouk Kasrawi, made a statement in the Security Council (Meeting S/PV2644) in which he summed up these Israeli acts of aggression against Muslim holy places as follows:

On Wednesday, 8 January 1986, a number of members of the Israeli Knesset, accompanied by a group of Israeli extremists, entered Al-Haram Al-Sharif with the aim of paving the way for the imposition of Israeli control over it and the establishment there of a place for prayer for adherents of the Jewish religion. Al-Haram Al-Sharif is the First Kiblah and the third holiest shrine, one of the most sacred places of worship of Islam. That provocative attempt aroused the wrath of the Moslem worshippers, who prevented the Israeli group from pursuing its attempt.

The very composition of the Israeli group was grounds for suspicion and mistrust on the part of the Moslems. Among the participants were Gershon Solomon and a number of his followers. He heads an extremist Jewish religious movement that systematically attempts to violate the sanctity of the Al-Aqsa Mosque and the Dome of the Rock and calls for the performance of Jewish prayers and religious rites therein. Moreover, Geula Cohen, the Israeli Knesset member, participated in that action. She is notorious for her hostility towards the Arabs and her resistance to prospects of peace with them. Another participant was Yuval Neeman, known for his great enthusiasm about the settlement of occupied Arab territories and their annexation to Israel. The premeditated nature of that provocation is evident because there was another such action on 14 January, when 16 members of the Knesset violated the sanctity of Al-Haram Al-Sharif and some of them immediately started praying therein, disregarding Moslem worshippers, who tried to stop them from pursuing their attempt. This led to the entry of about 600 Israeli policemen into the courtyard of Al-Haram, where they arrested about 19 Moslem worshippers.

The objective of the Israeli group was evidenced by their actions and statements which were cited by press agencies. The following is but a partial list:

First, the extremist members of the Knesset who violated the sanctity of the Mosque on 14 January called for "termination of Moslem control" over the Al-Haram area; secondly, Shelanski, a member of the Israeli Knesset, who led the attempt to storm Al-Haram, said, "Israel must put an end to the autonomous Moslem administration of the Al-Haram area"; thirdly, some members of the Israeli Knesset attempted to pray in the courtyard of the Al-Haram Al-Sharif Mosque immediately upon entering, on 14 January, thus contravening the existing situation and the arrangements relevant to the status of the Holy Places and worship therein.

That provocative action was repeated on Sunday, 19 January, when an Israeli group belonging to the "Kach" terrorist gang led by Meir Kahane attempted to storm Al-Haram Al-Sharif Mosque. That group, which included a number of rabbis, organized a provocative and racist demonstration in which they threatened to expel or murder Arabs and to take over the holy Al Aqsa Mosque.

There was another attempt to desecrate the Ibrahim sanctuary in Al-Khalil on Friday, 17 January, when a group of Israeli settlers stormed the mosque during the sermon at the Friday noon prayer service. That led to clashes and confrontation between the Moslem worshippers, on the one hand, and the Israeli settlers and forces of occupation, on the other.

The Al-Haram Al-Sharif Mosque has been the target of numerous acts of aggression, violation and desecration under Israeli occupation. In order fully to appreciate what is happening, let us look at the record.

First, the attempt on 21 August 1969 by one Michael Rohan to burn down the Al-Aqsa Mosque, leading to the destruction of the Saladdin pulpit, a rare Islamic artifact and to devastation of other parts of the holy Mosque. On that occasion the Security Council adopted resolution 271 (1969) of 15 September 1969, which emphasized that any act of desecration or profanation of the Holy Places, religious buildings and sites in Jerusalem or any encouragement of, or connivance at, any such act might seriously endanger international peace and security.

Second, the Israeli excavations, which started at the end of 1967 around and beneath the Al-Aqsa Mosque to the west and south and which jeopardized the structural integrity of the Mosque.

Third, the act of aggression committed against the Mosque and Moslem worshippers on 11 April, 1982 when an Israeli soldier, Alan Goodman, fired indiscriminately into worshippers in the Mosque, taking the lives of worshippers, one of them a 60-year-old man, and wounding a number of others.

Fifth, a number of attempts made by Israeli settlers and extremists to storm the Mosque. This inevitably led to clashes with the Moslem worshippers praying inside.

The recent attempts to defile the sanctity of the Al-Haram Al-Sharif Mosque, which this time was implemented publicly and provocatively by a number of members of the Israeli Knesset, cannot be viewed in isolation from the aforementioned acts of aggression. Nor can these acts be justified by any of the pretexts cited — ascribing them to mentally unbalanced individuals, or categorizing them as spontaneous acts or mere routine occurrences. Rather, their repetition shows that under Israeli occupation the Al-Haram Al-Sharif Mosque has become the target of violation and desecration. This runs counter to the principle of religious tolerance and jeopardizes the very norms and foundations which have allowed the integrity of the Holy Places to be preserved for centuries.

These actions also contravene the norms and principles of international conduct relevant to alien occupation which prohibit the occupying Power from carrying out any interference in the normal and public life of the civilian population under occupation or committing acts of aggression against or interfering with freedom of worship in the Holy Places. Hence the Israeli occupation authorities have assumed full responsibility for what is happening.

On the 30th day of January, 1986 the Security Council voted on Resolution Number S/17769/Rev.1 in which it condemned these acts of aggression. The Resolution states:

The Security Council.

Taking note of the letter (S/17740) from the Permanent Representative of Morocco to the United Nations, current Chairman of the Organization of the Islamic Conference, and the letter (S/17741) from the Permanent Representative of the United Arab Emirates to the United Nations, current Chairman of the Arab Group, both addressed on 16 January 1986 to the President of the Security Council,

Reaffirming that the Geneva Convention relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949, is applicable to the Arab territories occupied by Israel since 1967, including Jerusalem,

Bearing in mind the specific status of Jerusalem and, in particular, the need to protect and preserve the unique spiritual and religious dimensions of the Holy Places in the City,

Recalling and reaffirming its resolutions relevant to the status and character of the Holy City of Jerusalem, in particular resolutions 252 (1968) of 21 May 1968, 267 (1969) of 3 July and 271 (1969) of 15 September 1969, 298 (1971) of 25 September 1971, the consensus statement made by the President of the Security Council on 11 November, 1976, resolutions 465 (1980) of 30 June 1980 and 478 (1980) of 20 August 1980,

Strongly deploring the continued refusal of Israel, the occupying Power, to comply with the relevant resolutions of the Security Council,

Deeply concerned at the provocative acts by Israelis, including members of the Knesset, which have violated the sanctity of the sanctuary of the Haram Al-Sharif in Jerusalem,

1. Strongly deplores the provocative acts which have violated the sanctity of the sanctuary of the Haram Al-Sharif in Jerusalem;

2. Affirms that such acts constitute a serious obstruction to achieving a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East, the failure of which could also endanger international peace and security;

3. Determines once more that all measures taken by Israel to change the physical character, demographic composition, institutional structure or status of the Palestinian and other Arab territories occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem, or any part thereof, have no legal validity and that the policy and practices of Israel of settling parts of its population and new immigrants in those territories constitute a flagrant violation of the Geneva Convention relative to the Protection of Civilian persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949, and also constitute a serious obstruction to achieving a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East;

4. Reiterates that all legislative and administrative measures and actions taken by Israel, the occupying Power, which have altered or purport to alter the character and status of the Holy City of Jerusalem and in particular the "basic law" on Jerusalem are null and void and must be rescinded forthwith;

5. Calls upon Israel, the occupying Power, to observe scrupulously the norms of international law governing military occupation, in particular the provisions of the Fourth Geneva Convention, and to prevent any hindrance to the discharge of the established functions of the Supreme Islamic Council in Jerusalem, including any co-operation that the Council may desire from countries with predominantly Muslim populations and from Muslim communities in relation to its plans for the maintenance and repair of the Islamic Holy Places;

6. Urgently calls on Israel, the occupying Power, to implement forthwith the provisions of this resolution and the relevant Security Council resolutions;

7. Requests the Secretary-General to report to the Security-Council on the implementation of the present resolution before 1 May 1986.

This Resolution was supported by 14 Members of the Security Council, but was vetoed by the United States of America and therefore was not adopted.

NEW AGGRESSION AGAINST MUSLIM HOLY PLACES

On June 24, 1986, Mr. Abdullah Salah, Ambassador of Jordan and former Minister for Foreign Affairs, sent a letter to the United Nations General Assembly and Security Council (Z/41/426,S/18177) reporting violations and acts of aggression against Muslim religious places in the Hebron area. He stated:

I have the honour to transmit herewith information concerning the attacks and violations committed by the Israeli occupation authorities against the area of Tel Al-Ramida and its mosque in the occupied town of Al-Khalil, which acts are part of a series of operations directed against holy places in the occupied Arab territories in violation of the rules of international law governing foreign occupation and in disregard of human rights, freedom of religion and the principle of the inviolability of places of worship.

It hardly needs emphasizing what damage these perfidious violations do to the general situation in the occupied Arab territories and the peace efforts which the international community and the forces of good have unceasingly made to bring about a just, comprehensive and lasting settlement of the Middle East problem and to put an end to the Israeli occupation and the daily sufferings which it causes to the inhabitants of the occupied territories.

I should be grateful if you would arrange for the text of this letter and its annex to be circulated as an official document of the General Assembly, under items 37 and 73 of the preliminary list, and of the Security Council.

(Signed) Abdullah Salah, *Ambassador,
Permanent Representative*

ANNEX

Report on the violations and acts of aggression committed by the occupation authorities against the Al-Arbain mosque in the Tel Al-Ramida area in Al-Khalil

The Muslim authorities possess, under an endowment (waqf), a plot of land situated in the Tel Al-Ramida area in Al-Khalil, some 100 metres from the Jewish cemetery of the settlement established in the area; the rights of the Muslim authorities to this plot of land are guaranteed by a deed issued by the Land Registry Office of Al-Khalil (file No. 158/8/1935, p.26). The plot measures 741 square meters and is situated at Magam Al-Arbain. The plot contains a sacred archaeological monument and an ancient mosque.

The occupation authorities and the settlers have treated this mosque in the same way that they have treated the sanctuary of Abraham:

1. On 21 December 1976, a group of Jews constructed a pathway on the plot leading to the above-mentioned structure;

2. On 21 December 1976, a group of Jews carried out an archaeological dig near the mihrab of the mosque;

3. On 12 January 1977, the Military Governor forbade workers from making repairs to the mosque;

4. On 11 May 1977, workers attempting to make repairs to the Magam Al-Arbain mosque were prevented from doing so by an Israeli officer;

5. On 12 May 1977, when the above-mentioned workers were attempting to make the repairs, the adviser of the Military Governor of Al-Khalil summoned the Keeper of the Waqf and asked him to stop the repair work; however, the latter demanded a written order or a judgement from a competent court. In addition, he requested an interview with the Military Governor of Al-Khalil in order to discuss the matter with him. However, the Military Governor refused to see him and suggested that he should meet with the military officer responsible for the area. When the latter was contacted, he did nothing to correct the situation;

6. On 17 May 1977, a group of Jewish settlers accompanied by one Rabbi Yousseb Roufail arrived at the site and wrote "Holy Place", "Tomb of King David, son of Bechar" on the two doors of the Mosque. On 18 May, a number of soldiers went to the mosque and attempted to occupy it. When the caretaker of the mosque refused to give them the keys, they attacked the mosque and threw stones at its windows;

7. During the afternoon of Thursday, 29 May 1977, the Office of the Military Governor informed the Keeper of the Waqf that the Military Governor wished to meet him at the mosque to discuss an important matter; upon arriving at the mosque, the Keeper found the Vice-Governor accompanied by a dozen or so soldiers. The Vice-Governor asked him to remove the mats hanging inside the mosque so that the Holy Place could be turned into an archaeological monument open to tourists at all times; the Keeper of the Waqf refused to accede to the request; this prompted the Vice-Governor to order his men to forcibly remove the mats. The same day, the assistant to the Governor contacted the Keeper of the Waqf and told him that the Military Governor had issued an order to prevent anyone from entering the mosque pending a final decision in the matter. The Governor had also forbidden the caretakers from closing the doors and had had a post installed on the roof of the building for use by a detachment of Israeli soldiers, on the pretext that it was necessary to maintain order;

8. From 26 May 1977 onwards, the guards prevented Muslims from entering the area of the mosque and from reciting their prayers there;

9. In the evening of Thursday, 2 June 1977, some Jewish settlers arrived at the site by automobile and brought picks, pails and other tools into the mosque, which indicated that they intended to turn the mosque into something else and make repairs with the aim of taking possession of it;

10. On 7 June 1977, a liaison officer named Baroukh, accompanied by two soldiers, went to the offices of the Keeper of the Waqf, carrying the mats and the Korans which had been inside the mosque in order to hand them over to the person in charge, but when the latter refused to take them, the officer left them there. Before leaving, he informed the person in charge that the Military Governor had had them removed because the settlers of Kiriet Arba had demanded that a Torah should be placed in the Jewish monument situated across from the mosque and that the Governor had decided to prevent Jews and Arabs from entering the place and using it;

11. On 23 July 1977, some 20 Israeli soldiers arrived at the site and prevented the caretaker from entering;

12. On 24 October 1977, witnesses saw Jewish workers bringing mason's tools into the place, beginning construction of a zinc and iron structure, and posting notices in the front and rear of the building, forbidding access to the mosque and without the permission of the Military Governor;

13. On 4 June 1980, when the caretaker of the mosque noticed a strange object inside the building, he immediately notified the police. A group of soldiers arrived and discovered that the object was a bomb (which was later detonated). The caretaker indicated that three rabbis had been seen in the mosque the previous evening and that no one else had been there;

14. On 7 January 1981, settlers broke all the windows of the Al-Arbain mosque and threw stones at it;

15. On 9 March 1985, settlers damaged the iron portal of the mosque when attempting to force it open and wrote graffiti in Hebrew on the building;

These acts constitute a flagrant violation of the integrity of one of the Muslim holy places. By his illegal acts, the Military Governor of Al-Khalil encourages the desecration of the holy places of Islam and purposely does nothing to restrain the fanatical elements from the Kiriet Arba settlement. These acts are contrary to the most elementary human rights, freedom of worship and the principle of the inviolability of holy places.

THE CONSPIRACY TO DESTROY AL AQSA MOSQUE AND REBUILD THE JEWISH TEMPLE

The criminal conspiracy to destroy Al Aqsa Mosque and rebuild on its site the Jewish Temple is as old as the Zionist program. Zionists declared that "there could be no Zion without Jerusalem, and no Jerusalem without the Jewish Temple." Zionists have never concealed their criminal objective, and many of their political and religious leaders have declared that to destroy Al Aqsa Mosque and to rebuild the Jewish Temple on its site is one of their most cherished aims.

The following facts are a few of many which conclusively prove the Zionist conspiracy concerning Al Aqsa Mosque.

In a report dated July, 1920, General L. Boiz, Director General for the British Administration in Palestine, stated that the Chief Rabbi in Palestine, Abraham Ishaq Kook, together with the Rabbinate and Mr. Ussichkin, vice-President of the Zionist Organization, officially requested the British Government and the British Administration in Palestine to turn over to Jews all the area of Al Aqsa Mosque.

In 1922, Lord Melchett (formerly Sir Alfred Mond), member of the British Cabinet, made the following statement: "The day on which the Jewish Temple will be rebuilt has become very near. I shall dedicate the rest of my life for the reconstruction of Solomon's Temple on the site of the Al Aqsa Mosque."

When the Grand Mufti of Palestine, Sayed Mohammad Amin El-Husseini, protested against this statement, he received the following letter from the Secretary of the British Mandatory Government of Palestine:

His Eminence the Grand Mufti of Palestine Sayed Mohammad Amin El-Husseini
Your Eminence,

With reference to the conversation which your Eminence had with His Excellency the High Commissioner in which you protested the construction of the Jewish Temple on the site of Al Aqsa, I wish to inform your Eminence that His Excellency referred the matter to the proper Authorities in London and received the following answer: "Reference your No. 248 dated the first of July, the statement made by Sir Alfred Mond was as follows: He believes that 'Palestine can again give the world religious inspiration,' furthermore Sir Alfred Mond was very careful about this subject, he stated that it is his 'fervent hope to construct a new huge Jewish Temple on the Site, and instead of the Al Aqsa Mosque.'"<sup>2</sup>

The Chief Rabbi of Romania, Abraham Rosenbach, sent a letter dated November 20, 1930, to his Eminence Sayed Mohammad Amin El-Husseini, the Grand Mufti of Palestine, urging upon him the necessity of delivering possession of Al

Aqsa Mosque to Jews to enable Jews to practice their religious worship. A similar letter was sent to the Secretary-General of the British Government of Palestine.<sup>3</sup>

The Zionist leader Klosner, President of the Society for the Defence of the Wailing Wall, wrote: "The Al Aqsa Mosque is situated on the sanctuary of sanctuaries in the Temple and it belongs to the Jews."<sup>4</sup>

The Chief Rabbi Ishaq Kook stated in a speech before a Jewish rally in 1929: "Jewish youth all over the world demonstrated their national zeal as well as their Macabi Military strength. They are ready to sacrifice their lives in order to redeem their Holy Temple at present occupied by the Aqsa Mosque."<sup>5</sup>

In 1929, the Zionists claimed new rights regarding the prayer near the Western Wall of Al Aqsa Mosque, named by the Jews as the Wailing Wall, and as a result, disturbances occurred in Palestine between Jews and Arabs. The British Government, as the Mandatory Power, with the approval of the Council of the League of Nations, appointed a commission to determine the rights and claims of Muslims and Jews in connection with the Western Wall, known as the Wailing Wall. On page 39 of its report to the British Government, which was submitted to the Council of the League of Nations, and published in December, 1930, the Commission stated:

Subsequent to the investigation it has made, the Commission herewith declares that the ownership of the Wall as well as the possession of it and of those parts of its surroundings that are here in question, accrue to the Muslims. The Wall itself as being an integral part of the Haram-esh-Sherif area is Moslem property. From the Inquiries conducted by the Commission, partly in the Sharia Court and partly through the hearing of witnesses' evidence, it has emerged that the pavement in front of the Wall, where the Jews perform their devotions, is also Moslem property.<sup>6</sup>

Consequently Great Britain as the Mandatory Power proclaimed the Palestine (Western or Wailing Wall) Order-in-Council, 1931, which provided in Schedule I the following:

A. To the Moslems belong the sole ownership of, and the sole proprietary right to, the Western Wall, seeing that it forms an integral part of the Haram-esh-Sherif area, which is a Waqf property.

To the Moslems there also belongs the ownership of the pavement in front of the Wall and of the adjacent so-called Moghrabi (Moroccan) Quarter opposite the Wall, inasmuch as the last-mentioned property was made Waqf under Moslem Sharia Law, it being dedicated to charitable purposes.

Such appurtenances of worship and/or such other objects as the Jews may be entitled to place near the Wall either in conformity with the provisions of this present Verdict or by agreement come to between the Parties, shall under no circumstances be considered as, or have the effect of, establishing for them any sort of proprietary right to the Wall or to the adjacent Pavement.

B. The Jews shall have free access to the Western Wall for the purpose of devotions at all times subject to the explicit stipulations hereinafter to be mentioned.<sup>7</sup>

The Chief Rabbi of Palestine declared in 1948 that the capital of the Jewish state would not be Tel-Aviv but Jerusalem, because the Temple of Solomon is situated there and because Zionism is both a political and a religious movement.

Since 1948 Zionists have declared their criminal intentions against Muslim Holy Places by publishing and circulating the photo of the Al Aqsa Mosque under the Zionist flag and emblems, declaring that it should be torn down and the Jewish Temple be built on its site.

Zionists have also published other photos placing Muslim Holy Places and Christian Holy Places under the Zionist flag and emblems. The newspaper Das Yiddishe Folk of New York published a picture of Dr. Herzl, leader of the Zionist movement, in front of Al Aqsa Mosque, calling upon Jewish masses to enter the Jewish Temple, showing Al Aqsa Mosque with the Zionist flag hoisted on its dome.

In spite of the fact that the Western Wall of Al Aqsa Mosque, wrongly called the "Wailing Wall," does not belong to Jews, and is not a holy place, yet the Israeli authorities in occupied Palestine and Jewish organizations throughout the world are conducting a fraudulent world-wide propaganda campaign to deceive world public opinion into believing that it is a Jewish holy place.

Time magazine of June 30, 1967, published an article under the title, "Should the Temple be Rebuilt?" which stated:

Israel's conquest of Jordanian Jerusalem, which sent thousands of devout Jews to pray in freedom before the historic Wailing Wall for the first time in centuries, has raised an interesting theological conundrum. Assuming that Israel keeps the Wall, which is one of the few remaining ruins of Judaism's Second Temple, has the time now come for the erection of the Third Temple?

Since the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, in A.D. 70, Conservative and Orthodox Jews have beseeched God four times a week to "renew our days as they once were" — a plea for the restoration of the Temple. Although Zionism was largely a secular movement, one of its sources was the prayers of Jews for a return to Palestine so that they could build a new Temple.... Nevertheless, such is Israel's euphoria today that some Jews see plausible theological grounds for discussing reconstruction. They base their argument on the contention that Israel has already entered its "Messianic era." In 1948, they note, Israel's chief rabbis ruled that with the establishment of the Jewish state and the "ingathering of the exiles," the age of redemption had begun. Today, many of Israel's religious leaders are convinced that the Jews' victory over the Arabs has taken Judaism well beyond that point. Says Historian Israel Eldad: "We are at the stage where David was when he liberated Jerusalem. From that time until the construction of the Temple by Solomon, only one generation passed. So will it be with us." And what about that Moslem shrine? Answers Eldad: "It is of course an open question. Who knows? Perhaps there will be an earthquake."

The Daily News Bulletin of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency of August 19, 1969, published a dispatch from Jerusalem which stated:

Members of a militant French Zionist youth group staged a parade and prayer service on the Temple Mount in Old Jerusalem today in defiance of a government ban on sectarian activities on that site. The youths, wearing the uniform of Betar, the youth organization associated with the Zionist-Revisionists, held their ceremonial in front of Al Aqsa Mosque, a Moslem sacred shrine.

They chanted the "minha" prayer and sang a hymn, but dispersed quietly when police approached. The leader of the group declared, "This is the most holy place of the Jews which is held by aliens. Let the Temple be rebuilt."

Zionists bribe hundreds of fundamentalist Protestant Ministers and evangelists through large contributions from wealthy Jews and Zionist organizations to propagate the false interpretation of the Bible that the Jews are the chosen people, that God promised their "return" to Palestine, and that the Jewish Temple should be rebuilt on the site of Al Aqsa Mosque. Millions of dollars have been collected from various sources for the re-building of the Jewish Temple. These evangelists, such as Mike Evans, Jerry Falwell, Hal Lindsey, Jimmy Swaggart, Jim Bakker, Pat Robertson, Howard C. Estep, Hilton Sutton, and Tim LaHaye, among others, have published books with millions of copies circulated to brainwash the American people with their false interpretations of the Bible. Some of these books are Hal Lindsey's The Late Great Planet Earth and The Promise, Tim LaHaye's The Coming Peace in the Middle East, Derek Prince's The Last Word on the Middle East, Hilton Sutton's The Mid-East Puzzle and Mike Evans' The Return. All of these books have one purpose, to convince the American people that the "sacred duty" of the United States is to support Israel all the way, and that in the coming world war the Arabs and the Soviet Union will be the forces of evil and the United States and Israel will be the forces of good. They strongly urge the United States to totally support Israel politically, militarily, financially and morally as the only trustworthy ally and friend in the world. Their false conclusions contradict the Old Testament and ignore the New Testament. The recent sex scandals and "Holy" wars among evangelists who are engaged in taking over each others' ministries by blackmail and intrigue accurately reveal what genre of "(tel)evangelists" these men really are and have gone a long way to discredit them and their pseudo-religious enterprises.

CRIMINAL CONSPIRACY BETWEEN CHRISTIAN EVANGELISTS AND ZIONIST TERRORISTS TO DESTROY AL AQSA MOSQUE

Some Christian American evangelists and Jewish terrorists have formed an organization with the name The Jerusalem Temple Foundation. It has an address in Los Angeles, California, and in Jerusalem. The Board of Directors of this foundation are the following: Terry Risenhoover, Chairman of the Board, is Chairman of Alaska Land Leasing Inc., of Los Angeles, California; Douglas Krieger, Executive Director of Jerusalem Temple Foundation and of Alaska Land Leasing Inc., of Los Angeles, California; Dr. Charles E. Monroe, President, is President of the Center of Judaeo-Christian Studies, of Poway, California; Dr. Hilton Sutton, Director, is Chairman of Mission to America, of Humble, Texas; Dr. James DeLoach, Director, is Pastor of the Second Baptist Church, of Houston, Texas; and Stanley Goldfoot, International Secretary, of Jerusalem. Mr. Stanley Goldfoot is a Jew from South Africa. He was a member of the Irgun Z'vai Leumi and was one of the four terrorists who placed the bombs in 1946 under the King David Hotel and caused the massacre of the King David Hotel.

The contemplated projects of this foundation as they appear in a brochure printed by it are the following: "1. Jewish Temple Foundation office at the Temple Mount area in Jerusalem. 2. The establishment of a Temple Museum by Yeshivat Ateret Kohanim at the Temple Mount. 3. Assistance in land and buildings redemption by Jews in Israel. 4. Freedom for Jews and Christians to worship on the Temple Mount in Jerusalem. 5. The use of geophysical methods for archaeological surveys in Jerusalem. 6. Preparations for the construction of the Third Temple in Jerusalem. 7. Preparation of films and video presentations related to the Temple Mount. 8. Other projects as necessary and as funds are made available.

Barbara and Michael Ledeen published an article in The New Republic of June 18, 1984, under the title, "What do Christian and Jewish fundamentalists have in common? THE TEMPLE MOUNT PLOT". They state, "On January 15, Goldfoot wrote to some American Christian colleagues:

"And possibly of top priority is a certain plan we are studying, which could be of utmost significance. This is a covert operation, details of which I would not divulge in writing or on the phone. But I am sure that it would be as dear to your hearts as it is to mine and selected associates here. Some cash is inevitably involved; I hope we will have enough."

...Goldfoot sees the Christians as logical allies, for he believes that "Christian fundamentalists are the real modern-day Zionists"; in Goldfoot's view, it is the Christians above all who realize that "we are coming to a crucial period in earth's history, and they want to help fulfil prophecy and thus hasten the coming of the Messiah"... As one Jewish leader put it to us last summer in Jerusalem, "They believe that once the Temple is built, Jesus will come again. We expect the Messiah to come for the first time. Let's build the Temple, and see what he looks like."

...This ardent messianism appears to have been part of the motivation for the group of twenty-five radical Jewish nationalists arrested recently in Jerusalem on charges that included murder, attempted murder, possession of weapons and explosives stolen from the Israeli Army, and membership in a terrorist organization. (The other part was anti-Palestinian extremism.) Under an Israeli court order the names of the accused have not been released, although their identities are known to most people in Israel.

...It is also known that one of the arrested men is a reserve pilot in the Israeli Army. The pilot, who had returned to religion, suggested to his co-conspirators that he steal an F-16 the next time he was called up, and that he bombard the two Muslim shrines on the Temple Mount. The group vetoed his plan because the Western Wall might be damaged, and the pilot would be unable to land his plane anywhere in Israel. Instead, the plotters decided to use explosive devices on the Temple Mount. They even experimented with various explosive materials in quarries near Hebron. Israel Har-el, the spokesman for the Gush Emunim (the Bloc of the Faithful), went on Israeli television recently and said that the people involved in the plotting believed that the destruction of the two Muslim holy places would provoke the Muslims to wage a holy war so terrible that the Messiah would come to save his people from destruction.<sup>8</sup>

Ms. Grace Halsell, the well-known author, joined one of the trips of the evangelist Jerry Falwell to the Holy Land in 1986. She wrote a short memoir about the plans to destroy Al Aqsa Mosque and the Dome of the Rock. The following is a verbatim reproduction of that memoir:

The plan to take over Haram al-Sharif is more institutionalized, and becoming better organized, better financed, gaining more supporters in Jerusalem and in the U.S.

To learn more about one group active in this plan to destroy the mosque, I visited Yeshiva Ateret Cohanim, not far from Damascus Gate, on El Wad Road, only a few steps off Via Dolorosa. I was not impressed with the students I saw there, nor with their headquarters (upstairs, on a second-story level, and not large), but they have big plans. Joseph, a Brooklyn-born Jew, who accepted my "credentials" after I said I was travelling with Jerry Falwell, shared some of their plans:

They are "actively and peacefully" buying property "in the area nearest the Temple Mount," and they deem this task "important and monumental." Four Jewish families recently have moved into "the heart of the Old City" and a few dozen families are now on "our waiting list," eager for an opportunity to buy or rent in the expanding Jewish neighborhood.

They have an Institute for the Research of the Temple, to ascertain exact plans and measurements of the Temple.

At the same time, the yeshiva is preparing a permanent exhibit of models of the Temple and the various vessels, to be housed near the temple.

Rabbis at the yeshiva are preparing students such as 27-year-old Mattityahu Hacohen Dan — a Cohen, or priest, — for service in a Third Temple. Twenty five students devote at least one hour every day and an additional afternoon each week to concentrated study of the laws of temple worship. Also three other yeshivas teach students how to burn incense, as well as other laws dealing with temple practice, including how to offer animal sacrifices.

They sponsor daily seminars and excursions to the area around Haram al-Sharif, (what they term the Temple Mount) "for students, soldiers, tourists — anyone who is interested in understanding the purpose and necessity of a Jewish presence in this central part of the Old City." Yeshiva students each Thursday offer a two-hour tour, sponsored by the Plaza Hotel, of the "Jewish Presence in the Moslem Quarter."

They plan a new center "for Jerusalem and Temple Studies," estimated to cost over $150,000. They say it will include a 5,000 volume library on Jerusalem, video-film room, classrooms, offices, a VIP lounge patio with a skylight roof. It is designed to instruct "from 8 to 10,000 students and visitors a year from Israel and from abroad."

The yeshiva has honoured Dr. Irving and Cherna Moskowitz of Miami Beach, Florida, for gifts of money. Other Americans can give to the yeshiva rather than to Uncle Sam. Money sent to "American friends of Ateret Cohanim" is tax deductible. Until this was set up, the yeshiva got funds through P.E.F. Israel Endowment Funds, Inc. (342 Madison Avenue, Suite 1010, New York, NY 10173). Now contributors are told to send dollars to the yeshiva's New York Office ("for the use of which we are extremely indebted to Rabbi Jay Marcus, founder of Genesis"). Genesis, 475 5th Avenue, Suite 1810, New York, NY 10017, (212) 725-9599).

This yeshiva is only one small group but in my opinion it reflects the thinking of the chief rabbis and perhaps most Israeli leaders. At least seven rabbis, among them the foremost spiritual leaders of the Gush Emunim settlement movement, were consulted, informed and aware of various stages of the activities and plans of the Jewish terror organization. Livni, charged with the preparing of a bomb to be placed in the Dome of the Rock and Al Aqsa, said Rabbi Ovadia Yosef in particular had spoken approvingly of the idea. Neither of the chief Israeli rabbis condemned the attempts to destroy the mosque.

Israeli leaders seem definitely connected with the American Jewish evangelist Mike Evans, who on an hour-long TV Special was photographed underneath the mosque, in Jewish skullcap with an Israeli "expert" on relics and the expert opens a door and proclaims, "Right there we keep the Holy of Holies" — and he adds as the camera zooms in on a mysterious alleyway, "right down that hallway is where we found the Holy of Holies." (As archaeologist Jim Jennings once said to me, "A relic can be declared to have been found — and that makes a site official".)

The financial support system among U.S. Evangelicals for destruction of the mosque has gone underground since the Link article (Aug-Sept. 1984) which named specific persons, such as Terry Risenhoover, who was raising big money for the defense of Jewish terrorists who attempted to destroy the Muslim shrine.

In Jerusalem, guides for Falwell's 850 touring Christians told us at the Western Wall that we are viewing the former site of the Temple as well as the site where a new temple will be built.

I interviewed Dr. John Walvoord who heads Dallas Theological Seminary (and was one speaker during Falwell's 1985 "Prophecy Conference" in Jerusalem) and he interprets the Bible as saying God wants Christians to help the Jews build a Jewish temple. He and other Born Again Christians are aware of the Dome of the Rock and Al Aqsa but as Lindsey puts it, "Obstacle or no obstacle, it is certain the temple will be rebuilt, prophecy demands it."

It is important to bear in mind that Jerry Falwell and all major U.S. TV evangelists preach that the Jewish temple "must" be built. They accept that as part of their theology, a theology generally known as dispensationalism, which calls for seven "dispensations" or time periods, beginning with all the ingathering of Jews into Palestine and including the building of the temple. Hal Lindsey, in The Late Great Planet Earth, which sold 12 million copies, wrote that "there remains but one more event to completely set the stage for Israel's part in the last great act of her historical drama. This is to rebuild the ancient Temple of worship upon its old site. There is only one place that this Temple can be built, according to the law of Moses. This is upon Mt. Moriah. It is there that the two previous Temples were built."

Thus, there is a great support system in the U.S. for whatever action Jewish terrorists might take to destroy Al Aqsa. Should they destroy the shrine, all of the major TV Evangelists would simply call it an "act of God."

Grace Halsell wrote a book in 1986 under the title, Prophecy and Politics, Militant Evangelists on the Road to Nuclear War, in which she stated that when she was in Jerusalem, she met George Giacomakis and asked him whether she could meet Stanley Goldfoot. She states:

I asked if he might help me arrange an interview with Goldfoot. In response, Giacomakis dropped his head in both hands, as one does on hearing a disaster. "Oh, no. You don't want to meet him. He goes back to the Irgun!" Then raising his head and waving an arm toward the King David Hotel, he added, "Stanley Goldfoot was in charge of that operation. He will not stop at anything. His idea is to rebuild the temple, and if that means violence, then he will not hesitate to use violence." Giacomakis paused and then assured me that while he himself did not believe in violence, "If they do destroy the mosque and the temple is there, that does not mean that I will not support it."

Sponsored by Terry Riesenhoover, Goldfoot has made several trips to the United States, where he spoke on religious radio and TV stations and in Protestant churches, asking Christians for donations, but not mentioning that a mosque sits on the site where he contemplates a temple.

Goldfoot admits that he has received money from the International Christian Embassy, whose funding, many believe, comes from South Africa. Asked about the Goldfoot statement that he had received money from his organization, Christian Embassy spokesman Jan Willem van der Hoeven denied that they are directly involved in the temple construction efforts. Rather, he said, when supporters volunteer to give money for building a temple, he directs them to Goldfoot. The embassy has, however, made a cassette. It sells for $5.00 and features a taped message about plans to build a temple on Haram al-Sharif. Van der Hoeven is one of the speakers on the tape.<sup>9</sup>

Again, Ms. Halsell states the following:

Soon after this interview, I read an Israeli public opinion poll published in 1984 showing that 18.7 percent of the Israeli public support terrorist activities by extremist Jewish groups. In commenting on the poll, the Israeli writer Yehoshua Sobol pointed out that in 1938, a representative sample of the Nazi Party members found that 63 percent of them objected to hurting Jews, 32 percent expressed apathy on the subject and only five percent were in favor of harming Jews.

Four years later, in 1942, when the annihilation of Jews was already speedily taking place, a representative sampling of the Nazi Party members showed that those against attacking Jews decreased to 26 percent, while the number of apathetic increased to 69 percent. The number of Nazis in favor of attacking Jews remained the same: five percent.

Fanatics who belong to what the vast majority of Christians and Jews might term a crazy minority — and numbering no more than five percent of the total Israeli population — are nevertheless capable of destroying Islam's most holy shrine in Jerusalem, an act that could easily trigger a worldwide war involving Russia and the United States. The only necessary condition for this to happen is the existence of a decisive majority of the apathetic. The mainline Israeli and American Jews, together with non-Zionist American Christians, may well represent the decisive apathetic majority.

This decisive apathetic majority provides breeding grounds for the religious extremists. Increasingly, terrorists are recognized as heroes and, if sentenced, do not serve their full terms in jail. On December 8, 1985, President Chaim Herzog of Israel commuted the prison sentences of two Jewish terrorists who had been convicted of plotting to blow up Jerusalem's most holy Islamic shrine.

The prisoners freed are Dan Beeri, 41, and Yosef Tzuria, 26, who were serving three-year terms for plotting to blow up the Dome of the Rock and Al-Aqsa Mosque. According to court records, the terrorists' plan was to dynamite and destroy the shrine to provoke the Islamic world into a holy war with Israel.

They are now free to continue this plot.<sup>10</sup>

Ms. Halsell states further in her book:

The extremists among the Israeli Jews are still not a majority, and Christian extremists are still not a majority. However, I have attempted to show that the alliance between these right-wing, militaristic groups gives both a quantum leap in real, unsentimental power and might. Moreover, leaders in both groups are obsessed with their own belief system, their own ideology, their own certitude that they have both the right and the power to help orchestrate not only their own End of Times, but doomsday for the rest of the species.<sup>11</sup>

THE BEISAN MUNICIPALITY EXPROPRIATES THE MOSQUE IN THE CITY TO TURN IT INTO A MUSEUM

Sheikh Saadedin Al-Alami, the Mufti of Jerusalem, sent a telegram on 24 April 1987 to Yitzhak Shamir and expressed his protest and indignation that the Municipality of Beisan had expropriated the Mosque in the town, closed it to Muslim worshippers from the Bedouin tribes around the city, with the intention of turning it into a museum. The Mufti of Jerusalem visited the town of Beisan accompanied by twenty of his followers. They were received by a delegation from the Bedouins. When they proceeded to the Mosque in order to pray, they found that it was closed. Sheikh Al-Alami declared it shameful to close a Muslim Mosque and prevent the worshippers from entering. He stated that a democratic state would not forbid praying in the Holy Places.

JEWISH EXTREMISTS EVICTED FROM AL-AQSA

Ultra-religious extremists from the Temple Mount Faithful tried to perform Jewish prayers at Al-Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem April 15, 1987 provoking Muslims and Waqf officials in Jerusalem.

Muslims oppose holding non-Muslim prayers at Al Aqsa Mosque. They consider it a sacrilege and an infringement on their exclusive right to the holy Muslim shrine.

Under pressure from the Israeli authorities, Waqf officials have permitted visits to the Mosque by tourists, as well as the extremists. The Waqf remain adamant, however, in opposing the performance of Jewish prayers in the Islamic mosque.

At 9.30 a.m., the police at Bab al-Magharbeh (the entrance to the Al-Aqsa compound near Jerusalem's Dung Gate) began to permit Gershon Solomon, head of the Temple Mount Faithful, and his followers to visit the mosque. Seven people at a time were permitted to enter the compound. Non-Muslim prayers were prohibited.

At 10.30 one of the group began performing Jewish prayers; another used a loudspeaker to call upon Jews to assemble and perform prayers. The visitors carried placards stating that they had the right to pray at a mosque, which they call the Temple Mount, on Jewish holidays.

In response, Waqf officials ordered the Mosque's gates closed. The officials then protested to the Israeli police, who stopped the visits.

Hashem Ashayer, the Waqf director, said, "What happened is unacceptable. We do not tolerate Jewish prayers in the mosque. No Muslim can accept the desecration of holy places."

The Israeli mayor of Jerusalem, Teddy Kollek, expressed his anger because the police had not consulted with the municipality before permitting the extremists to visit the mosque. He said that the police permission was an error.

Over the past years, the extremists have been trying, without success, to establish a precedent by performing Jewish prayers in the Mosque.

DRIVE FOR A THIRD JEWISH TEMPLE

THE RELIGIOUS AFFAIRS MINISTRY OF THE ISRAELI GOVERNMENT SPONSORS A CONFERENCE OF TEMPLE RESEARCH

The New York City Tribune published a report from its correspondent in Jerusalem on October 23, 1989, which stated:

Menachem Burstein lit a match to a walnut-size lump of gray spice. Within seconds, it emitted a sharp scent.

"This came from Saudi Arabia," Burstein said. "We're sending it abroad to test it for its ingredients, to see if it fits the requirements of the temple."

Burstein is not a scientist by training. But he has spent years in research, trying to discover exactly what spices were used 2,000 years ago in the ancient Jewish temple.

For Burstein and hundreds of his colleagues, the effort is far from being purely historical. Spurred by both religious belief and nationalist fervor and backed by the government, a group of Israelis and Jews abroad are quietly planning the construction of the third Jewish Temple.

The project has sparked the greatest controversy in Judaism today. The debate divides theologians and political leaders. It has also united ultra-Orthodox Jews with fundamentalist Protestant Christians, both of whom share the dream of a third Jewish Temple.

Among the questions being raised: Can a temple be built or even planned without the arrival of the messiah? What should be done about the Muslim shrines that for about 1,000 years have occupied the holy ground?

Advocates of rebuilding the temple have no answers. But Rabbi Israel Ariel, head of the Temple Institute, has no doubt that a solution will be found. His institute has reconstructed 38 of the 103 ritual implements required for bringing sacrifices at the temple.

"We believe that a temple will arise despite all the problems," he said. "It is the force that unites the Jewish people."

GOVERNMENT AID

Quietly, the government is becoming active in the effort. On Wednesday, the Religious Affairs Ministry sponsored the first-ever Conference of Temple Research.

While the researchers did not discuss politics, many of them agreed that they considered their work relevant.

In August, representatives of the chief rabbinate traveled throughout Europe looking for embryos of the red heifer, used in the temple for spiritual purification. At last week's conference, a geneticist involved in the project, Dan Greenberg, said several embryos were found and they will be implanted into cows in Israel.

The first temple was destroyed in 586 B.C. by the Babylonians. Seventy years later, Cyrus, emperor of Persia, allowed the Jews to return from exile and rebuild the temple.

About 45,000 Jews accepted the offer. Many more stayed in the Diaspora.

The second temple was destroyed by the Romans in 70 A.D. The Romans refused to permit the temple's reconstruction and sent the Jews into exile.

Although the Babylonian Talmud was vague, Jewish scholars later ruled that the temple must await the messiah. The medieval sage Rashi said the temple will descend directly from heaven after the coming of the messiah.

His contemporary, Maimonides, was more specific. He drew up guidelines on recognizing the messiah and planning the temple. One requirement: The temple will not be built until a majority of the Jewish people live in the biblical land of Israel.

Less than a third of the world's 13 million Jews live in Israel.

But in 1967, Jews began to believe that the construction of the temple was in sight.

Repulsing an attack from its eastern neighbor Jordan, Israel captured the Old City of Jerusalem, the site of the ancient Jewish temple.

NON-MUSLIMS BANNED

Israeli authorities, attempting to preserve calm, allowed the Muslims to continue to administer the Temple Mount. The Muslims had the Al Aksa Mosque, a complex that actually contained two houses of prayer regarded as the third-holiest site in Islam. Israel banned non-Muslims from praying openly on the mount.

Religious leaders supported the stand. First, Israel's chief rabbis forbade Jews to walk on the mount to guard against them stepping on the ancient Holy of Holies, where in temple times only the high priest had access.

Moreover, many rabbis could not fathom the coming of the messiah at a time when a majority of Jews did not observe basic religious precepts such as the Sabbath or Kashrut. Some of the rabbis were stung that advocates of a temple included secular Jews.

"Suddenly, all these people say that the Sabbath is not important, Kashrut is not important," said Rabbi Eliezer Shach, regarded as one of the last scions of European Jewish scholars.

But slowly some leading rabbis exhibited flexibility.

The Yeshivot located near the Western Wall are teaching about 200 students the complex laws of the temple. Others, including former Chief Rabbi Shlomo Goren, have been researching the exact location of the Holy of Holies so that Jews can enter the mount without violating any commandment.

Moreover, Haifa's chief rabbi, Shear Yeshuv Cohen, considered a candidate to be Israel's chief rabbi, ruled that the candelabra of the temple may be built today. Cohen is viewed as more traditional than Goren.

Still, rabbinical advocates of researching the new temple remain cautious. They consistently remind their followers that their work is to prepare for the coming of the messiah, not to replace him.

TEMPLE 'CORNERSTONE' LAID

As a result, even the maverick Goren was sharply critical of Monday's attempt by a group of Jewish zealots, called the Temple Mount Faithful.

The group, with police permission, brought a 3-ton stone to Jerusalem as cornerstone of the third temple.

The ceremony was to have taken place on the Temple Mount.

Police canceled the ceremony when Arab students rioted several hours before the event was scheduled to take place. Jerusalem Mayor Teddy Kollek said the riot was aimed at preventing the ceremony.

"The Muslims believe that this is a plot to take over their holy place," Kollek said.

At the conference, researchers were careful not to endorse the idea of laying a cornerstone of the temple. But many of them appeared sympathetic of the aims of the Temple Mount Faithful.

"We believe that all of our hopes and all of our attempts, such as the cornerstone for the temple, will cause some activity in the heavens," said Zev Colan, the American-born director of the Temple Institute.

"And with God's help, the day will come soon when we will build the temple."<sup>12</sup>

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

DESTRUCTION AND DESECRATION OF CHRISTIAN HOLY PLACES AND THE VIOLATION OF CHRISTIAN RELIGIOUS RIGHTS

A major scandal within American Christianity today is the idolatrous support of Israel by the false prophets of American evangelism who are misguiding millions of unwitting Americans into aiding and abetting the persecution of their fellow Christians in the Holy Land. The sex scandals that have devastated two of these evangelists, Jim Bakker and Jimmy Swaggart, pale in comparison to the scandal of their sacrilegious support of the Zionist persecutors of Christianity who have gone so far as to even officially burn the New Testament!

American Christians, as well as Christians everywhere, would be totally horrified if they realized that the Zionist leaders so hate Christianity and Christians that they would burn the word of God. Yet their leaders, such as Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson, as well as the deposed evangelists Bakker and Swaggart, among others, trumpet the Israeli Army as an idol and as an alleged ally of America.

Yet no less a figure than Professor Yehoshafat Harkabi, former Head of Israeli Military Intelligence, has revealed the facts surrounding Israel's official burning of the Gospels so cherished by all Christians, and above all by the fundamentalist Christians who have been misled by the televangelist accomplices of Zionist persecution of Christianity. General Harkabi writes:

Chief Rabbi Ovadiah Yosef, who is considered to be a moderate...(in 1979) issued a ruling that copies of the New Testament should be burned. This ruling did not remain a dead letter. An item in the newspaper Ma'ariv (14 June 1985) reported the burning of a copy of the New Testament found in the library at the base of the chief educational officer of the Israeli army....

These manifestations of hostility — the designation of Christians as idolators, the demand to invoke "resident alien" ordinances, and the burning of the New Testament — are distressing. Outside the Land of Israel Jews never dared to behave in this fashion. Has independence made the Jews take leave of their senses?<sup>1</sup>

In such words an Israeli leader admits the truth about Zionist persecution of Christianity. Yet even such admissions are swept under the rug by the alleged Christian supporters of Israel.

It is a great irony that those Christian leaders who have created a false idol out of the State of Israel are themselves, as purported Christians, condemned by the Zionists as idolators!

Examples of the idolatrous support of the Zionist persecutors of Christianity by leading American fundamentalist pastors follow:

Jerry Falwell says: "Right at the very top of our priorities must be an unswerving commitment and devotion to the State of Israel."

Pat Robertson says: "The future of this Nation (America) may be at stake, because God will bless those that bless Israel."

And Jimmy Swaggart, before being deposed for becoming involved with a prostitute in a notorious sex scandal, said: "God will bless those that bless Israel, and God will curse those that curse Israel."<sup>2</sup>

Another notorious televangelist, Mike Evans, produced a television special entitled "Israel: America's Key to Survival." "Although his mother came from an Orthodox Jewish Background," Mike Evans attended a Christian Bible school as a child. In 1970 he began what he calls a "Ministry for Israel."<sup>3</sup> Considering the long history of Zionist persecution of Christianity, one can only wonder at the shameful support for the persecutors of the followers of Christ in the native land of Christ.

UPROOTING CHRISTIANITY FROM THE HOLY LAND

As far back as 1920 Zionists had declared their objective regarding Christian holy places in Palestine. In 1920 the Anglican Bishop of Jerusalem denounced Zionist objectives in an address later published in the Church Times, London, in which he stated:

The Zionist Commission had been a very strong body; but it was not strong enough to control all its members, many of whom were extremists... They had behaved and spoken as if the country had already been given to them and was theirs to dispose of as they would. In ordinary conversation among Zionists at Jerusalem it had been asked "What shall be done with the Church of the Holy Sepulchre? Shall it be burned or razed to the ground?"<sup>4</sup>

During the 1948 war, Zionists destroyed, desecrated and profaned Christian churches, convents and institutions throughout the occupied area of Palestine. These acts, together with the campaign against Christian missionaries, continue until today. Now that the Zionists occupied Jerusalem in the 1967 war, the last stage of their plan will be carried out when they are assured of their complete domination of the Holy City. Hundreds of Christian families were expelled from Jerusalem. In spite of the fact that the Zionist propagandists constantly proclaim their good intention towards Christian and Muslim holy places in Jerusalem, nothing will deter the Zionists from carrying out their fanatical program of ultimately eradicating Christianity from the Holy Land.

In July 1968, His Beatitude Maximos V Hakim, Patriarch of Antioch and all the East, made a declaration in New York in which he expressed his apprehension that Christianity could not survive in the Holy Land under existing conditions. He recalled certain events which he had witnessed since the creation of Israel in 1948. The Patriarch stated:

The Melchite church has suffered many losses at the hands of the Israelis. We lost churches in Damound, Somata, Kafr-Bur'om and Ikret, a village which the Israeli army destroyed on Christmas Day 1952... Many churches were damaged in the 1967 war, and many churches were desecrated by soldiers and men and women entering these Holy Places indecently dressed and with their dogs. My encounters with the Israeli government officials, particularly since the last war, have been completely disheartening... On June 21, 1967, I met with Pope Paul at the Vatican to discuss the Vatican stand on the situation and the problems facing the Christian community within Israel and the occupied territories. From the discussion I learned the Vatican offers 100% support for the U.N. resolutions on Jerusalem, particularly that the city's status should be international rather than the object of any further discussions. Upon my return to Israel, I presented this stand to the government, and a high Israeli spokesman whom I prefer not to name for my own sake, made this remark: "Your Pope is a foolish man. He is the only one who believes in the United Nations. If the Pope has an army, let him send it. We will give up Jerusalem only in defeat." Such an Israeli attitude combined with their restrictions upon the indigenous Arab Christian population cannot help but doom Christianity in the Holy Land.

The remarks made to His Beatitude Maximos V Hakim by the Israeli spokesman are almost a carbon copy of Stalin's notorious question, "How many divisions has the Pope?"

The Christian population of Palestine, the descendants of the earliest followers of Christ, were the first Christians to recognize the anti-Christian bigotry built into the Zionist ideology. Having long dwelt in peace with Muslim and Jewish fellow citizens of Palestine, Palestinian Christians recognized that the Zionist colonists were a different breed, lacking the piety of Palestinian Jews. The peaceful cohabitation of Christians, Muslims and Jews in Palestine was disrupted by the militant ideologues propagating Zionism, and Palestinian Christians feared the growth of the Zionist presence in their native land and united with Muslims in opposing Zionism and the Zionist invasion of Palestine.

PALESTINE CHRISTIANS OPPOSE PARTITION AND CREATION OF A JEWISH STATE

In 1947, there were 350,000 Christians in Palestine. Jointly with Muslims they opposed the partition of Palestine, and called for the independence of Palestine as a democratic state where all its citizens, Muslims, Christians and Jews, could participate in the government of the country. On March 3, 1948, representatives of the eleven Christian denominations in Palestine, namely, the Orthodox Patriarchate, the Latin

Patriarchate, the Armenian Orthodox Patriarchate, the Custodian de Terra Santa, the Coptic Patriarchate, the Vicar of the Melkite Patriarchate, Metropolitan of the Syriac Orthodox Community, the Vicar of the Armenian Catholic Patriarchate, the Arab Evangelical Episcopal Community, the Vicar of the Syriac Catholic Patriarchate, and the Arab Lutheran Community in Palestine, made an appeal to the United Nations and to the world religious and political bodies in which they stated:

It is our firm conviction that peace will not be restored nor would any endeavours made for the promotion of the "peace of Jerusalem" be crowned with success, unless those bodies who undertake the determination of the future of Palestine would remove the causes which have made a battlefield of the Holy Land, reestablish the principles of justice and maintain the right of self-determination as envisaged in the Charter of the United Nations Organization.

The Christian Union wishes to declare, in unequivocal terms, that they denounce the partition plan, being of the strong conviction that this plan involves a violation of the sacredness of the Holy Land which, by its nature and history, is indivisible, and represents an encroachment on the natural rights of the Arabs, the people of the country.<sup>5</sup>

DESECRATION AND PROFANATION OF CHRISTIAN HOLY PLACES IN 1948

During the Palestine war of 1948-49, Zionist forces desecrated, profaned, destroyed and looted Christian Holy Places. The following are quotations from the authoritative Christian clergy who witnessed these atrocious acts:

On May 31, 1948, the Committee of the Christian Union of Palestine issued an important statement in Jerusalem denouncing the destruction, profanation and desecration of Christian Holy Places in Palestine. The following is the full text of that historic statement:

STATEMENT OF THE CHRISTIAN UNION OF PALESTINE

The war which started in the Holy City of Jerusalem was for all of us a real surprise and beyond our expectations. The Security Council, the United Nations Organization and the Consular Committee of Armistice had given us hope that the Holy City and its sanctuaries would be spared the horrors of war and its consequences of destruction and ruin, both belligerent parties having signed before the Consular Committee of Armistice and the representative of the International Red Cross an undertaking to cease fire for a duration of eight days starting from 9 p.m. on May 14, 1948.

In compliance with this signed promise the Arab Command issued formal orders through loudspeakers to all its posts to cease fire, and complete peace prevailed on all Arab sectors.

But the Jews took advantage of this opportunity and immediately occupied the main strategical points from where they tried to attack the Arabs and to launch their attack on the Holy City. We immediately informed the Consular Committee of Armistice and the representative of the International Red Cross of this infringement of agreement by the Jews. The reply received was that the Jewish Agency declared that the Stern gang, which is working separately, broke the cease fire agreement and that the Jewish Agency had no control over this group. We then realized that the terrorists are controlling the Jewish movement. In consequence of which the International Red Cross and the Committee of Armistice declared that it was beyond their power to enforce the respect of the undertaking. In this way the Holy City was turned into a battlefield where severe fighting is taking place, accompanied by destruction on a large scale. In consequence, churches, convents, religious and charitable institutions have become the targets of mortar shells and bullets. Some of these buildings were destroyed and set on fire and many of the innocent civilians comprising of women, children, priests and nuns were injured by the explosion of bombs which were fired from all sides and in all directions.

Because of this dreadful situation, We, the representatives of the Christian Communities, deem it our solemn duty to raise our voice in protest against the violation of the sanctity of our churches, convents and institutions.

We herewith enumerate some of the damages sustained by our institutions and injuries inflicted on their administrators and refugees sheltered therein.

I. CONVENTS AND INSTITUTIONS OCCUPIED BY THE ZIONISTS

1. The Convent of St. George of the Greek Orthodox was occupied on May 14, 1948.

2. The Hospice "Notre Dame de France" of the Assumptionist Fathers was occupied on May 15, 1948, fortifying and using it as main base to attack the Holy City.

3. The Convent of Reparatrice Sisters was occupied on May 15, 1948 and used in the same manner as that of Notre Dame de France.

4. The French Hospital was occupied militarily by Jews on May 15, 1948, regardless of the presence of the Sisters of St. Joseph, its sick occupants and in defiance of the International Red Cross flag and that of the French colors.

5. The Italian Hospital which the International Red Cross had placed under its protection on May 15, 1948. Armed Jews occupied this building by force and replaced the flag of the Red Cross, which was trodden on, by the Jewish flag, in spite of the protest of the Italian Consul General. They have since used this building as a front post to fire on the city.

6. The Apostolic Delegation protected by the flag of the Holy See, was occupied on May 18, 1948.

7. The Monastery of the German Benedictine Fathers (Dormition), was occupied on May 18, 1948. The Jews turned it into a strong strategical post and one of the main bases for their military operations against the Holy City.

8. The English School on Mount Sion, and the convent of St. John, of the Greek-Orthodox were occupied on May 18, 1948.

We have to point out as well that some of the Holy Places were hit and damaged by mortar shells fired by the Jews from the Hebrew University, Hadassah Hospital and from the two big synagogues located in the Old City.

II. CHURCHES, CONVENTS AND INSTITUTIONS DAMAGED BY ZIONISTS

1. The Hospice "Notre Dame de France," a large part of which was destroyed as a result of the Jewish occupation.

2. The Convent of Reparatrice Sisters was set on fire and almost completely destroyed.

3. The tower and church of the Monastery of the Benedictine Fathers were damaged as a result of having been occupied.

4. The Seminary of Ste. Anne was hit by two mortar bombs: the first on May 17, 1948, the second on May 19, 1948, destroying walls and wounding the refugees sheltered therein.

5. The church of St. Constantin and Helena which is contiguous to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre was damaged on May 17, 1948, by a bomb, the fragments of which damaged also the dome of the Holy Sepulchre.

6. The Armenian Orthodox Patriarchate was hit by about one hundred mortar bombs thrown by Zionists from the Monastery of the Benedictine Fathers on Mount Sion, and the bombs damaged St. Jacob's Convent, the Archangels Convent and their two churches, their two Elementary and Seminary schools and their library. Eight persons among the refugees were killed and 120 wounded.

7. The entrance to the church of St. Mark belonging to the Syrian Orthodox, received on May 17, 1948 a mortar shell killing the monk Peter Saymy, secretary to the Bishop and wounding two other persons.

8. The Convent of St. George of the Greek Orthodox which is contiguous to the Greek Catholic Cathedral received on May 18, 1948 a mortar shell breaking the tiles and damaging the windows of the cathedral.

9. The convent of St. John of the Greek Orthodox, contiguous to the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre, received on its roof a mortar shell on May 23, 1948, and St. Abraham convent nearby was hit as well as St. Spiridon Convent.

10. The Convent of the Archangel belonging to the Coptic Patriarchate, situated over the grotto of the Holy Cross, forming part of the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre, received on May 23, 1948 a mortar shell damaging its roof.

11. The Greek Orthodox Patriarchate was hit by mortar shells on May 23 and 24, 1948, wounding many refugees sheltered therein.

12. The big Franciscan convent (St. Saviour) situated near the Holy Sepulchre received mortar shells on May 19, 23, 24, and 28, 1948, causing damage to the orphanage, general secretariate, and hitting nearby houses, killing and wounding children sheltered therein.

13. The Latin Patriarchate received on May 23, 26, 27 and 28, 1948, mortar shells causing damage to the Patriarchal Palace, especially to the Cathedral.

14. The Greek Catholic Patriarchate was hit by mortar bombs on May 16 and 29, 1948, damaging the building and wounding some persons.

III. PERSONS KILLED AND WOUNDED BY ZIONIST BOMBS AND BULLETS

Among the numerous victims, women, children, priests and nuns killed or wounded in the Holy City since the Jews started their attack, we would like to enumerate the following:

1. The monk Peter Savmy, secretary to the Syrian Orthodox Metropolitan, killed by the explosion of a mortar shell and two other persons were wounded.

2. Father Mammert Vionnet of the Assumptionist Fathers and Judge of the Latin Ecclesiastical Court, well known in the scientific world, was killed by the Jews when they attacked his convent and occupied it.

3. Father John Salah of the Passionist Fathers was killed by a Jewish bullet when he was entering the church to celebrate the Holy Mass.

4. Brothers Sigismont and Cyrille of the Christian Brothers were wounded inside their school on May 15, 1948 respectively by Jewish bullets.

We have to add in affirmation of truth that the Arabs gave assurance that they would respect the Holy Places, Convents, Red Cross Institutions, and in fact they kept their word till now, and if they entered in a certain convent it was in view of counter defense.

We therefore appeal to all those in power and to the civilized world to compel the Jews to respect the Holy places and the religious institutions and to desist from making them military bases and targets.

TESTIMONY OF CHRISTIAN CLERGY: PROTESTS TO THE UNITED NATIONS

Monsignor Thomas MacMahon, Secretary of the Catholic Near East Association of New York, wrote to the Secretary-General of the United Nations on August 20, 1948 stating: "There have been constantly some violations and desecrations of Catholic holy places. The Associated Press report of August 19, 1948 confirmed that Jewish forces perpetrated criminal acts against 12 Roman Catholic Institutions in Northern Palestine... Seven churches, convents, and hospitals have been looted by Jews and others seized by force."<sup>7</sup>

Convent of Franciscan Fathers in Tiberias: The late Monsignor Vergani, General Vicar for the Latin Patriarch of Jerusalem for Galilee, reported on July 27, 1948 the following: "The chapel was profaned, the altar overturned, the statues of the Holy Virgin, Saint Francis, and Saint Anthony were broken to pieces."<sup>8</sup>

Church of the Beatitudes and the Italian Hospice at Capernaum: The late Monsignor Vergani also reported: "Jewish soldiers entered the church by a window, forced loose the image from the cross. A grenade had been thrown against one of the door posts of the church and a mark of some size was left in the stone..."<sup>9</sup>

Church of Mosaic and Hospice in Tabaka: The late Monsignor Vergani also reported: "The chapel was profaned, the door broken open, the statues in pieces, sacred vestments torn and thrown on the floor, the tabernacle opened by force, the chalice stolen, crosses broken."<sup>10</sup>

Our Lady of France Hostel and Church in Jerusalem: Father Pascal St. Jean, Superior of our Lady of France Hostel reported the following: "Rooms were ransacked, the archives of our Father Superior were plundered, scattered and destroyed. The safe was opened, emptied of all money, and valuables were stolen. Both chapels were desecrated, figures of Christ unfastened from crosses and taken away. In the great chapel we came upon Jewish soldiers of both sexes dancing in the sanctuary to the music of the harmonium. Benches were taken outside and used for profane purposes. We have seen mattresses in the great chapel and Jewish soldiers have certainly been sleeping there. I protest against these acts in particular. They are sins committed on the premises of holy worship."<sup>11</sup>

Greek Catholic Church, Jaffa: Father A. Rezk of the Greek Catholic Church, Jaffa, reported on August 4, 1948 the following: "My church has been desecrated by the Jews. Armed Jewish soldiers broke through the Church door. They stole two chalices, and sacred vases containing the Holy Host, three crosses, a patena plate, two altar spoons — They threw away the icons of Jesus Christ and the Holy Virgin in a garden next door."<sup>12</sup>

DESTRUCTION AND DESECRATION OF CHRISTIAN HOLY PLACES AFTER 1948

Following the establishment of Israel, the Israeli authorities continued their destruction and desecration of Christian holy places.

1. Israeli forces seized several Christian convents and churches on Mt. Zion in Jerusalem. They looted the ornaments and church golden and silver objects and transformed those convents and churches into military posts for Jewish armed forces. An eyewitness who recently reported about the Church of St. Saviour on Mt. Zion stated the following:

The interior of the Church of St. Saviour is a scene of total devastation. The carved and gilded altar has been wrecked, and an altar painting lies destroyed on the upper floor. The oil paintings that decorated the upper part of the north and south walls have been torn out of their frames leaving only tattered shreds of canvas. Many of the Kutahya tiles, brought especially from Turkey by Armenian pilgrims in the early eighteenth century have been ripped from the walls; those that have not been stolen lie smashed on the ground, along with a tangled mass of broken church furniture. The valuable collection of old church vestments has completely disappeared.<sup>13</sup>

2. Israeli forces desecrated and vandalized the Armenian and the Greek Orthodox cemeteries on Mt. Zion in Jerusalem. Fourteen tombs of Christian patriarchs were smashed open and their contents desecrated. Two were demolished and excavated to a depth of 6 feet. All marble stones were broken.

In the Greek Orthodox cemetery on Mt. Zion, practically every tomb in the cemetery was smashed. Many graves were dynamited or smashed open. Fragments of marble crosses, angels' wings and inscriptions lie inextricably mixed with human skeletons and skulls, blackened tree stumps, and the remains of rockets and shells.

The Catholic cemetery on Mt. Zion received the same treatment from the Zionists. The Very Reverend Father

Andres, Procurator-General in the Holy Land since 1962, published an article in the Catholic Journal, La Terra Sainte, March, 1968 in which he described the shocking acts of vandalism and desecration of the Catholic Cemetery. He published several photos showing the evil deeds of profanation. Father Andres states: "The Jews actually dragged the corpses out of the tombs and scattered the coffins and remains of the dead all around the cemetery."

3. On Christmas Day of 1952, the Israelis blew up the Christian village of Ikret in the north of Palestine together with its beautiful church. The Christian inhabitants were scattered into other parts of Galilee.

Monseigneur Hakim, Archbishop of the Greek Catholic Diocese of Acre, Haifa, Nazareth and the rest of Galilee, (now Patriarch Maximos V. Hakim), wrote a letter to Dr. Hertzog, Minister of Religious Affairs in Israel, describing what he saw in the village of Ikret as follows:

I return from my visit to Ikret, a 100% Catholic village, and it grieves me to say, I return heartbroken. The scenes of demolished houses, streets blocked with stones and timber, and tottering walls — these atrocities, added to the memory of my previous visits to this village which was in the past alive with its inhabitants, have filled my heart with anguish and distress. When I reached the summit of the village and stood in its Churchyard, I felt the tears in my eyes as I saw the Vicarage in rubble, that beautiful residence that used to fill our hearts with joy and glory, and which was erected with its three spacious rooms above the school, all were demolished. The Church, I could not gain access to it since its entrances were obstructed with stones; but I do not doubt that the collapse of the adjacent houses has inflicted upon it serious damage. Climbing the ruins surrounding the church, I saw a deep cleft in the upper part of the eastern wall. The cross that was standing erect above the dome was smashed. I cannot tell whether it was accidental or deliberate. The belfry was void of its bell which was pulled down by the inhabitants of the adjacent Jewish colony to be used in announcing the times for their meals.<sup>14</sup>

4. In October 1953, Israeli forces destroyed the Christian village of Kafr Bur'om in Galilee together with its churches, schools, and other buildings and scattered the Christian inhabitants to other parts of Galilee.

5. On April 16th, 1954, the Zionists launched an attack against the cemetery of the Greek Catholic Community in Haifa. Israeli hysteria against Christians was exhibited in that cemetery by group dancing on the Christian tombs, destruction of many tombs and digging out the remains, 73 crosses and 50 statues of angels were smashed.

6. In July 1954, a group of Israelis attacked a Christian religious procession of the Carmelite Fathers and the Christian community of Haifa near the cave of St. Elijah on Mt. Carmel near Haifa. The Christian religious procession was broken up, many of the crosses carried by the procession were smashed, and many Christians were injured.

7. The New York Times of July 12, 1961 published a dispatch from Jerusalem under the title "Church in Israel Shut By Stonings: Jewish Fanatics Attack Christian Services." The dispatch states:

Services of a Christian Fundamentalist missionary group in Jerusalem had been called off following stone-throwing attacks by Jewish religious fanatics... Since April 5 every Wednesday night and Sunday night service in the tiny stone church in the former Greek colony here has been disrupted by boisterous crowds outside the church compound.

The crowds were small at first, probably twenty-five or thirty persons the first Wednesday night. They blocked the front and rear gates to the compound and chanted: "Eichmann! Eichmann!" The crowd grew larger and noisier until April 19 when some persons began hurling stones. The stone attacks have persisted since then and most of the windows in the church have been shattered. Various church groups have felt the animosity, especially missionary groups. The Church of Christ has been the least reticent of all about its willingness to convert Jews to Christianity.<sup>15</sup>

8. On January 10, 1963, seventy Jews, mostly Yeshiva students, attacked the Finnish Christian Mission School in Jerusalem, smashed thirty windows and beat Mr. Risto Santala, the school pastor. Further up the Street of the Prophets, a car belonging to a Hebrew-Christian family was overturned and the plate glass windows of the Zion Mission shop run by the Reverend William Hall, were smashed. The Jewish mobs were incited by an editorial in the Jewish newspaper Yediot Aharonot of December 23, 1962 which accused the Christian Mission of converting Jews to Christianity, and calling on Jews to demonstrate outside the Finnish School.

DESECRATION OF CHRISTIAN HOLY PLACES 1967-1969

During the June war of 1967 Israeli forces shelled and damaged many churches in the old city of Jerusalem and the church of the Nativity in Bethlehem. Israeli forces opened the church of the Holy Sepulchre to Jews who poured into the holiest place in Christendom indecently dressed, behaving disrespectfully, joking, singing and pouring pharisaic hate and insults against Christianity and against Jesus Christ inside the Holy Sepulchre and next to the tomb of Jesus Christ.

Nancy Nolan of Grosse Isle, Michigan, wife of Dr. Abu Haydar of the American University Hospital in Beirut, Lebanon, in an open letter to the Christians of the Western world, described as an eye witness what she saw in Jerusalem during and after its occupation in 1967 by Israel:

While the Israeli authorities proclaim to the world that all religions will be respected and protected, and post notices identifying the Holy Places, Israeli soldiers and youths are throwing stink bombs in the church of the Holy Sepulchre. The Muslim call to prayer, formerly heard from every minaret five times daily, is no longer heard in Jerusalem, third most sacred city to the hundreds of millions of Muslims all over the world.

The Church of St. Anne, whose crypt marks the birthplace of the Virgin Mary, has been severely damaged and the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem also was damaged. The wanton killing of the Warden of the Garden Tomb followed by the shooting into the Tomb itself, in an attempt to kill the warden's wife, was another instance that we knew first-hand which illustrated the utter disregard shown by the occupation forces toward the Holy Places and the religious sensibilities of the people in Jordan and in the rest of the world. The desecration of the Christian churches, especially the Church of the Nativity and the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, of which we know personally, includes smoking in the churches, littering the churches, taking dogs inside and entering in inappropriate manner of dress. Behavior such as this cannot be construed other than as a direct insult to the whole Christian world.<sup>16</sup>

Reverend James L. Kelso, the former moderator of the United Presbyterian Church, who lived for many years in Palestine, described the damage and desecration of church property in an article published in Christianity Today, July 21, 1967. Reverend Kelso states:

How did Israel respect church property in the fighting a few weeks ago? They shot up the Episcopal Cathedral, just as they had done in 1948. They smashed down the Episcopal school for boys so their tanks could get through to Arab Jerusalem. The Israelis wrecked and looted the YMCA upon which the Arab refugees had bestowed so much loving handcraft. They wrecked the big Lutheran Hospital, even though this hospital was used by the United Nations. The hospital had just added a new children's center and a new research department. The Lutheran center for cripples also suffered. At Ramallah, a Christian City near Jerusalem, the Episcopal girls' school was shot at and some of the girls were killed. So significant was this third Jewish war against the Arabs that one of the finest missionaries of the Near East called it "perhaps the most serious setback that Christendom has had since the fall of Constantinople in 1453... There is a deep horror about all this history in the fact that great numbers of Christians in the United States applaud Israel's crimes against Arab Christians and Arab Muslims. How can a Christian applaud the murder of a brother Christian by Zionist Jews? The Arab church is as truly the body of Christ as the American Church."<sup>17</sup>

MURDER OF THE WARDEN OF GARDEN TOMB

Mrs. Sigrid W. Proft of Switzerland was an eye witness to the murder of the Reverend S.J. Mattar, warden of the Garden Tomb in Jerusalem. Mrs. Proft gave the following account:

When the war started on Monday morning the 5th of June, the three of us, Reverend and Mrs. Mattar and I, went to the Tomb for shelter from the constant bombing and shooting. We had to spend all the day and night in the Tomb of our Lord, as the fire never ceased... About 7 A.M. on Tuesday, the fire seemed to get less and Mr. Mattar decided to go up to the house and get some breakfast. At 7:30 A.M. we suddenly heard voices of soldiers in the lane. They broke the gate and the last thing we heard was Mr. Mattar's voice telling them "good morning" kindly and friendly as he would have received any visitor. We heard several shots immediately afterwards, and they also shot at us in the Tomb, and only through the Lord's protection we were not hurt. When I went up to the house later I found the dear Saint of God (Reverend Mattar) in front of the house with several shots in his head, killed by Jewish soldiers without any cause.<sup>18</sup>

DESTRUCTION OF THREE BIBLICAL VILLAGES: BEIT-NUBA, EMMAUS AND YALU

The villages of Yalu, Beit Nuba and Emmaus were known from the time of Jesus. "And they drew nigh to Emmaus: and the unknown pilgrim made as though he would go further. But they constrained him, saying: Stay with us, because it is towards evening and the day is now far spent. And he went in with them. And it came to pass, whilst he was at table with them, he took bread, and blessed and broke, and gave to them. And their eyes opened and they knew him and he vanished out of their sight"(Luke XXIV 13-31). The Church of Emmaus was reconstructed in 1902 by the Franciscan Fathers on Crusader Foundations. Emmaus has also a big Catholic Convent and was a great tourist attraction. These three Biblical villages were occupied by the Israeli army on June 9, 1967. All homes and buildings in the three villages, together with the Catholic Church, Convent and two Muslim Mosques were razed to the ground. Twenty two men, women and children were killed in the blasting operations. Over 5,000 people were made homeless.

The well known Jewish writer Amos Kenan was a soldier in the Jewish army unit which demolished these three villages. In an interview with the Jewish magazine Haolem Hazeh, he gave the following account:

The unit commander told us that it had been decided to blow up three villages in our sector; they were Beit-Nuba, Emmaus and Yalu. This was explained by strategic, tactical and security considerations. At noon the first bulldozer arrived and pulled down the first house at the edge of the village. Within 10 minutes the house was turned into rubble. The olive trees and cypresses were all uprooted. After the destruction of three houses the first refugee column arrived from the direction of Ramallah. We told them to go to Beit Sura. They told us that they were driven out everywhere, forbidden to enter any village, that they were wandering like this for four days, without food, without water, some dying on the road. They asked to return to the village, and said we'd better kill them. Some had a goat, a lamb, a donkey or camel. A father ground wheat by hand to feed his four children. On the horizon we could see the next group arriving. The children cried. Some of our soldiers started crying too. We went to fetch them water. We stopped a car with a major, two captains and a woman. We took a jerrican of water and distributed it to the refugees. We also handed out cigarettes and candy. More soldiers burst out crying. We asked the officers why are these refugees sent from one place to another and driven out of everywhere. They told us this was good for them. Let them go. Moreover, said the officers, why do we care about the Arabs anyway. We drove them out. They go on wandering in the south like lost cattle. The weak die. In the evening we found out that we had been deceived, for in Beit-Sura too, bulldozers commenced destruction and they were forbidden to enter. We found out that not only in our sector was the border straightened out for security reasons but in all sectors. Our unit was outraged. At night we were ordered to guard the bulldozers, but the unit was so outraged that no soldier was willing to carry out such duties. None of us understood how Jews could behave like this. The chickens and doves were buried in the rubble. The fields were turned into wasteland in front of our eyes. The children who went on crying on the road will be Fedayeen in 19 years, in the next round. Thus have we lost on that day the victory.<sup>19</sup>

A CAMPAIGN AGAINST CHRISTIAN MISSIONARIES

Since the creation of Israel a continuous campaign of hate and incitement has been carried out by Jewish secular and religious authorities against Christians, Christian clergy, Christian churches, and Christian missionaries. This campaign fanned hatred and fanaticism, and encouraged Rabbis, Zealots and Jewish mobs to commit acts of violence against Christians, Christian missions, churches and institutions.

The Jewish paper Badi-ot Khadeshot of December 21, 1952 published a declaration by the Supreme Council of Rabbis in Israel, released on December 20, 1952, attacking the activities of Christian missionaries. The declaration was signed by two leading Rabbis, Dr. Hertzog and Dr. Oziel, and the Secretary-General of the Council. It was directed to all Rabbis and those concerned with religious affairs, calling upon them to combat the activities of Christian missionaries. The declaration stated: "More than four hundred of the apostles of Satan — the missionaries, among whom are some baptized Jews, who are traitors to their people — have fallen on the country like the swarm of locusts."<sup>20</sup>

The Tel Aviv newspaper Ha'aretz published on July 20, 1954 an article written by Rabbi J.L. Maimon, member of the executive Board of the Jewish Agency, first Minister of Religious Affairs, and Chief of the Mizrahi Party. He wrote:

I want to admit that I sinned against my people. When I accepted the post of Minister of Religions I can say that I tried to defend and to guard the Holy Places of Christians and Muslims, even though I know that these places were sacred only by virtue of certain traditions devoid of any historical foundation. I was hoping that heads of these religions would appreciate and would defend our Holy Places, as if I did not know that one cannot have confidence in the uprightness and sense of justice of Christian and Muslim religious authorities. I knew that robbery and murder are their methods, but I hoped that in our time, a period of civilization and progress, the followers of these two religions, would overcome their cruelty and would adopt towards our sacred places some sentiments of respect. However, I am obliged to say, to my regret, that I have been completely fooled, and that I did not take advantage of an advice of a great Zionist who told me 25 years ago "the best of Goyim has in the bottom of his heart the germ of hate against the Jewish people."<sup>21</sup>

The National Jewish Post and Opinion published in its issue of February 8, 1963 that the Israel Minister of Religious Affairs had come out strongly in favor of anti-missionary (Christian missionary) activity, following widespread reports of over-zealous missionary work. Dr. Zarah Wahrhaftig said that Israel's Jewish population had to overcome its indifference to missionary work if there was to be any hope of its being stopped. Speaking at the founding meeting of the Council to Combat the Christian Missions, he said that while he did not advocate violence of the sort that resulted in the stoning of the Finnish mission, more voluntary activity in the anti-missionary field was vitally necessary. Resolutions adopted at this meeting expressing "Abhorrence at the despicable methods of the Christian missions and regret at the forgiving attitudes of the authorities, particularly in the lack of any legislation which would prohibit missions."<sup>22</sup>

THE PERSECUTION OF CHRISTIANS IN ISRAEL

In 1947 the Christian population of Palestine was 350,000. When Israelis usurped 80% of Palestine in 1948, they expelled 800,000 Muslim and Christian Arabs. The Christian population of Israel in 1969 was less than 45,000. They are treated as second-class citizens, deprived of their lands, discriminated against in employment and education, and restricted in their movements by military regulations applied to Arab areas. Jews who adopted Christianity, as well as European Christians, are subjected to vicious forms of harassment, discrimination and persecution. The following incidents illustrate the nature of persecution of Christians in Israel.

1. ZIONISTS ATTACK JEWISH-CHRISTIAN MEETINGS

On the 12th of July 1954, a Protestant Minister in Tiberias went to a house where some families of Christians and Jews had gathered. A Rabbi provoked Jews to riot by spreading the rumor that many Jews were to be baptized in that house. Hundreds of Jews gathered and attacked the house. The police were rushed to disperse the mob, and it was only the presence of the police which saved the Protestant Minister from being lynched.

2. PERSECUTION OF PARENTS FOR SENDING THEIR CHILDREN TO CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS

Governmental and Religious authorities carry on a constant campaign of persecution against parents who send their children to Christian schools. As an example of this campaign the magazine Proche-Orient Chretien of January-March 1954 published the following:

The Grand Rabbinate supported this campaign by an appeal in which it denounced the misdeeds of the Christian Missions. According to Hatsafe newspaper December 2, 1953 the Grand Rabbinate appeal states: "The Christian Missions open under the feet of Jewish children the precipice of assimilation and of change of religion. Those who by attending these schools let themselves be drawn to change their religion become the enemies of our national existence. We want this appeal to reach all families in Israel. We proclaim a special week for action and for information. We launch an appeal in order to collect the necessary funds for the realization of this action."<sup>23</sup>

The newspaper Hatsofe supported the appeal by the Grand Rabbinate with an inflammatory racist editorial. It stated: "This action must be carried out with all possible vigor until the impurity is destroyed by fire from the face of the earth."<sup>24</sup>

Large placards were displayed in Tel Aviv, Jerusalem and other cities stating: "Do you know that about 2,000 children receive Christian education in Israel? Do you know that 400 preachers and Christian educators sent by 48 Christian missionary institutions were recruited for this purpose and exploit the hard economic conditions of the new immigrants? Like in the days of the Maccabees who cleaned the camp of Israel from foreign influence, we must give today a Jewish education to every Jewish child."

Mr. Amos Eylon published an article in Ha'aretz on March 14, 1954 in which he stated: "Government employees as well as those working in municipalities who send their children to Christian schools were obliged under threat of being fired to transfer their children to Jewish schools."

A special section was established in the Ministry of Religious Affairs for the object of fighting Christian missions. This section is sending spies into churches, monasteries, and Christian schools to detect who visit these Christian establishments and to take the names of all those who associate with Christians, or send their children to Christian schools.<sup>25</sup>

3. PERSECUTION OF MIXED CHRISTIAN-JEWISH FAMILIES

The Jewish Daily Forward of New York published several articles about the persecution of families of mixed Christian-Jewish marriages in Israel. Referring to immigrants of mixed marriages the publication stated:

Added to many disappointments with the economic conditions, unemployment and housing, the new immigrants encountered a horror they never expected and which shocked them more than anything else. Their children, for whose sake they left Poland, encountered the same, and in many respects, worse discrimination in Israel than in Poland. According to an Orthodox religious law, children of non-Jewish mothers are considered non-Jews, unless they are circumcised and converted to Judaism. Those who do not conform are baited, insulted, discriminated against, and excluded from society with a rigidity no longer found in any country in Europe. Not only the children of mixed marriages but also the Christian mothers are insulted, ostracized and isolated because, according to the rabbis, they "break up the unity of the Jewish people and endanger the purity of the Jewish families."<sup>26</sup>

4. PREVENTING THE MENTION OF JESUS OR CHRISTIANITY

Israeli Authorities censor all films and plays to prevent mentioning the name of Jesus Christ. Zionist fanaticism was exposed before world public opinion when the Evangelist Dr. Billy Graham visited Israel in March 1960. Although the Evangelist was officially "welcomed," he was prohibited from preaching in Israel. The Israel Authorities ordered managers of public halls in Tel Aviv, Jerusalem and Haifa not to rent them for a Billy Graham rally. Jewish authorities explained to the United Christian Council of Israel, which sponsored Dr. Graham's visit, "that mention of Jesus Christ or Christianity in important cities results in violent demonstrations."

5. PERSECUTION OF JEWS FOR ASSOCIATION WITH CHRISTIANS

Hatsofe newspaper, organ of the National-Religious Party published in its issue of April 10, 1961, that the Rabbinical Court of Tel Aviv decided to deprive a mother of the custody of her four year old son because her husband proved that the wife associated with a Biblical Center with Christian inspiration.<sup>27</sup>

6. BEATING CHRISTIAN WOMEN AND REMOVAL OF CHRISTIAN RELIGIOUS OBJECTS FROM THEIR HOMES

The Jewish Newsletter of December 2, 1957 published the following:

An alarming incident occurred in Israel more shocking than anything that has come from that country since Kfar Kasim. The incident occurred in the village of Dimona in the Negev where a group of Jewish women organized a "secret society" for the purpose of preventing the Christian wives of recently arrived Jewish immigrants from Poland from displaying crosses and holy Christian images in their homes and otherwise adhering to their religious practices. While their husbands were at work, the homes of these immigrants were broken into by members of this society, and some of the Christian wives were severely beaten and warned that the attacks would be repeated unless they removed the Christian religious objects from Jewish homes.<sup>28</sup>

The late William Zukerman denounced persecution of Christians by Jews in the Jewish Newsletter of December 15, 1958:

And it so happened that throughout 1957 one of the most intensive and shocking campaigns was carried on in Israel to convert the non-Jewish wives and children to Judaism, a campaign which has already done irreparable harm to Israel's hopes for future immigration from East European countries, and still greater harm to Jews the world over by demonstrating that Jewish anti-Goyim endowed with power and led and sanctified by militant Orthodoxy, can be in every way as vile and vicious an outburst of fanaticism as anti-Semitism has been anywhere in the modern world except in Nazi Germany. The non-Jewish wives of the Polish immigrants were not only not accepted in Israeli society, but they were discriminated against, isolated, insulted and persecuted because they were "Shiksas." In many cases they were physically assaulted, their homes were broken into and the images and symbols of their religion removed. The lot of their children was made even more unbearable. They, too, were snubbed at school, jeered at, beaten, called goyim and uncircumcised and treated no differently than in the anti-Semitic schools in Poland, the only difference being that in Poland they were tortured because their fathers were Jewish; in Israel because their mothers were non-Jewish. There was a notorious case of a child of five who died of polio and was refused burial by the rabbinate because he was the son of a non-Jewish woman.<sup>29</sup>

The Jewish Newsletter of July 28, 1958 reported the following:

A letter was written by a Christian mother of mixed marriage addressed to the religious deputies in the Knesset. The woman said: "I beg of you, my dear sirs, to answer whether there is a place under the sun for my child. Please tell me where there is a spot in the world for children who have suffered in Diaspora lands as Jews because their father is a Jew, and are being discriminated against in Israel because their mother is a non-Jewess? Why don't you recognize them as Jews, just because their mother is not a religious woman and does not want to be affiliated with any religious body?" The reply of the religious leaders was as follows: "We have come here to live our own life without interference from other people. We understand very well the anguish of Mrs. Harnish as a mother who is afraid for the fate of her child. But she too has to understand us and to understand means not to stand in our way, not to create new complications. No one will force Mrs. Harnish to convert her son to Judaism, but if she wants her son to be treated on equal terms with Jews she must make it possible for him to become a real Jew and a son of the Jewish people."<sup>30</sup>

Reverend Philip Wagner, a Catholic priest, who studied the situation of the Catholic Church in Israel, wrote an article in the Catholic Magazine Ava Maria of October 8, 1960 in which he stated:

The Israeli government must do more than proclaim official principles about religious freedom. It must make them effective in the daily lives of those Catholics who suffer severe discrimination in the Israeli homeland. Reverend Wagner described the pitiful condition of the children of mixed marriages, he stated: "The Christian children of mixed marriages are subject to insults, indignities, and ostracism in the Jewish communities to which their parents have brought them to live."<sup>31</sup>

OBLITERATION OF CHRISTIAN SHRINES

In addition to discriminating against Christians, the Zionists relentlessly tried to obliterate Christian shrines throughout occupied Palestine, including the holy places around the Sea of Galilee and the Jordan River, as well as in Nazareth.

Lake Tiberias: Lake Tiberias or the Sea of Galilee is truly called the Lake of Jesus because He has sanctified it with His miracles, with His frequent navigations from one shore to the other, by His excursions along its shores where He distributed to the multitudes gathered there from all surrounding countries His divine teaching.

Zionists changed the name of the lake and are changing all its characteristics. They dried the Hula Lake from the North and diverted the water of the Sea of Galilee from the South. With excavations and water works, Jews are doing everything possible to change the serene character of the lake. Zionists engineered a project for digging a canal from the Mediterranean Sea to the lake which will completely alter its holy aspect.

The Jordan River: In memory of the baptism of Jesus, Christians from the earliest ages went in a spirit of piety to bathe in the waters of the Jordan.

This sacred shrine of Christendom has been mutilated in the north, its water diverted and will soon dry up because Israel steals its water and diverts it to the Negev.

Nazareth: Nazareth, the city of Mary and Jesus, is called by Christians the beautiful flower of Galilee. It is an important center of Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant churches, monasteries, institutions, and schools. In 1948, Nazareth had 25,000 inhabitants of whom 14,000 were Christians and 11,000 Muslims. No Jew lived in Nazareth. Since 1952, Jews planned the Judaization of Nazareth with the object of squeezing out its Christian and Muslim inhabitants. Jews seized all lands surrounding the city, confiscated them from Christian and Muslim owners, and built housing projects, settlements and industries employing Jews only. The present population of Nazareth and its suburbs is more than 10,000 Jews and less than 7,000 Christians. The so-called Ministry of Defense is in charge of Judaizing Nazareth. It is altering all its ancient roads and obliterating its historical buildings. Jewish prostitutes have infested the area and the Christian sanctity of Nazareth is being violated.

CHRISTIANITY AND THE STATE OF ISRAEL

The aforementioned crimes committed by the Zionists reflected the deep-felt hatred of everything Christian embedded in the Zionist ideology. Testimony shows that this hatred went so deep that the Zionist authorities removed the international "+" sign from mathematics textbooks because of the resemblance of the plus sign to the Christian Cross.

Such an insanity can only be called pathological, and Palestinian Christians cannot understand Christians in other lands who support Zionism despite this insane hatred of the Christian faith. American Jewish organizations, such as the Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai Brith, raise a tremendous clamor whenever there is a desecration of Jewish synagogues or a perceived slur against Judaism. But their deafening silence at similar Zionist crimes against Christianity in Israel sorrowfully indicates that the ADL is more self-righteous than righteous and more hypocritical than principled. Even more shameful is the attitude of the Christian televangelists who mislead their followers into supporting the persecution of their fellow Christians.

Prominent Israeli human rights advocate, Israel Shahak, has written about the deep-rooted Zionist hatred of Christianity and the manifestations of that hatred in Israel:

Dishonouring Christian religious symbols is an old religious duty in Judaism. Spitting on the cross, and especially on the Crucifix, and spitting when a Jew passes a church, have been obligatory from around AD 200 for pious Jews. In the past, when the danger of anti-Semitic hostility was a real one, the pious Jews were commanded by their rabbis either to spit so that the reason for doing so would be unknown, or to spit onto their chests, not actually on the cross or openly before the church. The increasing strength of the Jewish state has caused these customs to become more open again but there should be no mistake: The spitting on the cross for converts from Christianity to Judaism, organized in Kibbutz Sa'ad and financed by the Israeli government is an act of traditional Jewish piety. It does not cease to be barbaric, horrifying and wicked because of this! On the contrary, it is worse because it is so traditional, and much more dangerous as well, just as the renewed anti-Semitism of the Nazis was dangerous, because in part, it played on the traditional anti-Semitic past.

This barbarous attitude of contempt and hate for Christian symbols has grown in Israel. In the 1950s Israel issued a series of stamps representing pictures of Israeli cities. In the picture of Nazareth, there was a church and on its top a cross — almost invisible, perhaps the size of a millimeter. Nevertheless, the religious parties, supported by many on the Zionist "left" made a scandal and the stamps were quickly withdrawn and replaced by an almost identical series from which the microscopic cross was withdrawn.

Then there was the long-drawn-out battle about Christian influence in elementary arithmetic. Pious Jews object to the international plus sign for it is a cross, and it may in their opinion, influence little children to convert to Christianity. Another "explanation" holds: it would then be difficult to "educate" them to spit on the cross, if they become used to it in their arithmetic exercises. Until the early 1970s two different sets of arithmetic books were used in Israel. One for the secular schools, employing an inverted "T" sign. In the early '70's the religious fanatics "converted" the Labour Party to the great danger of the cross in arithmetic, and from that time, in all Hebrew elementary schools (and now many high schools as well) the international plus sign has been forbidden.

Similar development is visible in other areas of education. Teaching the New Testament was always forbidden, but in the old times conscientious teachers of history used to circumvent the prohibition, by organising seminars or sending the students to libraries (not the school libraries, of course). About 10 years ago there was a wave of denouncing such teachers. One in Jerusalem was almost sacked, for advising her history pupils, who were studying the history of Jews in Palestine around 30-40 AD, that it would be a good thing if they would read a few chapters of the New Testament as a historical aid. She retained her post only after humbly promising not to do this again.

However, in recent years, anti-Christian feelings are literally exploding in Israel (and among the Israel-worshipping Jews in Diaspora too) together with the increase of the Jewish fanaticism in all other areas.

The worst enemies of the truth here, as in many other aspects of the Israel reality, are the socialists, "liberals," "radicals," etc. in the USA. Imagine the reaction of the US Liberals, and of such papers as The Nation and New York Review of Books, not to speak of the New York Times if in any state whatsoever, the government financed spitting on a Star of David? But when here in Israel, the government finances the spitting on a cross, they are and will continue to be, quite silent. More than this, they help to finance it. United States taxpayers, who are of course mostly Christians, are financing at least half the Israeli budget, one way or another, and therefore the spitting on the cross too.<sup>32</sup>

BITTERNESS IN BETHLEHEM

The Zionist hatred of Christianity, despite the criminal complicity of certain American fundamentalist leaders in supporting and subsidizing the Zionist persecution of Christians, extends to the birthplace of Christ, Bethlehem, and the Via Dolorosa in Jerusalem. On this ground so sacred to all Christians the Israelis have placed soldiers with machine guns. The shops serving the Christian pilgrims are harassed. Canadian Magazine, Maclean's, reports from the Holy Land on January 20, 1985:<sup>33</sup>

In almost 20 years of Israeli military rule, relations between the local people and the occupation authorities have never been worse — nor has business been poorer. The souvenir shops lining the square, with their olive-wood and mother-of-pearl religious trinkets, were almost deserted.

On the roof of the police station overlooking Holy Manger Square, authorities had erected a tent to provide shelter for troops who would spend Christmas Eve on watch. Many more soldiers were deployed in the vicinity. But another Canadian visitor, Harold Dick from Winnipeg, complained, "The Christian Arabs want to celebrate Christmas without soldiers and without all this security apparatus." And in the narrow streets away from the town center, that view was echoed. Said Beni Nasser, a Christian Arab doctor: "This celebration is not for us, the local Christian people. It is for the foreigners, the Israelis and the invited guests. We cannot even get into the church for midnight mass on Christmas Eve. And very few of us go to Manger Square beforehand. It's surrounded by Israeli soldiers whose presence simply reminds us of the occupation." Added a friend of the doctor: "What you don't see is our humiliation."

The mood was equally gloomy in the narrow streets of old Jerusalem. There, the recent murder of a young Jewish religious student by three Arabs led to rioting by angry Israelis. The Arab merchants, shopkeepers and hotel owners who rely heavily on the Christmas trade said that customers were now afraid to enter the old city. Said shopkeeper Mazin Shaika: "This is not just quiet. This is dead." On the nearby Via Dolorosa, the path believed to have been followed by Jesus on the way to the Crucifixion, antique dealer George Awaideh complained: "It is hard for us Palestinians. Politically it is bad and now it is economically bad."

CHRISTIAN PILGRIMS AND TOUR GUIDES IN THE HOLY LAND

The Israeli authorities daily infringe upon the religious rights of Christians through their interference with the tourist guides in the Holy Land.

In 1978, the Israeli government required all tour groups to be accompanied by a guide licensed by the Tourism Ministry. Since 1967, the Ministry has granted guide licenses only to Jewish Israelis. The effect of this regulation is that the movement and experiences of Christian pilgrims are closely controlled and regulated by Jewish Israeli guides.

Christian clergy who have participated in these tours report that the guides use the occasion for propagandising and disseminating politically motivated information. The pilgrims, many of whom have saved money their whole lives to visit the Holy Land, have had their religious sensibilities offended by the subordination of Christian history to Jewish history (i.e. Bethlehem is the "City of David," not the birthplace of Christ). The Jewish guides help ensure that the pilgrims remain unaware of the native Christian community and actively discourage fellowship between the native and foreign Christians: the tour groups stay in Jewish West Jerusalem and are told to stay away from East Jerusalem because the Christian Palestinians there are "terrorists".

When pilgrim groups come who are in touch with their denominations in Jerusalem they attempt to foster fellowship with the local Christians and use their own clergy there as guides rather than the expensive Ministry-licensed guides. As a result, the guide-priests are harassed and intimidated by the Israeli police because they lack a license. Pilgrim groups are also denied tour buses by the Israeli car rental firms. The Christian Pilgrimage Commission in the Holy Land complained of these practices to the Israeli government in a two page memorandum dated March 13, 1984. The Memorandum charges that the Ministry is violating the freedom of pilgrimage which Christians have enjoyed for 2000 years.

Another motivation for denying guide licenses to Christian Palestinians is to deny them their livelihood. This is clearly part of the intentional destabilisation of the Palestinian economy...for guiding pilgrims is, and has been, a traditional occupation among the native Christians in the Holy Land for centuries.<sup>34</sup>

PHYSICAL THREAT TO CHRISTIAN HOLY PLACES

Physical threat to the Holy Shrines of Christianity is a constant reality in the occupied territories. Jewish fanatics, such as the Gush Emunim movement, in collusion with the Zionist authorities, wage a campaign of threats to violence, often culminating in violence, towards Christian holy places. Al Fajr, a Jerusalem weekly, of April 30-May 6, 1982, reported on page six: "Two to three hundred Muslims and Christian high school students demonstrated in the church of the Holy Sepulchre, May 3, to protest recent threats to Holy Places in the West Bank. Two days earlier a letter was received from the Gush Emunim, threatening to bomb the church."<sup>35</sup>

That the threats presented by the Gush Emunim fanatics are real, and backed by the highest Zionist political and military authorities, is shown in the following excerpt from an article by Amnon Rubenstein in Al Fajr of May 21-27, 1982.

Abraham Zemel (Avidan) who was, in the past, the Chief Rabbi of the Central (Army) Command... in a notorious article established it is a Jewish Religious Law that there is a justification for murder of non-Jewish civilians, including women and children, during a war: "About this they said: 'Kill even the best among the Gentiles (Goyim) and a Gentile should never be trusted that he may not bring harm to our own forces.'"<sup>36</sup>

To men like Rabbi Abraham Zemel the existence of any non-Jew on Zionist controlled land is potentially a casus bellum. Just as the Nazis considered the lives of the people under their racist occupation to be as nothing, and the deaths of those innocent people to be justified by their insane ideology, so the Zionists are following the same path.

ALL CHRISTIAN DENOMINATIONS ATTACKED

Following is a chronology illustrating Zionist terrorism and harassment of Orthodox, Roman Catholic and Protestant Christians:

December 23, 1982:

The Israeli news agency ITIM said that unknown persons tried to set fires and drew swastikas on the entrances of two churches in Ein Karem neighbourhood of West Jerusalem.

Israeli police discovered burnt paper pushed through one of the small windows in the Greek Church there. The swastikas were drawn on the entrance of the Notre Dame Church in Ein Karem and the word "OUT" was painted on the entrance. The Israeli news agency said that a week before similar things were painted in French at the entrance of the church.<sup>37</sup>

May 22, 1983:

Jerusalem. Unidentified vandals paid a visit to a convent run by German nuns in Jerusalem. Police said the vandals attacked and heavily damaged a statue set up in the courtyard of the convent. This is the latest in a series of anti-Christian incidents in Jerusalem.<sup>38</sup>

June 16, 1983:

Jerusalem. The Russian Orthodox nuns in Ain Karem, site of the birthplace of John the Baptist, are being subjected to further harassment, only weeks after the fatal stabbing of their Mother Superior and another nun.

The nuns complained to the police that two men entered the church earlier this week, and proceeded to pester and frighten them.

Elsewhere, unidentified vandals daubed the swastika in the main entrance to the Russian Orthodox church in West Jerusalem, directly in front of the Moscoviyya detention centre, Jerusalem's main police centre.<sup>39</sup>

November 4, 1983:

The Israeli authorities have been holding a Roman Catholic priest without charge since November 4, it was learned this week. The priest, Father Fawzi Khoury, 36, from the Fassouta Roman Catholic Church, was arrested at Lydda airport while on his way to Paris to continue his advanced theological studies. Bishop of Haifa and the Galilee Maxim Salloom sent protest telegrams, November 21, to the Israeli Prime Minister and the interior and defence ministers. Bishop Salloom pointed out that Khoury's health has deteriorated in prison and that he has been held for more than 18 days without charge.

Al Ittihad wrote, November 23, that released prisoners say Father Khoury's health is poor "as a result of the psychological pressure that is being exercised against him by Israeli interrogators."<sup>40</sup>

December 27, 1983:

Tiberias. Police are holding two residents on suspicion of setting fire to the Hotel Nitzan on Sunday night.

One man was arrested late Sunday night and the other was arrested yesterday morning.

Although neither is ultra-Orthodox, police are checking whether they might have been acting on behalf of ultra-Orthodox elements angry over alleged missionary activities at the hotel.

Ultra-Orthodox Jews yesterday said missionary activity is on the increase. Various Christian sects are offering money, clothes, jewelry and tennis shoes to Jews who will listen to missionary lectures, they charged.

The Christmas burning of the hotel is the latest in a series of actions harassing the group, a member told the Jerusalem Post yesterday.

Kenneth Crowell said in a telephone interview that until now the members of his group had not gone to the press because they did not want to cause bad publicity for Israel. "But now it's getting out of hand," he said.

The hotel had been criticized by Jewish anti-missionary groups who claimed it is the focus of missionary activity. As a result, the owners closed the hotel and asked the group to leave.

Another group member, Reuben Berger, said the harassment included breaking into prayer meetings and photographing those present. One photograph of the children of the community was published in a leaflet which said that the group was taking children off the streets, he said.

Berger, who said he is a Jew from the U.S. who believes in Jesus, described the 50-member group as an unaffiliated gathering of Jews from Israel and abroad together with gentiles who love Israel. All share a belief in Jesus as the messiah and hold their meetings in Hebrew with a translation in English.

The impetus for the action against the group had come from Yad Le'Achim, the anti-missionary group, and from a local yeshiva, Kolel Yad Rambam, he said. Berger denied that the group engaged in any missionary activity and said that on one occasion, members had even asked outsiders who were distributing a tract to stop.

In their attacks on the group, its opponents had smashed windows, in one case hitting a woman in the head with a stone, and broken into homes of members. One Jewish family from the U.S. had left the country under the pressure, he said, although their son, an officer in the IDF, had remained.

According to the latest information, Berger said, members of the Tiberias underworld are being offered money to attack the group.<sup>41</sup>

January 5, 1984:

Unidentified individuals arsoned a church in West Jerusalem, January 5, in another in a series of bombings and arsons against Christian and Muslim targets.

Elias Sharikas, an elder in the Messianic Assemblies Church, said that they had heard a rumor the day before that the church might be burned but could take no protective action. The fire destroyed the church's piano and a number of books.

According to church officials, the burning is a result of an "anti-missionary mood" now prevalent in Israeli circles. Church sources said that a recent visitor placed the address of the church on copies of Biblical literature later distributed in Orthodox Jewish circles. The 120-member church said it had nothing to do with the material. More than a year ago, the Baptist church in West Jerusalem was completely burned by Meir Kahane's Kach group. More recently, explosives have been placed outside Christian and Muslim religious institutions, in the last month, injuring several people. Plans to build a Christian hotel in the mammoth Gilo settlement, near Bethlehem, were scrapped last week by the Jewish municipality, which refused to issue a building permit. A number of newly converted Christian families in Tiberias have reported harassment by Jewish neighbors.<sup>42</sup>

January 15, 1984:

A Russian Orthodox nun "miraculously" escaped injury, January 15, when a booby-trapped Israeli army-issue hand grenade exploded as she opened the door of her flat at the Ain Karem convent. The explosion, which resembles nearly a dozen other attacks against Christian and Muslim religious institutions, was attributed by the Israeli police to the Israeli "Terror Against Terror" group (TNT).

The bomb went off at 9.00 a.m. The nun said she heard a sound like a stone dropping as she opened her door, followed by a hissing. She immediately ran around a corner before the grenade exploded. The force of the explosion blew the door to pieces.

The grenade, the same type issued by the Israeli army, was apparently booby-trapped in the same way as bombs in TNT attacks — the safety pin was removed and the handle fastened under a stone. An Israeli officer later told reporters that the nun had "miraculously escaped injury."

West Jerusalem mayor Teddy Kollek attacked Israeli officials saying "not everybody is taking this matter seriously."

Last spring, two Russian Orthodox nuns were stabbed to death by an American. The man is said to be undergoing psychiatric tests in Israeli custody.

Israeli police sources say they suspect the as yet unfound Israeli TNT terrorist group, but no responsibility has been claimed. The group has been held responsible for at least 14 bomb attacks in various parts of the West Bank, including the bombing of Christian and Muslim institutions in Jerusalem, Azariya and Hebron. One nun and three mosque imams have been injured in TNT attacks.<sup>43</sup>

April 13, 1985:

Four Assyrian youths were injured April 13 in an attack on an Easter procession by an Orthodox Jewish family living near the Assyrian Convent.

On the occasion of Holy Fire, April 13, members of the Assyrian community led by the archbishop were proceeding to their quarter of the Old City. Members of a Jewish family living in a nearby apartment bombarded the procession with hot water and rocks from an apartment window. In an attempt to thwart the attackers, several Assyrian youths stormed the building looking for the family's apartment. According to some of the injured youths, Jewish residents of the building confronted them with submachine guns poised to fire. A policemen walking with the procession fired several shots in the air in an attempt to prevent possible shooting of the Assyrian youths.

The archbishop of the Assyrian Church — the oldest Christian community in the Holy Land — warned the Israeli government and Jerusalem municipality on April 15 to take immediate action against the fundamentalist Jewish tenants or he and members of his congregation would remove them by force, if necessary. Archbishop Dionisious Behnan Jijawi said Jewish tenants of the same building were involved in four previous attacks on the Assyrian community, all four occurring during Christian holidays. The archbishop said he complained to the police about the previous attacks but no action was taken.

The Jerusalem Post reported that the attackers are newly converted Orthodox Jews of American origin. Police, who refuse to identify the attackers or even to state if the attack was perpetrated by a lone individual or a group, told Archbishop Jijawi that the tenant is "crazy". Jijawi was not satisfied with that explanation and resolved to take action. "If he (or the family) is crazy, then he should be moved to an asylum," he told Al Fajr.

The police summoned to the scene demanded the names of the Assyrian youths who broke in and ransacked the fortified Jewish residence, said the archbishop, instead of attempting to punish the tenants for the attack. The archbishop refused to give names, however, and asserted that the youths had acted in self defense.

Youths from the Assyrian community told Al Fajr that Jewish fanatics who live in the nearby Jewish quarter have tried to provoke them regularly. They said the Assyrian scout troop stopped practising on Fridays and Saturdays out of respect for the Jewish sabbath but this was apparently not enough to satisfy them. The Jewish neighborhood in the vicinity of the Assyrian convent is all Assyrian property confiscated after 1967 to build the Jewish quarter.

Archbishop Jijawi said he has received a verbal apology from Israeli officials for the incident, the fifth in recent history. Yet no action has been taken against those responsible. Assyrian youths said some of the fanatic Jews living nearby threatened that if the youths bother Jewish residents of the neighborhood, the Jews will kill the Assyrian archbishop and destroy the church.<sup>44</sup>

April 12, 1987:

Unidentified arsonists, believed to be Jewish extremists, set St. Savior's Episcopal Church in Akka on fire, April 12. The arsonists also painted racist slogans on the church walls.

According to a statement issued April 14 by Bishop Samir Kafity of the Episcopal Church in Jerusalem, the vandals entered the church building through a small window in the vestry, gathered the benches and furniture into one place, poured petrol on them, and set them on fire. The arsonists also wrote racist slogans in Hebrew on the church's interior walls behind the altar. Some of the slogans read "Kahane the Great," "Get Out Christians and Muslims," and "Death to the Pope."

Reverend Shehadeh, who visited the church afterwards, said burned remnants of the Bible and other church books were scattered on the church floor.

The church statement described the arson as "an act of aggression."

"No doubt, this event, tragic and painful for all of us, took place in the absence of a deterring force to stop such racial and undesirable acts," the statement said. "This aggression is an aggression against spiritual values, against freedom of worship, against democracy."

Akka municipal council member, Ramzi Khoury, from the Democratic Front for Peace and Equality, described the incident as "a criminal act which touches on the feeling of Arabs of all religions in the city." Khoury sent letters to Akka Mayor Elie de Castro, and to the police commander in Akka, demanding a speedy investigation of the incident and apprehension of the perpetrators.

Khoury also said that the incident was similar to two other racist incidents, the first in August, 1986, when a grenade was thrown at an Arab family house; and the second in October 1986, when an Arab school was broken into and racist slogans painted on a wall. Khoury said the pattern of incidents suggests that there is a racist gang operating in the city.<sup>45</sup>

CONTINUING PERSECUTION OF BAPTISTS: ARSON DESTROYS WEST JERUSALEM BAPTIST CHURCH

Jerry Falwell and his disbanded so-called "Moral Majority," which was actually an "Immoral Minority" in its pro-Zionist fanaticism, brainwashed and misguided millions of fundamentalist American Christians. Falwell is actually an accomplice of the Zionists in their crimes against humanity. That the Zionists wage war against Christians in the Holy Land does not deter Falwell and other fundamentalist fanatics from lending support to Zionist crimes, making them accessories to these crimes. Many of these crimes are directed against Baptists, but the facts are hidden from American Baptists who are being knowingly led by these false prophets to support the ruthless Zionist clique misruling the Holy Land.

On October 8, 1982 the Baptist Church building in West Jerusalem was destroyed by a fire which the police, the Jerusalem fire brigade and the church guards believe was set by arsonists.

The fire was discovered by followers of the congregation around 12.30 a.m. They called in the fire brigade who eventually extinguished the blaze. When flames died down the chapel building had been completely destroyed. The fire also caused some damage to the adjacent church library. The Zionist arsonists poured gasoline inside the church and over the church furniture which explained why the building was razed.

The Baptist church was built in 1933 and served members of the congregation who resided in the area. Currently, the church serves tourists, foreign students who are studying in Israel, and other Baptist residents in Jerusalem.

The church has come under attack several times from ultra-religious Jewish groups during the past 10 years. In addition to an arson incident 10 years ago which destroyed the church's bookstore, there have been several window-breaking campaigns.

Mrs. Lindsay, the wife of the church's chaplain, told Al Fajr that a member of the ultra-right Kach movement was detained recently on charges of vandalising the chapel. A spokesman for the church said that it will cost nearly US $2 million to rebuild.<sup>46</sup>

The Foreign Mission News of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention on October 8, 1982, stated: "Vandalism is nothing new at the church and at Baptist House. A few years ago Baptist House was damaged by firebombing and a few windows are broken each year."<sup>47</sup>

The Washington Post of October 9, 1982 gave an account of the arson against the Baptist Church of Jerusalem:

The Baptist Church of Jerusalem, one of the city's largest Protestant churches and repeatedly a target of Jewish anti-missionary attacks, was burned to the ground by arsonists early today, the authorities said.

Police and fire department officers said traces of kerosene were found in the wooden chapel in the residential Nahlaot quarter in Jerusalem's Jewish sector.

Dr. Robert Lindsay, the Oklahoma-born pastor of the church, said it would cost $1 million to rebuild the chapel, a gathering place for pilgrims and Jerusalem Christians since 1933.

In 1978, Israel toughened its laws against missionaries, making it a criminal offense to offer money or other inducements to anyone for changing his religion. No religion was specified in the law.

The fire was among the worst case in memory of anti-Christian activity. In the past decade there have been frequent incidents of window smashing and paint daubing at Christian institutions, and the Baptist center's bookstore was firebombed a few years ago.

Firefighters were able to save the church's bookstore in an adjoining building which Jewish extremists claim sells missionary material. The bookstore has been vandalized a dozen times in recent years.

Lindsay won international attention about 20 years ago when he crossed the former dividing line into east Jerusalem to bring back an Arab boy to his orphanage. The minister lost a leg in a landmine explosion during the rescue effort.

One of Jerusalem's most popular Christian leaders, Lindsey, 65, was asked to preach the sermon at services attended by former president Jimmy Carter on a 1979 visit to Jerusalem.<sup>48</sup>

The Zionist terrorists who set fire to the Baptist Church are not operating in a vacuum. Before its takeover by the Zionists, the oldest Jewish organization in America, B'nai B'rith and its Anti-Defamation League, rightly claimed that violent anti-

Semitic acts were created by a climate of violence and hatred. Today they are silent when it is Jewish extremists in the Holy Land who are breeding a climate of violence and hatred which produces terrorism directed against Christians. Intolerance and hatred, with concomitant violence, is built into the Zionism ideology itself. Thoughtful Jews know that Zionism is damaging real spiritual values. Silenced by fear of Zionist propagandists, one can understand their situation. But there are no excuses for the Jerry Falwells.

Rev. Robert Lindsay confirmed to the Jerusalem Post that there was a long history of tolerance towards criminal violence in Zionist Upper circles. "He recalled that eight years before, two American Jewish girls had tried to set fire to the church bookshop next door. 'Adults incite these youngsters and then they (the adults) are allowed to go scot-free,' he said."<sup>49</sup>

The attacks by Zionist fanatics against the West Jerusalem Baptist Church continue. Christianity Today reports:

The Narkis Street Baptist Church, a Southern Baptist congregation in west Jerusalem, has been the target of ongoing extremist opposition in Israel.

A grenade explosion damaged the church seven years ago. In 1982, a fire that authorities suspect was set intentionally destroyed the church's meeting place. Since then, the congregation has been worshiping in a tentlike structure. Windows in the church office frequently are broken, and slogans have been spraypainted on the property several times.

Earlier this year, a conservative Jewish organization called Yad Lachim organized a protest against the Narkis Street Church. The demonstration was prompted by the church's plans to rebuild its meeting place; a regional planning and development council is considering final approval of the plans. The rebuilding plans prompted one unnamed ultraconservative Orthodox Jewish leader to tell the Jerusalem Post that his political party will withdraw from the municipal coalition if approval is granted.

Extremist activity against Christians in Israel "seems to be increasing" said Isham Ballenger, Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board Director for Europe and the Middle East. "And their influence over others in Israel may be increasing, and this is alarming."

Ballenger said the recent demonstration against the Narkis Street Church was promoted throughout Jerusalem with posters that misrepresented the church's pastor, Robert Lindsay, a Southern Baptist representative in Israel since 1944. Approximately 100 people, including women and children, participated in this protest.

One demonstrator was quoted as declaring over a loudspeaker, "This is just the beginning of making trouble in this area." Among the slogans on the protesters' signs were "Get out, Get out," and "There is no room in this neighborhood for a congregational church and center which is missionary."<sup>50</sup>

The Foreign Mission News of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention of January 29, 1985 stated:

Ballenger believes Yad Lachim also was involved in generating negative press accounts last fall against Baptist congregations in Israel, including one in Ashkelon which Southern Baptist representatives James and Elizabeth Smith work.

The Smiths reported they were accused of "poisoning" innocent young people with our religious beliefs and baptizing them into "Gentile" Christianity.

A congregation in Tiberias was evicted from the building in which they had been meeting.<sup>51</sup>

The January 25, 1985 issue of The Jerusalem Post gave a lengthy account of the demonstration against the beleaguered Baptist Church:

Fifty people took part in a demonstration opposite the Baptist Church in Narkis Street, Rehavia, on Wednesday afternoon, protesting against plans to rebuild the burnt-out church building.

Most of the protesters were ultra-Orthodox residents from other neighborhoods. A few live on Narkis Street.

The protesters said the church held "missionary activities" and that it disrupted the peace on Shabbat. They held signs saying "We don't want a missionary center here," and "Get out, Get out."

Alona Lunzer, one of the local residents who organized the demonstration, said: "They are planning to build a campus here. Some 200 people come here on Shabbat, and none are from the neighborhood. I myself am not religious, but a lot of the residents are.

"Most of the neighbors agree with us, she said.

One of the neighbors, watching from a distance, disagreed. "Look at them — there are only a handful of Narkis Street residents among the demonstrators," he said. The man refused to be identified, saying "You think I want my car blown up?"

Opposition to the church was stepped up as the building plans reached the final stage.

The plans call for a three-storey building on the church's Narkis Street site, where the original 1929 building was destroyed by arson two years ago. No one was ever charged for the offense.

Local ultra-Orthodox politicians have opposed the church since plans for its restoration were first drawn up two years ago. The plans are due to be discussed soon in the regional planning committee, which may give the final approval.

Demonstrator Gershon Holzer, who lives on the neighbouring Hagidem Street, said many local residents are opposed to the rebuilding of the church. "The Church disrupts the Shabbat peace and lowers the quality of life in our quiet residential area," he said.

Rev. Bob Lindsay, minister of the church, denied that his congregation disrupted the peace. "We have heard complaints from only three people" he said.

He charged that the billboard posters and leaflets distributed in neighbourhood mailboxes, calling residents to the demonstrations, were full of misrepresentations.

"They quote me in interviews saying things I don't even remember saying — that I convince Jews to convert," said Lindsay. "The leaflets say all attempts to discuss the matter with the Rev. Lindsay were fruitless. That is an absolute lie — they have never come to me," he added.

Although local residents insisted that they had organized Wednesday's demonstration, the billboard posters were signed by Yad La'ahim, an anti-missionary organization.

Agudat Yisrael city councillor Meir Porush told In Jerusalem that they wanted the church moved out of the neighborhood.<sup>52</sup>

Naive Christians believe that the Israeli authorities have no responsibility for the acts of Zionist extremists, exactly as their counterparts of the 1930's believed that Hitler and the top Nazi leadership had no responsibility for the street brawls of Nazi goons who broke the heads of German Christian and Social Democrats as well as Jews on the streets. After all, they say, "Israel is a democracy with laws, and courts."

Zionism is no more capable of producing laws seeking justice than Nazism was capable of producing laws seeking justice. Zionist courts are no more capable of giving objective verdicts than Nazi courts were capable of giving objective verdicts. As ideological diseases, Zionism and Nazism have no room for justice or objectivity. They can only produce a parody of law and a travesty of justice.

According to Arthur Max, correspondent of the Associated Press in Jerusalem:

Under pressure from religious political parties, Israel in 1978 made it a criminal offense to offer inducements to anyone for changing his religion with a maximum five-year prison sentence. After 20 Christian denominations united in protest following a spate of vandalism in 1979, Begin said the government "will do its utmost to prevent a recurrence of such intolerable acts of vandalism."

But Begin, as a master terrorist himself, could not help knowing that the 1978 laws were an inducement and incitement to violence and vandalism. So much for Zionist laws.

Zionist courts are no better. In civilised societies, the courts are expected to provide redress for the victims of crime. But there is no redress for the victims of Zionist war crimes in Zionist courts. Zionist courts merely add to the burdens of the victims of Zionist terror.

The Baptist Church News of June 13, 1985, reports:

The highest court in Israel has asked a Baptist congregation to leave a Jewish area of Jerusalem before it builds a new sanctuary. Israel's High Court made the request while reviewing a suit filed by the Narkis Street Baptist Church against a district planning commission, which last year refused to issue the church a building permit.

The Narkis Street church has been meeting in a tentlike structure since 1982 when its building was destroyed by arson. The congregation wants to replace its burned-out chapel with a $1 million facility, including a 400-seat auditorium, several classrooms, and office space.

The rebuilding plan was approved by Mayor Teddy Kollek, various municipal agencies, and the Jerusalem city council. But last fall, a district planning commission decided to allow only the building of a structure similar to the congregation's original 60-seat chapel. The church then filed suit in Israel's High Court.

Ultra-Orthodox Jewish groups have demonstrated against the church's plan to rebuild. Among other objections, they say the Baptists' singing disrupts the Narkis Street neighborhood and that their parked cars clog the streets. Pat Hoaldrige, acting chairman of Southern Baptist representatives in Israel, says the High Court's request for the church to move indicates the judges did not want to risk raising religious tensions further.

"You have to understand the climate in the country at this time," Hoaldrige says. "The rise of religious feelings regarding what the people would call missionary activity... is playing a part in this case."

The High Court said it would not rule on the church's suit against the district planning commission for two months. The delay is designed to give the Narkis Street congregation and the Baptist Convention of Israel time to consider trading the church property for another site in Jerusalem.

Lawyers for the church have recommended that the Baptists move on the condition the church's building will be approved as submitted. At press time, the congregation had not made a decision.<sup>53</sup>

The decision of the Zionist High Court is unmistakable in its meaning. The perpetrators of violence against the Baptist Church of Jerusalem were right in intent in the eyes of the court. The victims were wrong in the eyes of the court. The Zionist arsonists wanted the Baptist Church removed by violence; the Zionist court wanted the Baptist Church removed by decree.

It is this form of persecution of Christianity that the Rev. Jerry Falwell and his cohorts support.

When the scandal of this so-called Christian support of the crimes committed by the Zionists against Christianity becomes known to those who have been duped, the Zionist collaborators will have to run for cover from the justified wrath of their irate former followers. The followers of Rev. Jerry Falwell and his fellow televangelists aiding and abetting the persecution of Christianity by the Zionists would certainly be horrified if they knew of the long record of Zionist barbaric acts against the Christian faith. If the official burning of the Gospels by the Israeli Army is the ultimate sacrilege against the Christian faith, the crucifixion of Christians would be the ultimate barbarism inflicted on Christians themselves.

In 1988, in Gaza, an 18-year old, Khader Tarazi, went out to buy groceries and got caught up in a crowd fleeing Israeli soldiers. He ducked into the house of a friend, but soldiers rushed in and dragged him out. While beating him mercilessly with clubs, they asked him his religion.

When he replied "Christian," they answered that they would show him the treatment Christians got. The Zionist soldiers spread the young Palestinian Christian, cruciform, on the hood of a jeep and beat him on the head. They drove him through the streets of Gaza for hours as an example of the fate in store for Christians. He died from the beatings.<sup>54</sup>

After the outbreak of the Intifada in December, 1987, the Israeli authorities intensified their oppression against Christian institutions in the West Bank and Gaza. On April 27, 1989, nine Orthodox, Catholic and Protestant prelates signed a "Statement of the Heads of the Christian Communities in Jerusalem," in which they appealed for help against Israeli oppression:

STATEMENT OF THE HEADS OF THE CHRISTIAN COMMUNITIES IN JERUSALEM

We, the heads of the Christian communities in the Holy City, have met together in view of the grave situation prevailing in Jerusalem and the whole of our country.

It is our Christian conviction that as spiritual leaders we have an urgent duty to follow up the developments in this situation and to make known to the world the conditions of life of our people here in the Holy Land.

In Jerusalem, on the West Bank and in Gaza, our people experience in their daily lives constant deprivation of their fundamental rights because of arbitrary actions deliberately taken by the authorities. Our people are often subjected to unprovoked harassment and hardship.

We are particularly concerned by the tragic and unnecessary loss of Palestinian lives, especially among minors. Unarmed and innocent people are being killed by the unwarranted use of firearms and hundreds are wounded by the excessive use of force.

We protest against the frequent shooting incidents in the vicinity of Holy Places.

We also condemn the practice of mass administrative arrests and of continuing detention of adults and minors without trial.

We further condemn the use of all forms of collective punishment, including the demolition of homes and depriving whole communities of basic services such as water and electricity.

We appeal to the world community to support our demand for the re-opening of schools and universities, closed for the past sixteen months, so that thousands of our children can enjoy again their basic right to education.

We demand that the authorities respect the rights of believers to enjoy free access to all places of worship on the Holy Days of all religions.

We affirm our human solidarity and sympathy with all who are suffering and oppressed; we pray for the return of peace based on justice to Jerusalem and the Holy Land; and we request the international community and United Nations Organization to give urgent attention to the plight of the Palestinian people and to work for a speedy and just resolution of the Palestinian problem.

RESPONSE OF WORLD COUNCIL OF CHURCHES, GENEVA

May 9, 1989

To the Heads of Churches in Jerusalem

Dear Friends in Christ,

The World Council of Churches has received your Jerusalem statement of April 27, 1989, and circulated it through the Ecumenical Press Service (May 1st issue, 89.05.26).

Offering our prayers and support, we admire your courage to witness to the peace of Jesus Christ against all oppression.

The Intifada is a people's response to an unlawful occupation. The withdrawal of the occupiers and the opening of negotiations for a solution which would give satisfaction to both Israel and to the Palestinian nation will bring about a new era of reconciliation in the whole region.

In His service, we remain united in the bonds of God's love.

Sincerely yours,

Emilio Castro
General Secretary
World Council of Churches, Geneva<sup>56</sup>

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

ZIONIST TERRORISM, WAR CRIMES AND CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY IN PALESTINE AND NEIGHBORING ARAB COUNTRIES 1948-1967

INTRODUCTION

Having expelled 800,000 Palestinians from the 80% of Palestine they occupied in 1948, committed massacres against the Palestinians and plundered all Palestinian lands, homes and possessions, the Zionist leaders continued their campaign of war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide against the Palestinians. From 1948 to 1967 they committed these crimes according to a carefully designed and calculated policy.

In her book, Israel's Sacred Terrorism, Livia Rokach describes this policy as follows:

The personal diary of Moshe Sharett sheds light on this question by amply documenting the rationale and mechanics of Israel's "Arab policy" in the late 1940's and the 1950's. The policy portrayed, in its most intimate particulars, is one of deliberate acts of Israeli provocation, intended to generate Arab hostility and thus to create pretexts for armed action and territorial expansion. Sharett's records document this policy of "sacred terrorism" and expose the myths of Israel's "security needs" and the "Arab threat" that have been treated as self-evident truths from the creation of Israel to the present, when Israeli terrorism against Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, and against Palestinians and Lebanese in South Lebanon, has reached an intolerable level. It is becoming increasingly evident that the exceptional demographic and geographic alterations in Israeli society within the present generation have been brought about, not as the accidental results of the endeavor to guard "Israel's security" against an "Arab threat" but by a drive for lebensraum.<sup>1</sup>

The Haganah, the Irgun Z'vai Leumi and the Stern Gang cooperated together in committing these crimes against the Palestinian Arabs. When they formed the Israeli army some units of this army, namely the commandos and the Frontier Guards, were in charge of expelling Arab villagers and Beduins from the areas they occupied. The Jewish National Fund and the Custodian of Enemy Property were in charge of the plunder, looting and usurpation of Arab lands, homes and worldly possessions.

When Livia Rokach read Moshe Sharett's diaries in Hebrew, she extracted and translated the most important points regarding Israel's strategic aims after 1948, to be realized through the following means:

(a) New territorial conquests through war. Although the 1949-50 armistice agreements assigned to Israel a territory one-third larger than had the UN partition plan, the Israeli leadership was still not satisfied with the size of the state, the borders of which it had committed itself to respect on the international level. It sought to recover at least the borders of mandate Palestine. The territorial dimension was considered to be a vital factor in Israel's transformation into a regional power.

(b) Political as well as military efforts to bring about the liquidation of all Arab and Palestinian claims to Palestine through the dispersion of the Palestinian refugees of the 1947-49 war to faraway parts of the Arab world as well as outside the Arab world.

(c) Subversive operations designed to dismember the Arab world, defeat the Arab national movement, and create puppet regimes which would gravitate to the regional Israeli power.<sup>2</sup>

To implement this strategic purpose the Israeli army needed special units which could operate without any conventional restraints. When General Moshe Dayan was Commander of the Southern Command, he formed a special commando-like patrol unit for raids across the border. When he became Head of Operations of the General Staff, Dayan was in favor of forming a special unit and later remarked:

We were in need of a man of daring, a man with a great deal of personal ambition, a skilled leader, who would be flexible and original enough to adapt literal orders according to the situation he found himself in.

This force could not be allowed to disobey orders or change the goals that had been decreed from above. On the other hand, this was a new and special unit, a force that would have to establish and carry out novel methods of warfare. Therefore the commander of this new force had to be superior in his ability to think and perceive clearly and coolheadedly. Arik Sharon seemed to fill all these requirements.<sup>3</sup>

Having previously experimented with the concept, and having a ruthless candidate to command such a unit, Dayan engineered the approval of the General Staff for the plan proposed by Brigadier Michael Shaham to create "a special forces unit that would operate behind the armistice lines in reprisal and preemptive strikes against the Arabs."<sup>4</sup>

"Thus came into being the commando force that had such an influence upon the structure and methods of action of the Israeli army today...There was no happier man alive than Arik Sharon as he received the new appointment. He became one of the chosen few who are able to realize a cherished dream...It was with the formation of the new force, and the deviation from conventions that this implied, that Arik Sharon began his march to glory..."<sup>5</sup>

Called Commando Unit 101, Sharon's command was to become synonymous with infamous crimes and the depths of depravity in an armed force. They became "a group of blood-thirsty adventurers, leaping at a chance to fire at others."<sup>6</sup>

The original nucleus of Commando Unit 101 was composed of volunteers who were "veterans of the Palmach, soldiers of the 'Golani' and 'Gvati' Brigades and paratroopers.<sup>7</sup> Sharon trained them to be even more proficient as killers, and imbued in them the concept that they were above and beyond any kind of moral restraints, or even any discipline except within the confines of Commando Unit 101. On one occasion when a member of Commando Unit 101 was apprehended by military policemen for a minor motor vehicle infraction, a squad of the unit's goons raided the military police station in Tiberias and "beat up three policemen so severely that they required hospitalization." Sharon "punished" the culprits "by granting them two weeks leave."<sup>8</sup>

Sharon further encouraged contempt for any kind of authority by "addressing his superiors with an impudence bordering on insubordination...Arik regularly referred to the senior commanders of the IDF and the more well-known members of the government as 'dumb shits' or 'assholes,' adding vivid descriptions of the sex life that he assumed they must lead."<sup>9</sup>

"Within two months, the 40 men of Command Unit 101 had been turned into a group of soldiers that craved battle. Gradually, Arik began sending small groups on reconnaissance missions and ambushes over the border."<sup>10</sup>

In September, 1953, Command Unit 101 was given the task "to remove the Beduin tribe of Azama from the Negev Desert." When even some of his men "voiced their reservations about using a top army unit to fight a group of defenseless civilians," Sharon responded:

By removing the Beduins, the country is preserving its sovereignty. The Beduins were growing accustomed to seeing our land in the desert as their own, and had we not acted now, it would have been very difficult in the future to build new settlements, or a road.<sup>11</sup>

"Finally, Commando Unit 101 was authorized to organize and carry out a raid against the Palestinian refugee camp El-Burj in the Gaza Strip. Arik's plan was to trap Arab refugees in a crossfire between two groups of soldiers, killing a large number of them. One member of the 101st, Shmuel Falah, objected.

"As they sat around the fire discussing the operational plans for the raid, Falah announced, 'I'm not going to take part in this kind of raid. We should be attacking military targets within Egypt and not civilian targets. After we're successful on this mission, the Egyptians and the guerrillas will only intensify their activities against our own civilian population...'

"Arik did not respond directly to Falah. Instead he offered him a smaller role, to blow up the home of the Egyptian commander who lived near the refugee camp. Falah, together with two other soldiers, accepted this assignment, while the others set out to complete the main part of Arik's plan.

"The results were lethal. Fifteen residents of the camp were killed, including a number of women and children. At the summary of the mission, a number of men voiced their reservations: 'Are a few hundred miserable refugees, including women and children, our real enemy?' they asked incredulously.

"Arik replied, 'The women are the whores of the Arab infiltrators who have been attacking our civilians. If we don't act forcefully against the refugee camps they will turn into comfortable nests for murderers.'<sup>12</sup>

Having molded his men into a bloodthirsty unit rationalizing the most heinous acts, Sharon set his sights on a new target: bringing the Israeli paratroopers under his command.

Sharon's opportunity to assume control of the paratroopers soon came, when David Ben-Gurion, Defense Minister Pinhas Lavon, the Chief of the General Staff, Mordecai Maklef, and the Chief Operations Officer, Moshe Dayan, concocted the notorious raid against Kibya. A General Staff officer, Meir Amit, the only officer to later hold the post of Head of Military Intelligence and then Head of Mossad, "carried Dayan's operational order to the Central Sector command to be translated into action."<sup>13</sup>

"Even acting Prime Minister Moshe Sharett had only a vague idea of the evolving action. No one had bothered to inform him about what it would entail or listen to his reservations about any kind of military action."<sup>14</sup>

With the exception of acting Prime Minister Moshe Sharett, practically all of the top Zionist leadership of the time were thirsting for war.

In his diary entry for October 11, 1953, Sharett sarcastically recorded that Yitzhak Ben Zvi, then President of Israel, raised as usual some inspired questions...such as do we have a chance to occupy the Sinai and how wonderful it would be if the Egyptians started an offensive which we could defeat and follow with an invasion of that desert. He was very disappointed when I told him that the Egyptians show no tendency to facilitate us in this occupation task through a provocative challenge on their side.<sup>15</sup>

But the conspiracy of Ben-Gurion, Lavon, Maklef, and Dayan to attack Kibya across the Jordanian border was implemented. In his diary entry for October 15, 1953, Sharett recorded his reaction:

I was simply horrified by the description in Radio Ramallah's broadcast of the destruction of the Arab village. Tens of houses have been razed to the soil and tens of people killed. I can imagine the storms that will break out tomorrow in the Arab and Western capitals.<sup>16</sup>

In his diary on the following day, October 16, Sharett wrote:

I must underline that when I opposed the action I didn't even remotely suspect such a bloodbath. I thought that I was opposing one of those actions which have become routine in the past. Had I remotely suspected that such a massacre was to be held, I would have raised real hell...

Now the army wants to know how we at the foreign ministry are going to explain the issue. In a joint meeting of army and foreign ministry officials, Shmuel Bendor suggested that we say that the army had no part in the operation, but that the inhabitants of the border villages, infuriated by previous incidents and seeking revenge, operated on their own. Such a version will make us appear ridiculous: any child would say that this was a military operation...<sup>17</sup>

In his diary entry for October 17, Sharett reports the opinion of Yehoshafat Harkabi, then Assistant Chief of Military Intelligence, that "It is impossible that the Jordanians did not get the impression that the bombing of Kibya means, if not a calculated plan to cause war, then at least the willingness to have one starting as a consequence of this action."<sup>18</sup>

Of the Israeli cabinet meeting on October 18, 1953, Sharett writes:

I condemned the Kibya affair that exposed us in front of the whole world as a gang of blood-suckers, capable of mass massacres regardless, it seems, of whether their actions may lead to war. I warned that this stain will stick to us and will not be washed away for many years to come...It was decided that a communique on Kibya will be published and Ben-Gurion was to write it...Ben-Gurion insisted on excluding any responsibility of the army...I said that no one in the world will believe such a story and we shall only expose ourselves as liars.<sup>19</sup>

Former Knesset member Michael Bar-Zohar, a biographer of Ben-Gurion, confirms that Ben-Gurion lied:

Ben-Gurion believed that under certain circumstances, it was permissible to lie for the good of the state. But Moshe Sharett was astounded by his behavior. "I told my wife Ziporah that I would have resigned if it had fallen to me to step before a microphone and broadcast a fictitious account of what happened to the people of Israel and to the whole world."<sup>20</sup>

Sharon's personal war to gain control of the Israeli army's paratroopers had a victorious outcome as a result of the Kibya raid. When the operational plan for the raid was presented at Central Command's headquarters, the deputy commander of the paratroop battalion balked at accepting the assignment. Moshe Dayan had intended for the paratroop battalion to attack Kibya, while Commando Unit 101 was to "be responsible for the diversionary action in Shukba and Nahalin."<sup>21</sup>

The refusal of the paratroop battalion's command to participate in the Kibya raid resulted in Sharon's gaining total command of the raid, combining his own Commando Unit 101 with all of Israel's paratroopers. The head of the paratroopers, Lt. Col. Yehuda Harari, was subsequently forced to resign and Sharon amalgamated Commando Unit 101 and the paratroopers into one command, "designated Unit 202."<sup>22</sup> From that day until today, when every senior Israeli army officer has served in the paratroopers, the paratroopers became the "murder" arm of the Israeli army, carrying out raids against civilians and murdering defenseless women and children. Only by sharing in this type of guilt with his fellow paratroopers can an Israeli officer hope to reach a senior rank.

In "1955 Sharon's force was expanded into the 202nd Parachute Brigade."<sup>23</sup> against Palestinians became a qualification for promotion for the Israeli officer corps. No career officer could achieve promotion until he had first taken part in the commission of these crimes.

Participation in the crimes perpetrated from 1948 to 1967

The Records of the United Nations Security Council from 1948 to 1967 include letters, verbatim records of Security Council Meetings, and Reports of the United Nations Truce Supervision units containing hundreds of reports documenting these crimes. They include the following:

1. The assassination of UN Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte.
2. Expulsion of Palestinian villagers.
3. Attacks on Palestinian villages, destroying houses and murdering civilians.
4. Attacks on civilian aircraft.
5. The massacre of Kibya.
6. Dragging a medical doctor from his car on the Bethlehem-Hebron road: shooting him and killing him with two bullets lodged in his eyes.
7. The Nahalin massacre.
8. Attacks on Palestinian villages in the Syrian truce zones and on Syrian villages.
9. The massacre of Hussan.
10. Attacking a Lebanese aircraft.
11. Expelling Beduins.
12. Shelling and air attacks against villages in Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

The following crimes were investigated by the United Nations Truce Supervision personnel, and Israeli guilt was verified.

UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL RECORDS

24 JULY 1950

A fighter aircraft of the Jewish air force violating the Lebanese frontier and the armistice boundaries established by decision of the Security Council has attacked over Lebanese territory a Lebanese civil aircraft of the Compagnie Generale Transports on regular service between Beirut and Jerusalem, in the following circumstances:

The Lebanese aircraft, carrying twenty-four civilian passengers, men, women and children, fourteen of whom were Jordanians, eight Americans and two Danes, left Kalandia Airport at 1530 GMT on 24 July and set its course 080 in the direction of Amman, flying over Jerusalem at 7,000 feet KFF, then continuing in the same direction as far as Amman at altitude 8,500 feet, then set its course at 350 degrees in the direction of Hermon leaving it thirty kilometres to the left and flying over the foothills of Hermon. After reducing its height for about three minutes to altitude 7,000 feet, and at about seventeen minutes from Beirut, it saw a fighter aircraft bearing a star on a coloured background with horizontal bands on the rudder. This aircraft approached very near the Lebanese aircraft seven or eight times, lowering and raising its landing gear; the Lebanese aircraft, being over mountainous Lebanese territory, proceeded towards Beirut, its nearest aerodrome. At this moment the fighter attacked it from the rear with a machine gun, and it was hit by several bursts and pursued to altitude 2,000 feet near Saida. One passenger was killed, seven were wounded and the radio navigator, who was seriously wounded, died later. The French pilot, who was wounded, was able to continue as far as Beirut, avoiding disaster. The weather was very fine and the sky clear; therefore, the registration markings on the Lebanese aircraft were fully visible.

This unwarranted and premeditated attack over Lebanese territory against a defenseless civil aircraft constitutes a flagrant violation of the armistice conditions laid down by the Security Council and shows total disregard for United Nations principles, the laws of war and the most elementary principles of humanity.

30 MARCH 1951

On 30 March, 1951, Israeli police (illegally evacuated) the Arab inhabitants of the village of Baqqara, numbering, with the neighboring refugees living in the same village, about 980.

The village of Baqqara is situated within the demilitarized zone on the western side of the Jordan River in the Huleh area. It goes without saying that such an action is a flagrant violation of article V, paragraph 2 of the General Armistice Agreement, which stipulates that no hindrance to the restoration of normal civilian life by the inhabitants could be allowed in the demilitarized zone.

5 APRIL 1951

During the night of 5 April 1951, several houses in the Arab villages of Baqqara, Ghanname, and Khoury Farm in the central sector of the demilitarized zone, and Nuqueib in the southern sector of the demilitarized zone, were destroyed by explosives or by fire. This hostile and inhuman act by Israel forces which had occupied the demilitarized zone was committed with the intention of hindering the Arabs of these villages from returning to their homes and with the intention of placing the United Nations authorities, in charge of assuring the return to normal civilian life, before a fait accompli. This act constitutes a violation of article V, paragraph 2, and sub-paragraphs 5 (c) and 5 (e) (of the Armistice agreements).

5-6 APRIL 1951

In the night of 5-6 April, the Israelis destroyed by explosives several houses in Baqqara, Ghanname, Khoury Farm and Nuqueib, adding thus to all their crimes inhuman and treacherous acts committed in the darkness against deserted and defenseless localities.

On 5 April, Samra village was occupied by the Israelis.

1951

10 APRIL 1951

On 10 April 1951, a detachment of Israel police, who had illegally entered the demilitarized zone, opened fire on the Arab village of Nuqueib with the intention of occupying it in conformity with the Israel plan of systematic and progressive occupation of the demilitarized zone. This act, which reveals the Israel plan to exercise an absolute sovereignty over the demilitarized zone, is a flagrant violation of article II, paragraph 2, and of article V, paragraphs 1, 2, 5 (c) and 5 (e) (of the Armistice agreements).

14 APRIL 1951

On 14 April 1951, two bulldozers driven by Israelis undertook the task of levelling all the houses in the village of Baqqara that had escaped destruction on 6 April. This act, verified by a United Nations observer, constitutes a violation of article V, paragraph 2 and sub-paragraphs 2, 5 (c) and 5 (e) (of the Armistice agreements).

2 MAY 1951

United Nations observers visited the Arab village of Shamalne at the southern end of the central sector of the demilitarized zone at 1345 hours GMT. They reported that Arabs of the village informed them that, at 0530 hours GMT on 2 May, an Israel patrol had seized their cattle, which were grazing near the demarcation line in the demilitarized zone. The Israel patrol, they said, had fired on Arab shepherds. Small-arms fire was heard in that village and Arab villagers armed with rifles attempted to recover the cattle. The Israel patrol had by that time driven the cattle well within Israel territory and had already killed fifteen cows. An exchange of fire between Arab civilians and the Israel patrol is reported to have taken place in a position in the demilitarized zone until 0900 hours GMT. Arab civilians claimed that two of their number had been wounded during the engagement. United Nations observers reported that they had seen Israel Military aircraft flying over the defensive area.

4 MAY 1951

At 0655 hours GMT on 4 May the senior Syrian representative to the Israel-Syrian Mixed Armistice Commission stated that at 0245 hours GMT Israelis had started heavy mortar and machine-gun fire on positions held by Arab civilians in the vicinity of the demilitarized zone. The Syrians claim that the attack was repulsed but that heavy firing continued until 0530 GMT, followed by sporadic firing. United Nations observers heard heavy mortar and machine-gun fire between the hours of 0245 and 0530 GMT in the direction of Shamalne village in the southern end of the central sector of the demilitarized zone. The observers saw mortar explosions. The Syrians state that one Arab civilian has been killed and eight wounded so far.

6 MAY 1951

The following report was received at 0600 GMT on 6 May from the United Nations observer who spent the night of 5 May in the Shamalne area in the southern part of the central part of the central sector of the demilitarized zone. At 0025 GMT intense mortar fire lasting fifteen minutes was opened on the Arab positions above Shamalne village, with several rounds falling on the village itself. There was in addition considerable rifle and automatic weapons fire. At 0150 GMT twelve additional shellbursts were observed on the Arab positions. Beginning at about 0200 GMT Shamalne village was shelled with heavy mortar and field artillery guns, at least 100 rounds falling in the village or its close proximity. Shamalne village in the demilitarized zone was the target of the fire. Since 0430 GMT the mortar fire decreased and shells landed on an adjoining hill. Numerous casualties have been reported, the observer seeing three Arab dead and two wounded. Sixteen shell impacts have been observed. At 0600 GMT the Arabs were still holding their positions.

7 MAY 1951

The senior Syrian representative complained on 7 May that at 0030 GMT the previous day the Israel Army had violated the general Armistice Agreement by attacking with artillery, air force and infantry, the Arabs of Shamalne village who were expelled from the demilitarized zone, leaving behind six killed and forty-seven wounded. The Syrian complaint alleged that artillery and mortar shells fell in Syrian territory, killing one Syrian officer and one seven year old girl, and wounding two women.

9 MAY 1951

Early this morning, 9 May, Israel forces started shelling and machine-gunning the village of Shamalne. Several bombs fell on the Buteiha area (Syrian territory), and on the Syrian outpost of Al-Hassel; and one woman was killed. This aggressive move took place after the cease-fire resolution of the Security Council was adopted and relayed to the parties.

1951

19 SEPTEMBER 1951

Incidents in the Gaza strip area, in so far as they could not be disposed of by a sub-committee of the Mixed Armistice commission, have been considered by the Mixed Armistice Commission itself. At a meeting held on 23 September 1951, it examined an Egyptian complaint alleging that on 19 September Israelis had shelled the Beit Hanum area in the Gaza strip and that they had blown up a number of houses, killing and injuring some Arabs. The Commission adopted the following resolution by unanimous vote:

"The Mixed Armistice Commission,

Having examined the Egyptian complaint dated 19 September 1951 and the report of the investigation carried out by the United Nations observer, Decides that the action carried out by Israelis on 19 September 1951 is a violation of article II, paragraph 2, of the Egyptian-Israeli Armistice Agreement."

1951

19 OCTOBER 1951

A raid during the night of 19 October resulted in the destruction of the Gaza ice factory, the death of one Arab boy and the injury of eleven other persons.

1951

2 SEPTEMBER 1953

On 2 September 1953, the Israel authorities started works to change the bed of the River Jordan in the central sector of the demilitarized zone. The purpose of these works was to divert the river into a new channel, in order to make it flow through territory controlled by the Israel authorities. These acts were accompanied by military operations, also in the central sector of the demilitarized zone. Partial mobilization has been carried out behind the sector in question.

1953

14 OCTOBER 1953

On Wednesday, 14 October 1953, at 9:30 p.m., a battalion scale attack was launched by Israeli troops on the village of Qibya in the Hashemite Kingdom of the Jordan. The Israelis entered the village and systematically murdered all occupants of many houses, using automatic weapons, grenades, and incendiaries, and dynamited houses over victims' heads. On 14 October the bodies of 42 Arab civilians were recovered. Four men and 38 women and children bore small arms or grenade wounds. Several more bodies were still under the wreckage. Forty houses, the village school, and a reservoir were destroyed. Twenty-two cattle were killed and six shops looted. Approach roads from neighbouring villages were mined. Several men of the village police and National Guard, who were absent on frontier duty preventing Jordan infiltrators from entering Israel, lost their families; one man lost his entire family of eleven. Quantities of unused explosives bearing Israel Army markings in Hebrew were found in the village.

1953

18 DECEMBER 1953

On Friday, 18 December 1953, Captain Mansur Mouawad, a Lebanese physician in the service of the Army of the Hashemite Kingdom of the Jordan, was murdered in the most brutal and barbaric manner by an Israeli armed group. This abominable crime was perpetrated at about 2100 hours in the vicinity of Solomon's Pools while Captain Mouawad was driving his private car on the Bethlehem-Hebron road back to his headquarters. Seeing a roadblock ahead of him, the medical officer stopped his car. Whereupon he was dragged from his car and riddled with bullets at close range by the Israeli armed group which, according to the findings of the Jordan-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission, had crossed the armistice line to commit their hideous massacre. The Commission further found that 15 shots had been fired on the hapless victim of this savage crime who was hit in his head, in his side and in his back. After he had been murdered, two other bullets were lodged in his forehead and two in his eyes.

1953

On 21 December 1953 an armed group attacked a Bedouin camp near Tarqumyia wounding one man. Israel was condemned by the Mixed Armistice Commission for this incident.

1953

21 DECEMBER 1953

On 21 December 1953 an armed group, using explosives and automatic weapons, attacked a house near Hebron killing one pregnant woman and two men, and wounding another man. Israel was condemned for this incident.

1953

17 FEBRUARY 1954

On 17 February 1954, an armed group, using explosives and automatic weapons, attacked a house at Kharass Village (south central area) killing one Jordanian and wounding his ten-year-old son. Israel was condemned by the Mixed Armistice Commission for this incident.

1954

18 FEBRUARY 1954

On 18 February, a patrol of two Egyptian soldiers in Egyptian territory was attacked by armed Israelis hiding in ambush. One of the Egyptian soldiers was kidnapped and killed inside Israel-controlled territory, close to the demarcation line.

1954

19 FEBRUARY 1954

On 19 February armed Israelis opened automatic fire across the demarcation line at an Arab working in his field. The Arab was seriously injured.

1954

29 MARCH 1954

On 29 March at 0700 hours, Nahhalin village, an Israel armed force, well equipped, surrounded the village from three directions and penetrated inside the village and opened fire from different automatic weapons, threw hand-grenades and placed mines at some houses, including the mosque of the village. As a result of this brutal attack, 9 persons—8 men and 1 woman—were killed, and 14 others were injured and taken to hospital. Fire lasted for about one hour and a half, and was returned by the village guards. Then the aggressors withdrew. Mines, grenades and other warlike materials bearing Hebrew markings were found on the spot.

This bold attack and cold-blooded murder by Israelis against an innocent Jordanian village constitutes a serious breach of article III, paragraph 2, of the General Armistice Agreement.

12 JUNE 1954

Israel terrorist activities against the Arab population of Baqqara and Ghannama are continuing.

On 12 June 1954, a large part of this population was obliged in desperation to take refuge near the bridge of Banat Ya'coub and to request admission to Syria. Clear proofs of this policy of harassment and evacuation directed against the Arab civilian population of the central demilitarized zone can easily be furnished on request.

1954

4 JULY 1954

On 4 July 1954, a high Israel military officer visiting the two villages of the Arab population of Baqqara and Ghannama said to the Arab population:

"You must do one of two things, either become Israel nationals or leave the zone, your land, your houses and your property and go to an Arab country."

1954

30 AUGUST 1954

On 30 August, an Israel military force of about three platoons crossed the demarcation line into Jordan territory and opened fire against Kh. Sikka and Deir Al 'Asal villages. The group was supported by fire from within Israel. The fire was returned by Arab Legion and National Guard forces. The Israelis withdrew under cover of a smoke screen, leaving munitions, medical supplies and food containers behind them. One Arab legionary was killed and three members of the Arab National Guard were wounded.

1-2 SEPTEMBER 1954

On the night of 1 to 2 September 1954, at about 2100 hours Jordanian time, a large force of Israel soldiers, estimated at battalion strength, crossed the demarcation line from the direction of Im'in. The Israel force opened fire against the village of Beit Liqya well inside Jordanian territory using automatic weapons, hand grenades and 2-inch mortars, and blew a gap with Bangalore torpedoes in the wire fence surrounding this village. At the same time, another Israel force was taking up position in the hills to the south of Beit Liqya, from which they were firing heavily to support those who were trying to enter the village. To the north, near Beit 'Ur at Tahta, an Arab Legion modified troop-carrier, proceeding with reinforcements to the scene, blew up on a land mine which had been planted by Israel soldiers. After the explosion, Israel soldiers who were lying in ambush rushed to the truck, fired automatic weapons and threw an incendiary bomb into it. As a result, two Arab legionaries were killed, one was injured and three were abducted.

Still another force of Israel soldiers advanced into Jordan along the Wadi el Malaqi. When this force was challenged by the Jordanian patrols, the Israelis opened fire with automatic weapons and 2-inch mortars, and threw hand grenades and incendiary bombs. As a result of this action, three Arab legionaries were wounded; one of them is not expected to live.

28 FEBRUARY 1955

Violent and premeditated aggression committed on 28 February 1955 by Israel armed forces against Egyptian armed forces inside Egyptian-controlled territory near Gaza, causing many casualties, including 39 dead and 32 wounded, and the destruction of certain military installations, in violation of, inter alia, article I, paragraph 2, and article II, paragraph 2, of the Egyptian-Israeli General Armistice Agreement.

1955

9 MARCH 1955

Israel was condemned for an incident of 9 March 1955, when an Arab farmer was wounded in the Gaza strip by an Israel patrol which fired across the demarcation line. The wounded man was captured by two armed Israelis who crossed the demarcation line.

1955

2 APRIL 1955

The Mixed Armistice Commission found that on 2 April, at about 0940 hours local time, Israel soldiers had fired at an Egyptian outpost with rifles, automatic weapons and 3-inch mortars, that an Israel jeep had penetrated 100 metres into Egyptian-controlled territory, and that, as a result of this act of aggression, two Egyptian soldiers had been wounded, one of whom had died of his wounds.

1955

16 OCTOBER 1955

On 16 October 1955, Israel forces opened fire on the village of Dureijat, near the Banat Ya'coub bridge in Syrian territory. Two people were seriously wounded.

22 OCTOBER 1955

On 22 October 1955, shortly before 10:30 p.m., an Israel army detachment consisting of about 150 commandos crossed the armistice demarcation line and entered Syrian territory. The detachment was equipped with heavy arms. After penetrating two kilometres into Syrian territory, the Israelis laid an ambush in the course of which they set fire to a Syrian army car and seized an officer and a soldier. Another military car drove up and was subjected to heavy artillery fire, as a consequence of which a Syrian officer and two soldiers were killed. The Israelis then attacked and burnt a third car. They further seized a non-commissioned officer and two soldiers. During the fighting which followed the above-mentioned operations, five soldiers were wounded. After the Israel detachment had withdrawn, the United Nations observers noted at several points in Syrian territory, traces of the acts of brigandage it had committed. The observers found, among other things, hand-grenades, mines and a large quantity of ammunition; they seized this evidence at the outset of their investigations.

1955

On 25 October 1955, an Israel armoured car opened fire on the inhabitants of the village of Dureijat, killing a woman and wounding a Syrian soldier.

1955

27 OCTOBER 1955

On 27 October 1955, an Israel patrol attacked the village of Banias, seriously wounding an unarmed civilian.

1955

5 APRIL 1956

The Israel armed forces started at 12:30 hours local time this morning to attack the cities of Gaza, Deir el Balah, Abasan and Khozaa in the Gaza Strip.

According to the preliminary reports the casualties of this military attack which has been taking place since this morning are: 33 civilians killed; 92 civilians and 7 of the Egyptian armed forces including an officer injured.

2 AUGUST 1956

At about 02:30 hours Jordan time, an armed group from Israel encountered in this general area another Jordanian patrol and opened submachine gun fire, killing 2 national guardsmen. Israel was held responsible at the 6 August Mixed Armistice Commission emergency meeting.

1956

16-17 AUGUST 1956

On the night of 16/17 August 1956 two serious incidents resulting in the death of nine Egyptians took place in the Egyptian-controlled Gaza area.

In the first of these incidents a group from twelve to twenty armed persons crossed the demarcation line from Israel into Egyptian-controlled territory, where they exchanged fire with a three-man Egyptian listening post. Shortly thereafter an Egyptian patrol consisting of a sergeant and three other ranks ran into the Israel patrol still in Egyptian-controlled territory. In the action following, the Egyptian sergeant and two other soldiers were killed. The bodies had extensive wounds caused by grenades and bullets.

The second incident of the night of 16/17 August 1956 occurred on the main Gaza-Rafah road. An Egyptian jeep with six passengers, namely an Egyptian medical officer, a medical orderly and four soldiers, was ambushed and attacked by a group of five to seven men. The ambushing party had laid mines in the road and then attacked the jeep and its occupants with machine gun fire.

The evidence indicates that the victims were killed by small arms fire at close range. Tracks were followed from the scene of the incident all the way to the demarcation line.

21 AUGUST 1956

At approximately 11:45 hours Jordan time, an Israel patrol crossed the demarcation line in the Kh. Umm ar Rihan area. An exchange of fire developed with a Jordanian patrol, as a result of which three Jordanian national guardsmen were wounded and one Israel soldier killed. Israel was held responsible in the 29 August Mixed Armistice Commission emergency meeting.

1956

30 AUGUST 1956

At 21:30 hours an Israel patrol crossed the demarcation line in Deir el Balah area. A fire fight took place between the patrol and Egyptian troops. The patrol was supported by a mortar. Two Egyptian soldiers were killed, two wounded. Three Egyptian soldiers interrogated at the scene of the incident stated they heard three explosions and an exchange of fire at 21:30 hours from a listening post. When fire stopped they went to the listening post and found one Egyptian soldier dead and a second who died within a few minutes. United Nations investigation revealed incoming and outgoing tracks of approximately fifteen men which led to the demarcation line. The military observer saw two bodies of Egyptian soldiers at listening post. No other casualties.

At 23:40 hours in Sinai an Israel force estimated to be of company strength attacked an Egyptian observation post killing six Egyptian soldiers. The Israelis then withdrew to the demilitarized zone taking with them one jeep with wireless, and other equipment. The physical evidence seen by the United Nations military observer consisted of large bloodstains, empty cartridges with Israel markings, jeep tracks and footprints across the demarcation line. The bodies were removed to Cairo and not seen by the United Nations military observer.

At 21:30 hours in the Rafah area, Israel forces estimated to be of company strength attacked an Egyptian observation post killing one Egyptian officer and four other ranks. The United Nations military observer saw large bloodstains, impacts of bullets and hand grenades, empty cartridges with Israel markings and incoming and outgoing tracks of approximately ten men across the demarcation line. A statement was taken from one wounded in hospital and from the doctor. Bodies were removed to Cairo and not seen by the United Nations military observer.

11 SEPTEMBER 1956

At about midnight, local time, approximately one Israel battalion crossed the demarcation line and blew up the Khibat ar Rahwah police post and an empty school building in the same area, killing 5 Jordan policemen and 10 Jordan soldiers. Part of this force laid an ambush approximately 5 kilometres inside Jordan along the Hebron-Beersheba road and killed 5 Jordanian soldiers, wounded 3 Jordanian soldiers and damaged 3 Jordanian vehicles. Israel was held responsible at the 19 September Mixed Armistice Commission emergency meeting.

13 SEPTEMBER 1956

At 21:00 hours GMT on 13 September a large Israel force totally destroyed a police post and school at Gharandal, in Jordan. Nine Jordanian policemen and two Jordanian civilians were killed.

25-26 SEPTEMBER 1956

During the night of 25/26 September, Israel forces attacked Sharafi police post near Husan village. The police post was completely demolished. Also a school building in Wadi Fukin village was blown up. Thirty-seven Jordanian soldiers, two of whom were not seen by the United Nations observers, and two Jordanian civilians were killed and eleven Jordanians wounded.

25-26 SEPTEMBER 1956

A major attack was launched on the night of 25-26 September 1956 against the Jordanian territory in the area of Husan where twenty-five Jordanians were killed including a seventy-year-old civilian and a twelve-year-old girl; six others were wounded including a seven-year-old girl.

1 OCTOBER 1956

On the night of 1 October 1956 the Israel army launched a major unprovoked and premeditated military attack against the Jordanian front villages of Qalqiliya, Kh. Sufin, dablak, and En Nabi Ilyas. The attack began at 10:00 pm and ended at 4:30 am the following day upon orders from General E.L.M. Burns, Chief of Staff of the Truce Supervision Organization. The Israel attacking force used heavy arms and war equipment including bombing airplanes. Twenty-five Jordanian soldiers and national guards were killed and thirteen wounded. The Jordanian police post of Qalqiliya was demolished and the villages were shelled.

11 OCTOBER 1956

According to the statement which the Jordanian officer in charge of the Qalqiliya police post made to United Nations military observers on 11 October, a large Israel force, travelling in about 30 vehicles, approached the police post from a northerly direction at about 19:30 GMT. (The police post is approximately one kilometre north of the village of Qalqiliya and approximately 500 metres south and 800 metres east of the demarcation line.) On arrival, the Israel forces attacked the post with small arms and automatic weapons. At 19:50 GMT intense artillery fire was opened on the post from west and north. The twenty policemen and the platoon of national guardsmen in the post then returned the fire. Under cover of artillery and small arms fire, the attacking force gained entry into the post, inflicting casualties among the defenders, some of whom managed to escape, including the officer in charge of the post. Some time after midnight, the police post was totally demolished by explosives. The shelling of the village of Qalqiliya, which had commenced earlier, continued until about 02.20 GMT.

25-26 OCTOBER 1956

On the night of 25-26 September 1956, large Israel regular army forces launched a major, unprovoked and premeditated attack against Jordanian territory in the area of Husan, 10 kilometres south of Jerusalem. Infantry, armoured cars, half-tracks, artillery, bazookas and automatic weapons were used in this aggression against Jordan.

30 OCTOBER 1956

On 30 October 1956, 103 inhabitants of Baqqara and Channame villages in the central sector of the demilitarized zone were forced by the Israel authorities to take refuge in Syria; they were forced at gun point to leave their homes and lands; their houses were burned and some of them were taken to Sha'b in Israel territory. The Chief of Staff of Truce Supervision Organization was requested to intervene in order to permit the return of the inhabitants to their villages. United Nations observers were unable to carry out an investigation on the spot owing to the refusal of the Israel authorities to let them enter the central sector of the demilitarized zone.

27 May 1957

At 2 p.m. (Saudi local time) on Monday, 27 May 1957, an Israel destroyer emerging from the port of Elath in a southerly direction, cruised within the Saudi Arabian territorial waters. The same destroyer bombarded with light and heavy fire the coastal position near Taba. Two other Israel destroyers, the same day, undertook similar aggressive acts in that locale. It should be pointed out that the locations of such aggressive acts engulf the traditional land and sea routes of Moslem pilgrims intending to perform their annual religious duties in the Holy Places in Saudi Arabia.

28 May 1957

At 1 a.m. (Saudi local time) on the night of Tuesday, 28 May, two Israel destroyers cruising from Elath opened light and heavy fire on the Al-Tur area. The bombardment lasted over an hour.

29 May 1957

Just after sunset on Wednesday, 20 May, an Israel destroyer with three motor boats violated the Saudi Arabian territorial waters in the Aqaba Gulf, subjecting Saudi coastal positions to powerful searchlights. The same Israel naval units opened light and heavy fire on the coastal area adjoining Al-Tur. The violation of Saudi Arabia's territorial waters by these Israel units was repeated during the day time.

28 JANUARY 1958

On 28 January at 15:00 hours (local time), an Israel military detachment, consisting of twenty-five soldiers and an armoured vehicle, entered the northern demilitarized zone. At 15:40 hours (local time), this detachment opened fire on Arab peasants who were working their land and who were placed in a situation of legitimate self-defense.

24 MARCH 1958

During the afternoon of 24 March 1958, between 16:00 hours and 20:30 hours, the Israelis directed heavy fire from the direction of the Israel settlement of Dan on inhabitants and shepherds of the demilitarized zone.

24 MARCH 1958

On 24 March, armed Israel formations, accompanied by agricultural machinery and surveying equipment, penetrated into and commenced work on Arab land of the village of Galbinieh, east of Huleh, and within the demilitarized zone. Subsequently, local inhabitants engaged Israel elements for three hours, after which the Israelis retreated.

1958

26-27 MARCH 1958

During the night of 26-27 March, an Israel launch approached the eastern shores of Lake Tiberias and began firing on Arab land near the Elzaky Gulf.

4 FEBRUARY 1959

On 4 February 1959, an armed Israel patrol composed of four soldiers crossed the international frontier between Palestine and Egypt south of Rafah and penetrated at least two kilometres inside the United Arab Republic territory (southern region). They attacked with their small arms fire a bedouin camp. As a result of this cowardly attack against unarmed civilians, a woman, together with her child, was killed in cold blood and another woman was seriously wounded.

17 FEBRUARY 1959

On 17 February 1959, four citizens of the United Arab Republic were ambushed by an armed Israel patrol three kilometres inside United Arab Republic territory at Wadi Siram (nine kilometres south of El Auja and four kilometres north of Gebel el Sabha). The four Egyptians were fired upon with small-arms fire; consequently, two were killed and one was wounded.

1959

18 SEPTEMBER 1959

On 18 September 1959, and on the days following that date, a number of Bedouin estimated at about 350 of the Azazme tribe, were expelled from the area under Israel control across the international frontier into the territory of the United Arab Republic. Israel troops killed some Bedouin, burned their tents and took their property, as a result of which the Bedouin were compelled to flee into the territory of the United Arab Republic. Those actions were carried out in a harsh and cruel way, contrary to accepted humanitarian considerations. Firing by Israel troops resulted in the killing of one of the Bedouin on the territory of the United Arab Republic across the international frontier.

1959

31 JANUARY 1960

At 1255 hours (local time) on 31 January 1960, Israel forces moved towards Arab farmers in the southern sector of the demilitarized zone north of Lake Tiberias. The farmers were accompanied by a United Nations observer. The Israel forces opened fire on them.

1960

2 MARCH 1961

On 2 March 1961, two Israel aircraft crossed the international frontier and penetrated into United Arab Republic air space. Further finds revealed that these two aircraft, having sighted a flock of livestock inside United Arab Republic territory, had flown at a very low altitude and machine gunned the grazing animals, killing and wounding a number of camels and donkeys.

16-17 MARCH 1962

During the night of 16-17 March 1962, at about 2300 hours, Israel armed forces carried out a mortar attack on the Arab village of Nuqueib. Then, at 2400 hours, forty Israel armoured launches opened fire with automatic weapons on the Syrian military post of El-Douga.

At about 0130 hours, Israel artillery at Bouria (R 235-200) launched a violent bombardment of the Syrian village of Squofiye which continued until 0435 hours. At about 0500 hours, Israel military aircraft bombarded the Syrian positions at El-Al, Fiq and Zaki; 0545 hours, they bombarded the area of El-Hamma.

7 FEBRUARY 1963

On 7 February an Israeli gunboat approached the village of Al-Masadih on the eastern shore of Lake Tiberias, kidnapped a Syrian citizen and stole a Syrian boat from the waters of the river Al-Masadih, within Syrian territory. This action constitutes a violation of Section III of Annex IV and paragraphs 2 and 3 of article III of the Armistice Agreement.

1963

2 JULY 1964

On the morning of Thursday, 2 July 1964, Israel forces opened fire on Arab farmers, using automatic weapons, along the Armistice Demarcation Line with a view to harassing them and preventing them from ploughing their land. At the same time, Israel armed forces opened fire on a Syrian post.

1964

5 AUGUST 1964

On Wednesday, 5 August 1964, at exactly 23:57 hours local time, Israel armed forces estimated at one infantry platoon supported by automatic weapons attacked some Syrian posts across the Armistice Demarcation Line in the Ainmemoun sector. The attacking Israel armed forces were encountered by Syrian outposts which were compelled to return the fire and to halt their advance. Furthermore, some elements of the attacking armed forces attempted to encircle the post and to strike from the rear, but Syrian armed forces entrusted with the protection of that sector frustrated this attempt and a heavy exchange of fire took place.

1964

13 NOVEMBER 1964

Evidence was given in Arabic and translated into English by the Syrian liaison officer, First Lieutenant Khourdaji.

Witness: Antoine Gaber, Warrant Officer, aged 28 years.

"I am not from Nukheila but have been here about two months. On 13 November 1964, at about 1330 LT, I was in my room in the village, when I suddenly heard firing. This was from heavy machine guns. The firing quickly increased. On going outside I saw tanks on Tel-El-Qadi firing at our village; I think they were about 106 mm. calibre. Later, mortars were fired at the village and I noticed that Abbasieh village was being mortared. About half an hour before shooting started, at about 1250 LT an Israel aircraft flew around the area. I also noticed shelling of Tel Moughi, to the north of the village. Israel aircraft also fired machine guns at the village, knocking out one civilian car, and some civilians were evacuated to a hospital, and some of them were badly injured. The aircraft also fired three or four rockets and dropped bombs on the village and on Tel Moughi. The firing stopped at about 1400. There was no firing from Nukheila after this time. The Israelis however continued firing from Sambaria Tel-El-Qadi and did not stop until 1530."

1964

17 MARCH 1965

On 17 March 1965, Israel tank crossed the road located within Syrian territory to the north of Tel-El-Qadi in the northern sector under the protection of Israeli military elements entrenched in the hill. These elements opened automatic fire from their posts. Two Israel tanks also opened their fire on Syrian territory. One Syrian was killed and two others were seriously wounded. Two Syrian tractors and two bulldozers were destroyed. The Syrian delegation to ISMAC lodged an urgent complaint in respect of each of these acts of aggression.

1965

22 MAY 1965

On 22 May, at approximately 1300 hours, an Israel armoured launch approached the eastern shore of Lake Tiberias, facing the village of El Koursi in Syrian territory and opened fire with heavy automatic weapons and mortars across the Armistice Demarcation Line and in the direction of Syrian positions. The fire lasted fifteen minutes and was returned.

1965

27 MAY 1965

On 27 May, 1965 an Israel force crossed the Armistice Demarcation Line into Jordan and activated demolition charges against a house which was completely destroyed. Israel forces demolished an inhabited home in Jordan and as a result of this act a man, a boy and a small girl were killed.

A third house in Jordanian territory was cracked and extensively damaged by an explosive projectile.

The Israel force fired at a Jordanian routine patrol which found the Israel force in Jordan's territory; a Jordanian soldier was wounded. This raid, committed by the Israel forces against Jordanian civilian inhabitants and their properties, resulted in the death of two men and three children, the youngest being only four years old; and the wounding of two adults and three children, the youngest victim a two-year-old baby.

1965

20 AUGUST 1965

On 20 August 1965, a collision took place between a taxicab driven by an Arab living in Israel and a motor scooter driven by a Jewish youth in the city of Ramle, 10 miles east of Jaffa-Tel-Aviv, which resulted in the death of the youth.

On Sunday, 22 August, immediately after the funeral, a mob of more than 300 Jewish Israel toughs attacked the Arab quarter in Ramle with the intention of murdering the Arab inhabitants and destroying the whole Arab quarter.

The magazine Newsweek, in its issue of 6 September 1965, described the horrible scene in the following words:

"The mob, delirious with hate, swarmed towards the ghetto with clubs and stones in hand, shouting 'Kill them, kill them!' while behind the shuttered windows, families huddled in fear. It was the onslaught of the classic pogrom...except that the would-be lynchings were Jews...."

"After the funeral of the dead boy, dozens of swaggering young Jewish toughs clustered together angrily in the centre of Ramle. Suddenly, amid cries of 'Let's get the Arabs,' about 300 of the toughs — mostly teenagers—charged through the streets toward the Arab quarter. In the market square outside the entrance to the Arab quarter, the mob ran into a wall of steel-helmeted police armed with riot-shields. The kids charged twice, then retreated to search for easier targets. They stoned an old man in kaffiyeh head-dress almost to death and a young Arab returning from work was kicked into bloody pulp.

"As the police reinforcements poured into town to protect the Arabs, the rioters scattered down side streets, breaking shop-windows, stoning and overturning cars and trucks. Before the police finally restored order, Ramle was a shambles and twelve had been severely beaten or knifed. 'For a time', said one Polish-born Ramle Jew, 'I thought I was back in the ghetto. No angry gang of drunken goyim' — gentiles — 'was ever worse.'"

This horrible onslaught took place, despite the fact the Israel police authorities knew beforehand what was to take place. A certain number of steel-helmeted police with riot-shields was standing by, but the number was by far inadequate and police reinforcements arrived too late to prevent the onslaught.

What took place in Ramle on 22 August 1965 was not the first of its kind. The massacres of Deir Yasin, Kafr Qasem, Khan Yunis, and many others are still vivid in our minds. However, this repeated manifestation of Israel hatred and love for the murder of Arabs is of alarming significance and should prompt the United Nations to take action immediately, before it is too late. A human catastrophe may not be far away.

1965

28-29 OCTOBER 1965

During the night of 28-29 October 1965, Israel regular armed forces in uniform penetrated into Lebanese territory and carried out acts of sabotage in two different places. In the village of Houla the aggressors dynamited a house, which was completely destroyed, and an adjoining house was also destroyed, a woman being killed beneath the debris. Several nearby houses were damaged by the explosion. At Maiss ej Jabal a spring with its three cisterns was dynamited and completely destroyed: the water of the spring drained away and disappeared completely into the ground.

13 NOVEMBER 1965

On 13 November 1965, Israel tanks and 105-mm recoilless guns opened heavy fire on the Syrian village of Nukheila; other heavy Israel mortars shelled the Syrian villages of Nukheila, Abbasieh and Tel-Al-Azaziat. This was followed by Israel aerial bombardment, where heavy and napalm bombs destroyed the following Syrian posts and villages: Nukheila, Mourhr Shebaa, Zaourra, Jabata-Al-Zeit and Bazaata.

1965

29-30 APRIL 1966

At approximately midnight on 29-30 April 1966 Israel regular armed forces crossed the Armistice Demarcation Line into Jordan and launched a major unprovoked and premeditated attack against the Jordanian village of Rafat and the Rujm el Madfa'a police post, Hebron area, 3 km. inside Jordan:

(a) The Israel military force as a result of this attack have demolished completely 18 civilian houses by explosive charges;

(b) Three other houses were slightly damaged by explosives used by the attacking force;

(c) In the course of this attack and as a result of the firing by the aggressors, the villagers of Rafat managed to escape;

(d) The police post Rujm el Madfa'a was shelled and subjected to a concerted attack;

(e) As a result of this shelling and the attack, the building of this police post was severely damaged;

(f) Two soldiers were wounded;

(g) Four horses were killed near the stable.

1966

29-30 APRIL 1966

At approximately midnight on 29-30 April 1966 Israel military forces crossed the Armistice Demarcation Line into Jordan and launched a major unprovoked and premeditated attack against the civilian village of Tel el Arba'in, some 4 kilometres inside Jordan:

At about the same time and date another Israel force attacked the Jisr Sheikh Hussein police post by bombarding the building, using 105 and 106 mm. recoilless guns and other weapons;

This unprovoked and premeditated aggressive act by the Israel forces against Jordanian civilians during the midnight time resulted in the following:

(a) The following 11 civilians killed: Mahmoud Ahmed Suleiman, 30 years old; Tahir Hassan Ghazawi, 35; Tawfick Khalil, 25; Husni Hussein Abu A'shour, 27; Hussein Azu Zeid, 25; Shihdeh Mohammad. Sorour, 30; Hassan Abu Murad, 35; Mustafa Abu El-Sukar, 24; Hassan Saleh Eid, 55; Ali Abdul Kadir, 35; and Halima S. Mohd, a girl of 20;

(b) Three civilians wounded: Mohammad. Hassan Shaboul, 45 years old; Suleiman Ahmed Abdeh, 22; and Nimer Said Mohammad. 25;

(c) Approximately 10 houses constructed of stone, of which two were two-storeys high, badly damaged or demolished by explosions (in some places where a group of houses were close together, the destruction was so total that it was impossible to tell the exact number of houses involved);

(d) The above-mentioned persons were killed or wounded by fire directed against them by the attackers.

15 MAY 1966

On 15 May 1966, an Israel military unit maneuvering close to the Jordanian village of Badrass directed its automatic fire on the said village, causing injury to 3 children, nine to ten years of age, wounding 2 of them critically. A similar provocation and act of aggression took place on 1 March in the same area, causing injuries to a number of children who were in their school building. The Israel authorities at that time expressed their regret to the Mixed Armistice Commission, and promised to put a halt to such violations and injuries to innocent children. The incident of 15 May, however, proves that the Israelis have no intention of abstaining from such provocations and violations.

15 JULY 1966

At 17:10 hours local time, in the afternoon of 14 July 1966, a number of Israel jet fighters and bombers violated the Syrian air space, shelled seven Syrian areas all situated in the site of Jordan river's development scheme, hit mechanical and engineering equipment, destroyed bulldozers with napalm bombs, wounded nine civilians and killed one woman.

13 NOVEMBER 1966

At approximately 6:15 am, the Israel armed forces crossed the armistice demarcation line in brigade strength, supported by a squadron of Mirage jets, heavy artillery, a large number of personnel carriers and more than twenty tanks. The objective of the invading force was to destroy Arab villages and hamlets south of Hebron. In particular, they subjected the villages of As Samu, Rafaat and the police post of Rujm el Madfa'a to bombardment from the air. Rujm el Madfa'a was also, together with the village of Tawawani, the target of shelling by heavy Israel artillery.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

WAR CRIMES AND CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY COMMITTED BY ZIONISTS AGAINST PALESTINIANS IN THE GAZA STRIP

The barbarous crimes committed between 1967 and 1987 against the population of the Gaza Strip on the orders of the top Israeli political and military leaders were similar to the war crimes and crimes against humanity committed under the Nazi political and military leaders in Occupied Europe during World War II. More than 2,000 Palestinians of the Gaza Strip were murdered and more than 5,000 injured and maimed. More than 10,000 Palestinians of the Gaza Strip were either imprisoned or put in detention camps and tortured by the most brutal and inhumane methods. More than 1,000 houses were demolished. Collective fines were imposed and the economy of Gaza was destroyed. These crimes were committed under the Israeli leadership for the purpose of breaking the will and resistance to the occupiers and for emptying the Gaza Strip of its population.

Since the beginning of the Intifada in December, 1987, Israeli crimes against Palestinians in the Gaza Strip have increased in number and intensity. More details of these crimes will be dealt with in the chapter on the Intifada.

THE PERIOD FROM JUNE 5 TO JUNE 11, 1967

During their entry into the Gaza Strip the Israeli forces directed their artillery fire against the civilian population. As a result, many houses in Gaza and Khan Yunis suffered extensive damage. The enemy fire was especially heavy against the refugee camp at Khan Yunis, the towns of Jabalia and Rafah and the refugee camp of Al-Maghazi. On June 5, 1967, 23 houses were demolished during the shelling of the city of Rafah. At the refugee camp of Al Muaskar 45 rooms were destroyed and the ceilings of 62 rooms were smashed. UNRWA officials estimate the units destroyed at the refugee camp at Khan Yunis as 847. Many families occupying those units were killed. Many of the inhabitants of Khan Yunis sought refuge in the woods near the city where they remained for five days without food and water. The Israeli forces destroyed an ambulance, killing its occupants, then broke into the hospital killing a number of patients and taking the rest as prisoners. The water reservoir at Khan Yunis was wantonly destroyed. Several hundred persons were murdered during those two days. At the Al-Muaskar refugee camp twelve houses were destroyed by shelling the camp on June 5. Eight persons were killed and fifteen were wounded. The refugee camp and the town of Jabalia were shelled for three hours on June 7. More than three hundred units were destroyed and many families were wiped out.

The Israeli forces imposed a continuous curfew in all the Gaza Strip for seven days. During that period they fired at any person on sight. At Rafah on June 11 they took ten men from their homes and shot them because a mine had exploded under a military car. On June 10 Israeli soldiers demolished a whole block of units in the northern refugee camp at Rafah because a mine had exploded under a military car — 40 houses comprising 144 rooms were destroyed. 23 bodies were found under the rubble, mostly those of women and children, as well as of 4 men. A large number of persons died during that period in the Gaza Strip — mass and individual murder. It is estimated that about four thousand civilians were killed.

The Israeli soldiers went on a looting campaign, breaking into commercial buildings and dwellings and taking everything they found in them.

THE PERIOD FROM JUNE 11 TO JUNE 15, 1967

During this period the curfew was lifted only for four hours a day. In spite of that, terroristic acts and mass murder of civilians continued unabated. The occupying forces would encircle refugee camps, villages or city quarters, then order all males between sixteen and sixty to proceed to an open section in the area with their hands raised and order them to sit under the scorching sun all day long. The occupying forces would order civilians to hand over any firearms they had in their possession and warn them that their houses would be searched and that houses containing firearms would be blown up. The military forces would select a few houses at random — then destroy them. Later they would pick up several hundred men, claiming that they were soldiers, send them to a forced labor camp and then ship them to the Suez Canal Zone. All villages, refugee camps and city quarters were encircled starting from June 16. Certain areas were besieged more than once. Khan Yunis was besieged on June 17 and 21. More than two thousand young men were taken from that town, most of them teachers. From the Beach Camp the IDF took more than 800 men and from the Jabalia Camp 600 young men. More than 5,000 young men were forced out of the Strip by Israeli soldiers.

TERRORIZING REFUGEE CAMPS DURING THE NIGHT

A new tactic followed the encirclement actions. Civilians were terrorized in order to force them to leave the Gaza Strip. Travel between the Gaza Strip and the West Bank of the Jordan was made possible and easy. This campaign of terror was concentrated against the refugee camps.

For one full week during the early part of August 1967, Israeli soldiers raided different sections of the Beach Camp at night. They ordered men to lie flat on their stomachs and started beating them. Other soldiers searched their homes, frightening women and children. As a result, two demonstrations by the refugees took place.

A unit of Israeli soldiers attacked the Al-Mughazi refugee camp, in particular Block 2, beating the refugees while pretending that they were searching for firearms. On that night about 20 persons were taken into custody.

On the night of June 19 Israeli soldiers attacked the refugee camp at Khan Yunis firing in all directions, claiming that nails had been scattered on the roads causing damage to their cars. The attack was concentrated on Block M. After completing their terrorist action the Israeli soldiers arrested 21 men. On August 29 another army force began breaking into the houses and beating men, women and children. Similar actions took place in November.

On November 19 an Israeli military force attacked the Nusairat refugee camp throwing explosives in the lanes, claiming that they were searching for mines. At the Jabalia refugee camp military raids took place almost every night.

SIEGE AND ENCIRCLEMENT

Having failed to force the refugees into leaving their country through nocturnal terror and raids, the Israeli forces resorted to siege and encirclement of the refugee camps over long periods, depriving the refugees of the services and rations of UNRWA. These actions were followed by the ingathering of men in open areas.

Beach Camp

(a) The camp was placed under siege and curfew for 36 hours on July 31 because a bomb had exploded near the Port of Gaza. (b) The camp was encircled for 6 days, from January 9 to 14, 1968, for the purpose of searching for a person alleged to have thrown a bomb in the Port area. All men in the camp were gathered in a small area from 4 p.m. to 1 a.m. during very stormy and rainy weather. About 40 men were arrested and tortured for four days in order to find the alleged culprit. At the end of the siege the Israeli soldiers blew up the fishing boats owned by the refugees in the Beach Camp, as well as a number of houses. The value of the fishing boats destroyed is estimated at $100,000. (c) On January 25, 1968, the camp was again besieged. A curfew was imposed and eleven persons were arrested.

The City of Gaza

(a) On January 29, 1968, the city was besieged and a curfew imposed for three days. (b) The Shujaiyya Quarter was under siege and curfew three times — the last was on February 28, 1968. (c) Tuffah Quarter was under siege and curfew for two days, February 22 and 23, 1968. (d) Jabalia Quarter was under siege ten times because of the explosion of mines. The last siege started on December 29, 1968, and continued for three days. All men were gathered at Birkat Abi Rashid during very severe cold weather. Many men were maltreated. A number of men became frostbitten. Similar actions took place at Beit Hanun. A renewed siege of the same Quarter took place on January 24 and 25 for the purpose of arresting persons.

The Central Camps

(a) On December 22, 1967, siege and curfew were imposed upon the Central Refugee Camp for the purpose of a search for Fida'iyyin. (b) The siege of Al-Maghazi Camp lasted for five days. During that period men were gathered every day in the schoolyard of the camp in the open air. Investigation of each person took place during stormy, windy, cold and rainy weather while they were fasting. (c) Renewed siege and curfew of the Central Refugee Camp started on December 29, 1967, and continued until January 3, 1968. This same treatment of the men was repeated during the curfew.

Khan Yunis

On December 29, 1967, the tribes of Bani Suhaila, Abasan and Khuzaa were under siege for 3 days. The village of El Kararah was under siege for 5 days. In these villages more than twenty homes were demolished.

Rafah

Rafah was under siege and curfew a number of times in a search for explosives. The last and the most cruel search started on January 22, 1968, lasting three days.

Demolition

The occupying authorities continued their dynamiting of dwellings and sources of production, claiming they were searching for arms and explosives invariably because of an explosion near a dwelling.

Rafah

(a) On June 9, 1967, the occupying forces demolished 40 dwellings in the northern refugee camp at Rafah, claiming that a mine exploded under a military car. (b) On June 11, 1967, the house of the Suyam family was demolished by Israeli soldiers claiming it contained explosives. (c) On June 11, 1967, the dwelling of Jaber Annahal was dynamited, after it was claimed that it contained firearms. (d) On February 21, 1968, several houses were dynamited, after it was claimed that they contained armed men and firearms. (e) The dwelling of Nasr Allal Hamdan was dynamited, after it was claimed that it contained arms.

Khan Yunis

On December 29, 1967, Israeli soldiers dynamited more than twenty dwellings in the villages of Abasan, Khuzaa, Bani Suhaila and Al-Karah.

Central Refugee Camps

On June 29, 1967, the water pump and engine, owned by Siad Khaleel Abu Al Auf, were dynamited and the owner was killed.

On November 26, 1967, more than 25 dwellings and four water pumps and engines near El Burajj were dynamited as a reprisal for the death of an Israeli soldier. At the same time, two warehouses in the El Burajj Refugee Camp, used as dwellings by 40 families, were dynamited.

On January 8, 1968, ten houses near the Dair El Balah station owned by the El Zariaee tribe were dynamited. Six more houses in the same area were destroyed. On November 29, 1967, a dwelling owned by two orphans, one 14, the other 11, and their grandmother, aged 80, was dynamited in the Nusairat Refugee Camp. On June 7, 1967, a dwelling was blown up and on February 5, 1968, another was destroyed.

Gaza

(a) Al Shujaiyyeh Quarter: the home of Mohamed El Ankar was blown up on the first day of the occupation as an act of terror. (b) El Zaytoun Quarter: the home of AdeeB Rubeen Al Akook located near the railroad station was blown up because a bomb had exploded in the station square. (c) Attufah: on February 21, 1968, the homes of Mohammed El Zaharna and Khairy Abu Thuraya were dynamited because the Israeli occupying forces claimed they contained arms. (d) Addaraj: on February 29, 1968, six homes were blown up because of the explosion of a bomb in the street, the Israelis claiming that they contained arms.

Al Manshiyyah

On February 29, 1968, the dwellings of Izzat Kassab and Fawzi Kaheel were blown up on the claim that they contained arms.

Al Ramel

The homes of Najeeb Jaradeh and Salah Abu Ramadan were blown up as an act of terror. The home of Abdul Khalek Abu Shaban was demolished on January 1, 1968, because a bomb exploded near it. The homes of Theodor Tahawa and Norman AdeeB were demolished because the Israelis claimed they contained arms.

Shati Refugee Camp

On June 16, 1967, during the siege of the camp and as an act of terror three homes were blown up. On January 14, 1968, Israeli soldiers destroyed 31 fishing boats and fishing gear, ten rooms and a coffee house valued at $280,000.

Town of Jabalia

Over ten houses were destroyed on June 18, 1967, as an act of terror.

Refugee Camp at Jabalia

The homes of Mohamed Abu Jalaleh and Ahmed Nafeesah were demolished on June 18, 1967, as an act of terror. The house of Atta Abdul Kader Saleh was destroyed because his son was accused of having thrown a bomb into the Jabalia market.

DETENTION

Detentions continued unabated from the start of the Israeli occupation until June 5, 1968. The Israeli army incarcerated more than 550 persons and prisoners in the Gaza and Beit

Hanan Prisons were inhumanly tortured. On January 13, 1968, the occupation authorities carried out wide-scale raids against various members of the Palestine Liberation Organization and nationalist groups, arresting 115.

In spite of all this Gaza never yielded or gave in to this brute force.

Suddenly one morning the Israeli occupation authorities were faced with the distribution of a mimeographed communiqué announcing the creation of the United National Front whose aim was to forge all resistance in the Gaza Strip and to demonstrate the determination of the people to hold to their national homeland in spite of the Israeli terror and torture. This small sheet later was transformed into a daily paper which contained records of acts of resistance and the repressive measures taken by the enemy occupation forces.

The occupation authorities concentrated their terror against the refugee camps in order to disintegrate and destroy the resistance therein. The raids against the camps were carried out by night for the purpose of frightening the children, elderly and women, beating the citizens and molesting the young girls.

At the Shati Camp the refugees demonstrated against the robbery that was carried out by a group of Israeli soldiers. The following day two demonstrations by women took place; they carried black flags and called for the downfall of the Israeli gangs. UNRWA officials also went on strike. More than 40 notables of the Gaza Strip met at the Municipal Building and signed a protest petition.

A member of the Israeli forces molested a citizen in an Al Mukhatar street for no reason whatever — then shot him in broad daylight. Members of the public were so enraged that they were about to kill the soldier but other members of the military forces saved him. All shops in that area went on strike for the next two days.

The National Students Committee, an affiliate of the National United Front Committee, addressed a communiqué to its students urging them to boycott the examination arranged by the occupation authorities on September 2, 1967. Prior to this, the National Committee of Male and Female Teachers issued a statement declaring their determination to thwart all attempts by the Jewish occupation authorities to incorporate their educational system into that of the Strip.

The Israeli occupiers and their agents resorted to devious methods to justify their acts of terror against the citizens of the Strip by planting mines or throwing explosives. An explosion occurred on the main road at the entrance to Jabalia, destroying a truck owned by Arabs and injuring four residents. The Israeli occupation authorities made use of this incident by laying siege to the whole area of Jabalia for over twelve hours. The examination set by the Israeli occupation authorities for students was a total failure in spite of the efforts undertaken by the occupation authorities.

The Israeli military governor of the Gaza Strip summoned notables of the city of Gaza, urging them to persuade the parents and guardians to send their boys and girls to schools. He added that any action discouraging students from going to schools would be considered unfriendly acts toward the occupation authorities. The notables rejected his request.

Soldiers attacked citizens in the refugee camp at Khan Yunis with metal pipes. This terror led to a demonstration by the women of the camp. They carried black flags and called for the downfall of the Israeli occupiers. During that demonstration forty young men were injured by the brutal attacks of the Israeli soldiers.

In the evening of October 21, 1967, the Israelis resorted again to attacks against the refugee camp at Khan Yunis, not sparing women, children or the aged. The pretext of the soldiers was that stones were being thrown at them.

The occupation forces continued their looting and sequestration of property. They ordered the expropriation of all property belonging to absentee citizens of the Gaza Strip.

The Israeli military governor in the Gaza Strip issued a proclamation during August 1967, cancelling the concession given by the Arab Administration to the Gaza municipality to supply electricity. He transferred the said concession to an Israeli company. The Municipal Council collectively resigned in protest against this aggressive and unjust act and did not heed the threats directed against it by the Israeli authorities. The Israeli authorities incarcerated members of the Council for one night in an attempt to intimidate them.

CONTINUATION OF TERROR

The military occupation authorities gather by force Gazans from the coffee houses to force them to work in the centers where the occupation forces resided. They also beat the citizens while they work. As a method of terror they put persons in a large bag, tied its opening and beat them.

The occupation authorities were forced to countermand their order to cancel the concession of the Gaza municipal authorities to supply electricity. Thus the Municipal Council succeeded through its noncooperation to regain its concession.

When Moshe Dayan visited the Municipal Council, he told the Mayor: "You are at liberty to take a position different than that of the Governor and I will support you."

However, when Moshe Dayan requested the assistance of the Mukhtars (headmen of an area) to help in transferring the refugees to Jericho, one of the Mukhtars, Khalil Al Masjal, retorted: "We are not ready to acquiesce." At that moment Dayan ordered the arrest of the headman and later told the other headmen in a threatening manner: "You are not to lodge any more complaints about the treatment by the army of the refugees."

The Israeli radio station attacked those persons who distributed publications on November 2 and 29, 1967, calling for a strike. The publications were distributed by the National United Front. The first publication was circulated on the 50th anniversary of the Balfour Declaration, while the second was on the 20th anniversary of the unjust United Nations partition resolution of 1947.

The occupation authorities arrested Fayek Rawad, a nationalist, and deported him to the East Bank of the Jordan.

The occupation authorities arrested a number of young men from Jabalia, accusing them of having pulled down the flag of Israel.

The occupation forces detained twelve persons from the central part of the Gaza Strip. They were members of a delegation that went to see the Governor of Dair Balah to present him with a protest. All were deported.

The occupation authorities dismissed all the refugee workers who were employed by the Public Works Department in Gaza, closed three secondary schools in the Strip and dismissed the school children. This was done in order to force the refugees out of the area. The occupation authorities arrested the widow of Khamir Hamidan and her baby after they dug up her yard and scattered her belongings in a search for arms. They released her on February 25, 1968, after she had spent three days in prison. The military court in Gaza issued an order to demolish thirteen houses in the Strip, claiming that they had found arms in them. During the siege of the Ashujaiyya Quarter the occupation forces killed an orange grove attendant by beating him with an iron pipe.

The Teachers National Committee, an affiliate of the United National Front in the Strip, and the Federated Teachers Front of the West Bank of the Jordan issued a statement strongly condemning the occupation authorities for meddling in the Arab teaching curriculum, for demolishing and setting fire to the headquarters of the Department of Education in Gaza, and for arresting many teachers.

After the Fidaiyyin operations in areas contiguous to the Gaza Strip, the Israeli authorities besieged the village of Abasan, the refugee camp at El Buraj and the Ashushaiyya Quarter in Gaza. The Israelis combed the whole area searching for Fidaiyyin, then arrested many persons.

The occupation authorities summoned some notables from Gaza, the central area, Dair Balah, and threatened them with additional restrictive measures against the citizens of the area unless the Fidaiyyin operations ceased.

On April 4, 1968, the cars of the Israeli authorities were cruising in Ashushaiyya, announcing the start of a curfew. This took place at four o'clock in the morning. At one o'clock in the afternoon the cars of the occupation authorities cruised the area, calling on men between fourteen and sixty to come out of their houses and gather in the square in that area. Suddenly a large wave of women and children opened the doors of their houses and came out with loud cries determined to defy the authorities. The occupation authorities attempted to stop the stampede of women and children by firing in the air at one time and over their heads at another time. However, the occupation forces were subjected to a barrage of stones and sticks and cries "Down with the occupiers!"

Unemployment is rampant in Gaza and among the sailors of the Port of Gaza as a result of the diversion of the shipping of the orange crop from Gaza to Ashdod.

The occupation forces resorted to a new method of looting in the Gaza Strip. They tied the doors of shops with a rope and then fastened that rope to their jeeps. In this manner they pulled away doors, then opened the stores and looted the merchandise.

Many children were seriously wounded in the Ashushaiyya Quarter and were hospitalized. This was caused by bestial attacks committed by the Israeli forces. The pretext for such behavior was that a child of less than six years of age had thrown a stone at a car.

A force of Israeli soldiers attacked on April 5, 1968, twenty houses in the Jabalia refugee camp, forcing the men and the children out of their homes — then began beating them with the butts of their rifles. Later they arrested three brothers of the Habub family, claiming that one of their brothers was a member of the Fidaiyyin group.

A graduate of a Haifa secondary school for girls residing in Khan Yunis applied to the Department of Education at Gaza for a position as a teacher. The Israeli inspector responsible requested that she meet him at the Legislative Building for an interview with one of the officers. In a room allocated for the Criminal Investigation Department she met a certain officer who tried to convince her to work for the Criminal Investigation Department in return for a salary of 60 Israeli Pounds and 50 Israeli Pounds extra for every family she succeeded in convincing to leave the Gaza Strip. The brave Arab girl yelled in the face of the Israeli officer, declaring that she had come in search of a teaching position and not to become an agent of the Israelis.

In spite of the threats and terror of the Israeli authorities, the people in the Gaza Strip held a protest march against the Israeli military parade in the Holy City of Jerusalem.

In Khan Yunis a group of Arab freedom fighters clashed with the IDF on May 1 and 2, 1968. In Gaza as well as in Khan Yunis and many other towns and villages the refugees and the citizens of the Strip stayed in their homes. As a result the streets and markets were empty of people and cars. At the girls' school of Dair Balah the students gathered in the schoolyard and attempted to proceed in a demonstration protesting the military parade in Jerusalem. In Gaza, as in many other cities and towns, the notables and the headmen rejected the invitation sent to them to attend the Israeli military parade.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORTS OF EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN JOURNALISTS

DESTRUCTION OF ARAB HOMES

1. "In Gaza last night, the dwellings of suspected saboteurs were reduced to rubble." (New York Times, 10 August 1967).

2. "Israeli security forces blew up a number of Arab houses in Deir Al-Balah village in the Gaza Strip, in retaliation for the murder of a farmer." (A.P., 28 November 1967).

3. "In order to intimidate the population, the military authorities have dynamited houses where saboteurs might have found shelter or help." (Le Monde, 20 January 1968).

4. "The Israelis blew up 9 fishermen's huts, which were used for storing their nets and tackle, and destroyed a number of fishing boats." (The Guardian, 26 January 1968).

5. "Israeli soldiers dynamited 4 houses — and the explosion brought down 8 others — in Wahda Street in Gaza, after a fire cracker was thrown from one of these houses. The inhabitants were given 10 minutes to evacuate their families, including small children, and they can still be seen searching the rubble to see if they can salvage anything." (Reuters, 7 February 1968).

6. "Several shanties and storage sheds were demolished in a Bedouin encampment near Khan Yunis." (The Jerusalem Post, 11 January 1968).

7. "3 houses were blown up yesterday as a reprisal for an incident in which a homemade grenade was thrown at a lorry." (A.F.P., A.P., Reuters, 22 February 1968).

8. "The order to destroy the houses of anyone found to be connected with saboteurs or to have sheltered them is still enforced. At least 100 houses have been destroyed." (The Times, 7 March 1968).

9. "Non-Arab residents of the strip share the Arab view that punishment is meted out to tens of thousands of people who could not possibly be implicated in the incidents: the destruction of houses, whose inhabitants' only crime is to be living near the spot where a bomb explodes, is out of all proportion to the acts committed." (The Observer, 28 January 1968).

EXPULSION OF ARAB POPULATION

1. "Public cars leave Gaza regularly every morning for the West Bank. The number of travellers vary from 400 to 500 daily, only 10 per cent of which return to Gaza in the evening." (Red Cross Report No. 3, 11 August 1967)

2. Each day for the last 2 weeks, 500 residents have left the Gaza Strip. Any reduction in Gaza area's population is a benefit to everyone in Israel's view." (New York Times, 26 August 1967).

3. "The opportunity of reprisals on security grounds has been taken to hasten the departure of more people from the West Bank and the Gaza Strip and to prevent the return of those who had fled. The Israeli authorities believe that whatever the eventual political status of the Gaza Strip, the refugees there should be moved elsewhere." (Observer, 17 December 1967).

4. "It is estimated that between 30,000 and 35,000 people have left the strip as a result of the measures taken by the Israeli authorities." (Observer, 28 January 1968).

5. "The Israelis encourage the population to leave." (The Times, 7 March 1968).

6. "The non-Arab, non-Jewish population of Gaza believe that the only danger to security in Gaza comes from the present determined and often brutal attempts by the Israeli army to persuade the Arab refugees to leave the Gaza Strip, thus opening the way to its annexation by Israel. My observations confirm this view." (The Guardian, 26 January 1968).

7. "There was a well-attested intimidation of Arabs in the Gaza Strip and elsewhere to encourage them to leave," wrote British M.P.'s Ian Gilmour and Colin Jackson in a letter to The Times on 10 February 1968.

8. "No Israeli, when he deals frankly with you (and many do) will deny that he would prefer to accept "the dowry without the bride," meaning that, from Israel's point of view, the ideal solution to the problem of the occupied territories would be their absorption by Israel but without their Arab population," wrote Michael Adams. (The Guardian, 19 February 1968).

BRUTALITY AND INHUMAN TREATMENT

1. In a letter to The Observer, Michael Adams wrote: "The Jerusalem Post reported that the 2,500 male residents of the Al-Shati' Camp (in the Gaza Strip), aged 17 to 50, were herded into a stockade for interrogation by teams of army police and security service men. The Post did not add that the stockade was on a beach, that a violent storm was raging, that there was continuous small arms fire over the men's heads, and that they were kept there for 7 hours." (The Observer, 18 February 1968).

2. In the same letter, Mr. Adams says: "At Jabalia Camp, the men were held in similar conditions for 25 hours, in a shallow depression where rainwater had gathered. The hospitals had to deal with a number of cases of exposure after this episode."

3. "The intimidatory measures imposed by the Israeli authorities on the village of Al-Arish have been so strengthened in the last few days that it is difficult to find a single boy in the town who has not been imprisoned for some days without any reason. It is also reported that during the last few days, and between midnight and 3 a.m. each night, every family lives in a state of anxiety and expects to be arrested by the security forces at any minute; the men may be taken off for several days or even a week at a time, and during this period of detention would be subjected to the ugliest possible forms of torture." (All Press Agencies, 18 December 1967).

4. "The Israeli authorities imprisoned all the Mukhtars of Gaza for the past four days, and subjected them to all possible methods of torture in an effort to extort information from them. As a result, one of them, Alyan Al-Masri, has died." (A.F.P., 30 July 1967).

5. "The Gaza Strip went on strike in protest against the Israeli forces' appropriation of sums of money estimated at a million dollars, in addition to robberies by individual Israeli soldiers. The Israeli authorities arrested the Mayor of Gaza, Mr. Munir Al-Rayess, and three prominent tradesmen, because of their refusal to ask for a stop to the strike. Many personalities from Khan Yunis, including the Mayor and his assistant, were also arrested for the same reason. The judges and public prosecutors in Gaza refused to work, even after they had been threatened with imprisonment and after some of them had been beaten up." (Reuters, A.P., A.F.P., 3 August 1967)

6. "The Israeli authorities imposed a curfew on the Gaza Strip yesterday. Many of the men aged between 18 and 40 were arrested, and taken to the main square, where their hands were tied behind their backs and they were ordered to lie face down on the ground; at the same time there was shooting above their heads in order to intimidate them. Later these men were taken to an unknown destination." (A.F.P., 30 July 1967)

7. "The Israeli authorities perform their so-called "Search Operations" brutally and violently, and in the middle of the night. Citizens are made to leave their homes and are not permitted to return until the searches are over. In order to spread panic amongst the populace, the Israeli authorities fire shots from machine guns while they are carrying out these searches." (Red Cross Report No. 3, 11 August 1967).

8. "The Israeli authorities imposed a 24 hours curfew and search in the town of Al-Arish yesterday." (A.F.P., A.P., 20 August 1967).

9. "The Israeli authorities perform nightly search operation in the sector, which creates great panic amongst the women and children." (Report submitted by the Secretary-General of the United Nations, 15 September 1967).

10. "A general curfew was imposed yesterday on the Gaza Strip and "Search Operations" were carried out. There have been several similar incidents within the last few days in the Gaza Strip." (Le Monde, 31 December 1967).

11. "The Israeli authorities have imposed a curfew on the Gaza Strip and have launched "Search Operations," in reprisal for a homemade grenade which was thrown into the Gaza fish market and which resulted in no casualties." (Le Monde, 10 January 1968)

12. "In the town of Gaza, a curfew was imposed for 61 hours, and for the first 24 hours not even doctors were allowed to move outside their houses. In Shati' Camp, the curfew lasted for 5 days (9-14 January) and UNRWA was not allowed to distribute food until the fourth day. Moreover in Jabalia Camp, the curfew lasted for 9 days and nights." (In a letter from Michael Adams to The Observer).

13. "Curfews are now so frequently imposed in the Gaza Strip that life in the sector is almost completely paralyzed. During these curfew hours, armed Israeli patrols often break into private homes and carry out their search operations." (A.P., A.F.P., 18 January 1968).

14. "A total day and night curfew, whose duration was not specified, was imposed on 200,000 Arabs in the Gaza Strip yesterday. The Israeli authorities are proceeding to search every single house in the sector. Schools, shops and offices were closed in Gaza and streets were deserted except for army patrols." (Le Monde, 20 January 1968).

BRUTALITIES TOWARD ARAB WOMEN

News agencies reported on February 2, 1969 that thousands of women and children demonstrated in protest against the massacres and the repressive acts carried out by Israeli military occupation authorities in that sector, as well as the prison sentences pronounced by Israeli military courts on three girls for varying terms. Israeli occupying forces fired on demonstrators after tear gas bombs had failed to disperse them, thus resulting in the killing and wounding of more than a hundred school girls between the ages of fifteen and twenty, several of whom were transported to hospitals as a result of bullet wounds inflicted by occupying forces.

WAR CRIMES CONTINUE

Palestinian resistance to the occupation of the Gaza Strip by the Israelis continued, as did the brutal Israeli repression of the Palestinians. On March 25, 1981, The Washington Post reported that the "only thing happening in Gaza these days is the business of violence and repression. Some 5,000 Gazans (average age, 20) have been brought to court or detained under old British Mandate emergency law defense regulations. Held incommunicado for a month, many are not brought to court for a year. Regularly they complain of torture and brutality. The jails are so overcrowded that the Israelis have sent prisoners to Beersheba."

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE ECONOMY IN GAZA

From the beginning of its occupation of the Gaza Strip in 1967, Israel ruthlessly destroyed the economy of Gaza. On November 23, 1969 The Sunday Times of London reported that "One can observe children crazed from hunger, willing to do anything for a piece of bread."

As in Nazi-occupied Europe, the starvation of the Palestinian Arabs in Gaza was deliberately imposed upon them as part of a deliberate policy. The Israelis' aim, as it had been with the Nazis in World War II, was to reshape their victims' economy to the occupiers' requirements, regardless of the effect on the victims.

"Before 1967, agriculture accounted for about a quarter of the employment in Gaza, particularly seasonal work in the orange groves. Production was labor intensive. Now Israel has restructured Gaza's agriculture to Israeli requirements. Farmers are prevented from exporting to Israel products which might compete with Israeli agriculture. Since 1967, melons, grapes, olives, almonds and onions have all declined in output, according to local researchers. Farmers have been required to get a permit before planting any new vegetables or trees since 1983, with the result that the Israelis control the development of Gaza's agriculture, particularly in citrus.

"At the same time, Gazan farmers have to compete with subsidized Israeli produce on sale in Gaza. Indeed, marketing is the key and the Israelis control it, as they control price, quantity for export and even which produce should be grown."<sup>1</sup>

CRIPPLING OF EDUCATION IN THE GAZA STRIP

From the start of their occupation of the Gaza strip, the Israelis harassed Palestinian students and teachers with the aim of crippling education in the territory. The children of those Palestinians living in UNRWA refugee camps were the primary victims.

"Between July, 1969 and June, 1970, according to the reports of UNRWA's Commissioner General, 57 teachers from UNRWA were detained by Israeli authorities in the Gaza Strip for periods that ranged from 3 days to more than 6 months."<sup>2</sup>

"Between July, 1970 and June, 1971, there were 36 cases of arrest and detention of members of UNRWA's staff for various periods, more than six months in one case. They were not charged with any criminal offense."<sup>3</sup>

According to the testimony of Abu Ali, an UNRWA teacher: "The invasion and occupation of 1967 seriously disrupted education in the Gaza Strip. Many schools were targets of Israeli looting and all kinds of things were carried off to help furnish soldiers' houses in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem — desks, books, even laboratory equipment."<sup>4</sup>

From such criminal beginnings in 1967, the Israelis continued the crippling of education in the Gaza Strip. Nearly twenty years after 1967, we hear the testimony of Iyad, who was sixteen when he was arrested following a demonstration at the school in Jabalia refugee camp:

There had been a demonstration at our school which finished when the soldiers arrived. The students had gone back into the classroom and everything was quiet as the soldiers entered the school. They went into each of the classrooms and picked out some of the students. I was taken along with seven others from my class. I think they took the same number from each class so there were about one hundred of us altogether. All the way to Gaza, the soldiers beat us with clubs and their rifles.

The first place they took us was the Military Governor's compound in Gaza town. They made all of us kneel in the sun. One soldier looked at me for a couple of seconds, then just kicked me in the chest.

Beatings and interrogation lasted for several days. My legs had swollen like barrels, three times their normal size.<sup>5</sup>

The Israeli occupation of the Gaza Strip, often called "benign" by Zionist apologists, is in fact a reign of terror and deprivation. "UNRWA schools are desperately overcrowded, but no new schools can be built due to the Israelis' refusal to grant building permits. In 1981, UNRWA wanted to build a school between Khan Yunis and Rafah because elementary pupils had to walk 8 km. to school. The contractor, who had begun building on land donated by a local landlord with materials from an international agency, was arrested and building stopped."<sup>6</sup>

In December, 1987 the pattern of wanton violence, cruelty and other war crimes perpetrated by the Israelis against the inhabitants of the Gaza Strip continued. Testimony regarding the first Israeli occupation of Gaza in 1956-1957, could just as well be about the situation in Gaza when they occupied it in 1967, or in 1989. UNRWA teacher Abu Ali testified about the 1956-1957 Israeli occupation forces:

There were times when the Israelis perpetrated what I can only describe as acts of mindless brutality. On one occasion some Israeli soldiers entered the house of a school teacher friend of mine and tried to rape his wife. He defended her and they killed him and her too. There was another person I knew, a fire-brigade official from Shajaiya called Harazin. One day when he was at his station, Zionist soldiers came by. Because he was an official he came out to meet them openhanded, and they shot him dead in his own doorway. And during the curfews, the soldiers would shoot anything they saw moving, even someone walking in front of their window.<sup>7</sup>

When the second occupation of Gaza, which began in 1967, marked its twentieth anniversary in 1987, the Palestinian Arabs of the Gaza Strip were still afraid of walking in front of their windows for fear that they might be killed by an Israeli bullet.

The war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide practiced by the Israelis against the Palestinian Arabs of the Gaza Strip are continuing to this day. The crimes of murder, rape, arson, theft, torture, arbitrary arrest, economic thralldom and deprivation of basic human rights perpetrated by the Israelis against the Palestinian Arabs of Gaza are still daily occurrences.

As a result of this criminal policy the people of Gaza and the West Bank revolted in December, 1987. Shamir, Peres, Rabin and Sharon and their fellow war criminals used their army to commit the most brutal and inhuman acts of repression. On December 16, 1987 the popular organization in the Gaza Strip issued the following statement to the press:

The roots of the present upheaval in the Occupied Territories, that has been so costly both in casualties and material loss on the hands of occupation forces — stems in our opinion from the contradiction and hostile confrontation that came into existence between the occupation and the Palestine inhabitants since June 1967. The Palestinian people have declared their rejection and denunciation of occupation right from the start. In affirming their innate rights to self-determination in an independent Palestinian state on Palestinian soil, they have resorted, as an acknowledged right of all peoples under occupation, to all available means in resisting occupation. In their resolve to perpetuate occupation the Israelis responded by very harsh and brutal conduct. Furthermore they soon became involved in a wide ranging program for helping Israeli entrenchment on the one hand, and for ultimately alienating and uprooting the local inhabitants on the other, such is the basic contradiction that existed and continues to exist since June 1967 and which has formed the background for all the episodes of unrest and violence. The relatively minor incidents that occurred from time to time, served only as a spark to ignite an already flammable and explosive situation.

The Palestinian people cannot condone or remain silent to Israeli practices that compromise the chances of their continued existence in their innate rights of self-determination and independent political existence on Palestinian soil. They believe that the following would help preserve quietness in the occupied territories until the basic problems are resolved:-

1. That Israel refrain from acquisition of land and establishing settlements.
2. Stop accommodating the settlers and put a limit to their intransigent behavior.

3. Refrain from all practice in violation of the principles of human rights.

4. Desist from the present economic policy that is dedicated to the benefit of Israel and the detriment of the occupied territories.

5. Improve the services in the fields of health, education, police and civic construction in a manner commensurate with the heavy taxation it is imposing on the territories.

6. To be more responsive and humane on the issue of family reunion policy.

We state this in the sincere hope that Israel will stop making roadblocks against the establishment of a just and durable peace.<sup>8</sup>

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

ZIONIST TERRORISM, WAR CRIMES AND CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY IN PALESTINE AND NEIGHBORING ARAB COUNTRIES 1967-1988

Having waged a war of aggression against Jordan, Syria and Egypt in 1967, and having been able to occupy the West Bank, the Gaza Strip, the Golan Heights and the Sinai, Israeli leaders became intoxicated with the arrogance of power. They followed a policy of aggression, destruction, terrorism and crimes against the Palestinians, Jordanians, Syrians, Lebanese and Egyptians, with the object of conducting psychological warfare against the Arabs to prevent them from attempting to liberate the occupied Arab territories.

The Israeli leaders even conspired to control the Arab world by breaking down each Arab country into small units in order to exercise military and political control over them. This plan was published in 1982 in the Hebrew language magazine Kivunim (Directions), an official organ of the World Zionist Organization, in an article entitled "A Strategy for Israel in the Nineteen Eighties."

The Israeli air force has continuously committed war crimes by indiscriminately and wantonly bombing towns, villages and Palestinian refugee centers in Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Egypt, killing thousands of men, women and children and destroying houses, crops and livestock by napalm, fragmentation and phosphorous bombs. The paratroops and armored units of the Israeli army carried out raids against the neighboring Arab countries and committed massacres, destroying homes, schools, churches, mosques and factories. The senior officers of the Israeli army took part in these acts of terrorism and crimes. Almost without exception, every political and military Israeli leader from 1967 until today is implicated in these crimes.

This chapter contains accounts of the most horrendous acts of terrorism and crimes which could only have been carried out by a gang of war criminals. The Israeli leaders can be said without exaggeration to have become the successors of the Nazi leaders in committing war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide. The crimes in this chapter were taken from the records of the Security Council of the United Nations. The following gives a summary of the types of acts of terrorism and crimes, but the details are recorded by date and reference thereafter.

1. Destroyed 135 houses and two mosques in Jerusalem, expelled all the owners and inhabitants of the houses and subsequently expropriated 838 acres in the area adjacent to the Old City.
2. Armed attacks on United Nations Forces, killing and wounding UN soldiers.
3. Expelling Palestinian from towns and villages.
4. Demolishing Palestinian houses with dynamite and bulldozers.
5. Destroying, uprooting or burning olive trees, orange groves and other crops belonging to Palestinian farmers.

6. Destroying Palestinians' furniture and belongings.
7. Indiscriminate shelling of Egypt, killing civilians.
8. Expelling prominent citizens of Jerusalem, the West Bank and Gaza.
9. Beating up Palestinian villagers and confiscating their possessions.
10. Forcing Palestinians to swim across the Jordan River and shooting them in cold blood.
11. Torturing Palestinian prisoners.
12. Sinking Greek and Indian ships and blocking the Suez Canal.
13. Destroying Syrian villages with bulldozers.
14. Demolishing mosques.
15. Expelling Arab Bedouins.
16. Attacking Jordanian villages with mortar and machine gun fire, killing and wounding civilians.
17. Firing on Palestinian refugee camps and Jordanian villages by tanks and artillery, killing and wounding civilians.
18. Destruction of automobiles and their passengers by Israeli-planted anti-vehicle mines.
19. The use of phosphorous shells to burn crops in Jordan.
20. The shelling of a densely populated district of the Egyptian city of Suez, killing 46 and wounding 67, including women and children, and destroying 42 houses, one church, two mosques and one child welfare center and damaging a hospital and the railway station as well as 25 houses.
21. Herding Palestinian refugees in the Gaza Strip like cattle into buses and dumping them in Jordan.
22. Israeli soldiers committed premeditated murder of Judge Shawqi A. El Farra, who was unarmed, in Khan Yunis in the Gaza Strip.
23. Mortar shelling of Lebanon, killing civilians and livestock and destroying houses.
24. Bombing civilian centers in Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.
25. Strafing and napalm bombing of villages and fields of crops.
26. Attacking the Beirut airport and destroying 14 passenger aircraft on the field.
27. Helicopter assaults on villages and Palestinian refugee camps.
28. Arson by setting fire to the Syrian village of Khisfine.
29. Combined air and ground assaults on Arab villages.
30. Sniper fire directed at Jordanian farmers in their fields.
31. Helicopter assaults on Bedouin camps.
32. Expulsion of Lebanese villagers from their homes and destruction of their houses.
33. Shooting unarmed Egyptian prisoners of war.

2. An Israel helicopter crossed the line and landed in Jordan.
3. An Israel helicopter was transporting Israel forces from Israel across the line into Jordan, the general area of Kh. Tabban, south of Jordan.
4. The Israel forces while being in Jordan were engaged in a serious clash with armed Jordanian civilians who were in Jordan.
5. As a result of this engagement, one armed Jordanian civilian named Ahmed Diab Abu Ali was killed east of Kh. Tabban in Jordan.
6. Another armed Jordanian named Ali Mahmoud Shawahin was wounded and taken prisoner by the Israel force in Israel.
7. Ali Mahmoud Shawahin died later in unknown circumstances.

5 JUNE 1967

In a strafing attack by Israel aircraft on a convoy of the Force immediately south of Khan Yunis on the road between Gaza and Rafah three Indian soldiers were killed and an unknown number were wounded. All vehicles in the convoy were painted white, as are all vehicles of the Force. Prior to this incident the Commander of the Force, as a result of Israel artillery fire on two camps occupied by the Indian Contingent of the Force, had, through the Chief of Staff UNTSO, requested the Chief of Staff of the Israel Defense Forces to give instructions that a strict cease-fire would be observed in the vicinity of the installations and camps of the Force.

1967

5 JUNE 1967

At 12:30 hours GMT on 5 June, the main camp of the Indian Battalion of the Force came under Israel artillery fire which killed one officer and one soldier and wounded one officer and nine soldiers.

1967

6 JUNE 1967

According to accounts from displaced persons, the Israel forces entered the three villages of Imwas, Yalu and Beit Nuba at 4:30 am on 6 June and called the inhabitants to assemble, after which they were ordered under threat to leave in the direction of Ramallah. They were joined on the road by people from the "second line" villages of Beit Liqya, Beit Sira and Beni Hareth. After three days they were told that they could go back but they were allowed to reach the "second line" villages only. Those who wanted to go on to Imwas, Yalu and Beit Nuba were turned back. They then returned to Ramallah and some of them went to the east bank.

1967

11 JUNE 1967

The UN Special Representative visited Beit 'Awwa on 11 August. The Arab mukhtar stated that Israel troops entered the village on 11 June at 5:30 am. The inhabitants were then asked to take two loaves of bread each and to go to the hills surrounding the village. At 7:30 am the Israel troops started to demolish the houses with dynamite and bulldozers. Groves around the village were burnt. The belongings of the inhabitants were also burnt since they were unable to take them along. The population stayed in the hills for a week. They were then authorized to return by the military governor. Out of the original population of 2,500, some 300 had left for other areas.

1967

11 JUNE 1967

On 11 June 1967 and the following week, the Israeli Army destroyed 135 Arab houses and two mosques in Magharbah Quarter and evacuated 650 Arabs after they had been given three hours' notice.

1972

14 JUNE 1967

While pursuing its aggressive policy, Israel has as recently as today, 14 June 1967, at 03:00 hours (local time), started to shell north of Suez, Ismailia, El Kantara and El Firdan. At 05:40 hours, they again opened fire at El Firdan, and as a result of this wanton aggression all along the Canal, twenty Egyptians died and thirty-six were wounded in Ismailia. In addition to this, a physician with his family, composed of his mother and his four children were killed in his car on the El Kantara road.

1967

22 JUNE 1967

Israel has expelled today at 13:00, local time, through the cease-fire line El Kantara, 405 Palestinians. Israel stated that this is sure to reach 1,000 Palestinians by the end of the day and that they will expel several thousands more on the basis of 1,000 per day.

1967

21 JULY 1967

On 31 July 1967 Anwar El-Khatib, Governor of Jerusalem, Dr. Daoud El-Husseini, a former member of Parliament, and Mr. Abdul Muhsen Abu-Maizer, a lawyer, and Mr. Ibrahim Bakir, another lawyer, were banished because of their refusal to accept the annexation of Jordanian Jerusalem.

1967

26 JULY 1967

On the morning of 27 July 1967, the Israel armed forces arrested eight Jordanian citizens near Auja villages. After being searched and their possessions confiscated, they were forcibly taken to the Hayek Bridge on the Jordan River, where they were brutally beaten with rifle butts and machine-guns.

According to Ali Hassan Ali Suleiman, an eye-witness and the only survivor, the victims were told to swim to the east bank. They were later thrown in the river and seven of them were shot in cold blood.

Ali Hassan Ali Suleiman, who escaped death by diving under the water and hiding behind a bush, is now undergoing medical treatment at Salt Hospital.

26 JULY 1967

On 26 July 1967, at 17:35 hours (local time), the Israel forces expelled eighty-five inhabitants of the west bank of Jordan by way of Mandasa and Um ash-Shurat Bridges. Having crossed the above-mentioned bridges, the Israel forces opened fire at them. Six of them were seriously wounded and were later treated at Salt Governmental Hospital.

In their testimony the expellees stated that they were detained at Jericho Prison where they were subjected to various methods of intimidation and torture.

27 JULY 1967

On 27 July 1967, Dr. Subhi Ghousheh, a prominent citizen of Jerusalem, and his brother Amin, were arrested. They were charged with distribution of so-called "inflammatory leaflets". Two days later, five youths were arrested on suspicion of distributing leaflets urging the Arab population not to cooperate with the Israel authorities.

1967

27 JULY 1967

On 27 July 1967, fifty-seven inhabitants of the Gaza Strip sought refuge on the east bank of the Jordan after making their way via the occupied part of Jordan. In their testimony the refugees indicated that their exodus was prompted by the shortage of food and the inhuman treatment they were subjected to by the Israel authorities.

1967

31 JULY 1967

On 31 July 1967, four prominent leaders in Arab Jerusalem, namely, Mr. Anwar El-Khatib, the Governor of Jerusalem, and former Ambassador to Cairo, Dr. Daoud Husseini, a former member of Parliament, Mr. Ibrahim Bakr, a lawyer, and Mr. Abd El-Muhsen Abu Mizer, a lawyer, were detained and later banished to various parts of the Israeli-occupied areas. Those four prominent citizens were among twenty Arab religious and secular leaders who signed a memorandum challenging the validity of Israel annexation of the City of Jerusalem.

1967

31 AUGUST 1967

On 31 August, 1967, the occupying military forces imposed a curfew on the inhabitants of the village of 'Aqraba, Nablus District, and demolished a number of houses on the pretext that arms were found in the village, and subsequently they deported several young men to unknown places.

1967

3 SEPTEMBER 1967

On 3 September, 1967, the Israeli forces spread terror in the village of Qabatiyah, Jenin District, and deported a number of young men to unknown places. Several houses were demolished in Qabatiyah on the pretext that they served as hide-outs for arms. This was not the first time that the Israeli occupation forces demolished houses in this village on the pretext that arms had been found in them.

1967.

4 SEPTEMBER 1967

On 4 September 1967, three Israel naval units — two motor boats and a tug — attempted to force their passage through the Suez Canal at the Suez entrance. Notwithstanding the warnings of the United Arab Republic authorities, the aforementioned vessels proceeded and simultaneously opened fire on positions in Port Tawfiq. Against such provocative acts and in the exercise of our right of self defense, (the Egyptians) were compelled to return the firing.

General Odd Bull, Chief of Staff of the United Nations Truce Supervision Organization in Palestine, was immediately informed of the events. He subsequently ordered a cease-fire which was only implemented temporarily. Shortly after, the Israel forces resumed the firing on (Egyptian) positions in Shallufa and El Shatt and wantonly shelled the city of Suez using artillery. (Egyptian) positions answered back the shelling. A further cease fire was proclaimed and enforced only after the intervention of the United Nations observers.

As a result of this sneaky attempt and the inhuman attack against a populated city, 42 civilians were killed, and 161 were wounded, of which 14 are in serious conditions; 30 buildings were destroyed as well as 2 mosques and 2 hospitals. Furthermore, a Greek freighter with a cargo of cement, a dredger belonging to the Suez Canal Authority, as well as a motor boat belonging to the Eastern Petroleum Company, were sunk; an Indian ship was damaged and the tower of Port Tawfiq was demolished.

7 SEPTEMBER 1967

The Israel forces of occupation have on 7 September started the systematic and complete destruction of another Syrian village of El-Hurriah using huge bulldozers to better complete the task.

1967

12 SEPTEMBER 1967

On 12 September 1967 at 10:15 hours (local time), two Israel planes flew over El Kantara West. When (Egyptian) artillery intervened, the two planes changed their course.

This was followed by heavy firing on El Kantara West. At 12:05 hours (local time) a cease-fire was arranged by the United Nations military observers. As a result of this attack two persons were killed and nine wounded, and seven houses were destroyed.

1967

20 SEPTEMBER 1967

On 20 September 1967, the Israelis opened fire on the city of Suez; the firing lasted for half an hour. Five civilians were killed, two houses were demolished and a fishing boat was sunk.

1967

21 SEPTEMBER 1967

On 21 September 1967, again the Israelis opened fire on El Kantara West for two hours. Two civilians were killed and twelve wounded. Also a mosque and buildings of social welfare were demolished.

1967

29 SEPTEMBER 1967

On 29 September 1967 the Israel occupation forces opened fire and killed an Arab youth who was crossing the Jordan River heading for the west bank.

1967

9 OCTOBER 1967

On the night of 9 October 1967, at 21:20 hours local time, the Israel occupying forces opened fire on Jordanian citizens trying to cross to the west bank at Umm Nakhleh, north of King Hussein Bridge. As a result, two young Arabs were killed and a woman seriously wounded.

1967

10 OCTOBER 1967

On 10 October 1967, a young Jordanian was shot dead while trying to cross back to the east bank after having seen his family in the west bank.

1967

2 NOVEMBER 1967

On 2 November 1967, the Israel occupying forces opened fire on two Jordanian citizens trying to cross to the west bank. One of them died of his wounds.

5 NOVEMBER 1967

On 5 November 1967, at approximately 05:30 hours local time, the Israel occupying forces, using tanks and 106 mm cannons, again opened fire on civilian homes and on the Jordanian military forces at Abu Issa orange grove and at Tell Alarbayeen.

At 06:45 hours, that same morning, the firing stopped at Abu Issa orange grove but continued intermittently at Al-zamaliyah and Tell Alarbayeen. As a result, one Jordanian soldier was wounded and three civilian houses at Al Zamaliyah demolished. Another house in the Abu Issa orange grove was damaged.

5 DECEMBER 1967

On 5 December 1967, the Israel occupation forces expelled 203 members of the peaceful Nuwaseirat tribe and forced them to cross to the east bank. On 6 December, another ninety-one members of that same tribe underwent the same inhuman treatment and had to find refuge on the east bank.

1967

20 DECEMBER 1967

On 20 December 1967, two prominent Arab leaders, Mr. Ibrahim Bakir and Mr. Kamal Nasser, were deported because of their refusal to cooperate with the Israel authorities in changing the nature of things.

1967

8 JANUARY 1968

At 16:45 hours, the Israelis employed jet aircraft and bombarded the following adjacent villages: Marhabah, Kufr Asad, Deir abu Sa'id and Kufr Rakib. The jets also flew over the area of Irbid. At 18:25 hours, firing was ceased. As a result of this criminal and unprovoked wide-scale Israel attack, one soldier and seven civilians, including a woman, were seriously injured.

11 JANUARY 1968

On 11 January 1968, 838 acres in the area adjacent to the Old City (of Jerusalem) were arbitrarily expropriated by the Israel authorities to pave the way for the settlement of Jewish immigrants. This is the latest of a series of acts committed by Israel to alter fundamentally the physical, geographical and historical features of Arab Jerusalem. These acts unfold step by step their well prepared scheme for the suppression of all Arab national feeling and opposition to Israel domination.

1968

25 JANUARY 1968

On 25 January 1968, at 15:05 hours local time, the Israel forces opened fire, using light and medium machine-guns, on Jordanian positions situated south of King Hussein Bridge. Fire was returned in self-defense.

At 16:15 hours, the Israel armed forces resumed fire using artillery and 106 mm guns. Fire was returned in self-defense. The exchange of fire lasted until 17:10 hours. One Jordanian soldier was wounded.

1968

30 JANUARY 1968

On 29 January 1968, at 22:30 hours local time, the Israel armed forces opened fire, using medium machine guns on the Jordanian village of Al Baqurah on the east bank of the Jordan. The fire lasted ten minutes.

On 30 January, at 00:10 hours local time, the Israel armed forces resumed fire, using mortar-guns. Twenty-five shells of 4.2 inch calibre hit the village of Al Baqurah. The shelling lasted ten minutes. As a result of this wanton and lawless attack against the civilian inhabitants of this village, a child and a civilian were seriously injured. The latter died of his wounds. Three houses were damaged.

8 FEBRUARY 1968

On 8 February 1968, at 13:00 hours local time, the Israel armed forces started an intensive shelling with repeated attacks using tanks, artillery, 106 mm and various war weapons. The shelling started first on (Jordanian) front posts in Saidiya and Musidra, situated at a distance of 10 kilometres north of Damiya Bridge. Later on, the shelling was particularly concentrated against the refugee camp of Karameh and the villages of Kurayima, Nmuaddi and Damiya. The shelling stopped at 18:25 hours local time. As a result of this unprovoked and atrocious act of aggression, seventeen persons were killed: five children, five women, six men and a thirteen-year-old girl. Sixty were wounded: thirteen children, twenty women and twenty-seven men; all of them were refugees. Some of them were seriously injured.

11 FEBRUARY 1968

On 11 February 1968, at 10:05 hours local time, the Israel armed forces opened fire, using light and medium machine-guns on the Jordanian position in the vicinity of Al Majami' Bridge.

At 12:00 hours local time, of that same day, fire was resumed on that area. 106 mm guns were used.

At 12:35 hours local time, the Israel armed forces began shelling Al Jumrock and Al Mashroo areas near the Al Majami' Bridge. Fire was returned in self-defense. The shelling ceased at 13:00. As a result of this deliberate and unprovoked attack, a Jordanian soldier was injured.

1968

7 MARCH 1968

On 7 March 1968, Mr. Rouhi El-Khatib, Mayor of Jerusalem, was arbitrarily deported by the Israel authorities. Mr. El-Khatib was forced by the Israeli forces to cross King Hussein Bridge to the east bank of Jordan.

At 12:30 hours local time, on 7 March, 1968, Israel armed forces opened fire from mortar guns on the villages of Adasiyah and Madraj. Fire lasted for ten minutes. As a result of this wanton attack, seven civilians were killed, including five children; two houses were completely destroyed.

1968

9 MARCH 1968

At 00:10 hours local time, on 9 March, Israel armed forces resumed fire from mortar guns and artillery on the same village (Khirbat Wadi El Yabis). Fire lasted for five minutes.

At 13:00 hours local time, fire was resumed from mortar guns and artillery on the northern part of Mashari' Road. Fire lasted for fifteen minutes. As a result of this premeditated and unprovoked attack, four civilians were killed and three other civilians, including a woman, were seriously injured.

8 APRIL 1968

On 8 April 1968, in the area south of the Dead Sea, a car belonging to the Jordanian Manganese Company and carrying seven employees of this company was blown up by an anti-vehicle mine planted by the Israelis before their retreat. Four of the passengers were killed and two seriously wounded. It was discovered that the Israelis have planted the area between the village of Dana and the manganese site with anti-vehicle mines.

1968

11 APRIL 1968

At 08:50 hours local time on 11 April 1968, a military ration car was blown up by an anti-vehicle Israel mine in the area 1,200 metres east of the River Jordan and seven kilometres north of King Hussein Bridge. One officer was killed and the driver wounded. At 10:00 hours local time on the same day, a mine was the cause of severe injuries to an officer and a soldier.

At 07:25 hours local time on 11 April 1968, the Israel forces opened fire from medium machine-guns on Jordanian farmers working in an area east of Makhadit al-Kattaf, east of Shunah Shamaliyyah. As a result a civilian truck being loaded with bananas was burnt.

12 MAY 1968

At midnight on Saturday, 11 May 1968, heavy fire erupted in the Manara settlement on the Israel side of the Lebanon-Israel armistice demarcation lines. The Manara settlement is situated opposite the Lebanese village, Houle. At 12:45 am on Sunday, 12 May 1968, the Israelis shelled Houle continuously for fifteen minutes. They hit the village with fifty mortar shells killing one woman and injuring another woman and child; one house was demolished, many others heavily damaged and livestock was destroyed.

4 JUNE 1968

Every building in Shuneh appears to have suffered hits from shelling and air strafing. On 4 June, antipersonnel bombs landed, throwing steel fragments in all directions. They caused casualties here and in the larger city of Irbid, about eight miles to the east.

In their attacks, the Israelis used phosphorus shells to burn the crops.

4 JUNE 1968

On 4 June, the Israel forces launched their attack against the concentration of civilians on the east bank of the Jordan. In the city of Irbid and its environs alone, thirty-four Jordanians were killed and 135 injured. This indiscriminate shelling and bombing in which land-to-land rockets and anti-personnel bombs were used against the civilian population, many of whom were rendered refugees for the second and third time, constitutes an unprecedented act of lawlessness bordering on genocide. This attack must be a refinement on the old Israel doctrine of "reprisals" in order to achieve peace and tranquility by exterminating the civilian population.

1968

14 JUNE 1968

At midnight on Friday, 14 June 1968, a group of the Israel armed forces crossed the borders of Lebanon near the village of Houle. They shelled the village of Meiss ej Jebel with thirty mortar shells. As a result of this shelling, four civilians were wounded and ten houses were destroyed; two of the civilians, a man and a woman, are in a very critical condition.

1968

29 JUNE 1968

On 29 June 1968, the Israel army bulldozed the Syrian village Al Dabboussia.

1968

1 JULY 1968

On 1 July 1968, the Israel army bulldozed the Syrian village Al Jurnia. Only the water reservoir in that village was left standing.

1968

8 JULY 1968

On 8 July 1968, at 18:00 hours, the Israel armed forces opened fire, from the occupied eastern bank of the Suez Canal, on the city of Suez. The shelling was concentrated on the densely populated district of Al Arba'in, a western suburb of the city of Suez. This unprovoked aggressive action by Israel caused heavy casualties among the civilian population, as well as severe damage to civilian properties. The result of this promiscuous and barbaric shelling, which did not spare women and children, amounted to forty-six killed and sixty-seven wounded. Forty-two houses, one church, two mosques and one child welfare centre were completely destroyed. Moreover, twenty-five houses, one hospital and the railway station were partially destroyed.

1968

24 JULY 1968

On 24 July, 1968 at 15:25 hours, Israeli forces opened machine-gun fire from Khirbit Al Duwear west of Al Himma on Jordanian posts. Fire was returned and exchanged until 16:10 hours. One Jordanian soldier was wounded and there were three Israel casualties.

1968

28 JULY 1968

On 28 July, the Israel authorities carried the Gaza refugees in buses and attempted to force them to cross King Hussein Bridge to the east bank of Jordan. Consequently, Jordanian authorities closed the bridge and halted every entrance to the east bank.

1968

29 JULY, 1968

On 29 July, the Israel authorities attempted to enforce the crossing of three busloads of refugees escorted by an Israel military force. Again, Jordanian posts on the bridge foiled the attempt. As a result, the Israel forces opened fire on Jordanian observation posts. Firing lasted twenty minutes.

1968

20 AUGUST 1968

On 20 August, at 03:30 hours local time, the Israeli forces opened fire on Jordanian civilian centres in Wadi El Yabis in the northern area of the Jordan Valley, using medium-range artillery. Israeli shelling continued for fifteen minutes, causing the death of three civilians and the injury of twenty, some of whom were seriously wounded.

1968

21 AUGUST 1968

On 21 August, at 03:45 hours local time, Israeli forces opened fire on Manshiya area. Fire was returned and exchanged sporadically until 07:15 hours. One Jordanian was killed and another wounded.

On 21 August, at 00:00 hours local time, Israeli forces opened fire on Tel El-Arba'in village using medium machine-guns and followed by tank guns and field artillery. Fire and artillery were returned and exchanged until 00:50 hours. One Jordanian soldier was wounded.

24 AUGUST 1968

On 24 August, 1968 at 07:20 hours local time, Israeli forces opened fire on Manshiya area using medium machine-guns and 81 mm mortar guns. Fire was returned in self-defense and exchanged until 10:00 hours. One Jordanian soldier was killed and three were wounded.

1968

25 AUGUST 1968

On 25 August, at 10:00 hours local time, the Israeli armed forces shelled the villages of As Sama, Marhaba, Harawiah, Tel al-Arba'in, Kufur Asaad, Um Quis, Al Makhaba Al Tihta, Al Baqoura, and Al Manshiya, all in the northern part of the Jordan Valley, using tanks and medium and heavy artillery. Jordanian forces returned the fire in self-defense.

As a result of this treacherous Israeli attack, three Jordanians were seriously injured. A school was destroyed in the village of Um Quis. A mosque was destroyed in the village of Kufur Asaad. The East Ghor Irrigation Canal was destroyed in the area of Waqas. A number of houses were destroyed in every one of the villages subjected to the Israel shelling, which continued for over seven hours.

2 SEPTEMBER 1968

On 2 September 1968 at about 21:05 hours, local time, an Israeli armored personnel carrier opened machine-gun fire across both the Israel cease-fire position and the Syrian cease-fire position towards Syrian military positions situated in the area of Om Lucos villages. As a result of the shooting, two Syrian soldiers were killed and one wounded. Fire was not returned.

1968

7 SEPTEMBER 1968

On 7 September, at 05:30 hours local time, Israeli forces ambushed Jordanians and opened fire on them, killing one.

1968

8 SEPTEMBER 1968

On 8 September, 1968 at 22:45 hours local time, Israelis opened fire on Baqourah village. Fire was returned and stopped at 22:55 hours. One Jordanian farmer was wounded.

13 SEPTEMBER 1968

On 13 September, 1968 at 10:15 hours local time, Israeli forces opened fire on Manshiya area using medium machine-guns and mortar artillery. Fire was returned in self-defense. One Jordanian was killed.

1968

16 SEPTEMBER 1968

Israeli soldiers murdered in cold blood and with premeditation the unarmed Judge Shawqi A. El-Farra, of Khan Yunis, the Gaza Strip.

1968

17 SEPTEMBER 1968

On 17 September 1968, at 22:15 hours local time, Israeli forces shelled the area of Kureima. Fire was returned and exchanged until 22:45 hours. Kureima school was seriously damaged.

On 17 September 1968 at 06:55 hours local time, Israeli armed forces situated on the Syrian Golan heights, shelled the city of Irbid. One Jordanian, his wife and their child were seriously wounded. The man later died. Two houses were seriously damaged.

26 SEPTEMBER 1968

On 26 September, at 05:45 hours local time, an anti-vehicle Israeli mine on a road south of Karameh, exploded under a tractor and an attached vehicle. The driver was killed. Twelve were injured, two of them seriously.

25 OCTOBER 1968

On 25 October 1968, four Arab personalities were unjustly subjected to expulsion without charge or trial. These are: Dr. Salah Anabtawi and lawyer Mosa Jayousi from Nablus, Dr. Mosa Abu Gosh from Ramallah, and Mr. Mohammad Tawfig Haj Hassan, Deputy Mayor of Jenin. The occupation authorities thus obviously discarded the right of the individual to live in his own home, a right which is confirmed by all international laws and conventions.

27 OCTOBER 1968

At 1:00 am, Sunday morning, 27 October 1968, the Israeli armed forces shelled the Lebanese village of Almajdyiah with about one hundred mortar shells from the village of Alabasyiah inside Syrian territories occupied by the Israeli armed forces. As a result of this shelling, two Lebanese soldiers were injured and three houses were damaged and a number of livestock were destroyed.

1 DECEMBER 1968

On 1 December 1968, Israeli armed forces embarked on a concerted attack using machine-guns, tanks, artillery and military aircraft against centres of civilian population in the northern part of the Jordan Valley. Simultaneously they attacked, deep inside Jordanian territory, in the south, aiming at means of communication and civilians in utter disregard for the Armistice Agreement.

At 21:30 hours local time, Israeli military aircraft penetrated deep inside Jordanian territory and bombed a convoy of civilian trucks on the main highway near Al-Hasa area between Amman and the port of Aqaba. As a result of this attack, six Saudi Arabian civilian trucks were destroyed, two Saudi Arabian civilians killed and three others injured. A fourth civilian, a Jordanian, was wounded.

Immediately thereafter, Israeli armed units landed, in the same area, from helicopters covered by Israeli jetfighters. They proceeded to their targets and destroyed two bridges: one a highway bridge and the other the Hijazi railway bridge.

The city of Irbid in Jordan was subjected to heavy shelling for ten minutes. A child and a civilian were wounded and a house destroyed.

3 DECEMBER 1968

On 3 December 1968, at 00:05 hours local time, the Israeli armed forces shelled the Jordanian villages of Kum, Kufur Asad and Samma from the Israel occupied Syrian heights. Their shelling soon spread to cover the whole northern part of the Jordan Valley.

At 01:07 hours of that same day, the city of Irbid was heavily shelled, and the village of Kufur Asad was bombed for more than half an hour by waves of Israel military aircraft. In this village alone fifteen civilians were killed and seventeen others seriously wounded, most of them elderly people, women and children. Forty houses were destroyed.

12 DECEMBER 1968

On 12 December 1968 at 08:45 local time, Israeli armed forces opened fire on the area of Um Al-Shurat. Fire was returned and the exchange lasted until 09:35 hours. One Jordanian was wounded.

12 DECEMBER 1968

On Sunday 21 December, 1969, at 0710 hours local time, waves of Israeli fighter-bombers raided the villages of Kufr Asad, Sama and Izmal in the district of the city of Irbid over three hours using rockets, bombs and machine-guns. The raid went on until 10:45. As a result, six soldiers were killed and nineteen others wounded. Five civilians, among them a seven-year old boy, were seriously wounded. Seven houses in the village of Sama were destroyed.

Also, at 2100 hours local time, the Israeli army in the occupied Syrian Heights shelled the city of Irbid using heavy artillery of 130mm guns. The shelling went on for one hour. As a result, ten civilians were wounded and a girl, four years old, was killed. Several houses and buildings were damaged.

31 DECEMBER 1969

On New Year's Eve, 31 December 1969, at 2145 hours local time, eight Israeli planes attacked the villages of Kufr Asad, Zahar, Dauqara and Sum in the district of Irbid for 35 minutes using rockets and various kinds of bombs. As a result 11 civilians were killed, six of whom were children between two and seven years old and three of whom were women. Twelve civilians were wounded, some seriously. Eight houses were either destroyed or damaged.

1969

1/2 JANUARY 1970

On January 1 and 2 1970, Israeli jets strafed the villages of Rayhanah, Wadi Yabis and Waqqas in the northern part of the Jordan Valley. One child was killed and three civilians wounded, one of them a woman.

3 JANUARY 1970

At 1 am on Saturday, 3 January, 1970, units of the Israeli regular armed forces crossed the Lebanese border at the Kfar Kela area and kidnapped 11 Lebanese civilians. At the same time other units of the Israeli regular armed forces crossed the Lebanese border in the Tall en Nahas area. They kidnapped 10 Lebanese soldiers and destroyed a guard-house.

8 JANUARY 1969

On 8 January 1970, between the hours of 1300 and 1450 local time, Israeli military planes raided the region of Al Aarqoub in southern Lebanon and in successive waves bombed the area of Rachaiya el Foukhar, Kfar Chouba, Kfar Hamam, Hebbariye and Ain Qenya.

1970

9 JANUARY 1970

On 9 January 1970, between the hours of 0945 and 1035, Israeli military planes staged another attack on the district of Rachaiya el Quadi.

1970

14 JANUARY 1970

On 14 January 1970, two Israeli helicopters strafed a herd of camels in Fefah, south of the Dead Sea. The shepherd and eight of his camels were killed. The next day and in the same area of Wadi Araba an Israeli patrol crossed the armistice demarcation line to kill 60 camels.

1970

16 JANUARY 1970

On 16 January, four Israeli jets attacked the villages of Deir Alla and Wadi Yabis for 25 minutes using machine guns and rockets. Three civilians were killed and another five wounded. Three cars were destroyed.

1970

18 JANUARY 1970

On 18 January 1970, at 0930 hours local time, Israeli forces opened their mortar fire on Jordanian farmers in Tall-As-Sukkar in the northern part of the Jordan valley. As a result, four farmers were killed and six wounded; among them a woman.

1970

20 JANUARY 1970

On 20 January 1970, at 0017 local time, an Israeli battalion with armoured carriers and tanks supported by Israeli military aircraft crossed the Armistice Demarcation Line south of the Dead Sea in the area of Ghor es Safi and Wadi Feifa.

A battle ensued with the Jordanian forces and continued until 0900 of the next day, 21 January. At 0730 hours local time, the Israeli Air Force bombed and strafed military as well as civilian targets and centres in the area.

The Israeli ground forces were able to enter the villages of Safe, Fefah and Wadi el Hasa and destroy houses.

1970

20 JANUARY 1970

On 20 January, the civilian targets were in the south. In Ghor Es-Safi two Israeli jets strafed and bombed the village of An Namirah, killing one civilian and wounding another three, two of them women.

1970

On 25 January 1970, Israeli armed forces shelled the village of Aita edh Chaab, in southern Lebanon, with 120-mm mortar shells. As a result of this shelling two Lebanese civilians were killed and one civilian and one soldier were wounded. Twelve houses and a tractor were damaged.

These repeated and premeditated murderous acts have created an intolerable situation for the Lebanese civilian population in southern Lebanon, disrupting their peaceful life and subjecting them to constant terror. Furthermore, they demonstrate Israel's well-calculated policy of fomenting disorder, sustaining and increasing tension and systematically widening the area of conflict, thus endangering further the peace of the Middle East. Such a reckless policy based on arrogant military power is in defiance of international law and morality and of relevant United Nations resolutions.

On January 1970, at 7:45 am, the Israeli air force committed a further treacherous act of aggression by attacking the United Arab Republic unarmed civilian vessel Shadwan. This 300-ton vessel belongs to the United Arab Company for Maritime Provisions and is registered as a part of the United Arab Republic Merchant Marine with the Civilian Maritime Registry of the United Arab Republic.

At the time when Israeli aircraft opened fire on this unarmed civilian vessel, the vessel was sailing southward in the Red Sea, at a distance of 20 kilometres from the Egyptian town of Ghardaka and more than 50 kilometres from the Shadwan Island which has itself witnessed, on 22 January 1970, an earlier act of Israeli aggression. The vessel was hit, six members of its crew, all civilians, were wounded and the vessel had, later, to be tugged to shore.

12 FEBRUARY 1970

The world-wide wave of outrage and indignation caused by the criminal and barbaric attacks carried out by Israeli Phantom jet planes on 12 February 1970 against the National Metal Products Factory at Abu Zaabal in the United Arab Republic has revealed the sense of shock and dismay of the international community at Israel's disregard of the basic norms and elementary rules of international conduct.

In their premeditated aggression, the Israeli Phantoms, using rockets and napalm bombs, caused a heavy loss of life among civilian workers, which has reached by now 80 persons killed and a greater number of workers wounded.

27 FEBRUARY 1970

On Friday, 27 February 1970, at 10 am, an Israeli patrol consisting of seven soldiers crossed the Lebanese border and kidnapped four Lebanese shepherds who were tending their herds near the village of Rmaich, inside Lebanese territory.

This premeditated, unjustified and unprovoked act of aggression by Israel against Lebanon is aimed at disrupting the peaceful life of the Lebanese civilian population in southern Lebanon and subjecting them to constant terror.

This latest act of aggression by Israel constitutes a flagrant violation of the Lebanon-Israel Armistice Agreement and of the provisions of the United Nations Charter. It is further aimed at creating a situation fraught with extreme danger, threatening the security and infringing the sovereignty of Lebanon. These Israeli acts of aggression are in line with their expansionist designs.

7 MARCH 1970

On Saturday, 7 March 1970, at 1 am, units of the Israeli armed forces crossed the Lebanese border and attacked the village of Edh Chaab. They killed a Lebanese army sergeant, kidnapped two civilians, and wounded one. They blew up five houses and destroyed one tractor.

1970

2 APRIL 1970

On 2 April 1970 at 9 am local time, the Israeli air force and army initiated an attack against Syria. (Syrian) air force and ground army took action in self-defense. The battle lasted until 4 pm local time.

This attack was acknowledged officially yesterday by Radio Israel. The New York Times of this morning (3 April 1970) reported: "An Israeli military commentator, Elad Peled, a former general, said on the state radio tonight that today's action could mark the start of a long and bloody war of attrition with Syria, or a return to relative tranquillity on the border."

As a result of this large-scale attack, typical of Israeli treachery, 16 Syrian soldiers, including 4 officers, have fallen martyrs on the battle-ground. Thirty-seven other Syrian soldiers were wounded. The Israeli attack was not confined to military targets. The Syrian towns and villages of Jellin, Shaikh Saad, Istabl, Nawa and Adawan were also bombed, resulting in the killing of a number of innocent civilians, including women and children, and the destruction of houses — thus adding to the already long and mounting list of Israeli war crimes and crimes against humanity.

8 April 1970

Israeli Phantom jets today attacked a primary school (the Bahr Al Bakr School) in the village of Houssaneyya in Sharkia Province, 80 kilometres north of Cairo, murdering 31 school children and wounding another 36. The attack also resulted in the killing and wounding of other civilians.

1970

3 JUNE 1970

On 3 June 1970, waves of Israeli fighter bombers attacked the villages of Shuna Shamaliyyah and Kuraimah and the road connecting them from 1115 to 1500 hours, local time, using rockets and machine guns.

As a result of Israeli strafing and bombing two children, a boy and a girl, were killed. Nine other civilians were wounded, among them two children. Nine civilian cars and a tractor on the road were destroyed and a bridge on the East Ghor Irrigation Canal was damaged.

This Israeli attack aiming at civilians and civilian targets happened two days after the killing of a child and the serious wounding of five others between the ages of three months and twelve years. Six others, among them two women, were also wounded.

6 JUNE 1970

On 6 June 1970, helicopters attacked a Bedouin camp near Aqaba. One civilian was killed and a 6 year old child was wounded. Three tents were burnt and a number of sheep killed.

1970

8 JUNE 1970

On 8 June 1970, 21 persons from different towns and villages of the occupied West Bank of Jordan and Gaza were expelled at the gunpoint by the Israeli occupying forces. Israeli helicopters and half track armoured vehicles chased them across the Armistice Demarcation Line in Wadi Araba south of the Dead Sea. Their expulsion followed months of arbitrary detention, imprisonment and torture.

From the list of names expelled — some of whom were elderly men in their seventies — the policy of terror and colonization of the occupying Power becomes clear. This policy follows a systematic pattern of armed aggression; occupation; destruction of Arab villages, quarters in cities and villages — as in the case of Jerusalem and Halhoul — and houses; expulsion of Arab inhabitants and their leaders; confiscation of Arab property which is used for the establishment of Israeli and Jewish settlements coupled with Jewish Zionist immigration and colonization.

8 JUNE 1970

After the expulsion of 21 persons on 8 June 1970, 12 others were expelled in the same brutal way and in the same area.

1970

14 JUNE 1970

On 14 June 1970, Israeli patrols carried by helicopters blew up a house west of Es Slat and then kidnapped a teacher, Ali Al Arayda and a farmer, Nayef Suleiman.

1970

30 JUNE 1970

On 30 June 1970, at 10 am local time, two Israeli jets attacked and strafed a civilian bus carrying villagers on the main road leading to the village of Masharee in the northern part of the Jordan Valley.

As a result of this murderous attack, two of the passengers were killed and thirteen others, including a woman and a six year old child, were wounded, some seriously.

1970

7 JULY 1970

Inquiry by United Nations military observers took place on 10 January from 0800 to 1400 hours. In the Lebanese localities visited the United States military observers heard witnesses and examined the evidence presented to them.

1. Daal

(a) Summary of statements by witnesses:

Witnesses stated that on 8 January at 0700 aircraft made attacks, dropping up to 40 rockets or bombs, and that well over 80 civilians (men, women and children) were killed.

(b) Description of physical evidence examined:

Over 20 houses were completely destroyed. During the course of the inquiry one elderly woman was being buried and the bodies of 3 children were dug out of the debris. There were many fresh graves and mass graves allegedly containing 69 civilians. Eight large craters were seen in and close to the main housing area. Roadways and telephone lines were badly damaged. There was no evidence of any military or paramilitary installations or personnel in the area.

2. Tafass

(a) Summary of statements by witnesses:

A witness stated that on 8 January at 1430 aircraft attacked the village, including the school, many times and that 30 civilians were killed and more than 50 were wounded.

(b) Description of physical evidence examined:

A school was heavily damaged. The United Nations military observers saw four rocket craters immediately adjacent to the school and several craters further away. Some mud buildings near the school were destroyed, evidently by rockets. An army-type barracks building within the village, allegedly occupied by civilian local defence forces, showed evidence of bombing or rocket attack. The main roadway and telephone lines were badly damaged.

3. Mzairib

(a) Summary of statements by witnesses:

A witness stated that on 8 January at 0750 aircraft attacked the village and between 30 and 40 bombs and rockets were dropped and that 6 civilians were killed and 10 wounded.

(b) Description of physical evidence examined:

A store and a house were completely destroyed. Several other houses showed evidence of damage. The main roadway was impassable due to cratering. A number of non-regular military personnel and several military vehicles were seen in the area.

11 FEBRUARY 1973

In the holiest Moslem shrine in occupied Jerusalem, for which the Israeli authorities are directly responsible, on 11 February 1973, one of the major interior walls of the Mosque collapsed. This wall, which is over two metres wide and situated at the southeastern side of the Mosque, separates the Mosque of Omar from the Tomb of the Forty (Maqam Al-Arbaeen). It was in this same spot nearly four years ago, in August 1969, that certain perpetrators deliberately set fire to the Al Aqsa Mosque in a suspicious set of circumstances causing substantial damage to this holiest of Islamic shrines.

21 FEBRUARY 1973

At 1 a.m. Beirut local time on Wednesday 21 February 1973, Israeli terrorist armed bands landed at Badawi, north of Tripoli (northern Lebanon); they attacked a Palestinian refugee camp and blew up several houses. At 2 a.m. on the same day, similar terrorist armed bands landed further north between Alabdeh and Nahr Al Bared (northern Lebanon); they too attacked a Palestinian refugee camp and blew up several houses. It was established that these terrorists groups belonged to the Israeli armed forces. They were landed on the shores near Badawi and Alabdeh from naval crafts and were later withdrawn by Israeli helicopters. Preliminary reports indicate that as a result of those criminal attacks 17 persons were killed and 10 injured in the refugee camp of Nahr Al Bared, and 13 killed and 10 injured in the camp of Al Badawi. Search operations are still proceeding among the rubble for possible other victims. At the Nahr Al Bared refugee camp, five houses were destroyed, one of which is a building of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East. Four other houses were destroyed at the Badawi camp, including a workshop belonging to the families of the victims. Several cars were also destroyed.

21 FEBRUARY 1973

On 21 February 1973, a Libyan airliner proceeding on a scheduled flight from Benghazi to Cairo deviated from its original course owing to navigational difficulties as well as to bad weather conditions. The airliner, therefore, accidentally overflew the occupied Egyptian territory of Sinai. Thereupon the civil aircraft was intercepted by four Israeli fighters and, in spite of the fact that the aircraft was unmistakably civilian, the Israeli fighters, upon direct instructions, cleared with the highest authorities in Israel, treacherously and without warning attacked the airliner with cannon fire and missiles while it was heading west. This flagrant premeditated and barbaric act of aggression resulted in the crash of the civil aircraft and caused the death of 106 helpless and defenceless victims.

9 MARCH 1973

On 9 March 1973, the Israeli occupation authorities killed three Palestinians who happened to be in a house belonging to Mr. Rashed Musmar in the Gaza strip. The names of those killed are, Mohammed El Assouad, Kamal Abdel Aziz Hanoun and Abdel Hadi Ibrahim Hayek. On 11 March, the Israeli occupation authorities blew up Mr. Busmar's house. The occupying forces had killed three civilians and arrested 20 others in the Gaza strip.

9/10 APRIL 1973

During the night of 9 to 10 April Israel forces attacked and destroyed several civilian houses in Beirut and a gasoline station in Saida. Several persons killed and wounded and damaged material were observed. During the same night Israel forces jet aircraft and helicopters overflew Lebanese territory along the coast from Naqoura to Beirut.

1973

10 APRIL 1973

At 1 a.m., 10 April 1973, Israeli naval units landed on the shores of El-Ouzai in the southern outskirts of Beirut, capital of Lebanon, a squad of Israeli terrorists numbering about 35 persons.

Israel has clearly admitted and widely publicized the fact that units of her armed forces mounted an operation in Lebanon. The raiders were disguised in civilian clothing. It has become evident that agents, hitherto unknown, parked civilian cars bearing Lebanese registration plates in the vicinity of the landing area, to be used by the invading party.

The Israeli marauders drove away in the cars towards predetermined objectives. One group went to Rue Verdun, a peaceful residential area in Beirut. They burst into one apartment building with their guns blazing and murdered, gangster style, Mr. Yussef El-Najjar, known as Abou-Yussef, and his wife, who attempted to shield him from the attackers. Mr. El-Najjar was a member of the executive committee of the Palestinian Liberation Organization. In the same building, they attacked the apartment of Mr. Kamal Nasser, a poet and intellectual who acted as the spokesman for the Palestinian Liberation Organization, and assassinated him, also in a cold-blooded fashion.

The raiders attacked another apartment in the vicinity where they likewise murdered Mr. Kamal Adwan, another Palestinian leader. An Italian lady living in that area was killed. A force of the Lebanese police rushed to the scene and was immediately met with a hail of fire from the attackers. Two of the policemen were killed and nine were wounded. An army officer living in the vicinity who came out to find out what was happening was also shot by the attackers and wounded.

Another group of Israelis attacked and blew up a building in the street of El-Fikany, while another attacked and blew up a garage belonging to a Palestinian which was situated in the northern district of Beirut, called Al-Dawrah.

In the area of El-Ouzai, they blew up a building where two Lebanese civilians and three Syrian labourers were killed. Another Israeli murder-squad landed near Sidon, south of Beirut, and attacked a garage which the Israelis later claimed belonged to the Palestinian Organization of Al-Fatah.

As a result of these criminal operations, 12 people were killed: 2 Lebanese policemen, 2 Lebanese civilians, 3 Syrian labourers, 4 Palestinians and an Italian woman; 29 persons, all Lebanese, were wounded.

9 JUNE 1973

On 9 June between 0850 and 0910 two Israel forces soldiers penetrated to a distance of approximately 200 metres into Lebanese territory in the vicinity of Birket El Naccar and forcibly took to Israel-occupied territory a Lebanese named Khalil Abdallah Zahra, a resident of the village of Chebaa./ep

1973

7 JULY 1973

On 7 July between 1325 and 1335 an Israel Forces patrol boat captured five Lebanese fishermen in Lebanese territorial waters very close to the coast.

1973

10 AUGUST 1973

On Friday, 10 August 1973, at 9:45 p.m., Baghdad local time, a Middle East Airlines Caravelle chartered by Iraqi Airways was intercepted by two Israeli military aircraft upon take-off from Beirut International Airport on a scheduled flight to Baghdad, and forced to land at an Israeli military base. There were 83 persons of different nationalities on board, including seven crew-members. The passengers and crew were forced at gunpoint to leave the hijacked airliner after it landed at the Israeli military airfield, were manhandled and subjected to hours of interrogation and detention.

1973

15 AUGUST 1973

15 August between 0630 and 0700 an Israel forces patrol penetrated 500 metres into Lebanese territory in the region of Chebaa and abducted a Lebanese shepard.

1973

8 SEPTEMBER 1973

8 September between 0700 and 1000 one Israel forces patrol boat penetrated Lebanese territorial waters to a distance of approximately one Kilometre off Naqoura and fired on a Lebanese fishing boat, forcing it towards Israel. At 1000 on the same day the Lebanese boat and crew were released and returned to Lebanese waters.

1973

9 OCTOBER 1973

The Israeli Air Force today invaded Lebanon's air space and bombed and destroyed the radar installation situated on the Barouk mountain in central Lebanon, 18 miles east of Beirut. Nine Lebanese soldiers manning the installations were wounded. The radar station was in effect inoperative and under repair.

1973

20/21 OCTOBER 1973

During the night of 20 to 21 October several rounds of mortar fire coming from Israel territory fell in Lebanese regions of Kfar Kela, Ramiye and Markaba causing severe damage to four civilian houses and destroying one hut.

1973

24 OCTOBER 1973

On 24 October between 1435 and 1500 several rounds of mortar and artillery fire coming from Israel territory fell on the Lebanese villages of Aadeisse, Yaroun, Marouhaine, Tair Harfa and Rachaiya El Foukhar. Casualties and damage to material were reported.

1973

24 OCTOBER 1973

Israeli armed forces captured, on 21, 22, 23 and 24 October 1973, 44 civilians from the governorates of Suez and Ismailia, in their fields, in their homes or on the Suez-Cairo road. These civilians were transferred to a camp used by the Israeli authorities to assemble captive civilians. The young people were then moved to the eastern bank of the Suez Canal where they were confined in prisons in Sinai and Gaza. Some of these were returned to the west bank of the Canal on 30 October. The Israeli forces searched the confined civilians, seized their personal belongings, identification papers, land property leases and agricultural contracts. The Israeli forces further exhibited the confined civilians to press correspondents and photographers, alleging that they were Egyptian soldiers.

1973

On 24, 25 and 26 October, the Israeli forces imprisoned 11 police-firemen at the fire department of the fertilizer plant, at the police station of this plant, at the Ataqa police division of the Suez Governorate and at the Ismailia police centre. These firemen were released on 31 October 1973, in the vicinity of an Egyptian military unit, after their identification cards and personal belongings had been confiscated.

The Israeli armed forces captured all the personnel of the police unit, totalling 23 policemen and sergeants, stationed at the fertilizer plant. Some of the police personnel are still detained by the Israeli armed forces.

25 OCTOBER 1973

On 25 October between 0745 and 0815 several rounds of mortar fire coming from Israel territory fell on the Lebanese regions of Hanine and Abou Chach. Casualties and damage were reported. On 25 October between 0930 and 1130 several rounds of mortar and artillery fire coming from Israel territory fell on the Lebanese regions of Bent Jbail, Tiri, and Ain Ebel.

Casualties and damage were reported.

25 OCTOBER 1973

On the afternoon of 25 October Israel forces opened fire on the Greek oil tanker Mimismids in Mat Sidi Asadat south of Suez. The tanker caught fire. This incident took place during the time of the cease-fire and the ship was sailing under a neutral flag.

1973

27 OCTOBER 1973

Forcing Syrian prisoners of war to march ahead of the Israeli forces attacking Mount Hermon, in order to guide them through minefields, thus exposing the Syrian prisoners of war to death, as the explosion of mines would kill them first. This information was relayed by the special correspondent of a French daily, Le Monde, on 27 October 1973, as testified by an Israeli soldier who took part in this attack. The least that could be said about this despicable act is that it is indescribable in its inhumanity.

1973

30 OCTOBER 1973

On 30 October 1973, the Israeli military forces expelled the civilian population from the towns and villages of Goneifa, Fayed, Kebrit, Abu Sultan, Ein Ussim and Serapium; arrested 600 civilians and put them in a camp in Abu Sultan; fired at the livestock in that whole area; destroyed the shopping centres in Fayed and Fanara.

3 NOVEMBER 1973

On 3 November, Israel troops rounded up the inhabitants of the villages of El-Ganein and Amer in the governorate of Suez, 298 persons in all, blindfolded them and forced them to evacuate their homes and fields and move to the nearest Egyptian military position.

18 NOVEMBER 1973

On 18 November between 1030 and 1140 several rounds of mortar and artillery fire were fired from Israel territory and fell in the Lebanese regions of Chebaa, Hasbaiya and Khalouet Bayada. Casualties and material damage were reported.

21 NOVEMBER 1973

Between 0900 and 1030 a herd of goats belonging to a Lebanese citizen while at 1.5 kilometres south-east of Kfar Chouba was fired at by automatic weapon fire coming from Israel territory, which caused the death of 50 goats. Between 1650 and 1720 several mortar rounds coming from Israel territory fell in the Lebanese region of Rachaya El Foukhar. Material damage was reported.

1973

22 NOVEMBER 1973

On 22 November, at 1110 hours local time, Israeli forces fired two artillery shells in the direction of the Chairman of the Israeli-Syrian Mixed Armistice Commission (ISMAL), Colonel Svenson, who was at the time accompanied by the Chairman of the Syrian delegation to ISMAC. This incident took place while the party was looking for a place to establish a United Nations observation post west of the village of Maghar El-Mir. One of the artillery shells landed approximately 100 metres from the party. This was the third time that personnel from UNTSO were exposed to Israeli fire while performing their duty, and this has happened despite the fact that UNTSO officers use cars that carry the United Nations flag and the United Nations emblem, which are clearly visible.

8 MARCH 1974

On 8 March between 1800 and 1830 artillery fire from Israel territory fell in the vicinity of El Majidiye, Rachaiya El Foukhar, El Hebbariye, El Fardis, Kfar Chouba, and Ghandouriye, causing injury to a Lebanese woman. Thirty goats were killed and material damage was reported.

1974

12 MARCH 1974

On 12 March 1974, the Chairman of the Supreme Muslim Council in Jerusalem, Sheikh Al Muhtasib, sent a telegram to the occupation authorities which read as follows:

"A serious crack has occurred in the building of the historical Jawhariyah School which is situated at the western side of Al-Haram Al-Sharif as a result of the excavations which [the Israeli occupation authorities] have been undertaking underneath the building. We had warned earlier of the consequences of the excavation conducted by the Israeli Ministry of Religious Affairs in the Holy City of Jerusalem. We demand an immediate halt to these destructive excavations, and repair for the structure of the historical Jawhariyah School, and the restoration of the character and construction of the area below and around these structures..."

These illegal excavations in and around Al-Haram Al-Sharif area, which stretches from Bab Alsilsilah, the main gate of Al-Haram Al-Sharif, to Bab Al-Nathir, could ultimately cause the collapse and the destruction of several religious and historical buildings, including four mosques and five old and famous gates of Al-Haram Al-Sharif. moreover, the 3,000 persons who live in this area would eventually be rendered homeless.

19 MARCH 1974

On 19 March at 7.30 in the morning, Israeli artillery once more launched an attack, shelling the village of Durbol, which is heavily populated and is situated behind the Syrian defence lines. Neither in the village nor in its environs is there any military or defence establishment or centre. During the shelling, a number of innocent civilians were killed or wounded. Several houses were destroyed. A United Nations observation post was damaged and two UNTSO observers were wounded — a Finnish captain, Arto Koivula, and a Danish captain, Flaming Nilson. In addition, a Syrian liaison officer was wounded.

1974

26 MARCH 1974

On 26 March at 1130 rounds of artillery and rocket fire exploded at the northern outskirts and central area of the village of El Harra. They also stated that the shelling destroyed a cafe in the northern outskirts of the village, killing seven men and two women, and damaged a house in the same area, killing two children. Another house in the village was damaged by an unexploded rocket which they said had later been removed by military engineers.

6 APRIL 1974

On 6 April, between 0745 and 1810 hours, Israeli forces opened artillery fire, from 23 different positions. The Israeli air forces unleashed three raids against the Syrian defence positions, two of which took place before noon and one in the afternoon. The villages of Durbol and Arnah were exposed to Israeli artillery fire between 0915 and 1045 hours, resulting in the destruction of several houses. Several shells fell very close to United Nations observer posts.

8 APRIL 1974

On 8 April, at about 0935 hours, Israeli forces opened artillery fire against the zone in which United Nations Observation Post No. 38 is situated, with the following results: the Post was hit by several shells; the Syrian Liaison officer was seriously wounded; a living-quarter trailer and a United Nations vehicle were destroyed. As the Observation Post was clearly visible to the naked eye from the Israeli positions, and as the nearest Syrian military position was situated at a distance of 900 metres, the shelling of the Observation Post shows that the Israeli fire was deliberate and intentional.

12/13 APRIL 1974

During the night of 12 to 13 April Israel forces commandos infiltrated into Lebanese territory and completely demolished a number of houses in the villages of Ed Dhaira (two houses), Yarine (four houses), Ett Taibe (twelve houses and one water pump), Mhaibib (two houses), Blida (one house) and Aitaroun (four houses). They also caused an unknown (at the time of the complaint) number of deaths and kidnapped several persons into Israel.

1974

12/13 APRIL 1974

Artillery fire coming from Israel territory fell in the vicinity of Abou Qamha, El Khuerbe, Chebaa, Mimes, Kfar Ez Zait and El Khaloua. Material damage was reported and 200 goats killed.

1974

13 APRIL 1974

A complaint has been received from Syria alleging that on 13 April at approximately 1425 Israel forces opened artillery fire on the Syrian village of Saassa causing injuries to five civilians in the village. The Syrian authorities requested that UNTSO conduct an inquiry on the alleged shelling.

The Chief of Staff of UNTSO authorized an inquiry which was conducted on 13 April 1974, and has submitted the following summary of inquiry:

"1. Two United Nations military observers visited the region, interviewed witnesses and examined the evidence presented to them. The military observers were accompanied by a Syrian liaison officer.

"2. Witnesses in the area stated that one round of artillery fire had impacted the centre of the village square at approximately 1230 on 12 April wounding five children and causing damage to the shops and houses surrounding the square.

"3. The military observers found that a 105 mm artillery shell had impacted the village square. Broken glass, shrapnel holes and wall scars were observed in the buildings surrounding the square. One seriously wounded child was seen in the local hospital.

"4. Based on the above inquiry the Syrian complaint is confirmed in so far as artillery damage was observed in the village of Saasa and one child was wounded."

17 APRIL 1974

On 17 April at approximately 1100 Israel forces opened artillery fire on the village of Arne. Several rounds of artillery fire impacted in the middle of the village destroying a school and a civilian vehicle.

1974

18 APRIL 1974

On 18 April at approximately 1430 Israel forces artillery fire and aircraft rockets impacted in the village of Qalaat Jendal destroying three houses and wounding eight civilians.

1974

18 APRIL 1974

On 18 April 1974 at approximately 1630 hours (local time), Israeli air forces launched a missile attack on the village of Qalaat Jendal. Israeli artillery shelled the same village at the same time. Eight civilians were wounded and three houses were destroyed in the shelling.

1974

25 APRIL 1974

On 25 April at approximately 1420 Israel forces artillery fire and aircraft rockets impacted in the village of Qalaat Jendal destroying three houses and wounding eight civilians.

1974

27 APRIL 1974

On 27 April 1974, at about 1420 hours (local time), Israeli military positions bombarded the region of the village of Rime and the village of Durbol itself. One civilian was seriously wounded as a result of the Israeli aggression.

30 APRIL 1974

On 30 April: Between 1230 and 1530 intermittent artillery fire from Israel territory fell in the vicinity of Naqoura, 2 kilometres north-east of El Majidiye, Rachaiya El Foukhar, and El Hebbariye, causing injury to a Lebanese soldier and also material damage.

2 MAY 1974

Between 1403 and 2055 intermittent artillery and automatic weapons fire from Israel territory and rockets launched from Israel forces aircraft fell in the vicinity of Naqoura, Ramiye, Qaouzah, Rmaich, Yaroun, Meiss Ej Jabal, Mhaibib, Ebel Es Saki, Kfar Chouba, Rachaiya El FOukhar, Tell Sneiber, Chebaa, Chouaiya and Mimes, injuring four military personnel and two civilians, killing 15 goats and causing material damage.

13 MAY 1974

Inquiry, which was requested only for the village of Kfar Ez Zait, took place on 13 May between 1420 and 1530 in that village. A representative of the Senior Lebanese Delegate accompanied the inquiry team.

The United Nations military observers conducting the inquiry interviewed witnesses and examined the evidence presented to them. The witnesses stated that on 13 May between 0345 and 0355 Israel forces aircraft attacked the village with bombs. They also stated that the attack had resulted in four persons being killed and six wounded.

The military observers saw five bomb craters approximately 500 metres from the village near a bridge. They also saw one house had collapsed as a result of a bomb explosion and several adjacent houses had been damaged. One boy was seen with shrapnel wounds and in a state of shock. Four fresh graves were observed.

13 MAY 1974

On 13 May, Israeli artillery bombarded the Damascus-Deraa-Amman road. That act of aggression killed one girl and seriously wounded several civilians.

1974

15 MAY 1974

On 15 May, Israeli artillery shelled the villages of Mabay, severely wounding two children.

1974

16 MAY 1974

On 16 May 1974 several formations of the Israeli Air Force attacked in two major raids several Lebanese towns, villages and Palestinian refugee camps run by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees, situated in the areas of Al-Nabatieh, Ain Al-Helweh near Sidon, Rachaya Al-Foukhar, Al-Koraybi, Mahrouannah and Maaroufieh, situated near Beirut.

The attack took place between the hours of 1615 and 1830. The planes bombed and strafed several populated and defenceless locations, raining death and destruction. It has not been possible until now to determine the final count of casualties and the extent of the damage. However, it is known that the number of persons killed is over 40 and that of the wounded over 180. Forty-one houses occupied by Lebanese civilians were destroyed, and 21 damaged.

The refugee camps at Ain Al-Helweh and especially at Al-Nabatieh have suffered extensive and devastating damage. The majority of the refugees have become homeless and without shelter. Telephone and electric wires and other civilian installations were destroyed. Two cars belonging to the Palestinian Red Crescent were hit. There are still many missing persons. Rescue teams are still searching in the debris for victims. It is not known yet how many killed or injured may still be lying there.

1974

16 MAY 1974

On 16 May, Israeli artillery shelled the villages of Baqeesam and Beyt-Tyma, killing one civilian citizen, wounding several others and destroying a number of houses.

1974

19 MAY 1974

Inquiry took place on 20 May between 0750 and 0835 in the former refugee camp on the outskirts of the village of Rachidiye. The United Nations military observers conducting the inquiry interviewed witnesses and examined the evidence presented to them.

The witnesses stated that on 19 May between 1200 and 1245 four Israel warships fired on the camp. They also stated that 7 persons were killed and 35 wounded.

The United Nations military observers saw 15 houses badly damaged or destroyed. Shrapnel fragments were seen in the vicinity of the houses. Bloodstains were seen in a house where witnesses stated two persons had been killed.

1974

21 MAY 1974

Between 1430 and 1445 the village of Ain Qenia and its surroundings were subjected to rocket and bombs by two Israel forces jet aircraft, causing death to three Lebanese children and injury to 33 others, the blasting and destruction of several houses and other material damage.

1974

23 MAY 1974

Inquiry took place from 0630 to 0715 on 27 May in the village of Bqaassem. A representative of the Senior Syrian Arab Delegate accompanied the inquiry team.

The military observers conducting the inquiry interviewed witnesses and examined the evidence presented to them.

Witnesses in the area stated that the village had been shelled on 23 May, resulting in the wounding of villagers and damage to houses. Six villagers who had apparently been wounded by shell fragments were interviewed. They stated that they had been wounded by artillery fire that fell in the village on 23 May. The military observers saw several houses that had been damaged by recent shelling. They also observed shell craters and fragments from recent shelling.

1974

28 MAY 1974

Inquiry took place on 30 May from 1005 to 1100 in the village of Kfar Haour. A representative of the Senior Syrian Arab Delegate accompanied the inquiry team.

The United Nations military observers conducting the inquiry interviewed witnesses and examined the evidence presented to them.

The witnesses in the area stated that at approximately 0900 on 28 May the village was shelled by artillery, resulting in injuries to five civilians in an underground shelter in the village. They also stated that at approximately 1020 on the same day a farm storehouse had been damaged by artillery shelling. One female villager with minor wounds on her head, face and arm stated that she had been wounded by a shell explosion at approximately 0900 on 28 May. The other persons alleged to have been wounded were not available for interview.

The military observers saw an underground shelter and a farm storehouse apparently damaged by artillery shelling. Artillery craters and fragments were observed in the area.

Based on the results of the above inquiry, the complaint is confirmed in so far as the shelling of the village, the wounding of one civilian and damage to two structures in the village are concerned.

1974

19 JUNE 1974

On 19 June 1974, following the withdrawal of the Israeli forces from the village of Hadhar, a detachment of the Israeli army returned to the village and seized three Syrian citizens, namely, Yasyn Hasan, Farhan Hassoun and Noureden Hassoun. The operation, while being carried out, was witnessed by the United Nations Disengagement Observer Force (UNDOF). All of the detained Syrian citizens are up to now being held by Israel.

1974

20 JUNE 1974

On 20 June between 0830 and 0840 and between 0920 and 0935, Israel forces aircraft attacked with rockets and bombs the following three camps: Rachidiye (4 kilometres south of Sour), Borjech Chemali (3 kilometres east of Sour) and Ain El Hiloue (in the region of Saida). Several persons were reported killed or wounded. Destruction of several buildings by blasts and various damage were also reported.

1974

8 JULY 1974

On Monday, 8 July 1974, at 2245 hours (Beirut time), Israeli naval forces attacked the commercial ports of Sour (Tyre) and Sarafand, destroying 29 fishing boats.

1974

9 JULY 1974

On Tuesday, 9 July, at 0009 hours (Beirut time), Israeli Naval forces attacked the commercial port of Saida (Sidon), wounding one civilian and destroying 10 fishing boats.

1974

18 JULY 1974

On 18 July between 2110 and 2130 Israel forces penetrated into Lebanese territory in Boustane village, exploded three houses with dynamite and kidnapped two Lebanese from the village.

1974

16 AUGUST 1974

On the morning of 16 August 1974 (local time), a detachment of Israeli soldiers crossed the disengagement line at the district of Majdal Shams, and detained Mr. Hayel Abou Saleh, a Syrian who works as a civil guard. The incident, which obviously constitutes a serious and flagrant violation of the Agreement on Disengagement between Israeli and Syrian Forces signed in Geneva on 31 May 1974, was witnessed by the United Nations Disengagement Observer Force (UNDOF).

1974

1 SEPTEMBER 1974

On 1 September an Israel forces patrol entered the village of Aita Ech Chaab and abducted a Lebanese citizen from the village.

1974

3 SEPTEMBER 1974

On 3 September an Israel forces patrol penetrated into Lebanese territory, posted itself on the main route at AMR 16932783, near the village of Staichiye, searched passing vehicles, took mail from a civilian vehicle, abducted a Lebanese citizen from the village of Ed Dhaira and then withdrew under cover of artillery fire.

1974

5 OCTOBER 1974

On 5 October, between 1635 and 2115 hours, Israel forces artillery fire fell in the vicinity of Blida, causing death to 3 Lebanese and injury to 12 Lebanese, as well as material damage in that area. Witnesses in the area, including two wounded girls interviewed in the hospital, stated that shelling of the village had occurred at approximately 1730 hours on 5 October. Witnesses also stated that the shelling also caused death to 3 Lebanese and injury to 9 others. Physical evidence seen by United Nations military observers included mortar craters and fragments in the village, a cafe apparently destroyed by mortar shelling and a house damaged by mortar shelling. Three medical death certificates were examined.

11 NOVEMBER 1974

In Hasbaiya, witnesses stated that on 11 November bombs fell in a field where a Lebanese family of 20 was working, killing three persons instantly and wounding a fourth who died later. They further stated that all the dead had been buried.

12 NOVEMBER 1974

The inquiry on the second complaint took place on 12 November, between 1120 and 1245 hours, in the villages of Dheira and Yarine. A representative of the Senior Lebanese Delegate accompanied the inquiry team. The United Nations military observers interviewed witnesses and examined the evidence presented to them. Witnesses stated that on 12 November, at 0145 hours, Israel forces soldiers entered two houses located between Yarine and Dheira, evacuated all occupants, blew up one of the houses and kidnapped three Lebanese from the houses.

13 NOVEMBER 1974

On 13 November, Israeli forces entered the village of Blida and destroyed its only bakery and the home of Mrs. Zaynab Ali Assem, a widow with seven daughters. Mrs. Assem and her daughters were pulled from their home and held in an olive grove while their house was blown to rubble. The Israeli soldiers then told Mr. Assem, "Go, sweetheart, go home. When Mrs. Assem and her daughters did return, they found their home in utter ruin, their tobacco crop lying under tons of broken concrete. Another home in the village was also destroyed, and the Israeli soldiers claimed that all three buildings had been used to shelter Palestinian "guerrillas".

1974

14 NOVEMBER 1974

On 14 November between 0030 and 0100 hours a helicopter-borne Israel force penetrated into Lebanese territory in the village of Srobbine, blew up three houses with dynamite and caused injury to a Lebanese citizen, death to livestock and material damage.

14 NOVEMBER 1974

On 14 November, at 0230, Israeli gunboats landed a patrol near the town of Sarbine and blew up three houses. One person was injured.

1974

30 NOVEMBER 1974

On 30 November Israel forces jet aircraft attacked with bombs and rockets in the vicinity of Kafra, causing destruction of one house and damage to material and cultivation.

1974

12 DECEMBER 1974

On 12 December between 2200 and 2330 hours the town of Nabatiye had been shelled by artillery. Six persons had been wounded by artillery fire. The military observers saw two children in the Nabatiye Hospital who had recently received serious shrapnel wounds. They also saw five houses partially destroyed, several houses damaged and three civilian vehicles damaged by artillery effect. In addition, they saw damaged telephone and electrical lines and observed artillery shrapnel in the area.

1974

31 DECEMBER 1974

Inquiry took place on 1 January between 0030 and 0240. The witnesses, a local doctor and four residents of Nabatiye, stated that between 2030 and 2100 on 31 December, seven artillery rounds had impacted in the vicinity, wounding six persons. The military observers saw three residents of the town who had received recent blast and fragmentation wounds. They also saw three houses, one vehicle and two utility poles which had been recently damaged by artillery impacts. In connexion with this Lebanese complaint, it should be mentioned that OP Khiam reported artillery fire by Israel forces impacting in the vicinity of Nabatiye between 2035 and 2058. Based on the results of the inquiry and the report from OP Khiam, the complaint is confirmed in so far as the injury to three persons and damage to three houses and other materials in the town of Nabatiye are concerned.

1974

31 DECEMBER 1974

Inquiry took place in the village of Aitaroun on 1 January stated that on 31 December at approximately 2000 an Israel force of approximately 60 soldiers entered the village, ordered the occupants of one house to leave it, blew up the house with dynamite and kidnapped two sons of its owner. The military observers saw one house which had recently been destroyed by explosives. They also saw two vehicles near the house which had recently been damaged by an explosion. Based on the results of the inquiry, the complaint is confirmed in so far as the destruction of one house and damaging of two vehicles in the village of Aitaroun are concerned.

1974

Inquiry took place in the village of Yaroun on 1 January between 1100 and 1310. A witness in the village stated that Israel forces soldiers entered the village at approximately 2200 on December 31, 1974, destroyed 10 houses with explosives and abducted three men from the village. He also stated that a child had been injured by the explosions and taken to a nearby hospital. The military observers saw 10 houses which had recently been destroyed by explosives.

1 JANUARY 1975

On 1 January 1975 between 2100 and 2150, an Israel force penetrated Lebanese territory and entered the village of Ett Taibe, exploded one house with dynamite and caused death to four Lebanese citizens, injury to another and material damage.

11/17 JANUARY 1975

Israel launched vicious attacks on the Lebanese village of Kfar Shouba, situated in southern Lebanon, with heavy, concentrated artillery and mortar shelling. From 11 to 17 January, Kfar Shouba was transformed into a deserted village. Israeli armed units crossed the border four times during that period and contributed their criminal share of destruction. As a result of these operations, 90 houses were completely demolished and 76 others were seriously damaged and can no longer be inhabited. In fact, of this once-thriving village, only 26 houses remain habitable. Furthermore, the Israelis blew up the roads and a bridge leading to the village, as well as several irrigation canals. In this latest manifestation of Israeli terrorism, 11 Lebanese villagers were wounded and six others kidnapped by Israeli soldiers.

12 JANUARY 1975

On 12 January between 2215 and 2330 an Israel detachment penetrated Lebanese territory in the vicinity of Halta, where it exploded four houses and caused other material damage, and Kfar Shouba, where it exploded one house, causing injury to two women.

21 MARCH 1975

On 21 March, the Israeli Navy stopped on the high seas an Egyptian fishing boat called Nasr-El-Suez at a point opposite Ras Bakr in the Red Sea. The Israeli Navy confiscated quantities of the fish on the boat as well as the personal belongings of its crew, before permitting the fishing boat to continue its trip. Later, however, this same boat was stopped on the high seas and fired on by another Israeli boat when the fisherman resisted arrest. As a result, the following Egyptian fishermen were seriously wounded: Ahmed Salama, Hilal; El Mahmoudy Souliman Ali; Zaki Hassan Harroun; Hilal-Ali Hassan Harroun; Gamal Abdel-Naser Khudeir.

The Israeli Navy forced the boat to proceed to the port of El Tor where, later in the evening, Ahmed Salama Hilal died as a result of his wounds. The Israeli authorities later released the four other fishermen after they had been interrogated by Israeli intelligence for four days. These criminal acts of piracy on the high seas on the part of the Israelis increase tension, endanger human lives and are condemnable and punishable according to international law and conventions.

17 MAY 1975

On Saturday, 17 May, at 9.30 a.m., one of the 81 mm mortar shells, fired by Israeli artillery at the town of Aitaroun in southern Lebanon during attacks, exploded and caused the death of nine children at play, whose ages ranged between four and twelve years. In addition, three other children were seriously injured.

The names of these innocent victims were: Ali Abdel-Hasan Moshsen, 10 years; Abbas Youse Hamad, 12 years; Abbas Hussein Hamad, 9 years; Yousef Ali Hamad, 6 years; Amal Hussein Mourad, 4 years; Hussein Ali Yousef Hamad, 6 years; Mohammed Abdel-Hassan Mohsen, 5 years; Kifah Ali Yousef Hamad, 12 years; Zeinab Abdel-Mohsen Hassan, 5 years.

15 JUNE 1975

On 15 June, at 0915 hours, a large formation of Israeli war planes raided the village of Kfar Shouba and its vicinity for 20 minutes. At 0955 hours, another formation of four military aircraft raided Kfar Chouba with bombs and missiles for 10 minutes. As a result of these raids, one person was killed, three wounded and two are missing and many houses were destroyed.

1975

16 JUNE 1975

On 16 June, at 0020 hours, the Israeli army fired 17 shells at the Al-Bayyad and Al-Husseiniyyeh quarters of the town of Nabatiyeh. Seven persons were wounded and several houses damaged.

1975

6/7 JULY 1975

During the night of 6/7 July 1975, Israeli artillery shelled a number of villages in southern Lebanon along a wide front. The villages which were bombarded are Wadi Yaroun, Hanine, Wadi Dibl, Qouzah, Yaroun, Ramiyeh, El-Jabin, Dibl, Aaita Esh-Shaab, Wata el-Khiam, El-Hasbani, the south-west section of El-Khreibe and El-Aadaisseh.

As a result, one woman was killed at El-Aadaisseh, two persons were wounded, three homes were destroyed and heavy damage was inflicted on other property.

23 JULY 1975

On 23 July 1975 at 0120 hours Israeli forces crossed the southern Lebanese border in the vicinity of the villages of Kfar Kala and Wadi Houra, where they demolished two houses and kidnapped seven persons. The names of those kidnapped are: Mohammed Uqail Hammoud, Assad Mohammed Uqail Hammoud, Mohammad Amin Uqail Hammoud, Moussa Moussa Shami, Ahmad Ali Naim, Nimr Yahya and Moussa Raslan. Furthermore, as a result of this operation, two persons were wounded and 29 houses were damaged.

On the same day at 0400 hours, Israeli soldiers fired their automatic weapons at a vehicle on a road within the Lebanese frontier between El-Aadaisseh and Kfar Kala and wounded three passengers.

On the same day between 1650 and 1655 hours the Israelis fired two explosive shells, hitting the eastern entrance of the village of Ain Ibl, resulting in the deaths of two persons, Muna El-Amoury and Bassam Sader, and the wounding of seven others.

4 AUGUST 1975

On the evening of 4 August Israel forces artillery fire fell in the vicinity of Tyre, causing in Tyre army barracks the death of four Lebanese army officers and the wounding of a fifth as well as material damage.

Witnesses at Tyre barracks stated that at 2250 hours on 4 August they heard a loud explosion in the operations room at the barracks and found there four Lebanese army Lieutenants dead and a fifth wounded. They also stated that the dead and the wounded had been evacuated to a military hospital in Beirut. The military observers saw at Tyre barracks the operations room and three adjoining rooms which had been destroyed by a recent explosion. They also saw bloodstains in the vicinity of the operations room and found artillery shell fragments.

5 AUGUST 1975

On 5 August at dawn, Israeli forces launched a land, sea and air attack on the town of Tyre (Sour). The attack was supported by Israeli artillery which shelled the town and its surrounding fields, and the Palestinian refugee camp of El-Bass. As a result of this attack, four Lebanese officers were killed and a fifth was wounded when their barracks were hit by a shell fired by the Israeli forces. Furthermore, two civilians were killed and a third wounded. Fifteen houses were destroyed and two motor vehicles were damaged as well. The home of the Mayor of Tyre was also hit.

On the same day at 1300 hours, the Israeli air force bombarded and strafed the southern Lebanese villages of Burghuliyeh, Chouran, Bourj Rahhal and Qasimiyeh. As a result, five civilians were killed, 10 were wounded and considerable damage was done to the fields in the area.

20 AUGUST 1975

On 20 August between 1600 and 1645 hours Israel forces jet aircraft attacked with bombs and rockets the Lebanese villages of Ham and Maaraboune, approximately 65 kilometres east of Beirut, causing casualties and material damage.

Witnesses at Ham stated that the village had been attacked by Israel forces jet aircraft on 20 August between 1600 and 1630 hours. They stated that 6 aircraft attacked with bombs and rockets in 7 strikes resulting in 4 Lebanese dead and 19 wounded. They also stated that many animals had been killed and others injured. Witnesses at Baalbek Hospital stated that they had been wounded during the air attack on the village of Ham.

20 AUGUST 1975

On 20 August at 1900 hours, four Israeli aircraft raided the Lebanese villages of Ham and Ma'raboun in the district of Baalbek. As a result of this raid, three innocent Lebanese were killed and 15 others wounded. Furthermore, nine other homes were destroyed.

1975

29 AUGUST 1975

Witnesses in Ramiye stated that Israel forces artillery fire fell in the village between 2200 and 2300 hours on 29 August, wounding one woman and damaging three houses. A doctor in Rmaich stated that he had treated a woman from Ramiye who had been wounded in the hand by shell fragments.

2 SEPTEMBER 1975

Israel forces jet aircraft attacked with bombs and rockets, on 2 September, the village of Abour Qamah, causing material damage and on 11 September, the town of El Bourghliye, causing the death of two persons, injury to eight persons and material damage.

3 SEPTEMBER 1975

On 3 September between 1000 and 1030 hours Israel forces jet aircraft attacked with rockets and bombs the Lebanese coastal towns of El Bourghliye and El Qasmiye, causing casualties and material damage.

Witnesses in the area stated that Israeli jet aircraft attacked on 3 September between approximately 1000 and 1030 hours with bombs and rockets, causing the death of two children, the wounding of eight Lebanese citizens and various material damage. One of these witnesses who was seen to be suffering from wounds stated that these wounds had been caused by the air attack.

1975

11 SEPTEMBER 1975

On Thursday, 11 September at 1810 hours, six Israeli jets bombed the region of Burghuliyeh for 20 minutes.

As a result, two Lebanese children were killed and six others, including four children, were wounded. Two houses were destroyed and heavy damage was done to the fields in the area.

1975

15 OCTOBER 1975

On 15 October 1975, at approximately 1030 local time, an Israeli APC opened MG fire across "A" line. As a result of this firing a woman and man were killed.

27 NOVEMBER 1975

On 27 November between 0045 and 0100 hours GMT, Israel forces penetrated Lebanese territory in the vicinity of Kfar Kela, dynamited one house and fired automatic weapons, causing the death of one Lebanese, wounding another and causing other material damage.

1975

2 DECEMBER 1975

Between 0800 and 0920 Israel forces jet aircraft attacked several targets within Lebanese territory in the vicinity of Nabatiye and Tripoli, causing both Lebanese and Palestinian civilian casualties and material damage.

1975

10/22 FEBRUARY 1976

The magistrate's ruling sparked a wave of violent demonstrations in most major West Bank towns and in East Jerusalem. On 17 February the Agency reported violent demonstrations - near riots — over the Temple Mount area to protect the decisions of the Jerusalem magistrate. The Agency reported that the forces of occupation imposed a ban on residents of Ramallah, Nablus, Jenin and Tulkarm, prohibiting them from visiting Jordan or receiving visitors from Jordan. The Agency reported also that Israeli police prevented attempts to organize demonstrations in Jenin and Tulkarm, that the disturbances began in East Jerusalem, and that scores of Palestinians were arrested. On 12 February the Agency reported the arrest of 26 Arab students; on 10 February, it reported the arrest of two dozen Arab high school students after they threw stones at police during a day of demonstrations and a general strike.

The Jerusalem Arabic language daily Al Fajr has been reporting these daily demonstrations, mass arrests, beating of students, violations of schools and the use of tear gas bombs and armoured tanks against these demonstrations; American television stations have shown scenes of bloody confrontations between students and helmeted policemen.

The confrontation reached a climax on 22 February when, as a result of Nazi-like interrogation and torture at the hands of Major Shlomo Aharon, the Zionist intelligence officer in charge, four Palestinians died in the Nablus gaol.

Two other Palestinians were killed in an indiscriminate attack by planes, artillery and tanks on the villages of Hiwara and Burqa. This attack was followed by mass arrests of the residents of these villages and the imposition on them of arbitrary curfews.

Demonstrations and strikes continue in Jenin, Tulkarm, Jerusalem, Jericho, Al-Bira and Hebron. The continuing confrontation will inevitably lead to an increase in the severity of the oppressive methods which will lead to a situation threatening peace in the area.

On 17 April, Zionist demonstrators, carrying guns and mortars, and with the protection of the Israeli army, initiated a march through the occupied West Bank in order to demonstrate their support of the Israeli Government's policy of territorial expansion and establishment of Jewish settlements.

The march sparked counter-demonstrations of protest on the part of the Palestinian inhabitants of the area and, in the course of the inevitable clashes between them and Zionist troops, a number of Palestinians were brutally murdered by Israeli troops and many more were wounded.

In reaction to these killings, to the Zionists' march through the West Bank, and in protest against Zionist settlement and land seizure, there were huge demonstrations in Nablus and other towns in the occupied West Bank and a violent confrontation between the Palestinian populace and the Zionist forces of occupation.

1 MAY 1976

On 1 May, Zionist troops opened fire into a crowd of unarmed Palestinian demonstrators who were manifesting their unalterable opposition to the continuing illegal occupation of their lands and homes and to the imminence of additional Jewish settlements. One Palestinian was killed; several others were badly injured.

Curfews have been imposed on several Palestinian towns by the Zionist forces of occupation.

1976

3 MAY 1977

On 3 May 1977, the Israeli military forces of occupation opened fire on Palestinian demonstrators in the town of Qabatya and killed a 15-year-old boy and a 55-year-old woman.

5 NOVEMBER 1977

At 2200 hours on Saturday, 5 November 1977, Israeli warships sank a fishing boat inside Lebanese territorial waters near the border village of An-Naqourah. As a result, three Lebanese fishermen drowned.

8 NOVEMBER 1977

Between 1300 and 2000 hours on 8 November, Israeli gunners shelled the town of Tyre and its suburbs as well as several villages in the Western sector of South Lebanon. The worst number of casualties inflicted was in the village of Majdel Zoun, where 10 people were killed and 20 wounded, all of whom were Lebanese. The area also sustained enormous material damage.

9 NOVEMBER 1977

From 0730 until 0900 hours on 9 November, Israeli war planes raided Al-'Azziyeh, Tyre, el-Borj esh-Shimaly, Mazra'at Jamjam, ar-Rashidiyeh, Mazra'at al-Wasittah, Jisr el-Hamra, and Burghuliyeh. As a result of the bombardment, Al-'Azziyeh was almost totally destroyed and immense damage was inflicted on the other target areas. As rescue work continues, 60 dead bodies have been uncovered and 120 injured people counted, all Lebanese civilians.

1977

20 AUGUST 1978

On 20 August, Israel committed yet another act of State terrorism. It sent its warplanes on a mission of death and destruction directed against innocent Palestinian refugees of the town of Damour and the Burj Al-Barajnah refugee camp — both in the Republic of Lebanon.

Israel's latest attack, target of which were a summer school and a sporting camp, left 4 dead and 25 wounded.

4 DECEMBER 1978

On 4 December Arab houses in the villages of Silwad and Kafr Qallil were demolished. Curfew was imposed on the village of Silwad.

1978

11 DECEMBER 1978

On 11 December, Israeli forces of occupation ordered the fencing-off of around 1,200 dunums of built-up land in the municipality of Beit Sahour (Sheperds' Field).

20 DECEMBER 1978

At 1514 hours on 20 December 1978, eight Israeli warplanes fired rockets on the refugee camp of Bourj esh-Shimaly east of Tyre, resulting in the destruction of a number of dwellings. Five persons suffered injuries as a result of the raid.

At 1600 hours, Zahr al Burj was raided. Two houses were destroyed; one innocent civilian was killed and three others, including an infant, were wounded.

At 1615 hours, the refugee camp al Wasta in Qasmiyah was raided, resulting in the death of a woman, serious injuries to three others, and the destruction of a number of houses. The raids were directed against civilians in the refugee camps.

21 DECEMBER 1978

On 21 December, at 0800 hours, Israeli artillery shelled the Lebanese army unit stationed at Kaoukaba. It also shelled the Hasbani river basin and the surrounding areas. As a result of this shelling, 1 person was killed and 4 were wounded, all Lebanese citizens.

1978

30 JANUARY 1979

On 30 January 1979, Israeli forces demolished the homes of eight Palestinian families in Nablus and in Abu-Dis, a suburb of Jerusalem. In line with their usual practice, the terrorists ordered residents out of their homes and, after denying them time to gather and remove their belongings, blew up the eight houses, reducing them to rubble.

On the same day, the Israeli authorities made known their intention to deport the Palestinian student, Riyad Abu Awad, who was served with an expulsion order on 30 January.

1979

12 MARCH 1979

9:30 a.m. A military checkpoint was set up on the Bir Zeit-Ramallah road. The soldiers turned back by the use of force people who were coming to Bir Zeit from Ramallah.

10:00 a.m. The student body of the university held a meeting at the meeting hall to discuss the events surrounding the visit of President Carter.

10:30 a.m. A group of university students and students from a high school in the town marched in a peaceful demonstration of protest in the streets of Bir Zeit. A group of Israeli soldiers were watching from a distance without interfering in the demonstration.

11:45 a.m. Sporadic gunshots were heard in the town but caused no injuries.

12:30 p.m. Some time after the demonstrations ended the Israeli soldiers opened fire on a number of people standing in one of the main streets of Bir Zeit, hitting four of them in the back; three of them were taken to Ramallah Hospital and the fourth was taken to Hadassah Hospital. They are:

1. Fayez Muhammed Ali, a student at Bir Zeit University. He was injured in the neck and seriously wounded in the jaw.

2. Maher Lutfy Abed el-Sayeh, a student from the town who sustained serious injuries in the cheek.

3. Sami Abed El-Rahman sustained serious injuries in the cheek.

4. Hassan Muhammad Ali, a student from Bir Zeit, had cheek injuries and one of his lungs was injured as well.

Meanwhile, six truck-loads of armed soldiers entered the town accompanied by a number of high-ranking officers.

1:00 p.m. Dr. Gaby Baramky, the Vice-President of the university, went to meet with the officers to inquire about the gunfire. He was told that the soldiers were responding to gunfire from the demonstrators. They ordered Dr. Baramky to return to the university and to make everybody inside it stay in it.

1:30 p.m. The army announced by loudspeaker from the town mosque the imposition of a curfew and warned that any citizen violating the curfew would risk his life.

2:00 p.m. The soldiers questioned four university teachers at the gate of Ramallah Hospital. They asked them if they were journalists and allowed only two of them to enter and sent the other two away in a rough manner. After a heated argument the soldiers took their passports and did not return them before 6 o'clock in the evening.

Meanwhile, the military authorities ordered the transfer of the four injured persons to Hadassah Hospital, an act which appeared to have been taken in order to prevent journalists from entering the hospital to take a look at the injured students. The doctors in the hospital refused the transfer of Mr. Hassan Muhammad Ali because his injuries were very serious; the others were eventually transferred.

2:15 p.m. General Benjamin Ben Eliezer, the Military Governor General of the West Bank, summoned Mr. Baramky to the post office of Bir Zeit, which had been transformed into temporary military headquarters, and informed him that the curfew would be lifted in an hour and movement between Bir Zeit and Ramallah would be permitted, if all was quiet.

3:10 p.m. The army through loudspeakers ordered all male citizens over 14 years of age to gather in the courtyard of the town's Catholic church. The identity cards of the citizens were examined; in addition, the citizens were forced to sit on the ground while some of them were interrogated. The houses of the town were being searched for men who might have stayed behind. During the search the soldiers beat a number of women while the students and teachers of Bir Zeit were still on the university campus.

3:30 p.m. An Israeli doctor from Hadassah Hospital arrived at the hospital of Ramallah to decide on the transfer of the injured student to Hadassah. Having barely examined the injured, the doctor decided upon his transfer. After two hours of discussion between those present and the family of the injured on one side and the Israeli doctor and the military officers on the other, the transfer of the injured student was postponed awaiting a decision of the legal adviser of the military administration.

3:40 p.m. In Bir Zeit the university vice-president tried to see the Military Governor in the church but could not find him. He went to the post office and was told to keep the students on campus awaiting instructions.

5:10 p.m. The Military Governor summoned Mr. Baramky to the post office and for the second time informed him that the curfew would be lifted in an hour or two "if everything went as desired" and that he would keep him informed. He assured Mr. Baramky that there was no need to trouble himself in arranging sleeping facilities for 400 students, teachers and employees on the university campus. He said he would not prevent the girl students from going between the dormitories and the university cafeteria, assuring him that the army would not enter the university campus "this time".

6:30 p.m. A while after he returned from his meeting with the Military Governor, Mr. Baramky met eight soldiers who had entered the university campus. When he informed them of their commander's orders, they replied with insolence and refused to leave for some time, while the movement of the girl students between the cafeteria and the dormitories continued to be prevented.

8:30 p.m. The adviser to the Military Governor of the West Bank, Mr. Yigael Karmon, informed the city council of Ramallah which was meeting to deal with the situation, that the curfew had been lifted at Bir Zeit and that the worried families could go there to bring the students and the teachers out.

9:00 p.m. About 50 cars arrived at Bir Zeit from Ramallah but were turned back and their drivers were treated violently by the soldiers who were checking the identities of the incoming people on the road to town. The soldiers told them that they still had orders to prevent anyone from coming into or going out of Bir Zeit.

9:30 p.m. The students and the faculty of Bir Zeit saw the town citizens leaving the courtyard of the church to return to their homes and only then did they know that the curfew had been lifted.

10 APRIL 1979

On 10 April the Israeli Air Force carried out severe raids on the towns of Damour and Tyre, killing three children and a woman and wounding three men in Damour, and killing one civilian and wounding four others in Tyre. Several houses were destroyed during the raids.

1979

On 22 April, Israeli naval and air forces raided the Palestinian refugee camp of Nahr El-Bared in north Lebanon. Four residents were killed and ten wounded and several houses were destroyed in the one and one-half hour long bombardment.

1979

24 APRIL 1979

As of 1700 Beirut time Israeli Air Force formations have bombarded the following locations around Tyre, predominantly inhabited by Palestinian refugee families:

Shabriha, Adloun, and Al-Jormoq, as well as Arnoun and Beaufort Castle. So far the raid has resulted in the loss of lives of a number of children and women as well as the destruction of several houses.

This attack on innocent civilians is definitely a premeditated criminal act committed under instructions of the Israeli Government by Menachem Begin, who has vowed that "a Jewish child's blood will not be spilt with impunity", and who persists in spilling the blood of Palestinian and other Arab children — a continuation of his criminal attack on Deir Yassin in 1948, when he and his gang murdered in cold blood 254 men, women and children in what constitutes one of the first steps in the genocide of the Palestinian people.

2 MAY 1979

On 2 May 1979, in blatant acts of provocation, Zionist settlers held "independence day" celebrations in Palestinian cities and towns and hoisted the Israeli flag on Palestinian public buildings. As a result of this malicious provocation, Palestinian students responded by holding peaceful marches through their cities and towns, singing and carrying their Palestinian flag.

At approximately 9.20 a.m. several private automobiles with yellow Israeli licence plates drove through the side streets of Bir Zeit towards the university campus. At 10.15 a.m. two of those vehicles approached the women's dormitory area where students were waiting for their 11.00 a.m. class to meet. One of the students, Riyad Nakleh Daoud, was sitting on a bench in front of the dormitory and for no other reason except that he was a Palestinian Arab, was shot in the chest, the bullet barely missing his heart. The assassin was identified by the Israeli military as a prominent Zionist criminal, a certain Ezra Zohar, a member of the fanatical Gush Emunim and professor at Tel ha-Shomer hospital at Tel Aviv.

At 11.05 a.m. four private Israeli automobiles entered Bir Zeit and stopped in an area where students were meeting. A gang of armed Zionist settlers jumped out of their cars and started shooting at the students. While most of the students dispersed and took cover, one foreign faculty member was pinned down, while the settlers took "pot-shots" at him.

From 11.20 a.m. to 5.30 p.m. the Israeli military authorities used every means possible to harass, intimidate and provoke the students and local residents.

By day's end, 134 identity papers of students and local residents had been confiscated and individuals were ordered to report to the military headquarters the following morning. Mr. Baramki, Vice President of Bir Zeit, was informed by Amos Tershman, Military Governor of Ramallah, that Bir Zeit was closed to all students until further notice.

On 3 May at 9.00 a.m. all those whose identity papers had been confiscated went as ordered to the military headquarters. After two hours 72 students and local residents were given back their papers; 62 were detained for investigation. Israeli policemen were posted at the university entrance, and soldiers at a checkpoint prevented students from entering the town.

At 2.30 p.m. a group of high-ranking military officers including Yigael Karmon, adviser to the Military Governor of the West Bank, and Amos Tersham, appeared at the university and presented Mr. Baramky with a military order. They then proceeded to search and photograph various offices, classrooms, the dormitory, the snack bar and the library. Also at 2.30 p.m. at Ramallah, several students and faculty members waiting outside the military headquarters were ordered to leave, and as they were leaving two faculty members were pushed and shoved, and one student, a United States citizen, Michael Derrick, was savagely beaten with a club.

Later that day Mr. Baramky met with the Military Governor and was informed that the university was closed indefinitely.

6 May 1979

On Sunday, 6 May 1979 at 0730 hours, four Israeli warplanes raided the Palestinian refugee camp at Nahr al Bared near Tripoli for a period of 15 minutes. One infant and five other civilians were killed and 10 others were wounded.

7 MAY 1979

On 7 May 1979, the Israeli military authorities closed the secondary school in Bethlehem. It is critical to mention that this act is only one in a series of provocative and repressive actions by the Israeli military authorities since the beginning of the month. In this connexion, I would like to bring to your attention that on 2 May, a student at Bir Zeit University was shot and wounded during a demonstration. On 3 May, Israeli troops using tear-gas closed the university and informed the Acting President that they were not optimistic that the university would be reopened. On the same day, Israeli troops surrounded the walled campus of Bethlehem University and closed it. It is not known if the military authorities will allow the university to reopen.

On Wednesday 23 May 1979, the Israeli air force raided the towns of Haret El-Naame, Damour, Achiye and Rihan. Civilians were killed and injured, among them children and women, and material damages were extensive.

Israeli naval vessels launched an attack against the city of Tyre and the neighbouring area, resulting in the killing of at least two civilians and the wounding of many others. There was also extensive material damage to property and residential areas.

Israeli artillery shelled the towns of Juaiya, Cana, Kaoukaba, Bourgoz and the Palestinian refugee camp of El-Bass.

4 JUNE 1979

On 4 June 1979, Israeli occupation authorities demolished the home of Itaf Ahmad Yusuf in the town of Al-Jariah, near Ramallah. She was accused of resisting Israeli occupation. Four other houses were sealed off and their owners arrested on the pretext of resisting Israeli occupation. The first house, in the area of Ramallah, was owned by an Arab girl named Hanan Nakhleh Elias Mish. The second house, in the town of Al-Bireh, was owned by another Arab girl, Nadia Ahmad Rashid Al-Khayyat. The other two houses, also in Al-Bireh, were owned by Jamal Ahmad Hassan Yasin Zayed.

1979

6 JUNE 1979

On 8 June, six Israeli aircraft raided the village of Hab-boush between 1605 and 1715 hours. As a result, 20 houses were hit.

1979

On 24 June 1979, the Israeli Air Force carried out a series of devastating air attacks on civilian targets which resulted in 20 casualties, most of them women and children. These attacks came six days after the Israeli Air Force made similar raids on five villages in the coastal region and one in the Bekaa valley. The hardest hit was the village of Aqbiya in the hills, south-east of Sidon where four people were killed, 11 wounded and the village market and numerous houses destroyed.

The village which had no commando presence in or near it, was repeatedly bombarded and strafed by a formation of 8 Israeli planes. Also hit in the raid were the villages of Toffah-ta, Abul Al Aswad and Al-Wasta near the coast between Sidon and Tyre, Al-Itaniya approximately 10 kilometres inland, and Suhmur in the southern Bekaa valley.

At 18.10 hours, an Israeli aircraft formation raided the towns of Al-Damour and Na'ameh, on the road between Beirut and Sidon, six consecutive times. The raids lasted for about 35 minutes. Israeli aircraft formations also raided the villages of Aqbiyah, Sarfand and Khayzaran, between Sidon and Tyre. Those raids continued until 1900 hours. The raids took place in densely populated civilian areas on the main highway south of the capital, at a time of maximum civilian movement on Sunday. There was extensive material damage.

Casualties, all civilian, have not yet been fully determined. According to preliminary reports of yesterday evening, there were 8 killed, including 3 women and 1 child, and 19 wounded, all Lebanese citizens. At the time of writing, the final toll is still unknown, but unofficial reports speak of between 15 and 20 civilians killed.

8 DECEMBER 1979

On 8 December 1979, Israeli radio announced that an Islamic building, owned by the Al-Mu'aqit family, had collapsed. The building lies in the Bab Al-Hadid area which lies inside the walls of the Old City of Jerusalem. The reason, as stated by the Israeli authorities, was the heavy rainfall during that time.

Two days later, on 10 December, the Arabic newspapers, Al-Sha'b and Al-Fajr, issued at Jerusalem, gave a different version of this incident. They revealed that the main reason of the collapse of this building was the excavations carried out by the Israeli authorities underneath it and under the surrounding areas. They also concluded that the collapse of the building will lead to the destruction of all adjacent waqf properties which amount to 26 buildings and are inhabited by 222 Arab Jerusalemites.

31 JANUARY 1980

On Thursday, 31 January 1980, the Israeli forces of occupation placed a curfew on Hebron, bringing a halt to the life of that city, thereby imposing collective punishment on its entire population, in apparent retaliation for the killing of an occupation soldier in the city.

1 FEBRUARY 1980

On Friday, Moslems were prevented by the curfew from attending prayers and carrying out their religious obligations in Al-Haram Al-Ibrahimi. Jewish residents of the nearby illegal Kiryat Arba settlement were allowed into town for prayers in Al-Haram Al-Ibrahimi the following day and took advantage of the opportunity to tear out a microphone from the mosque, thereby preventing the broadcast of the Moslem call to prayer over the loudspeakers in the minaret and further impeding the free exercise of religion by Hebron's Moslems.

On the same day, Yeshiva students from the settlement attacked Palestinian residents with a barrage of stones and rocks, one of which struck a 70-year-old man, blinding him in one eye.

10 FEBRUARY 1980

On Sunday, 10 February, the Israeli authorities gave permission to members of an extremely fanatical group called Gush-Emunim to organize a large demonstration to express the Zionist determination to settle in Al-Khalil and the West Bank as a whole.

The procession of hatred took place as scheduled and the group held a meeting near the Ibrahimi Mosque. In the meeting demonstrators announced formally "the return of the Jews to Al-Khalil". Rabbi Levinger, a Kiryat Arba' leader, threatened that the Mayor of Al-Khalil should be held responsible for the murder of the Israeli soldier. He even threatened that he would launch a war against the inhabitants of the town.

14 MARCH 1980

14 March: between 1900 and 2200 hours, the village of Kfar Rumman was shelled. One person was wounded and extensive damage to property was caused.

1980

16 MARCH 1980

16 March: between 1650 and 1900 hours, the villages of Haboush, Arabsalim, Nabatiyeh, Kfar Rumman, Aishiyeh and Jurmog were bombarded, during which there was extensive property damage. And between 1850 and 1855 hours, the village of Qarya was shelled, during which one person was wounded.

1980

16 MARCH 1980

The office of the Israeli Military Governor for the occupied territories summoned on 16 March 1980 His Eminence Sheikh Sa'dudeen Al-Alami, the Mufti of Jerusalem and head of its religious courts — in his capacity as chairman of the civic community, supervising the Science

College in Abu Dees — and Mr. Ahmad Sa'eedan, Dean of the College, and informed them of the Israeli Military Governor's decision to close down this college within two weeks. He further informed them that they should transfer the student body amongst other Arab colleges, on the spurious grounds that there were three universities and 12 Arab institutions of higher learning, with a student body of 6,000 boys and girls, in the occupied Palestinian territories. These colleges, the Israeli military dictator claimed, were sufficient to absorb the Jerusalem students as well.

17 MARCH 1980

Between 1530 and 1900 hours, the city and port of Tyre were bombarded; four persons were killed and 11 were wounded. At 1750 hours, fire was aimed at Miya-wa-Miya, Aine-Dilb and Qarya and caused widespread damage to property. On the same day, there was a clash with UNIFIL troops of the Netherlands contingent at the village of Majdal Zoun, in which three of these troops were injured.

1980

18 MARCH 1980

18 March: between 1220 and 1400 hours, the villages of Marjayoun, Salhieyh and Kfar Jarra were shelled, and Israeli troops kidnapped two civilians from Kfar Dounin.

1980

19 MARCH 1980

19 March: between 930 and 1200 hours, the villages of Jansnaya, Qarya and Kfar Hata were shelled. Property therein was damaged and one house was demolished at the village of Haddatha.

Between 2130 and 2215 hours, the villages of Deir 'Amiss, Kafra, Siddiqin and Tibnin were also shelled with material damage.

1980

20 MARCH 1980

20 March: between 935 and 1000 hours, Haret Saida (a suburb of the city of Sidon) and the villages of Al-Hilaliya and Ain-ed-Dilb were shelled; there was, as a result, extensive material damage. At 1455 hours, Al-Hilaliya was again hit and two persons were wounded.

1980

18 APRIL 1980

At dawn on 18 April 1980, members of the Israeli Special Force raided the Sarafand area in Southern Lebanon. Fifteen civilians, including infants, died as a result of the barbarous acts of the force. Among the dead was a medical doctor and two medical assistants working in a convalescent home. Furthermore, two houses, the property of civilians, were also demolished, resulting so far in the deaths of seven other civilians, including an infant and two women. A number of wounded victims are being rescued from under the debris. The Israeli force committed its crime under cover of Israeli helicopters and after air bombardment in advance of the attack.

1980

1 MAY 1980

Today, in the village of Anabta, (Israeli) troops, under the command of the Military Governor, tried to confront Palestinian students who were manifesting their rejection of and opposition to the Carter-Begin-Sadat conspiracy on the occasion of May Day. The commander ordered his men to shoot at the demonstrators. Seventeen-year-old Najah Ahmad Abu Aliyeh was wounded in his leg, but he managed to rise and attempted to take away the gun from an SS trooper. At that moment the (Israeli) commander gave the order to shoot and kill. Seventeen-year-old Najah joined the ranks of martyrs.... The commander instructed the troopers to beat the other students; as a result, two other students received serious injuries and were rushed to a hospital. Anabta was "sealed" and the press was banned from visiting the site.

Today, again, other (Israeli) troopers raided a girls' college at Bireh, kidnapped a girl student and took her away. Her schoolmates demonstrated and used the only weapons available, stones, against the (Israeli) troopers. The situation at Jerusalem, Bir Zeit, Ramallah, Bireh and Jalazon, in particular, is very tense.

At Jerusalem again today the (Israeli) police force attempted to break up a rally, again to protest against the Camp David accords, and arrested and detained 22 young Palestinian students.

...The United States citizen, the Zionist Meir Kahane, in complicity with the racist SS troopers, has started a campaign to harass Palestinians and vandalize their property. Kahane's campaign began on the infamous "night of the hammers", when he and his gang damaged 150 cars, property of the Palestinian Arabs at Ramallah and Bireh. It appears that other agents have vandalised Palestinian property at Deir Al-Asal.

As a result of these provocations, there were demonstrations at Ramallah and Bireh and the police shot at the demonstrators, with the tragic result of five wounded. They are: George Boulos Awais (bullet in leg); Issa Tannous (bullet in head); Mohammed Mahmoud Said (fractures in both legs); Omar Abdul Jawad Saleh (fractures in feet and arms); Samir Abdel Nour Shahin (fractures in both arms).

At Bethlehem the Zionist forces of occupation warned the city municipal council that a financial blockade will be imposed if the people and the students continue in their uprising. Girl students were threatened with expulsion.

7 MAY 1980

Between 2300 hours on 7 May 1980, and 0400 hours today, Israeli troops were landed at different points along the Lebanese coast between Damour and Sarafand. Naval vessels and helicopters were utilized in the operation. The intruders set up two ambushes, and killed five persons: three at Sa'adiyat and two at Saksakiyah, well inside Lebanese territory and far from the Lebanese-Israeli border.

2 JUNE 1980

On the morning of 2 June 1980, another criminal act of terrorism was committed by the Zionist leadership in Palestine against our Arab people in the occupied territories of the West Bank of Jordan. Three time bombs were planted in cars belonging to Mr. Bassam Shaka'a, Mayor of the city of Nablus; Mr. Karim Khalaf, Mayor of the city of Ramallah.

Two of these bombs exploded, causing the dismemberment of the two legs of Mr. Shaka'a, who is now in a very critical condition. The explosion of the second bomb also caused dismemberment of one of Mr. Khalaf's legs and damaged his hand. The third bomb, which exploded in the car belonging to Mr. Al-Tawil, caused complete damage of the car and a bomb expert lost his sight.

1980

3 JUNE 1980

Mr. Bassam Shaka'a, the elected Mayor of Nablus, suffered serious injuries this morning when his car was blown up, with the result that both his legs had to be amputated.

At about the same time, Mr. Karim Khalaf, the elected Mayor of Ramallah, suffered the same fate when his car also exploded, resulting in severe damage to both his feet, one of which had to be amputated.

Mr. Ibrahim Al-Tawil, the elected Mayor of Al-Bireh, was saved from a similar fate, although a bomb squad expert was blinded by a bomb rigged to a garage door which exploded in his face.

Furthermore, bombs exploded near an Arab elementary school of Al-Khalil (Hebron), killing 7 and wounding 14 Arab inhabitants.

In a separate incident, two students of Bir Zeit University were shot without provocation by soldiers of the Israeli army, one in the back and the other in the leg and side.

26 JUNE 1980

On 26 June, two children, aged 12 and 14, were killed in the afternoon in the village of Bayyadah (10 kilometres from the border) while playing inadvertently with delayed-action explosives carried by a fragmentation bomb. This incident had been officially confirmed by the United Nations spokesman in Lebanon on 27 June.

1980

30 JUNE 1980

On 30 June, at 0035 hours, an Israeli force carried by two helicopters was landed near the Kassmieh bridge and the Kanaters area. As a result of this operation, 13 persons were killed, 29 wounded, two individuals were kidnapped and five houses were demolished. The force withdrew at 0230 hours. After the withdrawal, one person was killed by a booby trap laid by the Israelis.

1 AUGUST 1980

At 0030 hours, an Israeli commando unit launched two naval operations on the Lebanese coast north of the area of operation of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFL). It landed at Damour and Saadiyyat and attacked a privately owned beach. A civilian boat was destroyed, three persons were wounded and a truck transporting cattle was hit. Before withdrawing, the commando force laid some mines on the coast of Damour.

1980

2 AUGUST 1980

At 1600 hours, Israeli artillery based in the village of Khiam, supported by local militias, bombarded the vicinity of Hasbanyah, using 82-mm guns which caused extensive material damage to civilian property. Simultaneously, an Israeli air force was overflying the whole area of operation of UNIFIL in the south and, particularly, the sites being bombarded.

Later, at 2320 hours, a number of Israeli naval vessels cruised inside Lebanese territorial waters opposite Ras el-Ain and Rashidiyyah in the Tyre area.

3 AUGUST 1980

3 August. At 0930 hours, Israeli forces, supported by local militias, bombarded with heavy artillery the western and central area. Five phosphorescent bombs hit Bourj esh-Shemali, wounding two civilians and destroying three vehicles. A number of houses were severely damaged. Two 130-mm shells fired from Marwahhin also fell in the vicinity of Bourj esh-Shemali.

Two 155-mm shells fell in the forest surrounding the village of Juwayyah, and five phosphorescent shells fired from a 175-mm gun fell in the fields of the village of Hadatha, causing substantial material damage.

Forty 130-mm and 175-mm shells were fired at the coast of Rashidiyyah, south of Tyre, wounding two civilians and causing serious damage to a number of houses.

Thirty mortar shells and six phosphorescent shells fell on the village of Blate, wounding one civilian and destroying and burning a number of houses. Three shells hit the village of Tibnin, causing important fires and destroying a number of houses.

One shell fell in the valley between Sultaniyeh and Tibnin, also causing fires.

Three artillery shells fell in the vicinity of the village of Juwayyah.

At 2010 hours, the electric power station of Sultaniyeh was severely hit by artillery.

At 2210 hours, Israeli helicopters overflew the area of Abul-Aswad, Qasmiyeh and Adloun, dropping flare bombs.

1980

4 AUGUST 1980

4 August. At 1200 hours, four phosphorescent shells fell between Rashidiyyah and Shawakir (in the vicinity of Tyre), and one shell hit a disaffected ship in the Tyre harbour.

At 1300 hours, the area extending from Shwatiyyah to Ramadiyyah, Shwakir and Ras el-Ain was heavily bombarded, causing extensive material damage.

Finally, at 2200 hours, Israeli naval vessels cruised inside Lebanese territorial waters between Tyre and Adloun.

1980

14 AUGUST 1980

14 August. At 2020 hours, the towns of Nabatiyyah and Kfar Rumman were heavily shelled.

At 2230 hours, Israeli troops were landed from a sea-craft north of Sidon. They laid an ambush and shot at a passing motor vehicle, killing one person and wounding six others.

Meanwhile, Israeli naval vessels, under the cover of jet aircraft and helicopters, bombarded the northern approaches of the city of (Tyre) Sidon.

1980

15 AUGUST 1980

15 August. At 0300 hours, the area south of the village of Brashit was shelled, within the area of operation of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon.

18 AUGUST 1980

This new form of escalation of the so-called preemptive military policy of Israel started at 2215 hours, Monday 18 August, by very heavy artillery shelling which covered the whole area of Arnoun and Beaufort Castle, Kfar Tibnit and Nabatiyyah with no less than 1,700 shells of 155 mm. Field guns and tanks were used whilst massive Israeli troop concentrations were observed well inside the Lebanese international border in the area of Khiam.

The shelling resulted in a very heavy destruction of houses and property.

20 AUGUST 1980

Wednesday 20 August. At 0600 hours, Israeli forces positioned near the village of Blate and Khiam, inside Lebanon, and from positions inside Israel, shelled, with 155-mm field guns, the area of Nabatiyeh, Kfar Rumman and El-Aishiyeh. Israeli artillery was also pounding Tyre, El-Bass and Shawakeer. Firing continued until 0645 hours, and resulted in wounding one woman and destroying many houses.

— At 0720 hours, shelling was resumed and the area of Nabatiyeh, Habboush, Kfar Rumman, Shoukeer, Arnoun, El-Aishiyeh, was continuously hit for five hours. Three persons were wounded at Nabatiyeh and one at Kfar Rumman. Sixteen houses were completely destroyed. At the same time Israeli heavy artillery shelled Tyre, Ar-Rashidiyah Camp and other inhabited areas in the region. When firing ceased at 1420 hours, four persons were killed and two wounded. Further possible casualties are still undetermined, as the rubble of 12 demolished houses has not yet been cleared.

— From 1300 to 1345 hours, Israeli jets bombarded the orphanage, near the village of Shoukeer, and the area around it. The raid resulted in one person being killed and four wounded. In the meantime, Israeli artillery was shelling the region of Hasbaya, Qilya and Yuhmur. As a result, one person was wounded, four houses were destroyed and extensive damage was caused to agricultural crops.

— From 1445 to 1605 hours, the Israeli air force raided the castle at Arnoun, the forest area at Ali et-Taher, the Nabatiyeh refugee camp and the Bayyad quarter of Nabatiyeh. As a result, two persons were wounded.

— At 2000 hours, three shells hit the Youiya area causing material damage.

At 2200 hours, an Israeli naval vessel was sighted of Damour, inside Lebanese territorial waters. Other Israeli vessels were also sighted off Ar-Rashidiyah refugee camp and off Ras el-Ain, well inside Lebanese territorial waters. These naval vessels intruded inside Lebanon's territorial waters under cover of large helicopter formations.

1980

21 AUGUST 1980

Thursday 21 August. At 0900 hours, 50 shells fell on Arnoun and Beaufort Castle, 18 others on Deir A'amis, and 5 on Haddatha. Yuhmur and Kfar Tibnit were intermittently shelled until 1000 hours. Extensive material damage was thus caused.

— At 1045 hours, artillery shelling of Nabatiyeh, Kfar Tibnit, Mazra'at Ali et-Taher and the Islamic orphanage at Shoukeer resulted in the death of one woman and damage to 17 houses.

— At 1130 hours, 10 phosphorescent shells hit Aita el-Jabal causing extensive damage and a number of fires were thus started. Meanwhile, helicopter formations were overflying the area between Marjayoun and Naqoura.

— At 1345 hours, the electric generator, at the crossroad of Kfar Rumman and Nabatiyeh was shelled, plunging the whole area in darkness. Another 130-mm shell hit and damaged the water storage facility, disrupting the water supply to the villages in the area.

— At 1255 hours, 155-mm shells fell on Yatar, Haris and Ayta az-Zutt; one person was injured.

— At 1310 hours, intermittent artillery shelling of Nabatiyeh, Arnoun and Yuhmur was resumed, causing material damage in the now evacuated villages.

— At 2015 hours, Israeli naval vessels and helicopters resumed action inside Lebanese territorial waters and air space off Tyre.

29 SEPTEMBER 1980

Israeli artillery shelled El-Bass in the vicinity of Tyre, resulting in wounding two persons and destroying 12 houses. Israeli aircraft overflowed the area. Both incidents occurred on 29 September.

30 SEPTEMBER 1980

On 30 September Israeli artillery again shelled the villages of Kfar Tibnit, Zefta, Arnoun and the "Christian Quarter" in Tyre. Preliminary reports speak of material losses and damage to the Greek Catholic bishopric of Tyre.

14 OCTOBER 1980

On the night of 14 October, at 10.30 p.m. a telephone call was received by the doorman of the Armenian Patriarchate, when the main gate of the Armenian Convent (of St. James) was already closed.

The Armenian superior of the Holy Sepulchre, Father Vagharsh Hatchadourian, called to raise the alarm that a fire was raging at the St. Helena Chapel in the Holy Sepulchre. At the same time, he had asked for help from the Greek Orthodox superior of the Holy Sepulchre, Father Daniel.

The dormitory of the Armenian superior is in the upper gallery, in the Armenian church facing the Calvary, quite far from the crypt. The smoke was so dense that it had reached the superior while he had already turned in, on the other side of the church, and three levels above the chapel.

The chapel is the oldest part of the church, the only remnant from the Constantine period, when the cathedral was first constructed (circa 330 A.D.). It has been reconstructed twice in the present century, once in 1937, and again last year.

It is situated under the roof, part of the Ethiopian Monastery.

Now that the reconstruction work is still proceeding, excavations were done on the same level, under the Coptic Monastery, behind the altar of the St. Helena Chapel, where excavators unearthed the remains of the Constantinian walls and many other important vestiges of the fourth century.

The Armenians have jurisdiction over this chapel and have named it the Church of St. Gregory the Illuminator, the founder of the Armenian Church (301 A.D.). All the paintings and mosaics depict the life of St. Gregory.

It is in the southern part of this chapel that the scaffoldings and wooden beams are stored. They have been there since excavation and rebuilding work was begun. The fire broke out there.

When the Armenian Father Superior alerted the Patriarchate, two priests and a layman rushed to the place. They went first to the Kishla (citadel) police station, notified them of the fire and asked to call the fire brigade. When they reached the entrance of the chapel, a heavy pall of black smoke was coming up the stairs. After some hesitation, and in the absence of the fire brigade, the two priests and the layman connected the fire-extinguishing pump, which is the main level of the church, and, hoisting the hose onto their shoulders, braved the smoke and walked down the steps, in an attempt to extinguish the fire.

The fire was under control by the time the fire brigade arrived. However, the damage had been done. The main large painting in the chapel was completely destroyed, the huge arch supporting the roof was heavily damaged and all the area was a tragic mess.

The priests and the officials of the fire brigade discovered these important facts:

1. That the beams were burned in the centre, where they lay on the floor of the church, and then spread upwards.

2. There were old rags under the beams, and remains of matches.

3. No remains of candles were found, as was claimed later.

The fact is that no police investigation or any other official action was initiated after the fire. The representatives of the municipality came the next day to ask if any help was needed and to suggest that it was all the result of a candle left there by a pilgrim.

The truth is that there were no pilgrims or worshippers in the church that night. The gates were closed at 7 p.m. as usual, and the Franciscan fathers had been in the area around 9 p.m. without noticing any lighted candles in the place. The scaffoldings and the wooded beams have never served as a place where candles could be lit.

The witnesses are convinced that arson was involved. Somebody put the cloth rags under the heavy and bulky pieces of wood and lit them. The fire spread very rapidly and engulfed the invaluable painting high above the spot where it started.

Who the criminal was, who started that fire, we cannot say at this stage. But it was most definitely a criminal act.

17/18 DECEMBER 1980

During the night of 17/18 December 1980, at 2245 hours, an Israeli force of about 300 troops entered Brashit and other villages. Houses were searched and automatic weapons were fired at people therein, killing three persons and wounding five. The invaders demolished one house and damaged four others. The troops also attacked the villages of Majdal Silm, Shaqra, majdal Zun and Yatter, destroying a total of eight houses.

During the raid, the village of Mazra'at Buyut es-Sayed, in the district of Tyre, was heavily shelled, with enormous damage to property resulting.

18/19 DECEMBER 1980

One day later, in the night of 18/19 December, at 2240 hours, Israeli helicopters overflew the Tyre area, while Israeli gunboats were cruising inside Lebanese territorial waters just off the Tyre coastline.

At 2320 hours, an infantry battalion, accompanied by helicopters, attacked the villages of Aishiyeh, Al-Jurmuq, Al-Mahmoudiyeh and Al-Dimashqiyeh, where the aggressors clashed with armed elements. The Israeli battalion then withdrew at 0435 hours on 19 December.

This morning, at 0325 ours, Israeli gunners shelled the city of Sidon for 30 minutes.

Al-Jurmuq and Aishiyeh have been subjected to continuous shelling, and preliminary reports speak of three persons killed and four wounded. Extensive jet and helicopter activity in the Nabatiyeh and Khardali Bridge areas was noticed. The Hasbaya and Ibl as-Saqi regions were also shelled.

1980

29 JANUARY 1981

29 January 1981. At 1400 hours, Israeli warplanes raided the area around Ain el-Helwe, near Sidon.

At 1410 hours, four Israeli aircraft raided two localities in the Tyre pocket, the station of Kharba Ma'shouq and the village of Jaroudiyeh, north of Bourj esh-Shamali.

Between 1410 and 1420 hours, two Israeli warplanes dropped four bombs on Mazra'at el-Luwaizeh, near Al-Aishiyeh.

Between 1415 and 1420 hours, one Israeli plane dropped a bomb on the Khiami area north of the village of West Zawtar, near Nabatiyeh.

At 1730 hours, Israeli aircraft raided the villages of Rumaileh, Al-Awwali, Wadi ez-Zeineh and Almat.

Preliminary reports speak of eight people killed and 42 wounded, as well as of extensive material damage to property.

1981

During the night of 22/23 February 1981, at 2205 hours, five Israeli helicopters landed troops near the village of Kfou, north-west of Nabatiyeh. This operation was carried out under the cover of heavy artillery shelling of the area, with concentration on the following villages: Beaufort, Al-Hamra, Yuhmor, Kfar Tibnit, Horsh en-Nabi Taher, Al-Jurmoq and Nabatiyeh.

The operation lasted four hours, and as a result seven persons were killed and three wounded, two houses were demolished and a large number of livestock destroyed.

1981

7 MARCH 1981

(A cable sent to the United Nations Secretary General by leaders of Orthodox Jews of Me'ah Shearim Batei-ungarin, Jerusalem):

On behalf of thousands of Orthodox Jews at Jerusalem, we beg you please to come to our rescue and save us from the Zionist regime that would want to destroy through their lawless police all and any peaceful opposition to their sacrilegious state.

We beseech you to please note the following. This past Saturday evening, 7 March 1981, hundreds of Zionist police forces surrounded the synagogue and Yeshiva Toldos Aharon while the sabbath even prayers were being recited. Police loudspeakers then demanded everyone in the building to come out with hands raised. Close to 1,000 men and children were in the synagogue at the time. Within minutes after the police announcement, 12 tear-gas bombs were shot through the windows of the synagogue, causing many children and old men to faint and lose consciousness, and when ambulances arrived to render first aid and take those children and elderly in need to hospitals, the Zionist police did not permit the first aid crews entry, nor did they allow anyone to be carried out of this synagogue.

Suddenly, at a pre-arranged signal 300 helmeted police stormed the Yeshiva and synagogue, broke every window, door, table and bench in the four-storey edifice and tore Bibles, prayer-books and other religious texts, trampling them with their feet and then throwing them out the windows.

This unprovoked, completely pre-arranged attack continued until 1 o'clock in the morning. This was not an act by Palestinian "terrorists" but by a "State" that calls itself the only democracy in the Middle East.

Saturday night's pogrom at Jerusalem against hundreds of defenceless Orthodox Jews is but the culmination of months of harassment, jailings and the hospitalization of many victims injured by the club-wielding hooligans of Jerusalem Zionist Mayor Teddy Kollek.

The past few months have seen the water supply of thousands of men, women and children at Me'ah She'arim cut off. Teddy Kollek's municipality, which continuously seeks to close ritual slaughterhouses with the excuse that it detracts from the beautification of the Holy City, refused for an entire month to collect the garbage at Me'ah' She'arim-Batei Ungarin, causing disease and near epidemic.

Forty one people, including Rabbi Uri Blau, were hauled off to Zionist dungeons. The prisoners are not allowed food, nor the use of toilet facilities; they are forced to sleep on bare floors.

These latest actions leave no doubt as to the intentions of the Zionist regime: to stifle the cries of defenceless Jews who have never recognized the Zionist occupation of the Holy Land and especially Jerusalem. The Zionist State has clearly demonstrated their determination to abrogate the civil liberties and religious rights of the Orthodox Jews.

We fear that this is the beginning of a reign of terror that the Zionists mean to implement against all those who reject their claim to the land and name of Israel, as demonstrated by the recent wanton destruction of the Yeshiva and synagogues.

We therefore beg you: (a) To declare immediate United Nations sovereignty over Jerusalem — holy to all mankind; (b) To appoint a responsible person or persons from among the members of the United Nations whose duty it will be to protect the rights and interests of Orthodox Jews, Arabs, and other inhabitants of our Holy City.

17 JULY 1981

At 0100 hours Beirut local time, Sidon was heavily bombed. The hospital Jamal Kaur was hit. Fifteen casualties are reported.

At 0120 hours Ain Al-Hilweh camp was bombed again. Two Israeli destroyers were shelling the area between Tyre and Sidon.

At 0905 hours shelling resumed on Zahrani, Jarmaq, Nabatiyeh and Habboush bridge.

At 1030 hours, in one of the most savage and brutal attacks ever on Lebanon, Israeli planes began repeated attacks on the heavily populated west Beirut districts of Fakhani, Tariq Al-Jadida, Ramlet Al-Beida, Jnah and Bir Hassan. The Arab University's Schools of Engineering and Communications were bombed, as well as the Mosque of Iman Ali near the University. The Al-Ifra School was also severely hit.

The raid lasted for over an hour. At this time preliminary casualty figures are 87 killed and 479 wounded. I would repeat that these are preliminary figures. Rescue operations are continuing in their desperate attempt to save entire families buried under the ruins of apartment blocks which were destroyed by the savage Israeli bombings. Those families which tried fleeing to safety from the collapsing buildings found themselves in the midst of exploding bombs and rockets, as did the little children who were playing in the streets of Beirut at the time of the attack.

2 MARCH 1982

At 6.30 p.m. on 2 March 1982, a group of 15 Jews calling themselves "Trustees of Temple Mount", armed with machine-guns and bayonets from the Israeli settlement of Kiryat Arba near Hebron, stormed Al-Aqsa Mosque by way of Al-Selsela Gate in Jerusalem. They beat the guards at the entrance and made their way to the holy sanctuary located between the Moroccan Gate and Al-Aqsa Mosque. After a bloody fight, the guards and the police were able to flush out the Jewish group from inside the sanctuary. A Palestinian guard named Hasan Mustafa Hasanin was taken to the hospital to be treated for a bayonet wound in his left side.

11 APRIL 1982

The Islamic Supreme Council in Jerusalem had earlier convened an emergency press conference, in which the aggression on the blessed Al-Aqsa Mosque was exposed and also outlined in categorical terms the warnings which it had addressed to the responsible officials on the highest levels in the Israeli Government.

It had requested them to shoulder their responsibilities in preventing what happened yesterday or what might happen in the future against this great sanctuary.

Today, and in the light of the new facts, disclosures and consequences which have become evident in consequence of the outrageous acts which occurred yesterday and what accompanied and followed those sad events, the Islamic Higher Council wishes to state the following:

1. The number of those who were murdered yesterday was two; and the number of the wounded exceeded 100.

2. The forcible assault of the criminal soldier was only an initial phase of the criminal operation. It has been established that firing did not emanate from him alone but from many directions and, in particular, from the western wing of the holy Al-Aqsa Mosque as well as from the roof of the religious school which belongs to the Islamic Higher Council and is under the occupation of the Israeli armed forces, which had expelled the students who were taking Islamic studies there. This proves that the operation had been well-prepared and co-ordinated in advance of the actual event.

3. The assault upon the structure of the Dome of the Rock resulted in damage to it.

4. The grand glass mosaic panel at the entrance to the gate of the Dome of the Rock from its western side was totally destroyed; and serious damage was inflicted on the Dome of the Rock and on the marble pillars within it.

5. Such an operation should not be allowed to happen without warning of the serious consequences which result from enabling armed civilian organizations to impose their authority on the people and to regard themselves as responsible for the land because they are fully armed.

This has enabled these organizations to carry out acts of abduction and wanton assassination as they see fit, drawing their support from the authority which had been accorded to them by the Government to perpetrate acts against the people, who are totally devoid of any arms.

Therefore, we take this opportunity to demand of the Government that it put a stop to these acts of provocation and to place upon it responsibility for all the events and consequences that might occur.

6. The precedent which occurred at the holy Ibrahimi sanctuary and has resulted in depriving the Moslem from freely performing their prayers make it imperative upon us to warn of the serious consequences which would accrue to the holy Al-Aqsa Mosque in consequence of the occupation of Al-Aqsa Mosque by the Israeli forces and their forbidding the worshippers to perform their religious duties. Such a situation gravely contradicts the Islamic Sharia law which absolutely forbids any closure of the Mosque to the worshippers for any reasons whatsoever and under any circumstances.

7. The description of the criminal in the official statements as deranged is rejected and should not be issued by any responsible Government; for it is unreasonable that one of the regular soldiers in its army, who is required to pass a medical examination, should be allowed to carry arms amidst other soldiers. If anyone alleges that this criminal is deranged, then what can be said about the other soldiers who assisted him in the firing spree from the western area? The Islamic Supreme Council rejects the statements of the responsible Israeli officials, which contained audacious and clear distortions against the Islamic Supreme Council, and the attempts of the Israeli officials to offer excuses for the events which occurred.

21 APRIL 1982

The Israeli air force launched three extensive attacks on the coastal area south of Beirut and north-east of Sidon. Various installations at Jiyeh, Saadiyat, Damour, Na'meh, Aramoun, Khalde and Mazboud were raided. Preliminary reports speak of heavy casualties and severe damage to civilian property.

1982

9 MAY 1982

On Sunday, 9 May, Israeli aircraft raided the following localities from 1600 to 1730 hours: El-Delhamiyeh, Ed-Dibbiyeh, Dhahr El-Mghara, the Daadiyat Hills, Zahrani, the Tfahta road, the Sarafand Hills, Al-Ghaziyyeh, Maghdousheh, Adloun, An-Najjariyyeh, and Ad-Daoudiyeh. Preliminary reports speak of 11 persons killed, 37 wounded, and very extensive damage to property.

1982

4 JUNE 1982

At 3:15 p.m., Beirut local time, waves of Israeli military aircraft began to conduct no less than nine successive bombing raids on the city of Beirut and its outskirts. These fierce attacks have hit civilian targets in densely populated areas and resulted in as yet an undetermined number of casualties and immense destruction of property.

Later in the afternoon, Israeli forces began to shell the area in South Lebanon north of Nabatiyyeh, and Israeli seacraft also joined in the shelling.

4 JUNE 1982

Waves of Israeli F-15, F-16 and F-4 fighter bombers launched 10 separate bombing attacks on Beirut and southern Lebanon today. The raids which started at 3:15 p.m. Beirut time lasted for two hours. Israeli planes mercilessly bombed Beirut, hitting Sabra and Shatila camps. Known casualties at this time are 35 dead and 150 seriously wounded.

The air attacks damaged the Nazareth Children's Hospital of the Palestine Red Crescent. Also the Cite Sportif was targeted, this complex is only a few hundred metres from the apartment blocks devastated by Israeli air strikes last year.

Ambulances attempting to carry the wounded from the area were targeted by Israeli planes and attacked.

1982

22 JULY 1982

Israeli forces first broke the cease-fire at 3.30 p.m. Beirut time on 22 July 1982, with a heavy and concentrated artillery and rocket bombardment of the regions of Bayader Al-Adas, Aita Al-Fukhar, Al-Sultan Yaaqoub, Sweiri, Bar Elias and Dahr Al-baidar in the Bekaa valley.

At 4 p.m. Israeli war planes raided the village of Barr Elias near Shtaura in the Bekaa valley. Bombarding civilian targets, the Israeli war planes inflicted numerous civilian casualties. Concurrently, several war planes staged mock air raids over the Lebanese capital, Beirut.

Then, starting at 4.30 p.m., Israeli war planes launched three consecutive and intensive air raids on West Beirut. The raids, lasting 90 minutes, were aimed at the residential areas in Ramlet Al-Baida, Spinneys, the Kuwaiti and Chinese Embassies, the Burj Al-Barajneh refugee camp, the heavily populated Fakhani district and the Cite Sportive. The bombing of Beirut alone resulted in the killing and wounding of 62 civilians, mainly women and children.

24 JULY 1982

On the morning of 24 July, as Israeli war planes carried out repeated overflights of west Beirut, Israeli tanks and artillery opened fire on the airport and Hay Al-Sellum areas of Beirut. At 2.45 p.m. Israeli war planes began a series of savage air attacks on the residential areas of west Beirut. The main sectors hit were Ramlet Al-Baida, Spinneys, the Chinese Embassy area, Bir Hassan, the sports stadium, the heavily populated Sabra and Shatila refugee camps and the Fakhani district. At 3.45 p.m., immediately following the hour-long Israeli air raid, the Israeli naval vessels and land artillery and rocket batteries began shelling some of the same residential areas already bombarded in the Israeli air raid: Ramlet Al-Baida, Bir Hassan, Sabra and Shatila, and Fakhani as well as Cola, Mar Elias, Ouzai, Burj Al-Barajneh refugee camp, Hay Al-Sellum, Al-Mreiheh, Lailaki, Bir Al-Abed, and Haret Al-Hreik.

Fifty-one people, the vast majority of them civilians, were killed or wounded in the joint Israeli air, land and sea bombardments of west Beirut.

26 JULY 1982

In the early morning hours of 26 July, less than five hours following the night attack on the refugee camps of west Beirut, the Israeli forces renewed and escalated their attacks against the besieged western sector of Beirut. For more than two hours, commencing at 1.30 a.m., Israeli land and sea-based heavy rocket, artillery and tank fire indiscriminately hit the areas of west Beirut: Ouzai, Ramlet Al-Baida, the Fakhani district, Bir Hassan, Bir Al-Abed, Haret Al-Hraik, Mar Elias and the airport vicinity. The three refugee camps, Sabra, Shatila and Burj Al-Barajneh, were shelled once again.

Under cover of that fire, which continued until 3.30 a.m., Israeli naval units attempted to approach the Saint Simon beach shore in the Jnah/Ouzai region. Defiant Palestinian and Lebanese defenders were able to repulse the attempted Israeli sea-borne landing.

At 10 a.m. Israel artillery, rocket and naval shelling of west Beirut resumed. For two hours, the Israelis pounded the southern suburbs of the Lebanese capital and concentrated on the Ouzai and airport regions as well as the refugee camp, Burj Al-Barajneh.

Starting at 2.30 p.m., Israeli planes carried bombing raids against residential areas in west Beirut. Hit were the Spinneys, Ramlet Al-Baida, Bir Hassan, Fakhani, Sabra and Burj Al-Barajneh refugee camps, the sports stadium and the Chinese Embassy and airport areas. Several residential buildings were destroyed by fire caused from the shelling, leaving more victims homeless.

After a lull in the air raids of the first days of the siege of Beirut, we are now in the fifth consecutive day of rampant land, sea and air attacks. The civilian casualties in Beirut in the last 24 hours alone have reached 100. The savage Israeli air raids on west Beirut today, by initial reports, have left another 54 civilians dead or wounded. Last night's air, land and sea bombardments took 47 casualties. The intensity and continuity of the Israeli shelling have hindered ambulances and rescue teams from taking the wounded to hospitals.

The Israeli strike forces have been pounding the same targets now for the past seven weeks. The Israeli planes and artillery have devastated the Fakhani residential area, the three refugee camps of Burj Al-Barajneh, Sabra and Shatila, Ouzai and the airport vicinity as well as the sea-front neighborhood, Ramlet Al-Baida. The land and naval bombardments have been continuous since the start of the siege. The weapons lethally shot through civilian areas, showering the Lebanese and Palestinian peoples with cluster, phosphorous and fragmentation bombs. The new, heavy air-to-surface rockets being employed have destroyed entire buildings, both offices and apartment dwellings. In addition to using mortars and tanks, the Israelis are using eight 155-mm artillery battalions in the shelling, and they are firing them simultaneously.

The populations of the Lebanese capital of Beirut is roughly half a million. The civilian population has grown as the victims of the devastated southern regions fled to the capital, seeking security and shelter.

2 AUGUST 1982

Since 2 a.m. Beirut time, the Israelis have been firing shells intermittently at the southern region. Bulldozers began digging trenches in front of positions and earth-works.

Since 6.20 a.m., the Israelis have been violating the cease-fire in the Ouzai area, shelling intermittently with tank artillery and machine-guns.

At 7.45 a.m., Israeli sniping at the Ouzai region began.

At 8 a.m., Israeli tanks advanced from the Sciences Faculty building of the Lebanese University and released smoke, then continued their advance towards Hai Al-Sillum and took positions.

At 10.05 a.m., the Israeli forces were still firing with tanks and machine guns at Hai Al-Sillum as well as Lailaki.

At 10.10 a.m., the Israelis were advancing to the edges of Hai Al-Sillum.

At 10.25 a.m., eight large and small vehicles advanced from south to north on the western runway of Beirut International Airport.

At 10.30 a.m., Israeli forces intermittently shelled in the Ouzai area.

Israeli violations of the cease-fire were continuing into the afternoon hours, with the shelling at 2.45 p.m. of the ouzai, Hai Al-Sillum and Burj Al-Barajneh refugee camps. Israeli tanks also took up new advance forward positions at several points along the front lines.

3 AUGUST 1982

Since 0900 hours today, 3 August, the Israeli invading forces have resumed their intermittent shelling of the regions of Ouzai, Jnah and Burj Al-Barajneh in Beirut's southern suburbs from tank guns positioned along the airport's western runway. Israeli forces were also observed moving their military vehicles in the airport area to occupy stable positions.

Around 1530 hours, the Israelis initiated an intensive preparation bombardment for an assault; then they advanced along the Ouzai axis. Our defiant defenders were able to successfully defeat the Israeli advance and force them back to their starting positions.

9 AUGUST 1982

Since last night, the Israelis have been escalating their military operations, bombarding Beirut from air, land and sea. The shelling included the Ouzai axis, the airport axis, Burj Al-Barajneh, the museum axis, Mraije, Sabra, Shatila and Ramlet Al-Baida, as well as Verdun, Corniche Al-Mazraa and the Kuwaiti Embassy and the Chinese Embassy areas.

The bombardment of all these areas is concentrated and intensive. This followed a statement by an Israeli official stating that Israel will not stop military action or the intensification of pressure on Beirut.

At 1900 hours, Beirut time, we were informed that for the preceding four hours, squadrons of Israeli warplanes had continuously bombarded the areas of the southern districts of Beirut, including the Sabra, Shatila, Burj Al-Barajneh and Mar Elias refugee camps, Fakhani, Mazraa, Ramlet Al-Baida and the airport road. Different sectors of Beirut were also shelled from the land and sea.

12 AUGUST 1982

In nine continuous hours of air attacks on west Beirut, Israeli planes had inflicted an estimated 300 casualties in the 16 different residential quarters and Palestinian refugee camps in the bombing.

Israeli planes carried out more than 100 sorties — about 12 per hour — using phosphorous bombs as well as 2,000 pound bombs and several types of rockets. The areas attacked included Verdun, Tallat AL-Khayyat, Aisha Bakkar, Burj Abu Haidar, Barbour and a number of other heavily populated districts.

At 8.30 a.m. Beirut time, the hellish scream of Israeli war planes filled the skies of Beirut as over 25 Israeli bombing runs had been carried out since dawn. The scope of the raids widened to include the areas of Ramlet Al-Baida and the Arab University vicinity. As the Israeli planes dove low over the city and bombs tore into the heavily populated residential areas, the citizens ran for cover, crowding poorly equipped and ill-suited bomb shelters.

By 9 a.m., Israel had carried out over 30 bombing runs against the Palestinian refugee camps of burj Al-Barajneh, Sabra and Shatila and Bir Hassan.

At 10.45 a.m., the Israeli campaign to annihilate what remains of Beirut's four Palestinian refugee camps was well into its fifth hour and escalating by the minute. Wave after wave of Israeli war planes struck hard, dropping phosphorous bombs to ensure the total destruction of the last refuge of Beirut's Palestinian citizens. In addition to the camps of Burj Al-Barajneh, Sabra, Shatila and Mar Elias, the Beirut residential areas of Berbir, Ramlet Al-Baida, Corniche Al-Mazraa and the southern suburbs were all subjected to insane Israeli bombardment.

At noon, the sixth hour of the continuous Israeli air raids, over 400 buildings had been totally destroyed, crumbling over the occupants.

The casualty figure is expected to rise. Most of the victims are believed buried under the rubble of homes and trapped in shelters. Civil defence and ambulance teams' rescue efforts are severely hindered because of the intensity and continuity of the air raids.

17 SEPTEMBER 1982

During the day on 17 September, fighting in the Sabra Camp in the southern suburbs of Beirut was in progress and the presence of Kataeb units (which are the military branch of the Phalange Party) was observed at Bir Hassan, in the hospital and the airport areas, in the vicinity of Sabra camp. West Beirut was reported under IDF control at around 1500 hours GMT on 17 September, with the exception of the Sabra camp area.

From 1600 to 1830 hours GMT on the same day, very sporadic explosions were heard at an undetermined distance northwest of Yarze, where the OGB office is temporarily located. Four minutes before midnight GMT, flares were seen over the Sabra area.

In the morning of 18 September, all of west Beirut was under IDF control. The presence of Kataeb units was again observed in Bir Hassan in the vicinity of Sabra camp, as well as an estimated at least 1,000 Kataeb soldiers with tanks and vehicles in the airport area.

Two teams of OGB observers reached the Sabra camp at 0830 hours GMT and found many clusters of bodies of men, women and children in civilian clothes who appeared to have been massacred in groups of 10 or 20. The Sabra camp is dominated by two IDF positions situated 200 and 500 metres, respectively, west of the camp. According to information received from the Lebanese army, the units seen in the Bir Hassan, Sabra and airport areas were in fact Kataeb units mixed with Lebanese de facto forces coming from southern Lebanon.

As of 1800 hours GMT on 18 September, IDF was deployed in and around Beirut, controlling the city with mechanized troops on the main axes and road functions as well as with infantry patrols. No IDF withdrawals had been observed south or west of the approximate line of separation of forces indicated in the report of 15 September {S/15382/Add.1, para.4}. The deployment of Lebanese army and internal security units also remained unchanged with some minor adjustments. Lebanese forces and Kataeb forces were manning checkpoints and were controlling traffic east and south of the proximate line of separation. However, the forces that had been observed in the airport area during the morning were no longer there at 1800 hours GMT. No local armed elements (LNM, AMAL, Mourabitoun) were observed west or north of the approximate line of separation of forces.

20 OCTOBER 1982

The Israeli occupation authorities imposed a curfew on the Palestinian city of Hebron on Wednesday evening, 20 October 1982. The imposition of collective punishment on the population of the city follows in the aftermath of an incident involving an Israeli soldier in the old quarter of Hebron. The Israeli soldier had been roaming through the alley-ways and was reaching for his gun, when he was restrained by a Palestinian youth. Israeli troops rushed to the scene and conducted a house-to-house search of the area.

Later, five Palestinian children were found when Zionist settlers attacked them with a hand grenade. The five children were rushed to hospital after the explosion. More hand grenades were found in a garbage can in the nearby Zionist settlement of Kiryat Arba.

20 OCTOBER 1982

Issam Abu Musalem, a 15-year-old Palestinian from Balata refugee camp on the southern outskirts of Nablus was shot dead by Israeli settlers. Another Palestinian was seriously injured. The bullets that killed Abu Musalem and injured the other Palestinian came from an Israeli vehicle of the Samaritan Regional Council as it drove through Nablus.

The Israeli military command imposed a curfew on the Palestinian refugee camp after the shooting, and two schools in Nablus were ordered closed for a week.

16 MARCH 1983

In Yatta, on 16 March, it was reported that Israeli settlers were continuing to terrorize the population in the occupied territories. Booby-trap bombs were discovered at the gate of the Haifa High School in the town of Jenin which were fortunately discovered and detonated.

1983

17 MARCH 1983

On 17 March, Israeli occupation troops opened fire on Palestinian anti-occupation demonstrators in Beit Sahour. One school was ordered closed until further notice, bringing the number of schools in the Bethlehem area closed by the Israeli occupation to five.

1983

25 JUNE 1983

On Sunday 25 June 1983 Palestinians detained in the Ramallah Central Prison demonstrated against the inhuman conditions in which they are being held. Israeli prison guards attacked the demonstrators with clubs and tear-gas grenades. Two prisoners were seriously injured. Prisoners have appealed to the International Red Cross to investigate Israeli practices against them.

17 OCTOBER 1983

On 17 October 1983 the Israeli authorities arrested Mr. Mohammed Mi'ari and Mr. Maysara Sayyid, both of Haifa, on the grounds that they were in breach of security law because they had attended the International Conference on the Question of Palestine at Geneva in August and September and had, during that Conference, met with representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization in working sessions of the Conference.

Mr. Mi'ari and Mr. Sayyid were attending the Conference at the invitation of the United Nations and were representing their organizations, namely, the Friends of the Prisoners Association and the Abna Al-Balad Movement (Movement of the Sons of the Country), respectively, both non-governmental organizations based in Israel.

4 JANUARY 1984

On Wednesday, 4 January 1984, at 8 a.m., a squadron of 16 Israeli warplanes flew over the Baalbek region in eastern Lebanon and attacked, in two formations, the Lebanese gendarmerie barracks at the southern entrance of the ancient city of Baalbek and the Immam Mousa Sadr City on the main road between the villages of Taibe and Talia. Six minutes later, the Israeli fighter bombers resumed their raid on the same positions, which resulted in the destruction of the gendarmerie barracks, the "Kastal" school in the "Wafel Camp", the camp mosque and dozens of houses on the outskirts of the camps. Heavy damages were also inflicted on a sheep market, which was crowded at that hour, and on the Hotel l'Alouette, a restaurant and a gas station.

As a result of that attack, more than 100 persons were killed and 400 wounded. It has also been determined that 150 schoolchildren were among the victims in the destroyed school.

27 JANUARY 1984

The Acting Chairman of the Committee on the Exercise of the Inalienable Rights of the Palestinian People sent a letter to the UN Secretary General informing him of the recent attempt to desecrate, if not indeed totally destroy, the holiest Moslem shrine in Jerusalem, the Dome of the Rock and Al-Aqsa Mosque, considered the third most sacred place in Islam, after Mecca and Medina.

It has been borne out by police reports that the attempted destruction occurred on Friday, 27 January 1984, but was fortunately averted by Arab guards. Before dawn, shortly before thousands of Moslems were to gather for prayer, two men carrying explosives escalated the eastern wall of the Old City of Jerusalem. According to the accounts of both the police and Moslem leaders, a Moslem guard, being aware of the intrusion, appealed for help. As policemen arrived, the two intruders fled, leaving behind 22 pounds of explosives and 18 hand grenades purportedly issued by the Israeli army.

In the view of the Mufti of Jerusalem, Sheik Saad-el-Din el-Alami, there were more than two assailants. The Mufti said that there were many bags of explosives at the foot of the wall that forms the Temple Mount. It is of interest that the Commander of Israel Southern East District, Yehoshua Caspi, was quoted by Israeli radio as saying that the presence of explosives and grenades pointed to Jews as the perpetrators. Initially, the police refused to confirm Moslem leaders' assertions about the scope of the assault.

Over recent months, many such instances have been reported of grenades and explosives placed at entrances to churches and mosques, their pins having been removed and their handles held down by rocks so that if the latter were disturbed an explosion would inevitably occur. To date, it is known that a Greek Orthodox nun, an Imam and a Moslem worshipper have been wounded.

Although these attacks have been followed by anonymous telephone calls to news organizations claiming responsibility by a group called "Terror against Terror", the police have declared they do not know whether or not such a group exists.

2 FEBRUARY 1984

On Thursday, 2 February, the Israeli occupation authorities closed down the old campus of Bir Zeit University for three months, as of result of which 1,400 Palestinian students are being deprived of schooling. The Office of Administration and Services (maintenance and kitchen) and the Department of Student and Employee Affairs, and the Office of Public Relations have all been closed down.

4 MARCH 1984

Israeli occupation forces ambushed a civilian bus carrying Palestinian workers from the village of Mazrah Sharqia in the Israeli-occupied Palestinian West Bank. The ambush, which took place Sunday, 4 March 1984, resulted in the wounding of seven Palestinians. One remains in grave condition in the Hadassah hospital, and another is reported to be in serious condition in the Ramallah hospital.

After the ambush, Israeli occupation forces sealed off the area and forcibly prevented relatives of the victims from approaching the hospital where they had been taken for medical treatment.

29 JUNE 1984

On 29 June 1984, Israeli warships seized a passenger boat bound from Cyprus to Lebanon and forced it to head for the port of Haifa. On the arrival in Haifa of the seized ship, its passengers were disembarked and the Israeli authorities proceeded to interrogate them. Nine of the passengers were detained and the boat returned the remainder to Beirut.

1984

14 OCTOBER 1984

Letter from the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Foreign Affairs of Iraq Addressed to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

I wish to inform you of the blatant aggression committed by the Israel authorities against the Iraq commercial steamer Babel. That steamer was passing through Jordanian territorial waters on 14 October 1984 en route to the Jordanian port of Aqaba when an Israeli patrol intercepted it and asked it to identify its cargo. When the captain of the steamer refused to comply with that request because it was in clear contravention of the rules of international navigation, the patrol opened fire on the steamer.

This action constitutes a flagrant violation of the rules of international law governing navigation in territorial waters, since it is inadmissible to interfere with a commercial vessel passing innocently through territorial waters, especially where those waters are subject to the sovereignty of a foreign state.

On Sunday, 28 October 1984, a bus carrying Palestinian workers and shoppers was attacked in Jerusalem, with an Israeli army-issue 66-mm rocket launcher. A 20-year-old Palestinian, Jamal Ismail Abu Matar, was killed, and 10 Palestinians were seriously wounded.

The forcefulness of the rocket attack was so great that, according to the New York Times of 29 October, the bus and roadside were splattered with the blood of the passengers. Also mentioned was that the weapon used was a United States-made 2-foot-long rocket launcher in wide use by the Israeli infantry. It is important to recall that several such actions in pursuance of the Israeli policy of State terrorism in the occupied Palestinian territories have been carried out with weapons issued to the Israeli army, and in several instances those perpetrating these criminal acts were Israeli soldiers either on active service or in the Israeli reserves.

On 21 November 1984, a student at Bir Zeit University, Sharif Khalil Taibe, was killed and six others wounded when Israeli troops opened fire on a large crowd of demonstrators in Bir Zeit village. The following day, in Ramallah, Israeli troops again fired into a demonstration by a group of youths, resulting in the death of Bakr Abdullah, a student at the Ramallah Industrial Secondary School, and the wounding of another.

Another demonstration by a group of women to mourn Mr. Taibe's death was dispersed by troops using tear gas. The troops also forced Palestinian shopkeepers who had closed their stores after the incidents to reopen them.

Other demonstrations in Jelaila refugee camp near Gaza and in Nablus were also dispersed by Israeli troops.

13 DECEMBER 1984

On the night of 13 December 1984, the Israeli forces attacked some southern villages located in the zone covered by the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL). This large-scale military action resulted in the death of four people and the wounding of dozens of others. In addition, hundreds of civilians were arrested or detained.

This operation covered the following villages: Tora, Burj Rahhal, Marakah, Tair Dibba, Bidyas, Al-Adeissa, Al-Abbasia and Yanouh. The Israeli forces that took part in the assault were estimated to number 4,000. To justify their aggression, the Israelis claim that some of the inhabitants of the villages were planning to attack the Israeli forces.

The United Nations Force was unable to withstand the Israeli attack because of the heavy gunfire and aerial bombing, particularly since a large number of Israeli helicopters participated in the attack. The United Nations Force tried to inspect the area after the attack but was prevented from doing so by the Israeli forces.

5 FEBRUARY 1985

On 5 February, 1985, Israeli occupation troops opened fire on Palestinians near the Burj Al-Shamali refugee camp, wounding several Palestinian refugees including women and children. Israeli occupation troops then proceeded to surround the camp, seal it off, cut off the electricity, and impose a curfew. Shortly thereafter, Israeli occupation troops stormed the camp and carried out mass arrests on Palestinian refugees.

6 FEBRUARY 1985

On 6 February 1985 at 7:15 a.m. Israeli occupation troops, in an armoured vehicle passing through the Tyre area with an Israeli military convoy, opened fire on civilians, hitting a passenger car and seriously wounding the six Palestinians inside.

1985

12 FEBRUARY 1985

On 12 February 1985: the village of Kamed El-Loz is surrounded and a house in it belonging to a Mr. Mohieddine Hussein Ghaddar, is demolished.

1985

15 FEBRUARY 1985

15 February 1985: the Israeli forces continue, for the fourth consecutive day to surround Kamed El-Loz and to prevent its inhabitants to enter or leave the village, even the sick and the elderly; a food shortage is being felt by the population.

1985

17 FEBRUARY 1985

17 February 1985: the villages of Deir Mimas and Kfar Kila are besieged and 15 and 22 persons are being detained from each.

1985

18 FEBRUARY 1985

18 February, 1985: the Israeli forces enter the village of Bazurieh, shooting at random and conducting searches of houses and places of worships, ransacking their furnitures and detaining nine persons. The Israeli forces also shot Mr. Ghazi Awada (10 years old) and Mohammed Jaafar Kassir (18 years old) seriously wounding them at the triangle of Deir Qanun El Nahr.

1985

18/19 FEBRUARY 1985

During the night of 18-19 February 1985: the village of Tibnin is raided, its houses stormed and one inhabitant, Mr. Mohammed Mahmoud Haidar (20 years old) shot at and killed.

1985

19 FEBRUARY 1985

The Israelis shot at 2 persons, killing them instantly: Mr. Salim Mohammed Elabed (58 years old), on the road between the villages of Burj Rahal and Qasmieh, and Mr. Louay Riad Fakih, in the triangle of Abbassieh — Deir Kanoun — Burj Rahal.

At the intersection leading to the region of Nabeh El Tasseh, the Israeli forces surrounded the area when an unidentified dead man corpse was found, and prevented the Lebanese internal security forces from investigating on the scene.

The village of Burj Rahal is surrounded, its school destroyed and the teachers detained.

20 FEBRUARY 1985

At the passover to Numeiryeh, two women Najwa Hussein Mahmoud (20 years old) and Khadijeh Mohammed Taleb (54 years old) were shot at, and seriously wounded. Three bullet-ridden corpses from Israeli fire were found on the road between the villages of Bazurieh and Tair Debbah.

1985

The Israeli forces entered the village of Bazurieh, blew up four houses and detained four persons.

In the village of Arab Salim, after four days of still continuing siege, it is reported that: nobody is allowed to leave the village; a great number of casualties, dead and wounded, still lay in the streets; four people are known to have been killed, one of them was identified as Mr. Hassan Ahmad Hassan (29 years old); six houses were razed by the Israeli bulldozers; Red Cross delegates were prevented from entering the village; and all the houses and the cars were looted or stolen.

1985

1 MARCH 1985

On the evening of 1 March 1985, several units from the Israeli occupation army and border guard stormed both the old and new campuses of Bir Zeit University. This latest fascist attack against Bir Zeit University was to stop the opening of a Palestinian cultural exhibit sponsored by the Bir Zeit Student Council and Staff Union. During the attack several Palestinian students were badly injured.

The Israeli occupation army then declared Bir Zeit University a military zone, suspended classes at the University and proceeded to arrest scores of Palestinian students and faculty members.

Concomitantly, other units from the Israeli occupation army and border guard stormed homes of Palestinian students, arrested scores and carried out on-the-spot interrogations.

1985

2 MARCH 1985

At 7.30 a.m. on Saturday, 2 March 1985, Israeli forces surrounded and stormed the village of Maarakah (located south of Litani River in the vicinity of the town of Tyre). More than 800 Israeli soldiers and over 50 armoured vehicles (tanks, personnel carriers and two bulldozers) took part in the operation, after which 350 citizens were locked up at the village school after being interrogated; 17 of them were later taken away to an unknown destination. In addition, one vehicle and four houses were totally destroyed.

Before leaving the village of Maarakah, the Israeli forces also planted mines and explosives at the village Mosque (Husseyneh) and blew it up when villagers were gathered there at midday on Monday, 4 March 1985. It is estimated that as many as 200 people were inside the mosque when it was blown up. According to preliminary reports on this massacre which have reached us, at least 15 were killed, another 45 wounded, dozens are still trapped amid the rubble, and rescue operations are continuing.

The Israeli forces prevented ambulances and other emergency vehicles from entering the village; they surrounded the hospital in the village of Jebel Aamel, the village closest to Maarakah, and fired shots in the air to terrorize the people and prevent the wounded from being taken to hospital.

1985

2 MARCH 1985

On Saturday, 2 March 1985, Al-Najah University, also in the Israeli occupied Palestinian West Bank, was stormed and surrounded by units from the Israeli army.

1985

3 MARCH 1985

On Sunday, 3 March 1985, massive Israeli reinforcements were sent to the University in an attempt to crush a protest by thousands of Palestinian students against the latest Fascist Israeli attack against Bir Zeit University, and to demand the immediate release of all Palestinian students and faculty members arrested during the attack.

1985

On 21 March 1985, after an intensive bombardment of the villages of Houmine el-Tahta and Kfar Milke, the Israeli forces besieged the following villages of the district of Zah-rani: Arb Salim, Homine el-Faouqa, Sarba, Ain Qana, Jabaa, Kfar Fila, Kfar Milke, Jbal el-Arab, Mazraat Tiba and An-qoun.

Approximately 60 motorized vehicles and "Merkava" tanks, hundreds of soldiers and elements of the Lahad force and helicopters and special paratroop units participated in the operation. The Israeli forces advanced to within seven kilometres of the town of Sidon, besieging, on their way, three Lebanese army posts situated in the area which they had evacuated in the first phase of their withdrawal, leaving numerous wounded and causing material damage.

At Houmine el-Tahta, 20 persons were found dead under the ruins of a school and several houses which the Israeli forces had destroyed.

The Israeli tanks pounded the village of Kfar Milke, killing two journalists from a United States television team — Tewfik Ghazawi and Bahij Metni, hit by shots aimed intentionally in their direction by one of the Israeli tanks.

1985

30 MARCH 1985

Israeli occupation troops opened fire on Palestinians during the 30 March 1985 celebrations on the occasion of the Day of the Land, in the Israeli occupied Palestinian West Bank and Gaza Strip.

9 SEPTEMBER 1985

On 9 September 1985, paratroopers shot and seriously wounded four Palestinian children in Al-Khalil (Hebron). Today, paratroopers have rampaged through the Palestinian towns of Jenin and Nablus indiscriminately attacking and beating up Palestinian men, women and children, creating an atmosphere of sheer terror.

Last night 20 more Palestinians were detained under the 4 August 1985 Administrative Detention Law. Curfews are still in effect in Ramallah and Al-Khalil (Hebron). Collective punishments have reached an acute level. Zionist settler vigilantism has spread throughout the occupied Palestinian territories, and settlers are actively engaged in drumming up anti-Palestinian hatred. Censorship of the Palestinian press is in effect.

1 OCTOBER 1985

On Tuesday, 1 October 1985, six Israeli military aircraft flying from the east at a low altitude penetrated Tunisian airspace and, at 10.07 a.m., bombed the civilian locality at Borj-Cedria called Hammam-Plage, situated in the southern suburbs of Tunis, dropping five (5) delayed-action bombs weighing 1,000 pounds each.

This operation, for which Israel has officially claimed responsibility, has resulted in the loss of many human lives, with the toll now standing at more than 50 dead and nearly 100 wounded, while the search goes on for those still buried beneath the rubble. In addition it has caused material damage and destruction on a wide scale.

Contrary to what Israeli officials are claiming, the place chosen as the target for this cowardly attack is situated in an exclusively residential urban area which traditionally has been home to Tunisian families and a small number of Palestinian civilians who had to flee from Lebanon following the invasion of that country by the Israeli army.

This totally unjustifiable Israeli raid constitutes a blatant act of aggression against Tunisia's territorial integrity, sovereignty and independence, and a flagrant violation of the rules and norms of international law and of the principles embodied in the Charter of the United Nations.

7 FEBRUARY 1986

On Monday, 17 February 1986, Israel carried out large-scale military operations in southern Lebanon, under the supervision of the Israeli Minister of Defence, Yitzhak Rabin. A military force composed of more than 600 troops, supported by large numbers of tanks and personnel-carriers and also by helicopters and aircraft, attacked 15 Lebanese villages and penetrated deep into Lebanese areas until it reached the vicinity of the town of Tyre. After receiving reinforcements that brought number of troops to more than 1,000 men and the number of vehicles to hundreds of tanks and personnel-carriers, this force returned to continue its operations on Tuesday, 18 February 1986. It again crossed the borders of what the Israelis call the "security zone" in a northerly direction, set up road blocks, raided houses and interrogated the inhabitants after assembling them in the public squares or in hospitals, as was the case in the town of Tibnin, located in the area of operation of the Irish contingent of UNIFIL. The Israeli forces are still occupying the villages of Shaqra, Sul-taniyah, Qa'qa'iyah, Haris, Kafra and Haddatha. The helicopters and aircraft are flying in the airspace over the areas of Tyre, Marjayoun, Bint Jbayl and Nabatiyah, sometimes at a low altitude in order to terrorize the civilian population.

7 APRIL 1986

For the second time in 10 days the Israeli air force, using United States made planes, attacked civilian targets in Lebanon. Today, in six consecutive attacks lasting 45 minutes, the Israeli air force attacked the Sidon area and bombed the Palestinian refugee camps of Ein El-Helweh, Mieh-Mieh and the surrounding area. A large number of Palestinian and Lebanese civilians have been killed and wounded. Among the wounded are three little children in serious condition. There is also extensive material damage.

15 MAY 1986

On the morning of 15 May 1986, members of the settlement Ma'aleh Adumim used bulldozers to raid the waqf property of the Al-Khan al-Ahmar mosque and the adjoining buildings, claiming that the waqf authorities possessed 20 dunums of land around the mosque and had been renting out the land for decades under formal agreements.

10 SEPTEMBER 1986

On 10 September 1986, Israeli gunships (helicopters) escorted by F15s and F16s and naval destroyers attacked Palestinian refugee camps in south Lebanon. Massive barrages of rockets were fired on the refugee camps, and in particular on El-Mieh Mieh. The inhuman and barbaric attack resulted in three dead and several wounded. Most of the casualties were babies, children and the elderly. Material damage to the camps is extensive.

25 SEPTEMBER 1986

Israeli war-planes bombed the Baalbek area in the Bekaa Valley on Thursday, 25 September 1986. On the same day a number of Israeli war-planes had raided the south-eastern suburbs of the city of Sidon and fired three air-to-ground missiles which resulted in the death of one person and injury to two others, according to information provided to date. The Israeli Air Force continued to fly over the city of Sidon, the Mieh Mieh and Ein el-Hilweh camps and other neighbouring areas for some hours after the air raid.

16 OCTOBER 1986

On 16 October, 1986, between 9.20 and 11.20 a.m. New York time, Israeli jets bombed the Palestinian refugee camps of Mieh Mieh, Ein El-Helweh and Al-Fawwar, which resulted in heavy casualties among the Palestinian refugees in those camp. Eighteen Israeli F-15s and F-16s carried out five sorties against those Palestinian refugee camps.

16 OCTOBER 1986

Beginning at 3.45 p.m. on Thursday, 16 October 1986 (Lebanese time) Israeli fighter aircraft bombed the town of Sidon and the neighbouring area in southern Lebanon on four successive occasions. The Israeli Navy participated in the raid, its units patrolling the Lebanese coast. During the operations Israeli troops were landed in Lebanese territory, while helicopters fired at random on the area.

1986

19 OCTOBER 1986

On 19 October 1986, Khalil Yusef Ba'lousheh, 50 years old, from the occupied Palestinian Gaza Strip, was savagely stabbed in the back with a butcher knife by an Israeli attacker. Ba'lousheh, a daily sanitation worker in Ashdod, had bent down to pick up garbage when the knife was plunged into his back. The knife lodged one centimetre from his spine, injuring a lung. The Israeli press reported that Israeli onlookers stood idle while Ba'lousheh lay in the street bleeding profusely and as his attacker ran away. To date no arrests have been made.

A second attack on two unidentified Palestinian day workers, also from the occupied Palestinian Gaza Strip, took place on 20 October 1986. Three Israelis posing as police officers stopped, searched, beat and kicked the two Palestinians, then chased after them with a knife. The police arrived while the Israelis were chasing the two Palestinian day workers. The Jerusalem Post reported the next day that one of the Israeli attackers was held only for a short time.

25 OCTOBER 1986

At noon on 25 October 1986, a gang of approximately 30 Zionist settlers stormed the yard of the Palestinian high school in the Wad neighbourhood in Jerusalem's Old City, claiming that Palestinian students had thrown stones at them. Furious at being prevented from entering the school buildings by teachers and guards, the settlers viciously attacked the teachers. The settlers were later dispersed by police; no arrests or charges were made. Ironically, the following day, the police summoned the school principal Abd al-Muhsin Jaber and informed him that he was being taken to court for allowing his students to "attack pedestrians".

3 NOVEMBER 1986

During the evening of 3 November 1986, 50 heavily armed Israeli soldiers broke into the home of Dr. Gabi Baramky, Vice-President of Bir Zeit University. He was forceably dragged from his home and taken to the University campus where the soldiers carried out a search and seizure campaign. School books, magazines and newspapers, as well as press releases issued by the Student Council pertaining to upcoming student activities commemorating the International day of Solidarity with the Palestinian People, were confiscated in a blatant show of Israeli censorship. The soldiers then attacked the student residences and arrested scores of Palestinian students whose whereabouts are still unknown.

At the same time as the attack on Bir Zeit University campus and students, Israeli soldiers were attacking the student residences of Bethlehem University. Thirty students were arrested and taken to Al-Fara'a prison. The home of Nimr Farid Aiwneh, President of the Student Council, was broken into by Israeli soldiers who, before arresting him, ransacked and smashed his belongings. This attack on students from Bethlehem University comes in the wake of an order last week by the military commander of the area, Yahoda Brak, that the University be closed for a week after students held a memorial service commemorating the cold-blooded massacre of 47 Palestinian villagers from Kafr Kassem by Israeli soldiers in 1956.

1986

4 DECEMBER 1986

Military forces of the occupying Power, Israel, opened fire this morning, 4 December 1986, on students from Bir Zeit University. Three students were shot dead, one is critically wounded and 15 others have been transferred to hospitals in Ramallah and Jerusalem for treatment. Several of the wounded have been kidnapped from their hospital beds by Israeli troops and taken to unknown destinations.

Five hundred Israeli troops are roaming the streets of Ramallah and Bir Zeit, both towns having been declared military zones and out of bounds to the press, both local and international. Israeli troops continued their siege of Bir Zeit University, where some 200 students are under siege.

4 JANUARY 1987

On Sunday, 4 January 1987, Israeli combat helicopters bombed two villages, Kabrikha and Khirbet-Salum, in southern Lebanon and to the north of the sector called the "security zone," which Israel is continuing to occupy and from which it refuses to withdraw, thus violating the relevant Security Council resolutions. The bombing caused dozens of civilian casualties, destroyed buildings and wiped out crops.

9 JANUARY 1987

On Friday, 9 January 1987, at 9.30 a.m., four Israeli warplanes bombed the district of Darb es Sim and the heights of Jabal el Halib in the outskirts of the township of Maqhdoushe, while four more warplanes flew over the area. The bombing caused material and human losses in addition to frightening the unfortunate inhabitants, mostly elderly people, women and children.

11 JANUARY 1987

On Sunday, 11 January 1987, at 8.40 p.m., the Israeli army used tanks to bombard the township and outskirts of Baraasheet, some dozen kilometres north of what is referred to as the "security zone," occupied by Israel in southern Lebanon. The shelling caused material and human losses, and one projectile struck the headquarters of the Irish contingent of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon. One member of that contingent, Sergeant Dermot MacLaghlin (age 33), was killed. He is the second Irish soldier to be killed in two months by the Israeli army and its hirelings, notably the so-called "South Lebanese Army."

1987

12 January 1987

On Monday, 12 January 1987, at 1.15 p.m., the Israel Air Force bombed the south-eastern suburbs of Sidon, causing considerable damage to a large number of buildings, including one school, and affecting many civilians.

1987

7-8 APRIL 1987

On 7 and 8 April 1987, the Israeli Air Force flew low over the city of Sidon and its outskirts, spreading fear and terror among the civilian population. Four previous Israeli air raids against southern Lebanon had taken place since the beginning of 1987, on 9 and 12 January and 20 and 23 March, killing 10 civilians and wounding 17 others.

1987

On 13 April, Israeli warships intercepted a commercial cargo vessel sailing under the Panamanian flag off the port of Sidon and carried out an inspection of the vessel. They then prevented it from entering the port and warned it against making a further attempt to return there.

Also on 13 April, the Israeli Army began to lay a 22-kilometre road inside Lebanese territory along the edge of the eastern sector of the so-called "security zone," with a view to isolating the inhabitants of the neighboring villages from their agricultural land adjacent to the zone.

14-15 APRIL 1987

On 14 and 15 April, Israeli warships intercepted four commercial vessels bound for the port of Sidon. After inspection of the vessels and close questioning of their crews, particularly Arab crew members, they were prevented from proceeding to the port. The naval blockade of the Sidon harbour has, thus, now entered its second week, causing basic foodstuffs to disappear from the markets. On 15 April, three Israeli Air Force formations flew together over the capital (Beirut), the city of Sidon and its outskirts, the mountains and the Bekaa Valley, breaking the sound barrier over Beirut.

1987

18 APRIL 1987

On 18 April, Israeli military helicopters bombarded the Rashidieh camp on the outskirts of the city of Tyre, aiming at a one-storey building.

1987

19 APRIL 1987

On 19 April, the Israeli forces bombarded the town of Zillaya in the western Bekaa with heavy artillery and automatic weapons and also bombarded 14 villages in the south, injuring a number of people and causing serious material damage.

1987

21 APRIL 1987

Four civilians were killed or injured as a result of bombardment of the two villages of Yatar and Kafra by the so-called "South Lebanon Army." The person who died was an old man and the injured consisted of another old man, two women and a four-month-old child.

22 APRIL 1987

On 22 April, the so-called "South Lebanon Army" shelled the two villages of Jarjough and Arab Salim in the central sector, destroying 12 houses. The Israeli Air Force flew over the city of Sidon while an Israeli vessel continued to prevent ships from entering the city's port.

1987

On 23 April, the Israeli Air Force flew over the south, particularly over the cities of Sidon and Tyre and their outskirts. It carried out three mock raids between 10 a.m. and 10.45 a.m. (Lebanese time). Four military helicopters then bombarded the outskirts of Sidon, aiming at two inhabited buildings. The same aircraft had carried out a similar raid on the night of 22/23 April.

On 23 April, Israeli aircraft dropped pamphlets with a message of warning from General Yossi Peled, Commanding Officer of the Northern Front, addressed to residents of Nabatiye and Tyre. Meanwhile, Israeli naval units continued their blockade of the Sidon harbour and the Israeli Air Force made further sorties over southern Lebanon.

On the night of 23 April, the Israeli Air Force carried out criminal raids against the outskirts of the city of Sidon, the Ein El Hilweh and Mieh Mieh camps, Jebel El Halib and Darb Es Seim. More than 30 bombs and rockets were fired during the raids, resulting in injuries to a number of civilians and serious material damage to property.

24 APRIL 1987

On 24 April, the Israeli Army and the so-called "South Lebanon Army" bombarded the outskirts of the villages of Yatar, Kafra and Sribbine, where 24 mortar shells were registered as having fallen. Three artillery projectiles from tanks were also recorded as having fallen near the village of Braachit. Projectiles from heavy automatic weapons struck the positions of the Nepales unit in the village of Yatar.

The Israeli Navy also maintained its blockade of the Tyre and Sidon harbours, while artillery bombardment of villages in the south continued for a full 24 hours.

Military and civilian officials persisted in their warnings and threats, particularly former Defence Minister Ariel Sharon and General Rafael Eitan, who referred on 24 April to the need to expand the area of the "security zone" in order to guarantee the security of Israel's northern border.

6 MAY 1987

The Israeli Air Force renewed its bombing of the south-eastern suburbs of the city of Sidon at dawn on Wednesday, 6 May 1987, aiming at a number of peaceful Lebanese villages in the area and Palestinian camps, particularly the Ein El Hilweh camp located south of the city's port. According to the latest information, the bombing killed 15 people and wounded 30 others, all the victims being civilians.

Israeli naval units also stepped up their blockade of the ports of Tyre and Sidon and continued their acts of sea piracy against commercial vessels inside Lebanese territorial waters with a view to preventing them from entering the two harbours. Reports indicate that Israel is taking steps to make the port at Ras Naqoura, on the border between Lebanon and Israel, into a naval base as an alternative to the port of Haifa.

1987

28 MAY 1987

At noon on 28 May 1987, Israeli warplanes intercepted a Lebanese training and reconnaissance plane which was assisting a yacht in Lebanese territorial waters. After warning shots had been fired, the Lebanese plane, a Fouga Magister, was forced to land in Israel, where the two members of the Lebanese crew, Colonel Khalil Matr and Captain Samir Ma'luni, were interrogated continuously for four hours, after which they and the plane were released.

31 MAY 1987

On 31 May 1987 an Israeli armoured force penetrated deep into Lebanese territory, reaching the town of Jezzine, some 10 miles north of the so-called "security zone," where it took up quarters. In addition, Israeli artillery and the South Lebanon Army bombarded the town of Nabatiya and its outskirts. As a result of this attack, an as yet undetermined number of people, including one small child, were killed or wounded, and extensive damage was done to property.

1987

In the morning, military helicopters conducted a raid against the village of Kabrikha north of the so-called "security zone," firing five air-to-ground missiles at it, which resulted in the wounding of a number of the inhabitants and damage to property.

In the afternoon, Israeli Air Force planes conducted a raid against the eastern outskirts of the city of Sidon and the Ein El Hilweh camp, causing the death of one person and the wounding of six others, including a man in his seventies. This was in addition to losses of buildings and property.

Israeli Army artillery shelled a number of villages located along the edge of the so-called "security zone" which Israel is occupying inside Lebanese territory. An adolescent girl in the village of Kafr Roummane and a woman in the village of Habbouche were killed.

A force from the so-called "South Lebanon Army" advanced hundreds of metres from inside the "security zone" in the direction of the village of Kafra, which is located within the area of operation of the Nepalese unit. Before its withdrawal, it fired 15 missiles from its tanks at a deserted house on the road between Kafra and Haris and demolished it.

In the evening of the same day (11.30 local time), an Israeli force composed of hundreds of elements and with tank support penetrated six kilometres to the north of the so-called "security zone" and began combing a number of villages and farms.

1987

26-27 JULY 1987

During the night of 26-27 July last, an Israeli commando force consisting of some 40 men came ashore on the Lebanese coast south of Sarda, 40 kilometers north of the Israeli border. Using fast boats and helicopters, they attacked with missiles and machine-guns, leaving seven dead and four wounded — all Lebanese — before withdrawing under cover of intense bombardment from the sea and from the air.

1987

9-10 AUGUST 1987

On Sunday, 9 August, the Israeli Air Force carried out an attack on the village of Soutlaniye, which resulted in casualties among the population and large-scale losses of property.

During the night of Sunday, 9 August/Monday, 10 August, areas to the east of Sidon were subjected to mortar shelling by the so-called "South Lebanon Army." The shelling lasted a number of hours.

10 AUGUST 1987

On Monday, 10 August, four Israeli Cobra helicopters bombarded the village of Qa'qa'iyat Al Jisr and the course of the Litani river from 4.50 p.m. until 6.15 p.m. They used heavy machine-guns and air-to-ground missiles, one of which hit a civilian Mercedes, killing one citizen and wounding two others. The Israeli leadership justified this crime by claiming that the car was "suspect." Israeli artillery participated by spraying hills, valleys and fields with incendiary bombs, which ignited fires in farmland and olive orchards in the area.

5 SEPTEMBER 1987

At 10.26 a.m. on Saturday, 5 September 1987, the Israeli Air Force carried out three air attacks on Ein El Hilweh Palestinian refugee camp, which resulted in massive human carnage. The air attacks, carried out at 20-minute intervals, were directed at the refugee camp and surrounding area, but primarily concentrated on the northern and southern camp perimeters. Casualty figures at this time are 49 civilians, including women and children killed, and over 100 injured. Scores of civilians are missing buried under the rubble. The timing and style of the attack was for inflicting the largest number of casualties — a premeditated massacre of Palestinian refugees.

6 SEPTEMBER 1987

On 6 September 1987, Israeli naval units consisting of one destroyer and six gunboats bombarded Rashidieh Palestinian refugee camp, resulting in several civilian casualties.

1987

10 OCTOBER 1987

On 10 October 1987, a squadron of four Israeli fighters staged an air raid on Yanta and its surrounding area (Bekaa region), located approximately 40 kilometers from the Lebanese-Israeli border, firing over 20 rockets, which, according to a provisional count, caused many casualties and major material damage.

1987

15 DECEMBER 1987

An Israeli helicopter bombarded a Lebanese Army position at Ain et Tine (western Bekaa) and made direct hits on it resulting in the destruction of an armoured vehicle and the wounding of one of the soldiers.

An Israeli force, supported by tanks and helicopters, advanced from within the so-called "security zone" towards the town of Maidoun, which lies at a distance of 21 kilometers from the Israeli frontier and, under heavy artillery cover, aimed at the town and its surroundings. This operation, which took four hours, resulted in a total of 25 killed or wounded.

Following the completion of the above-mentioned operation, the Israeli forces proceeded to occupy what was for them a new position outside the so-called "security zone" and approximately 2 kilometres to the north of the last position of the Israeli forces.

The villages of Yatar, Braachit and Kafra were exposed to shelling, which caused material losses of houses and agricultural crops.

21 DECEMBER 1987

On Monday, 21 December, towards afternoon, the region located between the Qaaqaiet El Jisr valley and Habbouche was subjected to bombardment supported by artillery fire aimed mainly at the village of Arabsalim. This caused the death of 7 people and wounded 25 others, including civil defence elements. Two vehicles belonging to the Lebanese Red Cross were also completely burned.

On the morning of Monday, 21 December, the villages of Jebaa and Arabsalim and the area surrounding Ain Kana were subjected to bombardment, coming from the so-called "security zone" and supported by simulated aerial attacks carried out by the Israeli air force, which resulted in considerable material losses.

9 AUGUST 1988

On Tuesday, 9 August 1988, between 9.55 a.m. and 11.55 a.m. local time, six combat aircraft made 12 strikes during which they fired 30 missiles and high-explosive rockets. In the course of this criminal attack, two persons were killed outright, seven others were wounded and buildings were completely destroyed.

16 SEPTEMBER 1988

At 1730 hours local time on 16 September last, an Israeli force of an estimated 200 troops supported by 30 tanks and one armoured personnel carrier penetrated beyond the so-called "security zone" after having removed the earth embankment on the main Mimis-Hasibiya road. The attack was divided into two axes, the first in the direction of Mimis and the second in the direction of Ayn Ata. The attack had been preceded by a preparatory heavy artillery bombardment from within the so-called "security zone" aimed against Mimis, Kafir and Ayn Ata, where a number of inhabitants were wounded and a number of houses destroyed as a result of the bombardment. The aggressor forces then entered the villages of Mimis, Kafir and Khalwah, where they imposed a curfew and proceeded to search houses and intimidate the inhabitants before withdrawing a few hours after their incursion into the area.

21 OCTOBER 1988

On the morning of Friday, 21 October 1988, the Israeli Air Force launched a series of air raids on the outskirts of the city of Sidon, the Palestinian camps, the Iklim Al Toufah area, and the towns of Machghara and Ain Tine, both of them located deep inside Lebanese territory at a distance of 30 kilometres from Lebanon's southern borders, and bombed the villages of Lawizeh and Jabal Safi in the central zone of southern Lebanon.

At 10 a.m., a squadron of Israeli aircraft bombed residential neighborhoods in the outskirts of Sidon and in the Palestinian camps, causing damage to numerous buildings and successive violent explosions which made it impossible to carry out rescue operations, clear the wreckage and count the dead and wounded; as of the present moment, there are three known dead and about 10 wounded, including 7 doctors.

Twenty minutes after the first attack, a squadron of Israeli aircraft made up of six warplanes and two helicopters of the Cobra type carried out a concentrated attack on the towns of Machghara and Ain Tine in the Iklim Al Toufah area south of the Baqa plain. The savage and indiscriminate bombing caused the destruction of numerous homes and a clinic, whose collapse killed six persons, including three patients, two nurses and a child under the rubble. About 20 persons were wounded, and rescue workers are continuing to clear the wreckage and search for missing persons. These numbers are bound to increase after completion of the search operations, which are still continuing some seven hours after the attack, in view of the great quantity of wreckage and the shortage of equipment necessary to clear it away. Voices and cries for help from those buried beneath the wreckage can still be heard at the present moment.

24 OCTOBER 1988

On Monday, 24 October 1988, at 0130 hours (local Lebanese time), the Israeli air force again attacked Lebanese territory from the air. Two Phantom aircraft bombed the outskirts of the village of Beit Lahia, situated on the banks of the Bekaa, at a distance of 15 kilometers from the area occupied by Israel and described as a "security zone" by it, and fired four air-to-ground missiles. At the time of writing of this letter, it is impossible to assess the damage and human losses inflicted by the attack.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

PLUNDER AND USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN THE WEST BANK AND GAZA STRIP 1967-1989

After the occupation of 80% of Palestine in 1948-49 and the expulsion of 90% of the population of the occupied areas, the Zionists plundered and usurped more than 90% of the lands of Palestinians in the areas they occupied. Jews did not own more than 5.6% of the lands of Palestine in 1948.

The Zionists were not satisfied with occupying 80% of Palestine. They started planning for the occupation of the remaining 20%, namely the West Bank and Gaza. Moshe Shertok (later changed his name to Sharett), who was Foreign Minister and later Prime Minister, stated in his diaries that the Zionist military establishment was planning to occupy the rest of Palestine. In her book, Israel's Sacred Terrorism, Livia Rokach translated and commented on extracts from Sharett's diaries in order to expose Israeli plans for military aggression:

"On October 19, 1953, a cabinet meeting was convened where: Ben Gurion spoke for two and a half hours on the army's preparations for the second round...(He) presented detailed figures on the growth of the military force of the Arab countries which (he said) will reach its peak in 1956." (19 October 1953, 54). It was not a prophecy. This meant that Israel would wage war within that date. Sharett added: "As I listened...I was thinking...that we should proceed against the danger with non-military means: propose daring and concrete solutions for the Refugee problem through the payment of compensations, improve our relations with the powers, search ceaselessly for an understanding with Egypt." This was certainly not what the Israeli security establishment was driving at. On October 26, 1953, a group of American Zionist leaders was lectured to, in Israel, by Colonel Matti Peled. The conclusions from that presentation, Sharett noted, were "implicitly clear:

"One, that the army considers the present border with Jordan as absolutely unacceptable. Two, that the army is planning war in order to occupy the rest of Western Eretz Israel (i.e. the West Bank and Gaza)." (26 October, 1953, 81).<sup>1</sup>

Israel also wanted to make war on Egypt and occupy the Gaza Strip and to make war on Syria and occupy the Golan Heights. According to Rokach:

War with Egypt was to remain a major ambition of Israel's security establishment, but the time was not yet ripe. On February 25, Ben Gurion, himself, put the brakes on his collaborators' impatience when he rejected Lavon's proposal "to go ahead immediately with the plan for the separation of the Gaza Strip from Egypt." The Old Man was determined to stick to his timetable. Now, Sharett noted later, "Ben Gurion suggested to concentrate on action against Syria." (27 February, 1954, 377)<sup>2</sup>

Israel, together with Britain and France, waged the 1956 war of aggression against Egypt, occupying the Gaza Strip and Sinai and committing war crimes and crimes against humanity against the Palestinians and Egyptians. The condemnation of the General Assembly of the United Nations and the influence exerted by the United States and the Soviet Union compelled the three aggressors to withdraw from Egypt and forced Israel to withdraw its forces to the 1949 Armistice Lines. This was only a temporary setback for Zionist objectives. During the following ten years, Israel was constantly planning and waiting for the opportune moment to attack Egypt, Jordan and Syria in order to occupy Sinai, the Gaza Strip, the West Bank and the southern part of Syria. This objective was fulfilled in June, 1967, in which Israel attacked Egypt, Jordan and Syria and occupied these areas. This time the United Nations was unable to compel Israel to withdraw from the occupied areas because of the connivance of the United States, which sabotaged all United Nations efforts to bring about a withdrawal. Israel remained in occupation of Sinai until Egypt entered into the Camp David agreements, but it is still, to this day, in occupation of the West Bank, the Gaza Strip, and the Syrian Golan Heights.

THE PLAN TO SETTLE AND ANNEX THE OCCUPIED AREAS

Israel had a well-calculated plan to settle and annex the occupied territories. This is evidenced by the following facts:<sup>3</sup>

- (a) The existence, in the government of Israel, of a Ministerial Committee for Settlement of the Territories;
- (b) Express pronouncements to this effect by Israeli Ministers and leaders;
- (c) A memorandum presented on 8 July, 1971 to the Special Committee by Mr. Rouhi El-Khatib, Mayor of Jerusalem at the time of the June 1967 hostilities, the facts of which are confirmed by other evidence;
- (d) Uncontradicted reports, appearing in the information media, of the planned establishment of Israeli settlements in the occupied territories;
- (e) The absence of any serious attempt at repatriation of the refugees to their homes in the occupied territories;
- (f) The mass expulsion and continued deportation of individuals from the occupied territories;
- (g) the continued transfer of the population of the occupied territories to other areas within the occupied territories.<sup>3</sup>

Housing Minister Ze'ev Sharef on a television broadcast of 18 February, 1971, was reported to have said:

The Government of Israel would not bow to international pressure to halt the building of housing developments across the cease-fire line in Jerusalem. In the same report the Minister is reported as saying that these housing developments are taking place on expropriated lands.<sup>4</sup>

The former Minister of Transport and Chairman of the Herut Executive, Ezer Weizman, in a television interview, stated:

The Jordan River would make the best eastern border for Israel; Judea and Samaria (the West Bank) must remain under Israeli control; and whoever controls northern Sinai...controls the security of Israel."<sup>5</sup>

Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon "called for urban, rather than agricultural settlements within the administered areas (since)...urban settlements would bring more people to the areas than would farming communities."<sup>6</sup>

Defence Minister Moshe Dayan stated: "After a peace arrangement, we will also remain in most of the areas...the Golan Heights, and the West Bank." Mr. Dayan called for Israelis to "devote their best efforts to these areas."<sup>7</sup>

Mrs. Golda Meir, stated in October, 1971: "Our borders are fixed by the people who live along them. If we retreat, the borders will retreat with us. The danger is then that somebody else will fix the boundaries for us."<sup>8</sup>

President of Israel Salman Shazar, speaking at the opening ceremony of the twentieth anniversary celebrations of the Jewish National Fund on 12 January, 1971, stated: "The Jewish National Fund's work in preparing land in the Golan Heights for settlement strengthens our firm determination that the Golan remain in Israeli territory."<sup>9</sup>

Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon stated in the Knesset on 2 December, 1970, in the course of a debate on a motion on "the establishment of Jewish suburbs in cities" in the occupied territories, that he was in opposition to the establishment of such suburbs because of political and other reasons. Mr. Allon is reported as stating that the Government of Israel pursued a "realistic policy based on Middle East and international political possibilities." He is also reported as stating that the Government had already decided on the establishment of a further four Nahal settlements and of a semi-urban settlement; on the sequestration of 11,400 dunums of land of East Jerusalem and southwards for the setting up of residential areas for both Jews and Arabs; as well as development of a Jewish Quarter at Hebron. In the course of the debate reference was also made to what are referred to as "Basic Principles," as endorsed by the Labour Party, National Religious Party and Gahal. According to Mr. Begin, who was presenting the motion which was the subject of this discussion, these "Basic Principles" called for the "acceleration of permanent settlement, rural and urban, on the soil of the Homeland." The same report cites the Deputy Prime Minister, Mr. Allon, as stating with reference to Mr. Begin's remarks on the historical rights to the Land of Israel that this was the moral basis for the renaissance of the Jewish

State, but "historiographical or theological absolutes cannot replace policy. The future map of Israel, in the framework of a peace treaty, was to be founded on historical rights as the moral basis, defensible borders as a security basis, a Jewish and Democratic State as national and social basis."

Mr. Begin, presenting his motion, said experience had proved there was no reason why Jew and Arab could not live, work, trade and send their children to school together. It would be good for peace, security and understanding between the people, he said. No people in history had suffered as much as Israel on behalf of its land. He said a recent "nonsensical" decision of the United Nations General Assembly made out as though Israel were depriving someone (Palestine Arabs) of self-determination. Israel's rights were solely over this Land, while the Arabs had fourteen sovereign States. "We liberated the Land of Israel, and there is no reason why Jews should not live in Jericho, Hebron, Bethlehem, Shechem, Tulkarm and Ramallah."<sup>10</sup>

JERUSALEM: THE FIRST VICTIM OF ANNEXATION AND SETTLEMENT

Jerusalem was the first victim of Israeli annexation and settlement. During the first week of occupation in June, 1967, Israeli bulldozers started demolishing Arab homes, buildings and institutions in Old Jerusalem. The Israelis demolished in four different quarters of Jerusalem 1,215 houses, 427 shops, 5 mosques, 3 monasteries and 4 schools, i.e. a total of 1,654 buildings. 7,400 Palestinian Christian and Muslim Arabs were expelled from the city. The Knesset adopted an illegal decision on June 28, 1967 annexing the Old City of Jerusalem.

The General Assembly and the Security Council passed several resolutions declaring that the annexation of Jerusalem was invalid and called upon Israel "to rescind all measures already taken and to desist forthwith from taking any action which would alter the status of Jerusalem." They are General Assembly Resolution 2253 ES-V of July 4, 1967, General Assembly Resolution 2254 ES-V of July 14, 1967 and Security Council Resolution 298 of September 25, 1971, the texts of which are as follows:

2253 (ES-V) Measures taken by Israel to change the status of the City of Jerusalem

The General Assembly,

Deeply concerned at the situation prevailing in Jerusalem as a result of the measures taken by Israel to change the status of the City,

1. Considers that these measures are invalid;
2. Calls upon Israel to rescind all measures already taken and to desist forthwith from taking any action which would alter the status of Jerusalem;
3. Requests the Secretary-General to report to the General Assembly and the Security Council on the situation and on the implementation of the present resolution not later than one week from its adoption.

1548th plenary meeting, 4th July, 1967.

2254 Measures taken by Israel to change the status of the City of Jerusalem

The General Assembly,
Recalling its resolution 2253 (ES-V) of 4 July, 1967,
Having received the report submitted by the Secretary-General,

Taking note with the deepest regret and concern of the noncompliance by Israel with resolution 2253 (ES-V),

1. Deplores the failure of Israel to implement General Assembly resolution 2253 (ES-V);

2. Reiterates its call to Israel in that resolution to rescind all measures already taken and to desist forthwith from taking any action which would alter the status of Jerusalem;

3. Requests the Secretary-General to report to the Security Council and the General Assembly on the situation and on the implementation of the present resolution.

1554th plenary meeting, 14th July, 1967.

Resolution 298 (1971) of 25 September 1971

The Security Council,

Recalling its resolution 252 (1968) of 21 May, 1968, and 267 (1969) of 3 July, 1969, and the earlier General Assembly resolutions 2253 (ES-V) and 2254 (ES-V) of 4 and 14 July, 1967, concerning measures and actions by Israel designed to change the status of the Israeli-occupied section of Jerusalem,

Having considered the letter of the Permanent Representative of Jordan on the situation in Jerusalem and the reports of the Secretary-General, and having heard the statements of the parties concerned on the question,

Reaffirming the principle that acquisition of territory by military conquest is inadmissible,

Noting with concern the non-compliance by Israel with the above-mentioned resolutions,

Noting with concern also that since the adoption of the above-mentioned resolutions Israel has taken further measures designed to change the status and character of the occupied section of Jerusalem.

1. Reaffirms its resolutions 252 (1968) and 267 (1969);

2. Deplores the failure of Israel to respect the previous resolutions adopted by the United Nations concerning measures and actions by Israel purporting to affect the status of the City of Jerusalem;

3. Confirms in the clearest possible terms that all legislative and administrative actions taken by Israel to change the status of the City of Jerusalem, including expropriation of land and properties, transfer of populations and legislation aimed at the incorporation of the occupied section, are totally invalid and cannot change that status;

4. Urgently calls upon Israel to rescind all previous measures and actions and to take no further steps in the occupied section of Jerusalem which may purport to change the status of the City or which would prejudice the rights of the inhabitants and the interests of the international community, or a just and lasting peace;

5. Requests the Secretary-General, in consultation with the President of the Security Council and using such instrumentalities as he may choose, including a representative or a mission, to report to the Council as appropriate and in any event within sixty days on the implementation of the present resolution.

Adopted at the 1582nd meeting by 14 votes to none, with 1
abstention (Syrian Arab Republic).

By its resolution No. 446 of March 22, 1979, the Security Council established a Commission "to examine the situation relating to settlements in the Arab territories occupied since 1967 including Jerusalem. The said Commission investigated the situation and submitted its report to the Council, Document S/13450 and Add. 1 of July 12, 1979.

The Commission stated:

The situation in Jerusalem was described more extensively by four witnesses (Nos. 15, 16, 18 and 21). One of them
(No. 21) recalled that the Knesset had adopted on 28 June, 1967, a decision of "annexation" on the basis of which the following measures were taken:

1. Abrogation of the Arab Municipal Council of Jerusalem;

2. Elimination of certain municipal services and amalgamation of others with their Israeli counterparts;

3. Application of all Israeli laws to Arab citizens;

4. Closure of the Education Department and transfer of all Arab public schools to the authority of Israel's Ministry of Education, this leading to the use of Israeli curricula including the reading in primary schools of a book entitled I am an Israeli;

5. Issuance of Israeli identification cards to all inhabitants;

6. Non-recognition of Jerusalem Islamic Courts;

7. Obligation for professional individuals to register their names with Israeli professional associations;

8. Closure of Arab banks and exclusive use of Israeli currency;

9. Physical transfer to Arab Jerusalem of a number of Israeli ministries and departments.

As to the methods used by Israel to Judaize the Arab sector, the same witness (No. 21) said that, immediately after the 1967 war, Israel resorted to the demolition, in four different quarters of Jerusalem, of 1,215 houses, 427 shops, 5 mosques, 3 monasteries and 4 schools, i.e., a total of 1,654 buildings. As a result, the witness said, 7,400 inhabitants were forced to leave (another witness, No. 15, referred to "more than 5,000" people). Then a "Jewish Quarter" was established, which as of today contains 320 housing units built on 116 dunums and inhabited by a Jewish settler population of 1,300 persons. Finally, 94,564 dunums of Arab lands situated within the limits of the municipality of Arab Jerusalem were confiscated.

Another witness (No. 15) stated that the aim of those expropriations in Jerusalem was to surround with Jewish settlers three specific areas still mainly occupied by Arabs.
Such a policy, he said, was a threat to the very presence and existence of Arabs in the city.

A number of witnesses (such as No. 18) referred to the archaeological excavations which, he said, although repeatedly condemned by UNESCO, were continuing, thus inflicting serious damages to Islamic shrines.

As to the number of settlements in Jerusalem, a witness
(No. 21) indicated that nine of them had been built within the boundaries of Arab Jerusalem and 10 more within the framework of so-called greater Jerusalem. The same witness concluded his statement, saying that through the policy of settlements Israel's aim was to seize the land and gradually expel its inhabitants. That view was also expressed in various terms by a number of other witnesses.

Some of the witnesses heard by the commission described in detail the measures taken by Israel in the Judaization of Jerusalem:<sup>11</sup>

WITNESS SHAWKI MAHMUD HAMDI

The witness said that, while the establishment of settlements in the occupied territories was initiated in mid-1968, the measures concerning Jerusalem started only a few hours after the occupation and on 28 June 1967 an annexation decision was passed by the Knesset, by which Israel attributed to itself the right of control over Arab Jerusalem to satisfy its interests only and in defiance of international law.

104. The following measures were taken:

1. Abrogation of the Arab Municipal Council and linking of Arab Jerusalem to Israeli Jerusalem;
2. Elimination of certain municipal services and amalgamation of others with the Israeli services;
3. Application of all Israeli laws to Arab citizens;
4. Closing down of the Education Department of Arab Jerusalem and putting all Arab public schools under Israel's Ministry of Education, forcing them to follow the curricula of Israeli schools, which included the reading in primary schools of a book entitled I Am an Israeli;
5. The issuing of Israeli identification cards to the inhabitants of Arab Jerusalem;
6. Non-recognition by Israel of Jerusalem Islamic Court;
7. Obligation for Arab professional individuals to register their names with Israeli professional associations if they wanted to practice their professions;
8. The closing of Arab banks and the imposition of the exclusive use of Israeli currency;
9. The transfer to Arab Jerusalem of a number of Israeli ministries and departments.

As to the methods used by Israel to colonise the Arab sector of Jerusalem, they included the following:

First, Israel resorted immediately after June 1967 to the demolition of 1,654 buildings in four different quarters, including 427 shops, 1,215 houses, 5 mosques, 3 monasteries and 4 schools. As a result, 7,400 inhabitants of Arab Jerusalem were forced to leave. Israel then established a "Jewish quarter" which as of today contains 320 housing units on 116 dunums, with a settler population of 1,300.

Second, the Israeli authorities resorted to the confiscation of Arab lands situated within the municipality of Arab Jerusalem, totalling 94,564 dunums. That was carried out by various methods including the application of Israeli laws issued before 1967. Among these laws were:

1. The "absentee property" law, adopted by the Knesset on 14 March 1950, which replaced the emergency decrees concerning absentee property issued on 19 December 1948. Under that law, the citizens of Arab Jerusalem were regarded as absentees whether their property was in eastern or western Jerusalem;

2. The law of acquisition of land for the public interest in 1943 under the Mandate Government. Under this law, the Israelis expropriated land and buildings by claiming that they were to be used for the public interest and established on them settlements for Jewish emigrants. An example was an area of 11,860 dunums expropriated under a decision of the Ministry of Finance issued on 30 December 1970 and published in the Official Journal on 30 August 1970;

3. Defence and emergency decrees of 1945, issued under the British Mandate and still in force today. Under these decrees, the Military Governor could issue instructions to deport people from Palestine and expropriate property. Under the British mandate the Jews themselves were opposed to these decrees, including a lawyer named Jacob Shapiro, who had said that these decrees "did not exist even in Nazi Germany." But after the creation of the State of Israel, things were reversed and the decrees continued to be implemented, even by Mr. Shapiro, when he became Minister of Justice in 1966. Under these decrees four Arab quarters were destroyed in old Jerusalem and 7,400 of its inhabitants expelled. These decrees also give the right to the Military Governor to declare any area closed for security purposes. In that way very large areas of Arab lands were closed and included in the plan for Greater Jerusalem, including 70,000 dunums in the Beit Sahur area, 100,000 dunums in the Assabkia area, and 1,194 dunums in the village of Anata;

Turning to the question of settlements in Jerusalem, the witness indicated that nine of them had been built within the boundaries of Arab Jerusalem. One, the so-called Jewish quarter, was built within the old city and the other eight, although outside the walls, were still within the boundaries of the Arab municipality.

He further indicated that 10 settlements were built within the framework of so-called Greater Jerusalem. Before the 1967 war, Arab Jerusalem had an area of 13 square kms. Since then the area has been increased to 67 square kms and the project for Greater Jerusalem called for an area of 55 square kms.

The establishment of settlements in Jerusalem was accompanied by repeated violations of the sacred places, both Christian and Moslem, and of the historical and cultural heritage of the Old City.

As to the impact of the settlements on the economic, financial and cultural life of the Arab population, the witness said that before 1967, Jerusalem had been the spiritual capital of Jordan and the financial and commercial center of the West Bank. After the occupation, the Arab population, which was 96,000 in 1966, decreased to 78,000 in 1978 despite the fact that the birth-rate was between 3 and 3.5 per cent. This shows the efficiency of the deportation measures to which the Arab inhabitants are subjected. The fact that all economic activities in Arab Jerusalem had fallen under the control of Israeli laws and regulations, including taxation laws, had had a negative effect. Arab companies are now placed in a position of unfair competition, especially in such important services as transportation and tourism. Meanwhile, on the social level, the Jewish inhabitants of the new quarters have introduced practices which are contrary to Arab social customs and moral behavior.

In conclusion, the witness said that the objective pursued by Israel through its policy of settlements could be summarized in one sentence: seizure of the land and gradual expulsion of its inhabitants.

Replying to questions, the witness stated that there were in fact several Israeli authorities who made the decisions regarding the establishment of new settlements and the selection of the settlers. He cited the Ministerial Committee presided over by the Minister of Agriculture, an official Committee of the Jewish Agency presided over by Professor Ra'an'an Weiz, special bodies in every political party and special organizations such as the Gush Emunim. The witness said also that since the occupation Arab judges had remained unemployed since Arab citizens had to submit their cases for trial to Israeli courts and tribunals which did not include Arab judges.

WITNESS RUHI EL-KHATIB, MAYOR OF JERUSALEM

The witness gave an account of the Israeli measures taken after the war of 1967 in the annexed city of Jerusalem as follows: (i) terrorism and intimidation (300 Arabs were killed) forced more than 5,000 residents to flee from their houses, and from property expropriated under the "absentee law"; (ii) the destruction of Arab property, which on the pretext of reorganization had the result of expelling some 1,000 more inhabitants and preparing the way for new Israeli installations; (iii) the administrative and political annexation of Jerusalem to Israel; (iv) the Judaization of the Arab economy in Jerusalem by replacing the Jordanian currency by Israeli currency, closing the Arab banks, confiscating their assets and prohibiting in Jerusalem the Arab agricultural, industrial and commercial products, thus paralyzing the Arab production and creating large unemployment among the Arab population while, at the same time, the installation of many Israeli factories inside and around Jerusalem contributed to the continuous process of colonization; (v) the taking of a census of the residents of Jerusalem on 25 June 1967 and the registration of the Arabs; these actions were aimed at depriving the absentees of their properties, which were confiscated in accordance with the Absentee Law of 1950.

After expropriating about 70 per cent of Jerusalem's land and property belonging to some 60,000 Arab inhabitants who had left Jerusalem in 1948 after the massacre in Deir Yassin, the Israeli authorities began in 1967 a new series of expropriations. In that connexion, Mr. El-Khatib referred to two of his sons who were studying abroad and relatives who being away had been prevented from coming back while their property had become part of an Israeli settlement.

The witness emphasized that all the expropriation operations were carried out under the pretext of public interest, but instead of hospitals, schools or roads, Israeli settlements had been built. He then gave a detailed account of the successive expropriation operations performed after the war of 1967 inside and outside Jerusalem, as a result of which a sharp reduction in Arab ownership had taken place. According to the figures provided by Mr. El-Khatib, before the British Mandate, Christian and Moslem Arabs properties accounted for 94 per cent and Jewish properties 4 per cent, while 2 per cent were still owned by foreigners. Between 1948 and 1966, as a result of the Israeli policy of expropriation based on the Absentee Law in the occupied part of Jerusalem, the ownership of properties had changed to 25 per cent for the Arabs, 73 per cent for the Jews and 2 per cent for the foreigners. In 1978 the figures were 14 per cent for the Christian and Moslem Arabs, 84 per cent for the Jews, while the foreigners had kept their 2 per cent.

The witness emphasized that the policy of expropriation in Jerusalem aimed mainly at surrounding with Jewish settlers, three specific areas: the Mosque of the Dome of the Rock; another area still mainly occupied by Arabs; and some Arab villages just outside Jerusalem. This, he said, constituted a threat to the very presence and existence of Arabs in the city. Although after each operation of confiscation or expropriation the Israeli occupation authorities stated that compensation would be paid to the owners of the land and that the owners should meet with the officials in order to carry out the transaction for the compensation, no Arabs had agreed to give up their rights to their land and property.

Mr. El-Khatib further stated that under the pretext of discovering Jewish historical sites the occupation authorities had started excavating under Arab quarters, thus causing the collapse of buildings, which the Arab inhabitants had to vacate, and the destruction of landmarks of historical, cultural, religious and commercial nature. Those facts were well known since in the past 11 years UNESCO had adopted 13 resolutions condemning Israel for those activities and asking it to stop such excavations. In order to organize and expand these operations, the Israeli authorities had created the Company for the Restoration and Urbanization of the Jewish District of the Old City of Jerusalem, which was entrusted with the evacuation and demolition of Arab buildings and properties within the city wall, that is the area which includes not only the Jewish Quarter, as the Israelis claim, but also four Arab quarters which were expropriated on 14 April 1968. That Company had sent evacuation notices to about 6,000 Arab inhabitants, who when they refused to leave were called before Court. In order to ensure the evacuation, the Company also resorted to such action as excavations in the streets supposedly for repairs, but which in fact caused the house concerned to collapse. They also cut the water supply and took other measures which caused hazardous health conditions for the inhabitants and compelled them to leave. As a whole, 740 families grouping 4,125 persons had been expropriated.

According to the witness, this Company and other Israeli organs were co-ordinating their actions to replace the historical remains, buildings and other property in Arab quarters with new buildings in which some 500 Jewish families were living. Mr. El-Khatib then spoke of the question of Israeli settlements in the occupied territories in general and in Jerusalem in particular. Referring to the Lebanese magazine Arab Week of 10 October 1977, he cited that between 1967 and 1977 the Israelis had established 123 settlements out of which 33 were not publicly announced because they were Nahal settlements which belonged to military organizations, with their own rules, regulations and statutes. Furthermore, he had heard on the Israeli television a statement according to which within the past five years the Government of Israel had created 36 new settlements, of which 28 were in the West Bank, 5 in the Golan Heights and 3 in the Gaza Strip. After 7 June 1967, the authorities had been building new Jewish quarters in Jerusalem on confiscated or expropriated Arab lands with a population density higher than that of any other settlement in the occupied territories. The witness cited a report in The Jerusalem Post of 8 November 1974 which under the title "On building a fortress Jerusalem" gave an account of wide-scale construction on the expropriated Arab lands.

Mr. El-Khatib also referred to a book by Mr. Mehdi

Abdal-Hedi, who had personally visited the location of every quarter and settlement built recently on the occupied territories. According to that author, the new quarters built in and around Jerusalem after 1967 includes about 15,000 apartments, inhabited by some 100,000 Israeli newcomers, and about 100 factories, employing some 5,000 workers, all of whom were living there illegally.

Mr. El-Khatib cited also some figures showing the changes in the population proportion in Jerusalem. At the end of the British Mandate in 1948, the population of Jerusalem and its surrounding villages and Israeli settlements around Jerusalem was 240,000 inhabitants, of whom 140,000 were Arabs and 100,000 Jews — which means 58.2 per cent Arabs, as against 41.8 per cent Jews. When Israel occupied and annexed the second part of Jerusalem in 1967, the total population was 279,000 inhabitants; 80,000 Arabs — Christians and Moslems — and 190,000 Jews, in other words, 30 per cent Arabs and 70 per cent Jews.

According to the Israeli newspapers, by the end of 1978 the population of Jerusalem increased to about 400,000, of whom 100,000 were Arabs and 300,000 were Jews — which means 25 per cent Arabs and 75 per cent Jews.

In response to questions the witness said that many people had been killed after the cease-fire — some in their homes, some in the streets of Jerusalem. When the curfew was lifted, Mr. El-Khatib went around the town. He himself saw the bodies in the streets and talked to the families of the victims.

ESTABLISHING SETTLEMENTS IN OTHER PARTS OF THE OCCUPIED TERRITORIES

Many uncontradicted reports appeared in the information media about the planned establishment of Israeli settlements in the occupied territories:

Examples of such reports are:

(i) The master plan for construction of housing units in occupied Jerusalem, which was made public earlier this year. This plan involves not only the construction of approximately 21,000 units inside occupied territory but also construction of these units on expropriated land of which 74 to 80 per cent belonged to Arabs. The information on the housing units was given by Housing Minister Ze'ev Sharef during a press conference which was reported in the Jerusalem Post on 5 March 1971. The information concerning the expropriated lands was contained in a report of a press conference given by Mayor Teddy Kollek reported on 29 January 1971. In this connection, the Special Committee also had occasion to view a film which is purported to have been taken recently in the area where the construction is in progress.

(ii) Announcements, such as that reported in the Jerusalem Post on 1 March 1971, that two more settlements were planned for the Golan Heights during 1972 and one more settlement was planned in Rafah.

(iii) A report published on 5 January 1971 in the Jerusalem Post, according to which the first "moshav shitufi" (settlement) in Sinai was established on 4 January 1971. The settlement was established near Rafah.

(iv) A report published on 30 December 1970 in the Jerusalem Post, according to which industrial buildings in Hebron were to be constructed in the new Jewish Quarter that was being built. The area of the construction of these industrial buildings extended to 1,500 square meters, according to the reported statement of Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir.

The Minister was further reported as stating that this was only the first phase, and that when part of these buildings had been occupied, construction of additional structures would begin, totalling 4,000 square meters.

(v) Reports, such as the one appearing in the Jerusalem Post on 30 December 1970, in which the establishment of two civilian settlements in the Jordan Valley and on the Golan Heights during 1971 was announced.

(vi) The announcement made on 3 December 1970 according to which a settlement, Kfar Darom, was re-established in the Gaza Strip. According to this report this settlement had existed prior to 1948 and it had been over-run by the Egyptian Army during the 1948 war.

(vii) A report published on 30 December 1970 according to which a settlement which had been founded by the Jewish Agencies Settlement Department near Latrun was becoming permanent.

(viii) Reports, such as that appearing in the Jerusalem Post on 15 June 1971, according to which the first permanent Jewish civilian settlement in Hebron was inaugurated. A report also states that the first 50 families will be moving into the estate in Hebron at the beginning of September 1971. At the present moment, according to the report, they are housed in temporary quarters in the grounds of military government buildings. The Special Committee was shown a film purporting to be evidence of this statement.

(ix) A report appearing in the Jerusalem Post on 17 December 1970 according to which Acting Prime Minister Yigal Allon disclosed that the Government of Israel had decided on the establishment of five more Jewish settlements in the occupied territories.<sup>12</sup>

EXPULSION OF PALESTINIANS AND ESTABLISHMENT OF SETTLEMENTS

The Security Council Commission established under Resolution 446 of 1979 visited Jordan, Syria and Egypt and heard the testimony of 42 witnesses. Israel refused to cooperate with it. Its representative in the United Nations informed the Chairman of the Commission that "his mission was not prepared to have any contact with the Commission."

The following is a summary of the testimony of witnesses about the war crimes committed by the expulsion of Palestinians and the usurpation of their lands, taken from the Report of the Commission to the Security Council (Document S/13450 and Add. 1, pages 3-38):

WITNESS NADIM S. ZARU, MAYOR OF RAMALLAH

The witness gave an account of incidents that had taken place between 5 June 1967 and 6 October 1969 when he was expelled from his home town. One month after the invasion in 1967, Israeli authorities had evacuated the inhabitants of three villages, Omwas, Beit Nouba, Yallo, in the Ramallah area in order to establish a new city to accommodate new settlers, approximately 100,000 people. The villages were then completely demolished. Six to eight thousand residents who had been displaced had not been offered alternate housing. They had even been forced, in some instances, to leave the Ramallah area and to cross the bridge to the East Bank.

In another incident, which occurred in the Jericho area five months after the occupation, the Israeli authorities cut the water, then expelled the families and confiscated the land. Most of the inhabitants had come to the Ramallah area where they received help from the municipality. But the mayor had been ordered by the Israeli military governor to stop any kind of assistance because the Israeli authorities wanted those people to leave the area. Despite petitions to the United Nations, foreign embassies and press conferences, Israel had refused to let the displaced persons return to the area. Some of the families had settled in the Ramallah area and some had gone to Amman.

The witness referred to various types of pressure used to force Palestinians to leave their homes, including the cutting off of water; repeated imprisonment of land owners and of leaders of refugee camps with the offer to release them if they would sign a paper agreeing to leave the area; refusal to allow their children to attend school, and confiscation and destruction of houses owned by Palestinians living abroad.

Mr. Zaru also cited numerous instances of confiscation of land, totalling 74,750 dunums altogether, supposedly because it had become a military zone, which had nevertheless been given to settlers. He also enumerated various areas totalling more than 32,000 dunums which had been confiscated in his area.

The witness stated further that Israel refused reunion of families in disregard of the Geneva Convention.

WITNESS NO. 2 (ANONYMOUS)

In 1967 the witness was living in the village of Deir Jareer, which comprised 33,161 dunums of land. Immediately after the 1967 war, close to 11,000 dunums of land were confiscated by Israel as a military zone. In 1975, a military camp was established on 2,000 dunums of one of the most fertile lands. The witness had personally owned six dunums there. Roads had been built and electricity and water extended to the area which was called Negmet as-Sabah. But in fact it became a settlement and many Arab inhabitants had had to leave for other towns while the occupation authorities were leasing the confiscated land to new settlers.

WITNESS NO. 4 (ANONYMOUS)

The witness concentrated on four particular aspects of the question of Israeli settlements: (i) whether the settlements were constructed on State or private land; (ii) pattern and process of land seizure; (iii) exploitation of the underground water resources of the West Bank by the Israelis for the exclusive use of the settlers; and (iv) the impact of the Israeli settlements on the Arab population.

(i) Whether the settlements are constructed on State or Private Land.

The Israelis claimed that settlements were established only on State land and that no privately owned land was seized for their establishment. Although the establishment of settlements, whether on State or private land, is illegal under article 4 of the Geneva Convention and relevant United Nations resolutions, the witness had carried out a survey of most of the lands seized after 1967 and currently under direct control of the Israeli civilian settlements, in order to verify that assertion. These land estimates did not include areas seized for military bases or fenced off for military purposes, such as the Zhor Area (that land next to the Jordan River) or large areas closed off, again for undefined security purposes, in the highlands of the West Bank overlooking the Jordan Valley.

As stated by the witness, the categories of land ownership considered as private were the following: (a) mulk land or private land where the owners have clear title deeds; (b) miri land which has been actively cultivated for generations by the farmers and registered at the Ministry of Finance for land tax purposes; (c) jiftlik or mudawwar lands which have also actively cultivated by Palestinian farmers and which, in the nineteenth century, were nominally under the title of the Ottoman Sultan and were recognized by the British and Jordanian Governments as private lands.

The categories of land included under State ownership or what are called "public domain" lands included the following: (a) mawat lands or waste land including desert, forests, and rocky cultivated mountain tops not owned by individuals; (b) lands which were the sites of British Mandate Taggart forts and Jordanian police or army camps; and (c) lands which have been designated for community purposes such as parks and hospitals.

Based on the above criteria, the witness had found that out of an estimated 125,630 dunums of cultivable land taken by the Israelis for the exclusive use of the civilian colonies, 11,816 dunums, that is 9.4 per cent, were State lands and 113,814 dunums (90.6) per cent were private lands. The witness submitted a document providing details of estimated land areas of settlements in the West Bank, West Bank Highlands and East Jerusalem.

(ii) Pattern and process of land seizure

The process by which lands under cultivation by Palestinians were seized and transferred for use by Israeli civilian colonies began with the erection by the Israeli armed forces of boundary markers or barbed wire fences which defined the area to be grabbed. The military governor then informed the leaders of the village which owned the land that for security reasons they were not allowed to enter the closed-in areas. If it happened that this closed area had crops or fruit-bearing trees, the Israelis, over the last 11 years of occupation, had systematically destroyed, bulldozed, defoliated, uprooted, and cut down such crops and trees. This planned destruction had taken place invariably in almost all the areas that included seizure of privately owned cultivated land. In fact, the destruction of Palestinian homes and crops began right after the 1967 War with the seizure of 20,000 dunums of cultivated land in the Latrun salient belonging to three villages (Beit Nuba, Yalu, and Amwas) which were completely erased. The witness noted that Israeli colonizers of the settlement of Mevo Horon, built on the ruins of Beit Nuba, were now cultivating the lands of these three villages.

Similarly, the destroyed villages of El-Ajajreh and Jiflik were replaced by the settlement of Massua; Makhrouk by Argamon; Artas by Allon Shevot; Frush Beit Dajan by Hamra; wheat fields defoliated by planes in Akraba were now cultivated by the settlement of Gitit which, furthermore, was in the process of expansion through additional confiscation; 600 plum trees were cut down on Beit Ummer land now cultivated by Migdal Oz; and in Beit Furik, the bulldozed land had passed under the control of the settlement of Mekhora.

Furthermore, it should be noted that land seizure was not a static process. As the settlement grew and more settlers were brought in, additional land in the nearby vicinity was taken in the same manner; thus, every settlement was a continuous threat to the surrounding Palestinian villages.

(iii) Exploitation of the underground water resources of the West Bank by the Israelis for the exclusive use of the settlers

The witness noted further that the Israeli colonization process in the West Bank had not been restricted to land seizures. It had also involved the exploitation of the scarce underground water resources by the Israeli authorities who had been drilling deep bore holes and installing powerful pumps in all areas of the West Bank. The pumping of this underground water had taken place mostly in the Jordan Valley in favour of the Israeli agricultural settlements, for domestic and irrigation purposes. To date, the Israelis had drilled some 20 deep boreholes (from 300 to 600 metres deep) in the Jordan Valley and were pumping an estimated 15-17 million cubic meters per year to irrigate exclusively the lands seized for the Israeli settlements. A number of these wells had been drilled in close proximity to local Arab springs contrary to Jordan laws regulating the drilling of new wells. For example: two wells in the Jericho area above Ain Sultan spring; three wells drilled on the site of Al-Auja spring; two wells drilled on the site of the Phasa'el spring; four wells drilled in the Wadi Fara' basin; and two wells drilled in the Bardala basin. Already the impact of these well-drilling practices had been felt in Jericho where the salinity content of the water, being pumped from pre-1967 Arab wells, had noticeably risen in the last two years. The outflow of the Al-Auja spring which was on average 11-million cubic metres per year was presently down to a trickle. Informed hydrologists linked this drastic reduction in the outflow of the Al-Auja spring to the three Israeli wells dug on the site of this spring. The depletion of the Al-Auja spring was presently threatening the destruction of all cultivation for the village of Al-Auja. To alleviate a disaster, the farmers of Al-Auja had asked the military authorities either to stop pumping from their new wells or to supply the Arab farms with water from Israeli wells, or to be allowed to drill for the village a new well which would complement the water supply of the spring. The Israelis had categorically rejected these requests.

Another example of the impact of these Israeli wells could be seen in the Bardala region, where two wells dug by the Israelis had completely dried up all springs and wells in the region belonging to farmers from three villages: Bardala, Ain al-Bayda, and Kardala. Recently, the Israeli military authorities had accepted the responsibility for the drying up of the Arab wells and had agreed to supply water from the Israeli wells to the villages. This outcome placed the Palestinian villagers in a position of total dependence upon the Israeli settlers for their water supply.

Not only had the Israelis been freely developing new wells and thus stealing the scarce water resources for their own exclusive use, but they had also since 1967 placed a ban on any new Arab wells for irrigation purposes. They had also restricted the amount of water the Palestinians could pump from pre-1967 existing wells by forcing water meters to be placed on these wells. In brief, the occupation forces were not only using a resource that did not belong to them, but they were also preventing the indigenous population from developing their own.

(iv) Impact of the Israeli settlements on the Arab population

The impact of the colonization process on the local Palestinian population had been devastating, the witness said. Thousands of farmers had been displaced from their lands, from their source of livelihood, their works, and their natural resources. The villages that had been most hard hit by these land seizures were those located on the eastern highlands overlooking the Jordan Valley, mainly Majdal Beni Fadal, Akrafa, Beit Furik, Beit Dajan, Tammun, and Toubas. For example, the village of Beit Dajan had lost an estimated 80 per cent of its cultivable prime land with the result that 90 per cent of its population of 2,000 inhabitants had become partially or completely landless farmers. The same had happened in the nearby village of Beit Surik where an estimated 60 per cent of its land holdings had been seized or closed off for the settlement of Mekhora and some 80 per cent of the village population of 4,000 had become partially or totally landless. As Israeli settlements were now being built everywhere on the West Bank, they were adversely affecting more and more villages. Then some of the landless farmers had to become wage labourers, sometimes in the Israeli settlements established on their own lands. Many of them had to go elsewhere.

WITNESS NO. 5 (ANONYMOUS)

The witness referred to expropriations of land, violations of human rights, sacrileges committed against religious areas, settlements established in the Hebron area and individual land seizures. In 1968 a group of people had established a settlement in the Hebron area. In 1971, Israeli military authorities had by decree closed 3,000 dunums of agricultural lands with houses on them ostensibly for security reasons. The authorities had started a building for border police and then 1,500 houses and a synagogue. Small industries had been established in the area and some 2,000 Israelis were presently living there.

Detailing the pressures exerted on the Arab population, the witness referred to a number of instances of harassments and imprisonment of adults and children and to a recent proposal to unify the municipalities of Hebron and Kiryat Arba, the new settlement, under a Jewish mayor. In 1979, the settlers of Kiryat Arba had taken an additional piece of 500 dunums of land to build 500 housing units. The people of Hebron had gone to the Israeli court to ask that that decision not be implemented. The court had decided that the decision to build houses for the purpose of establishing a settlement was illegal. Nevertheless, the establishment of the settlement had continued. The witness also gave a detailed account of sacrileges committed against various religions.

With regard to individual seizures of land and buildings, the witness cited among others an instance in which the settlers in Hebron, using as an excuse an old synagogue, which had been in ruins for 500 years, had destroyed a building belonging to the municipality of Hebron. He noted that letters and cables to newspapers from the people of Hebron were censored by the military authorities and that, meanwhile, Israeli settlers continued to survey other areas for new settlements in Hebron, as elsewhere.

WITNESS NO. 6 (ANONYMOUS)

The witness said that his statement would relate to the village of Amwas where he lived for 30 years.

This village is located 25 kms west of Jerusalem. Before the events of 5 June 1967 the village had 800 houses, with 3,500 inhabitants, two mosques, one Carmelite convent under the protection of the French government, and two schools. It was equipped with two wells for drinking water and an installation providing running water for 280 homes. Amwas is an agricultural area with olive trees and fruit trees.

That village was destroyed in 1967, without any military justification. The Arab Legion had withdrawn from the area two hours before the arrival of the Israeli troops; none of the inhabitants had any weapons and therefore there was no military or armed resistance. Nevertheless, on 6, 7 and 8 June 1967, after the occupation by the Israeli Army, one third of the village was dynamited and all the houses were blown up. Then on 24 June, the Israelis began to destroy two thirds of the village by the use of bulldozers. Only two mosques, the cemetery and the Carmelite convent were spared.

During all the events connected with the destruction, which lasted about one month, the entire area was closed to everyone except the Israeli Army. French priest Paul Gauthier got the closest to the village and made a report, protesting against what had happened, and addressed it to the Israeli Army.

Returning to the ordeal suffered by the inhabitants, the witness said that during the first day of war about 100 or 150 villagers from Amwas had taken refuge in the monastery. But at the end of the fighting when they tried to return the Israeli soldiers did not let them enter their houses. On 12 June, two buses with Israeli armed soldiers arrived in the monastery and the refugees were ordered to leave this monastery. They refused but the Israelis came into the monastery and pushed the refugees by force outside. They were then taken to the village of Beit Sira. The witness pointed out that most of those refugees were in night clothes and that they had nothing with them, not even food or water. It was impossible to establish any kind of contacts with them for almost two months. At the beginning of July, the person in charge of the monastery met in Ramallah with the chief of the district of Amwas and the leaders of Amwas. They asked the Israeli authorities to allow the refugees in Ramallah to return and reconstruct their village. But that request was rejected.

The witness gave as a reference the book, A Lost Victory, written by Amos Kenan, who was a head of the group that the Israeli Army entrusted with the mission of destroying this village. The book was published in Tel Aviv in 1970 by Abraham Publications and it is a first-hand report of an impartial witness. According to the witness, he heard from a great number of people that during the destruction of the village some elderly people who were not able to leave their homes were killed under their houses when they were blown up.

After the war two thirds of the villagers moved to Amman and one third remained in Ramallah, Jerusalem or in other villages. Until now none of those villagers has been able to return to that village to live or work. The Israeli authorities transformed that village into a leisure park, planted trees and called it Canada Park. Asphalt roads had been built in the village and around it. The witness outlined that the only remaining part of Amwas now was the Carmelite Convent, which was located in the middle of the village and used to be surrounded by many houses. He noted that if there had been any battles, that convent would have been destroyed too, due to its location. There was no battle and the village was destroyed deliberately. All the lands of the village had been seized and were now being exploited by the Israeli foundation, Kerin Kiemet, and by the inhabitants of the nearby Israeli settlements. All the area was irrigated by an irrigation network. Two kilometres away from Amwas, the Mevo Khoron settlement was founded.

WITNESS NO. 13 — MR. IBRAHIM MUSTAFA EL-SHEIKH

The witness was a resident of the village of Amwas with a population of 3,500 at the time of the occupation. On 6 June 1967, the Israeli troops entered the village with artillery, arms and tanks. Four hours after the inhabitants were ordered via loudspeakers to go to the house of the community leaders (mukhtar) and then told to leave the village for Ramallah. Only the very old people and the very young children remained in the village; the rest, under the threat of being shot, were forced to leave without being allowed to take any belongings with them. After a two-day walk they reached Ramallah. On 11 June they were told via loudspeakers to return to their village. They walked back 32 kilometers and as they approached the village, at a distance of two kilometres, they saw the village being blown up. The witness stated that all the houses and their contents had been blown out, with the old people and the very young children that had been left behind still inside. They were then told by Israeli officials to go back to Ramallah as their village was now declared a forbidden area for security purposes. In Ramallah, the villagers pleaded with the Military Governor to allow them to return to their village but in vain. The Abbot of the Latrun Monastery tried to intervene on the villagers' behalf and offered to the Military Governor to bear the expenses for rebuilding the village, but was told that the matter was beyond his competence, as the village had been blown up by special order of Moshe Dayan. Mr. El-Sheikh recalled that in 1967, Amwas village had 40,000 dunums of agricultural lands, 800 houses, a primary school for boys with 600 pupils, a special primary school for girls with 400 pupils, special secondary schools, two mosques, a post office, a network of drinking water and 2,000 dunums of land planted with olive trees, walnut trees and other fruit trees. After the occupation, the village, where the Jews had now owned any property prior to 1967, was turned down by Israel into a park, which was called "Canada Park." The whole area was called Nakhshoun, including the land which Israel had had since 1948 with the settlements of Nakhshoun on it.

WITNESS NO. 7 (ANONYMOUS)

The witness, who lived in Qalqilia on the frontiers of 1948, said that most of the land in that area was in the hands of Jews but the houses and the highest areas belonged to the Arabs. The local people, being very active in the field of agriculture, had succeeded in transforming the rocky land into a prosperous and fruitful area, in particular, by digging some 50 artesian wells. This is a real motive why Israel had led various attacks in that area before 1967, in particular on 10 October 1956 and 5 September 1965, when 11 artesian wells were destroyed by Israel.

During the 1967 war, 60 per cent of the houses in the village were destroyed and its inhabitants compelled to leave for a period of 25 days. The villagers formed a committee that carried out contacts with various consulates and finally, the inhabitants managed to return to their village. Land of about 22 dunums which belonged to different owners had been taken over by Israeli authorities and surrounded with barbed wire.

Since then, in 1976, the Israeli authorities installed some sort of equipment in the artesian wells to control and limit the quantity of water which could be used. These water restrictions forbade the villagers to make use of the rest of their property and even compelled them to leave their land. The witness said he had with him photocopies of the orders of the Israeli Water Supply Authorities establishing strict limitations for the use of water for each well during the current year. Since farming was the villagers' only source of livelihood they were in serious need of water.

Referring to the settlements, the witness said that on the road between Nablus and Qalqilia the Israeli authorities established two settlements at Kafr Lakef and Kafr Kaddum. The first one was founded in 1976 in a wooded area and bulldozers uprooted all the trees. The second settlement was built on the land of villagers of Kafr Kaddum, which had been levelled by bulldozers. Both settlements started with about 20 houses, now they have approximately 150 houses each and are surrounded by barbed wire. The authorities built some new roads and equipped an artesian well with a motor engine and pipelines to supply two settlements with water.

Responding to various questions, the witness said that only a few of the original owners had been paid for the houses that had been destroyed. The amount paid for each house was about one quarter of its real value.

WITNESS NO. 8 — MR. ALI DHIB OMEIRI, MUKHTAR OF BEIT NUBA

Mr. Omeiri said that on 6 June 1967, Israeli authorities occupied his village. On that day the people of the village were asked to leave without being given any explanation. After three days at the outskirts of the village, the inhabitants of Beit Nuba were asked through loud speakers to return to their homes and raise a white flag on the house. As the inhabitants came close to their village, they were stopped by military personnel and their homes were destroyed in front of them. As Mukhtar of the village, the witness appealed to the military commander of the area, who confirmed that the people of the village could not return to their village, which had been destroyed.

Describing the village of Beit Nuba, in the West Bank Highlands, Mr. Omeiri stated that it was approximately 25,000 dunums in size and that the population amounted approximately to 4,000 persons; it had two schools, and a medical clinic. It was equipped with an artesian well and a flour mill. He added that 650 houses had been blown up and gave the names of 14 people who lost their lives in that destruction.

WITNESS NO. 9 (ANONYMOUS)

After giving an historical background of Zionism and explaining the various mechanisms utilized by Israeli authorities to acquire the land of the Arabs, the witness talked about his own experience with Israeli settlements. He said that at the beginning of 1977 a project for a settlement started in the Salfit area, located between the so-called green belt and the Jordan River. The new settlement called Messha, 20 km from Salfit, started with 20 prefabricated houses on land that had been confiscated from the village Tefoa (between Nablus and Jerusalem). In February 1978, Israeli authorities expropriated another 500 dunums of land in the villages of Salfit, Kofar El-Harish and Marda for a new settlement which was built by the group, Gush Emunim, and with the approval and help of the Committee on Settlements headed by the Israeli Minister of Agriculture. It started with 80 families and there are plans of settling 1,500 more families there within the next 5 years. Protests led nowhere.

In April 1979 the local councils in the Salfit district were informed of a new expropriation decision concerning 3,500 dunums between the settlements of Alyeh and Tefoa. The occupying authorities took control of the only artesian well, which is located in the village of Zawiya, in order to supply the above-mentioned two settlements with water, while the local inhabitants of those villages were prevented from using it. The witness said that he was a farmer and that Israel had expropriated 80 dunums of his land, which was the main source of living for his family. Regarding the expropriation of land by Israeli authorities, the witness noted that in some cases Israeli authorities offered as barter other lands which belonged to families abroad whose properties had become known as the land of absentee owners. However, the farmers had rejected that offer on the grounds of its illegality and in the knowledge that it would engender hatred among the Arabs involved.

WITNESS NO. 17 (ANONYMOUS)

The witness stated that he was appearing before the Commission to represent the municipality of Hebron, because the military authorities had prevented the Mayor of Hebron from leaving his city and coming to be a witness before the Commission. The witness stated that he lived in Hebron in 1970 when the Israelis created the settlement of Kiryat Arba, one of the largest settlements in the West Bank area.

In 1970, the occupying authorities and their troops encircled an area of about 500 dunums of the municipality of Hebron with barbed wire. When the citizens protested, Israeli Defence Minister Moshe Dayan attended a public meeting with them and the former Mayor of Hebron. He swore on his honour that there would be only one camp established in the area. A few days later the Governor of the West Bank issued a military order expropriating 3,000 dunums of Hebron land from the internal limits of the community.

In 1973, the Governor of the West Bank, together with the Military Governor of Hebron, issued an order forbidding the Arabs from building anything on their lands or houses within the municipal boundary of Hebron. On 12 December 1978, 38 Arab inhabitants and the witness himself were summoned to the military headquarters where they were informed that their area had been declared as a closed-off area and that the inhabitants could not leave it without previous permission from the military authorities. The area concerned comprised 38 houses inhabited by more than 400 people. In addition to closing off the area, the inhabitants were continuously subjected to harassment by nearby settlers of Kiryat Arba. Soon after that military order, the Mayor of Hebron received a letter accompanied by a map showing a plan for the establishment of 500 new houses to be built on land and properties belonging to Arab inhabitants (the witness submitted a copy of that letter and a map). Houses included in the plan were demolished to make room for new homes.

Speaking of the ordeal of the people of Hebron, the witness stated that children were forbidden from going to school and that, by night, Jewish settlers from Kiryat Arba shone floodlights and spotlights on windows of homes to frighten the women and children. Those settlers were in military uniform; they belonged to the Gush Emunim Group and were the same settlers who killed the children in the demonstrations that occurred at Halhoul.

The witness indicated that the inhabitants complained to the United States Consul in Jerusalem, who promised them that the Secretary of State of the United States would visit their area. After the visit had taken place, the inhabitants enjoyed some freedom of movement in and out of their area. In another attempt to stop land expropriation, the witness indicated that a case on behalf of the Municipality of Hebron and in the name of 39 Arab landowners, was submitted to the High Court of Justice, which by its decision had nullified the expropriation of only 530 dunums, out of a total of 3,000 dunums which was the amount of land that had been expropriated from its Arab owners in Hebron.

After the Court decision, Arab inhabitants, with the help of 4,000 Jewish Israeli citizens — members of a group called Israeli Peace Movement — tried to plant or replant the area but were prevented by the military authorities.

In response to questions, the witness stated that the amount of land expropriated by Israel from Arabs in Hebron was 3,000 dunums. The settlement of Kiryat Arba was established on 500 dunums. Also 38 buildings were built on 530 dunums. Four hundred and fifty persons lived there. The Israelis uprooted the trees, which constituted the inhabitants' means of livelihood and until the present have prevented Arab inhabitants, in spite of Court decisions, from any building on this land.

In response to another question about the incident that took place in the village of Halhoul, in which two children were killed by one of the settlers, the witness stated that at that time the Military Governor of Hebron imposed a curfew on the village of Halhoul for 15 days, forbidding anyone from bringing anything to the village. In order to obtain food and milk for the people, a matter which was refused by the Military Governor, the witness said, they complained to the Red Cross and also sent a cable to the United Nations Secretary-General.

WITNESS NO. 14 (ANONYMOUS)

The witness gave an account of how the Israelis expropriated about 1,000 dunums of agricultural land in his village of Northern Assira, situated between Assira and Nablus.

Two months before, he said, the Israelis had informed the village mukhtar (community leader) that the land in question was to be seized. They showed him a list in Hebrew of the owners of that land and asked him to inform them that the land was to become Israeli property. They told him that anybody who wanted compensation should see the Military Governor.

Naturally, said the witness, the owners were upset to hear about the expropriation of their land, since it was their sole means of livelihood, and decided that they would not yield except under duress.

Two weeks later, the Israelis started building a road 10 metres wide and 4 kilometres long in an area covered with wheat fields and almond and olive trees. As a result, the owners sustained substantial losses.

Next, the Israelis divided the land into parcels of 50 dunums, installed telephone poles and brought prefabricated houses.

WITNESS NO. 19 (ANONYMOUS)

The witness talked about an agricultural village, Anata, located 2 kilometres north-east of Jerusalem. The village had an area of 13,000 dunums with a population of 3,500 who depended on agriculture for their livelihood. The area of the village appeared in the district file of Tabu during both the Ottoman and the British Mandate rules. It had also been surveyed during Jordanian rule. The witness submitted to the Commission a list of landowners in the village, each of whom had his own separate file for property ownership.

In 1971 and 1972, the Israeli military authorities had undertaken, without giving a reason to the villagers, a new survey of the lands on the eastern side of the village, which had continued until 1975. In January 1975, the Military Governor of Ramallah had called in the witness to inform him that the village had been divided into three zones: the western part was linked to the municipality of Jerusalem; the northern part to the municipality of Ramallah; and the southern part to the municipality of Bethlehem. One of these zones with an area of 4,650 dunums, which included 40 inhabited houses, was marked as a military zone, access to which was completely forbidden. Copies of the plan had been distributed to the registration of Tabu and to the municipal administrations of villagers and towns in order to forbid any selling of these lands or other transactions on them and to stop issuance of building and construction authorizations.

On 5 May 1977 the Military Governor had informed the villagers that they would not be allowed to harvest their crops in the closed-off areas. Access to these areas would be granted by a special authorization from the military authorities only and violators would be taken to military court. On 19 September 1978, the Military Governor had met with the village notables and had proposed to lease the land from the villagers at the rate of 5 Jordanian dinars for each dunum in the first category, 3 Jordanian dinars for each dunum in the second category and 2 Jordanian dinars for each dunum in the third category. That offer having been refused, the Military Governor had proposed to pay compensation to the villagers according to the report of the Committee of Agricultural Experts. That proposal had also been rejected. Three thousand and five hundred people were still living in the village of Anata. On 8 October 1978, the Israeli military authorities had summoned the workers under military guard and had closed off the zone with barbed wire and iron gates. On 14 October 1978, the witness had requested the Jordanian Government to intervene and raise the question of expropriation of their lands at the international level. The Jordanian Government had raised the question in the Security Council. On 25 October, the witness had sent cables to the Secretary-General, the President of the United States, the President of Egypt and the United States Ambassador to Israel, requesting their intervention against the expropriation of the village lands. On 14 November 1978, the villagers had submitted their case to the Israeli High Court of Justice, which on 10 December 1978 had given a temporary judgment forbidding the army to work on the land until the Court had made a final judgment. On 15 December 1978, General Shalam Tagner had submitted a statement to the High court indicating that 1,740 dunums, not 4,650 dunums, were needed as a military zone and had requested that the temporary judgement be nullified. The High Court had not allowed enough time for the villagers to respond to the new situation and had met on 17 December 1978. On 15 January 1979, the Court had issued its judgement, agreeing to the expropriation of 1,740 dunums of fertile agricultural land. The villagers had not been informed of the decision until 18 March 1979, that is after the period of 30 days legally allowed to appeal such a judgement. The witness submitted to the Commission, among other relevant documentation, a list of the landowners in the 1,740 dunums of land. Noting that he himself was the owner of 1,200 dunums out of the 1,740 dunums of land, the witness stated that he had been left with only 300 dunums without any possibility of access. On 11 April 1979, he had submitted a request to the Israeli authorities for permission to reach his land, but there had been no answer. He stated further that on 5 April 1979, the Israeli army had started surveying the remaining lands in order to establish an industrial zone thereon. The army, he continued, was then building roads and organizing the new zone.

WITNESS NO. 20 (ANONYMOUS)

The witness said that, unlike other occupations in the past, Israeli occupation had as its ultimate aim to take possession of the land and drive its inhabitants away. An important new facet of Israel's settlement policy, he said, was that unlike past policy, which consisted of establishing settlements mostly close to the green line which separated Israel from its pre-1967 borders, the new trend was to divide the West Bank into large squares, then criss-cross them with roads in all directions. As perceived by the inhabitants, the aim of that policy was to divide the main cities and towns by building settlements on the corners of each square; thus "balkanizing" the territory in such a way that it would not be a viable entity.

The witness also gave a number of incidents involving mistreatment of Arab youngsters by some of the Jewish settlers, especially in the area of Kiryat Arba.

In reply to various questions, the witness said that the new trend which he described in his statement would result in the loosening of trade and other ties between the towns and the outlying villages because the settlers would start taking the law into their own hands and set up check points wherever they saw fit. Furthermore, the occupied West Bank being a small territory, the land lost as a result of the building of wide roads and streets would deprive several families of their property.

The witness said that some check points were permanent, especially at the entrance of Jerusalem and other major cities. Waiting time at those check points could be as much as one hour and 45 minutes.

All settlements, he also said, were of a permanent nature, even when they started as temporary shelters. The population in settlements ranged from 200 to 2,000. The only Arabs allowed to enter them were poor labourers doing menial jobs.

As to the extent of the land taken so far by Israel, it amounted to 36 per cent of the area of the occupied West Bank. He believed that as a result of the road construction, the percentage would soon reach 39 per cent.

WITNESS NO. 22 (ANONYMOUS)

Testimony submitted in writing stated that Silwad is a town located 15 kilometres north of the city of Ramallah in the West Bank. The witness added that Israeli practices towards the landowners of Silwad were the following:

1. Land expropriation. After 1967, the Israeli occupation authorities expropriated 1,650 dunums in the area called

Al-Thaher. This land was owned by individual farmers of Silwad. They objected to this action to the Israeli Military Governor, who offered to pay for the land, but the owners refused to sell. A small local airport was built on it with a military camp. The camp was transformed gradually after 1974 into a settlement for Israeli civilians;

2. The Israeli Settlement of Ofra. Before the 1967 war, the Government of Jordan was in the process of using an area of 300 dunums south-east of Silwad as a military camp. When the 1967 war broke out, no compensation was paid to their individual owners. In March 1974, an Israeli settlement was established in this area called Ofra. The area was expanded to include an additional land of 100 dunums. The owners objected this action to the Governor but with no success;

3. Restricted area. A total of 5,000 dunums were fenced and restricted by the Israeli occupation authorities. This area belonged to individual owners of Silwad and the neighbouring town Ein Yabroad.

CONCLUSION OF THE COMMISSION

The Security Council Commission concluded its report by stating the recent information about Jewish settlements and the impact of the settlements on the Arab population as follows:

RECENT INFORMATION ON THE SETTLEMENTS

According to the figures obtained, there are altogether in the occupied territories 133 settlements, including the 17 in and around Jerusalem, 62 in the West Bank, 29 in the Golan Heights, and 25 in the Gaza Strip and the Sinai.

The population of those settlements varies in number, probably depending on the policy purposes predetermined for each settlement. In the area of Jerusalem and the West Bank where the establishment of settlements has been the most intensive, the number of settlers has reached approximately 90,000, while in the Sinai their number would be under 5,000.

The land seized by the Israeli authorities as a whole, either specifically for the establishment of those settlements or for other stated reasons, covers 27 per cent of the occupied West Bank and the quasi-totality of the Golan Heights.

On the basis of the information received, the Commission is convinced that a number of settlements were established on privately owned land and not only on public land.

Many of those settlements are of a military nature, either officially placed under the control of the Israeli army or de facto with a settler population of military age. Moreover, those settlers are said to have at their disposal military weapons in the midst of an unarmed Arab population.

According to several witnesses, the location of the settlements is determined in accordance with agricultural designs, and also with what Israel considers to be "security" purposes. That may explain, for instance, the existence of three successive belts of settlements reported to have been established between Jerusalem and the Jordan River and which would be aimed at "compartmenting" the local population.

Supported by the strong influence of various private groupings, the settlement policy is an official government programme which is implemented by a number of organizations and communities representing both the Government and the private sector inside and outside Israel.

In addition to private contributions coming mostly from outside Israel, the financing of the settlement policy is essentially a governmental matter. In that connexion, the Commission was told that the Israeli government has set aside the equivalent of $US 200 million for expanding and establishing settlements during the fiscal year 1979/80.

The Commission found evidence that the Israeli Government is engaged in a willful, systematic and large-scale process of establishing settlements in the occupied territories for which it should bear full responsibility.

CONSEQUENCES OF THE SETTLEMENT POLICY ON THE LOCAL POPULATION

The Commission is of the view that a correlation exists between the establishment of Israeli settlements and the displacement of the Arab population. Thus it was reported that since 1967, when that policy started, the Arab population has been reduced by 32 per cent in Jerusalem and the West Bank. As to the Golan Heights, the Syrian authorities stated that 134,000 inhabitants had been expelled leaving only 8,000, i.e. 6 per cent of the local population in the occupied Golan Heights.

The Commission is convinced that in the implementation of its policy of settlements, Israel has resorted to methods — often coercive and sometimes more subtle — which included the control of water resources, the seizure of private properties, the destruction of houses and the banishment of persons, and has shown disregard for basic human rights, including in particular the right of the refugees to return to their homeland.

For the Arab inhabitants still living in those territories, particularly in Jerusalem and the West Bank, they are subjected to continuous pressure to emigrate in order to make room for new settlers who, by contrast, are encouraged to come to the area. The Commission was told also that in the Golan Heights Israeli authorities imposed Israeli citizenship on all new-born children in an effort to assimilate the remaining population.

The settlement policy has brought drastic and adverse changes to the economic and social pattern of the daily life of the remaining Arab population. As a mere example of that evolution, the Commission was informed that a number of Arab landowners were now compelled to earn their living and that of their family by working on their own land as the hired employees of the Israeli settlers.

The Commission considers that the pattern of that settlement policy, as a consequence, is causing profound and irreversible changes of a geographical and demographic nature in those territories, including Jerusalem.

The Commission has no doubt that those changes are of such a profound nature that they constitute a violation of the Geneva Convention relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949, and of the relevant decisions adopted by the United Nations in the matter, more specifically: Security Council resolutions 237 (1967), 252 (1968) and 298 (1971); the consensus statement by the President of the Council on 11 November 1976; as well as General Assembly resolutions 2253 (ES-V), 32/5 and 33/113.

IMPACT OF THE SETTLEMENT POLICY AND ITS CONSEQUENCES ON THE SEARCH FOR PEACE

While fully aware of the extreme complexities inherent in the Middle East problem and at the same time recognizing the limitations in the scope of its mandate, the Commission none the less had the opportunity to note a genuine desire for peace in the capitals it visited as well as among the leaders of the Palestine Liberation Organization whom it met.

Unfortunately, the Commission has also perceived a deep sense of despair and helplessness, primarily among the Palestinian refugees. That stems from the realization that Israel's policy with regard to the occupied Arab territories and more particularly its policy of continuing to establish more settlements is unabated and undaunted either by United Nations decisions or any other external factor. The Commission would like to state clearly in that regard that in the course of its various meetings it felt that this settlement policy was widely regarded as a most negative factor in the achievement of peace in the area both by the refugees themselves and all those who support their cause, including the neighbouring Governments for which that policy generates at the national level economic and social problems of grave consequences.

Consequently, after examining the situation relative to settlements in the Arab territories occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem, the Commission wishes to reaffirm the determination made in resolution 446 (1979), according to which "the policy and practices of Israel in establishing settlements in the Palestinian and other Arab territories occupied since 1967 have no legal validity and constitute a serious obstruction to achieving a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

B. RECOMMENDATIONS

On the basis of the conclusion reached, the Commission would like, therefore, to recommend that the Security Council, bearing in mind the inalienable right of the Palestinians to return to their homeland, launch a pressing appeal to the Government and people of Israel, drawing again their attention to the disastrous consequences which the settlement policy is bound to have on any attempt to reach a peaceful solution in the Middle East.

In the view of the Commission, as a first step, Israel should be called upon to cease on an urgent basis the establishment, construction and planning of settlements in the occupied territories. The question of the existing settlements would then have to be resolved.

The Security Council might further wish to consider measures to safeguard the impartial protection of property arbitrarily seized.

As to Jerusalem, the Security Council should also call upon the Government of Israel to implement faithfully the resolution it has adopted on that question as from 1967. Moreover, recalling that Jerusalem is a most sacred place for the three great monotheistic faiths throughout the world, i.e., Christian, Jewish and Moslem, the Council might wish to consider steps to protect and preserve the unique spiritual and religious dimension of the Holy Places in that city, taking into account the views of high-ranking representatives of the three religions.

In view of the magnitude of the problem of settlement and its implication for peace in the region, the Security Council should keep the situation under constant survey.

THE USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN THE WEST BANK AND THE GAZA STRIP 1980-1989

The following information about the usurpation of Palestinian lands and the establishment of Jewish settlements is collected from Jewish newspapers, Al Fajr (the Jerusalem Palestinian weekly), the research done by Dr. Meron Benvenisti, the Institute of Palestine Studies and the annual reports of the United Nations Special Committee to investigate Israeli practices affecting the human rights of the population of the occupied territories.<sup>13</sup>

USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN 1980

Zionist policy towards the occupied territories in 1980 was shaped and executed against the backdrop of the Camp David process. At the end of January, Israel was to withdraw from strategic passes in the Sinai and formal diplomatic relations with Egypt would immediately follow. There remained the thorny question of the simultaneous negotiations on Palestinian "autonomy" which had a deadline for resolution of May 26. On January 7, Israeli Prime Minister Begin flew to Aswan to meet with Sadat, allegedly to clear the air over the Palestinian issue so that normalization could proceed on schedule. However, the meeting was described as "heavy on sightseeing" with little substance coming out of the talks. This characterized all other American-Egyptian-Israeli discussions on the Palestinian question throughout the remainder of the year.

Israeli conceptions of Palestinian "autonomy" were presented to the Sadat regime in January in the form of a 26 page plan outlining an administrative structure to be imposed on the Palestinian population in the West Bank and Gaza. The plan was published in the Israeli press on January 19th with a summary of the powers Israel would arrogate to itself.

For the Begin government the key to thwarting the possibility of the eventual emergence of an independent Palestinian state was the establishment of a proliferation of settlements in the occupied territories. Settlement was to be promoted regardless of whether or not individual colonies were economically viable or whether there were sufficient government finances to establish them in the first place. The Begin government was so obsessed with the idea of alienating Palestinians from their land, that it also offered virtual sponsorship to the settlement schemes of fanatical independent settler movements such as the Gush Emunim and Meir Kahane's Kach. Renegade land expropriation and settlement construction occurred in tandem with the more refined occupation schemes of the World Zionist Organization and the Ministry of Agriculture.

The World Zionist Organization settlement strategy was outlined in a plan drawn up by the head of its Settlement Department, Mattityahu Drobles:

"In light of the current negotiations on the future of Judea and Samaria, it will now become necessary for us to conduct a race against time....It is therefore significant to stress today mainly by means of actions, that the autonomy does not and will not apply to the territories but only to the Arab population thereof. This should mainly find expression by establishing facts on the ground. Therefore, the state-owned lands and the uncultivated barren lands in Judea and Samaria ought to be seized right away, with the purpose of settling the areas between and around the centres occupied by the minorities so as to reduce to the minimum the danger of an additional Arab state being established in these territories. Being cut off by Jewish settlements the minority population will find it difficult to form a territorial and political continuity. There mustn't be even the shadow of a doubt about our intention to keep the territories of Judea and Samaria for good...The best and most effective way of removing every shadow of a doubt about our intention to hold on to Judea and Samaria forever is by speeding up the settlement momentum in these territories."<sup>14</sup>

To kick off the massive settlement drive for 1980, the joint Israeli government-World Zionist Organization settlement committee announced a plan on December 25, 1979 to double the Jewish population in the West Bank in the coming year and a half. Some 20,000 people were to be newly settled in the West Bank. However, there was no idea as to how to come up with the funds for such a project. The settlement budget for 1979 was IL 3 billion. The new plan called for an allocation of funds of up to IL 10 billion ($ 285 million). Even though there was no budget guarantee, an aide to Finance Minister Yigael Hurvitz commented: "Billions don't frighten anyone today."

At the beginning of 1980, the continued easy expropriation of Palestinian land in the West Bank was temporarily thrown into confusion by a successful court challenge by Palestinians whose land had been seized by Gush Emunim settlers for Eilon Moreh near Nablus. On October 22, 1979, the Israeli High Court ruled that Eilon Moreh was not imperative for military security and must be evacuated. The Gush Emunim settlers still refused to evacuate the site as of January 1. The Begin cabinet supported the settlers' "illegal" occupation by granting an evacuation extension of 5 weeks in defiance of the High Court decision. Begin's determination to flaunt even Zionism's own legal formalities to pursue the settlement campaign provoked four unsuccessful no confidence motions in the Knesset.

To demonstrate the determination not to lose a single settlement, work commenced in December on a new site only a few kilometres away from the original site of Eilon Moreh. The evacuation delay sparked a stream of protests by Palestinians whose land had been confiscated. Besides demonstrations near Eilon Moreh, the landowners petitioned the High Court, which issued a show cause order against the government demanding why the site should not be evacuated immediately. Finally, on January 29, the government began to dismantle the settlement. Some remaining holdouts were ejected by force on February 3 and transported to the new site on Jabal al-Kabir.

Preparation of the new site cost the government over $1 million. In a Knesset ruckus, Moshe Dayan claimed that the government was throwing away "millions and millions" on Jabal al-Kabir. But Eilon Moreh was crucial to the Begin government's single-minded drive towards expansion. No expense would be spared. On January 30, the government began clearing ground adjacent to the settlement site for an "industrial zone." On the day of the ground clearing, the site was visited by Agricultural Minister Ariel Sharon, who was in charge of settlement programmes and an unofficial sponsor of Gush Emunim. He stated what Eilon Moreh meant for the Begin government: "It is absolutely clear a Jewish town will rise near Nablus. Most of my efforts have been directed at that. A town with thousands of Jews is perhaps the only practical answer Israel has to prevent the possibility of a second Palestinian state. Jordan is Palestine already."

The $1 million allocated for initial construction on Jabal al-Kabir was only the opening shot in the campaign to maintain this barren outpost inhabited by extremist Gush Emunim settlers. It was disclosed in the Hebrew Press in March that nineteen families had been given personal grants totalling over $1 million by the World Zionist Organization just to stay in the settlement. Only sixteen families were living in the settlement at the time; three of them had not even made the decision to move there when they received their money. This amount of money did not include allocations to the settlement by other government ministries. For nearby Palestinians, the new site meant more land expropriations and a continuing struggle against the new intruders. While the settler population did not increase, the land seizure did. On July 9, the Ministerial Defense Committee approved a new access road to the settlement and forty hectares of land were expropriated from Palestinians in a nearby village.

The Eilon Moreh episode led the fanatical Gush Emunim settlement movement to establish new settlement sites to force the government to escalate its settlement activities. While the fate of Eilon Moreh was being decided in January, Gush Emunim's main sponsor in the Begin Cabinet, Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon, prompted the cabinet to reaffirm Gush Emunim's prerogative to establish the settlement of Livona. Gush Emunim's settlement plans were a provocative attempt to settle Jews in parts of the West Bank densely populated by Palestinians. Eilon Moreh was to be a first implantation adjacent to Nablus, while Livona was a "thickening" of the Gush Emunim settlement of Neve Tsuf near the Arab villages of al-Lubban and Arad.

The escalation of a new settlement campaign touched off by the Gush Emunim's seemingly renegade actions, did not leave the supposedly "moderate" Labour Party untouched. The Labour controlled Unified Kibbutz Movement held a two-day meeting at the beginning of January to work out its own settlement drive. A political communique issued afterwards criticized the Begin government for financing Gush Emunim settlement actions and said that Gush Emunim activity in the West Bank was harmful to peace efforts. But the key issue seemed to be that Labour settlements were not obtaining enough money for themselves. The conference announced that the Unified Kibbutz Movement would set up thirteen new settlements of its own by 1983 — a target date long after the time when the so-called "Palestinian autonomy" was to be instituted in the West Bank under the terms of the Camp David agreements. While the Israel High Court decision on Eilon Moreh implied that West Bank settlements might actually hinder Israeli military "security," Yigal Allon stated at the conference that "it is very important for security to have rural settlements along the state borders." He was undoubtedly thinking of the Jordan Valley, where Labour already had a string of settlements and wanted more government money poured into new ones controlled by Labour.

At the same time, the Gush Emunim announced its own plans for increasing the number of settlements in the West Bank and Gaza before any kind of "Palestinian autonomy" could ever be implemented. At a conference held at the beginning of January, Gush Emunim instructed its member settlements to form a new settler nuclei to "multiply" their existing settlements. Each new nucleus would be responsible for establishing one new settlement.

From the very beginning of its multiplication campaign, Gush Emunim was assisted by the military occupation forces and found in Sharon a powerful advocate in the Begin cabinet. One of the main targets in the campaign was the extension of Kiryat Arba near Hebron, which was ultimately to lead to a generalized explosion of the whole conflict between the Palestinian population and the encroaching occupation forces. But the less dramatic examples of the Gush settlement expansion attempts also demonstrated the close collaboration with the Israeli military and Sharon.

After the announcement of the new campaign, Gush Emunim settlers from Giveon decided to expand the settlement by setting up a "guard post" one kilometre west of the settlement. The site was to be the beginning of a new settlement called Tal Hadasha. Although not officially approved by the Ministerial Settlement Committee, a road was constructed connecting Tal Hadasha to Givon and the new site was actually inhabited by regular Israeli army troops. The main aim of the extension was to stop Palestinian villagers from the Neve Samuel area from cultivating their land nearby. Within days after the land seizure, the Ministerial Settlement Committee chaired by Sharon approved the Gush Emunim seizures ex post facto.

With Gush Emunim leading the way, the scramble to establish new settlements moved very quickly, and no Zionist political faction wanted to be left out. The youth movement of Begin's Herut Party established a new settlement called Maale, overlooking the Palestinian village of Azun, on January 23. At the end of January, Sharon announced government plans to erect a series of new settlements around the largest Palestinian city in the West Bank, Nablus. Gush Emunim moved fifty more families into Karnei Shomron, three kilometres west of Nablus during the first week of February. Construction on the settlement of Efrat near Hebron was slated to have begun the year before. Despite the grandiose announcements of new settlement projects there was increasing difficulty in finding new settlers. In the first week of February, commencement of work on Efrat was announced anew, and in this outpost, which was supposed to eventually contain 5,000 housing units, it was now proclaimed that the first settlers were to be two hundred American families.

The Gush Emunim settlement of Livona got another boost from the government in the first week of February when a decision was issued allowing settlers to seize 1,000 dunums of land belonging to the Palestinian village of Abud for the beginning of construction. The Gush settlers from Neve Tsuf who had instigated the establishment of Livona also extracted government permission to chop down a historic grove of trees near the village of al-Nabi Salih to make way for their pre-fab homes.

On February 14, Sharon inaugurated the settlement of Karnei Shomron B near Qalqilya. With the normalization of Egyptian-Israeli relations just concluded, the settlement campaign was attracting unprecedented international condemnation. Sharon justified the continuing Zionist expansion in the West Bank with a new distorted logic. He stated at the inauguration ceremony that the settlements were "the Zionist response to the menace of establishment of a Palestinian state and to Soviet expansion in the Middle East.... In the near future, 30,000 Jews will live in this region."

Linking Zionist settlement expansion to alleged Soviet expansion in the Middle East was a turn of phrase especially designed to appeal to the Carter Administration, which was preoccupied at the time with formulating plans for a Middle East intervention force. However the Begin government's insistent determination on thwarting any progress on the Palestinian question, despite the autonomy negotiations, seriously undermined the Carter Administration's attempts to push to the fore other regional concerns (i.e. Gulf security, Afghanistan, etc.) as the Zionist settlement drive remained the focus of international attention.

On March 1, the UN Security Council passed Security Council resolution 465 which called "upon the Government and people of Israel to...dismantle the existing settlements and in particular to cease, on an urgent basis, the establishment, construction and planning of settlements in the Arab territories occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem."

UN Security Council Resolution 465 came in response to a February 17 Israeli cabinet decision to settle Jews in the Centre of the West Bank city of Hebron.

At this point Israel's settlement policy was still primarily designed to establish a sizeable Jewish presence in heavily populated Palestinian areas and thereby negate Palestinian claims to sovereignty by the creation of "unalterable" demographic realities. Even after the March 1 UN vote, Begin's domestic opposition concurred in the general parameters of the settlement program. A sample "criticism" of the Begin cabinet decision to settle Hebron came from former Israeli Ambassador to the UN, Chaim Herzog, now President of Israel. Establishing a few Jewish homes in the centre of Hebron would be a very serious mistake both from a security and from a political point of view: "However, if the government had quietly set up homes, there would have been a certain logic in the action..."

In the same vein, Israeli Labour Party leader Shimon Peres found the time opportune on March 17 to pose himself as an improvement over Begin. He held a press conference to dredge up the timeworn Labour Party idea of creating some kind of Zionist confederation with Jordan which would have the purpose of neatly side-stepping the very issue of Palestinian self-determination. Peres held the same annexationist orientation in regards to the West Bank as did Begin. Peres implied that were he to come to power, some unspecified settlements would be disbanded, but he quickly added: "on the other hand we shall insist that our army and our settlements along the Valley of Jordan will remain intact as they are."

In March, government settlement activities still concentrated on attempts to bring about a massive population influx into the West Bank. Immediately following the UN vote, the Begin cabinet ordered the expropriation of 1,000 acres of Palestinian land on the outskirts of East Jerusalem in a final move to achieve the complete encirclement of Arab Jerusalem. On March 5, 1,000 dunums of Palestinian land were seized and closed off in the Beit Sahur area near Bethlehem, allegedly for "military purposes." The Israeli Ministry of Housing decided to confiscate 10,000 dunums near Beit Hanina only two days after seizing 4,400 dunums. Just south of Bethlehem, there were new land confiscations to enlarge Efrat, which was scheduled to become an "urban centre."

While the whole situation in the West Bank was beginning to explode, a subtle shift in settlement strategy was taking place. In the words of the Washington Post: "Apparently convinced that the theme of Israel's biblical right to the West Bank will not fly in Peoria or Paris, Israel's image-makers have begun returning with increasing intensity to the argument that the settlements provide security, which throughout the previous Labour Party government's administration of the occupied territories was an accepted strategic concept."

After a visit to Washington, Begin claimed that he was instructed by Carter administration officials themselves to use the "security" rationale when going ahead with new confiscations of Palestinian land: "Our good friends here tell us that they prefer to stress the security aspect of settlements, because the large majority of the American people will accept and understand it. It is their right, of course, to choose the most effective hasbara instrument, while we for our part continue to emphasize the synthesis of security and historic rights..." The "security" shift was not only rhetorical, but was also implemented on the ground.

In April, the Begin government began concentrating settlement construction projects in two areas which fitted into the "security" framework. One of these was in the Jericho area of the Jordan Valley and the other was along the 1948 borders dividing the 1948-occupied areas of Palestine from the West Bank. The Jericho project not only had the purpose of closing the defense gaps in the Jordan Valley left over from the Allon Plan which called for a line of settlements opposite the border with Jordan. In addition, Begin and Sharon were anxious to create settlements populated with their own supporters in an area which was dominated by Labour Party-affiliated settler groups.

On April 2, earthmoving work began on a settlement site west of the former Palestinian refugee camp of Aqbat-Jabir, near Jericho. The Israeli press disclosed that the site was "part of a complex of six new settlements planned to bolster control of the Jericho-Jerusalem corridor. The settlement was called Mitzpe Jericho B. Building new defense posts did not mean that the land seizures around populous Palestinian towns ceased. At the same time that construction began on Mitzpe Jericho B, the Israeli army closed off 1,000 dunums of Palestinian land near Nablus for a new army camp. In the second week of April, the military government seized 800 dunums of land from the villages of Kafr Malik and Mughair near Ramallah.

The settlement drive still had an energetic nature, but was constantly plagued by problems of lack of government financing, lack of settlers and, as we shall see, the costs involved in suppressing Palestinian resistance to the whole policy of occupation. Work had begun on Mitzpe Jericho B without any government financing being allocated. On May 7, Finance Minister Yigael Hurvitz announced that in the current state budget there was no money left for new settlements whatsoever. A new problem cropped up when housing construction began for another of the Jericho settlements, this one called Vered Jericho. The government planned this new settlement with the intention of pushing out settlers already well-established in Mitzpe Jericho. A minority of religious fanatics in Mitzpe Jericho dominated the running of the settlement and wanted secular members banished to a new site. The government complied with the minority demands, but the secular members were not about to leave. Nevertheless, work on Vered went ahead.

The government meanwhile announced two other settlements — Beit Ha'arava and Naim Alef — for the Jericho area despite the lack of funds and settlers.

In the middle of May work began on the two settlements of Dotan and Karnei Shomron D in the northern part of the West Bank. These were specifically designed to divide Palestinians living in the two areas from each other. Visiting the new settlement sites, Agriculture Minister Sharon talked about expropriating thousands of dunums of Palestinian land in the area in the near future. He also announced that two more settlements would be added to the block called Rihan Gamel and Karnei Shomron H.

There was a renewed obsession with settlement plans in May as Palestinian resistance to the occupation exploded on an unprecedented scale. Sharon wanted to establish settlements on all the hilltops overlooking West Bank Palestinian towns. In Sharon's new vision "Jewish quarters would be linked by roads or bridges crossing Arab fields. Arabs would not be allowed to build in the valleys." After the Finance Minister's announcement that there was no money for new settlements, a special cabinet committee on settlements set up plans for expanding six existing settlements: Beit Horon, Ofra, El-Kana, Kadumin, Ariel and Govon. Sharon told Israel radio after the meeting: "We need to change the legal status of the settlements so that we can expropriate private land for them." The committee's recommendations for more land seizures to expand settlements was approved on May 25, the day before the deadline for the end of Palestinian autonomy negotiations.

It was at this time that Begin government circles began consistently speaking to the press about establishing a final ten settlements on the West Bank. Throughout the remainder of the year, settlement on the West Bank still went forward on an ad hoc basis determined by the contingencies of lack of financing and lack of settlers, response to continuing renegade land confiscation and political considerations in the face of continuing Palestinian and international resistance to the whole colonization drive.

At the beginning of June, Agriculture Minister Sharon made a proposal for setting up ten new settlements, but with no implication that they would be by any means the last. Begin himself blurred the meaning of the finality of his statement in a conversation with American journalists. He stated that "dozens more could be added as part of a strengthening of existing enclaves."

The supposed limit of "ten" little deterred the Begin government from imagining further grandiose settlement schemes. At the end of June the government disclosed a plan for a massive new road network in the West Bank which would link Israeli army camps with the proliferation of settlements. The road network was also designed to link West Bank hilltops and provide a system for rapid Israeli troop deployment throughout the West Bank. A week later Sharon announced that ten new settlements would be established between Beit Jibrin and Yatir. Sharon stressed several days later that the government should undertake "an immense settlement plan." He again repeated that massive settlement was the only way to prevent the danger of the establishment of a Palestinian state.

In fact, the next settlement moves were taken outside the zone that Sharon had designated for the ten new settlements. On July 9, there was an official announcement of the establishment of Rihan B in the northern part of the West Bank. Sharon's location of the new settlements indicated that they would straddle the border with Jordan. On July 18, settlers from El-Kana seized private Palestinian land for their new settlement of El-Kana B. The action at El-Kana was a direct provocation by fanatical settlers against the government's stated intention of limiting the number of new settlements to only ten.

During the remainder of the year, Israeli government officials announced and reannounced various sites for the last ten settlements. On August 14, Sharon's Ministerial Settlement Committee announced what were supposed to be three of the last ten. Rihan H was to be added to a block of settlements in the northwest of the West Bank. Two military outposts were to be built in the desert south of Hebron. Again, on August 26, there was a flurry of reports that from six to eight new settlements were planned. This time the plans originated in the Ministerial Defense Committee, and the main concentrations for the new sites were along the outermost borders of the West Bank. The decision was reported to have been taken secretly. Aides to Sharon said they could not remember the location of the settlements. According to one report, the new settlements were: Mikhmas (Jordan Valley), Rihan Gimmel (northeast), Karnei Shomron H (southwest of Nablus), Almog B (Jordan Valley), Shavei Shomron B (west of Nablus) and Tekua B (near Hebron). Yediot Aharonot reported that another two of the last ten were Tartze and El-Kana B, but El-Kana B had already been set up the month before after unauthorized land seizures by fanatical settlers.

The settlement campaign finally began to degenerate into erratic confusion, characterized by glowing reports of the Likud accomplishment in colonisation designed to prime the Israeli public for the 1981 Knesset elections. Senior Gush Emunim officials kicked off the propaganda war by stating in September that Begin had promised them more than ten new settlements in the future. Jewish Agency head Mattiyahu Drobles stated at the time that there was no difference between Labour and Likud's settlement policies. He boasted that the total number of settlements in the West Bank would reach seventy-five within five years. A new settlement called Beit Ha'arava was formally established southeast of Jericho on September 28 and Drobles claimed at the inauguration ceremony that he wanted to establish another three settlements in the area, but had not received governmental approval. More new plans for intensifying settlements were again announced in the first week of October. Again there was a call for ten new settlements and 23 settlement outposts which would dot the inside West Bank borders from the northern tip to Hebron in the south. There was another announcement at the end of October that the government would establish Mikhmas in the Jordan Valley, although this had already been announced in August. Deputy Defense Minister Tzipori announced in November that all the 1967-occupied territories could accommodate 1.5 million Jews and that a land survey showed that there was no reason not to push forward with the construction of massive settlements.

Sharon called for acceleration on construction projects to extend Israeli water lines to West Bank settlements. The establishment of Mikhmas was announced yet another time on December 9; it was to be populated by members of Gush Emunim. Two more settlements for the Jordan Valley were announced on December 30 — Na'ama and Almog B — although both had been previously announced earlier in the year.

Despite the Likud's electioneering announcements in the second half of the year about the multiplication of settlements, serious economic problems in fact delayed the implementation of quite a number of the settlement plans. Likud's settlement policy now focused mainly on the Jordan Valley. Four already existing settlements in the Jordan Valley had run up operating deficits totalling about IL 130 million and pleaded with the government for financing credits. At the end of July the settlers from Netiv Hagdod, Patzael, Gitin and Tomer announced that if the credits weren't immediately forthcoming, the settlers would quit the settlements. The World Zionist Organization then embarked upon a bail-out scheme. The economic performance of the Jordan Valley settlements was so poor that the World Zionist Organization launched a campaign at the end of the year to persuade Israelis living within the 1948 borders to fill up vacated housing in Jordan Valley settlements. Even the most pampered settlements were floundering economically. In the largest so-called "urban settlement" in the West Bank, Kiryat Arba, it was revealed at the end of February that four of its industrial shops had been closed down and seven others were in grave economic straits. Begin himself decided to allocate $10 million from a special government fund to keep the remaining factories running. Despite the economic difficulties, at the end of the year World Zionist Organization head Drobles was intensively lobbying the Finance Ministry for expanded government budgetary allocations for 1981, so that the current plethora of half-baked settlement starts could be completed before the following year's Knesset elections.

The tax incentives, free housing, low interest loans and other remunerations offered to potential settlers did not entice many Zionists other than the most extremist, to live amongst a militant West Bank Palestinian population. One source of new settlers was an influx of Soviet Jews for whom there was a lack of housing inside the 1948 borders. But Soviet Jews were a declining pool for new settlers. In February for example, the Jewish Agency reported that of the 2,568 Soviet Jews waiting for transit to other countries from Italy, 2168 went to the U.S., 382 went to other western countries and only 18 went to Israel.

Except for the large urban blocks of settlements surrounding East Jerusalem, the other settlements dotting the West Bank and Gaza retained the character of fenced-in militarized ghettos. The settlements destroyed local Palestinian agricultural production by monopolizing the natural resources. Settlement agricultural production only remained viable through heavy government price subsidies and deficit financing. There was the lack of an industrial base to make the settlements productive in other economic sectors. Unemployment was rampant in the settlements, and those who did work often depended on an income from jobs they held in Tel Aviv or Jerusalem.

POLICIES AND IMPLEMENTATION

The United Nations Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Areas reported on October 26, 1981 as follows<sup>15</sup>:

(a) Confirmation of the existence of a deliberate policy of annexation and settlement

Subsection C 1 (a) contains a selection of reports of official statements which show the policy of the Government of Israel with regard to the occupied territories. The authors of such statements are members of the Government of Israel, such as the Prime Minister and other ministers, and persons considered responsible for Government policy, such as officials of the World Zionist Organization and similar institutions. Among these statements the Special Committee has noted, in particular, that made by the Prime Minister regarding the new Government's policy guidelines to the effect that Israel will "raise its claim to sovereignty" over the West Bank after a period of self-rule. (International Herald Tribune, 6 August 1981).

(b) Official measures adopted to put this policy into effect

The examples in subsection C 1 (b) show the official plans and projects drawn up by the Government of Israel in implementation of the policy enunciated in the preceding paragraph. They refer to a variety of projects for the occupied territories, such as plans for the construction of settlements on both long-term and short-term bases, the transfer of Israeli Jewish settlers to these settlements, also on long-term and short-term bases, and plans for consolidating the infrastructure of the existing Israeli settlements. In this connexion, the Special Committee noted references to the continued existence of the Ministerial Settlement Committee (the Joint Settlement Committee) composed of an equal number of Government Ministers and officials of the Jewish National Fund, headed by the then Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Ariel Sharon, to whom several references were noted in regard to such plans and projects. The Special Committee noted, among such information, that given in paragraph 64 below, referring to a "detailed plan" published by the Jewish Agency Settlement Department to establish some 70 new settlements between 1980 and 1985, giving their location. In addition, several reports were noted concerning intensive construction in and around occupied Jerusalem, as reflected in paragraph 67.

(c) Information on the implementation of these measures

The plans and projects referred to in the preceding paragraph, including those adopted in previous years (and reflected in earlier reports of the Special Committee) continue to be put into effect. The examples in subsection C 1 (c) (i), are presented in four subdivisions which cover:

(i) Construction of new Israeli settlements and expansion of existing ones

The Special Committee noted that there were some 40 settlements that had been either established or inaugurated or whose construction had commenced during the period covered by the present report. Other reports reflect the transfer of Israeli civilians into the settlements, the construction of roads connecting the settlements and similar measures. A report appearing in September 1980 attributes to the Chairman of the Settlement Department of the Jewish Agency, Mr.

Mattityahu Drobles, a statement announcing that, since 1977, the Government had established 58 settlements in the occupied territories and that the number of settlers in the occupied territories (not including occupied Jerusalem) had then reached some 26,000. The Special Committee heard the testimony of Mr. Tuma Hazou, information advisor to His Royal Highness, Crown Prince Hassan of Jordan, in the course of which he referred to the Israeli settlers in occupied Jerusalem, quoting 56,000 as the figure given by the Israeli authorities and advancing his view that the number was nearer 86,000 (A/AC.145/RT.319,p.5). The settlements are located in the entire area of the West Bank, the Golan Heights and the Gaza Strip; the following table shows the location of the settlements reported.

	West Bank	Golan Heights	Gaza
North:	Reihan B	Moshave Yehonatan	Yaghul

(ii) Expropriation of property to carry out construction and expansion of settlements

The instances cited in subsection C I (c) (ii) reflect the information received by the Special Committee on the measures taken by the Israeli authorities to acquire land through expropriation. The reports quoted refer to all areas in the territories occupied in 1967; they refer to the major centres of population such as Jerusalem, Nablus, Hebron, Bethlehem and Jericho and the areas surrounding these centres. The Special Committee noted that the acquisition of land is undertaken by the adoption of a number of methods, as for example, declaring certain lands as "state lands," declaring certain areas closed "for security reasons" and outright confiscation. According to one report, which appeared in March 1981, the Military Government had confiscated some 20 square kilometres since October 1980 by declaring such land as "state land." The report gives details of the areas in which this expropriation took place and the extent of the property involved. In a separate report appearing in April 1981 entitled "Government reveals real facts on West Bank land," a total of 200 square kilometres had been allocated to Israeli settlements on the West Bank. The Special Committee recalls that, in its last report, it had noted information based on Israeli official sources according to which over 27 per cent of the area of the West Bank had been expropriated by the Israeli authorities; the examples included in subsection C below reflect the expropriation that has continued since then.

(iii) Budgetary allocations to carry out construction and expansion of settlements

The reports quoted in subsection C I (c) (iii) give an impression of the financial appropriations necessitated by the implementation of the "settlement programme." The sources of these funds are mainly the Government of Israel and the World Zionist Organization. The reports reproduced in subsection C show that, between October 1980 and June 1981, approximately 750 million Israel shekels ($US 62.5 million as of August 1981) was budgeted. This amount was allocated for the construction of new settlements and expansion of existing ones though it did not include allocations for settlements in the occupied Jerusalem area.

(iv) Other measures adopted in implementation of the policy of annexation and settlement

The information contained in the selection of reports, in subsection C I (c) (iv) covers a number of measures adopted by the occupation authorities that are said to have been undertaken in the context of the settlement policy. They refer to the construction of roads connecting groups of Israeli settlements with one another, extension of services to Israeli settlements such as the creation of local councils, the establishment of a municipal court, connection with the Israeli electricity supply and various other measures related to the establishment or strengthening of the infrastructure.

In addition, these reports reflect the efforts made by the authorities in "searching for uncontested land," allegedly to avoid a repetition of the "Eilon Moreh case" when the Supreme Court declared the expropriation of land for the establishment of a settlement to be invalid after the owners had contested the expropriation orders. In this connexion, the Special Committee, in its last report, had pointed out the existence of a private company registered in the occupied territories for the purpose of purchasing land from Palestinians. This company, known as HIMANUTA, was reported to be an affiliate of the Jewish National Fund. During the period covered by the present report, the Special Committee noted that other companies were created in the occupied territories for the purpose of purchasing land, such as that referred to as "Yosh Investment and Development Co. Ltd." and another referred to as "Company for Development and Trade in Judea and Samaria."

The military authorities confiscated 2,500 dunums (2.5 sq. km.) of land in the village of Qatana, near Ramallah. The Mukhtar of the village was summoned to the Military Government Headquarters in Ramallah and asked to sign documents, facilitating the seizure of lands. After his refusal, the Military Governor threatened to forcibly expel the inhabitants. A report appearing in November 1980 states that 3,000 dunums (3 sq. km.) were confiscated without prior notification in the same area. (Asha'b, 30 September; Al Fajr Weekly, 23-29 November 1980)

Israeli authorities seized 50 dunums of land in Beit Sahur belonging to the Arab Housing Association. (Asha'b, 27 October 1980)

The Military Government confiscated land belonging to the villagers of Ketel Haris, near Nablus, for the expansion of the Ariel settlements. (Al Fajr Weekly, 21-27 December 1980)

The Israel Land Administration, in co-operation with the Jewish National Fund, "appropriated" thousands of dunums of land on the West Bank to establish six new settlements. 1,000 dunums of land belonging to the villagers of Si'ir (or Said) were seized and allocated to the new industrial zone of the Israeli settlement of Kiryat-Arba. The Military Government stated that the lands in question were State-owned, that prior notification had been given and that claims could be lodged with the Military Government "Objections Committee" within 21 days. (Ha'aretz, 15 and 17 December; Davar, 17 December; Asha'b, 16 and 22 December; Al Fajr Weekly, 21-27 December 1980)

Some 60 dunums were expropriated in Silwad and an additional 45 dunums in Ein Yabrad; plots were fenced off in preparation for their annexation to the Givon settlement. (Zu Haderekh, 17 December 1980)

7,000 dunums (7 sq. km.) of cultivated land belonging to 120 families from Tarqumiya (Hebron) were confiscated. The Military Governor of Hebron claimed that this was "state land" in accordance with Military Order No. 59 of 1967, even though Palestinian families had title deeds. Holders of such deeds were given 21 days for the submission of objections. This land was to be used to establish a new Israeli settlement, Mitzpe-Govrin, for which an estimated 3,000 dunums (3 sq. km.) were allocated. It may be recalled that the creation of this settlement had been recently approved by the Joint Settlement Committee of the Government and the Jewish Agency after Mr. M. K. Yadin presented an appeal against it. Other confiscated land near Hebron will be used to establish the settlements of Ma'on and Carmel. (Yediot Aharonot, 1 February 1981; Asha'b, 2 February 1981; Ha'aretz, 2 February 1981; Al Fajr Weekly, 8-14 February 1981)

1,500 dunams (1.5 sq. km.) in the villages of Betunia, Ajaiby, Ajadira and Rafat, in the Ramallah area, were declared "state lands" or seized for security reasons (one source puts the figure at 5,000 dunums, or 5 sq. km.). (Asha'b, 1 February 1981; Yediot Aharonot, 1 February 1981; Al Fajr Weekly, 8-14 February 1981)

Land was confiscated in the Jenin area for the establishment of new settlements, among them Jeninite (Reihan bloc) and Tel Dotan and Tsiphon A (north Shomoron bloc).

The settlement of Shaveh and Shomoron, in the Sebastia area (between Jenin and Nablus) is also planned. (International Herald Tribune, 12 February; Al Fajr Weekly, 8-14 February 1981)

In the Nablus area, 15,000 dunums (15 sq. km.) were expropriated as "state land." That included 6,000 dunums from Salfit, south-west of Nablus, intended for the expansion of the Ariel settlement and its new industrial zone, and 8,000 dunums in Tubas, north-east of Nablus. Mukhtars in both areas were informed of the seizure and inhabitants in the Salfit area claiming title to the land were given 21 days to register their objections. The establishment of a further Israeli settlement in the Nablus area was reported by a spokesman from the Israeli Housing Ministry. (Al Fajr Weekly, 8-14 and 15-21 February; Asha'b, 9 and 20 February; Ha'aretz, 9 February; Jerusalem Post, 9 February; The Times, 12 February 1981)

The mukhtars in the Abu Dis area were notified by the Military Government that approximately 11,000 dunums (11 sq. km.) near the Israeli settlement of Maaleh Adumin near Jerusalem had been declared "state land." Villagers were given 21 days to appeal. (Ha'aretz, 25 February; Jerusalem Post, 25 February; Asha'b, 26 February, 1981)

Since October 1980, the Military Government has confiscated a total of 20,255 dunums (20 sq. km. approximately) of alleged "state land," for the establishment or enlargement of settlements, in addition to 4,300 dunums (4.3 sq. km.) in the Etzion bloc area, registered as "Jewish-owned" land. 250 dunums of alleged "state land" were used for security installations in the Tubas area in "Samaria" (northern West Bank). The report mentioned the following figures for the settlements:

Dunums

Mitzpe-Govrin	2,000
Ma'on and Carmel	4,000
Tekoa B	2,350
Mikhmash	160
Efrat	35
Elkana B (near Ariel)	5,000
Givon	150
Givat Hadasha	180
Migdal Oz	100
Gush Etzion	180
Kdumim	450
Modiin (Nili)	600
Nabi Samwil	450
Maaleh Adumim	350
Gittit	4,000

(Ha'aretz, 1 March; Al Fajr Weekly, 8-14 March 1981)

Military authorities seized lands belonging to villagers from Deir Dabwan, located north-east of Ramallah. Another settlement was to be established on 500 dunums of land (0.5 sq. km.) seized from Al Jib village (near Givon). (Asha'b, 16 March; Ha'aretz, 15 and 18 March 1981.)

Landowners from the villages of Si'ir and Shuyukh maintained that 6,000 dunums of their land (6 sq. km.) had been expropriated for the expansion of Kiryat-Arba. (Ha'aretz, 19, 20 and 22 March; Jerusalem Post, 22 March 1981)

An article entitled "Government reveals real facts on West Bank land" gave an account of the policy followed by the Government in the acquisition of land for Israeli settlements.

Two hundred thousand dunums (2,000 sq. km.) had been allocated to Jewish settlements on the West Bank, including 36,004 dunums since June 1980. Thirty thousand dunums had been classified as "state land," a figure reportedly contradicted by lawyers handling court cases against the takeover of "state land." Some 20,000 dunums had been allocated to settlements in the Ariel and Shomoron area, and another 20,000 dunums in southern Judea in the area of Mitzpe-Govrin. In addition, some 17,000 dunums east of Abu Dis have been declared "state land." (Jerusalem Post, 6 April 1981)

Villagers from Dir Jerir, north of Ramallah, complained that some 130 dunums of cultivated land had been seized by the army, "ostensibly for military purposes." Several Arab villagers from the Ramallah district, whose lands had been expropriated for security needs and settlement purposes, refused to accept compensation. (Jerusalem Post, 19 May; Ma'ariv, 21 May 1981)

The Military Government was to authorize an Israeli family from Kiryat-Arba settlement to move into a house located in the Jewish quarter of Hebron. Another house, called the "Jarfaty House" was to be occupied by a family of Israeli settlers. These houses are situated approximately 500 metres from the "Hadassah" building in the centre of Hebron. The Military Government evacuated three Arab families that had been "illegally" occupying one of the houses after pressure by Israeli settlers from Kiryat-Arba. The Military Government was to protect the new Jewish occupants of the two houses. Kiryat-Arba settlers were to accommodate 20 Jewish families in houses seized from Arabs around the Ibrahim Mosque, in spite of an order by the Prime Minister, Mr. Begin, to freeze the establishment settlements in Hebron. (Asha'b, 25 and 27 May; Jerusalem Post, 24, 27 and 29 May; Al-Ittihad, 22 May; Ha'aretz, 13, 21, 24, 25 and 27 May 1981)

EXAMPLES OF INFORMATION RECEIVED BY THE COMMITTEE

1. POLICIES AND IMPLEMENTATION

(a) Confirmation of the existence of a deliberate policy of annexation and settlement

The Deputy Minister for Defence, Mr. Mordechai Tzipori, was reported to have stated that Israel will continue to create settlements in "Judea and Samaria" and the Gaza Strip. (Ha'aretz, 5 September 1980)

The Minister of the Interior, Mr. Joseph Burg stated: "Jerusalem is the eternal capital of the Jewish people in the state of Israel. It is indivisible...." The Prime Minister, Mr. Begin, also claimed, in a similar view, that Jerusalem would never be divided again. (Ha'aretz, 10 November, Asha'b, 18 November 1980)

The Prime Minister, Mr. Begin, on a visit to four settlements on the northern West Bank ("Samaria"), Karmy Shomoron, Kdumim, Eilon Moreh and Ariel, reminded Jewish settlers of the promise he made in 1977, stating: "At the beginning of my term of office I promised that there will be many more 'Eilon Morehs,' and indeed they have been created." (Jerusalem Post, 3 and 25 March; Ha'aretz, 9 March; Al-Fajr Weekly, 8-14 March, 1981)

The Minister of the Interior, Mr. Burg, stated at the inauguration of the local council in the Israeli settlement of Maaleh Efraim in the Jordan Valley that there were at present

64 Israeli settlements in "Judea and Samaria" with a population of 16,000, organized in 10 municipal authorities (local and regional councils). (Ha'aretz, 12 March 1981)

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Sharon, stated at an inauguration ceremony near the Karney Shomoron settlement that "so far we have been engaged in creating a settlement framework in the territories and now we are starting to create a sound economic foundation for the Jewish settlements." In addition, the Prime Minister, Mr. Begin, said in Beit El that "the Jewish people will not be displaced from its towns and villages." (Ma'ariv, 3 April; Jerusalem Post, 3, 14 April 1981)

The Prime Minister was reported to have made the following pledge in the course of a visit to an Israeli settlement: "I Menachem, son of Ze'ev and Hassya Begin, hereby pledge my word that as long as I serve the nation...as Prime Minister, we shall not abandon any area in the territories of Judea, Samaria, the Gaza district and the Golan Heights." He was also quoted as having said that the Likud Government wants to live "in peace and respect with the millions of Arab inhabitants of the territories, but we shall not hand over any part of the land of Israel to a foreign rule." (Ha'aretz, 8 May; Jerusalem Post, 8 May)

In a statement made to the Knesset on 5 August 1981, the Prime Minister referred to the guidelines of his new Government; these included a statement that Israel would "raise its claim to sovereignty" over the West Bank after a period of self-rule. (International Herald Tribune, 6 August 1981)

(b) Official measures adopted to put this policy into effect

The Israeli authorities were to intensify their settlement policy in order to create more "reality" in the Arab territories. The next step according to Mr. Sharon, would be to "thicken" and consolidate the existing settlements. This was to take place by:

(a) The creation of industrial plants in Karney Shomoron and Shaveh Shomoron;

(b) The improvement of the infrastructure, the settlement of Elkana having been connected to the Israeli electricity grid;

(c) The construction of permanent housing instead of temporary accommodation; the "build your own house" programme was gathering momentum and financial assistance was being provided by the Jewish Agency. Fifty to a hundred housing units in Kdumim and 35 housing units in Shaveh Shomoron were operating under this scheme. (Asha'b, 22 August, Yediot Aharonot, 25 August 1980)

The Ministerial Settlement Committee, headed by the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Sharon and the Settlement Department of the World Zionist Organization, decided to establish four new settlements in the West Bank: Zif and Carmel in the southern Mount Hebron area, Reihan E on the northern West Bank, and Yatir B, close to the 1948 cease-fire line in the Beersheba-Arad region. (Asha'b, Ha'aretz and Jerusalem Post, 15 August; Al-Quds, 16 August; Jerusalem Post, 20 August; Yediot Aharonot, 25 August 1980)

The Ministerial Settlement Department secretly decided to examine the possibility of establishing a new bloc of settlements in the Gaza Strip between Rafah and Kerem Shalom. According to the decision, Ministry of Justice experts will examine land ownership and the World Zionist Organization will see whether the soil is suitable for settlement. (Jerusalem Post, 5 September 1980)

The Israeli authorities are planning the construction of a station for agricultural experiments in the Khan Al Ahmar area, between Jerusalem and Jericho, on land confiscated recently from Arab landowners of Al Aissawiya. (Asha'b, 7 September 1980)

The Chairman of the Jewish Agency Settlement Department, Mr. Drobles, stated that the following settlements were to be established shortly: Tekoa B (Etzion bloc region); Elkana B (near Ariel); Shaveh Shomoron B (in Western Samaria, north of Qaddum) and two additional settlements in the Reihan bloc (west of Jenin). (Ha'aretz, 10 September; Asha'b, 11 September 1980)

The Jewish Agency Settlement Department published a detailed plan to establish 70 (according to other sources, 75) new settlements between September 1980 and 1985. The aim was to establish 12 to 15 settlements each year in order to absorb 150,000 settlers by the end of the period. The following settlements are planned:

Gush Yatir (south of Hebron)	7 settlements
Gush (west of Mount Hebron)	7 settlements
Gush Etzion	3 settlements
Maaleh Adumim	3 settlements
Gush Givon	2 settlements
Halmish, Modiin and west of Assamirach	4 settlements
Beit El and Shilo	5 settlements
Gush Ariel and Karney Shomoron	5 settlements
Gush Kdumim and Eilon Moreh	6 settlements
North-west of Nablus and Gush Shaveh Shomoron	6 settlements
Gush Reihan	3 settlements
Jenin area	5 settlements
Gush Tirza	4 settlements
Jordan Valley and North of Dead Sea near Jericho	4 settlements

(Yediot Aharonot, 18 September; Asha'b and Al Ittihad 19 and 23 September 1980)

The Deputy Minister for Defence, Mr. Tzipori, stated that, according to a land survey undertaken by the Defence Ministry, there was nothing to prevent the establishment of large Jewish settlements on the West Bank, in the Jordan Valley, on the Golan Heights and in Gaza. He added that these areas can accommodate 1.5 million Jewish settlers. According to a memorandum submitted by the Director-General of the Prime Minister's Office, Mr. Mathilyahu Shmuelevitz, there are 3,200 Jews living in 24 West Bank settlements; the total population in 60 settlements stood at 17,400. One report gave a total number of 50 settlements established since 1977. (Ha'aretz, 11 November; Jerusalem Post, 12 November; Asha'b, 11, 12 and 14 November; Al Fajr Weekly, 16-22 November; Le Monde, 15 November 1980)

The Joint Settlement Committee, headed by the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Sharon, decided to establish the permanent urban settlement of Civon; Givat Zeev built on "300-400 dunums of recently located State-owned land" was to constitute its suburb. The creation of Mikhmash as a communal settlement between Kfar Adumim and Rimonim, east of Ramalleh, was also approved. Thirty families affiliated with "Gush Emunim" were to settle there. This settlement was reported to be the fourth of what Prime Minister Begin had described as the last 10 settlements to be established by the Government in "Judea and Samaria." (Ha'aretz, 10 December; Jerusalem Post, 10 December 1980)

A plan was announced in December 1980 for the construction of several thousand flats on an area of 4.5 square kilometres expropriated in March 1980, on the immediate outskirts of Jerusalem. The plan included the creation of a new suburb to be called South Neve Yaacov, and the enlargement of the existing four Israeli settlements in East Jerusalem: Ramot, Gilo, east Talpiot and Neve Yaacob. According to one report, the plan also covers an area of some 13 square kilometres of Arab-owned land whose development had been frozen since 1967 because of the absence of any "legal outline plan" for the area. (Ma'ariv, 4 December 1980; Jerusalem Post, 4 December 1980, 8 January and 22 June 1981; Ha'aretz, 4 December 1980, 1 January 1981; Yediot Aharonot, 8 December 1980; Asha'b, 5 and 15 December 1980, 1 January 1981; Al Fajr Weekly, 7-13 December 1980, 4-10 January and 1-7 February 1981; A/AC.145/RT.319, pp. 5 and 10)

The Ministerial Settlement Committee planned the construction of 750 housing units, in the settlement of Katzrin on the Golan Heights; 250 units were reported to have been completed by January 1981. (Asha'b, 26 December 1980; Al Fajr Weekly, 4-10 January 1981)

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Sharon, proposed a plan designed "to accelerate building and development in Judea and Samaria in order to complete the Government's settlement programme before the coming elections." His proposal consisted of giving private building contractors State-owned land in Jerusalem and other cities in lieu of payment, for constructing houses in Judea and Samaria. (Jerusalem Post, 23, 26 and 29 January 1981; Ha'aretz, 23 and 29 January 1981; Asha'b, 23 January 1981)

Mr. Meir Shaham, Deputy Director of the Ministry of the Interior, agreed to allow 4 Jewish settlements on the West Bank to form local councils. (Al Fajr Weekly, 11-17 January 1981)

Mr. Israel Rosenblatt, President of the Regional Council of the Gaza Coast, announced plans to establish four new settlements in Gaza for 1,200 families. There were then four existing settlements accommodating 550 families. (Al Ittihad, 3 February 1981)

A ring of settlements, bordering on Jerusalem, was to be established along the Ramot-Nabi Samwil-Givon road; 500 dunums of land were allocated for a new settlement in the Nabi Samwil area (north-west of Jerusalem; two communal settlements, Tel Hadasha (200 dunums) and Givat Zeev (200 dunums), were to be integrated in this urban network. Construction was to start in 1981. The areas were located on "State-owned land," in part belonging to the HIMANUTA company, i.e., a company registered in the name of HIMANUTA, an affiliate of the Jewish National Fund; another part is "State-owned land" administered by and registered in the name of the Israel Land Administration. (Ma'ariv, 15 December; Ha'aretz, 15 and 31 December; Asha'b, 15 and 16 December 1980; Al Fajr Weekly, 4-10 January 1981)

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Sharon, announced that seven settlements were being established on both sides of the 1948 cease-fire line in the Mey-Amy area, close to Wadi-Ara (in the north-west area of the West Bank). Three were to be constructed in the area occupied in June 1967. (Ma'ariv, 17 February 1981)

The Joint Settlement Committee of the Government and the Jewish Agency, headed by Mr. Sharon, approved the plan to establish six new settlements on the West Bank. It was reported that work would start in the very near future and that Israel Shekels (I.S.) 50 million ($5 million) had been allocated for the construction of these settlements; I.S. 100 million ($10 million) had been allocated for the expansion of 11 existing settlements. The new settlements are:

Mikhmarsh (on the Allon Road, north-east of Jerusalem, between Kfar, Adumim and Rimonim)

Yakir B (on the "Trans-Samaria" road, between Ariel and Elkana)

Nili (north-east of Mattityahu in the Modiin area)

Shaveh Shomoron B (west of Shaveh Shomoron on the Tulkarem-Nablus road)

Mitzpe-Govrin (near the village of Tarqumiya, on the western slopes of Mt. Hebron)

Tekoa B (south of Tekoa, bordering on the Judean desert)

(Jerusalem Post, 2 March; Ha'aretz, 2 and 12 March; Asha'b 9 March; Ma'ariv, 5 March; Al Fajr Weekly 8-14 and 15-21 March 1981)

The Ministerial Settlement Committee, headed by the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Sharon, decided to create two settlements: one in "Judea" and the other in "Samaria." One source reported their names as "Mattityahu B and Shaarey-Tikwa." These were reported to be the last of the settlements the creation of which had been announced by Mr. Begin several months earlier. In addition, the Committee decided to forest and fence off tens of thousands of dunums of "State lands and other lands in Judea" and "Samaria" which were bought by HIMANUTA in order to "prevent the continuation of the take-over by Arab villagers." The Committee also confirmed plans for another 800 housing units to be built in the existing settlements within the following three months, at a cost of I.S. 240 million. These units were to accommodate 3,000 settlers. (Ha'aretz, 17, 18, and 24 June; Jerusalem Post, 18 and 25 June; Le Continent, 19 June; Asha'b, 18 June 1981)

The Ministerial Settlement Committee decided to create a new settlement, Beit Aryeh B, in the Neve Tzuf Bloc, north-west of Ramallah. It was also decided that two Nahal outposts would be turned into civilian settlements: Ma'on and Carmel in southern Mount Hebron. The two settlements were to be populated by settler groups belonging to the "Amona" movement — the settlement movement of "Gush Emunim." It was further decided that a settlement would be built on the ruins of old Yatir; the settlement known as Yatir is officially called Mahaneh-Yatir. (Ha'aretz, 10 July; Asha'b, 12 July 1981)

(i) Construction of new Israeli settlements and expansion of existing ones

Two Nahal settlements were established, one in the Gaza Strip and one in the Jordan Valley. The one in the Gaza Strip is Gadid, formerly called Katif D, near Khan Yunis. The name of another settlement, originally called Gadid, near Rafah, has been changed to Bedolah. The regional council of the Gaza district now consists of the following civilian settlements: Netzer-Hazany, Ganey-Tal and Katif and the Nahal settlements of Netzarim (Deir El Balah), Bedolah and Gadid. The second Nahal settlement mentioned in the reports is Beit Ha'arava in the Jordan Valley near the Dead Sea. (Asha'b, 15 August; Ma'ariv, 19 August 1980)

Civilian settlers moved into Rimonim, located on the upper ridge of the Jordan Valley, replacing Nahal soldiers. It is the second site the Nahal has handed over recently, the first being Kochav Hashahar, located 3 kilometres north of Rimonim. (Jerusalem Post, 24 September 1980)

Mr. Drobles, Chairman of the Jewish Agency Settlement Department, stated that, since 1977, 84 settlements had been created or were under construction by the Government, of which 58 were located in the occupied territories. After he took office in 1978, he had planned to create 57 settlements of which 44 had been established. He estimated that there were 18,000 settlers living on the West Bank, including the Jordan Valley, 7,500 on the Golan Heights and 500 in the Gaza Strip. Another source gave the following figures: 122 settlements had been established since 1967 in the occupied territories; 68 of those had been established on the West Bank, 5 in the Gaza Strip, 20 in the Sinai and Rafah area and 29 on the Golan Heights. About 20,000 settlers were living in those settlements; an additional 80,000 had settled in Arab Jerusalem and the new quarters built around Jerusalem, Eshkol Heights, the French Hill, Neve-Yaacov and Gilo. (Ha'aretz, 10 September; Asha'b, 11 September; Al Ittihad, 19 September 1980)

Families had moved to the settlements of Homesh (located on a mountain top between Nablus and Jenin) and Vered Jericho, south of Jericho in the Jordan Rift. Vered Jericho is, after Na'ama and Beit Ha'arava, the third out of six settlements planned in the region. The settlement of Hinanit (Reihan B) was to be inhabited shortly thereafter. (Asha'b, 3 and 5 November; Jerusalem Post, 3 and 4 November; Ma'ariv, 3 November; Ha'aretz, 3 November; Al Fajr Weekly, 9-15 November 1980)

The Jewish National Fund started the construction of the Trans-Samaria road, linking the Tapuah settlement on the Nablus Jerusalem road with the Jordan Valley. As at 1 September 1981, this road was reported to have been virtually completed. (Ma'ariv, 11 November; Asha'b, 12 November 1980; Jerusalem Post, 2 September 1981)

Construction preparations on 700 dunums of confiscated land started in Beit Iskariya near Bethlehem, under protest by the local population. The High Court of Israel had issued an interim injunction on 22 August 1980 in favour of the landowner, Mr. Ibrahim Jadallah Odeh, preventing settlers from cultivating the land, but on 11 November 1980, in its judgment, the High Court rejected the applicant's claim. (Ha'aretz, 13 and 14 November; Al Fajr Weekly, 16-22 November 1980)

The settlement of Vered Jericho was officially inaugurated. It was the third in a settlement plan of six settlements in the Jericho area and was to accommodate 100 Jewish families. The settlements Na'ama and Beit Ha'arava had already been established; Almog B, Na'ama A and Na'ama B were to be established shortly thereafter. (Jerusalem Post, 31 December; Ha'aretz, 31 December; Asha'b, 31 December 1980)

A group of immigrants from the Soviet Union moved into "north-west Samaria" to establish a new settlement. Forty homes have been prepared for the immigrants settling in Hinanit. (Jerusalem Post, 13 January; Asha'b, 14 January; Al Fajr Weekly, 18-24 January 1981)

Two new settlements were set up in "Judea," called Maon and Carmel. These two settlements were to be Nahal outposts at first and were later to be occupied by "Gush Emunim," and were part of what Prime Minister Begin had called "the last 10 settlements" to be established on the West Bank. (Jerusalem Post, 13 January; Asha'b, 14 January; Ha'aretz, 9 January; Al Fajr Weekly, 18-24 January 1981)

Israeli Government sources reported that four new settlements had been established in the Katif area in the north of Gaza district. 1,200 Israeli families were to live in them and in 40 other existing settlements. Two other settlements in the Katif area were being completed. (Asha'b, 30 January 1981)

The Israeli settlement in Hebron known as Kiryat-Arba was the subject of two reports referring to its expansion as a result of joint action by the Military Government and the Israel Land Administration. The Military Government posted notices announcing its intention to "realize its ownership" of three separate plots of land of 100, 100 and 200 dunums respectively (according to one report 250, 500 and 200 dunums) located outside the boundaries of the settlement. Local residents were given 21 days to file objections, accompanied by written evidence of title. As no appeals were lodged, Kiryat-Arba residents maintained that the land was theirs. They subsequently planted trees on 25 dunums of the land and fenced off the area. Two reports stated that the Housing Ministry had already started building 35 apartments on Givat Harsina and was scheduled to start 72 more within the following few days. Other information stated that the Jaabary family from Hebron had appealed to the Military Government against the seizure of a 250-dunum area for the Kiryat-Arba expansion, stating that the land had been in the Jaabary family for many years and that the family was not aware of the notices issued by the Military Government concerning the take-over. The Military Governor of Hebron had given the family three weeks in which to lodge an appeal. (Jerusalem Post, 21 January; Ha'aretz, 21 January; Asha'b, 22 January; Al Fajr Weekly, 25-31 January; Ha'aretz, 28 January; Al Fajr Weekly, 1-7 February 1981)

A considerable number of reports reflected increased activity in the establishment of new settlements and the enlargement of existing ones prior to the June elections. The number of settlements when the current Government took office was "...placed at 24 and (had reached) 72 ..." The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Sharon, is quoted as saying that his goal of 85 settlements "would be easily reached by the 30 June elections." In this connection, large amounts of land, especially close to settlements were reported to have been declared "state land." (International Herald Tribune, 12, 21-22 and 26 February and 28 February-1 March; Ha'aretz, 25 February; Asha'b, 25 February 1981)

In April 1981, the summary given below was contained in a report giving the type and location of certain settlements in the occupied territories:

Agricultural settlements:

Yafit, in the Jordan Valley; the first French speaking "Olim" moved to Yafit in August 1980. Its economy is based on fruit and vegetables.

Katif, located in the Gaza Strip, is a religious settlement of modern Orthodox American "Olim." Its economy is based on growing flowers, tomatoes and vegetables.

Meor Modiin, located 10 kilometres east of Lod, was established in 1975 by a group of religious American "Olim."

Industrial villages:

Elazar, located in Gush Etzion, 17 kilometres south of Jerusalem, was set up by a group of religious American "Olim."

Mattityahu, located in the Modiin area, east of Lod, was to be populated in summer 1981 by families of the Orthodox "Merom ZionGarin" who were at that time undergoing training at Moshav Mevo Horon near Latrun.

Community settlements:

Tekoa, located 25 kilometres south-east of Jerusalem on the border of the Judean Hills and the Judean Desert. Its population (30 families) comes from the Soviet Union, the United States of America and France.

Givat Aryeh (Tekoa B), located 5 kilometres south of Tekoa, was to accommodate 40 families by mid-June 1981; over half the members were "Olim" from the United States of America.

Beit El, located 20 kilometres north of Jerusalem, a religious settlement. Its 60 families, mainly Israeli, include settlers from the Soviet Union, the United States of America and Switzerland. Around September 1981 an additional 30 families could be accommodated.

(Jerusalem Post, 10 April 1981)

The Allon road, 30 miles long and running from the settlement or Ma'ale Adumim on the Jerusalem-Jericho road northwards along the Jordan Valley ridge, was inaugurated on 23 February 1981. This was reported to have brought the total length of the roads built by the Israelis since the occupation of the West Bank to more than 125 miles. In addition, work was continuing on a number of roads "linking the coastal plain with the Jordan Valley." (Jerusalem Post, Times, 24 February; Le Continent, 26 February 1981)

Construction on a 50-mile road running through the Gaza Strip from Rafah to the north, linking the settlements of Katif and Netzarim, began. (Al Fajr Weekly, 15-21 March 1981)

Israeli bulldozers started work on lands belonging to the villages of Dura and Beit Awwa in the Hebron region, in the vicinity of the Israeli settlement of Mitzpe-Govrin. This was undertaken, despite an order nisi issued by the High Court of Justice at the request of landowners from Tarqumiya, preventing work in the area. The application of the Tarqumiya landowners to the High Court of Justice was made by a "Hebron Committee of Arab Lawyers," which had been formed for the purpose of assisting landowners in such claims. (Ha'aretz, 4 June; Al Fajr Weekly, 14-20 June 1981)

Ceremonies were held in a number of new Israeli settlements: In Beit Aryeh, north-west of Ramallah; in Maaleh-Amos, near Tekoa, south-east of Hebron; in Mattityahu between Lod and Ramallah; in Givat Zeev between Jerusalem and Ramallah; and in Emmanuel near Ariel, between Nablus and Ramallah. A new settlement called Matteh-Benjamin at Jebel Tawil, near El Bireh was established on an area of 5,000 dunums on which the Military Government had forbidden any construction since 1976. (Jerusalem Post, 18 and 22 June; Ha'aretz, 9, 14, 18, 19, 22 and 25 June; Asha'b, 25 June; Al Fajr Weekly, 14-20 June, 21-27 June, 28 June — 4 July 1981)

Some 900 families bought plots of land in the Elkana settlement area near the 1949 cease-fire line, south of Qalqiya under the "build your own house" scheme through the Yosh

Investment and Development Co., Ltd. This company started its activities after registering in the Tabu (public registration) in Ramallah a year earlier and had bought a number of sites, including an area with 460 plots of land (of 600 sq. metres each) west of Elkana, the price of which was $1,500-$2,000 each. A similar company had been created earlier in Kiryat-Arba, under the name of "Company for Development and Trade in Judea and Samaria." It bought lands near the villages of Amiriya, in the Nablus area. Fourteen landowners from Azzamut village claimed that land sold to the Kiryat-Arba Company was their property. They had applied to a local court in Nablus and had obtained a temporary injunction, but the applicants were unable to enforce it. (Yediot Aharonot, 23 July 1981)

(ii) Expropriation of property to carry out construction and expansion of settlements

In Kdumim, near Kfar Qaddum, Nablus, a new suburb was under construction on a 100-dunum (0.1 sq. km.) area in August 1980. Expropriation orders had been given shortly before to 12 landowners from Deir El Hatab, near the Israeli settlement of Eilon Moreh, who own 400 dunums (0.4 sq. km.) of land. Further expropriations were reported in the same area later in the year. (Ma'ariv, 12 August; Ha'aretz, 13 August 1980)

On 12 August 1980, the Military Government informed villages of Deir-Jarir in the Ramallah district that their lands had been expropriated for the benefit of Israeli settlements in the Kokhav-Hashahar area (north-east of Ramallah, bordering on the Jordan Valley). The villagers refused compensation. (Asha'b, Ha'aretz, 15 August 1980)

Inhabitants of Ramun, east of Ramallah and north-west of Jericho received seizure orders for 850 dunums (0.85 sq. km.) of land for the expansion of the Nahal settlement, Rimonim. The Military Government stated that the land had been seized and not expropriated, the legal difference being that formal ownership remains with the original owners. According to one report, the seizure order involved about 10,000 dunums (10 sq. km.) of land to which the owners could prove ownership because they possessed the "Tabu Kawashin," registration documents. (Asha'b, 25 August, Jerusalem Post, 26 August 1980)

Work started on the confiscated land of Anata and Al Issawiya in the Khan Al Ahmar area. The land was confiscated for the benefit of the Maaleh Adumim settlement. (Asha'b, 28 August 1980)

The Israeli authorities seized three wells used by farmers from Al Issawiya for the irrigation of their lands (Asha'b, 7 September, 1980)

The military authorities confiscated 50 dunums (0.05 sq. km.) of land from the village of Mardah (Silfit, south of Nablus). (Asha'b, 12 September 1980)

"Jordanian authorities" published a report in 1979 concerning confiscation of land by the Israeli authorities in the occupied territories up to 1978. 1,489,000 dunums (1,489 sq. km.), representing 27.3 per cent of the West Bank's total of 5,500,000 dunums (5,500 sq. km.) were stated to have been confiscated. Of that, 348,000 dunums (348 sq. km.) were confiscated for the purpose of establishing settlements and 1,141,000 dunums (1,141 sq. km.) were confiscated for other purposes, mainly military. The same source gave the following breakdown of the lands confiscated for settlements:

Region	Confiscated lands (in dunums)	Settlements	Number of settlers	Existing housing units	Housing being built
Jerusalem	94,564	11	76,600	26,918	44,450
Ramallah El-Bireh	35,800	12	1,514	198	50
Hebron-Bethlehem and Jericho	116,150	12	6,895	543	8,000
Nablus-Jenin and Tulkarm	20,860	14	1,050	246	2,237
Jordan Valley	80,700	19	4,688	145	330
Total	347,874	68	90,147	28,050	55,067

(iii) Budgetary allocations to carry out construction and expansion of settlements

The Knesset Finance Committee granted I.S. (Israeli Shekels) 100 million (approximately $10 million) for the establishment of the two settlements in the Katif bloc near Gaza. It also allocated I.S. 2 million for water projects on the Golan Heights and I.S. 3 million for water projects on the West Bank. (Al Fajr, 26 October; Ha'aretz, 22 October 1980)

A project to complete construction of existing settlements on the West Bank and the Golan Heights at an approximate cost of I.S. 87 million (approximately $8.7 million is under consideration by the "settlement bodies." Another project to create 10 new settlements on the West Bank and the Golan Heights and in the Gaza Strip at a cost of I.S. 150 million (approximately $15 million) is also under discussion. (Ha'aretz, 27 November 1980)

An additional I.S. 3.9 million was being spent on preparing the government buildings in Sheikh Jarrah (Jerusalem). According to another source, a sum of I.S. 14 million (approximately $1.4 million) had been allocated. (Jerusalem Post, 23 December; Ha'aretz, 31 December; Al Fajr Weekly, 4-10 January 1981)

Mr. Drobles, Head of the Settlement Department of the World Zionist Organization, obtained I.S. 50 million (approximately $5 million) for the creation of 6 settlements, to be established by July 1981, namely Mikhmash, Yakir B, Shaveh-Shomoron B (in the northern part of the West Bank), Tekoa B and Mitzpe-Govrin (in the Jericho-Dead Sea area), and Nili (on the slopes of Mount Hebron). Part of the funds were to go to the building of 400 additional homes in existing settlements. Mr. Drobles predicted that these measures would add 3,000 settlers to the population of the region, which by the summer of 1981 should have reached 25,000, and would bring the number of Israeli settlements on the West Bank and the Gaza Strip to, according to one source, 84. (Al Fajr Weekly, 15-21 February; Ma'ariv 10 February; Asha'b, 12 February; Ha'aretz, 19 February; Al Ittihad, 26 February; Jerusalem Post, 26 February; International Herald Tribune, 26 February; Ha'aretz, 26 February; International Herald Tribune, 21-22 February 1981)

Five hundred housing units are projected for the Karney Shomoron settlement. The sum of I.S. 100,000 (approximately $10,000) is to be allocated for each housing unit. In addition, 54 housing units are to be established in Eilon Moreh. Both settlements are located on the northern West

Bank. (Asha'b, 18 and 19 March 1981)

The Knesset Finance Committee approved the transfer of I.S. 100 million (approximately 8.4 million) from the budget reserve for settlement expansion in "Judea and Samaria." The decision concerns the settlement of Mikhmarsh, Shaveh Shomoron B, Tekoa B, Mitzpe-Govrin, Nili and Yakir B. (Ha'aretz, 22 May 1981)

The Knesset Finance Committee confirmed plans for another 800 housing units to be built in the existing settlements within the next three months, at a cost of I.S. 240 million (approximately $19.2 million). These units are to accommodate 3,000 settlers. (Ha'aretz, 16, 17 and 24 June; Jerusalem Post, 18 and 25 June; Le Continent, 19 June; Asha'b, 18 June 1981)

Soldiers started the construction of a road by uprooting hundreds of pine trees in Im Souda forest near Beit Fajjar village. The road is to link the Migdal Oz settlement with the Jerusalem-Hebron road. In addition, it was reported that fruit trees were uprooted on 500 dunums of land in Beit Iskariya. (Asha'b, 13 November; Al Fajr Weekly, 16-22 November 1980)

The Mayors of Bethlehem, Beit Sahur, Beit Jala and the mukhtars of the surrounding villages received a military order from the Israeli Military Governor forbidding them to continue to build in areas along main roads, particularly around military bases and settlements. Similar orders were issued concerning strips of land 50 to 100 metres wide along both sides of main roads in the Jenin area. Local sources maintained that thousands of dunums had been closed off in this way. (Asha'b, 25 January; Ha'aretz and Jerusalem Post, 26 January 1981)

Orders were issued by the Military Government prohibiting construction on and closing off 4,000 dunums (4 sq. km.) of land in El Bireh in the north of the city. A total of 10,000 dunams (10 sq. km.) of land in El Bireh has been closed off since 1967. (Al Fajr Weekly, 22-28 February; Al Ittihad, 17 February; Asha'b, 16 and 20 February 1981).

The settlements of Karney Shomoron, Maaleh Shomoron and Kdumim, on the northern West Bank, were connected to the Israeli regional electricity network and the Ministry of Energy announced that the remaining settlements in the region were to receive electricity in the near future. The Minister for Housing and Absorption announced that "2,000 new houses will be constructed in Karney Shomoron in the coming weeks." (Al Fajr Weekly, 22-28 February and 1-7 March; Ha'aretz, 19 February; Al Ittihad, 20 February 1981).

Israeli bulldozers started work on a 15 metre wide road through cultivated land in Abu Ayash, east of Hebron. The road was to serve the Kiryat Arba settlement; work started despite an injunction issued the week before by the Military Review Board. Work also continued on lands of the village of Tarqumiya on Mount Hebron, but was later halted upon the issuance of an order by the High Court of Israel. Villagers from Beit Lit near Anabta (Tulkarm area) maintained that the Military Government had declared a 1,500 dunum area (1.5 sq. km.) as "State-owned land." Inhabitants of both villages appealed to the Military Review Board. (Jerusalem Post, 13 and 16 March; Yediot Aharonot, 9 March; Ha'aretz, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 16 March; Asha'b, 10 March; Al Ittihad, 24 March; Al Fajr Weekly, 15-21 March; Ma'ariv, 17 March 1981).

A drive being carried out by the Government of Israel was said to have as its aim the settling of some 30,000 people in up to 80 settlements on the West Bank by election day (June 1981). The search for "uncontested land" followed the High Court's ruling in the Eilon Moreh case (22 October 1979) ordering the dismantling of the settlement of Eilon Moreh overlooking Nablus. In that judgment, the Court ruled that Jewish settlements could only be established on private land for "reasons of security." Following the Court's decision, the Military Government undertook an extensive review of land ownership on the West Bank. This view confirmed that, at most, only 50 per cent of the land on the West Bank had undergone the legal process of resolving ownership and finally registering title. (Jerusalem Post, 6 April 1981)

Mr. Mustafa Nusseibeh, Director of Water Supply on the West Bank, accused the Israeli authorities of "driving off" the Arab population. He said that 20,000 Jewish settlers in the Jordan Valley and on the West Bank received a quantity of 27 million cubic metres of water, while 700,000 Arab inhabitants received 26 million cubic metres. (Ha'aretz, 9 July; Asha'b, 10 July 1981)

Israeli bulldozers started to cut roads in preparation for the establishment of a settlement on the Anabta lands of Beit Lid, Ramin and Kafr Al Labd. This took place whilst the case concerning these lands was pending before the High Court of Justice. (Asha'b, 1 July; Ma'ariv, 9 July 1981)

THE USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN 1982

ANNEXATION AND SETTLEMENT

The United Nations Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Territories reported on October 20, 1982<sup>16</sup> as follows:

(a) Policy

The Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Simha Ehrlich, was quoted as saying: "Sinai must go, but other settlements will stay." The Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Michael Dekel, stated that construction in "Judea and Samaria" during the coming four years would be in the hands of public and private companies, building 8,000 apartments per year beginning in 1982. (Jerusalem Post, 17 September 1981)

The Israeli Ministry of Agriculture was reported to be preparing a new settlement strategy in the occupied territories. In the past, the settlement drive was directed principally by a small Israeli sector and ideologically aligned with the Gush Emunim Tehiya Party and the Likud. The future strategy was to concentrate on the Israeli population at large. The Government of Israel was to aim at strengthening urban settlements in the West Bank with special focus on thickening the 1967 border areas. The Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Michael Dekel, stated that the settlement policy in "Judea and Samaria" was determined by the Government of Israel alone and that the Jewish Agency was only an executive body. (Jerusalem Post, 6 October; Ha'aretz, 6 October; Al Fajr Weekly, 4-10 October 1981)

The Minister of Defence, Mr. Ariel Sharon, was quoted as saying that "establishing settlements in Eretz Yisrael does more to assure the future of the Jewish People than any written word or signed treaty." Subsequently, Mr. Sharon stated that "Israel will continue its policy of establishing settlements in the West Bank." He also stated "In the land of Israel from the River Jordan to the Mediterranean, Jews and Arabs have been living together for hundreds of years." (Ha'aretz, 16 October; Jerusalem Post, 16-25 October; Guardian, 28 October; Al Fajr Weekly, 30 October-5 November 1981)

The Joint Settlement Committee of the Government and the Zionist Federation decided to establish three new settlements in the Katif bloc (Gaza Strip): two outposts in northern Gaza and one settlement in southern Gaza. It was also decided to accelerate the creation of a regional centre in the Katif area and to complete the construction of the settlements Netzarim, Morag, Gadid and Gan-Or. The Committee decided to build two new roads in the Gush-Adumin area (near Ma'aleh Adumin) and in the Yatir area in southern Mt. Hebron, which was to be connected to Gush-Adumin and the Alon road. The Committee approved an earlier decision by the Settlement Committee to build a new settlement "Natafim" in Samaria, between Elkana and Ariel. The Ministerial Committee on Settlement Affairs decided to establish a communal settlement on the "Radar Hill," close to Ma'aleh Hahamisha, several hundred metres inside the occupied territories. It also envisaged the construction of a suburb of 250 villas. (Ha'aretz, 2, 8 November; Jerusalem Post, 6 November; Al Fajr Weekly, 20-26 November 1981)

The Minister of Defence, Mr. Sharon, stated that "Israel's reply to the eight points of the Saudi Arabian peace plan was eight Israeli settlements." (Jerusalem Post, 3, 6 November; Al Fajr Weekly, 20-26 November; Asha'b, 6 November; Ha'aretz, 6 November 1981)

The Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Shamir, declared that Israel did not sign the Camp David Accords with the intention of abandoning "Judea, Samaria" and Gaza. He affirmed that "no force in the world shall disconnect us from these areas." Mr. Begin stated that Israel would not cede its rights to continue settlement activities, although it had already restricted itself to state lands that were not cultivated. (Ha'aretz, 27 January; Jerusalem Post, 29 January)

According to the Jewish Agency Settlement Department, development of Jewish settlements on the Golan Heights has been given less priority, despite the law annexing the region. The Israeli Cabinet allocated funds to develop and increase Israeli settlement on the West Bank and Golan Heights. The Israeli Ministers of Transport and Housing, Mr. Haim Corfu and Mr. David Levy, confirmed Israel's commitment to widen Israeli settlement in the West Bank. (Jerusalem Post, 21 February; Ma'ariv, 23 February; Al Fajr Weekly, 26 February-4 March, 12-18 March)

The Prime Minister, Mr. Begin, affirmed that "in any future negotiations on a peace treaty between Israel and its neighbours, Israel will reject any proposal to dismantle any Jewish settlement." In addition, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Shamir, stated "that the Government's intention in seeking a parliamentary ban on the removal of Jewish settlements from the West Bank and Gaza was to make clear to future negotiating partners not to expect such a thing." (Jerusalem Post, 2, 4, 5 May)

(b) Plans

A new urban settlement, "Ganey Modi'in," was to be set up within a few months in the Modi'in area on both sides of the Green Line. In addition it was reported that a new settlement, established near El Bireh in Jebel Tawil, would be called "Psagot." This settlement was intended to serve as a regional centre for an entire area called "Matteh-Benjamin." (Ha'aretz, 17 August; Asha'b, 18 August 1981)

The Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Dekel announced plans for three new settlements in the Jordan Valley, before enlarging existing ones. This plan, according to one source, entailed the doubling of the population of the West Bank settlements; according to another source, 100,000 settlers could be accommodated within four years. Mr. Drobles, head of the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, stated that with the completion of an outline plan for 20 settlements in "Judea and Samaria" it was possible to build an infrastructure for 2,000 to 4,000 additional housing units. He was later quoted as saying that 12 to 18 new settlements were to be created in the next four years; according to one source, the Zionist Federation intended to establish three new settlements in the Gaza District, Golan Heights and Jordan Valley. In the preceding four years more than 60 new settlements had been established. According to another source, an estimated 25,000 Jews were living in 85 settlements, 70 of which were built in the four years since Mr. Begin became Prime Minister. One source quoted Mr. Drobles as saying that existing settlements would be strengthened to take 50,000 settlers and that a further 36,000 would be put in 10 new settlements. It was also reported that a new settlement, accommodating 400 families, was to be established south of Hebron in accordance with a settlement plan for that area in which six new settlements were to be established. In addition, two agricultural settlements were planned around Nablus. Mr. Drobles, Chairman of the Jewish Agency Settlement Department, reported on plans to establish two new settlements in the Golan in addition to the three settlements which had just been established and a fourth one under construction. His master plan to settle 100,000 Jews in the West Bank in the period 1981-1985 would cost 20 billion Israel shekels (approximately $1.25 billion). (Ma'ariv, 13 August; Asha'b, 14 August, 4, 17 November; Jerusalem Post, 13, 17 September, 5 October; Al Fajr Weekly, 13-19 September, 27 September-3 October, 4-10 October, 6-12 November, 20-26 November; Ha'aretz, 5 October; Times, 6 October; International Herald Tribune, 5 October)

A new settlement called "Anatol" located near the Arab village of Anata, between Neve-Yaacov and Mishor Adumin in the Jerusalem area, was to be established to accommodate 60 families at a first stage. Other sources revealed plans to create settlements beyond the Green Line. Mr. Drobles stated that the creation of a settlement north-east of Lake Tiberias, beyond the Jordan River, could accommodate settlers from the Yamit area, in particular from Neot-Sinai and Tarsag. The "Herut" movement launched a plan to create the town of "Kadihav Yair," beyond the Green Line, near Kfar Sava, north of Tel Aviv, to accommodate 5,000 settlers in some 1,400 flats; the site consisted of an "observation post" populated by 16 families. Another source gave the name "Kokhav Meir" and its location "the West Bank." (Ma'ariv, 9 September; Ha'aretz, 21, 23 September; Asha'b, 10, 22 September; Al Fajr Weekly, 27 September-3 October 1981)

A new town in "Samaria" (northern West Bank) to be called "Kokhav Yair" and located between Qalqilya and Taiyiba, was being planned. Some 1,400 flats were to be built and to house immigrants from South Africa. (Yediot

Aharonot, 23 September 1981)

One source gave a detailed description of Mr. Drobles' plan. In each urban settlement up to 10,000 people were to be settled; up to 500 families were to be housed in smaller settlements (villages). At the same time, at a smaller level, an increase in settlers was planned for the southern slopes of Mt. Hebron, in the southern West Bank, on top of the mountains (northern West Bank) and on the Jordan Valley slopes. The plan also provided for the cutting of four new roads: a Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway going through Beit Horon and Modi'in; a road going from the coastal plain to the Jezreel Valley (the trans-Menasheh road in the northern West Bank); a trans-northern Samaria road from Hadera to Jenin; and a trans-Beyamin road (Ychad, Beit-Arieh-Neve, Tzuf-Ofra). The permanent settlement of Elon-Moreh was to be called "Kiryat-Elon-Moreh," and built on top of a 754-metre high mountain overlooking the valley of Nablus. (Ma'ariv, 5 October 1981)

According to Israeli sources, six new settlements were to be established in the area between Gaza and Sinai after the Israeli withdrawal from Sinai. Poalei Agudat Israel, the Jewish orthodox labour movement, was planning to establish a community settlement in the occupied territories in the area of Latrun. There were already five settlements affiliated with this movement in the occupied territories. The United Kibbutz Movement announced a five-year settlement plan for the establishment of three new settlements each year, in all parts of the country, including "Judea and Samaria." (Al Fajr Weekly, 23-29 October, 30 October-5 November; Jerusalem Post, 19 October)

A new residential suburb called "Tzefon-Yerushalaim" (north Jerusalem) was to be built near Neve Ya'acov. The new suburb was to contain 1,200 flats and the Ministry of Housing and Construction was to start land preparation works. Plans to construct 30,000 apartments in the surrounding areas of Jerusalem by 1985 were to be submitted to the Israeli Cabinet shortly. In addition, the Minister of Housing, Mr. Levy, stated that a new settlement was planned to connect the Neve Yaa'cov and Beit Hanina suburbs with Sheikh Jarrah in Jerusalem. (Jerusalem Post, 20 November; Ha'aretz, 24 November; Al Fajr Weekly, 6-12 November, 20-26 November 1981)

The Israeli Government is planning to establish two new settlements in the Golan Heights. According to a source, the Settlement Department of the Zionist Federation planned to enlarge Israeli settlements in order to accommodate thousands of settlers within one year. A new settlement called Beit Arieh H is scheduled to be established near Rantiss, between Nablus and Ramallah. (Ha'aretz, 7 December; Al Fajr Weekly, 11-17 December; Asha'b, 8, 31 December 1981)

The Golan Settlements Committee presented a plan to settle 20,000 new settlers in the next four years, raising the Israeli population there to approximately 27,000. The plan consisted of the establishment of seven new settlements: Mitzpeh Ram on Mount Qeta in the northern Golan, Bnei Btira (east of Birhat Ram), Bnei Tzfat, Ein Simsim, north of Katzrin, Beit Zeida, east of the "Jordan Park," a settlement between Ramat Magshimim and Yonatan in the southern Golan, and a settlement on the site of Nahal Zion. (Al Fajr Weekly, 22-28 January; Jerusalem Post, 7 January; Ha'aretz, 7 January, 19 February; Al Ittihad, 8 January)

The West Bank Military Government drew up a new "master plan" for the area surrounding Jerusalem. The plan, which was approved by the Supreme Planning Council for the Judea and Samaria Region, covers an area from Ein Yabrud, near Ramallah in the north, to Beit Fajjat near Bethlehem in the south. The new plan earmarks vast areas for settlement and for new roads linking Jerusalem with the new settlement areas. In addition, a plan was put forward to create three new settlements called Elisha (provisional name: Ma'aleh-Melalchim); Mitzpeh Gilad (provisional name: Peles) and Hasmedet (provisional name: Yavok), in the northern Jordan Valley. (Jerusalem Post, 1-3 February; Al Fajr Weekly, 22-28 January; Ha'aretz, 1-2 February)

A total of 16 new outposts were to be created and to be completed before 26 April 1982 in "Judea and Samaria" and in the Golan Heights region. The 16 outposts are: Hever — east of Hebron; Lahav — west of Hebron; Amatzia; Negohot; Mitzpeh-Adulam; Telem; Tirza; Grizim (on Mt. Gerizim); Mul-Nevo (Beit Ha'arava B'); Maluah; Peret; Peles; Gan (near Jenin) and Harish in the West Bank and Keta and Manpuha in the Golan Heights. (Ha'aretz, 2 January, 2, 25 February; Jerusalem Post, 4 January, 3 February; Al Fajr Weekly, 19-25 February, 26 February, 4 March)

The Interministerial Committee on Settlement accepted a proposal by the World Zionist Federation's Settlement Department to allocate 30,000 dunums of "state land" in the Jordan Valley for agriculture. Large tracts of land, previously frozen for security considerations, could be used for the creation of 10 new settlements to close some of the gaps in the settlement chain along the Jordan River. In addition to creating new settlements, the proposal called for expanding existing settlement covering 4,000 dunums. Mr. Begin accepted a proposal put forward by the Minister of Education, Mr. Hammer, to create the same number of settlements in Judea and Samaria as the number of settlements which are being dismantled in the Yamit area. (Jerusalem Post, 16 February; Ha'aretz, 17 February, 11 March)

The Zionist Federation's Settlement Department intends to accelerate the construction of settlements in the northern Gaza Strip. Five settlements are planned to be created in northern Gaza: Nativ-Ha'assara B, Netzarim (which is at present a provisional settlement) and three others, one of which will be a communal settlement. (Ha'aretz, 7 March; Al Fajr Weekly, 12-18 March)

The Israeli authorities decided to create three new towns in the West Bank: Beit-Arieh (located west of Birhan and south-east of Elkana); Nili (near Modi'in) and Yakir (north of Birkan). These towns are designed to intensify the Jewish presence in the centre of Samaria. In northern Samaria, 27,000 dunums of State and absentee lands have recently been located and are allocated to the settlements of Karney Shomoron, Elhana and Emmanuel. (Ha'aretz, 19 April)

Seven new settlements are planned in the West Bank. They are: Neot-Adumin (east of Ubeidiya village, in the Bethlehem area); Salit B' (west of Salit); Garey-Modi'in (west of Mathityahu); Elkana D, J, H and Sha'arey Tikva, east of Elkana. All settlements, except Elkana J, will be built on State lands. (Jerusalem Post, 26 April; Ha'aretz, 26 April; Asha'b, 26, 27 April)

The plan to create 16 settlements in the West Bank, based on the proposal to settle 100,000 Jews there within the next four years, was submitted to the Cabinet. Five out of the 16 proposed settlements are already in existence as Nahal outposts. The budget for this plan is estimated at 6 million Israeli

Shekels. The names of the planned settlements are: Beitar (near the village of Battia, south of Jerusalem); Nagid (Beit Unmar area, north of Hebron); Ein-Arow (near Al Arub refugee camp); Kolihava (near Si'ir, north of Hebron); Yahin (near Barin-Naim, south of Hebron, at present Nahal post); Susia, (south of Hebron); Atviel (south of Hebron); Ginat (north of Jenin); Matar, (east of Jenin); Moked (east of Jenin); Hermesh (south of Reihai settlement); Tirsa (south-west of Tubas); Braliha (on Mt. Garizim, near Nablus); Milihmetet (near Nablus); Tel Haim (south of the original site of Eilon-Moreh); and Maaleh-Levona (near Nablus). (Ha'aretz, 29 April; Asha'b, 30 April; Al Fajr Weekly, 7-13 May)

The Israeli authorities plan the creation of nine new settlements (according to another source 11) this year in the West Bank. They are: Netafim (near Beit-Aba); Ateret; Yoezer; Nahal-Ginat (a Nahal outpost near Jenin); Hermesh (a Nahal outpost near Dotan); Maon (Mt. Hebron); Yavi (Mt. Hebron); Nahal-Adura (Mt. Hebron); and Nahal Eshkolot (Mt. Hebron). In addition, five settlements are planned in the Gaza Strip (Katif bloc); four in the Golan Heights and four others in the Jordan Valley. (Ha'aretz, 22 April, 28 June; Asha'b, 22, 23 May, 29 June; Al Ittihad, 29 June; Al Fajr Weekly, 2-8 July)

In the next four years 16,000 settlement units will be built in the city of Jerusalem and its suburbs. According to Mr. Drobles, chairman of the Jewish Agency Settlement Department, the plan envisages the creation of 17 municipal settlements within the Greater Jerusalem area in order to absorb a population of 700,000 Jews. (Asha'b, 4 June; Al Fajr Weekly, 28 May-3 June)

(c) Measures, including budgetary appropriations

The Israeli authorities started preparation works on an area of 400 dunums for the creation of a new settlement on the Golan Heights provisionally called "Ein Shimshon," located near Ein-Samsan, four kilometres north-east of Katzrin. The Israeli company Diur, part of the Solel Boneh Company, sold houses in Ariel, near Nablus. Subsequently it was reported that 60 out of 83 houses scheduled to be built in Ariel were sold before work on them had started. According to one source, it was the first time that the Diur company had undertaken construction in the occupied territories. In addition, according to one source, an Israeli company had recently bought 15,000 dunums of Arab lands in the West Bank for Israeli housing. The Mayor of Anabta, Mr. Walid Hamdallah, reported that an individual had sold a plot of 42 dunums of land on the main road between Tulkarem and Anabta to the Israeli Himanuta Company. (Ma'ariv, 20 August; Ha'aretz, 6 September; Asha'b, 21 August; Al Fajr Weekly, 30 August-5 September, 13-19 September, 27 September-3 October 1981)

It was reported that Mr. Yitzhak Mod'ai, Minister without portfolio, had moved his offices to East Jerusalem. He was the second minister, after the Minister of Justice, to move to East Jerusalem. In December 1981, part of the Israeli Housing Ministry moved their offices to East Jerusalem; another 1,500 employees were scheduled to move by the summer of 1982. The Minister of Housing was the third minister to move his offices, following the Minister of Justice and the Minister without portfolio. (Ha'aretz, 19 August, 30 December; Ma'ariv, 3, 28 December; Jerusalem Post, 6 December)

The trans-Samaria road, 60 kilometres long, stretching from Kafr Kasim within the pre-1967 line to the Israeli settlement of Phatzael in the Jordan Valley, was to be opened, according to the Jewish National Fund, by the end of 1981. One source estimated the total cost at 65 million Israeli Shekels (IS) ($US 4.82 million). The Minister of Defence, Mr. Ariel Sharon, gave instructions for the cultivation of 3,000 dunums (3 sq. km.) of land adjacent to the Jordan Valley. A new settlement, Carmel, was set up south of Hebron, the first in a series of settlements planned for the hills surrounding Hebron. Ten Gush Emunim settlers moved in. (Jerusalem Post, 2, 10 September; Ha'aretz, 3 September; Ma'ariv, 9 September; Asha'b, 3 September; Al Fajr Weekly, 13-19 September, 27 September-3 October 1981)

The Military Government promulgated a regulation extending the validity of contracts that the Jordanian Government had concluded with private landowners in the West Bank for afforestation projects, thereby preventing the return of the land to its original owners for another 10 years. Under Jordanian law, the land was due to be returned to the landowners after a period of 15 years. The Legal Department of the Military Government had in the past extended the validity of powers of attorney, which under Jordanian law are valid for a period of five years. Local lawyers claimed that by extending the validity of powers of attorney, Israeli land-purchasing companies were able to avoid the registration of land transactions. (Jerusalem Post, 14 September 1981)

An Israeli family recently signed a contract to sell 1,500 dunums (1.5 sq. km.) of rocky lands it had bought from Arabs in the Modi'in area to the "Hatzav" settlement movement. Under the contract the settlement movement would pay $2.25 million within a period of nine months. In addition, it was reported that the Military Government seized over 800 dunums of land between Mazra'at esh Sharqiya and Kafr Malik, near Ramallah, for military purposes. The Military Government, according to one report, declared lands belonging to villagers in Ara'an and Wa'ar Ashaib, to be "state land." Two sources stated that renovation works in the Jewish quarter of Hebron were continuing at an accelerated pace. (Ha'aretz, 2, 11 September; Jerusalem Post, 18 September; Al Fajr Weekly, 13-19 September; Asha'b, 3, 18 September 1981)

Mr. Drobles, head of the World Zionist Organization's Settlement Department, stated that 24,000 Jews were living in "Judea and Samaria" settlements, an increase of 7,000; in the preceding six months 1,870 housing units had been constructed. He also stated that in one year 23 settlements had been established in "Judea and Samaria" and the Jordan Valley; eight settlements had been established, or were under construction, over the preceding four months. There were in all 62 settlements in "Judea and Samaria" and 20 settlements in the Jordan Valley. In the Jericho area, four settlements had been established and a fifth one called "Tzuri" was under construction. (Ha'aretz, 9 September; Al Fajr Weekly, 13-19 September 1981)

Works were reportedly under way under the Temple Mount and the Aksa Mosque in the course of making repairs north of the Western Wall. Subsequently, the works were ordered to a halt by the Minister of Religious Affairs, although some sources reported that work had continued in secrecy. The Moslem Waqf sealed, according to one report, the Temple Mount cistern from the inside after the Israeli Police had sealed the outside in order to protect the Holy Shrine against Jewish penetration. (Jerusalem Post, 28, 30 August, 10 September; Yediot Aharonot, 30 August; Ha'aretz, 1, 14 September; Le Monde, 29 August; Times, 3 September; documents A/36/489-S/14684, 14 September, and A/36/519-S/14695, 18 September, 1981)

A new settlement was established in the centre of "Samaria" called Nili. Nili was set up by a decision of the Ministerial Committee on Settlement of the previous Government and was to be populated by members of Gush Emurim. By a military order, the Israeli authorities prevented inhabitants from Yatta, Bani Naim and Sair villages from entering their lands near the Dead Sea on the grounds that their lands were being used for military purposes. A land survey by the Israeli Military Government was to be conducted to complete all previous partial surveys in the occupied territories. The Israeli authorities repealed their decision to confiscate 500 dunums of lands owned by residents from Beit Sureik and Biddo after the owners brought title deeds that proved ownership of the lands. (Ma'ariv, 28 September; Al Fajr Weekly, 4-10 October 1981)

The Military Governor of Ramallah announced that 600 dunums of land were confiscated for "Military and security" purposes in Bi'lin village; an additional 3,000 dunums had been earlier confiscated for the same purpose. The plot of 600 dunums was the subject of a court case when Mr. Yousef Khatib, head of the Ramallah "Village League," claimed ownership. In September 1981 the civil court in Ramallah had annulled the sale of the plot by the alleged owner to an Israeli company. (Al Fajr Weekly, 4-10 October 1981)

The Military Government informed the head of the local council of Talluza, north of Nablus, of the expropriation of 131 dunums of land. A new settlement, Beit Horon, was soon to be established south of Beit Ur sponsored by the Jewish National Fund. Israeli surveyors and bulldozers started work on the lands of Arzun Al Alme and Beit Amin villages near Qalqilya despite the fact that the Israeli High Court was still considering the cases of these lands. The landowners had appealed to the Israeli High Court after a Nablus court ruled that the land had been sold illegally by Nimr Abu Najla, who had forged documents and then sold the land to an Israeli company. (Ha'aretz, 22-29 October; Jerusalem Post, 29 October; Al Fajr Weekly, 11-17 October, 16-22 October 1981)

The "Judea and Samaria" Land Settlement Company bought 470 dunums for the Sharei Tikva settlement and 434 dunums for the Meskha settlement. (Al Fajr Weekly, 16-22 October, 30 October-5 November 1981)

Settlers from Kiryat Arba moved to the Schneersohn House in Hebron, close to the "Hadassa" building. The Arab occupants of the house had been evacuated from it shortly after the "Hadassa" building murder for "security reasons." (Ma'ariv, 27 October; Ha'aretz, 27 October; Jerusalem Post, 27 October; Al Fajr Weekly, 30 October-5 November 1981)

The Israeli authorities sent Mr. Judeh Idris from the Old City in Jerusalem a court order instructing him to vacate his house in Aqbat Al Bustami and to pay a IS 5,000 fine. The Israelis claim the house to be the property of the Custodian of Absentee Property. The Idris family reportedly had owned the house for more than 100 years. Land belonging to Mr. Issa Hussein Abdel Nabi was expropriated for the expansion of the Gilo settlement. In 1970 the authorities had already expropriated 44 dunums of Mr. Nabi's land and his house. (Al Fajr Weekly, 6-12 November 1981)

The Israeli authorities decided to hand back 900 dunums of land to inhabitants of El Bireh that had been closed off in 1976 for military reasons; 200 dunums of State land was allocated to Israeli settlers for the expansion of Psagot (Jebel-Tawil); 400 dunums belonging to absentees remained in state possession. Psagot is located near the Jerusalem-Beit — El road. Beit Suraf villagers were informed of the seizure of 440 dunums (6,000 dunums, according to another source) of their lands for "military needs"; 3 Nahal outposts were to be established on the land. In Bani Naim, the mukhtars were informed of the seizure of 300 dunums of their lands by the army. The Mayor of Dura was informed that a military camp would be installed on the lands of the Khalil family in Dura. (Ha'aretz, 17, 18 November; Jerusalem Post, 18 November; Asha'b, 17 November 1981)

Residents of the village of Bani Naim (east of Hebron) complained that the Military Government closed off 50,000 dunums of land extending from the eastern slope of the village to the Judean Desert and the Dead Sea. (Ha'aretz, 27 November; Jerusalem Post, 27 November 1981)

The Israeli Civil Appeals court in Jerusalem ordered Mrs. Zahira Abdel Razzah Salymeh (60) to destroy her house in the Shayyah area, "or else the Jerusalem municipality will do the job," for lack of a building license. Mrs. Salymeh had previously been evicted from her house in the Old City; she had reportedly subsequently paid license fees and a fine for her house in the Shayyah area, although the Jerusalem municipality never issued her with a license. Mr. Sami Farid Dahbour, resident of the Al Musrara area in Jerusalem, received a final notice from the Custodian of Absentee Property to evacuate his house upon an IS 16,000 fine and eviction by force by 22 December 1981. Mr. Yunis Hussein Sayam and his brother, from the Sheikh Jarrah neighbourhood, were informed by the Israeli authorities that their two houses and four dunums of land were seized for settlement purposes. (Al Fajr Weekly, 27 November-10 December, 11-17 December; Asha'b, 1 December 1981)

Since the Israeli elections in June 1981 the Israeli Government had established 10 new settlements in the West Bank in addition to the construction of private homes on existing settlements and "purchased property." The Israeli Ministry of Housing started work on land for a settlement called Givat Zeev, in Beit Hanina, north of Jerusalem, despite the fact that an application against the measure was still sub judice. The settlement was part of a project to increase the Jewish population of Jerusalem by 20,000. Another settlement, "Shimaly Jerushalaim," located in northern Jerusalem, between Ramallah and Beit Hanina, was inaugurated. Work started on a new settlement (Beit Horon) on lands belonging to villagers of Beit Ur, Ramallah district; 15 Israeli settler families from a nucleus of the "National Worker" moved into the settlement Sanur (north of Nablus). Sanur is the second of six settlements scheduled for the region. The first, Homesh (originally named Ma'aleh Nahul) was situated near the Nablus-Jenin road. Settlers also moved into "Mul-Nevo," south-east of Jericho and Na'ama, north of Jericho. (Ha'aretz, 2, 22, 28 December; Jerusalem Post, 23 December; Asha'b, 31 December; Al Fajr Weekly, 4-10 December, 26 December 1981-7 January 1982)

Inhabitants of the villages Sanniriya, Mas'ha, Azzun, Atma, Beit Amin and Zamnir in the Kalqilya district were informed that 7,000 dunums of their land had been declared "state land" and had been allocated for the expansion of Elkana. One hundred dunums of land were seized in Dhahiriya village (near Hebron); the Israeli authorities informed residents of the villages of Urif, Asira, Hwara and Borin (near Nablus) that some of their lands were to be confiscated for the establishment of a new Israeli settlement. In Bani Naim (Hebron area) work started on 300 dunums of privately-owned Arab land from the village of Khilet-El-Arish. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 24 December; Al Fajr Weekly, 4-10 December, 11-17 December, 26 December-7 January 1982)

Ten villages in "Samaria" were connected to the Israeli electricity grid. The Jerusalem District Electricity Company, for the first time in 10 years, was authorized to buy a new generator. (Ma'ariv, 8 December; Jerusalem Post, 6 December; Ha'aretz, 30 December 1981)

A new regional council, the South Hebron council, was established in the Mt. Hebron area. It groups three existing settlements, Carmal, Ziv and Mahaneh-Yattar, and six further settlements. (Ha'aretz, 25 December 1981)

Over 2,000 dunums of private land were closed off and subsequently expropriated for military needs close to the village of Mughaiyir (north-east of Ramallah). Some 20,000 dunums had been expropriated earlier from villagers in that area for the same purpose. The villagers were offered compensation by the Custodian of Absentee Property. The land in question is located near the "Allon Road," which separates the Jordan Valley from the rest of the West Bank. Israeli private as well as government bodies bought hundreds of dunums of land located between Rujuib (the old Eilon-Moreh settlement) and Jebel Kabir (the new Eilon-Moreh site). Members of the Khater family from Jebel Mukabar (East Jerusalem) complained that an Israeli company had started to carry out land preparation works. (Jerusalem Post, 4 January; Ha'aretz, 4-5 January; Al Fajr Weekly, 8-14 January)

The Custodian of Absentee Property Department conducted a wide-scale campaign and asserted that dozens of houses were "discovered" in the Moslem Quarter of Jerusalem's Old City belonging to Jews which had been bought 300 years ago and which were duly registered. (Ma'ariv, 10 January; Al Fajr Weekly, 15-21 January, 29 February-4 March)

The Israeli military authorities took over 200 dunums of land near the village of Al Jeeb, in the Ramallah region. An Israeli company bought 100 dunums of land in the village of Beit Amin, near Qalqilya; the villagers subsequently applied to the High Court of Justice, which is considering the case. The Military Government informed villagers from Abud, near Ramallah, that 800 dunums of their lands had been designed for building a settlement; Beit Surik inhabitants complained that Israeli settlers prevented them from entering their lands, alleging that the 700 dunums were theirs. (Ha'aretz, 24, 31 January, 1 February; Jerusalem Post, 31 January, 1 February; Asha'b, 11 January; Al Fajr Weekly, 15-21 January, 5-11 February)

Mr. Manoah Zehavi has been appointed co-ordinator of an interministerial committee within the Ministry of Defence designed to locate State lands and absentee lands which will be put at the disposal of the Israel Defence Forces and the Jewish settlements. According to a source quoting Minister Sharon, 30,000 Jews had settled in "Judea and Samaria" since 1967. The demand for lands in "Judea and Samaria" had risen, following the decision to pay high compensation to the Yamit evacuees. A great demand for lands has been reported in the areas of Karney Shomoron, Ma'aleh Shomoron, Ariel, Efrat and Elkana. An Israeli company called Rassco Company offered to pay IS 65,000 ($US 4,000) per dunum for a transaction of 34 dunums of privately-owned Arab land from landowners in Ma'aleh Shomoron. (Ma'ariv, 12 January; Ha'aretz, 13 January, 3 February)

The Military Government in the Nablus area informed inhabitants of the villages Kafr Qalil, Burin and Hakef located on Mt. Gerizin (Nablus area) that 200 dunums of land were being declared state land. Villagers of Qarawat and Sarta (Nablus area) related that surveyors started to carry out works for the establishment of a new settlement. Digging works have started on a 140-dunum piece of land in Wadi Nuweima. According to the source, this land is defined "absentee property." The Military Government decided to cancel a decision to confiscate Arab land in the village of Kufir Hares, near Nablus. The 250 dunums were to be given back to its owners, the Islamic Waqf. (Ha'aretz, 10 February; Al Fajr Weekly, 15-21 January; 12-18 February)

A 4,000-dunum area south of Jerusalem was declared state land for the purpose of creating a new urban settlement called "Beitan," located between Beit-Jala and Battir; the mukhtars of Battir and Walaja were informed of the possibility of lodging an appeal with the "Military Government's advisory committee." According to experts of the State Land Administration, most of the area consisted of State lands and comprised Jewish-owned plots that were bought before the 1948 war. Residents of the villages Deir Ballut and Kafr Ed Dik in "Samaria" protested over seizures of land; preparations had been completed for the creation of a new settlement called Yerovam (provisional name Beit Aryeh B'). (Ha'aretz, 14 February; Al Fajr Weekly, 19-25 February)

The Israeli military authorities confiscated 900 dunums of land in the village of Tammun, near Jenin. In Ramallah, the Israeli authorities leveled 600 dunums of land in the village of Mitya. The military authorities informed 40 residents of the village of Saffa, in the Ramallah area, that 500 dunums of their lands had been confiscated, against compensation. Israeli bulldozers started works on Arab land in the village of Beit Iskaria in the Hebron district. The owner, Mr. Ibrahim Attalah, had already obtained an order nisi from the High Court of Justice barring further work on his land. One thousand dunums of land were reportedly expropriated in the village of Aqraba, near Nablus. Twenty thousand dunums of land (20 km<sup>2</sup>), belonging to residents of Surif, north of Hebron, were confiscated; the owners were given 21 days to lodge their appeal. (Ha'aretz, 18 March; Al Fajr Weekly, 12-18 February, 26 February-4 March, 19-25 March)

A number of reports indicated alleged forgery in land sales in the West Bank. The citizen Qadoura Abu Qadus from Azun, near Qalqilya, was threatened by Jewish brokers to sell his land. Moshe Reich, a contractor from the Elkana settlement, was arrested in connexion with the case, together with two suspects from Jaljula and Kafr Kassem, villages in Israeli proper. A magistrate's court in Petah-Tikva extended the detention of one of the suspects. (Jerusalem Post, 10 January, 24 February; Ha'aretz, 18 January, 25 January, 24 February; Ma'ariv, 26 January; Asha'b, 1, 7 January, 27 April; Al Fajr Weekly, 12-18 March 1982)

The budget of the Ministry of Finance for settlements in the occupied territories in the financial year 1982-1983 would reach one billion shekels ($US 50 million); Mr. Drobles, head of the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, stated that there were 126 settlements in the occupied territories, 98 of which had been established under the auspices of the Settlement Department. In "Judea and Samaria" there were 63 settlements; the Ministry of Defence was setting up four Nahal outposts. In the Jordan Valley there were 25 settlements and six more were planned (three in the northern Jordan Valley and three in the south, designed to close the "Jericho corridor," referred to in the Allon plan). In the Golan Heights there were 33 settlements and four were under construction. In 1982-1983, 16 more settlements and 14 Nahal outposts were planned or were under construction. The plan for the West Bank providing for a Jewish population of 100,000 envisaged three categories of areas. In the first, close to Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, there was to be only private construction with planning and infrastructure by the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department. In the third area, located mainly on the "Samaria" mountain ridges, in the Judea desert and on the Hebron mountains, settlements were to be given financial advancement. According to Mr. Drobles, Nahal outposts were designed to curb the "illegal spread of Arabs in vital areas." Five such outposts were under construction in the Hebron mountains; seven in the center of "Samaria" and two outposts were under construction in the Golan Heights. (Ha'aretz, 19 February 1982)

Nahal Nimrod was established between the Druze villages of Ma'asada and Majdal Shams. The construction was started of Alfey Menasheh, a settlement designed for employees of the security establishment, near Karney Shomron. The settlement was to accommodate 1,800 families, but the State was buying more land in the region; Alfey-Menasheh was to be a "security town" by a decision of the Ministerial Committee on Settlement Affairs of 8 August 1979, which, according to a report, was being made public for the first time. (Ha'aretz, 3, 17 March 1982)

The Israeli authorities closed off areas and expropriated lands in different parts of the territories. In Hebron, 27 dunums were expropriated belonging to Mr. Soleiman Abu Seryna, who subsequently appealed to the Israeli High Court of Justice. In Heja (Jenin district), villagers were not allowed to reach 3,000 dunums of their land. In Nablus, Israeli bulldozers resumed work on 4,800 dunums of land belonging to villagers in Kafr Kalil and Borein. In addition, the Israeli authorities informed citizens from Sofian (near Qalqilya) of the expropriation of 34 dunums. In Jebel Mokabar (Jerusalem area) Israeli bulldozers started work on 40 dunums of land belonging to Mr. Ahmed Al Haleysy. Israeli bulldozers worked on land of inhabitants of Yinsafout for the expansion of "Emmanuel settlement," despite a court order halting work, pending proof of ownership. The work was subsequently halted. Three thousand two hundred dunums of land in Bani Naim were declared State land. In Tulkarem, preparation for a settlement called "Alar" on 400 dunums of land got under way. In the Golan Heights the settlement of 20,000 Israelis, in addition to the actual population of 8,000 Israelis, started during the month of May. (Ha'aretz, 13, 18 May; Asha'b, 4, 26, 27, 28, 30 April, 5, 12, 17, 18, 23, 26, 27, 30 May; Al Fajr Weekly, 21-27 May, 28 May-3 June, 4-10, 11-17 June)

Two Israeli settlements located between Bethlehem and Hebron were recently established; Ayronim and Gush Etzion. The Minister of Housing, Mr. David Levy, stated that the Efraim settlement would develop into a city to be inhabited by 300 families. (Asha'b, 27 May, 1 June; Al Fajr Weekly, 4-10 June)

Several thousands of dunums of land were seized in the Tulkarem area in the villages of Boya, Haris Masha, Azoun Osma, Kafr Tulz and Deir Istya. These lands have been expropriated despite proof of ownership. Villagers of Borin filed a complaint with the Israeli High Court of Justice against the seizure of 500 dunums of their lands by settlers. The Israeli military authorities notified Mr. Ali Al Jaradat from Sair (Hebron area) that he had 45 days to object to the seizure of his land. About 5,000 dunums of land were seized in the village of Hussan (Bethlehem). (i/Asha'b, 3, 6, 30 June; Al Fajr Weekly, 11-17 June, 2-8, 9-15 July)

Prefabricated houses were put at the disposal of Jewish settlers from Kiryat Arba, who had asked for many months to be authorized to live in Hebron. The Nahal outpost of "Bedolah," near Rafah, turned into a civilian settlement, the new name of which will be "Mitzpeh Atzmona." (Ha'aretz, 1 July; Ma'ariv, 6 July; Asha'b, 2 July)

The World International Zionist Organization allocated I.S. 416 million ($US 30.8 million) for the period 1981-1982 in order to assist border settlements in emergency situations. (Jerusalem Post, 9 September, 1981)

THE USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN 1983

The United Nations Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Areas reported on October 14, 1983<sup>17</sup> as follows:

The Military Government in Nablus expropriated some 5,000 dunums near the villages of Ni'lin, Qibya and Shibtin, in the Ramallah region. The landowners say that the land is privately owned and claim they have the necessary documents to prove their ownership of the land. Military sources say that the land is State land. The landowners intend to take their case to the High Court for an order nisi to halt the confiscation procedure while the claims are reviewed. Settlement Department sources said that the land will be used for a new settlement called "Nili." (Ha'aretz, 29 August 1982; Al Fajr, 3 September 1982)

The Ministers for Finance and of Development, Mr. Yoram Aridor and Prof. Yuval Ne'eman, yesterday agreed on means for earmarking 500 million shekels for settlement activities in the West Bank. (Ha'aretz, 31 August 1982)

Preparatory works are under way for a new communal settlement in "Samaria" called Netafim. It is located opposite Beit-Aba, on the "trans-Samaria" road. Three more settlements are planned in "Samaria": Elkana C', south-west of Beit-Aba; a large urban settlement west of Yakir and north-west of Emanuel; and Ya'arit, near Sal'it. Four other settlements are at present under construction: Sha'arey-Tikva, near Elkana; Emanuel; Tzavta, above Qalqilya, and Netafim. To these should be added three Nahal outposts on Mount Gerizim, and Hermesh (near Dotan); two other settlements which are under construction, and Irit, near Tubas. (Ma'ariv, 1 September 1982)

The new town of Ma'ale-Adumim is inaugurated east of Jerusalem. In the inauguration ceremony Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Housing and Construction, Mr. David Levy, declared that "Settlement in Eretz Yisrael would not stop; the map was 'bubbling' with new construction, and hundreds and thousands more housing units were being built in new towns, such as Efrat and Karnei-Shomron, which are to be inaugurated in the near future." (Jerusalem Post, 2 September 1982)

The Government and the World Zionist Organization yesterday decided to establish eight settlements in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. But so far there is money for just three, so approval of five settlements was given "in principle." The three settlements where actual work is to begin are: Susia, in the southern sector of Mount Hebron; Kokhva, south of Gush Etzion; and Ginat, north-west of Jenin. A government source said 20 million Israel shekels have been earmarked for each of the three to settle 50 to 60 families in the first stage. The Committee also decided, in principle, to establish Negohot, Adora, Omarim and Yakin in the southern area of Mount Hebron, and a settlement in northern Gaza Strip for former Yamit residents. Three other agricultural settlements — Beit Mirsim, Eshkolot and Yatir C' — also in the southern Mount Hebron area, were not approved yesterday as the Government and the World Zionist Organization have yet to discuss land and water allocations for them. The Minister for Justice, Mr. Moshe Nissim, emphasized that the establishment of the new settlements was conditional on the approval from the State Attorney that they were being built on State land and not on privately-owned land. Infrastructure works started yesterday for the creation of two settlements, Yoezer and Ofarim, in the Tulkarm area. The decision to establish them was taken two months ago. (Jerusalem Post, 6 September 1982)

The Israel water company "Mekorot" is to administer all matters relating to water supplies and water resource in the West Bank; a decision in principle to that effect has been taken in the Ministry of Defence. "Mekorot" has hitherto dealt with water supply and well-sinking only for the Jewish settlements, whereas the water department in the civilian administration was responsible for water supply to Arab localities. With the transfer of control to "Mekorot," it is now expected that the water department in the civilian administration will be abolished. Senior Israeli water officials described the decision as purely political and as having nothing to do with the level of maintenance of the West Bank water network.

The West Bank Military Government recently published orders declaring some 30,000 dunums in various parts of the area as "State land," thus permitting their allocation for Jewish settlement. According to West Bank sources, an order affecting more than 20,000 dunums on the southern slopes of the Hebron hills was published last week, and it was reported that bulldozers were working on another tract of some 10,000 dunums near the village of Surif in the Hebron district. The Surif mukhtars, who received the notice declaring their land as "State land," said the land was privately owned and that the owners intended to petition the Military Appeals Board. (Jerusalem Post, 13 September 1982; Al Fajr, 17 September 1982)

The civil administration in the Tulkarm area declared some 10,000 dunums of land in the village of Deir-Istiya as "State-land." The local mukhtar reported that the landowners intended to appeal against this decision. (Ha'aretz, 14 September 1982)

According to research conducted by Dr. Meron Benvenisti for the New York City University, Israel may seize some 60 per cent of the West Bank lands. It emerged from an aerial photography map that some 3.2 million dunums out of a total of 5 million dunums of West Bank land was rocky and grazing ground, a considerable part of which had already been declared "State land." Some 400,000 dunums were "absentee land," mostly concentrated in the Jordan Valley area. Most of the Jordan Valley settlements were located on such land. Finally, some 70,000 dunums were lands bought by private individuals. (Ha'aretz, 14 September 1982)

According to Mr. Zee'v Ben Yosef, an aide to Mr. Matiyahu Drobles, Chairman of the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, the pace of settlement on the West Bank during the next three decades would not go beyond an average of one a year. The main thrust in the future, according to the official, will be to populate existing settlements rather than establish new ones. Mr. Ben Yosef added that there were at present 103 settlements in the West Bank, including those under construction, with a population of 25,000. (But according to a spokesman of the other chairman of the Department, Mr. Ra'anana Weitz, there were only 80 settlements in the West Bank with a Jewish population of 8,000.) On the Golan Heights there were according to the same source, 35 settlements with 10,000 residents, and in the Gaza Strip, a dozen settlements with about 1,000 residents. According to a plan proposed by Mr. Drobles — but not yet approved by any official body — another 20 to 30 settlements would be built on the West Bank by the year 2010, and there were proposals for doubling the Jewish population of the Golan Heights in the next three years and adding some new settlements in the central Golan. There were also plans to bring the Jewish population of the Gaza Strip up to 10,000. (Ha'aretz, 20 September 1982)

The 103rd settlement in the West Bank was reportedly established. It is called Anatot and is located between the villages of Hizma and Anata, on the line between the Neve-Yaacov and French Hill suburbs. Lorries reportedly moved prefabricated houses in the area to prevent Arab farmers from Hizma village from planting their land and from erecting new houses in the area. (Ma'ariv, Ha'aretz, 1 October; Al Fajr, 8 October 1982)

Speaking at the ceremony for the laying of the cornerstone of the new settlement of "Eley-Sinai," in the northern sector of the Gaza Strip, Deputy Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Michael Dekel, announced that the Government "planned to add 70,000 to 80,000 Jews to populate the Judea and Samaria area, (and that it would) extend (Israeli) sovereignty when it deems it proper to do so." (Yediot Aharonot, 8 October 1982)

Speaking in a visit to settlements in "Samaria," Deputy Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Michael Dekel, said he was in favour of including in the State's settlement plans rocky and barren lands which at present belonged to Arabs, as well as lands which it was possible to buy, and not to limit such planning to State lands alone. On the same occasion, the head of the Gush-Etzion council, Mr. Shilo Gal, revealed that a team composed of Gush-Etzion settlers at present carried out "control expeditions aimed at locating illegal Arab construction and Arab farmers' seizure of State lands." The team was reportedly operating in co-ordination with the civil administration and the Israeli Defence Forces authorities. (Ha'aretz, 13 October 1982)

The dedication ceremony was reported of a new religious settlement in "Samaria." It is called Einav and is located on the Tulkarm-Nablus road, near Anabta. (Jerusalem Post, 13 October 1982)

Villagers in Burin, south-west of Nablus, reported that they had been served with notices declaring that 2,800 dunums of cultivated land they claimed was theirs was "State land." The seized land was reportedly designed for the permanent settlement of Berakha, which was intended to provide housing for the Samaritan community on nearby Mount Gerisim. One hundred eighty Burin families were reportedly affected by the confiscation. They were asked to report to the office of the Absentee Properties guardian in Nablus to receive compensation for their confiscated land, but they said they would go to the High Court and would not accept any compensation. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 18 October; Al Fajr, 22 October 1982)

The Israeli authorities confiscated 500 dunums of land from the area of the village of Khader near Bethlehem. The confiscated land was reportedly part of the properties of the Greek Orthodox Patriarchate. (Al Fajr, 22 October 1982)

Residents of Kharbata, 14 kilometres north-west of Ramallah, have reportedly received notices that 1,200 dunums adjacent to the village were "State land." There are several Jewish settlements in the area and the confiscated land would be used for their expansion. Two thirds of the families in the village reportedly have land in the confiscated zone. Owners were told that they had 21 days to appeal against the decision. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 26 October; Al Fajr, 29 October 1982)

Mr. Menachem Begin, and his deputy and Minister for Housing, Mr. David Levy, announced the implementation of the 1980 decision to rebuild the Jewish quarter in Hebron. A special team has already been formed to implement the decision and work on the project was to begin immediately. In a related development it was later reported that Kiryat-Arba settlers had begun demolishing constructions near the "Abraham the Patriarch" synagogue in the centre of Hebron, with a view to preparing an area for the building of 21 housing units there. The demolition works were later stopped by order of the military commander of the "Judea" region. Senior Government sources later confirmed that a plan had been approved to build a number of houses in the synagogue site to provide better housing conditions for the families who lived there and in the Hadassa house. But the sources emphasized that there was no intention to create a continuity of Jewish houses between the synagogue site and the Hadassa house, as demanded by Rabbi Levinger. (Yediot Aharonot, 26 October; Ha'aretz, 29 October; Al Fajr, 29 October 1982)

The Jewish National Fund recently started to reclaim land for farming between the security fence and the Jordan river. Over 4,000 dunums have already been reclaimed and 5,000 dunums more would be reclaimed before the end of the present fiscal year. (Ha'aretz, 27 October 1982)

Speaking at the establishment of the new village of Neve-Tzuf, near Ramallah, Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Housing, Mr. David Levy, announced that five new permanent settlements in the West Bank would be created shortly. He revealed that 2,000 housing units were at present under construction in the territories, and that there were six towns in various stages of development, in addition to smaller settlements. In a related development, it was reported that the Government was planning to invest some 470 million Israel shekels in the establishment and enlarging of settlements in the West Bank, and that it had requested the Knesset Finance Committee to approve a corresponding increase in the budget for the present fiscal year. The money was, according to one report, designed for the following urban settlements: Kokhav Yair, Na'ala, Yo'ezer and Offarim, as well as for the following rural settlements: Tekoa B', Susia, Antil, Ginat and Kokhba. Thirty million Israel shekels were reportedly designed for the State Land Administration to enable it to set up a land patrol (similar to the "Green Patrol" which operates in Israel proper) to watch over the State lands. Finally, some of the money was earmarked for the construction of roads in the West Bank. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 4 November 1982)

The Jewish National Fund revealed that a 7,000-dunum tract of virgin land on the western slopes of the Jordan river had been cleared for planting so as to provide further arable land for settlements in that region. It was reported that a total of 20,000 dunums was to be turned into cultivable lands for these settlements and others to be established. (Jerusalem Post, 5 November 1982)

A team of legal advisers from the land department and the Ministry of Agriculture was reportedly preparing a series of orders to organize the process of distributing Arab land to Israeli construction companies in the West Bank. Specific procedures would be followed in order to allocate certain pieces of land to Israeli construction companies in order to build private homes. (Al Fajr, 7 November 1982)

Deputy Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Michael Dekel, announced that Israel would build or expand 20 settlements in the West Bank during the next 12 months. He did not say how many of the 20 settlements would be new, but reiterated Israel's goal to populate 160 West Bank settlements with 100,000 Jews within the next five years. Speaking in an interview on Israel Radio, Mr. Dekel said that at present there were about 25,000 Jews in 103 settlements built since 1967. The Ministerial Committee on Settlement (of which Mr. Dekel is a key member), planned to add 57 more settlements with about 60,000 to 80,000 more Jews by 1987, he said. (Jerusalem Post, 7 November 1982)

Details were revealed about a plan, prepared by the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, to add 10,000 more Jews to existing and new settlements in the Gaza Strip within the next five years. Under that plan eight new settlements, including one town, would be built, and 11 existing settlements would be expanded. At present there are about 1,000 Jews and 500,000 Arabs in the Gaza Strip. (Ma'ariv, 8 November 1982)

The Settlement Department of the Jewish Agency was reportedly about to submit to the Government a proposal to establish 20 additional settlements in the West Bank within the next two years. Seventeen of these settlements would be located in the mountain area and three in "north-western Samaria." Five of the 20 settlements had reportedly been already approved in the past by the Ministerial Committee on Settlement, whereas the other 15 were still awaiting approval. (Ha'aretz, 22 November)

The ceremony for the laying of the corner-stone of "Nofim," the first settlement to be developed entirely by private enterprise, was reported. The site of the new settlement is a few kilometres east of Qalqilya. The settlement was reportedly planned to house some 3,000 families living in villas and cottages valued at $100,000 — 700 of which are to be built within the next two years. Speaking at the ceremony, the Head of the Shomron settlements council, Mr. Katzover, expressed his satisfaction with the fact that people were coming to live in Samaria "without ideological reasons." (Jerusalem Post, 25, 26 November; Ha'aretz, 26 November)

Jewish settlers in the West Bank have set up a joint development company to promote and carry out their plans for massive settlement in the area. The company is jointly owned by "Amana," the Gush-Emunim settlement arm, and the various Jewish local councils recently created in the West Bank. It was further reported that Gush-Emunim was waiting for the Government's final approval for establishing 10 new settlements in the West Bank, seven of which had already been approved in principle by the Ministerial Committee on Settlement. Funds have already been allocated for the building of another 440 housing units in Kdumim, in "Samaria, in addition to the 240 already existing. It was earlier reported that after three days of debates on its settlement plan for the coming year "Amana" decided to adopt a plan providing for the creation of 20 community and rural settlements in the West Bank. Under that plan, the settlement efforts would be concentrated in the Gaza Strip, southern Mount Hebron area and "northern Samaria" (the Jenin area). (Ma'ariv, 26 November; Ha'aretz, 30 November; Jerusalem Post, 1 December)

Speaking before the Knesset Economic Committee, Deputy Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Michael Dekel, said that some 25,000 Jews were at present living in the West Bank, and that by the end of 1987 their number was expected to reach 75,000. The Government planned several new settlements along four "strips" of land going from north to south: the western strip would be populated by settlers who would commute to their place of work in Israel. Four new settlements were being planned in the area north of the Jiftlik, on the edge of the Jordan Valley, and a new urban centre was to be established in the Jenin area. Mr. Michael Dekel added that of the 5.5 million dunums of land in the area 1.7 million dunums were State land. More details were revealed in a later report about a Government decision to build 35 new urban settlements in the West Bank, in addition to the ones which had already been built which were planned for a population of 70,000. In addition, settlement officials reportedly estimated that the Jewish population in the West Bank would double and reach nearly 50,000 in the next three months. According to these estimates over 6,000 housing units would be completed during this period. (Jerusalem Post, 2, 9 December; Ha'aretz, 2, 5, 8 December 1982)

Farmers from the village of Deir Jarar, north of Ramallah, complained that settlers from the nearby settlement of Kokhav-Hashahar had begun cultivating and undertaking earthwork on land they claimed was Arab-owned. Several hundred dunums were reportedly involved. (Jerusalem Post, 15 December 1982)

Israeli bulldozers were reportedly bulldozing 200 dunums in the village of Illar, north of Tulkarm. The authorities informed the local village council that the 200 dunums would be confiscated. A new settlement had recently been built near the village. (Al Fajr, 10 December 1982)

A house located in the centre of Hebron, belonging to the Dweik family that had been evicted from it following the killing of Jewish settlers near the Hadassa house in Hebron two years ago, was handed over by the army to Kiryat-Arba settlers. Renovation works were reportedly under way in the building. (Ha'aretz, 19 December 1982)

Speaking before an international peace forum held in Tel Aviv on 17 December 1982, the former Deputy Mayor of Jerusalem, Mr. Meron Benvenisti, said that while the yearly budget allocated by the Israeli Government to the 25,000 settlers (who at present live in the territories) was $US 200 million, only $US 26 million was allocated to the 700,000 West Bank Palestinian population. He added that 95 per cent of the land cases brought by West Bank landowners were rejected by the High Court which, he said, was connected to the Government. (Al Fajr; 24 December 1982)

Mr. Mattityahu Drobles, the head of the World Zionist Organization's Settlement Department, told the Knesset Economic Committee that about 40,000 Jewish settlers (8,000 families) would be added in the next few months to the 30,000 settlers in the West Bank. He added that during the coming months about 7,650 housing units would be completed (in addition to the 5,875 units already existing in the area). By 1986 the World Zionist Organization and the Government plan to settle 130,000 Jews there, and 30 settlements would be established. Mr. Drobles told the Committee that in 30 years there would be 1.3 million Jews in the West Bank, and said this plan would mean settling 70 per cent of the land of the West Bank which was not privately owned. In a related development, the Knesset Finance Committee approved the expenditure of 300 million Israel shekels for the building of five new roads in the West Bank. The new settlements concerned by that decision are: Ganim, Yakim, Adura, Sussiya and El-David. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 30 December 1982)

The Ministry of Housing and Construction recently began building three new permanent settlements in the West Bank: Sussiya and Yakim, in the southern Hebron hills, and Ganim, east of Jenin. The Ministry of Housing was reportedly building kindergartens, school rooms, offices, clinics and other public buildings at each of the three settlements which, when completed, would house some 400 families. It was also reported that some 180 families began moving into five new building complexes sponsored by the Ministry in five existing West Bank settlements: Karnei Shomron, Neve Tzuf, Beit El, Kedumim and Kfar Adumim. (Jerusalem Post, 11 January 1983)

In Dahiriya, south of Hebron, the civil administration declared 20,000 dunums "State land" and gave the local Arab villagers 21 days to appeal to a Military Advisory Board. No settlements were reportedly planned for the area, but it was part of a land reserve the Government was building up in the vicinity of the pre-Six Day War "Green Line." (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 14 January 1983)

The Israeli Defence Forces spokesman announced that seven Nahal settlements (which are part of the 14 settlements that the Minister for Defence, Mr. Sharon, promised would be built in the West Bank this year) were under construction in the West Bank. They are: Tzoria, Gina, Ganim, Omrim, Tzelef, Rogan and Ma'aleh Levana. (Jerusalem Post, 17 January 1983)

The Ministerial Committee on Settlement approved the creation of the following two new agricultural settlements in southern Mount Hebron: Beit-Marsim and Eshkolot. (Ha'aretz, 17 January 1983)

Israeli military authorities declare 28,000 dunums of land near Askar, in the Nablus area, as State land. (Al Fajr, 21 January 1983)

The Ministerial Settlement Committee's sub-committee on follow up, headed by Mr. Yuval Ne'eman, decided to create five new settlements in the Jordan Valley. Three of these settlements are to be built this year. (Ha'aretz, 24 January 1983)

According to reports appearing in the Israeli press during the period 27 January to 3 February 1983, the civil administration has already seized, or was about to seize, tens of thousands of dunums in various West Bank regions. The lands seized were partly designed as land-reserve for future settlements, partly for expanding existing ones and partly as natural reserves (which will also be used for settlement in a future stage). Expropriation orders were also issued for lands — mostly cultivated — where new roads are planned to be cut. The reports gave the following details:

(a) 500 dunums were seized and declared state land near the village of Battir, west of Bethlehem;

(b) 4,000 dunums are to be seized from farmers in the villages of Deir Istiya and Zeita, in the Tulkarm area; this land is designed to become a suburb of the new town of Imanu'el;

(c) 3,500 dunums north-east of Hebron, near the village of Si'ir, are to be given to the Har-Hebron regional council;

(d) 2,000 dunums designed for the expansion of Mitzpeh-Yeriho;

(e) 1,600 dunums near the villages of Surif and Kharas, west of Hebron, for the expansion of Mitzpeh-Adulam;

(f) 1,000 dunums near the village of Jaba', north of Hebron, are to be granted under lease to the Har-Hebron regional council;

(g) 1,000 dunums in the Jenin area, designed for the settlement of Sanur B';

(h) 700 dunums are to be granted under lease to the Shomron regional council for the expansion of Karney-Shomron;

(i) 250 dunums south of Hebron, in the Jebel-Sindas area, are to be granted under lease to the Har-Hebron regional council;

(j) 30 dunums designed for the expansion of Givat-Ze'ev, north of Jerusalem.

More lands are to be expropriated by the civil administration for the construction of the following roads;

(k) a 9 kilometre road linking the settlement of Mikhmas, on the "Allon-road," with the Arab village of Mukhmas, and thence to Jerusalem; the road is to pass through cultivated lands belonging to the villages of Deir-Dibwan and Mukhmas;

(l) a road to Jebel Mureir, south of Bethlehem;

(m) 7.5 dunums for a new sector of the road linking north-Jerusalem with Ma'aleh-Adumim.

The civil administration reportedly cancelled the declaration as State land of a 100 dunum tract near the village of Battir, when it was established that the land belonged to a Greek church, and was not State owned. It was subsequently reported that the civil administration declared as State land some 20,000 dunums near the village of Salim, in the Nablus region, and some 4,000 dunums near Deir Diburan, in the Ramallah region. It was further reported that two stretches of land, totalling 170,000 dunums, were seized from residents of Yatta, near Hebron. The larger portion (up to 127,000 dunums) was taken "for military requirements," and the remaining plot was declared "State property." The several hundred owners were ordered to evacuate the area within 21 days. In the same context, it was recalled that a few months ago the Ministerial Committee on Settlement approved a plan, submitted by the Jewish Agency's Settlement Department, to develop Jewish settlement in the southern Mount Hebron area which is almost empty of Jewish settlers. Under the plan at least six new settlements would be built in that area: Yakin, Susiya, Negohot, Atniel, Eshkolot and Adura. (Ha'aretz, 27, 30 January, 3 February; Ma'ariv, 3 February; Al Fajr, 4, 11 February 1983)

The Deputy Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Michael Dekel, who co-ordinates settlement activities, said that Israel needed two more years of continued settlement construction in the West Bank in order to create conditions that would prevent a return of that territory to Arab rule. Mr. Dekel revealed that 20 to 30 private construction companies were at present participating in building activities in the West Bank; demand for houses was very strong and, if it continued, some 100,000 Israelis would live there by 1985. (Ha'aretz, 3 March 1983)

The Minister for Defence, Mr. Moshe Arens, stated, at a meeting with members of the Council of Jewish Settlements in the Territories, that he favoured expanding Jewish settlements in the areas, but the expansion must be done within the law. He mentioned the disbanding by the Israeli Defence Forces of the "Kach" settlement of El Nakam, near Hebron, and stressed that settlements could only be established with the agreement of the authorities. Mr. Arens further emphasized that industrial enterprises in Jewish settlements should be staffed only by Jews. (Jerusalem Post, 8 March 1983)

The Government reportedly approved eight new settlements on the crest of the "Samaria hills," including "Shechem Illit" (Upper Nablus), overlooking the Arab city. At present, the site overlooking Nablus is occupied by a military outpost called "Ma'ahaz Berakha," but the chairman of the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, Mr. Matiyahu Drobles, reportedly proposed the creation there of upper Nablus which would eventually number 2,000 to 2,500 families. According to one report, the Government's decision was to convert eight existing Nahal outposts into civilian settlements, and not to create new ones. It was further reported that Gush Emunim's Settlement Department, "Amana," expressed satisfaction at the Government's decision and announced that dozens of settlers' nuclei were ready for settling in these outposts, and that they had been waiting for a Government decision to that effect. In a related development, it was reported that the first 15 families were beginning to move into the new town of Efrat, in the Etzion bloc. It was later reported that the Peace Now Movement warned the Government against dedicating Upper Nablus as a civilian settlement on Independence Day, saying that if the ceremony were held the Movement would send thousands of its supporters there to protest. (Jerusalem Post, 22 March, 10 April; Ha'aretz, Ma'ariv, 22 March 1983)

According to a 30-year master-plan prepared by the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, under the guidance of its chairman Mr. Matiyahu Drobles, and which is to be presented to the cabinet shortly for approval, 57 new settlements should be established in the West Bank by 1987, bringing the total of settlements in the area to 165. Under this plan, the Jewish population in the West Bank should, within 30 years, reach parity with the projected Arab Population, to stand at 1.3 million. According to reports, an analysis of rates of construction in the 108 existing settlements in the West Bank indicates that 6,000 housing units will be occupied within the near future, and 12,000 are under construction. On this basis it is projected that by 1986 the Jewish population in the area will be over 100,000. Of the 165 settlements envisaged in the "30-year plan," five will be large towns and urban settlements (Kiryat-Arba and Ariel, and three large urban suburbs with population between 10,000 and 30,000 families), 36 small urban communities of up to 3,000 families, 65 community settlements of 400 families, and 59 moshavim and kibbutzim. The anticipated rate of construction is 5,000 to 6,000 housing units per year. The plan calls for the construction of an additional 400 kilometres of roads to improve access and thereby encourage private initiative, the development of 400 to 500 dunums of industrial space per year, and the continued acquiring of privately owned Arab and "State lands" by the Government and private investors. Some 20,000 dunums of such "State lands" have been earmarked for afforestation, grazing and tourism facilities. The plan includes a list of priorities which emphasizes rapid development in the "greater Jerusalem" area, a strip along the main north-south highway, the north-western corner of the West Bank, an area lying between Tulkarm and Kedumim, and the southern Hebron hills. To encourage Jewish population to move into the West Bank, the plan calls for severe restrictions on construction in Israel's main urban centres, along the coastal plain. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 10 April 1983)

The inauguration ceremony was reported of the new civilian settlement of Bracha — the future "Upper Nablus" — on a hill located 8 kilometres south of Nablus. At the ceremony, Nahal soldiers handed over the settlement to 15 civilian families, while a crowd of some 10,000 members of the Peace Now Movement and sympathizers demonstrated, protesting against the new settlement. Upper Nablus is planned to eventually house 800 families. The first 15 families are Gush-Emunim members. (Jerusalem Post, 19 April 1983)

The joint ministerial-Jewish Agency Settlement Committee reportedly approved the establishment of three more settlements in "western Samaria." The three settlements have been temporarily named Oranit, Bruhim and Dir Kala, and are planned to include between 1,000 and 1,500 housing units, depending on the land reserves found in each area. Under a plan submitted to the committee by the Ministry of Housing, a number of highways would be built in the West Bank in order to by-pass large urban Arab areas. The roads are planned to avoid Nablus and the nearby Balata refugee camp, Qalqilya and Kafr Kassim. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 20 April 1983)

10,000 dunums of land near the village of Surif, in the Hebron district, were declared State land. Civil administration officials notified the village council of the decision and gave the landowners 30 days to produce documents and evidence of ownership. (Ha'aretz, 24 April 1983)

Residents of Umar, near Gush-Etzion, complained that the civil administration seized about 350 dunums of their land and declared it State property. The land is expected to be transferred to the Gush Emunim settlement of Migdal Oz. According to the villagers, the High Court of Justice has already ruled that the land belongs to the village, and they intend to petition the court against the seizure. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 27, 28 April 1983)

2,250 dunums were seized in the Ramallah and Tulkarm areas. According to villagers from Beituniya near Ramallah, they were notified by representatives of the civil administration of the seizure of some 1,000 dunums on the grounds that the land was State property. The villagers of Jebel el-Ras, near Tulkarm, were notified of a similar decision regarding 1,250 dunums of their lands. (Ha'aretz, 29 April 1983)

Dozens of landowners from the village of Bidya, in "western Samaria," on 1 May prevented heavy mechanical equipment, belonging to the Gad Development and Building Company, from preparing the infrastructure of the Elkana B settlement. The villagers maintained that work on the site was illegal since the land had never been sold. The Nablus District Court, in April, ordered that all work on the site be stopped. But despite the court order work was reportedly continuing.

In a clash between the villagers and border police, one Bidya resident, aged 75, was killed, two others were wounded — one of them seriously — and one border policeman was shot in the head and stabbed in the hand. The security forces imposed a 4-hour curfew on the village and arrested eight men and three women on suspicion of rioting. (Ha'aretz, 2, 3 May; Jerusalem Post, Ma'ariv, 3 May 1983)

At a discussion held in Yiron, a Mount Hebron settlement, Mr. Matityahu Drobles, head of the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, proposed the establishment of six settlements south of Hebron and the expansion of four existing settlements. Mr. Drobles revealed that his department intended to establish Susiya and Yakin as part of the six settlements, and proposed to turn the existing Nahal settlements Tene, Otniel Adora and Eshkolot into civilian settlements. In another development, it was reported that 1,600 dunums near the village of Akrabe were seized and declared State land, for the purpose of establishing the settlement of Tel Haim, which has not yet been approved by the Ministerial Settlement Committee. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 9 May 1983)

A plan was announced by the Ministry of Housing to create a continuous Jewish presence in north-east Jerusalem, connecting the French Hill and Neveh Ya'acov suburbs. The new site, named "Pisgat-Tal," is located east of the Jerusalem-Ramallah road, on land expropriated in 1980. According to the Ministry of Housing, development of Jewish suburbs around Jerusalem is being given top priority in view of the fact that the Jewish-Arab population balance in Jerusalem and the surrounding villages is now one to one and rapidly shifting in favour of the Arabs. (Jerusalem Post, 11 May 1983)

It was reported that out of 38 settlements under construction by private promoters in the West Bank, only 15 have been approved by the Ministerial Committee on Settlements, and only 5 have approval from the Supreme Planning Council, authorizing the allocation of land for construction, the form of the settlement and its outline plan. In a related development, it was reported that in various West Bank areas there was at present a large excess of available land over low demand from potential Jewish buyers. Thus, in the area of Surif, in Mount Hebron, 3,000 to 4,000 dunums were for sale, and there were no buyers. Several thousand dunums were also for sale along the "Allon Road," and several hundred dunums in the Latrun area. (Yedioth Aharanoth, 30 May; Ha'aretz, 31 May)

According to a report by State Comptroller, Mr. Yitzhak Turik, published in the Hebrew weekly Kotoret Rashit, the Israeli Government has no authority to buy land in the West Bank, but it nevertheless owns 70,000 dunums — 50,000 of which were obtained from local people whose ownership of the land was not registered, and 20,000 from people who had registration documents. According to the same report, the Comptroller strongly attacked so-called "volunteers" who act as a go-between for the Government and Arab landowners. In another report, the same weekly magazine said that the Government was considering banning the sale of unregistered land in the West Bank to Israelis. This follows fears expressed recently that land sold to would-be West Bank settlers might not belong to the companies that are selling it. In the same context, it was reported that the Ministry of Housing and Construction intended to create six new settlements before the end of the year and that it was at present completing the construction of nine towns and 69 settlements in the West

Bank. (Ha'aretz, 15 June; Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, Ma'ariv, 16 June)

The Israeli military authorities issued an expropriation order for some 5,000 dunums of land in the villages of Kobar and Beitillu, in the Ramallah district. The military authorities claimed the land is "abandoned property." (Al Fajr, 8 July 1983)

Nahal (the pre-military cadet corps) is planning, according to its magazine, to establish nine military settlements in the West Bank within the next few months; three settlements and one outpost are to be established by the end of this month. They are: Teneh and Atniel, along the Hebron-Beersheba road; Ganim, south-east of Jenin, and Bitronot, south of Mehola in the Jordan Valley. Nahal outposts are to be established later at Ma'aleh Levona, between Nablus and Ramallah; Yitzhar, south of Nablus; Dolev, west of Ramallah; Aspar, north-east of Hebron, and Migdalim, near the "trans-Samaria" road. These sites are currently designed as "outposts," which are not financed by the World Zionist Organization, although they have usually been the nuclei for new civilian settlements. (Jerusalem Post, 20 July)

D. INFORMATION ON MEASURES OF ANNEXATION AND SETTLEMENT

The United Nations Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Territories reported on October 29, 1984<sup>18</sup> as follows:

1. Establishment of settlements

The joint Government-Jewish Agency settlement committee approved, on 4 September 1983, the establishment of "Ganim B," a settlement in the Jenin area, and the beginning of work on a previously approved settlement in the southern Hebron hills, to be known as Otniel. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, 5 September 1983)

Some 120 families were to move into Emanuel in a fortnight's time to form the nucleus of what was expected to become the biggest Jewish town in the West Bank. The population was expected to total 350 families by the end of October 1983. More than 900 flats had been sold. Some 150 of these flats were sold to Jews in the United States, the United Kingdom and Belgium, and 25 of those families were already in absorption centres in Israel. (Jerusalem Post, 20 September 1983)

Speaking at a ceremony marking the fifth anniversary of Tapuah, an "industrial community settlement" in the West Bank, former Defence Minister Ariel Sharon declared that even if Israel did not currently claim those parts of Eretz Yisrael which comprised Jordan, "we should always recall that, though they are not in our hands, they are ours." Recalling that strategic and security reasons were used to justify the establishment of Tapuah, which is located on a hill overlooking the intersection of the "trans-Samaria" and the main Jerusalem-Nablus roads, Sharon declared: "We should no longer stress the contribution to security but rather the fact that Tapuah and these areas are an integral part of Eretz Yisrael, just like Jerusalem, Hebron, Shechem (Nablus) and the mountains of Gilead (in Jordan)." The Jewish Agency's head of settlement department, Mattityahu Drobles, said that the Jewish population in the West Bank numbered more than 30,000 and that 7,000 housing units would be completed within a year. "There would be more than 100,000 Jews in the area by 1985," he said. (Jerusalem Post, 26 September 1983)

According to a study of settlement in the West Bank prepared by Mr. Meron Benvenisti, the already existing infrastructure of land and other resources prepared by the Likud Government over the preceding seven years was more than sufficient for it to continue to encourage a large number of Israelis to settle across the 1967 "Green Line." According to the study, some 40 per cent of land (2,150,000 dunums) in the West Bank was available for Israeli use and had already been acquired through expropriation for military purposes, declarations of State land, private and quasi-government purchases and zoning laws which curbed Arab construction. Of this, over 50 per cent had been taken by the army as training areas and firing ranges (most in the Jordan Valley), 140,000 dunums had already been allocated for Jewish settlement, 150,000 for grazing and afforestation, 340,000 dunums had been set aside as nature reserves, 120,000 dunums had been allocated for Israeli agriculture, 15,000 dunums for industry and 40,000 dunums for roads. Approximately one third of the Gaza Strip had also been set aside for settlement. (Jerusalem Post, 4 October 1983)

The joint Government-World Zionist Organization settlement committee, on 5 October 1984, decided to convert six paramilitary settlements in the West Bank to civilian settlements. They are Brosh (in the northern Jordan Valley), Elisha (east of Jericho), Yitzhar (south-west of Nablus), Ginat (north-west of Jenin), Meitzad (north-west of Hebron) and Tzurit (south-west of the Etzion bloc). The Committee also approved the establishment of Tsofim, an urban settlement planned for 1,200 families, to be built by private investors north east of Qalqilya. With the creation of these settlements the number of Jewish settlements in the West Bank would reach 118. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 6 October 1983)

The newly-appointed municipality in Hebron, headed by Israeli officer Zamir Shemesh, reportedly stopped issuing construction licenses in two neighbourhoods close to the Israeli settlement of Kiryat-Arba: Ain Bani Sleim and Bir Mahjar. (Al Fajr, 7 October 1983)

The World Zionist Organization's Settlement Department had invested, over the preceding three years, $12 million in land reclamation works along the bank of the River Jordan, beyond the security fence. So far 12,000 dunums had already been reclaimed in the area (out of 21,000 dunums designed for reclamation), and 38 kms of roads were built. The co-Chairman of the Settlement Department, Mattityahu Drobles, said during a visit to the area that, by the end of 1987, 30 settlements would exist there, with a population of 10,000. There were 4,000 settlers living in 21 settlements at the time of the report. (Ha'aretz, 10 October 1983)

The joint Government-World Zionist Organization Settlement Committee, headed by Science and Development Minister Yuval Ne'eman, on 14 November 1983, approved the conversion of two Nahal settlements to civilian status: Beit Ha'araba, near Nevo, and Nahal Zurim in the Jordan Valley. The Committee also approved the establishment of Tel-Haim, south of Eilon-Moreh, and Ofarim B in the Binyamin district. (Jerusalem Post, Ma'ariv, 15 November 1983)

A Co-ordinating Committee for the Resettlement of Jews in the Muslim quarter of the Old City of Jerusalem was appointed and was to hold its first meeting on 29 November 1983. Its Chairman, Mr. E. Shilo, reportedly confirmed that the Committee was to consider the resettlement of Jews in the Muslim quarter — in addition to the 120 Jews already living there. He emphasized that there was no intention of modifying the demographic balance in the over-crowded quarter, but added that there were 26 houses there which were Jewish property — most of which was administered by the Custodian of Absentee Property. "In eight houses there were still Arab residents; in another eight there were Jewish residents and the remaining 12 were almost in ruins," Mr. Shilo said. He stated that the "10 to 20" Muslim families who had so far been evacuated from their houses in the quarter were fully compensated. (Ha'aretz, 29 November 1983)

According to military sources, the IDF had decided to establish six new Nahal outposts in the West Bank during January 1984. Nahal outposts are usually handed over, at a later stage, to civilian settlers. (Jerusalem Post, 29 December 1983)

Deputy Prime Minister and Housing Minister David Levy, on 9 January 1984, told a delegation of settlers that the "impetus of construction in the settlements will continue and all new settlements whose creation was decided will be built." Levy told the settlers that 6,000 housing units were at present under construction in the territories, and that when these were inhabited the Jewish population of the territories would double. The Minister added that in the past year alone there was a 45 per cent growth in the Jewish population of the territories — from 20,000 to 29,000. (Ha'aretz, 10 January 1984)

On 2 January 1984, the Knesset confirmed, by a majority of 54 to 46, the first reading of a proposal of a law to amend the law governing transfer of property so as to facilitate deals made by Israeli citizens to acquire land in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. (Al Fajr, 11 January 1984)

A non-profit organization called "Atara Leyoshna," whose aim is to settle Jews inside the Muslim quarter of Jerusalem's Old City, reportedly started construction in buildings it controls in the quarter. On 18 January 1984, it was reported that the organization planned to spend I.S. 300 million in building flats in six buildings it controls in the Muslim quarter. According to one report, some 150 Jews at present lived in the Muslim quarter. (Jerusalem Post, 13 and 18 January; Ha'aretz, 13 and 18 January 1984)

The Ministerial Committee on Settlement approved the creation of two new Nahal outposts in the Gaza Strip, which would later be turned into civilian settlements. Their names are Katif "H" and "I." The chairman of the Committee, Minister Yuval Ne'eman, said that despite the economic situation there was no intention of stopping the impetus of Jewish settlements in all parts of the land of Israel. (Ha'aretz, 1 February 1984)

A document of the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department contained details about the future development of the "Benyamin" Jewish regional council — which stretches north of Jerusalem. According to the plan, by the year 2010, 27 new settlements were to be built in that area, sources of employment and infrastructure were to be created and a sum of IS 85 billion was to be invested. In 26 years' time the Jewish population of the area would stand at 190,000 in 47 settlements, and the Arab population would be 240,000.

(Ha'aretz, 6 February 1984)

The site of a settlement, part of a plan drawn up by the Knesset's Settlement Commission in January 1984, providing for the erection of five new settlements in the Gaza Strip, was traced in an area between the towns of Khan Yunis and Rafah, where houses and land belonging to hundreds of families living in that area are located. The settlement was to include 3,000 housing units. (Al Tali'ah, 23 February 1984)

A new settlement, named "Eruvin" was set up on 5 March 1984 south of one Etzion bloc, at the initiative of the Etzion bloc regional council and with the approval of the State bodies concerned. Eruvin, which consisted of three tents and a barbed wire perimeter, was located between the village of Bet-Ummar and Halhul, some 5 kms south of the Etzion bloc. It was planned that some 150 families would settle in Eruvin. Eight dunums of land belonging to local Arabs were confiscated in order to build a road to the new settlement. Arab residents expressed the fear that more lands would be seized for the future expansion of the settlement. (Ha'aretz, 6 March 1984)

On 2 April 1984, the Ministerial Settlement Committee and World Zionist Organization officials decided to establish two new settlements in the West Bank: Livna — in southern Mount Hebron, north of the Yattir forest, with 30 housing units in the first stage — and Eli, north-west of Shilo, on a hill called Jebel a-Rawa, also with 30 housing units in the first stage. The Committee also decided to turn the Ma'aleh-Levona outpost into a civilian settlement, and to locate a site for the permanent settlement of "Adam" — a nucleus composed of residents of Jerusalem suburbs. It was suggested that the permanent settlement would be set up near the village of Jaba, north of Anatot. (Ha'aretz, 2 April; Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 3 April 1984)

The World Zionist Organization, on 5 April 1984, completed moving some 30 buildings to a hill south-east of Nablus for the projected settlement of Tel-Haim, situated near the site which had originally served Eilon-Moreh, some 5 kms south-east of Nablus. Tel-Haim was to be the thirteenth settlement within a 10-kms radius of Nablus. According to a source in the World Zionist Organization, with the construction of Tel-Haim the city of Nablus will be surrounded by Jewish settlements, except for the area north-east of the city, where the nearest settlement, Irit, is more than 10 kms away. (Jerusalem Post, 6 April 1984)

The Ministerial Settlement Committee, on 10 April 1984, approved the creation of four new settlements in the West Bank: Irit — 15 kms north-east of Nablus — which was to be a communal settlement with 250 families; Adam — near the village of Jaba, north-east of Jerusalem, which was to be peopled by a nucleus composed of residents of Jerusalem suburbs; Omarim B, in southern Mount Hebron — a secular-communal settlement, and Hirbert-Zanoah — also a secular-communal settlement near the ancient site of Yattir, in southern Mount Hebron. Two settlements were approved in the Gaza Strip: Nissanit and Bnei-Atzmon. The approval followed a decision by Finance Minister Cohen-Orgad to release a large part of the settlement budget at the beginning of the financial year, on 1 April 1984. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 11 April 1984)

On 9 May 1984, the inauguration was reported of two new settlements in the West Bank: Tel-Haim, near the village of Rujeib — the original site of Eilon-Moreh, and Ma'aleh-Levona, on the Ramallah-Nablus road. (Jerusalem Post, 9

The Finance Ministry reportedly decided to approve an additional budget for the creation of five new settlements and the expansion of 15 to 20 existing ones in the West Bank. The Chairman of the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, Mattityahu Drobles, on 14 May 1984, announced that his Department had already started preparatory work for the construction of the new settlements. On 14 May 1984, the Ministerial Committee on Settlements decided to approve the conversion into civilian settlements of two outposts in the West Bank: Migdalim — west of Maaleh Efraim and Hakhlili — south of Hebron. Mr. Drobles reportedly said that it would be impossible to establish these settlements unless the Finance Ministry provided an additional budget for them. The Ministerial Committee also approved the establishment of Adam, which was to be built by the Housing Ministry 8 kms north of Jerusalem, in the Jaba area. On 14 May 1984, the Committee approved a request by private entrepreneurs to build two settlements in the northern West Bank, near the "Green Line": Neria, near Elkana, north-east of Petah-Tikva, and Ya'arit, across from Tzur-Natan. But it was reported that the Justice Minister, Moshe Nissim, on 15 May 1984, appealed to the Cabinet in plenary session against that decision, as the ownership of the land on which the two settlements were planned was still disputed. According to a Justice Ministry source, the appeal automatically suspended implementation of the Committee's decision until the entire Cabinet considered the matter. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, Ma'ariv, 15 May 1984; Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 16 May 1984)

The Chairman of the Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, Mattityahu Drobles, on 28 May 1984, presented a "Metropolitan plan for Jerusalem" to the Greater Jerusalem Council — an ad hoc group that has no statutory role. The plan provides for the creation of a metropolitan area around Jerusalem, stretching from Sha'ar-Hagai in the west to Kfar Adumim in the east and from Beit-El (near Ramallah) in the north to Gush-Etzion in the south. The purpose of the plan was to increase sharply the Jewish population in that area in the coming decades while curbing Arab growth, which Mr. Drobles described as a "cancer around Jerusalem, threatening to strangle the capital, due to a growing influx of West-Bank villagers to empty areas which are State lands from Bir Zeit and Ramallah in the north to Bethlehem in the south." According to Drobles, some 100,000 to 150,000 Arabs had come in recent years to the area around Jerusalem, and 43 per cent of them had built houses without permits. (Jerusalem Post, Ha'aretz, 28, 29 May 1984)

The inauguration was reported, on 30 May 1984, of the civilian settlement of Ma'aleh-Omarim, situated in the Hebron hills. It was previously called Teneh and was a Nahal outpost. (Jerusalem Post, 30 May 1984)

The inauguration ceremony was reported, on 5 June 1984, of the new settlement of Tel-Haim, south of Eilon-Moreh. The new settlement is located at precisely the same site of the first Eilon-Moreh, which was built by Gush-Emunim. (Ha'aretz, 5 June 1984)

The Ministerial Committee on Settlement decided, on 10 June 1984, to approve three new settlements in the West Bank: Eli-Shama — on the lands of the village of Haris which were purchased by the Land Redemption Fund of the West Bank settlements. The other two settlements are Neria and Ya'arit, to be built by private entrepreneurs. The Ministerial Committee decided to approve the creation of the two latter settlements but to delay their construction pending a decision by the Ministry of Justice's Civilian Department, headed by Mrs. Plia Albek, on the ownership of the land. The Committee also approved the creation of two new settlements on the Golan: Ein Kanaf and Daliot. (Ha'aretz, 11 June 1984)

A corner-stone was reportedly laid in a ceremony, starting work on the second stage of the settlement town of Alfe Mansheh, in the Nablus mountains. Five hundred separate housing units were completed in the first stage and 400 more were to be built immediately. The majority of the town inhabitants were reported to be regular army soldiers and members of Defence employees' families. (Al Fajr, 22 June 1984)

A wave of new settlements and ceremonial inaugurations was reported in the weeks preceding the 23 July 1984 general election in Israel. According to one report, some of these new settlements did not receive the settling authorities' approval, and most of them were described as "speedy operations," designed to establish facts on the ground. The following are some of these new settlements and their date of "settling on the ground" or inauguration:

8 July 1984

Some 20 settlers set up tents on the site of Neot-Adumim, between the Arab village of Gizariya and Maaleh-Adumim. The site had been approved by the settling bodies, but no budget had been found for the settlement. A group of settlers reportedly settled on the site of Abr-Yaacov, near the Arab village of Aqab, north of Neveh-Yaacov. A source in the Jewish Agency's Settlement Department reported that these two settlements were set up on the settlers' own initiative.

15 July 1984

A ceremony was held at Adam, 5 kms north-east of Neveh-Yaacov. Adam was to be peopled by former Jerusalem slum neighbourhood families. The same day, the joint Government and World Zionist Federation Settlement Committee approved the establishment of four more settlements in the West Bank and one on the eastern shore of Lake Tiberias (Sea of Galilee). The settlements approved by the Committee are: Avney-Hefetz (an urban settlement for 1,000 families, 5 kms east of Tulkarm); Nava (a communal settlement in Samaria); Selaim (a second suburb of the communal settlement of Ateret); Anar (a communal settlement in Samaria) and a fishermen's village in the Golan Heights, on the north-eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee.

16 July 1984

A ceremony was held at Givat Ehud, near Modi'in.

At the site of Azfar, 8 kms north-east of Hebron, Nahal soldiers handed over their outpost to a group of Yeshiva students.

A ceremony was held at Meitzad, in the Hebron hills.

18 July 1984

Yitzhar, a military outpost south of Mt. Berakha (south-east of Nablus) was turned into a civilian settlement.

19 July 1984

Hagai, a military outpost in Mount Ziv, south of Hebron, was turned into a civilian settlement.

22 July 1984

Three new settlements in the Gaza Strip were dedicated: Nissanit, Netzarim and Rafiah-Yam.

On the same day, the joint Government and Zionist Federation Committee approved the creation of three new settlements: Tirza, a communal settlement near Tubas, north-east of Nablus (an aide to one of the ministers noted that Nablus was already surrounded by Jewish settlements but that there was a gap in the Tubas area); ulanit, in Western Samaria, and a fishermen's village in the northern part of the Gaza Strip. (Jerusalem Post, 13, 19 and 23 July 1984; Ha'aretz, 10, 13, 17, 18, 22 and 23 July 1984)

2. Expropriation of property

The following paragraphs contain references to "dunums" to describe surface area. A dunum is equivalent to 1,000 square metres.

Two hundred and fifty dunums of land were confiscated on 7 October 1983 in the Beit Sahur area. The land, described as a "mountainous agricultural area" is situated near a military camp and was confiscated for "military purposes." The military order under which the land was confiscated reportedly gave owners an unspecified period of time to oppose the confiscation order and to claim compensation. (Al Fajr, 14 October 1983)

Israeli military authorities reportedly seized more than 200 dunums of land belonging to villagers from Jamma, south of Nablus, by declaring it "government property." It was also reported that 10,000 dunums were taken from Lubban al Sharqiyeh, allegedly in order to be afforested and handed to the Shilo settlement. Four thousand dunums were reportedly declared public property near the village of Jin, in the Tulkarm area. The expropriated lands are the areas of Jabal Saris, Kurm-Abid and Khalat Hilal. (Al Fajr, 11 November 1983)

It was reported that between 4,000 and 6,000 dunums were declared government property on 17 November 1983 in the village of Beit Ula, in the Hebron district. The 60 owners of the land were notified verbally through the mukhtars that they could protest the decision within 30 days. The confiscated land is in the fertile valleys and is planted with vegetables and wheat. The Israeli army had occasionally used other parts of Beit Ula for training and manoeuvres. It was also reported that over 1,500 dunums were seized on 16 November 1983 from Ramallah, Beitunia and Rafat. According to Israeli sources the land was taken for military purposes. (Al Fajr, 25 November 1983)

The military authorities confiscated 3,000 dunums from the village of 'Ajul (Ramallah). This confiscation brings the total of land confiscated to one third of the village land in less than four years. The land confiscated from 'Ajul is located south of the village. Not far from this land is the ATERET settlement which was erected four years ago on 'Ajul and Om Safa property. The land in question is cultivated up to 80 per cent with olive and fig trees as well as barley and wheat. (Al Ittihad, 19 January 1984)

The West Bank civil administration declared 4,500 dunums near the village of Jaba, between Ramallah and Jericho, as State land. (Jerusalem Post, 12 February 1984)

Landowners from the village of Aboueen, near Ramallah, appealed to the Military Objections Committee against the expropriation of 1,300 dunums of their land. (Al Fajr, 15 February 1984)

In late January 1984, settlers from Karnei'la settlement erected fences around Arab Ka'abneh houses and lands covering an area of some 1,800 to 2,000 dunums, and claimed that the land is State property. Over 10,000 dunums belonging to Ka'abneh Bedouin have been confiscated since 1967 for military purposes.

Kufr Labad village council (Tulkarm) was reportedly informed by the military government that 1,200 dunums of farm land in their village of Shoufa had been expropriated. (Al Fajr, 27 April 1984)

The Halhul municipal council was informed by the military government of the expropriation of 2,000 dunums of land in Dhahr Khilal, Ras Ashraf and Qannieh, near Beit Ula and Nuba. (Al Fajr, 4 May 1984)

The Israeli archaeological department was making preparations to fence and confiscate large land areas at Tal Balata, east of Nablus. Reportedly, the authorities had earlier opened a road through Arab-owned land belonging to villagers from Kufr Qallil in order to connect the Eilon-Moreh settlement with the Bracha settlement, on top of Mount Jerzim. The targeted area contained the two largest schools in Nablus: Haj Ma'azouz al-Masri School and Qadri Toukan School with 1,500 students each. (Al Fajr, 1 June 1984)

The Gaza military governor reportedly handed residents of Beit Lahiya an order closing 2,450 dunums of planted citrus land. This order banned 2,000 peasant farmers from entering their land north of the village to work on it. (Al Fajr, 1 June 1984)

USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN 1985

The United Nations Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Territories reported on October 4, 1985<sup>19</sup> as follows:

Much of the information examined by the Special Committee concerned the policy followed by the Government of Israel in the occupied territories in regard to the establishment of settlements and the measures taken in implementing this policy. The following paragraphs give a summary of this information divided as follows:/ep

1. Policy;
2. Measures;
3. Expropriations.

1. Policy

Minister Yuval Ne'eman, the Chairman of the Joint Ministerial-World Zionist Organization (WZO) Settlement Committee, said at its meeting on 12 August 1984 that his committee had decided over the past three years to establish more than 70 settlements and that only two or three had yet to be populated. His statement came in response to a paper presented on 15 July 1984 by the Chairman of the WZO Settlement Department, Mattityahu Drobles, alleging that during the previous three years the committee had decided to establish 65 settlements but only 36 had in fact been established; 19 were under construction and progress on the remaining 10 was halted due to budgetary constraints. In a related development it was reported that the Chairman of the WZO Settlement Department had left for Latin America and France to organize groups of would-be immigrants-settlers for settlements in the West Bank and in other regions in Israel.

(Ha'aretz, 12 August; Jerusalem Post, 13 August 1984)

On 9 September 1984, it was reported that the Finance Minister had approved the unfreezing of $2 million for what was described as the "setting up of a minimum infrastructure for new settlements in Judea and Samaria." Commenting on this report, sources in the Finance Ministry said that the Settlement Department had indeed requested the unfreezing of I.S. 600 million (approximately $46 million) but added that the request was still "under consideration." (Yediot Aharonot, 9 and 10 September 1984)

Under the agreement to set up a national unity government, signed on 10 September 1984 by the Labour Alignment and the Likud, the new government pledged not to uproot existing settlements. Their existence, defence and development would be guaranteed "at a place to be decided on by the government." Regarding the 28 settlements already agreed on by the Likud Government but not yet established, the new government has undertaken to establish five or six within the next year, with the next to be decided by the government. The establishment of new settlements would need the approval of an absolute majority of Cabinet Ministers, thus giving Labour a veto over the establishment of new settlements. (Jerusalem Post, 11 September 1984)

The State President, Mr. Chaim Hertzog on 2 October 1984 visited Jewish settlements in the Katif Bloc, in the Gaza Strip. He stated during the tour that Jews had the right to settle anywhere in Eretz Yisrael, but they should establish settlements only when and where there had been a governmental decision to do so, and only if this deprived no one of his land or property. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, 3 October 1984)

On 26 September 1984, Mr. Rabin and Likud representatives agreed to establish a new settlement in north-western "Samaria" close to the pre-1967 armistice line. The new settlement would be called "Avney Hefetz" and located not far from Tulkarm. According to reports the two parties differed on where five more settlements should be set up; the Likud delegation argued for more settlements in the densely populated areas of the West Bank's mountain ridge, and Mr. Rabin proposed the Jordan Valley, the Etzion Block and the southern Mount Hebron area. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, Yediot Aharonot, 27 December 1984)

On 1 January 1985, it was reported that Mr. Nissim Zvilli, the co-Chairman of the WZO Settlement Department, had written a letter to Prime Minister Peres in which he said that it was "sheer insolence to demand to set up new settlements" in the West Bank "when joblessness is spreading, development towns are crying for help and farms are collapsing under their debts." Mr. Zvilli added that existing settlements under the auspices of the WZO in the West Bank had debts of $75 million and that 350 houses and flats in these settlements were empty. More than 40 settlements were inhabited by less than 30 families each, and in some there were fewer than 10 families. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, 1 January; Ma'ariv, 2 January 1985)

On 17 January 1985, it was reported that following complaints from United States government officials a meeting was held "at a most senior level" with senior officials of the Government and the Jewish Agency, and it was decided not to transfer any of the 6,000 new immigrants from Ethiopia to settlements in the West Bank and the Golan Heights. (Ha'aretz, 17 January 1985)

On 14 February 1985, the Prime Minister Alternate and Foreign Minister, Mr. Yitzhak Shamir, said that within two or three years, the number of Jewish settlers in the West Bank would be twice the present 50,000. "I am authorized to tell you that nothing has changed in our policy of settling western Eretz Yisrael up to the Jordan. Settlement in every part of the country will continue and will not be reversed or changed," Mr. Shamir declared. In another declaration on the same day, Mr. Shamir stated that the Golan Heights were an integral, inseparable part of Israel and not subject to negotiations. Mr. Shamir was reacting to a statement by a United States official that the Golan was subject to negotiation. (Jerusalem Post, 15 February 1985)

On 1 March 1985, it was reported that the WZO Settlements Department was planning the construction of six new settlements in 1985. Four would be rural settlements: Neot-Adumin, Assael, Nigdalim and Maskot (in the Jordan Valley). The other two, Beitar and Avnet-Hefetz, would be urban settlements. The creation of the six settlements had been approved by the Government. A special budget would be allocated for the construction, in addition to the $30 million, which is the Settlement Department's current budget for the development and consolidation of existing settlements. In another context, the Housing Minister, David Levy, announced that during the current year there would be 1,400 new construction sites in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. (Ha'aretz, 1 March 1985)

On 29 April 1985, Mattityahu Drobles, the co-chairman of the Jewish Agency's Settlement Department, told representatives of the 13 Jewish settlements in the Katif region in the southern Gaza Strip that four or five new settlements would be built there in the next three years. "There will be 5,000 families, which means 25,000 people, here by 1988, and this will be accomplished with an annual budget of only $2.5 million." In the same context it was reported that the Ministry of Tourism's Investments Committee had approved a project of building a religious vacation-village in the Katif Bloc, at a cost of $3.5 million. (Ha'aretz, 29 April 1985; Jerusalem Post, 30 April 1985)

On 6 May 1985, the Knesset Finance Committee earmarked I.S. 1.9 billion (approximately $146 million) for the creation of two new settlements in the West Bank: Neot-Adumim and Migdalim. A further amount of I.S. 5 billion (approximately $375 million) would reportedly be earmarked for the creation of means of production in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, and in particular in the Katif Bloc. (Ha'aretz, 7 May 1985)

On 24 June 1985, a spokesman for the State Employment Service, Mr. Zalman Chen, reported that the Service would "in the very near future" be extended to approximately 100 settlements in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. The spokesman said that this would be done by military order. He added that the Employment Service Law and the Unemployment Insurance Law would soon be applied in accordance with a recent cabinet decision "in order to serve interests of the Jewish population." According to the report, separate labour exchanges and job registration offices already operated in 28 Arab communities in the territories, but only three labour exchanges existed in the Jewish settlements of Kiryat-Arba, Maaleh-Adumim and Maaleh-Efraim. (Jerusalem Post, 25 June 1985)

On 10 July 1985, it was reported that, as of that day, the Employment Service Law and the National Insurance Institute Law had been extended to the territories by order of the military government. Under those laws Jewish settlers in the West Bank and Gaza would be entitled to unemployment compensation and income supplements. The Minister of Labour and Social Affairs, Moshe Katzav, said the extension of the laws to the territories was a "reparation of a wrong caused to the settlers for 18 years. With the deterioration of the employment situation the state's duty is to provide the minimum to those who could not find employment in the region." (Ma'ariv, 10 July 1985; Jerusalem Post, 11 July 1985)

On 5 July 1985, the co-chairman of the WZO Settlement Department, Nissim Zvilli, who had been appointed by the Labour Party, appealed to Prime Minister Peres and to his Deputy Yitzhak Shamir to waive the clause in the coalition agreement calling for the establishment of six new settlements in the territories by September at a cost of over $10 million. He warned that the creation of the new settlements would badly harm existing settlements and revealed that settlements, principally those situated in the Golan Heights, the Jordan Valley and the Katif Bloc, owed over $80 million to "outside elements." He further revealed that over 400 apartments in settlements in various areas were still empty, and that in about 50 settlements there were only 15 to 20 families. Only 25 per cent of the settlers had jobs in the settlements. In response to that appeal the Council of Jewish Settlements in the West Bank and Gaza said on 7 July 1985 that unless the Government established new settlements there within the next two months the settlers would do so themselves. The secretary of the Council of Settlements, Otniel Schneller, said Zvilli's stand was "malicious and quarrelsome. There is no truth to it." But one senior Gush Emunim source conceded that the question of whether to use the money to help existing settlements or establish new ones was legitimate. (Ha'aretz, 7 July 1985; Jerusalem Post, 8 July 1985)

2. Measures

New settlements were reportedly set up on 8 August 1984 inside Hebron. The settlements, consisting of seven house-trailers, were set up on three plots which, according to a Justice Ministry official, belonged in the past to Jews. One plot was located about the old Jewish cemetery, the second was in Tel-Rumeida, opposite the old Jewish quarter, and the third was on the outskirts of Hebron, the three settlements received the Defence Minister's approval and that of the Israeli-run municipality of Hebron. On 10 August 1984, it was reported that the settlers had already been provided with running water, electricity and gas. The settlement in Tel-Rumeida reportedly aroused anger among archaeologists, since it is located in the midst of what was described as a most important archaeological site dating back to the early Israelite period where construction is prohibited. The name of the new settlement was meanwhile decided: Ramat-Yishai. Some 70 left-wing Israelis, led by two Knesset members, on 11 August 1984 demonstrated against the new settlements in Hebron. On 14 August 1984, it was reported that more house-trailers to set up four more settlements inside Hebron were organized. The settlers were waiting for legal approval before seizing other formerly Jewish plots of land. On 22 August 1984 it was reported that work at the new settlement's site continued. (Jerusalem Post, 9 and 10, 12 and 13, 22 August 1984; Ha'aretz, 9 and 10, 12, 14 August 1984)

The establishment was reported of two new religious settlements in the West Bank: Pudedel, located near the old fortress of Deir-Kala' in "Samaria," and Carmi-Tzur, south of the Etzion bloc, three kilometres north of Halhul. Pudedel had at its disposal some 1,000 dunums and it was planned for 250 families. Eighteen families were living there in house-trailers. Carmi-Tzur had only 80 dunums at its disposal. (Ma'ariv, 21 August 1984)

Two new settlements were reportedly set up in "Samaria" during the second week of September 1984: "Nahliel" — an orthodox settlement converted from a Nahal outpost, located north-west of Ramallah, between Neveh-Tzuf and Dolev, and "Givat-Halevona," a Gush Emunim settlement created by the Zionist Federation and located 2 kilometres from Shilo, north of Ramallah. On 14 September 1984, it was reported that the IDF had prevented the settlers from placing six house-trailers in the Tel-Rumeida site since they were acting without authorization or approval. (Ha'aretz, 13-14 September 1984)

On 11 January 1985, it was announced that a joint Labour-Likud forum had agreed upon the establishment of six new settlements in the West Bank. The settlements, due to be set up by September 1984, are the following:

- Avney-Hefetz, south-east of Tulkarm and very close to the pre-1967 border;
- Peles, now a military camp, in the northern sector of the Jordan Valley;
- Migdalim, south of Ma'aleh-Ephraim, on the eastern slopes of the Samaritan hills;
- Assa'el, in the southern Mount Hebron area;
- Neot Adumin, near the Jerusalem-Jericho road, and a sixth settlement, either Beitar or Tzoref, in the Etzion bloc.

The decision was reportedly meant to implement a clause in the coalition agreement and was described as a compromise between the conflicting views of Labour and Likud, which wanted settlement throughout the West Bank. The decision was reportedly expected to cost $6 million, but according to another source each new settlement in the West Bank costs between $2 and $2.5 million. Sources in the Agriculture Ministry said the decision to set up a new settlement in the Jordan Valley was incomprehensible since the existing settlements in that region were in "bad financial distress." (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, Yediot Aharonot, 11 January 1985)

On 10 February 1985, "The West Bank and Gaza Strip Project," a research institute headed by Dr. Meron Benvenisti, published a document giving details about the number and composition of the Jewish population of the territories. By the end of 1984 the number of settlers reached 42,600, living in 114 settlements. Seventy-two per cent of the settlers (some 30,000) live in 15 large settlements and the remaining ones in 100 small settlements. According to the same document, it was reported on 31 March 1985 that 52 per cent of the land in the West Bank was under total Israeli control through direct seizure or administrative restrictions. (Ha'aretz, 11 February 1985; Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, 31 March 1985)

On 7 May 1985, Knesset member Ran Cohen (Citizens' Rights Movement) declared that the Histadrut (Israel's Labour Federation) had invested $100 million to date in construction and infrastructure works in the West Bank. (Ha'aretz, 8 May 1985)

On 8 May 1985, a group of settlers quietly moved into a tent encampment near the Arab village of Hussan, between Gilo and Battir, south of Jerusalem, and declared it the settlement of Hadar Beitar. Gush Emunim's settlement department, Amana, said the site was one of six the Government had decided to establish in the West Bank by September. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, 10 May 1985)

On 14 June 1985, it was reported that during 1984, 6,000 Jews moved to settlements in the West Bank. (Ha'aretz, 14 June 1985)

On 2 March 1985, the Director-General of the Ministry of Health, Mr. Dan Michaeli, decided to close the Hospice Hospital in East Jerusalem, allegedly because of several cases of "medical neglect" and to low medical standards. The decision was reportedly approved by the Minister of Health, Mordechai Gur. On 5 March 1985, however, according to Health Ministry sources, the Hospice may not be completely closed down, but was to serve as a "sophisticated emergency facility and diagnostic clinic." (Jerusalem Post, 5 March 1985; Yediot Aharonot, 3 March 1985)

On 2 June 1985, Israeli soldiers reportedly uprooted over 1,500 olive trees belonging to residents of Abeidiya village, east of Bethlehem, on the grounds that they were planted illegally. The land, which totaled 500 dunums, was owned by a family from Obeidiya. The trees were the main source of income to the more than 300 family members. (Al Fajr, 7 June 1985)

On 8 July 1985, a source in the Likud party revealed that work on the infrastructure of four of the six new settlements to be established under the coalition agreement had already begun. The settlements are Migdalim, Neot-Adumim, Asa'el and Peles. Migdalim may be ready by the end of August, the source said. (Jerusalem Post, 9 July 1985)

On 22 July 1985, Housing Minister David Levy declared in the Jordan Valley settlement of Maaleh Efraim that his Ministry would this year lay the groundwork for the establishment of 15 new settlements, including seven in the territories. Mr. Levy was speaking at a cornerstone-laying ceremony for a new neighbourhood of 52 homes. One of Levy's assistants, Dan Yitzhaki, told a correspondent that he expected the new settlements in the West Bank to be populated this year and noted that people were already living on a hill near Beitar — another proposed settlement south-west of Jerusalem. Atzmona and Bedolah were to be populated in the Gaza district. More roads were to be built and additional infrastructure was to be prepared this year for three settlements in Judea area: Malkishua, Avney-Hefetz and Mezadot Yehuda. (Jerusalem Post, 23 July 1985)

3. Expropriation

The Israeli authorities reportedly confiscated 450,000 dunums of West Bank land and declared them "State land." The head of the civil section in the Israeli Attorney General's office was checking the ownership of another 150,000 dunums. According to Israeli estimates, about 600,000 dunums were being used for Jewish settlement, agriculture and industry. (Al Fajr, 24 August 1984)

On 23 August 1984, the Israeli authorities reportedly announced their decision to confiscate 100 dunums from the small village of Khirbat Batir near Bethlehem. The land in question is planted with olive, fig, and almond trees, as well as with grapevines. The authorities had confiscated 1,000 dunums from the same village a year ago. (Al Fajr, 24 August 1984)

On 18 September 1984, the Israeli military authorities reportedly confiscated more than 1,300 dunums of land belonging to more than 30 families from the village of Mazra al Qibilyeh, allegedly for expanding settlements in the area. (Al Fajr, 21 September 1984)

Several residents of the village of Deir Quds in the Ramallah district reportedly received a notification from the Israeli authorities that they had decided to confiscate 1,500 dunums of their land. The authorities claimed that the land was government-owned and gave the villagers 30 days to appeal the decision. (Al Fajr, 16 November 1984)

More than 1,500 dunums of agricultural land, near the village of Arroub in the Hebron district, on 7 November 1984 were declared "State land" by the Israeli military commander. (Al Tali'ah, 6 December; Al Fajr, 7 December 1984)

On 15 December 1984, the villagers of Rantis, north of Ramallah, said that they had been notified by the military government of the expropriation of 1,380 dunums of land belonging to them. Most of the area consists of farming land, which constitutes the source of livelihood of 20 families in the village. The villagers had one month to appeal the decision. (Ha'aretz, 16 December 1984)

The Israeli authorities notified a number of residents of Beit Fajjar village in the Bethlehem district of their decision to confiscate 700 dunums from the land owned by the village. (Al Fajr, 21 December 1984)

On 21 January 1985, IDF troops seized an area of 200 dunums in the Gaza Strip, in a region known as "Kurum al Luz," in Wadi Gaza, south of the city of Gaza. Troops used bulldozers and uprooted dozens of olive and fig trees, as well as vines. Security sources said that the lands were State-owned and that the local residents had "invaded them in recent years." (Ha'aretz, 23 January 1985)

On 27 January 1985, it was reported that residents of the village of Samu', south of Hebron, had been notified that some 2,000 dunums of land bordering on the village were about to be declared State-owned. The villagers were given one month to appeal the decision, if they so requested. (Ha'aretz, 27 January 1985)

On 18 June 1985, Israeli military authorities reportedly demolished seven tiny Hebron area villages, displacing nearly 200 families in order to convert their land, 40 dunums, into a military training zone. The land had been declared a closed military area one and a half months earlier. The Israeli authorities had then informed Yatta notables that the land was being seized for "military purposes." (Al Fajr, 21 June 1985)

Israeli authorities reportedly confiscated a 50 dunums-plot in the Hebron area. Mr. Alami, the owner of the land, received a warning to give up the land within 24 hours. (Al Fajr, 21 June 1985)

Palestinian landowners from the village of Qousin, eight kilometers west of Nablus, protested the notice they received on 16 June 1985 that more than 1,200 dunums of their agricultural land had been slated for confiscation. They were given 45 days to appeal the decision. No official reason was reportedly given for the confiscation. (Al Fajr, 28 June 1985)

USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN 1986

The United Nations Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Territories reported on October 20, 1986<sup>20</sup> as follows:

On 25 November 1985, it was reported that Meron Benvenisti said at a press conference that most of the Jewish settlements in the West Bank were too weak to sustain themselves, and that if the Government stopped supporting them they would collapse. According to the West Bank Data Base Project, the number of settlers in the West Bank increased by 10,000 over the past year and at present reached 52,000. The increase was mostly in settlements close to Tel Aviv or Jerusalem. Three-quarters of the settlers lived within 20 kms of Jerusalem, or within a 40-minute drive from the Tel Aviv area. Benvenisti said that the 52 settlements established by Gush Emunim, with a population of some 10,000 settlers, stagnated over the past year. Benvenisti found that the Government was spending large amounts on keeping the settlements going. According to Benvenisti, if the present rate of settlement should continue, the forecast of 100,000 Jewish settlers in the West Bank by the end of the decade should remain unaltered. On 27 November 1985, it was reported that the Gush Emunim rejected Dr. Benvenisti's findings as "distorted and erroneous." There were at present 62,000 Jewish settlers in the West Bank, and not 52,000, and the potential for more settlers was not weakening. The decline in construction was similar to the one felt in other parts of the country, and 19 new settlements were established recently in tough locations, peopled by "ideologically motivated" groups, numbering some 150 families. These settlements are: Beit-Hagai, Maaleh-Levona, Eli, Yitzhar, Peduel, Nahliel, Sanur, Rafiah-Yam and Netzarim. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, Ma'ariv, 25 November 1985; Ha'aretz, 27 November 1985)

On 30 December 1985, the Knesset Finance Committee approved a budget of I.S. 5 billion (approximately $3.5 million) for settlement in the territories, following an agreement between the representatives of the Alignment and Likud and the Committee chairman. (Ha'aretz, 31 December 1985)

On 10 January 1986, it was reported that, according to a study by Michael Romann published earlier in the week by the West Bank Data Base Project headed by Dr. Meron Benvenisti, the future development area of Kiryat Arba would totally surround Hebron, and would be larger than the entire municipal area of jurisdiction of the Arab town. The process of locating state-owned lands for Kiryat Arba was still under way. When completed, it could reach 4,000 to 6,000 dunums, allowing for the construction of 5,000 housing units — including the existing flats — and for a population of 21,000. According to the study, there were at present 3,000 Jews in Kiryat Arba and Hebron, and some 6,000 Arabs in Hebron. According to the plan, all the State-owned lands within that area were designed for Jewish construction; access and connection roads, would reportedly be expropriated from their Arab owners. The Arab areas within that zone would be restricted for farming, open areas or future development, and urban construction there would be prohibited. In a related development, the Committee for the Renewal for Jewish Settlement in Hebron published a blue-print providing for the seizure of 70 dunums of formerly Jewish property inside Hebron, in the sites of the wholesale market, bus terminal and Tel-Rumeida. Under the plan 500 flats would be built in that area, with a Jewish population of 3,000. At a later stage, the plan proposed to connect the three sites inside the old town (Hadassa House, Romano House and "Abraham the Patriarch" compound), by buying or expropriating lands, and to create a continuous Jewish settlement similar in its dimensions to the Jewish quarter in the old city of Jerusalem. As a long-term plan it was proposed to connect the Jewish quarters with the Patriarchs' Cave through the Casbah of Hebron. (Ha'aretz, 10 January 1986)

On 14 January 1986, the Minister of Energy and Infrastructure, Moshe Shahal, told members of the Jordan Valley local council that the Jordan Valley would remain part of the State of Israel in any future arrangement with Jordan. (Ha'aretz, 15 January 1986)

On 15 January 1986, the Minister of Housing and Construction, David Levy, told a meeting of his Herut movement, held at Maaleh-Adumim, that 13 new settlements would be set up in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip during 1986. Finance Minister Yitzhak Modai said at the meeting that the national unity government had to set up 27 new settlements during its term of office, according to the coalition agreement. (Ha'aretz, 16 January 1986)

On 27 March 1986, the Central Bureau of Statistics released figures on changes in the population in the State and in the territories. The number of Jewish settlers in the territories increased by 4,800 in 1985, bringing the total to 42,000. (Jerusalem Post, 28 March 1986)

On 6 August 1985, the head of the Jewish Agency's Settlement Department, Mattityahu Drobles, said that the Migdalim settlement, south-east of Nablus, bordering on the Jordan Valley region, would be set up on 1 September 1985. The second of the six settlements that would be created, Neot-Adumim, had its infrastructure under construction, while the remaining four settlements, Peles, Assa'el, Beitar and Avney-Hefetz, were still being planned. (Ha'aretz, 7 August 1985)

On 6 August 1985, the secretary-general of Gush Emunim, Daniela Weiss, told the Jerusalem Post that Gush Emunim leaders had concluded that their movement must pass from the stage of spreading out over the area to the stage of strengthening its hold over it. Accordingly, it was decided that Eli, a small new settlement on the Nablus-Ramallah road, should be turned into a full-fledged town. The expansion of Eli should be followed, according to the Gush Emunim planners, by the development of Eilon Moreh, Brakha and Kiryat Arba. On 2 October 1985 the cornerstone-laying ceremony of Eli took place. According to the report the Gush Emunim planned there a town of 2,000 families. Speaking at the ceremony Deputy Prime Minister David Levy said that 8 new settlements had been set up in the West Bank over the past year, and 8 more should be set up in the coming year. Some 6,000 housing units were being built at present. David Levy added that some 250 families were expected to live in Eli initially. At present, only 12 families reportedly lived in the settlement. (Jerusalem Post, 8 August and 3 October 1985)

The Israeli Military Objection Committee at Ramallah rejected a petition by Mr. Mohammed al-Nabahin of Ta'amreh village against the confiscation of his 12-dunum plot near Bethlehem. (Al Fajr, 9 August 1985)

On 13 August 1985, it was reported that a police investigation was under way into some 200 complaints by Arab landowners in the West Bank, who maintained that their signatures had been forged on purchase documents and their land had been sold without their knowledge. Some also claimed their land was taken from them through threats, force and extortion. Deputy state attorney, Plia Albeck, the Justice Ministry's expert on West Bank land, reportedly forbade — following the uncovering of several cases of illegally conducted land deals in the area — land sales by Israelis in areas unapproved for settlement, but private entrepreneurs and contracting companies continued to sell land, apparently with political backing from certain quarters (such as the Agriculture Ministry, when Ariel Sharon was Minister and Michael Dekel was his Deputy). It was reported that two more West Bank dealers were arrested in the first week of September 1985, as police continued to investigate land fraud on the West Bank. Thus far, 10 people had been arrested in connection with the case, including two Israeli lawyers — Mr. Uri Ben Yehuda and Mr. Sami Me'olam — and West Bank land dealer Ahmed Odeh. It was also reported that despite police requests, Tel Aviv District Court Judge Hamrah Sharon released three of the principal suspects in the case from police custody. They were suspected of forging signatures on land deeds. Three of them were released on IS 5 million (approximately $3,335) bail each after spending the previous 45 days in detention. On 24 October 1985, new fraudulent deals were discovered after investigation into fraud cases was halted by Israeli authorities. On 10 January 1986 it was reported that nearly two dozen Arabs from Nablus and surrounding villages were being held by police on suspicion of falsifying documents related to the West Bank land-fraud investigation. The police had reportedly questioned the suspects for 14 days but had not yet charged them. It was learnt that formal charges would be brought against only four or five of the suspects. The Arabs had complained to police and the Israel Lands Administration that their land was wrongly taken from them and that they were forced to sell their property under threats, but according to information in the hands of the police, the Arabs had falsified documents in order to show that the land sales were "fraudulent." (Jerusalem Post, 13 August 1985 and 10 January 1986; Al Fajr, 6 September 1985; Al Tali'ah, 24 October 1985)

On 28 August 1985, it was reported that the Planning Department of the Jerusalem Municipality had prepared a detailed plan for the expropriation of the south-eastern slopes of the Temple Mount, at present owned by the Waqf. According to the report the plan was not submitted to the local Planning Commission, as it was feared that a political storm could arise, after the Waqf had learned of the plan and threatened to create an "international scandal." Sources in the Jerusalem Municipality, who admitted that such a plan did exist, argued that an expropriation of the area would have had no practical repercussions, since the area, which was at present an archaeological garden, would have remained such a garden, and only its ownership would have been changed. (Ha'aretz, 28 August 1985)

On 3 September 1985, it was reported that farmers from the village of Surif and Jaba, south of the Etzion bloc, recently complained that Kfar Etzion settlers had been preventing them access to an area of 2,000 dunums of farming land that they claimed was theirs for many generations. The farmers were allegedly told by the settlers that the area was State-owned. It was also reported that the assignment of the area would be decided only after the decision to declare it State-land was confirmed. (Ha'aretz, 3 September 1985)

On 1 October 1985, it was reported that 200 Jews lived at present in the Muslim Quarter of Jerusalem's Old City, both in houses bought from Arabs and houses that formerly belonged to Jews. (Ha'aretz, 1 October 1985)

Israeli authorities reportedly confiscated vast areas of land belonging to the village of Yasuf in the Nablus area for the purpose of expanding the nearby Tafuah settlement. According to the report, 200 dunums were already confiscated in the village for the same purpose. (Al Fajr, 11 October 1985)

A number of Jewish zealots allegedly attempted to seize Arab land in Ras el-Amoud in Jerusalem, claiming graves existed on the 15-dunum plot. (Al Fajr, 25 October 1985)

On 5 November 1985, it was reported that the Investment Committee of the Ministry of Tourism had approved the construction of a hotel in the West Bank settlement of Kedumim. The hotel, the first in the West Bank to be approved by the Commission, would cost $1,000,000. (Ha'aretz, 5 November 1985)

Hebron's military governor reportedly notified the Mukhtars of Arab al-Ramadin near Dhahiriya of the decision to confiscate a 15,000-dunum plot extending from Arab al-Ramadin to Wadi al-Khalil. The land was surveyed a week earlier. (Al Fajr, 8 November 1985)

Israeli bulldozers began working on land belonging to the village of Sur Baher, south of Jerusalem, following a decision to confiscate the 1,000-dunums plot. (Al Fajr, 15 November 1985)

According to a report appearing in the Al-Quds newspaper of 15 November 1985, bulldozers have begun digging up a 130-dunum plot south of Nezarim settlement in the northern part of the Gaza Strip. (Al Fajr, 22 November 1985)

On 24 November 1985, it was reported that the Israeli forces on 22 November 1985 prevented some 40 members of the "Jericho nucleus" from settling in the Jericho area. The nucleus members, residents of Kiryat Arba and yeshiva students, intended to settle in an area where ruins of a sixth-century Jewish synagogue were discovered. Security sources said the nucleus members would not be authorized to settle in that area. The IDF stopped the nucleus members at a road-block and took them to a military camp several kilometres away. Ten members reportedly left the army camp and reached the site of the synagogue but they were forced to leave and two of them were arrested. On 26 November 1985, it was reported that another attempt to settle at the Jericho synagogue site was foiled by the army. On 8 December 1985, soldiers and border guards foiled an attempt, the third in one month, to establish a settlement at the ruins of an ancient Jewish synagogue north of Jericho. The settlers, members of a movement called the Faithful of the Land of Israel, stated that the attempts at settling in the area would continue. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, 24, 26 and 27 November 1985; 9 December 1985)

Seven farmers from Ubaidiyah village in the Bethlehem area were reportedly to go on trial before an Israeli military court on charges of working on their land without permission from military authorities. They were accused of violating article 34 of the 1966 law of organization of cities, villages and buildings by opening a road blocked by authorities in preparation for establishing a new settlement. (Al Fajr, 29 November 1985)

On 1 December 1985, nine families of Ethiopian Jews, totalling some 50 persons, were transferred to Maaleh-Adumim. The Housing and Absorption Ministries reportedly planned to settle some 40 families in Kiryat Arba. (Ha'aretz, 2 December 1985)

On 2 December 1985, the inauguration was reported of a new road linking the Jordan Valley to the coastal plain. At the inauguration ceremony Deputy Prime Minister David Levy said that the road had a "political significance" and was therefore given a special priority — so as to remove any doubt regarding the future. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, 3 December 1985)

On 19 December 1985, Gush Emunim created a fund for redeeming lands, whose objective is to raise contributions and funds in Israel and abroad in order to "redeem lands, particularly in Judea, Samaria and the Gaza district." (Ha'aretz, 20 December 1985)

It was reported that an eight-dunum plot belonging to Mr. Musa Ayyad has been confiscated by the Israeli authorities in the village of Sharfat in the Jerusalem area. The land was reportedly given to the Israeli Keren Kayaimet, which started uprooting Mr. Ayyad's olive trees. (Al Fajr, 20 December 1985)

Israeli forces reportedly seized about 2,000 square metres of land near Natzarin settlement (Gaza Strip). The reason given for the seizure was to expand the intersection. The land was owned by the Al-Ashram and the Attalah families. (Al Fajr, 20 December 1985)

On 9 January 1986, Israeli military authorities reportedly confiscated hundreds of dunums of Samu' village near Hebron. (Al Fajr, 17 January 1986)

On 20 January 1986, Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Housing and Construction, David Levy, inaugurated the renovated Hadassa House at Hebron. In the renovation works apartments were built for 11 families, and rooms were set aside for a synagogue and a dormitory for pupils of the yeshiva at the nearby Romano House. An adjacent house, called Hasson House, would also be renovated to accommodate five families (at present three families lived there) and a yeshiva. The main project involved the "Jewish Courtyard," also known as the Abraham the Patriarch compound. According to the plan, low-rise buildings would be built that would blend in with the Arab structures in the area. On 12 February 1986, it was reported that 11 Jewish families from Jerusalem and Kiryat Arba would move shortly into new apartments prepared for them in the Hadassa building in the centre of Hebron. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, Ma'ariv, 21 January 1986; Jerusalem Post, 12 February 1986)

It was reported that the Israeli authorities informed Arab landowners from the village of Beit Furik, near Nablus, of its decision to confiscate 4,000 dunums of their land. (Al Fajr, 7 February 1986)

It was reported that several dozen Arab residents from the villages of Irtas and al-Khader, near Bethlehem, submitted an official objection to opening a road on their land. The road would reportedly link Jewish settlements in the Bethlehem area. (Al Fajr, 14 February 1986)

On 24 February 1986, the cornerstone-laying ceremony was reported of a permanent settlement called "Metzadot-Yehuda" in southern Mount Hebron. Housing Minister David Levy attended the ceremony and also inaugurated a new road crossing the Mount Hebron area from north to south. (Yediot Aharonot, 25 February 1986)

On 28 March 1986, it was reported that the Housing Ministry had granted $40,000 to a Gush Emunim-oriented yeshiva that had been leading the move to buy out Muslim owners of houses surrounding the Temple Mount. The money was reportedly given to the yeshiva to help it acquire flats in the Muslim quarter of the Old City. There was no authorization in the State budget for that allocation. (Jerusalem Post, 28 March 1986)

On 31 March 1986, Housing Minister David Levy and the mayor of Jerusalem Teddy Kollek inaugurated the new neighbourhood of Pisgat-Zeev, located between Neveh Yaacov and the French Hill, in East Jerusalem. The new neighbourhood was planned to consist of 12,000 housing units; 400 families already live there. A new tract of road, linking Neveh Yaacov and Pisgat-Zeev to the Maaleh Adumim road, was also inaugurated on 31 March 1986. (Ha'aretz, 1 April 1986)

On 27 April 1986, Housing Minister David Levy took part in a cornerstone-laying ceremony at Neve Daniel, a new settlement in the Etzion bloc. Mr. Levy announced that within a few weeks his ministry would begin settling dozens of Jewish families in the heart of Hebron. (Ha'aretz, Jerusalem Post, 28 April 1986)

On 20 May 1986, it was reported that the Minister of Trade and Industry, Ariel Sharon, said during a visit to the Mount Hebron area that an industrial zone would be created in Deir Razah shortly, on a stretch of land of 600 dunums, located near the settlement of Adurayim. Mr. Sharon said the land was State-owned, and stressed the geographical and strategic importance of the site. According to local residents the lands were privately owned. The industrial zone would provide jobs for settlers in the 11 settlements located in the region. Mr. Sharon also announced that he intended to set up a 60-dunum site for high-technology industries in Porcelaine Hill, near Kiryat Arba. He said some $15 million were invested, during the previous year, in industry in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. (Ha'aretz, 20 May 1986)

On 25 May 1986, it was reported that three residents of the village of Artas, in the Etzion bloc, applied to the High Court of Justice, claiming that Jewish settlers in the area had set up hen-coops on lands confiscated from them for security purposes. The applicants were asking the High Court to instruct the security authorities to return the lands to their owners. (Ha'aretz, 25 May 1986)

On 29 May 1986, it was reported that an inauguration ceremony was held that day for the settlement of Kadim, in northern Samaria. Kadim had been created as a Nahal outpost and was now being turned into a permanent civilian settlement. (Ha'aretz, 29 May 1986)

On 1 June 1986, the security authorities fenced with barbed wires an area of 203 dunums near Abu-Median, south of Gaza, and another area of 116 dunums north of the Amer project. The land, located near the Netzarim settlement, had been bulldozed before being fenced. In another development it was reported that the military authorities had notified mukhtars of the village of Samu', near Hebron, of their decision to confiscate 2,500 dunums of the village's lands. The landowners were given 45 days to appeal the decision to the military objections committee. (Al Fajr, 6 June 1986)

On 4 June 1986, Housing and Construction Minister David Levy participated in the inauguration ceremony of a new housing project with 750 flats in the settlement of Ginot, in Samaria. Speaking at the ceremony Mr. Levy promised that settlement in Samaria would continue. In a visit to several settlements in Samaria, Mr. Levy said that some 100 rural settlements and 10 urban settlements had been established over the past 10 years in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, with a total of 15,500 housing units. In another development it was reported on 4 June 1986 that a Bedouin settlement, Lagia, would be established shortly in the southern Mount Hebron area, with a planned population of 10,000. Another Bedouin settlement, Houra, should be set up in Israel. (Ha'aretz, 4 June 1986)

On 13 June 1986, it was reported that mukhtars of the Bani-Naim village in the Hebron district had been notified the previous week of the confiscation of 950 dunums of land in the Kahlet Yaqin, Garon Batha, Um Dahab and Um Halseh areas, on the pretext that the lands were State property. Landowners were given 45 days to appeal the decision. (Al Fajr, 27 June 1986)

On 18 June 1986, it was reported that an area of 300 dunums had been levelled by bulldozers and confiscated in the Jenin district. The land was reportedly used by herdsmen from the villages of Tura, Khuljan and Ya'bad to graze their sheep. (Al Fajr, 27 June 1986)

On 20 June 1986, it was reported that residents of Ya'bad in the Jenin area had complained to the authorities against plans by the zoning committee to open a road 500 m long and 40 m wide. Large numbers of olive trees would be destroyed if the plan were to materialize. (Al Fajr, 27 June 1986)

On 23 June 1986, it was reported that the High Court of Justice had issued an interim injunction prohibiting the authorities from confiscating a 46-dunum Arab-owned plot to an Israeli settlement north of Rafah. The land was levelled in April 1986 in preparation for the confiscation. Reports also continued about land-levelling works in other areas in the Gaza Strip: some 102 dunums were being levelled near the Amer project, and 22 dunums near Netzarim. Gaza residents reportedly claimed they had documents proving their legal ownership of the lands. (Al Fajr, 27 June 1986)

On 27 June 1986, it was reported that several Palestinian lawyers representing four Hebron area families had filed a complaint earlier in the week with Israeli military authorities in protest of illegal work on a 700-dunum plot that was reportedly designed to become an industrial complex to serve Kiryat Arba. Land levelling works already started on the site, giving rise to clashes between local residents and security personnel. The creation of the industrial complex was proposed on 20 May 1986 by Minister of Trade and Industry Ariel Sharon. The four families owning the lands, situated in an area known as Beit-Inoun, reportedly had documents proving their legal ownership. In another development it was reported that the military objections committee had concluded earlier in the week that the authorities had erred in confiscating a 400-dunum plot owned by Palestinians near Yatta, south of Hebron. The committee advised the authorities, who declared the land State property, to return it to its owners. It also advised the authorities to return 400 dunums out of a 1,000-dunum plot near Surif, in the Hebron area, to its owners. (Al Fajr, 27 June 1986)

On 21 August 1986, the military authorities declared an area of about 3,000 dunums state land. The area was reportedly situated near the villages of Biddu and Surta, in the Tulkarem district. The authorities gave the landowners 45 days to contest the confiscation. The area in question had been allegedly fraudulently bought by Israeli real-estate companies. (Al Fajr, 22 August 1986)

THE USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN 1987

The United Nations Special Committee to Investigate the Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Territories reported on October 15, 1987<sup>21</sup> as follows:

On 20 September 1986, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said in a radio interview that he intended, after becoming Prime Minister, to increase the number of settlements in the territories "within the framework of our economic limitations and the coalition agreement," which called for the establishment of up to 27 new settlements in the territories. In the same context, it was reported that over 20,000 Jews had settled in the West Bank since the establishment of the "national unity" Government in October 1984, 13,000 of them over the past year. According to a demographic survey carried out by the IDF, the Jewish population of the West Bank and Gaza Strip at present stood at some 60,000. (Ha'aretz, 24 September, 1986; Jerusalem Post, 13 November 1986; Ha'aretz, 14 November 1986)

On 13 November 1986, Prime Minister Shamir met, for the first time since he took office, with a Gush Emunim delegation. Shamir said he supported the idea of settling "in all parts of the Land of Israel" and asked that plans in writing be submitted to him, but he explained that, given budgetary and coalition-linked constraints, he preferred, for the time being, to expand existing settlements, and create new ones only at a later stage. (Yediot Aharonot, 12 November, 1986; Jerusalem Post, 13 November, 1986; Ha'aretz, 14 November, 1986)

On 9 December, 1986, a Housing Ministry official reported that a plan that was being completed by Minister David Levy comprised six new Jewish settlements in the territories. Mr. Levy also announced at the meeting that construction had just begun of a new housing project in the Jewish quarter of Hebron. (Jerusalem Post 10 and 17 December, 1986)

On 25 June, 1987 an agreement was reached between Prime Minister Shamir, Finance Minister Moshe Nissim and Housing Minister David Levy on finding the funds necessary for the establishment of two new settlements in the territories, whose creation had been approved by the Cabinet. The Ministers also decided to expand existing settlements and to build bypass roads near Qalqilyah and Dheishah. (Jerusalem Post, 28 June, 1987)

On 15 July, 1987, the Chairman of the Tehiya party, Yuval Ne'eman, told his party's central committee that Prime Minister Shamir had promised that "thousands of new housing starts" would be carried out in the West Bank in the next 18 months — including 3,000 in 1987 and a further 3,000 in 1988. According to Ne'eman, the Likud also accepted a plan formulated jointly by Tehiya and the "Council of Settlements of Judea and Samaria" for construction of new roads on the West Bank. The Likud further undertook to speed up the construction of Avenei-Hefetz and Hadar Beitar, two of the six settlements whose establishment was provided for in the Government's guidelines. (Jerusalem Post, 16 and 20 July, 1987)

In the course of his testimony, a witness referred to the arbitrary seizure of land by the Israeli authorities:

"Any land in the West Bank is threatened with expropriation or confiscation for 'security reasons' or for reasons that are allegedly legal. There is no law that gives the Government the right to expropriate my land, but in most cases they allege that it belongs to the State, or it is close to the property of the State, or it must become the property of the State for security reasons. Then it is used for a settlement, whose settlers practise violence and expansion, thus forcing farmers to emigrate." (A/AC.145/RT.464/Add.1)

On 1 September, 1986, a ceremony was held at the Nahal outpost of Beit-Ha'arava, in the northern Dead Sea area. The ceremony marked the turning of the outpost into a civilian settlement. (Ha'aretz, 2 September, 1986)

On 5 September, 1986, it was reported that landowners in the West Bank villages of Salfit and Iskaka, south of Nablus, had recently been notified of a decision to declare 4,000 dunums of their lands as State owned. A week earlier 3,000 dunums of land belonging to Bidya villagers, in the same area, had also been declared State owned. (Al Fajr, 5 September, 1986)

On 8 October, 1986, the inauguration ceremony was reported of two new settlements in the Gaza Strip, "Bedolah" and "Bney-Atzmona." Deputy Prime Minister and Housing Minister David Levy promised at the ceremony that the Government would expand settlement in the region. (Ha'aretz, 9 October, 1986)

On 21 October, 1986, a ceremony was held at the settlement of "Kokhav-Yair" in "Western Samaria" to mark the beginning of the settlement's population. (Ha'aretz, 22 October, 1986)

On 18 November, 1986, the High Court of Justice rejected a petition by Arab residents of the Sur Bahir suburb of Jerusalem demanding the return of some 500 dunums of land expropriated in 1970. (Jerusalem Post, 19 November, 1986)

On 2 December, 1986, the military authorities reportedly informed the mukhtars of the villages of Urif, Burin and Asira al Qibliya, all in the Nablus district, of a decision to confiscate 700 dunums of their land. On 9 December, 1986, the mukhtars of the villages of Kafr Qaddum, Beit Lid and Qusin, also in the Nablu district, were informed of the confiscation of 10,000 dunums of their land. (Al Fajr, 5 and 12 December, 1986)

On 2 December, 1986, Housing Minister David Levy told a correspondent that more than 2,700 homes had begun being built in Jewish settlements in the territories since the formation of the national unity government. (Jerusalem Post, 3 December, 1986)

On 23 December, 1986, the authorities reportedly uprooted some 1,000 olive seedlings near the village of Zawiya, in the Nablus area. (Al Fajr, 25 December, 1986)

On 8 February, 1987, the Housing Minister, David Levy, inaugurated the construction in the "Jewish Courtyard" section in the center of Hebron. (Ha'aretz, 8 February, 1987)

On 10 February, 1987, hundreds of residents of the West Jerusalem neighborhoods of Talpiot and Arnona, and the East Jerusalem Jewish neighborhood of East Talpiot, joined Arabs from the neighboring village of Sur Bahir in a protest against the planting of a pine forest on agricultural land cultivated by the villagers. Mayor Teddy Kollek participated in the demonstration. (Jerusalem Post, 11 February, 1987)

On 25 March, 1987, Minister David Levy laid a cornerstone to the new town of Beitar, in a ceremony that was disturbed by Jewish demonstrators from development towns, protesting against "wasting money on settlements," rather than spending it on real social problems. (Ha'aretz, 18, 19 and 26 March, 1987; Jerusalem Post, 26 March, 1987)

On 25 May, 1987, Housing Minister David Levy took part in a ceremony in Eilon Moreh to lay the foundation stone for a new residential area, called "Givat Rami," and named after Rami Haba, the 8-year-old boy murdered near the settlement several days earlier. When completed Givat Rami would house 50 families. (Jerusalem Post, 26 May, 1987)

On 29 May, 1987, it was reported that according to a report by the World Zionist Federation's Settlement Department, the Jewish population in the West Bank stood at 60,500 at the end of 1986. The largest settlements were Ariel (6,500 inhabitants), Maaleh-Adumim (12,400), Imanuel (4,000), Givat-Ze'ev (3,900) and Kiryat-Arba (4,400). There were 118 settlements and 21 outposts. Some 13,500 housing units were occupied and some 1,040 were still empty; 2,281 were under construction. (Ha'aretz, 29 May, 1987)

On 29 July, 1987, absentee property officials reportedly ordered the expropriation of 700 dunums in Yasuf and Jamian villages, in the Nablus district. The villagers filed objections against the expropriation. On 11 August 1987, it was reported that over 500 dunums were declared a closed military area in the two villages. Local villagers claimed that the land affected amounted to over 1,500 dunums. (Al-Fajr, 2 and 16 August 1987)

On 23 August 1987, a group of pupils of the "Ateret Kohanim" yeshiva, in the Muslim Quarter of Jerusalem's Old City, moved into a building in the Muslim Quarter. The move was reportedly co-ordinated with the army and police forces. Under an arrangement reached on the initiative of the "Ateret Kohanim" association, the yeshiva pupils moved into 6 of the 13 rooms that made up the building. The remaining seven rooms would continue to be occupied by Arab families. (Ha'aretz 24 August, 1987)

THE USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN 1988

The United Nations Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Territories reported on October 24, 1988<sup>22</sup> as follows:

On 17 November, 1987, the Knesset Finance Committee approved by a majority of votes the allotment of New Israeli Shekels (NIS) 13 million ($8 million) to three new settlements in the territories: Avney-Hefetz, Assael and Beitar. The Committee also allotted money for further construction on the Trans-Samaria road. (Ha'aretz, 18 November, 1987)

On 22 November, 1987, it was reported that the Ministry of Housing was planning the construction of 1,500 apartments in the Jerusalem area by the end of 1988. (Jerusalem Post, 22 November, 1987)

On 19 February, 1988, it was reported that the Director-General of the Housing Ministry, Amos Unger, announced that a sum of NIS 10 million ($6.5 million) had been earmarked for road building in the West Bank during the fiscal year 1988/89. The Defence Ministry was also reportedly involved in the projects. In addition to the Kalkiliya bypass road, a 15 kilometre road would link Jerusalem to the Etzon bloc, bypassing the Dheisheh refugee camp and serving Efrat and Kiryat-Arba. Other stretches of road would be built near Ariel and around Beit Ur a-Tahta. (Jerusalem Post, 19 February, 1988)

On 4 March, 1988, it was reported that Industry and Trade Minister Ariel Sharon and Finance Minister Moshe Nissim had struck a secret deal that would enable Sharon to boost development projects in the West Bank settlements before the coming elections. According to a report, the Finance Minister agreed to add NIS 10 million ($6.5 million) to the funds available for Jewish settlements in the territories. (Jerusalem Post, 4 March, 1988)

On 28 March, 1988, Housing Minister David Levy, speaking in Kiryat-Arba, pledged to construct 2,000 more flats in settlements in the West Bank and Gaza. (Jerusalem Post, 29 March, 1988)

On 10 April, 1988, it was reported that the Housing Ministry intended to increase the number of housing units in the territories in 1988 by 30 per cent. The Ministry's Director-General, Amos Unger, said that following the drastic drop in sales of flats in the territories in recent months, owing to the unrest, it was decided to adopt a series of measures to boost construction in the territories. (Ha'aretz, 10 April, 1988)

On 22 June, 1988, Housing and Construction Minister David Levy declared that 10 provisional settlements would be converted into permanent ones, and thousands of housing units would be built in settlements located on the Green Line. "These housing units will obliterate the former Green Line," he said. He added that "nothing will deviate us from our determination to continue and intensify the accelerated construction in Judea and Samaria." (Ha'aretz, 23 June, 1988)

On 2 September, 1987, the cornerstone-laying ceremony was announced for a new settlement, Avney-Hefetz, located 8 kilometers south-east of Tulkarem. Most of the lands for the new settlement had been bought from private land-owners. Avney-Hefetz was one of the six settlements whose construction was decided by the National Unity Government. (Ha'aretz, 2 September, 1987)

On 2 October, 1987, it was reported that the Jewish National Fund had seized in recent months three houses in the village of Silwan, in East Jerusalem. Local residents said that Jewish families would move in shortly. (Ha'aretz, 2 October, 1987)

On 5 November, 1987, the Central Bureau of Statistics reported that the number of Jewish settlers in the territories had increased by 21,000 since the formation of the National Unity Government at the end of 1984, passing from 36,900 to approximately 58,000. The number of Jews settling in the territories was 9,200 in 1985, 7,300 in 1986 and about 5,000 in 1987. (Jerusalem Post, 6 November, 1987)

On 16 November, 1987, a source close to Industry and Trade Minister Ariel Sharon revealed that the Minister was buying an apartment in the Muslim Quarter of Jerusalem's Old City. Sharon's new residence was reportedly located in the same complex of apartments that students from the "Ateret Cohanim" yeshiva moved into about two months earlier. Arab tenants still lived in parts of the building. (Jerusalem Post, 17 November, 1987)

On 10 December, 1987, it was reported that the Israeli authorities seized 1,200 dunums from the village of Burin. Villagers, who filed a complaint against the measure, believed the seized land would serve the expansion of the nearby settlement of Brgha. In another development, the village council of Beit Amr was notified of the seizure of a large area of land of the village on the eastern hills alongside the Jerusalem-hebron road. Villagers feared the land would later be confiscated. (Attalia, 10 December, 1987)

On 2 February, 1988, Housing Minister David Levy said that his Ministry had started the construction of a Kalkiliya bypass road and that a new road, from Gilo to the Etzion bloc, would be built before the end of the present financial year. He promised settlers' representatives that many more houses would be built in their settlements. (Ha'aretz, 3 February, 1988)

On 18 May, 1988, the cornerstone-laying ceremony took place for a permanent settlement at Ateret, northwest of Ramallah. Ateret was described as a religious communal settlement with 35 families, affiliated to the Amana movement of Gush Emunim. (Ha'aretz, 18 May, 1988)

On 22 June, 1988, Housing and Construction Minister David Levy inaugurated a new construction site at the Alfei-Menashe settlement. He declared at the ceremony that the construction of a road bypassing Kalkiliya would be over before the end of the year. (Ha'aretz, 23 June, 1988)

On 12 July, 1988, the Nahal outpost at Shim'a, in southern Mount Hebron, was converted into a civilian settlement. It would be a communal settlement of Gush Emunim. Shim'a was one of six new settlements whose establishment was decided under the coalition agreement of the present National Unity Government. (Ha'aretz, 13 July, 1988)

THE USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN 1989

Extracts from the Reports of the United Nations Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied Territories dated 13 July, 1989, A/44/352 and dated 12 October, 1989, as follows.<sup>23</sup>

On 25 October, 1988, it was reported that a new settlement named Na'aleh was to be inaugurated the next day. It was located near the settlement of Nili, close to the Green Line, and consisted of 27 families of employees of the Aviation Industry. The new settlement was sponsored by Amana, the settling body of Gush Emunim. (Ha'aretz, 25 October, 1989)

On 10 November, the occupation authorities seized 50 dunums in the area of Al Majr, opposite Jneid prison camp, belonging to five Arab families in Rafidiya. Eyewitnesses reported seeing IDF lorries bring in army tents and equipment. (Attalia, 10 November, 1988)

On 22 November, it was reported that an industrial zone of approximately 10,000 square meters was planned to be created in Ariel. The industrial zone was to be built by a company headed by an adviser to Trade and Industry Minister Ariel Sharon. It would cost $8 million. (Ha'aretz, 22 November, 1988)

On 1 December, it was reported that the Housing and Construction Ministry was stepping up its activities in the Etzion bloc. Some 300 housing units were to be built shortly in Efrat, which would be converted from a community settlement to an urban settlement. The number of housing units in Beita should reach 8,000. The new road was under construction, a Kalkiliya by-pass, would be ready in one month's time. According to the Director-General of the Ministry, Amos Unger, despite the uprising there was a lot of construction and purchase of flats in the Jerusalem area and in Western Samaria. By the end of the fiscal year 1988 some 1,500 housing units would be built, according to Housing Ministry plans. Under another plan, the Ministry would create the infrastructure for building 500 flats in Pisgat-Ze'ev, north of Jerusalem (between the French Hill and Neveh-Yaacov). (Ha'aretz, 1 December, 1988)

On 6 December, it was reported that an extensive settlement campaign was under way in the Katif bloc, in the southern Gaza Strip, and that some 200 families had already expressed their will to settle there. The campaign was organized by the Government, through the Ministry of Trade and Industry, in cooperation with the Gaza Regional Council. (Ha'aretz, 6 December 1988)

On 22 December, a list of eight new settlements whose construction was agreed upon between the Likud and Labor parties as part of the coalition government plan was made public. The eight new settlements should be set up within the first year of the new Government's term of office. Five would be located in the "Judea" region and three in the Gaza Strip as follows:

(a) The settlement of Talmon (northwest of Ramallah) to be established on an area of land covering 1,300 dunums;

(b) Mikhtam (east of Latrun, 15 km north of Jerusalem) to be established on an area of 700 dunums;

(c) Eitan (2 km northwest of Jericho) to be established on an area of 600 dunums that had been allocated to the settlement;

(d) Alon (north of Mishor Adumim) to be established in an area uninhabited by Arabs in the district of Jericho, on 600 dunums of land that had been allocated to the settlement;

(e) Zif (7 km southeast of Kiryat Arba in the Mount Hebron area) to be established on 300 dunums that had been allocated to the settlement;

(f) Peat Sadeh (south of Khan Yunis) to be established on 600 dunums of land that had been allocated to the settlement;

(g) Katif H (near Peat Sadeh) to be established on an area of 300 dunums;

(h) Dugit (near Jabaliya camp, north of Gaza) to be established on an area of 600 dunums that had been allocated to the settlement. (Ha'aretz, 22 December 1988)

On 6 January 1989, it was reported that Defence Minister Rabin and the Prime Minister's adviser on settlement affairs, Michael Dekel, had prepared a document describing in detail the settlements that would be set up during the first year of the coalition government. The document was to be submitted to the government in 10 days time. Under that plan, three settlements would be created in the Gaza Strip within four months; Dugit, with 70 families, in two months' time; Peat Sadeh, with 50 families, in four months; and Kfar Daron — a "permanent settlement," in the coming weeks. Infrastructure and construction for the three settlements could cost NIS 4.5 million (approximately $2.5 million). (Ha'aretz, 6 January 1989)

On 18 January, Asha'b newspaper reported that the Israeli military authorities had handed residents of the village of Jayus, in the Tulkarem area, orders confiscating 1,362 dunums around the village alleging they were government property. The residents were given 45 days to appeal to the Israeli Military Objections Committee. (Al Fajr, 23 January 1989)

On 14 February, the village council in Tamun was notified by the military authorities that 2,838 dunums of village land would be confiscated. No reasons were given. (Al Fajr, 20 February 1989)

On 15 February, the military authorities closed an area of about 7,000 dunums used for grazing sheep in the villages of Tamun, Tayasir and Ein Al Biba. Residents were prevented from reaching the area. (Al Fajr, 20 February 1989)

On 20 February, deputy Prime Minister and Housing Minister David Levy inaugurated the Kalkilya by-pass road. At the ceremony, Housing Ministry officials announced that NIS 15 million (approximately $9 million) would be earmarked in the coming year for the construction of more roads and by-pass roads in the territories. (Ha'aretz, 19 and 21 February 1989)

On 15 March, Jewish residents of the West Bank moved to a rocky hilltop 8 km northwest of Ramallah and established Talmon — the first new settlement in years. They reportedly acted with government approval. Gush Emunim's settlement movement, Amana, and the Mateh-Binyamin regional council had undertaken to cover Talmon's initial costs. (Jerusalem Post, 16 March, 1989)

On 20 March, four provisional structures were placed at the site of a new settlement, named Tzofim, near Kalkilya. The new settlement was a private initiative and was not included in the eight settlements whose construction was agreed upon by the national unity government. The Amana movement was responsible for placing the provisional homes at the site. Permanent housing was to be built shortly. (Ha'aretz, 22 March, 1989)

On 23 March, it was reported that members of the Al Sharha family from Dura were notified of the confiscation of 1,500 dunums belonging to them in the areas of Taku' and Dhahiriya. The Israeli authorities gave them 45 days to file an objection. (Attalia, 23 March, 1989)

On 9 April, an inauguration ceremony was held for the new settlement of Tzufim, east of Kalkilya. The settlement was built on private land purchased by Gush Emunim. It was not one of the eight settlements provided for in the coalition agreement. It was planned for 1,500 families. (Ha'aretz, 10 April, 1989; Al Fajr, 17 April, 1989)

On 27 April, it was reported that the Israeli authorities ordered the confiscation of about three dunums belonging to Sherif Issa in Wadi Al Habis, near Deir Jarir (Ramallah). Another 24 dunums, property of Ahmed Abdel Fattah Hijazi, were also confiscated in the village of Jat (Nablus). (Attalia, 27 April, 1989)

On 2 May, it was reported that another 14 Jewish families were to settle in the "Abraham the Patriarch" compound in Hebron within the next two months. The construction of flats for these families was about to be finished. At present only five families lived in the compound. Eleven families lived in Beith Hadasa, six in the Hassan House, five in Shneorsohn House, three in Romano House and three more in Tel Rumeida. In addition, 120 students in the "Shavei Hevron" yeshiva reportedly stayed in the place almost day and night. (Ha'aretz, 2 May 1989)

On 10 May, two new settlements were established, Tzoref, in the Etzion bloc, and Ofarim, south of Beit Arye, in the Binyamin district. A third settlement, Dugit, was planned to be established in the Gaza Strip within two months. Tzoref had at its disposal 850 dunums of land purchased by Jews in 1928. (Ha'aretz, 11 May 1989)

On 28 May, it was reported that Minister Ariel Sharon was preparing a plan for the settling of 200 Jewish families in the Moslem quarter of Jerusalem's Old City. At present only 25 Jewish families live there and several religious schools are located in the quarter. The Jerusalem municipality reportedly opposed settlement of Jewish families in the Moslem quarter, for fear of increased tension between the Arab and Jewish communities. (Ha'aretz, 28 May 1989)

On 30 May, the Knesset Finance Committee approved the allocation of NIS 30 million (approximately $20 million) for settlements and roads in the territories. (Jerusalem Post, 31 May 1989)

On 1 June, it was reported that five more sites of Jewish settlements were to be populated in the coming months, in addition to the four that had already been established since the setting up of the coalition government: Talmon and Ofraim in Binyamin district, Tzoref in the Etzion bloc and Tzofim — a private initiative that was approved three years earlier. On 4 June, Housing Minister David Levy took part in a ceremony of consecration of 13 new flats in the "Jewish compound," near the Abraham synagogue, in Hebron. Levy announced that 1,000 new housing units were to be built in the territories before the end of the year, and that the construction planned to settle in one month's time three settlements in one day, in the Gaza Strip, Kfar Darom, Dugit and Katif 8. The settlement of Avney-Hefetz would also be established later in the year. (Ha'aretz, 1, 5 June, 1989)

On 7 August, the Central Bureau of Statistics reported that despite the Palestinian uprising, some 6,000 people settled in the territories over the past year. In December 1987 (before the beginning of the uprising) 60,300 Israelis lived in the territories. The 10 per cent growth in 1988 was slower than the rate in previous years. (Jerusalem Post, 8 August, 1989)

On 7 August, Industry Minister Ariel Sharon authorized the expansion of industrial zones near two West Bank settlements, Eilon Moreh and Karnei Shomron. He insisted that work start immediately to make clear that "Jews haven't changed their views and that the Government is adamant that it will not leave this area." Sharon, who was visiting the Barkan industrial area, also accepted a plan to refurbish the second storey of an old fortress at Sanur, south of Jenin. He said that Ariel, Beit Aba, Yakir and other settlements in the area formed a wedge between Nablus and Ramallah, but that such a wedge still did not exist between Jenin and Nablus. (Jerusalem Post, 8 August, 1989)

USURPATION OF PALESTINIAN LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS IN THE GAZA STRIP

The Gaza Strip is that part of the Subdistrict of Gaza which was not occupied by Israel in 1948, but occupied later on during the 1967 war.

It is about forty-five kilometers long (28 miles) and eight kilometers wide (five miles). The area of the Gaza Strip is about one-fifteenth of the size of the West Bank, or about 2,126 square miles. The number of Palestinian Arabs living in the Gaza Strip is about 560,000, of whom 360,000 are refugees who were expelled in 1948 either from other towns and villages in the Subdistrict of Gaza or from other Subdistricts in the southern part of Palestine.

From the Israeli occupation of the Gaza Strip in 1967 until the end of 1986, the Israelis usurped more than one-third of its Palestinian lands, namely about 28,750 acres out of a total of 86,250 acres, leaving the Palestinians only 57,500 acres (one acre is equal to 4,000 square meters). In 1987 the total usurpation of Palestinian lands amounted to about 40% of the land in the Gaza Strip.

Up to the end of 1986 the Israeli government established eighteen Jewish settlements in the Gaza Strip and in 1987 they established four additional settlements.

2,500 Jews, either from the United States, the Soviet Union or of other origins inhabit these Jewish colonies.

The Israeli government's objectives in establishing these Jewish settlements in the Gaza Strip are the same as those it pursues in the West Bank, namely to create a strong Jewish presence and to divide and isolate the Arab towns and villages from each other so that Palestinian communities cannot be united as a part of a future Palestine State. Many of the Jewish settlements were established on the seashore of the Gaza Strip in order to deprive Palestinians from the use of their beaches and to ruin their fishing industry, which was flourishing before the Israeli occupation.

Further, the establishment of Jewish settlements in the Gaza Strip, as in the West Bank, together with the destruction of Palestinian indigenous economic and social structures, indicates the intent to expel the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza in due course with their being replaced by an already established and still expanding network of Jewish settlements.

The following description of the Jewish colonies established in the Gaza Strip, showing the usurpation of Palestinian lands, is extracted from the Gaza Strip Survey by Sara Roi and published by The Jerusalem Post in 1986.<sup>24</sup>

1. THE NORTHERN SETTLEMENT BLOCK

The northern block of settlements is built on land belonging to the village of Beit Lahia, whose population in July 1984 was 11,700. Beit Lahia is located ten kilometres north of Gaza City and through 1979, owned 19,200 dunums (1,800 acres) of deeded land. In 1979, the Israeli authorities confiscated 2,500 dunums (625 acres) of land and in 1984, an additional 361 dunums (90 acres) were appropriated. Consequently, by 1985, the government was in control of 2,861 dunums or 15% of the land belonging to the village.

Four settlements comprise the northern block: Eretz, Nisanit, Elei Sinai and Nevets Sala.

(a) Eretz

The Eretz settlement began as a military outpost in 1968 and in 1972 was established as an industrial zone. Situated on 800 dunums (200 acres) of land just inside the northern border, Eretz consists of 26 factories of various kinds./ep

(b) Nisanit

Initially established as a military post in 1978, Nisanit became a nahal (military settlement) in 1982. The settlement is presently civilian and lies on 1,700 dunums (425) acres of land just south of Eretz. By January of 1985, Nisanit was inhabited by 90 people living in 40 housing units. On average, each settler occupies 19 dunums (4.7 acres) of land. The settlement belongs to the Hapoel Hamizrahi movement to which several other settlements belong. This movement tends to attract ideologically committed and highly religious individuals. Largely self-sufficient, Nisanit currently has a kindergarten and elementary school, health clinic, watch tower, restaurant and a chicken coop for raising chickens.

(c) Elei Sinai

Elei Sinai which means "toward the Sinai," was established in 1983 by settlers who were forced to evacuate their settlement, Yamit, in the Sinai. Located west of Eretz near the Mediterranean shore on 800 dunums (200 acres) of land, Elei Sinai engages in fishing and other agricultural activities. There are plans to turn the settlement into a recreational center for religious tourists. By January 1985, 70 people lived in 20 prefabricated houses although plans exist for building 25 new housing units, for approximately 300 families. In addition, a daycare center, kindergarten and regional school are planned. Elei Sinai belongs to the Amana settlement movement which is part of the Gush Emunim, a religious-nationalistic group.

(d) Nevets Sala

Planned in 1983, Nevets Sala will be an extension of Elei Sinai and will be located just south of its parent settlement near the Mediterranean.

(e) Netiv Ha'Asara

The settlement of Netiv Ha'Asara lies inside so-called Israel but just outside Gaza's northern border. Consequently, it provides a geographical bridge with the northern settlement block inside the Strip and erases some of the physical boundaries dividing the Strip from so-called Israel proper.

2. THE CENTRAL SETTLEMENT BLOCK

The block of settlements found in the central part of the Strip is built on land belonging to members of the Abu Middain family. The Abu Middain family belongs to one of Gaza's largest bedouin tribes who have owned land in the Strip for several generations. Located eight kilometres south of Gaza City, the land expropriated was primarily agricultural and was used to grow grapes, figs and citrus fruits. By January 1985, 4,000 dunums (1,000 acres) were expropriated from 18 members of the Abu Middain community. The majority of grapevines, citrus and fig trees planted in these lands were left intact for use by Israeli settlers. One settlement was established on Abu Middain land and is known as Netzarim.

(a) Netzarim

Netzarim was founded in 1972 and was the second settlement built in the Gaza Strip. As of January 1985, the settlement was occupied by 170 people living in 55 housing units. Initially, a military nahal, Netzarim became a civilian moshav (cooperative farm) in 1980. Palestinian farmers who own land adjacent to Netzarim have recently been prohibited from cultivating their land. Many of these farmers believe this is an attempt by the military authorities and the settlers to expropriate these lands for Netzarim, facilitating the expansion of the settlement.

3. THE EASTERN SETTLEMENT BLOCK

The eastern block is built on 200 dunums (50 acres) of land, portions of which once belonged to the Shawwa family. One settlement, Tel Montar, has been built in this area, southeast of Gaza City.

(a) Tel Montar

Tel Montar was created in 1982 as a nahal on 200 dunums of land. Originally a military post, the settlement is situated on an elevated area of strategic importance that overlooks Gaza City and the main roads leading to it. Furthermore, the site of Tel Montar provides an alternate road to central and southern Israel for settlers in the northern block and is the closest stopping point for Netzarim settlers travelling to so-called Israel. As a result of the settlement's strategic value—it also lies close to an airstrip—Arabs are prohibited from building in parts of the eastern sector.

4. THE DEIR EL BALAH DISTRICT

Deir El-Balah is a village of approximately 15,100 people located south of Gaza City. In 1970, declarations of state land incorporated 450 dunums (112 acres) belonging to Deir El-Balah which were used for the establishment of Kfar Darom.

(a) Kfar Darom

This settlement of 30 people was established in 1970 on the site of a kibbutz (collective farm) that was destroyed by the Egyptian army in 1948. The first residential settlement in the Gaza Strip, Kfar Darom belongs to the Hapoel Hamizrachi movement.

5. THE SOUTHERN SETTLEMENT BLOCK

The southern part of the Gaza Strip is the site of intensive settlement activity. Between 1972 and 1984, a wall of eleven settlements, both inhabited and under construction, have been established along the coast and near the Strip's main water aquifers. The land in this part of Gaza is very sandy which has led to the development of a hothouse agriculture consisting mainly of vegetables and flowers. The eleven settlements of the southern block are situated on state land formerly a part of the towns of Khan Younis and Rafah.

The total land area of Khan Younis was 56,000 dunums (14,000 acres). By December 1984, the Zionists had confiscated 26,415 dunums (6,604 acres) or 47% of the total land area belonging to the town. Of the dunums acquired, 415 (104 acres) were expropriated from eleven farmers who used the land to grow crops of almonds, olives, wheat and barley.

Rafah contained a total land area of 50,200 dunums (12,550 acres) of which 12,365 dunums (3,091 acres) were declared state land. At present, 25% of the total area once belonging to Rafah is now under Zionist control. Many of the fruit trees planted on the expropriated land were destroyed together with the irrigation equipment used to farm it.

Of the eleven settlements in the southern part of the Strip, those constructed after 1977 are primarily religious-nationalist in orientation. The settlements include, in order of their establishment: Morag, Katif, Netzer Hazani, Ganei Tal, Mitzpeh Atzmonah, Gan Or, Gadid, Neve Dekalim, Bedolah, Atzmonah and Rafah Yam.

(a) Morag

Morag was built in 1972 as a kibbutz producing agricultural products for export. It also contains a boxmaking factory and a workshop for tractor repair. Part of the Hapoel Hamizrachi movement, Morag also serves as a military outpost and contains 1,800 dunums (450 acres) of land expropriated from Rafah. One hundred and fifty people inhabit 45 housing units inside the settlement.

(b) Katif

Katif, located north of Khan Younis, was similarly established in 1973 as part of the Hapoel Hamizrachi settlement movement. Occupying 1,500 dunums (375 acres) of land, Katif is inhabited by 200 people living in 60 housing units. Additional housing units are planned. Katif is a moshav and agricultural hothouses provide the main form of economic activity.

(c) Netzer Hazani

Founded in 1973 as a nahal, Netzer Hazani is situated on

2,000 dunums (400 acres) of land north of Khan Younis. As a moshav, the settlement engages primarily in agriculture hothouse production of flowers and vegetables and contains a fruit packing factory. Netzer Hazani houses 350 people in 100 units. It is part of the Hapoel Hamizrachi movement.

(d) Ganei Tal

Ganei Tal is a moshav which was founded in 1978. Located just next to Katif, it sits on 1,200 dunums (300 acres) of land belonging to Khan Younis. Like the settlement of Netzer Hazani and Katif, Ganei Tal belongs to Hapoel Hamizrachi and has 170 inhabitants. Fifty housing units exist inside the settlement.

(e) Mitzpeh Atzmonah

Mitzpeh Atzmonah is a kibbutz which began in 1979. There are 200 people living in 60 housing units inside the settlement which lies at the southern end of the Strip near the Egyptian border. The kibbutz occupies 2,000 dunums (500 acres) expropriated from the town of Rafah. Mitzpeh Atzmonah belongs to the Amana settlement movement.

(f) Gan Or

The moshav of Gan Or was established in 1980 on 1,000 dunums (250 acres) of land south of Khan Younis. The settlement's 180 inhabitants are engaged in agricultural production of vegetables, fruits and flowers and also earn income from a growing Israeli tourist trade. Plans exist to increase the number of housing units inside the settlement from 50 to 124. Gan Or belongs to Hapoel Hamizrachi.

(g) Gadid

Located south of Khan Younis just next to Gan Or, Gadid was established in 1982 as a moshav primarily engaged in the production of flowers. Gadid occupies 1,200 dunums (300 acres) and is populated by 190 people living in 55 housing units. At present, there are plans to construct an additional 20 units. It is part of the Hapoel Hamizrachi settlement movement.

(h) Neveh Dekalim

Neveh Dekalim, founded in 1983, is the center of the southern settlement block. Located west of Khan Younis on 600 dunums (125 acres) of land, Neveh Dekalim contains 250 people and is one of the largest settler populations in the Strip. There are 70 housing units and plans exist to construct an additional 160. Neveh Dekalim is one of two settlements in the Gaza Strip belonging to the movement known as the Council of Settlements in the Gaza Strip.

(i) Bedolah and Atzmonah

Very little information is available on the settlements of Bedolah and Atzmonah, both established in 1983. Located north of Rafah, these two settlements have been planned as permanent dwellings for settlers who presently live in Morag. Population and land statistics are unavailable.

(j) Rafah Yam

Rafah Yam, established in 1984, is the latest of Zionist settlements in the Gaza Strip. Founded by the Council of Settlements in the Gaza Strip, Rafah Yam contains 60 people and 25 housing units. The settlement encompasses 1,000 dunums (250 acres) of land that lie very close to the Egyptian border. Largely a beach resort, Rafah Yam plans to construct a park and other recreational facilities for tourism. The settlement also engages in some fishing activities and light industry.

6. A SUMMARY

It is clear that in terms of population and size, the majority of settlements in the Gaza Strip are still small, ranging from 30-350 people. However, when measured in terms of land, Israeli settlements occupy a total area disproportionate in size to its population. The majority of settlers presently live in permanent residence while the remainder are awaiting completion of their permanent homes. Many settlements have a strong religious-political orientation and are ideologically committed to maintaining and extending their presence in the Strip. The majority of settlements engage in agricultural activities that compete and threaten their local counterparts for reasons already discussed. By 1985, for example, Israeli settlements together contained 600 dunums of hothouses while Arab farmers had hothouses on only 450 dunums. The Israeli vegetable marketing board, Agrexco, stopped marketing Arab-produced vegetables from the occupied territories, concentrating on those produced by Israeli settlements only.

Most of the settlements in the Gaza Strip are located in the south, along the coast near the Strip's water aquifers. This strategic position effectively gives the settlements a large degree of control over Gaza's water resources. According to local sources, despite stated water shortages in the Strip, Israeli settlements were allowed to dig several wells in 1984-1985 while Arab farmers were prohibited from digging any.

The existence of Zionist settlements in the Gaza Strip not only competes with and threatens indigenous economic activities, but physically impinges upon Arab towns and refugee camps, constraining their future expansion. This is particularly true in the southern part of the Strip where many of the settlements virtually envelop the town of Khan Younis, the refugee camp and the Amal resettlement zone, whose total population exceeds 200,000 people. Given the population density currently existing among Arab residents of the Gaza Strip, the inability to expand beyond present borders portends many negative consequences. Similarly, plans designed to expand the number of Zionist settlements and the size of existing settlements, will exacerbate many of the physical, economic and political problems which already plague the Gaza Strip.

The political objectives of the settlement movement have, among other things, attempted to create a Zionist presence inside the Gaza Strip that would preclude a repetition of Sinai. However, the attainment of this objective has and increasingly will, create new and more complex problems for both Jews and Arabs living within the same borders.

THE UNITED NATIONS CONDEMNS THE CONFISCATION OF PALESTINIANS LANDS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF JEWISH SETTLEMENTS

Since 1967, the United Nations General Assembly and the Security Council have adopted many resolutions condemning Israeli policies in the occupied Arab territories and in particular:

- (a) The confiscation and expropriation of Arab lands and properties in the occupied territories;
- (b) The establishment of Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza;
- (c) The transfer and settlement of Jews in the occupied West Bank and Gaza;

(d) That these acts and practices of Israel constitute a violation of the Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War of August 12, 1949.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

The General Assembly condemned these Israeli practices in the following resolutions:

Resolution 2851 (XXVI) of December 20, 1971; Resolution 3525 (XXX) of December 15, 1975; Resolution 32/5 of October 28, 1977; Resolution 33/113 of December 18, 1978; Resolution 34/90 of December 12, 1979; Resolution 35/122 of December 11, 1980; Resolution 36/147 of December 16, 1981; Resolution 37/88 of December 10, 1982; Resolution 38/79 of December 15, 1983; Resolution 38/144 of December 19, 1983; Resolution 39/95 of December 14, 1984; and Resolution 40/161 of December 16, 1985.

The following are examples of the language of these resolutions. The General Assembly in its Resolution 3525 (XXX) stated:

Bearing in mind the provisions of the Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949, as well as of other relevant conventions and regulations,

4. Deplores the continued and persistent violation by Israel of the Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949, and other applicable international instruments;

5. Condemns, in particular, the following Israeli policies and practices:

(a) The annexation of parts of the occupied territories;

(b) The establishment of Israeli settlements therein and the transfer of an alien population thereto;

(d) The confiscation and expropriation of Arab property in the occupied territories and all other transactions for the acquisition of land involving the Israeli authorities, institutions or nations on the one hand, and the inhabitants or institutions of the occupied territories on the other.

Again, the General Assembly in its Resolution 37/88 of December 10, 1982, stated the following:

Recalling also Security Council Resolution 465 (1980) of 1 March 1980 in which, inter alia, the Council affirmed that the Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949, is applicable to the Arab territories occupied by Israel since 1967, including Jerusalem,

Considering that the promotion of respect for the obligations arising from the Charter of the United Nations and other instruments and rules of international law is among the basic purposes and principles of the United Nations,

Bearing in mind the provisions of the Geneva Convention,

1. Reaffirms that the Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949, is applicable to Palestinian and other Arab territories occupied by Israel since 1967, including Jerusalem;

2. Condemns once again the failure of Israel as the occupying Power to acknowledge the applicability of that convention to the territories it has occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem;

3. Strongly demands that Israel acknowledge and comply with the provisions of that convention in Palestinian and other Arab territories it has occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem;

4. Urgently calls upon all States party to that convention to exert all efforts in order to ensure respect for and compliance with its provisions in Palestinian and other Arab territories occupied by Israel since 1967, including Jerusalem.

Expressing grave anxiety and concern at the present serious situation in the occupied Palestinian and other Arab territories, including Jerusalem, as a result of the continued Israeli occupation and the measures and actions taken by the Government of Israel, the occupying Power, designed to change the legal status, geographical nature and demographic composition of those territories,

Considering that the Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949, is applicable to all Arab territories occupied since 5 June 1967, including Jerusalem,

1. Determines that all such measures and actions taken by Israel in the Palestinian and other Arab territories occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem, are in violation of the relevant provisions of the Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949, and constitute a serious obstruction of efforts to achieve a just and lasting peace in the Middle East and therefore have no legal validity;

2. Strongly deplores the persistence of Israel in carrying out such measures, in particular the establishment of settlements in the Palestinian and other occupied Arab territories, including Jerusalem.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL

The Security Council in the United Nations also condemned the Israeli practices and confiscation of Palestinians' lands and the establishment of Jewish settlements in the West Bank and Gaza in the following resolutions:

Resolution 237 (1967) of June 14, 1967; Resolution 252 (1968) of May 21, 1968; Resolution 267 (1969) of July 3, 1969; Resolution 271 (1969) of September 15, 1969; Resolution 298 (1971) of September 25, 1971; Consensus of Members on November 11, 1976; Resolution 446 (1979) of March 22, 1979; Resolution 465 (1980) of March 1, 1980; Resolution 478 (1980) of August 20, 1980.

The following is an example of the language of the Security Council in these resolutions. The Security Council in its Resolution 465 (1980) of March 1, 1980, stated:

Taking note of the reports of the Commission of the Security Council established under Resolution 446 (1979) to examine the situation relating to settlements in the Arab territories occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem, contained in documents S/13450 and Corr.1 and S/13679,

Strongly deploring the refusal by Israel to co-operate with the Commission and regretting its formal rejection of Resolutions 446 (1979) and 452 (1979),

Affirming once more that the Fourth Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War of 12 August 1949 is applicable to the Arab territories occupied by Israel since 1967, including Jerusalem,

Deploring the decision of the Government of Israel to officially support Israeli settlement in the Palestinian and other Arab territories occupied since 1967,

Deeply concerned over the practices of the Israeli authorities in implementing that settlement policy in the occupied Arab territories, including Jerusalem, and its consequences for the local Arab and Palestinian population,

Taking into account the need to consider measures for the impartial protection of private and public land and property, and water resources,

Bearing in mind the specific status of Jerusalem and, in particular, the need for protection and preservation of the unique spiritual and religious dimension of the Holy Places in the city,

Drawing attention to the grave consequences which the settlement policy is bound to have on any attempt to reach a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East,

Recalling pertinent Security Council resolutions, specifically Resolutions 237 (1967) of 14 June 1967, 252 (1968) of 21 May 1968, 267 (1969) of 3 July 1969, 271 (1969) of 15 September 1969 and 298 (1971) of 25 September 1971, as well as the consensus statement made by the President of the Security Council on 11 November 1976,

1. Commends the work done by the Commission in preparing the report contained in document S/13679;

2. Accepts the conclusions and recommendations contained in the above-mentioned report of the Commission;

5. Determines that all measures taken by Israel to change the physical character, demographic composition, institutional structure or status of the Palestinian and other Arab territories occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem, or any part thereof, have no legal validity and that Israel's policy and practices of settling parts of its population and new immigrants in those territories constitute a flagrant violation of the Fourth Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War and also constitute a serious obstruction to achieving a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East;

6. Strongly deplors the continuation and persistence of Israel in pursuing those policies and practices and calls upon the Government and people of Israel to rescind those measures, to dismantle the existing settlements and in particular to cease, on an urgent basis, the establishment, construction and planning of settlements in the Arab territories occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem;

7. Calls upon all States not to provide Israel with any assistance to be used specifically in connection with settlements in the occupied territories;

8. Requests the commission to continue to examine the situation relating to settlements in the Arab territories occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem, to investigate the reported serious depletion of natural resources, particularly the water resources, with a view to ensuring the protection of those important natural resources of the territories under occupation, and to keep under close scrutiny the implementation of the present resolution;

9. Requests the Commission to report to the Security Council before 1 September 1980, and decides to convene at the earliest possible date thereafter in order to consider the report and the full implementation of the present resolution.

INTERNATIONAL LAW APPLICABLE TO MILITARY OCCUPATION

The laws governing military occupation of enemy territory and the protection of the civilian population in occupied territories were formally recognized in the second half of the nineteenth century and the beginning of the twentieth century by many declarations and conventions, from the Declaration of Paris in 1856 to the eleventh Hague Convention of 1907. These principles were also recognized in the London Agreement and the International Military Tribunal which tried Nazi and Japanese war criminals and by the Geneva Convention of 1949. We have dealt with this matter extensively in chapter eight. However, we feel it is important to summarize these principles in this chapter to demonstrate how the Israelis defied all these principles.

The following is a summary of these principles:

1. The occupant does not in any way acquire sovereign rights in the occupied territory but exercises a temporary right of administration on a trustee basis...the legitimate government of the territory retains its sovereignty but that the latter is suspended during the period of belligerent occupation.

2. The occupant is not entitled to alter the existing form of government, to upset the constitution and domestic laws of the territory occupied or set aside the rights of the inhabitants.

3. It is unlawful for the occupant to annex the occupied territory as long as the war continues. The occupant must not treat the country as part of his own territory, or consider the inhabitants as his lawful subjects.

4. Under a former rule of international law, belligerents could appropriate all public and private enemy property which they found on enemy property. This rule is now obsolete. The unrestricted right to seize and take enemy property of every kind no longer exists.

5. Private property must be respected. It must not be confiscated or pillaged.

6. Immovable private enemy property may under no circumstances or conditions be appropriated by an invading belligerent.

7. Immovable properties in the occupied districts 'are held to be incapable of appropriation by an invader: The profits arising from them are free from confiscation and the owners are to be protected in all lawful use of them.'

8. Private personal property which does not consist of war material or means of transport serviceable for military operations may not as a rule be seized. Articles 46 and 47 of the Hague Regulations expressly stipulate that private property may not be confiscated, and pillage is formally prohibited.

These principles of international law establish beyond any doubt the inviolability of private property.

All acts of encroachment on private and public property in disregard of international law are incapable of creating or transferring title. Lauterpacht states, "if the occupant has sold immovable state property, such property may afterwards be claimed from the purchaser, whoever he is, without compensation. If he has appropriated and sold such private or public property, it may afterward be claimed from the purchaser without payment of compensation."

The wrongful act of deprivation may pass possession of the property while the ownership remains in the private owner. For this reason the property is bound to be restored to the rightful owner when it is identifiable and capable of restitution.

THE PRINCIPAL JUDICIAL AUTHORITIES IN THE TRIALS OF WAR CRIMINALS

The principal judicial authorities on offenses against property in the trial of war criminals after World War II are those treated in Volumes IX and X of the Law Reports of Trials of War Criminals which dealt with the trial of the accused Flick, the accused Farben and the accused Krupp. The main conclusions of these judicial authorities can be summarized as follows:

1. The infringement of the property rights of the inhabitants of the occupied territory was considered a war crime.

2. The Hague Convention regarding private property relates to plunder, confiscation and requisition which, in turn, imply action in relation to property committed against the will and without the consent of the owner.

3. The Tribunal stated in the Krupp trial, "Spoliation of private property, then, is forbidden under two aspects; firstly, the individual private owner of property must not be deprived of it; secondly, the economic substance of the belligerently occupied territory must not be taken over by the occupant or put to the service of his war effort."

4. In dealing with public property, the United States Military Tribunals have relied upon Article 55 of the Hague Regulations according to which the occupying power has only a right of usufruct over such property, and that only for the duration of the occupation:

"Article 55: The occupying State shall be regarded only as administrator and usufructuary of public buildings, landed property, forests and agricultural undertakings belonging to the hostile State, and situated in the occupied country. It must safeguard the capital of such properties, and administer them in accordance with the rules of usufruct."

The Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War of 12 August, 1949, made it illegal for the occupying power to transfer and settle its citizens in the occupied territory. The International Committee of the Red Cross commentary on the said convention states in its analysis of Article 49(6):

"It is intended to prevent a practice adopted during the Second World War by certain Powers, which transferred portions of their own population to occupied territory for political and racial reasons or in order, as they claimed, to colonize those territories. Such transfers worsened the economic situation of the native population and endangered their separate existence as a race."

During the trials of Nazi and Japanese war criminals the defendants contended that they were not bound by the international law regarding military occupations because the occupied territories had been annexed to Germany and Japan. The International Military Tribunals which tried these war criminals rejected this argument and held that the purported annexations were invalid and that the provisions of the International Conventions regarding enemy properties are applicable.

The Israelis are alleging that the establishment of Jewish Colonies in the West Bank and Gaza are not illegal because the Geneva Convention of 1949 does not apply to the West Bank and Gaza. On April 25, 1982, Menahem Begin stated on the National Broadcasting Company's program Meet the Press that: "You can annex foreign land. You cannot annex your own country. Judea and Samaria are part of the land of Israel, where the nation was born."

Yitzhak Shamir stated in January of 1982, as reported by The New York Times of January 25, 1982: "We want peace, but only on conditions that will enable us to continue our existence, and this means the Golan Heights, Judea and Samaria within the boundaries of the land of Israel."

Moshe Dayan was reported by the Hebrew newspaper, Ha-aretz, of April 4, 1969, to have stated the following: "We came to this country which was already populated by Arabs, and we are establishing a Hebrew, that is a Jewish state here. In considerable areas of the country (the total area was about 6 percent) we bought the lands from the Arabs. Jewish villages were built in the place of Arab villages. You do not even know the names of these Arab villages, and I do not blame you, because these geography books no longer exist: not only do the books not exist, the Arab villages are not there either.... There is not one place built in this country that did not have a former Arab population."

The claim of the Israeli government that the Fourth Geneva Convention of 1949 does not apply to the West Bank and Gaza was rejected by all resolutions of the United Nations General Assembly which were usually approved by 140 states members of the United Nations and by the resolutions of the Security Council which were unanimously supported by the votes of the 15 members of the Council.

Even the United States, which is aiding and abetting Israel in the commission of this war crime of confiscation of Palestinians' properties, the establishment of Jewish settlements and the transfer of Jews to the West Bank and Gaza, stated on many occasions that the establishment of these Jewish settlements are inconsistent with international law and a violation of the Fourth Geneva Convention of 1949.

On July 28, 1977, President Carter stated: "This matter of settlements in the occupied territories has always been characterized by our Government, by me and my predecessors as an illegal action..."

On October 19, 1977, Alfred L. Atherton, Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs, testified before the Subcommittees on International Organizations, Europe and the Middle East, and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives concerning Israeli settlements in occupied territories. Portions of the text of his prepared statement was as follows: "Second, we see the Israeli settlements as inconsistent with international law. The Fourth Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War (dated August 12, 1949), which contains many of the internationally recognized rules under which military occupation should be conducted, states in article 49 the following: "The Occupying Power shall not deport or transfer parts of its own civilian population into the territory it occupies."

Herbert J. Hansell, Legal Advisor of the Department of State in a letter dated April 21, 1978, written to Chairman Lee H. Hamilton, subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East of the United States House of Representatives, stated "the legal considerations underlying the United States view that the establishment of the Israeli civilian settlements in the territories occupied by Israel is inconsistent with international law."

On the basis of the available information, the civilian settlements in the territories occupied by Israel do not appear to be consistent with these limits on Israel's authority as belligerent occupant in that they do not seem intended to be of limited duration or established to provide orderly government of the territories and, though some may serve incidental security purposes, they do not appear to be required to meet military needs during the occupation.

2. Article 49 of the Fourth Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, August 12, 1949, 6 UST 3516, provides, in paragraph 6:

"The Occupying Power shall not deport or transfer parts of its own civilian population into the territory it occupies."

Paragraph 6 appears to apply by its terms to any transfer by an occupying power of parts of its civilian population, whatever the objective and whether involuntary or voluntary. It seems clearly to reach such involvements of the occupying power as determining the location of settlements, making land available and financing of settlements, as well as other kinds of assistance and participation in their creation. And the paragraph appears applicable whether or not harm is done by a particular transfer. The language and history of the provision lead to the conclusion that transfers of a belligerent occupant's civilian population into occupied territory are broadly proscribed as beyond the scope of interim military administration.

The view has been advanced that a transfer is prohibited under paragraph 6 only to the extent that it involves the displacement of the local population. Although one respected authority, Lauterpacht, evidently took this view, it is otherwise unsupported in the literature, in the rules of international law or in the language and negotiating history of the Convention, and it clearly seems not correct. Displacement of protected persons is dealt with separately in the Convention and paragraph 6 would be redundant if limited to cases of displacement. Another view of paragraph 6 is that it is directed against mass population transfers such as occurred in World War II for political, racial, or colonization ends; but there is no apparent support or reason for limiting its application to such cases.

The Israeli civilian settlements thus appear to constitute a "transfer of parts of its own civilian population into the territory it occupies" within the scope of paragraph 6.

4. It has been suggested that the principles of belligerent occupation, including Article 49, paragraph 6, of the Fourth Geneva Convention, may not apply in the West Bank and Gaza because Jordan and Egypt were not the respective legitimate sovereigns of these territories. However, those principles appear applicable whether or not Jordan and Egypt possessed legitimate sovereign rights in respect of those territories. Protecting the reversionary interest of an ousted sovereign is not their sole or essential purpose; the paramount purposes are protecting the civilian population of an occupied territory and reserving permanent territorial changes, if any, until settlement of the conflict. The Fourth Geneva Convention, to which Israel, Egypt and Jordan are parties, binds signatories with respect to their territories and the territory of other contracting parties, and "in all circumstances" (Article 1), in "all cases" of armed conflict among them (Article 2) and with respect to all persons who "in any manner whatsoever" find themselves under the control of a party of which they are not nationals (Article 4).

While Israel may undertake, in the occupied territories, actions necessary to meet its military needs and to provide for orderly government during the occupation, for the reasons indicated above the establishment of the civilian settlements in those territories is inconsistent with international law.

Israel, by means of tax-exempted, tax-deductible funds collected in the United States by the World Zionist Organization (the Jewish Agency), the United Jewish Appeal (the United Israel Appeal) and the Jewish National Fund, has established, during the years 1967-1987, 130 Jewish settlements in the West Bank and Gaza and transferred more than 80,000 Jews to live in these Jewish settlements in the West Bank and Gaza.

Dr. Meron Benvenisti, a former deputy mayor of Jerusalem, made a study entitled, "Pilot Study Report," which was published in 1982 through the financial assistance of the Graduate School of the City University of New York and the International Center for Peace in the Middle East, Tel Aviv. Dr. Benvenisti states that the Israeli authorities issued a military order #783 which determined the boundaries of the Jewish settlements placing them under Israeli law as if they were an annexed part of the West Bank and Gaza. These Jewish settlements are not treated as parts of Israel. Dr. Benvenisti states that the lands confiscated by Israel amount to more than 55 percent of the entire area of the West Bank and Gaza. This figure has reached in 1987 sixty percent of the West Bank and Gaza. Dr. Benvenisti states further that the type of settlements built is more significant than the number of settlements. The emphasis now in enlarging the urban settlements which are suburbs of many Israeli cities. Housing in these suburban communities is being offered to Jews on such attractive terms and is drawing large numbers of young middle-income families to reside in these settlements. In an interview which was published in The Jerusalem Post International Edition, September 19-25, 1982, Dr. Benvenisti stated:

When President Reagan talks of "freezing settlements" he displays an anachronistic approach to the problem. It is not the announcement or creation of eight more dots on the map but the increasing shift of Israel's urban population into areas which guarantees Israeli control over the West Bank and which creates perhaps an insurmountable political problem for any concession-oriented political party in the country.

CONCLUSION

The aforementioned facts confirm that Israel committed war crimes by confiscating millions of dunums of Palestinians' lands, by establishing 175 Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza, by transferring about 86,000 Jews to live in these settlements, by formally annexing the city of Jerusalem, and by annexing the areas of the Jewish settlements and making them a part of Israel and subject to Israeli law. Therefore, Israeli leaders, together with members of the Jewish Agency, the Jewish National Fund and members of the United Israeli Appeal should be tried by a Palestinian Tribunal or by an international tribunal for war crimes. The members of successive American administrations since 1967 should be tried also as accomplices for these war crimes for granting the above groups a tax-exempt status which has enabled them to collect several billion dollars since 1967 and to use a great part of that those funds for the establishment of Jewish settlements.

The United States Administration is under a legal duty to cancel the tax-exempt status of these organizations and to stop aiding and abetting the Israeli government in the commission of these crimes. Article 146 of the Fourth Geneva Convention of 1949 states:

"The HIGH CONTRACTING PARTIES undertake to enact any Legislation necessary to provide effective penal sanctions for persons committing, or ordering to be committed, any of the grave breaches of the present convention defined in the following Article.

"Each HIGH CONTRACTING PARTY shall be under the obligation to search for persons alleged to have committed, or to have ordered to be committed, such grave breaches, and shall bring such persons, regardless of their nationality, before its own Courts. It may also, if it prefers, and in accordance with the provisions of its own legislation, hand such persons over for trial to another HIGH CONTRACTING PARTY concerned, provided such HIGH CONTRACTING PARTY has made out a prima facie case."

APPENDIX II

CONFISCATION OF PALESTINIANS' LANDS

In the earlier parts of this chapter we have noted many cases concerning the confiscation of Palestinians' lands. We now present a list of cases of land confiscation between the years 1982 and 1986. This list is not complete because in many cases we have not been able to locate the owner or because the owner has not brought his case, for obvious reasons, to public attention. Despite these limitations, this list conveys something of the massive assault on Palestinian life and livelihood these confiscations have caused. Almost on a daily basis, new confiscations and seizures of properties are announced. No Arab village or town in the West Bank and Gaza is left untouched.

All the areas mentioned in the following list are in dunums. One dunum is equal to 0.247 acres. One thousand dunums is equal to 1 sq. kilometre and equal to 0.386 sq. miles.
